Atom Bomb To Be Discussed At IRC Meeting Wednesday

The atomic bomb will be discussed at International Relations Club by Mr. Kingsbury, of the Physics Department, next Wednesday evening at 8:00 in the Faculty Room of South Stevens Hall. Starting off with a general outline of the "secret" of atomic energy, Mr. Kingsbury will discuss, from the nuclear physicist's point of view, the time it should take other nations to harness this energy and develop their own versions of the bomb.

As a scientist, the speaker will explain the advantages of freedom of research and freedom of knowledge. He will outline, briefly, the machinery of international scientific co-operation. Also discussed will be the possibilities of employing a less violent sort of atomic energy in the machines of everyday living.

This talk will cover the highlights of the atomic bomb and atomic energy as seen through the eyes of a nuclear physicist, but Mr. Kingsbury will speak in terms easily understood by laymen of non-scientific background.

The International Relations Club meets every other Wednesday evening in the Faculty Room. Speakers are invited from the University faculty and from the faculties of other New England colleges. Anyone who is sincerely interested in discussing the effect of current events upon international affairs is welcomed into membership.

Class Elections To Follow Caucus At Stevens Next Tues.

It was voted upon at the meeting of General Student Senate on Tuesday, Oct. 16, that a student caucus for the elections of class officers will be held on October 23, 7:00, in South Stevens. The caucus is composed of one representative from each class from each dorm; that is, Colvin will have only one representative, and Balentine three, because three classes, senior, junior, and sophomore, reside in Balentine, and only freshmen reside in Colvin. The person elected to serve on the caucus will not be nominated for any of the class officers. It was decided that a man will be nominated for the offices of president and vice president, and a woman for secretary and treasurer.

The student elections themselves will take place in Alumni Hall Lobby, October 30, the tentative time for voting being from 12:30-1:30, 7:00-8:30. All students are urged to "get out and vote!"

St. James Church Extends Invitation

Episcopalians on campus are invited by the Rev. Arthur M. Cooper to attend Communion at 7:00 on every first and third Tuesday of the month. Rev. Cooper will be ready to visit any students in the MCA office from 10:00 to 12:00 of the same days as Communion.

Morning services will be held at St. James Church in Old Town at 11:00 every second and forth Sunday of the month; Communion services will be held at St. James Church at 8:00 on every fourth Sunday.

South America Is Topic Of Motion Picture Lectures

A two-day program of illustrated lectures on South America by Sullivan C. Richardson has been announced by the University of Maine Assembly Committee for October 25 and 26. Under the sponsorship of the Arts program of the Association of American Colleges, Mr. Richardson will present a series of three lectures illustrated by colored moving pictures on expeditions he himself led through most of the South American countries. Each lecture is open to the public.

At 8:00 p.m. Thursday, October 25, Mr. Richardson will present "Adventure South to Cape Horn," the story of a three-man trip by car in the attempt to be the first to drive over the entire route of the Pan American Highway. The following afternoon at 3:30, October 26, he will speak on "Rubber River," an illustrated description of the great wartime quest for sources of natural rubber in South American jungles. In the evening of the same day, at 8:00 he will present "Good Neighbors and Strategic Materials," the story of an expedition made under the direction of the Office of Inter-American Affairs to picture the obtaining of urgently needed war materials from South American wilds. All lectures will be in the Little Theatre.

Mr. Richardson is the author of numerous magazine articles and newspaper features. He recently published a book entitled "Adventure South." He has produced several motion pictures on Latin America for the Office of Inter-American Affairs and two short subjects for Warner Brothers. He is widely known for his lecturing ability and platform personality. His appearance through the Association of American Colleges is made possible as a public service by the Dodge and Plymouth Division of the Chrysler Corporation.

NOTICE

The Friday night stag dance will be under the sponsorship of Panhellenic, for the benefit of the Save the Children Foundation. Music will be by Hal Blood and his orchestra. The dance will last from 8 to 11:30. Admission fifty cents.

