B' Mills Stars In Harriet

By Cee Pavey

The curtain will rise at eight fifteen on November 28, 29, and 30 on Harriet, the first Maine Masque production of the season. This tender, moving three-act drama which inspired Broadway two seasons ago, was written by the popular team of Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements, authors of many other stage successes. The Maine Masque production of Harriet is staged by Joyce Stevens. Betty Lehman is the stage manager.

Tickets for Harriet go on sale in the Bookstore tomorrow morning at eight o'clock. Although there are almost two weeks before the show, please note that there are only six remaining school days from now until November 28, the opening date of Harriet. Thus, it is advisable to get them as soon as possible. Tickets cost 74 cents including the tax. They may be reserved now and paid for after the Thanksgiving holidays to facilitate student financial problems.

Harriet is now in its fourth week of rehearsal. When I dropped in the theatre last Monday evening, I was really very pleasantly surprised to see how well the production was progressing. The members of the cast know their lines and can go through their elaborate stage business without prompting. The twenty-five actors and actresses also manage to manipulate themselves on the small 24-foot stage of the Little Theatre with ease. Even the tempo of the action is good.

The set is also beginning to shape (Continued on Page Four)

Symphony Season Opens Mon. 19th

The Bangor Symphony Orchestra, Adelbert Wells Sprague, Conductor, will open its fiftieth season in Bangor City Hall Monday, November 19th, at 8:15 p.m. Following is the program: The Star Spangled Banner (first verse); Mendelssohn, "Fingal's Cave" Overture; Schubert, Symphony No. 5, in B-flat Major; Wagner, Overture to the Opera "Rienzi"; Liadow, Eight Russian Folk-Melodies (first time at these concerts); Liadow, "A Musical Snuff-Box"; Johann Strauss, Waltz "Tales from the Vienna Woods"; The Star Spangled Banner (last verse). Season tickets are on sale at the University Store at a very low rate for students.

Fraternities To Be Reactivated With Return Of Members

On May 17, 1944, at a final meeting of the Interfraternity Council, it was decided that no man at the University would be rushed, pledged, or initiated for the duration of the war who was not an upperclassman on October 5, 1943. Since 1944 the Interfraternity Council has not been active because there were no fraternity houses functioning on campus, and a committee entitled the Council of Fraternity Chapter Advisers has been the governing body of all fraternity matters.

These fraternity advisers have been working hard on plans for the rehabilitation of fraternity operations and the following tentative plans have been announced:

This spring returning men who are pledges to a fraternity may apply to the Council and may be initiated into their fraternity only if they are completing their senior year and have the approval of their fraternity alumni and members. There will be fraternity rushing, pledging, and initiation beginning in the fall of 1946.

This rushing plan will differ from that of previous years because every bit of housing space will be filled on the day of Fall Registration. Rushing will be carried on by former members who have returned, with the assistance and counseling of alumni members. Each adviser has been informed of the number of men returning to each fraternity house so plans for their housing are automatically taken care of. During pledging a general reshuffling will have to take place from one house to another. In a few cases there may be non-fraternity men living in a fraternity house because of the acute housing problem which will face students next year. A quota for each house will be determined by the capacity of the house and by the number of fraternity men returning.

Since all fraternity houses must open at the same time or not at all, it is impossible for fraternity rushing to begin this February, because four of the houses are housing women at the present time.

A report drawn up by the Committee on postwar planning for fraternities will soon be available in a condensed form for all students interested. These copies will be found in the near future at Dean Charles O'Connor's office in the Alumni Building.

Buddy Morrow's Music For ASTU Semi-Formal

Friday evening, November 16, the AST Military Dance will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium. All faculty members, students, and their guests are cordially invited.

BUDDY MORROW

Music will be furnished by Buddy Morrow and his orchestra. This orchestra, one of the "Spotlight Bands," has appeared several times on the Coca-Cola Spotlight Band Program.

