E.R.F. Report Made Tuesday

The financial report of the University of Maine Emergency Service Fund Committee has been drafted by Dean Fred P. Loring. An informal report, submitted to The Maine Campus last Tuesday afternoon, has been prepared pending completion of certain details in the committee.

Total income from the students, faculty, and campus organizations, amounted for the school year 1945-46 to $3259.45.

The following organizations contributed to the Emergency Service Fund this year: OCUMMO, Tri Delta (dance proceeds), Panhellenic Council, Off-Campus Women, Sigma Mu Sigma, Spanish Club, German Club, North Estabrooke Girls, Alpha Omicron Pi, Home Economics Club, Mu Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Balentine Hall, Phi Mu Sorority, Colvin Hall, University Store Co., Maine Masque, WAA, Phi Beta Phi, MCA, and The Maine Calendar.

New Dining Facilities Will Be Built Here

New dining facilities for off-campus students, including the new men in pre-fab housing on North Hill (north of Alumni Field), as advocated by The Maine Campus, will be located in a new addition to be built on the indoor athletic field, the administration announced yesterday.

The dining hall will have a seating capacity of about five hundred, and will have facilities to accommodate from 1,000 to 1,500 persons in an hour and a half.

The new dining hall is expected to be ready for use when classes start in the fall.

The new addition to the indoor field will extend the full length of the single story portion of the structure on the north side and will be about 55 feet wide. Besides the dining hall, the addition will have offices for Dormitory Manager Lindsay B. Chalmers and dietitians, and there will be considerable storage space for food.

The administration pointed out that, at the present time, off-campus students may secure meal-tickets for any number of transient meals desired, women using the dining room in Balentine Hall and men the basement dining room in North Estabrooke Hall.

Lambert And Anderson Elected By Sophomores To Head '48 Prism

Bryce Lambert was chosen Editor-in-Chief of the '48 Prism in Sophomore Class election held Wednesday. Bill Anderson was elected to be Business Manager.

Vice President of the Men's Senate and member of the General Student Senate, Lambert plans to major in English. His home is in Houlton.

Anderson, a Dean's List student and Sophomore Owl, is majoring in Business Administration.

The Prism is Maine's only yearbook, and is put out by the Junior Class. Other positions on the staff are filled by appointments.

More Tickets Available For Commencement Ball

One hundred extra tickets for the Commencement Ball, Friday, June 14, are being released for former members of the Class of '46 and any other interested persons. They will be on sale for $3.00 per couple at the treasurer's office.

Music for the dance will be furnished by the Maine Bears. Decorations, done on a spring theme, will come from Dennison's in New York.

One Hundred And Seventy Seniors To Receive Degrees On Sun., June 16

One hundred and seventy Maine students will receive their degrees on Commencement Day, Sunday, June 16, culminating a three-day "Victory" Commencement program. Traditional Class Day exercises will be held Friday, June 14, and Saturday is to be set aside as Alumni Day. Harold W. Stoke, President of the University of New Hampshire, will give the commencement address, and Colonel Corwin H. Olds '39 will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

Eighteen Classes Will Hold Reunions During 'Alumni Day'

A full schedule of activities is planned for this year's Alumni Day, to be held Saturday, June 15, as a part of Maine's 79th Commencement program. During Commencement week end, eighteen classes of University Alumni will hold reunion meetings.

Highlight of Alumni Day will be the banquet at 6 p.m. in Estabrooke Hall. Captain Harold L. Cousins '42, Marine Corps Navy Cross winner, will be one of the featured speakers.

Saturday's events will start with breakfasts for the various alumni groups at 8 a.m., and reunion class meetings will follow. An Alumni As- (Continued on Page Two)

Events will get underway Sunday with Baccalaureate services scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in Memorial Gym. Colonel Corwin Olds will deliver the sermon after an invocation by the Rev. Charles O'Connor and music under the direction of Mr. Alfred Cayting.

Commencement Exercises are to be held at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon in Memorial Gym. Besides the presentation of honorary and regular degrees, two Watch Awards will be made to the outstanding men and women students in the graduating class.

Commencement speaker Harold L. Stoke received his A.B. from Marion College, Indiana, in 1924, his M.A. from Southern California in 1925, and Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins in 1930. He is the author of several articles and books on political science. He was recently elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Stoke came to the University of New Hampshire from Washington, D. C., where he was Chief of the War Records Section in the Executive Office of the President.

Colonel Corwin Olds, delivering the baccalaureate sermon, was pastor of the Congregational Church in Rockland before being called to active duty in 1941 as a member of the U. S. Army Chaplain's Corps. Colonel Olds took up the ministry in 1923 and received his A.B. degree from Maine in 1939.

