Sigma Xi Sponsors Banquet, Lecture On Brain Waves, Fri.

Dr. Hallowell Davis of Harvard Medical School will speak on the subject of "Electroencephalography" at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, April 27, in the Little Theatre. This lecture is presented under the auspices of the Maine Sigma Xi Club, honorary scientific fraternity, and the University Assembly Committee.

The rather forbidding title may be simply translated as "brain waves." In recent years these electrical waves have aroused great interest among students of the human mind. They have been used in the study of certain types of mental disease and in the location of brain tumors.

Dr. Davis and Mrs. Davis were among the early American workers in this field and have published many articles on the subject. Dr. Davis is considered one of the country's outstanding physiologists, and is prominent for his studies of the mechanism of hearing as well as in electro-physiology. He has spoken before student groups and has the ability to explain complicated facts in a vivid manner. Students, faculty, and the public are invited to attend this lecture.

Preceding the lecture, the Sigma Xi Club will hold its annual banquet at 6:15 in Estabrooke Hall.

Maine Day Plans Include Projects, Games, And Skits

Plans for the tenth annual Maine Day which will be on Saturday, May 12, are well under way under the general direction of Roger Hannemann. Work sheets will be passed out in all classes the week before Maine Day in order for each student to have an opportunity to sign up for the project in which he wishes to participate.

At 8 a.m. the band will lead a parade around campus to the various dormitories to pick up the workers. Work on the projects will last from 8:30-11:30.

A doubleheader baseball game with Connecticut will be played at 1 p.m. Softball games, probably mixed, will be played after the baseball games. At 7:30 p.m. a student program and a faculty skit will be presented.

The members of the Maine Day committee are Roger Hannemann, general chairman and chairman of the committee on projects; Joan Greenwood, acting chairman of the publicity committee; Bob Ham, chairman of the softball committee; Barker Hopkins, chairman of the equipment committee; Lala Jones, in charge of the student program; and Kathryn Mills, secretary.

Original Themes Written, Discussed

Tuesday evening in the Balentine sun parlor, twelve members of the Contributors' Club had two interesting and very different themes to discuss—President Eleanor Mundie's vivid tale of a paranoiac in a mental hospital, and Arlene Clevens' excellent war romance, one which lacked a happy ending for a change.

Dr. Milford Wence was guest critic and added much to the discussion and general pleasure of the evening.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, May 8, with Prof. Walter Whitney as guest.

Dr. Howard Hopkins Is Guest Speaker Sunday, April 29

Dr. C. Howard Hopkins, instructor at the Bangor Theological Seminary, will be the guest preacher at the Little Theatre campus church on Sunday, April 29, at 10:45 a.m. A graduate of the University of Redlands, Dr. Hopkins received a Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Yale University Divinity School and a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the Graduate School of the same University.

He has been active in YMCA. Before coming to the Bangor Theological Seminary, he was instructor in Social Science, Stockton Junior College, and instructor in Religion, College of the Pacific, Stockton, California.

The music for the service will be A Prayer for These Days by Parry, and Shelley's Hark, Hark, My Soul, a duet to be sung by James G. Selwood, tenor, and Betty Jenkins, contralto.

Appointment Tests For U.S. Academies

Honorable Frank Fellows, Representative to Congress from Maine's Third District, announces that Civil Service Commission will give but one examination this year to assist members of Congress in making their selections for appointment to the Naval and Military Academies for the classes of 1946, and that in July of this year.

Young men interested to compete for appointment should communicate with Mr. Fellows at 221 Old House Office Building, Washington, D. C., giving their full name, names of parents, date and place of birth, schools attended, and academy to which they would like to receive appointment.

All the women students interested in waitress positions or admission to The Elms for the academic year 1945-46 should file application as soon as possible. Applications are available in all dormitories and in Dean Wilson's office.

MOC Trip To Greenfield Not Washed Out Or Dampened

By Mary Elizabeth Marble

Nope, it wasn't the 6:20 special we boarded for a sentimental journey—it was the Old Town bus (just because it has an engine, carries all, and clouds of smoke rise from it, doesn't make it a train) and our destination was three cabins in Greenfield. Armed with ice cream, candy, and butts from you-know-where in Old Town, we piled into taxis like plutocrats and rode for five miles over flat terrain. Then our six-mile trek began. First we went by Sunkhaze, then Birch stream, where some had been fishing all day. Fischer had caught a fish—no pun intended—(he wouldn't change his name for this article) and McGouldrick had managed to fall into the brook.