Not only has Buddy Morrow toured the country playing supper club dates, but he has been heard on at least twenty of the radio shows on the major networks, and the broadcast from the University of Maine is no exception. The show, which will be broadcast from the gym at nine-thirty, will be on a national hookup, and will also be shortwaved to the United States units overseas.

The broadcast will be preceded by a thirty-minute show, and in order to avoid interference with the program the doors will be closed slightly before nine o'clock. All those who desire to watch the show must be inside before that time.

The floor will be reserved for AST's and their guests, Lt. Col. Newton W. Alexander and his party, and the faculty. The balconies will be open to accommodate students and their guests.

In order to avoid confusion, those in the balconies are requested to keep their seats until the floor is cleared of chairs at ten o'clock.

No admission will be charged. The only requirement will be that each class check in at the proper door. Freshmen will enter at the east front door, sophomores and special students will enter at the center door, and the seniors, juniors, and graduate students will enter at the west front door.

Because they provide easy access to the balconies, the side doors are reserved for spectators. All students are asked to identify themselves to the ushers as they enter.

Dr. Andrew Banning Is Sunday Speaker

Dr. Andrew Banning, of the Bangor Theological Seminary, will be the guest speaker at the Little Theatre Sunday, November 18.

Dr. Banning is an editor of the Maine Independent, and has been an active worker of the Independent Voters' League in Bangor.

The choir will sing "We Plough the Fields" and Cruger's "Now Thank We All God," and there will be a duet, Stowen's "Love Divine All Love Excelling," by Lois Ann Nicholson, soprano, and Mr. James G. Selwood, tenor.

Spanish Club Names New Officers, Plans Christmas Party

The first meeting of the Spanish Club was held on Wednesday evening, November 7, in 19 North Stevens for the purpose of electing officers. Miss Helen Boulter was elected president, Miss Barbara Mills as vice president, Miss Barbara Whalen as secretary, and Miss Ruth Butterfield and Mr. Roberto Newmann as co-chairmen of the Social Committee, and Miss Josephine Macri and Miss Beverly Packard as co-chairmen of the Publicity Committee. The office of treasurer will be held by a member of the freshman class and will be chosen as soon as the mid-semester grades are out.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on November 19 at 4:30 p.m. in 19 North Stevens at which time new members will be admitted. Freshmen as well as upperclassmen who have a B grade or special interest in Spanish are urged to attend.

Plans are under way for a Christmas Party which will open the new year. A round of good entertainment and fun in the Spanish style is anticipated, as the social committee has as a member Mr. Roberto Newmann who is a native of Buenos Aires.

National Spotlight Points To Maine As Famous Band Broadcasts From Gym

In a mid-Manhattan office, a colored pin is stuck into a wall map of the United States and another "Spotlight Bands" program begins to take form.

Bob Salter, the show's executive producer, is the man who sets the machinery in motion. The pin in the map means that Bob has cleared an origination point with the Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard and "Spotlight Bands" will visit the service camp or hospital designated by said pin. Then Salter has to find an orchestra which will be somewhere in the vicinity of this point within a day or two of the date of the broadcast.

However, at this point, the band is set for one of the Monday, Wednesday, or Friday sessions of the program heard over Mutual—and the work of shaping up a program is starting.

A "Spotlight Bands" advance man hops into the selected site, checks with the base public relations and special services officers to arrange for the broadcast location and to collect background material on the camp or hospital, its personnel and its activities for incorporation into the coast-to-coast broadcast as the program salutes the base from which it originates.

This salute material is rushed back to the script-writer in New York and now the show begins to take even more tangible form.

A day or two before the actual broadcast date the finished and approved script is turned over to the travelling production crew and from there on the program is in their hands.

The production crew consists of a producer, an engineer, and an announcer. Originating in so many different points throughout the country, the program requires three production crews, one based in New York, another working out of Chicago, and the third handling the West Coast pickups.