Rev. Lozier Will Lead Final Sunday Service

Reverend Orville Lozier, assistant superintendent of the Congregational-Christian Churches in Maine, will be the speaker for the last Sunday Service for the school year at the Little Theatre at 10:45, June 2.

Reverend Lozier held pastorates in Rhode Island before coming to Maine in 1942. In addition to his other duties he is also director of the Pilgrim Fellowships in Maine, the youth group in the Congregational Church, and a member of the Youth Committee of the Maine Council of Churches.

Class Day Program Includes Speeches, Pageant, Tea, Ball

Class Day for the graduating Class of '46, beginning the first post-war commencement week end, will be held Friday, June 14.

At 10:30 a.m. the entire class will assemble on the Coburn Green for the Senior Class picture. At 11 o'clock a class meeting will be held in the Little Theatre in order to elect Alumni officers.

Class Day Exercises, the highlight of the day, will be held in the oval beside Coburn Hall at 1:45 p.m. The speakers for these exercises were elected by the class. They are as follows: Valedictory: Joan Greenwood; Salutatory: Janice Campbell; History: (Continued on Page Six)

Maine ROTC Unit Passed In Review

The University of Maine R.O.T.C. unit held its annual review Friday for a War Department inspection team and the general public. The review climaxed an inspection tour that covered every part of Maine's R.O.T.C. program.

The five-man inspection team, headed by Colonel G. C. Kershaw, General Staff Corps, checked the physical layout and administration of the unit, and gave written and practical tests to the men on subjects covered during the year. The reviewing officers expressed satisfaction with the review and exams.

Colonel Fuller, in charge of the R.O.T.C. unit here, stated that he appreciated the efforts made by the men and added that they had conducted themselves very well considering the limited time they had for R.O.T.C. instruction.

Full results will not be known for some time because the reports will have to be tabulated at Ft. Bragg and Washington before they are known.

Pops Concert Will Be Held Friday Night On Library Steps

The second annual Pops Concert, sponsored by Mu Alpha Epsilon, honorary music society, will be held outdoors on the steps of the new Library tomorrow, May 31, at eight o'clock in the evening, with the orchestra, glee clubs, and the Modern Dance Group participating. Soda pops, as the name implies, will be sold to spectators and musicians alike.

A feature of the program will be a trumpet trio composed of Evan Johnson, Mary Pinkham, and Donald Crossland, all members of the orchestra. Arline Tankle will conduct the girls' glee club in one number and Phil Stackpole will lead the men's glee club in another.

The Modern Dance Group, under the direction of Eileen Cassidy, will perform on the grass next to the Women's Gym. The orchestra, with Mr. A. Stanley Cayting as its conductor, will occupy the first level of the steps, while the glee clubs, led by Mr. James G. Selwood, will sing from the top steps.

In case of rain, the concert will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The program is as follows: "The Stein Song"; "Rhythm," Coates, Orchestra; "The Song of Man," Kountz, Glee Clubs; "Echo Waltz," Goldman, Trumpet Trio; "Summertime," Gershwin, Harriet Watson and Girls' Glee Club, Student Conductor Arline Tankle; "Triumphal March," Prokofieff, Orchestra; "Thine Alone," Herbert, Arline Tankle and Charles Bagley; "La Pampita," Chenoweth, Orchestra; "Waltz," Gounod, Glee Clubs and Orchestra; "Dance My Comrades," Bennett, Men's Glee Club, Student Conductor Philip Stackpole; "The Dance of the Automaton," Delibes, Modern Dance Group; "Wanting You," Romberg, Glee Clubs and Orchestra; "Knightsbridge," Coates, Orchestra; The National Anthem.

Four Maine Seals Awarded Last Night

Presentation of four Maine Seals, top women's athletic honor, highlighted last night's Women's Athletic Association banquet held in the North Estabrooke dining hall. Girls who received the Seal were Gloria Lombard '46, Lucia Packard '46, Fay Jones '47, and Barbara McNeil '47.

Besides the four Seals, a total of eighty-three awards were made, including five chevrons, seventeen University "M's," twenty-two numerals, thirty-four Health "M's" and Stars, and five Archery awards.

The Maine Seal, highest award offered by the WAA, is presented to outstanding participants in the WAA program whose scholarship and qualities of leadership are above average. Miss Helen Lengyel of the Women's Physical Education department and Shirley Titcomb, this year's WAA president, made the awards.