Camp, so Dave said, was just ahead—a half mile or so. It's strange how a half mile stretches when you're hiking. Soon we plopped under some trees to rest, and landed where some porcupines had rested previously. Off again—the second pause came where the sign read "Spring—drink to forest fire prevention." No one did actually fall in there, but those fancy drapes and angles folks assumed to guzzle a little H₂O should make interesting snapshots!

Grave Problems Face Big Three After Peace

Ruth Clough Guest At Panhell Banquet Saturday, May 5

Miss Ruth Clough, distinguished as the only woman Senator in the Maine upper house, will be the guest speaker at the annual Panhellenic banquet to be held at 6 p.m. on Saturday, May 5, in Estabrooke Hall.

More Deans' List

The names of Mary A. Claverie, College of Agriculture, and Muriel F. Gee, Phyllis C. Pendleton, and Doris Stickney, College of Arts and Sciences, have been added to the Spring Term Dean's List. The name of Phyllis C. Pendleton is now added to the list of those who received all A grades.

Mr. Paul Harris, Jr., well-known New York author and lecturer, and Mr. Lawrence L. Pelletier of the History and Government Department were guest speakers at the Tuesday morning assembly emphasizing the San Francisco Conference and future world security. Introduced by Rev. Charles E. O'Connor, Mr. Pelletier stressed the problems of "The San Francisco Conference," while Mr. Harris gave an emphatic answer to "Is Peace Possible?"

Mr. Pelletier urged the American people to become participants rather than spectators in carrying out the plans for world peace. To fail again to establish a permanent peace would mean the destruction of American homes and longer casualty lists in World War III. The San Francisco Conference is only the first on the long road to future peace. Mr. Pelletier warned his audience not to regard the conference as automatic machinery to secure lasting peace. In constructing the framework on which to build future peace and security, the San Francisco Conference will succeed only as far as it continues to receive the whole-hearted support of the people of every nation.

As the main speaker of the assembly, Mr. Harris pointed out that there can be no talk of enduring peace until sufficient years of peaceful settlement have passed in order to establish confidence among nations. Victory alone is not always the basis on which a lasting peace can be established. Long a member of national peace organizations, Mr. Harris was emphatic in stating that you cannot stop war by being against war.

Mr. Harris showed that grave problems of aggression, disarmament, and world trade can seriously hinder the progress of world security. Any nation which fails to accept arbitration from a third party becomes an aggressor in the eyes of the world. While the defeated, bent on revenge, spend millions on research for future war, the victors, lulled into a false feeling of trust in imaginal lines of security, spend the same amount on the upkeep of outmoded armaments. With great emphasis being placed on the free flow of world trade, the United States, as the world's richest market, must be willing to buy im-

All women students who are thinking seriously of attending either the six-week or nine-week session this summer should report to Dean Wilson's office Friday, April 27, at one o'clock for room drawing.

G.I. Association Organized For Returning Veterans

As an outgrowth of World War II, a new intercollegiate veterans association has been organized at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and is now ready to expand in chapters in colleges and universities throughout the country. At the present time several chapters are being formed in widely separated parts of the country.

With its initials standing for "GI Association," the name of this new organization, Gamma Iota Alpha, for honorably discharged members of any branch of the armed forces, has been registered in the Patent Office in Washington, D. C., under a trademark.

Information for installing chapters already has been forwarded to GI groups at the Illinois Institute of Technology, Duke University, Ohio State University, Lehigh University, Louisiana State University, the University of North Dakota, the University of Wyoming, Boston University, Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, Brooklyn College, and Queens College in the borough of Queens, N. Y., and Beta and Gamma Chapters are active in St. John's and Long Island Universities in Brooklyn.

The association presently is operating along fraternal lines, although it is in no sense a fraternity, for men attending college under the GI Bill of Rights, or a similar law, or as individuals. Servicemen also are entitled to join the association and it is entirely possible that units eventually may be established in co-educational and women's colleges for members of the Spars, Waves, Wacs, and women Marines attending college under the GI Bill of Rights.