Winthrop C. Libby Put In Charge Of Homecoming Plans

Professor Winthrop C. Libby, Head of the Department of Agronomy and Agricultural Engineering at the University of Maine, has been named chairman of the 1945 Homecoming Committee, it was announced here today. Prof. Libby will head a group of alumni, faculty, and students to make plans for an Alumni Homecoming program on November 9 and 10 in connection with the final home football game of the year.

By vote of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council, it was determined to plan a Homecoming Program for this year. It will be the first time since 1941 that a full scale Homecoming week end has been arranged. Special effort will be made to encourage the return of alumni discharged from the service and as many as possible of those still in service to attend the event. The two-day program is expected to follow the general pattern of previous years with an Alumni Noon Luncheon preceding the football game Saturday as one of the main features.

Assisting Chairman Libby on the committee are: Mrs. Joseph M. Murray '25 of Orono; Miss Marion Rogers '30, Assistant Professor of Women's Physical Education; Prof. John Stewart '27, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; and Faculty Manager of Athletics Theodore S. Curtis '23, representing alumni and faculty. Student members of the committee are Joan Greenwood '46, President of All-Maine Women; David Holmes '46, President of the Men's Senate; and Hartley L. Banton '41, graduate student and war veteran.

Assembly Programs For Coming Year Include Quartet

The assembly committee has announced the program of assemblies for the year as follows:

Plans are under way to feature the American String Quartet in a program of chamber music. This will be an outstanding treat for all music lovers. No date has been set.

The Bangor Symphony Orchestra, always enjoyed by students and faculty alike, will present a program on the campus again this year.

Dr. Stefan Osusky, Czechoslovakian Ambassador to France for the twenty years preceding the outbreak of the second World War, will be on campus December 11, 12, and 13. He will deliver a formal address on the topic "Europe's Political Future," and lead informal discussions on related subjects.

January 16 and 17 John Kirkpatrick, concert pianist and acknowledged authority in the field of modern American music, will be on the campus for formal and informal recitals.

David Moore Robinson, Professor of Archaeology and Epigraphy at Johns Hopkins University, will be on campus February 13-16. He will deliver an illustrated lecture on "Olynthus, the Greek Pompeii" and will lead informal discussions on the life and culture of the Mediterranean countries, especially in ancient times.

The annual program of Christmas Vespers will be held on Sunday, December 9.

Other speakers will be announced as negotiations are completed.

Dean Glenn Kendall Is Featured At Conference

The seventh annual Women's Leadership Conference will open at one-thirty on Saturday afternoon, October 20, in the Estabrooke Rec Room with an address by Dr. Glenn Kendall, Dean of the School of Education, who will speak on the topic "So You Plan To Be a Leader, eh?"

Dr. Roy P. Whitney Named Coordinator Of Industrial Staff

The Trustees of the University of Maine have announced the appointment of Dr. Roy P. Whitney, member of the M.I.T. Chemical Warfare Service Development Laboratory, Cambridge, Mass., to the University staff. Dr. Whitney will develop and direct the University's program in industrial research and service, acting as coordinator between the Technology Experiment Station, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the various colleges of the University, and Maine industries.

A native of Milo, Dr. Whitney is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and has also received the degree of Doctor of Science from that institution. From 1938 to 1942 he served as assistant director and director of the Bangor Station of the M.I.T. School of Chemical Engineering Practice at the Eastern Manufacturing Company. In 1939 he received an appointment as assistant professor of chemical engineering at M.I.T., and in 1942 was assigned to the Institute's Chemical Warfare Service Development Laboratory. He will take up his new duties at the University November 12.

Hebrew Study Group Meets Every Monday

An elementary informal study group in Hebrew will meet every Monday afternoon at 3:30. All students are welcome to join this non-credit weekly session that will be given by the Hillel Director in the MCA Building.

A survey course in Jewish history meets every Friday from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Those interested may leave their name with Charles O'Connor

Established in 1938, the Women's Leadership Conference has the objectives of helping officers of campus organizations to know what is expected of them and to acquaint those who are not officers with the qualities and abilities expected of leaders.