That, then, is the story of how this program is built, and the next time you hear "Spotlight Bands" entertaining our armed forces at some service installation, you'll know the effort and detail that has gone into the program structure before the orchestra of the night breaks into the familiar theme and the announcer steps up to the microphone to say: "Tonight, the Spotlight points with pride to —"

Essay Contestants Have Three Topics On Which To Write

Three subjects on which students may write in the annual Claude Dewing Graton Constitutional Essay Contest were announced this week by Professor Edward F. Dow, Head of the Department of History and Government.

The subjects are: (1) Recent Trends in the Supreme Court, (2) The Supreme Court and the Commerce Power, (3) Civil Liberties in War Time. The prize, established by the late Claude D. Graton '00, and awarded for "the best essay on one of three current constitutional questions designated by the professor of constitutional law," consists of the income from four shares of stock held in trust, the current dividends on which exceed $40 a year. Any regularly enrolled undergraduate under twenty-five who has not previously won the prize may enter the contest. Students should register for the contest with Professor Dow, 145 Stevens Hall, not later than December 31. All entries must be delivered in person, or mailed with postmark not later than December 31. If a student registers by mail, he should indicate in his letter the topic chosen, and early in January should call at 145 Stevens Hall to receive his contest number, which will be the only means of identifying his essay.

The essays must be not less than 2,000 nor more than 4,000 words in length and must be typed. The prize will be awarded on the basis of com-

And They Killed The Giant

And they found themselves in Doubting Castle, captured by the Giant of Despair. Here they lay in a dungeon 'til Friday night without one bit of bread or drop to drink. On this night they prayed and a key called Spirit was revealed to them and on Saturday they escaped. However the Giant heard them escaping and ran after them. Mr. Great-Heart with a full blow fetched the Giant to the ground. He then seconded his blow and in the full heat of his spirit, pierced him under the fifth rib.

Having done this noble deed the Pilgrims continued on their way singing:

Out of the way we went, and then we found
What 'twas to tread upon forbidden ground:
And let them that come after have a care,
Lest lack of spirit makes them, as we, to fare:
Lest they, for disbelieving, his prisoners are Whose castle's Doubting and whose name's Despair.

Waiting For Another War?

Have you liked what the world has gone through the past ten years? Is your conscience clear about Ethiopia, and Munich? Do you want to have another war?

Most Americans say "No!"

But today's headlines tell us that we are building only a patchwork peace—a temporary cessation of hostilities. Europe is not really at peace. Starvation and disease are rampant.

What does such a picture mean to those who have suffered and sacrificed so much, these last ten years? The war has come close to many of us on campus; what does it mean to us?

If we do not want the whole of Europe to become what Nazi Germany became after the last war, we must follow through to clean and constructive ends. Famines and plagues will lead to absolutist governments. Warped leaders will kindle the fire of war by preaching a hatred of America. The pattern for European action following this war might well be the same as that of Germany after World War I.

We really did not throw our weight around against aggression, both military and economic, after the last war. We sat back while Hitler invaded France, Norway, Russia, Africa. . . We let him call us decadent.

It is certain that peace will be lost if disease and starvation sweep Europe. If we are apathetic, if we continue concentrating on the end of our noses and no farther, we will establish a whole generation of Europeans who will hate us and who will want to destroy us. Europe must be cleaned up. Europe must be fed. Europe must be nourished both physically and mentally.

If we are not active now, all Europe will become the breeding-ground of another war, just as Germany was the breeding-ground of this last one. However, there are many ways college students and faculty can bring about action. Our chance is now, not tomorrow. After the last war, we were not interested in taking our chance. Too much of history piled up at our heels. The world went to war.

Now is the time to start. Every minute that this confusion and world frustration continues, the odds for peace grow worse. We, the students around the world, are the ones to initiate more action.