The founding chapter at Polytechnic is acting as national headquarters for the organization until a convention can be held, possibly during the coming summer. When such a national convention is held it will be decided where the national headquarters will be located.

Information about the organization and a copy of its constitution may be obtained from Gamma Iota Alpha, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, 85 Livingston Street, Brooklyn 2, N. Y.

Fill the Steins —TO MAINE MEN IN THE SERVICE—

Dear Editor,

Thanks a million for the Campus. While I was stationed at the Naval Air Station, Quonset Pt., R. I., there were two or three other Maine boys there. Nelson Lelan, I think he was in the class of '38, and William Gibson, '46. When the Campus came we would meet and have a bull session over it.

I am working as one member of a plasma team in casualty evacuation. Plasma is a wonder. If the folks back home could see the result as we see it, we would always have more than plenty. I saw a fellow who was in an airplane crash. His body was burned so badly that approximately 75% of it blistered. We administered plasma almost continually for two days. That fellow is alive and back flying today. Without plasma he would have died. Another time I stood with the doctor beside a fellow whom we thought about to die. As the plasma flowed into his veins the color came back into his face. His pulse became stronger, his breathing became normal again. You don't know what a feeling it is until you've experienced it to see a young fellow practically step back across the Great Divide.

Taps, so I'll have to sign off. Thanks again for the Campus.

MAINE ECHOES

Hi, Mainiac—

The Stu G New England Conference was the big event of last weekend, and it was really big. Dee Bell Davis was elected New England Association president for this year, and Spankie is the secretary-treasurer. Friday night was rather hectic for the Maine Stu G council members. The poor kids met every train, bus, and plane (well, maybe not plane) that arrived; but after that things settled down and got businesslike. It was fun to meet the girls from other colleges and to swap ideas. The banquet was quite something, too, with Marion Martin as guest speaker.

The next thing on the calendar that will involve just about all campus is Maine Day, May 12. Roger is on the lookout for every able-bodied person in sight, and very few will refuse to help out. It's really getting to be quite an institution around here! The students and faculty will present skits, so we'll have our annual opportunity to turn the tables on the professors.

Panhell banquet is planned for May 5, and the big announcements of the new sorority and Panhell presidents will be made that night. Gee, I'm beginning to be curious!

Campus elections come up next week, so it's time to choose our candidates again. The year certainly goes fast up here. Just as all the excitement seems to be subsiding, it starts all over again.

Coeds have been coming and going to and from campus for the last couple of weeks. The reason is a sudden flood of returned fiancés, near-fiancés, and brothers. It's wonderful to see so many people full of sweetness and light!

Ted Phillips, Wes Evans, and Joe Chaplin have been up to see us lately, too. Funny how everyone heads for the bookstore just about as soon as he hits campus. If you spend enough time in there, you're bound to meet everyone.

Rita Johnston and Dick McCutcheon were married a few days ago; and Barb Higgins is wearing Russ Bodwell's diamond.

As ever,

Pensive Pete

The other evening as I was walking home from a Frosh Club faculty-member conversation party (they're grand get-togethers; a good idea, proving to be a real success), I came to the realization that at the end of this week delegates from all the United Nations would convene at San Francisco in order to "lay the groundwork for the building of a new and better world." I wondered, and still wonder, what structure (if we must hold to the analogy of a house) will rest on the San Francisco groundwork. Will it be "functional" in design, with smooth, easy-running lines, and be "air-conditioned"; or will it be "classic" with its dust-catching, carved entablatures and its great pillars, and its musty odor denoting little change of air? Viscount Cecil is afraid that naming the postwar-and-pray-that-it-will-be-peace-time organization the United Nations will be dangerous because "I think it is a little doubtful whether it is desirable to make the name of the organization for world peace the same as that of the organization built to wage war." All so sweet and good; but he doesn't know what he means.

When Mussolini took power, he found it convenient to dispose of some of the opposing nobility. One family escaped with but a single tragedy—the father, a count, was executed—and they came to America. With what little money the Facisti had allowed them to retain, they bought an old farm in New Jersey. They worked hard, and the farm gave them sustenance. The older boy is in the service; the younger earned extra money in the winter by instructing people from nearby towns in the art of skiing; he had become expert at their villa in the Alps. Now the younger boy, too, is in the service. But the family has been invited back to Italy by the British. Will the conference delegates back such policies of re-establishing unneeded and perhaps unwanted nobility?