Under the direction of the planning committee, the following program has been set up for the afternoon: group singing; introduction by Therese Dumais; speaker, Dr. Glenn Kendall. Conferences—2:30 to 3:20: Presidents: Mrs. E. Reeves Hitchner, Harriet Steinmetz; Treasurers: Miss Helen Lengyel, Lala Jones; Social Etiquette: Dr. Percie Turner, Cecil Pavey; Today's Social Functions: Mrs. H. Lloyd Flewelling, Charlene Lowe; Campus Dates, Rev. David Rose, Joan Greenwood, Betty Jane Durgin.

Conferences—3:30 to 4:20: Secretaries: Dr. Ruth Crosby, Mary Spangler; "The Ayes Have It": Dr. Howard Runion, Therese Dumais; Publicity: Dr. Charles Dickinson, Fay Jones; Spontaneous Recreation: Miss Marion Rogers, Miss Eileen Cassidy, Evelyn Foster; Dormitory Living: Mrs. Joseph Murray, Janice Campbell. Following these conferences, refreshments will be served.

The planning committee for the Conference as announced by Shirley Sibbey, chairman, consists of Dean Edith G. Wilson, Therese Dumais of WSGA, Charlene Lowe of Panhellenic Council, Margaret Spaulding of MCA, and Evelyn Foster of WAA.

Campus Hears News From 1945 Alumni

Ten alumni of the University in the class of 1945 are doing graduate work at various institutions. Leona B. Peterson, a business administration major, is now at Columbia University. LeRoy Darling, who majored in chemistry, is at New York University. A major in classics and French, Thelma Bradford is now studying at Columbia University. Having majored in English at this University, Carolyn Small is now at Simmons College. Two home economics majors are doing graduate work. Barbara Atherton is at Cornell University, while Lillian Lewis Davis, who majored in foods and education, is now at Michigan State College. J. Robert Smyth, Jr., who majored in poultry husbandry, is at Purdue University and the former Evelyn Tarr is with him. Edwin C. Dartnell, a sociology major, is doing graduate work at this University. Two zoology majors have continued their studies. Ruth Hansen is at CMGH Hospital and Pratt Diagnostic Institute, and Elinor Hodgkins is at Indiana University.

Sunday Service

On Sunday, October 23, Reverend Charles O'Connor will be the speaker for the Sunday service.

Dr. Percy Vernon of the First Baptist Church in Lewiston, who was to be the guest speaker for this Sunday, will be on campus, December 9.

We Want Housing!

The housing problem has become a topic of much discussion at the University of Maine this year. One fellow mentioned the fact, none too casually, that his best friend would have come back this year had there been an apartment in which to live. Unknown to him, it started a thought trend into the serious aspects of the situation.

The University cabins are filled to capacity by eleven returned veterans and their families; campus housing facilities are taxed beyond normal limits; there is an absence of private rents within reasonable commuting distance of the school. There! You have a composite picture of the housing subject today. It will be worse next year, and the year after, with the return of more men and women to a civilian status. Let's prepare for them!

This is going to be a "tough nut to crack," but we believe that some white meat lies beneath its rough exterior. Would it not be advisable to appoint a committee of three, or five, of the men and women best fitted to investigate the present condition?

Other schools have solved the same problem, in part, by setting up trailer camps. This would necessitate contracts, plumbing innovations, sanitary problems and bookkeeping headaches, but it can be done.

The answer to the housing problem will be a great factor in determining the future student enrollment of Maine and, to paraphrase, the future of Maine!

Frosh Rules... Inadequate

The present Freshman Rules are not acceptable. This seems to be the opinion of most of the upperclassmen. The Sophomore Owls have been doing a good job with what they have but with the rules as they now stand not much can be accomplished.

Freshman rules were designed to acquaint each and every entering freshman how to act as a Maine man. As they now stand they are an object of ridicule to most of the former Maine men who have returned to the University of Maine, and who once went through a set of rules that made them realize what being "a Maine man" included.