We are not alone, here at Maine. All over the world, reasonable people are grasping for a rational program of peace. And many of these reasonable people are in academic institutions, teaching and learning, fighting for peace.

If we are fully active now, there is still chance to earn a stable, sane peace for ourselves, our children, and Europe's children.

For the sake of long-range peace, let's think this problem over.

—World-Relatedness Action Committee

CORRESPONDENCE

The recent editorial in the Campus entitled "Your Opinion, Sir," brought to life an ambition that has been mine since entering the University this fall. My qualifications to speak, and especially to criticize, may reasonably be questioned. I am not a full-time student; I do not participate fully in the campus activities; I take only two courses for credit. But I have waited in vain for some reaction from GI's and ex-GI's attending Maine, and, seeing none so far, have dared to offer my ideas on a "controversial subject."

The reactions of returning GI's are certain to be varied. There is no particular reason why their reactions should be any different from those of anyone else attending the school for the first time. And there is certainly no reason why the opinions of one should be construed to be the opinions of many. I wish to make this point quite clear. There is a tendency to assume that an ex-GI who even opens his mouth to yawn is expressing a profound and universal weariness, and is acting in the name of every man in the service, or formerly in the service. These are my own personal opinions based on my own personal beliefs.

The Army can be partially blamed for my reaction. I expected to see more directness on the part of students in pursuing their courses. I expected to find, even though I must look deep, a certain discipline, entirely separate, I hasten to add, from the regimentation of the service. No ex-GI will deny that the Army (which is the only branch I can speak for) is efficient in its essence. Of its nature it is a model of efficiency. That that efficiency is not always brought into full operation goes without saying. But the Army is undeniably disciplined and efficient.

I have noticed what I would call a complete lack of discipline and efficiency in the general attitude of the people at Maine. I detect a noticeable sloppiness about their thinking faculties, and a consequent inability to view the various aspects of college life in their proper relation to each other. Every outfit in the Army has a definite mission. Regardless of what happens to retard the execution of the mission, it remains the 'raison d'être' for the outfit. The mission is to be accomplished "though hell should bar the way." Let me remind you again that I am speaking of the theory primarily. Practice is frequently at variance with the theory. But I have yet to see that the majority of people at Maine have any conception of a "mission," to be accomplished with no delay and with no excuses. Perhaps it is asking too much of every man that he come to a university with a shining ideal of some sort before him, sworn to achieve his end. Perhaps it is more than any man can be expected to do. And yet, a man is asked to do it in the Army.

A university has a mission: to educate; a student has a mission: to be educated. Without becoming involved in the more recondite questions of what constitutes education, let me yet make this single observation. Education is something terribly sincere, and terribly important, and at the same time terribly urgent. Four years is a small time in which to try to digest the elements of knowledge in a particular subject, much less knowledge in general. Education is not something to be toyed with like a pretty, expensive bauble. It is, facetiously, pretty expensive for many of us, which is only one of the reasons why it should be taken seriously.

How many, many persons have I not run into who are in the tech school, or the arts school, or the ag school, and who had no apparent reason for being in one rather than in another. What were they majoring in? Well, home ec, or English, or psych, or chem. Why? I have been the recipient of numerous mystified looks as I posed that question. I do not mean to single out particular courses or particular schools. I have found it true in a number of schools. What a strange thing it is to come to an institution of higher learning and discover that a portion of the students are uncertain as to why they are here! Or have I entirely misinterpreted the reactions I have got?

Am I being pedantic? Am I looking for more than I should expect to find? I hope not. A GI may have spent a good part of his army life waiting, loafing (necessarily), fooling around at various "extracurricular" activities. But he never for a moment was deceived into thinking that that was the purpose of his being in the Army. Whatever his personal opinion of the Army and its members, he knew that the Army in itself had a mission to perform, knew where it was going, and why it was going there. A man who asked an officer why he should attack a pill-box would be bringing himself perilously near to a court-martial. There is no questioning the aims of the Army. Am I wrong in applying the same general kind of logic to education?