Admiral Halsey wants to execute a Jap "two ranks higher" for every one of our men killed; punishment is no longer punishment but becomes optimistic slaughter with these words; and, if we're being optimistic (stamping out the "bad") on our Pacific face, why are we so numb to the fact that the Germans have tortured many of our boys in a manner much more methodically cruel, less crude, than Jap methods—the German Human Icicle; German Hot Cells; etc.? This optimism has the bad flavor of race prejudice oozing out from its salty crevices. What have the idealists, and even the pragmatists, to say? Educate! And here is another problem for San Francisco to solve.

How about Dr. Anton De Haas' fourteen billions in imports?... what, by the way, was America's gift to Russia which paid for the transportation of Muscovite disciples back to the USSR from South America? Before the war, back-country Sud American schoolmasters used to boast to travelers of the beauty of the murals the Communists painted, "free," on the walls of the schoolrooms. There are no more Moscow-sponsored Communists in the Latin Americas. Under what agreement? Will it come out under the light at San Francisco, when the delegates are working out treaty-making materials?

Drew Pearson wrote recently that all newspaper men's telephone lines were "untapped" several hours after President Truman took office... One hopes for open doors to the press at the conference; it would be a good reform for the new administration to make...

Footlights And Ether

By Pavey and Davis

The way things looked at rehearsal Tuesday night at the Masque, tonight's scene from "George Washington Slept Here" will mix hilarious antics with antiques. This scene portrays seasoned New Yorkers in their attempts to adjust themselves to rusticity and pre-colonial inconvenience.

Newton Fuller, played by Norman Eckbold, is the cause of many merry mishaps, to the disgust of his wife Annabelle, played by Penny Chase. The other poor unfortunates involved in this dilemma include John Duerst, Jean Campbell, Connie Howe, Lee Bausch, Beth Clement, Pat Diassi, and Pauline Forbus.

Al Dumais directs the show, while Betty Lehman serves as technical director. On sound effects are Gay Weaver and Roger Gould. Mike White is in charge of costumes.

Coming up next week is Gay Weaver's cut of the play, "My Sister Eileen." For the first time we will see a complete condensation of a Broadway success—not merely an excerpt. Two Masque favorites play the feminine leads. Jan Scales is cast in the role of Eileen, and Pat Hutto plays her sister Ruth. Jeanne Ross will direct the production, and a cast of fifteen assures a busy week for her.

Well, it looks as if the major play for the term has been selected. Readings have been held this week for casting the three-act comedy drama, "Night of January 16." The plot of this play lends itself well to its setting, which is the Superior Court of New York City.

"Night of January 16" demands a cast of twenty-four. Fifteen of these roles are male, while the remaining nine are female roles. As usual, casting the show has its difficulties, and finding fifteen males is no small problem. However, the turnout for readings has been excellent, and within the week the cast of the show should be announced.

A further major attraction of the Masque, which is coming up this term, will be the production of John Hastings Turner's "Lilies of the Field." This delightful English comedy has three acts and boasts a cast of eleven. Included in the cast of "Lilies of the Field" are Cee Pavey, Virginia Merchant, Lala Jones, Joan Greenwood, Al Dumais, Roger Gould, Dick Pratt, Pat Hutto, Irma Miller, Beth Clement, and Lee Davis. Mr. Bricker will direct the show, which will be produced some time in June.

We Feel Bad
about Violets

POETS always call the violet the shrinking violet. We feel bad about anything that shrinks—but chiefly shirts.

So we've spent our life making the shirt that doesn't shrink, the Arrow shirt. It's Sanforized-labeled, which means fabric shrinkage less than 1%, and its Mitoga figure fit is superb. Arrow's collar is the world's finest. Try an Arrow today!

In closing, Mr. Harris stressed emphatically that the peace cannot be left to the world leaders alone. The maintenance of peace can be traced down to each one of us. Not until men live together as men and emerge from their irritations into good humor can lasting peace be possible. Everyone, regardless of color, must arouse in others their co-operative best.