There has been some talk of the consequences that would arise if some of the old rules were revived. At least, they would teach the freshmen a sense of obedience, and they would remove the sense of precociousness that many of them now have. They would also improve the relationship and understanding between the classes.

There also has been a lot of talk that rules are not progressive, that they are a revival of the past, that we should be looking ahead, not behind; therefore, they should be thrown out. If this is so, why don't we throw out all old customs and make Maine completely progressive? This thought comes hard, doesn't it? Therefore, why should we throw out one of the things that alumni remember as one of the main features of their college life?

In 1943 the Men's Student Senate voted down a proposal to change Freshman Rules. Why doesn't this give the Senate precedent to step in and straighten out the rules problem? They are the representative group of the male student body so it is up to them to try to settle this problem before the whole situation becomes a farce.

CORRESPONDENCE

(The correspondence columns of The Campus are open to the public on pertinent subjects, and letters are welcomed. All letters should be signed with the author's real name, but a pen name will be used in publication of the letter if desired. The ideas started in these columns are not necessarily those of The Campus and should not be so considered. The editor reserves the right to withhold any letter or a part of any letter.)

This letter is for you upperclassmen who are the supporters of and agitators for Freshman Rules. We have read your columns and heard your bull-sessions; how about listening to what we, the Frosh, have to say about the matter?

You are represented by the Owls, who are theoretically instilling in us that rare quality, the "Maine Spirit." In theory, this is what we object to: We have been chosen as the guinea pigs for the experiment of reinstating the old rules. Why do we and neither the veteran freshmen nor the second term freshmen have to submit to this? Because the veterans would not trifle with such horseplay, and the second term frosh have had their freedom too long! Do you think we are naive enough to believe that what we are going through is the road to obtaining the "Maine Spirit," when the majority of you and all of your Owls are examples of the fact that one does not require Freshman Rules to get the "Spirit"? And if your Owls do not exemplify the Maine Spirit, then how do you expect them to instill it in us?

Here is what is actually being done: The program has been set up, and your Owls have been saddled with a problem. They are a burlesque of their predecessors, innocuous by nature or rendered thus by restrictions. The instilling of the "Maine Spirit" has been completely disregarded, and the Owls' activities have degenerated into the childish delight of going to great lengths to embarrass the Frosh. Instead of curbing the rowdy elements in the Frosh class the Owls have sorely aggravated them and this is the result: The Frosh, good and bad, are expected to respect and pattern their actions on a group which contains many loud and offensive characters who do not even command the respect of the rest of the student body. The Frosh, good and bad, feel that they are being "taken for a ride" and used for the amusement of the more puerile element of the campus population. The carrying out of the rules has never been genuine and now it is completely artificial. The thing has gone too far, and already the Owls have had cause to reconsider their actions. When rules go off, who knows what unpleasantness and difficulty may be caused by angry frosh who misdirect their vengeance toward the most obvious target, the Owls, and not toward the real cause of the trouble?

There you are, Frankie and Frannie upperclassmen. Your aviary has been given a big job, but no tools. And you are circulating a petition to make the job more difficult. Things aren't going to continue in the comparatively placid manner they have been. We know from hearing your bull-sessions that you won't support your Owls. The only thing that can be said in favor of the "Fearsome Fifteen" is that one of them bears a striking resemblance to his feathered namesake, and we Frosh want to find out if he can see in the dark. It is obviously the wrong time for this attempt, and it has been proven that Frosh Rules are unnecessary. It is not primarily the program but the way in which it is being carried out that we object to. Here is a challenge to

Moody President Of Off-Campus Men

The Off-campus Men elected officers and student government representatives at their meeting held at 12:45 Tuesday in the Faculty Room.

Officers elected were: Dwight Moody, president; Earl Ingalls, secretary; Roland Mayberry, business manager. Senate representatives elected were: Paul Dow, Bill Sawyer, Sandy Adams and Dwight Moody.

Business taken up at the meeting included the formation of intramural teams. Dwight Moody, new president, requests any off-campus man interested in intramural sports to get in touch with him.