I wonder if the Maine students who throng to week-end dances, take time out frequently during the week to visit, to have a good time, to entertain and be entertained, to keep up on the current best-sellers and best-singers, to assiduously neglect their assignments or do them with a complete lack of interest, are deceived into thinking that the essence of a university consists in the after-hours occupations, and that their "mission" as students is to have the best time possible.

This letter is open to misunderstanding. I realize that. I have not exhausted the subject nor presented all its aspects. I have merely set down what seems to me to be the outstanding issue on the Maine campus. I would like nothing better than to be soundly and convincingly refuted. I am after the truth, and if I have hit wide of the mark, I want to know it. I would like to be convinced that it is a characteristic of Maine students, besides being friendly, to conceal their real aims and ideals behind a mask of indifference.

MCA Was Packed With New Mainiacs At Freshman Club

The Freshmen? They are the latest addition to the campus—the gang that does things in a bang-up way! Not only did they give 100% for the MCA drive, but they took the MCA by storm when they turned out for Freshman Club on Wednesday the seventh. One hundred and seventy of them came to sponsor their exclusive organization.

They didn't come empty-handed either. They brought their talents with them and lusty voices too. They provided self-entertainment with a piano duet, solos in voice, clarinet, and flute, and even a barber shop quartet.

Due to the fine planning and high expectations of Connie Thomes and Merle Goff, the co-advisers of the Freshman Club, there was punch and cookies enough for every one of the one hundred and seventy present.

So well did this worthy band of freshmen turn out that it is rumored they made the sides of the MCA bulge, and different arrangements may be necessary for a meeting place in order to preserve this fine old building that has served us so long.

UConnns Over Bears Trojanowski Leads Connecticut Rout

By Steve Notis

Spearheaded by Walter Trojanowski, the nation's top college scorer, the University of Connecticut football team turned an expected grid battle into a rout and smothered the University of Maine Bears 53 to 0 in their final game of the year. A Homecoming Day crowd saw one of the finest exhibitions of blocking in many a year on Alumni Field as Trojanowski and company bowled over a valiant Maine team. The Bears, despite their willingness to attempt to stay in the game, were completely outclassed from the start of the game to the final whistle.

Trojanowski, outshining the other stars on the power-laden Connecticut club, added 24 more points to his total and surprised all the spectators with his all-round football ability. As a blocker he continually paved the way for his mates and on defense brilliantly backed up the UConn stone wall.

The Maine football team and students should never forget this game. They should realize that this year's team was composed of green material, boys who had never experienced real college football. Still they were willing to play so that we and Maine alumni all over the world could feel that a Maine team was representing us in the national pastime. We all admit this year's results were unfavorable. The experience that the team gained this year could have been obtained in no other way. The team with the exception of varsity center John Day will be complete next year. With the return of other varsity men, the team will be greatly strengthened, and with this in mind Maine students should have a bright outlook on the football picture for next year. At the same time we should not forget the University of Connecticut.

ATO Successfully Defeats Ex-Champ Senior Girls' Team

By Steve Notis

Last Sunday afternoon the boys from ATO, with the help of their Atom-pills, upset all pre-game prognostications and wound up victorious in a hard-fought hockey game against the former champion Senior girls. From the moment that the game started, a large crowd was greatly impressed by the form that the boys displayed, and all realized that the secret practice sessions would determine the outcome of the game.

The boys, inspired by the superior ATO cheering section, lost little time in scoring as Capt. Bodwell broke the ice early in the first period with a goal. A few plays later John Chapman squeezed through Libby and Packard, fullbacks of the hefty eleven, and tallied the second ATO score.

Late in the first half Roman Eydo chalked up another point. At the end of the half the ATO boys had piled up a lead of three points, and their only worry was how long the pills would hold out.