Maine Radio Guild Elects Officers

Phyllis Eldridge was elected president of the Maine Radio Guild last night at a meeting held in Stevens Hall. She succeeds Therese Dumais in this office. At the same time Gerald Hermanson and Gladys Friedler were elected to the offices of vice president and secretary respectively.

Although the Guild has as yet been unable to obtain time over WLBZ for this term, there is still a very good chance that some broadcasting time will be available soon. Scripts are badly needed, and anyone wishing to try writing one is welcome to do so. The scripts should be about ten typewritten pages for a fifteen-minute broadcast.

For further information about the type of scripts and programs the Guild plans to use, see Prof. Mark Bailey in 240 Stevens.

Bad Seventh Inning Fatal To Bears In Slugfest At Colby

By Ivan Crouse

Yielding eleven runs in the 7th inning, the U. of M. baseball nine lost a 17-11 slugfest to Colby at Waterville Saturday.

Eddie Woodbrey, starting pitcher, pitched fine ball over the first six innings, and was coasting to an 11-6 win when the roof fell in. Woodbrey was batted out of the box, being replaced by Charlie Kalnin, strong-armed outfielder. He met with little success, Paul Dowe being rushed to the mound to retire the side. Louis Ouillette pitched the 8th inning and retired the side without trouble.

Maine scored early in the game, taking a 6-2 lead. Gene Boutillier was robbed of a beautiful homerun when a preceding runner failed to touch third base. Woodbrey led the Maine attack with four hits out of five trips to the plate. Batting punch was also contributed by Goff and Cuccinello.

This weekend, the team goes to Boston for a Friday afternoon game with Northeastern, and then journeys to Durham to meet the Wildcats. Coach Kenyon is taking a squad of 14 men on this trip. Woodbrey and Ouillette will be counted upon to share the pitching duties for the two games. The players making the trip are: Goff and Linehan, catchers; Woodbrey and Ouillette, pitchers; Johnston and Whitmore, 1st base; Clifford, 2nd base; Cuccinello, shortstop; Boutillier, 3rd base; and Crouse, Sokol, Thompson, Perry, and Kalnin, outfielders.

One Friday evening my woman and I were strolling down Fifth Avenue and who should walk out of St. Patrick's but MacFadden Gorst, the Hollywood producer.

"What's his nationality?" asked the one.

With my mind on my destination, I replied, "Half Scotch—half selzer."

"The most important thing on a camping trip is the food," said Charlie Miller, and seventy-five sighs of agreement were heaved in 15 Coburn Hall. It was Tuesday evening at 7:00 and Charlie Miller, a registered guide from Bangor, was showing us colored movies of camp cooking. I'm glad that we had all just eaten, for those steaks and broilers looked too real for comfort. Charlie may come up and demonstrate with the actual goods sometime in the fall. May I take your reservation?

Over hill over dale, as we hit the biking trail—this week-end's MOC trip is a bike hike on Sunday afternoon. We will leave at 2:15 from the bus stop opposite SAE House, and will be back on campus by 5:30. Other than that, it would be foolish to try to predict what will happen on this trip, so be there Sunday and find out for yourself.

El Circulo Español conducted its regular meeting on Wednesday, April 25, in the North Estabrooke recreation room. The program, under the direction of Josephine Macri, consisted of a Spanish skit, and group singing of Spanish songs. A number of games were played, conducted in Spanish by Helen Boulter.

May 9 is the date of the next meeting. Norma Hoyle will be in charge of the program, which will consist of movies instructive in Spanish life and language.

The MCA Freshman Club met on Wednesday evening, April 25, in the MCA Building to hear Lillian Oda '48 give an account of her experiences in a Japanese-American relocation center.

President Barker Hopkins announced that the Frosh Club will sponsor a vic dance in the Memorial Gym on May 18. Plans are also being made for the Frosh Club picnic on June 6.

Miss Betty Mansfield and Mr. Leslie Barrett, representing the American Friends Service Committee, will be in Orono next Tuesday evening for a meeting with representatives of local service and church groups. Students who are interested in serving with the Friends in a Summer Work Camp or Service Caravan are asked to contact the MCA office for an appointment with these Service Committee representatives.