Girls' Tournament Ushers In Polite (?) Version Of Hockey

By Andrews and Look

The girls' hockey tournament began on Wednesday, and so we feel that this is the time to acquaint the "Campus-reading public" with a few enlightening facts on this all-important fall sport (for girls).

First of all, for the benefit of those skeptical persons who think that hockey is an unladylike and brutal sort of game, we say, "On the contrary, it is one of the politest games known to the athletic world." Unlike football, to which hockey is often compared, a player is never allowed to make an attack from behind or to turn her back to a player when attempting to intercept the ball.

Also one might expect that with the speed required in field hockey, and because of the use of those "vicious-looking" sticks, there would be a high percentage of casualties. This is not necessarily true—especially of experienced players who realize that control is the most important factor in the game—control in passes, in running, and in the movement of the body.

Briefly, a hockey team is made up of eleven players, five forwards, three halfbacks, two fullbacks, and a goalie. The object of the game is for the forwards to carry the ball up to their goal, a wire cage, at the opposite end of the field, while the duty of the fullbacks, halfbacks, and goalie is to see that the "little white ball" does not cross the goal line.

Goals count one point each. To score a field goal the ball must be hit by a member of the attack inside the circle and cross the goal line between the posts. If, after such hit, the ball glances off the defense over the goal line, the score will count.

BEAR FACTS

by Cliff Whitten

The opening of the 1945 grid season at Maine last Saturday didn't bring much cheer to the Bear fans. It was cold and cloudy which may have had something to do with the poor ball-handling that was exhibited throughout the game. The Bears looked fairly good at times despite the lack of experience, but nobody seemed able to hang onto the ball. In all there were eight Maine fumbles, only two of which were recovered themselves. Generally it appeared that the Bears were too slow to operate efficiently from the "T" formation.

Johnson and Ventetvolo proved to be an able combination in bringing about a Rhode Island win. It was a revived team that came out for the second half of the game and with Johnson carrying the ball on those disastrous end runs, Maine's safety man was called upon to bring down the runner. This coupled with expert kicking by Ventetvolo gave Rhode Island their 10-7 victory. Standouts for Maine were Murdock and Savage at the guard positions, while Linehan gave the fans a preview of what is to be expected of him in the future.

So much for the game gone by, let's worry about next week's contest. The squad will leave for Storrs, Connecticut, Friday morning and about thirty players are expected to make the trip. The Nutmeggers have fielded a strong team for the past two years despite the war. Last year they won 7 and lost only 1, their only defeat a 6-0 game with the V-12 squad from Bates.

Maine and Connecticut have met on the gridiron sixteen times, beginning in 1922. During that period the Bears have won 11, lost 4, and tied 1. Connecticut was held scoreless in 9 of these games while Maine failed to hit paydirt only twice. The most lopsided score was Maine's 33-0 victory in 1932. The last meeting of the two teams was in 1942 when Connecticut won, 26 to 6.

The Nutmeggers will be out to win and the crowd will be practically all on their side. The Bears will be without support from the fans, but they have the Maine spirit and should come up with their first win.

This seems like a good time to mention the rally that was held the night before the Maine-Rhode Island game. As a rally supposed to install fighting spirit in a football team it was certainly nothing to get excited over. None of the speakers had anything to say that would be likely to inspire any team to more than a routine effort. In fact, at times an attitude almost approaching defeatism seemed apparent. The student body as a whole failed to show the enthusiasm that might be expected at a Maine rally. The girls from South Estabrooke looked good with their house name spelled out in large letters on their sweaters. The only other group that appeared to have the real Maine spirit was Beta House which really shot the works. This group is composed of veterans, mostly freshmen, who have never attended Maine before and have been out of high school for periods of one to ten years. If they can show that kind of spirit the rest of the school should be able to do as much. If the entire school would respond the same way we could have a rally to be proud of.

Bears Should Win Over Conn. Team With Hard Fight

By Steve Notis

A field goal by Joe Ventetvolo in the final quarter and the spectacular running of scat-back Hal Johnson gave the Rhode Island Rams a hard fought victory over the University of Maine team in its initial contest of the year. The victory came the hard way for the Rhodites, having to overcome a second period Maine score.