The second half saw Cliff Worthing scoring the final point for the ATO's. A few minutes later the girls, faced with the realization that they were going to be shut out, rallied and let go shot after shot at Goalie Moon "Goatless" Mullins. Moon however coped with the situation admirably. The girls' only tally came on a violation of a rule by Mullins, who in self-protection was forced to foul on a

BEAR FACTS

by Cliff Whitten

HOME COMING—Maine 0—Connecticut 53.—Since the majority of the readers of this column saw the game Saturday there's no need discussing it. In fact, the less said about it the better. There seems to be one pretty general opinion anyway. Let's just hope that nothing like that ever happens to Maine again.

It might be of interest to football fans to know that Colby can now claim the mythical state championship for 1945 as a result of their 13-6 victory over Bowdoin, Saturday.

Bangor defeated Brewer 26-6 Monday afternoon to take the city title. Neither team could make any headway in the first period, but the Rams had too much weight and power for the Witches.

Considering the lack of experience by the Maine cross country team, their third place in team standing in the New England Meet last Saturday is something more than satisfactory. The Maine team was beaten only by Rhode Island, the defending champs, and by Northeastern, with MIT in fourth place.

Around the rest of the country there was enough football last Saturday to satisfy nearly anyone. The number two massacre of the day was Army's 48-0 victory over Notre Dame with Glenn Davis scoring three touchdowns and "Doc" Blanchard two. The Army's afternoon was complete when their second string scored two touch-shot by "Rusty" Chute.

Due to the physical beating that the boys received at the hands of Jameson's maulers, the coach wishes to announce that he is unable to gather up enough volunteers for another game.

under control and the outcome was a 4 to 1 victory for the Sophomores.

The Freshman goal was scored by Nancy Jordan and the Sophomore goals by Polly True-2, Morna Kimball-1, and Barbara Carter-1.

After the game refreshments were served in the field house by the Sophomore Eagles.

The freshman girls were pretty down-hearted at the defeat of their team and the fact that they couldn't take off their hats. However, an announcement was made by the Sophomore Eagles at the Homecoming Football Game that the girls' Frosh Hats might be removed—for good! This announcement was followed by loud cheers and sighs of relief!

The Alumnae-Undergraduate Hockey Game which followed the Hat Game proved exciting, ending in a tie score, 2-2.

A very successful hockey season came to a close on Monday with one of the most exciting games of the year. The sophomores, still exuberant over their Hat Game victory, gave the seniors a pretty tough time. The outcome was a close 6 to 5 victory for the seniors.

The year's Hockey Tournament standings are as follows:

Champions	Seniors
2nd Place	Juniors
3rd Place	Sophomores
4th Place	Freshmen

Credit for the outstanding success of this hockey season goes to the managers, Millie Byrnes, Ruth Haines, Shirley Castner, and Anna Crouse, who did a top-notch job of conducting the tournament, caring for equipment, etc. Further commendation goes to the class leaders, Florence Bruce, Gloria Lombard, Barbara McNeil, and Gerry Rawcliff, who really did a wonderful job of getting the games played off as scheduled. (Only one was postponed due to the weather.)

Well, the hockey season may be over, but it won't be forgotten for a while yet. We have our memories of the fun, good sportsmanship, and really first-class playing. Until next year then...

Sigma Mu Sigma
Initiates Thirty

The Sigma Mu Sigma society under the direction of Dr. Quinsey will hold its initiation meeting Thursday, November 15. At this time there will be approximately thirty initiates coming in.

Officers for this year include Mary Miller, president, and Barbara Dickey, secretary-treasurer.

The society intends to continue this year with its programs having to do with psychological problems which will be of interest and value to the student body.

inter-dorm tournament to begin right after Thanksgiving.

Dorm managers will be elected soon and they will sign up all girls interested in playing on their dorm team. Fifteen players will be necessary for each team wishing to enter the tournament (and any dorm may have as many teams as it wishes).