We might call this a "Dissertation Upon Volley Ball." If you should happen to drop in the gym whenever a volley ball game is going on you will immediately recognize the difference between required volley ball classes in the spring and those of earlier months. If, by some miracle, the served ball does get over the net, it is equally a miracle if the serve is returned! It's just the feeling of spring fever in the air which makes so many takers-of-gym appear much like limp sad sacks!.. But as long as Spring has finally decided to come we are realizing that a young woman's fancies turn to thoughts of...approaching prelims and reports, darn it!! But (again) when her mind isn't thusly laboriously preoccupied, do sometimes find her as we found the following on the badminton court:

The badminton participants are naturally getting few and far between, not because of lack of interest, but because more and more people are being eliminated as the third round of the badminton tournament is in progress at present. Winners of the second round and a list of who will be playing against whom is given:

Armstrong, Gordon; Boynton, Closson; Fogg, Hamilton; J. Brown, J. Dennison; Minott, Clements; Vaughn, Chipman; Crouse, Maxim. One third match has been played off with R. Chute as the winner. The competition looks good. The $64 question is: "Will Armstrong do it again?" Your guess is as good as mine.

All who are interested in attending Play Day which was changed to May 5 are urged to sign up in their dormitories as soon as the bulletins are posted....

The members of Square Dance Club with Martha O'Brien, Mary Hubbard, and Shirley Titcombe as chairmen are working on plans for a street dance to be held on May 19. We are assured that this will be a "different and appealing" sort of dance. Hmmm, sounds good....

Some data for the would-be life-savers. Don't forget that the intensified course begins on May 15, and that it is necessary to have 15 hours of actual tank work plus 5 hours of lecture and theory work behind you to be able to pass the test. The Senior Life-saver patrol, which is composed of Peg Asker, Barb Bond, Flo Sawyer, Barb Pattei, and Shirley Castner, is on duty during the recreational swimming classes. Miss Mildred McGuire is the Red Cross instructor for the Thursday night class....

The tennis tournament will begin next week. All who use the courts are urged to be sure to wear only tennis shoes, sneakers, and the like for obvious reasons!

Plan Your Summer Job Now; There Are Plenty For Us All

By Barbara Mills

In spite of the turn of the weather, good old summer is just around the bend. And now is the time to decide what to do for the summer months. Again during the coming vacation many school-age people will be working at adult jobs for adult wages.

Camps and hotels are particularly anxious for student help, says Mr. P. J. Brockway, Director of Placement Bureau here at the University. Calls from hotels have included requests for waitresses, kitchen help, and chambermaids, and both men's and women's camps need general counselors and counselors with special skills. If money is the primary concern, summer hotel work offers the best opportunity.

Jobs in surveying and drafting are open to students during the vacation as well as work with railroads, highways, and paper and lumber companies. As shown in Mr. Brockway's files, factory employers are still faced with an acute problem in man shortage.

Unless student workers have a clear understanding of responsibilities as consumers as well as earners in a war economy, inflationary spending may take an upward turn. Every worker should be aware of the fact that war wages are not spending-money this year.

Along with evidence of youthful spending, however, the signs indicate that thousands of working students are saving to the limit of their ability. Through Schools-at-War programs, more than twenty million young people have formed the habit of buying war bonds and stamps regularly—averaging at least $1.00 to $3.00 per person for each month.

Last summer Germany's students were not asked to choose a summer job; they were put to various kinds of work, during which consideration was given for their special training. Medical students at the hospitals toiled far into the night during their "holiday." Students at technical colleges were forced to labor in workshops and construction bureaus within the armament industry.

American college students are not forced into summer jobs, but every student should begin now to plan how summer vacation may best help him and the country.

Last Thursday night a group of us went calling on some of the professors. At about nine o'clock, we visited Abseminus Arachnid, Ph.D., to ask about the condition of his expectant sister, for he had been quite worried in class. Before we could say anything, however, the telephone rang and a nurse said:

"Professor, a boy has arrived."

Dr. Arachnid looked quite disturbed and said, "Well, ask him what he wants."

Mrs. Arachnid explained to the Doctor what the nurse meant. The good man was so enlightened that he grabbed his coat, slammed his wife, kissed the door, and raced to the mortuary to claim the body.