The Maine team after fumbling on the first play managed to stave off a Rhode Island drive. This drive was sparked by the running of Vento and Johnson who carried the ball to the eleven yard line. From here the Bears took over with Francis Linehan plowing through the line for eleven yards. Gene Boutillier then scampered another ten. Failing to make a first down in the next two plays, it was necessary for Henderson to kick. This was the outstanding boot of the game and traveled to the Rhode Island 31 yard line.

In a profitable exchange of punts Maine took over on the 44 and in a series of line drives and a pass from Poulin to Boutillier drove to the Rhode Island 15. At this point Tom Murray faded back and rifled a pass to Boutillier who side-stepped two would-be tacklers and went over the goal line standing up. Lennie Plavin kicked the extra point to put the Bears out front 7-0.

Johnson, a consistent ground gainer for the Rams, evened the count late in the third period. He received Poulin's punt on his own 43, side-stepped and spun through the hands of three Maine men, dashed for the side lines and then out raced the entire Maine team to pay dirt. Joe Ventetvolo made good on the place kick to tie up the score.

The final quarter saw the two teams battling it out in midfield. The Rams, aided by their most dependable ground gainer of the game, Maine's fumbles, opened up a drive to the nine-yard line. At this point Johnson on three tries carried the ball directly in front of the goal post on the five. Ventetvolo, the boy with the educated toe, then split the goal posts for a perfectly executed field goal. These three all important points meant the ball game.

The Maine team with three minutes to score a final game-winning touchdown unleashed an aerial assault which carried to the Rhode Island 28. In this potential scoring position, the Maine backs drove 8½ yards on the next two plays. On the third down with 1½ yards to go for a first down, the Bears gambled on two long touchdown passes which failed to click. Rhode Island then took over and held on to the ball for the remainder of the game.

MAINE MEETS CONNECTICUT

This week the team journeys to Storrs, Conn., to meet a reportedly powerful Conn. team. This big hard-hitting machine launched its season with a 46-0 victory over Worcester Tech. They then met Middlebury and slapped them to the merry tune of 28-6. In last week's game the Uconns lost to a Franklin and Marshall team which has won five straight games.

Girls' Tennis

Nora Chipman, tennis manager, reports that 51 women have entered the fall tournament. Interest is high, and plans include carrying through both consolation and championship tournaments. Only the weather is holding up play at the present time. It is hoped that all entrants will play through two matches by the end of the week. Losers will record on the left side of the posted draw, winners on the right.

First classes of North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, were held on second floor of a local hardware store when the College opened in 1890.

of the game by the Baptist Crusaders, capitalized on penalties and fluke plays to squeeze out a 18-12 win. Pooler and King were the standout players for Baptist while Shorey and Nelson were the mainstays for the Rams. At Millinocket the Stearns minutemen defeated an outweighed but fighting Orono eleven, 19-0.

Next Saturday, with Maine playing away, the only local games available will be Old Town at Orono and Waterville at Bangor. The Old Town-Orono contest should be a real brawl and anyone looking for action should find plenty at the game.

with the masque

By Cee Pavey

At the Maine Masque Council meeting, the following new officers were announced: property chairman, Beth Clement; membership secretary, Lala Jones; ticket chairman, Deacon Johnson; historian, Flo Sawyer; news letter, Pat Hutto; civilian representatives, Dot Salo, Toni Doescher, and Tom Coulton; and soldier representatives, Bill Booth, Steve Padilla, and Charlie Kent. This list together with that published last week will comprise the executive board of the Maine Masque Theater.

Tryouts for parts, the first step in the production of Harriet, was accomplished this week. The Masque employed a new system in having the Freshmen read for roles on Monday night and the upperclassmen on Tuesday and Wednesday. As yet no roles have been cast, but the Masque expects to publish the cast list next week.