If a sufficient number of teams sign up, blue and white leagues will be formed, with the winners of each league playing off for the championship.

Practices have already commenced so if you are interested in playing on the teams, start getting yours in now!

There was an important reorganization meeting of the Square Dance Club Tuesday, November 12, at 8:00. It was of special interest to old members. Madolyn Duffy of Orono played the piano.

It's ski time! Snow's here 'n all! Dick Willis, professional skier who taught at the Otto Schneib's Ski School at Saranac Lake, and Benny Bernard, who taught for Walter Prager, both veterans and students here, are available to help with skiing this winter. If enough interest is shown, a ski school may be formed. Come on, get out the skis, and step in line for the opportunity of a lifetime—the chance to learn skiing from a couple of professional instructors!

up. Truck loads of furniture from MacAvery's in Bangor and various antique shops now adorn the once-barren stage. Numerous properties have also made an appearance and add much color to rehearsal. Harriet is now in its final phase of rehearsal when the emphasis can be put on details and finesse. The costumes have been ordered from Hooker-Howe in Haverhill, Mass. They are making up an entire new set of costumes for Harriet which will make their first appearance in this Masque production. These colorful costumes and the Civil War furniture will add much to the final effect and make Harriet a finished production.

The large cast includes both new and old Masque participants. Barbara Mills, who plays the title role, is familiar to all last-year Masque audiences. In Nine Girls she played the part of Glamourpuss and was Rosie O'Toole in The Night of January Sixteenth. However Harriet is her first straight role and Barb Mills shows that she's an extremely versatile actress.

Pat Hutto plays the part of the austere sister, Catherine Beecher. Pat's past Masque appearances are too numerous to list, but perhaps she is best remembered for her stirring portrayal of the murderess in Nine Girls. Two important newcomers to the Masque footlights are Bob Browne and Al Ford. Bob plays the part of Calvin Stowe, Harriet's kind, scholarly husband. Fordie portrays Henry Ward Beecher, the most important member of the Beecher minister clan. Included also in the cast are three freshman girls, six upperclass girls, four freshman boys, three AST's, and five veterans who have recently returned to campus.

Ocummo Advances,
Plans Wider Scope
For Coming Months

The off-campus men have adopted an abbreviated name, "Ocummo." Specifically the letters stand for "Off-Campus University of Maine Men's Organization."

The off-campus men are trying to make this organization more a part of the university than it has been before. Ocummo has drawn up a constitution and by-laws so it can work on the same footing as other organizations on the campus.

Temporarily Ocummo meets every Tuesday at 12:45 in the Faculty Room at South Stevens. We are hoping to arrange a place and time which will be more convenient for off-campus men.

We feel that a unified organization is desirable because in the future many more men will be living off the campus. In addition to the normal quota of non-fraternity men off campus there will be also the veterans living in Orono with their families. This organization will make them feel more a part of the university. The organization is part of the intermural athletic system and is represented on the Student Senate and other organizations.

Any man that is registered as an off-campus man may, and is invited to, attend the meetings

Christmas Play
To Be Presented
By German Club

The annual Weihnachtsspiel (Nativity Play) will be presented by the German Club on December 2, 1945, at 8 o'clock in the Little Theatre. It is based on the old Nativity Play in the Alsfield tradition, but is in a modernized version. The Nativity Play was given annually from 1935 to 1942, after which it was stopped on account of the war. It is hoped that this custom can be continued.

The cast are: Lindenwirt (Innkeeper), Beverly Kemp; Lindenwirtin (Innkeeper's wife), Mary Frances Spangler; Joseph, Barbara Crowell; Mary, Lucille Cote; Angel, Elsie Reuning; Shepherd, Mary Marble; and assistants, Unverdrossen, Elizabeth Boyce, and Ziegenbart, Mary E. Smith. There will be a chorus which will present traditional German Christmas Carols as part of the play.