Chemistry Seminar Opens Second Year Friday, October 19

Chemistry Seminar opens its second year with a meeting on Friday, October 19, at 3:30, in Room 362 Aubert Hall. All chemistry students, faculty, and those interested in chemistry are invited. The speaker for the first meeting will be Florence Palmer, a junior majoring in chemistry.

After the report and a discussion, the members will elect officers for the coming year. Plans will be made and topics for future meetings will be suggested. Refreshments will be served.

Chemistry Seminar was organized last year under the faculty leadership of Dr. I. B. Douglass. Several chemistry students, interested in having a meeting at which subjects of scientific interest could be reported and discussed, met with the faculty and established a Chemistry Seminar here. At each meeting a student or faculty member gave a talk on some subject that interested him. Seminar will continue in the same manner this year.

Radio Guild Meets; Plans Broadcasts Beginning In Nov.

The Radio Guild held its initial meeting of the season at Center Stevens on Thursday evening, October 12, with a total of seventy-three students attending.

A brief sketch of what the guild has planned for this term was given by J. H. Platt, who will direct the shows this year. A weekly half hour variety program is to be given. It is not known yet which station will carry the show, but a committee meeting will be held this week to determine this as well as the time of evening.

The program will consist of news casts, musical events, skits, and a general report of the activities of the various organizations on campus. The first program is planned for early in November.

Mr. Platt stressed the fact that although there is a certain amount of glamour in radio, hard work is also very much a part of this vast field. "Students participating in the guild will find it a lot of fun," he added, "but they must know at the start that it is not all play, and that it is both entertaining and educational."

Announcements of the second meeting will be made this week.

M CLUB

Hockey Officials' Clinic met Monday and Tuesday noon for a rules discussion. The girls are practicing now as officials at preliminary scrimmages. Officers elected at the first meeting are Mary Libby, president, and Gerry Rawcliffe, secretary-treasurer.

Bears Should Win - -

If the Bears expect to break into the win column this week, they must defeat one of the strongest teams in New England. They must stop full-back Walter Trojanowski. This fleet-footed star is considered to be one of the finest backs in New England. If the Maine Bears do succeed in doing this, and if they are able to rig up a consistent running attack of their own, then they will come back with a well-earned victory under their belts.

Debating Organized

Intercollegiate debating is to be organized this month, it was announced by Dr. H. L. Runion, head of the speech department.

All students interested in this field are asked to meet at Dr. Runion's office, Center Stevens, on Monday afternoon, October 22, at 4:30 o'clock.

BOULDER, COLO.—(ACP)—Returning veterans will assume the leadership in universities for the next five to eight years, stated Dean Harry G. Carlson recently.

Declaring that more maturity is needed among university students if high standards are to be maintained, Dean Carlson said, "the veterans will lead, not because of advanced age, but because their war experience has matured them especially in terms of proper values."

Intramurals

The lack of prompt response to Wally's call for appointed representatives of each house to contact him, has obligated the intramural sports leader to request the attendance of those representatives at a meeting in the Physical Director's office on Thursday, October 23rd, at 7:30 P.M.

For the present, if the boys want to play basketball right away, Wally is willing to let each house prepare its teams and practice, as a team, in the gymnasium. Any captain or representative wishing to do this may contact Wally. As for the number of teams, it is O.K. to have two, providing that neither one will be thinned out to a point where there will be any forfeits.

Remember, fellows, the success of this set-up is wholly dependent on your response. Let's support it!

"OLD IRONSIDES"

stood up throughout the war

LIKE the famous old ship, your telephone has come through the war with colors flying.

What other aid to modern living has been so dependable under all conditions and so free from mechanical troubles?

During the war years, when so little new telephone apparatus could be made for the home front, even equipment made many years ago by Western Electric has served you faithfully and has been a national asset in time of war. Quality shows best when the going is tough.

Western Electric, supply unit of the Bell System, is now tackling its biggest peacetime job. Furnishing materials and equipment to meet the System's immediate needs—then to carry out the System's $2,000,000,000 post-war construction program—promises record peace-time production and a level of employment higher than in the years just before the war.