Professor Anne Cameron, Radcliff College Physical Education instructor, was guest speaker. Other guests included President and Mrs. Arthur A. Hauck, Dean and Mrs. Glenn Kendall, Dean and Mrs. Elton Wieman, Dean Edith Wilson, Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Wallace, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Hitchner, Miss Marion Rogers, Miss Eileen Cassidy, Miss Helen Carroll, and all house directors of the women's dorms.

Those receiving awards were as follows:

Chevrons: Mary Hubbard, Shirley Castner, Clarice Easter, Morna Kimball, and Pauline True.

sociation meeting at 11 will precede the Alumni Luncheon to be held in Memorial Gym at 12:30.

The Alumni Association will conduct memorial services for Maine's World War II dead in the Little Theatre at 2 p.m. The seniors will meet the alumni on the diamond in a baseball game at 3:15, and at the same time a tea will be given in Estabrooke. Following the banquet, the Alumni Hop, starting at 9:30, will conclude the day's events.

Reunion classes range from the 50 year group of 1896 down to the class of '44, two years out. Two 25-year class reunions will be held, those of the classes of '20 and '21.

Other classes holding regularly scheduled reunions are 1901, '02, '03, '04, 1939, '40, '41, '42, and '44. Postponed reunions planned for this year's big Victory Commencement are those of the classes of 1910, '11, '20, '31, '36, and '43.

E.R.F. REPORT

$50.83, were given to the various eleemosynary agencies.

$200.00 was set aside from the total for Salvation Army, since the donation promised last year did not go through.

Approximately $100.00 was paid for the costs of shipment of The Maine Campus to Maine alumni in the services.

During the 1947 drive, the Red Cross will be given its $200.00.

$200.00 was sent to the Salvation Army as this year's donation.

The remainder was divided between the educational agencies, with $600.00 going to the Save the Children Foundation, and $1750.00 going to the World Student Service Fund. As last year's WSSF donation was not made until this fall, it will be included in the final country-wide tabulation with the University's 1946-47 donation, totalling $2000.00 from the University of Maine to World Student Service Fund.

MCA Building Due For Face-Lifting Early This Summer

The MCA building, recreation hall for on-campus students and home-away-from-home for the off-campus students, is due for a face lifting in the very near future, it has been announced by Charlie O'Connor, General MCA Secretary.

The recent influx of new and returning students has placed a heavy strain on the existing equipment, and the Advisory Board of the MCA has made a generous appropriation for repairing present equipment and providing new conveniences for the students.

New kitchen and dining room equipment will be added. In addition, money will be spent to refinish the furniture and curtains in the building, and for new card tables, floor lamps, ping-pong table tops, and other items. Magazine binders will be purchased, and new book shelves and newspaper racks will be built.

The idle Bookstore juke-box, subject of much controversy, is also being considered as an addition to the building, but no definite decision has been reached yet.

Music Department Loses Irreplaceable Records

The University Music Department, in making an inventory of its property, has discovered that several phonograph records are missing. These records are not signed for, and cannot be traced.

As some of these records are out of stock and not replaceable, they are of considerable value to the department. The persons who have borrowed these records are asked to return them as soon as possible.

Thanks, Mr. Gannett

Mr. James A. Gannett retires this year as adviser to The Maine Campus, due to the pressure of his increasing work here.

Working with Mr. Gannett as adviser have been many "editors," and many "business managers." His advice has always been sought for and welcomed, and will remain so.

The Campus staff wishes to express thanks to Mr. Gannett for his years of loyal and endearing service to the newspaper.

Please, Cut Out The Noise

All spring, in spite of the fact that this University is not located along Huntington Avenue in Boston or within spitting distance of any Maine Central railroad tracks, students and teachers here have had to put up with more than their share of noise—noise not altogether justifiable.

Grass must grow. Lawns must be cut. Lawn-mowers must be used, and they make noise. Classes must be held. Teachers must lecture. Windows must be open because classrooms get hot.

These statements are facts, but they are facts which refuse to live together in harmony.

Next week come finals when every student must put his or her last ounce of concentration into the task at hand—that of a passing grade in the ever-important exam. Sounds reminiscent of New York's Times Square on New Year's Eve will not be helpful.

May we humbly suggest, in a voice loud enough to be heard above the irritating lawn-mowers and ear-shattering tractors, that the work of keeping the grass alive and trimmed be carried on at another time—not to conflict with lectures or final exams.

Please, keep those lawn-mowers quiet!

Voting Is A Duty

The Sophomore Class, in presenting and electing an excellent slate of Prism leaders, has conclusively proven that students can do a good job of handling their own affairs.

However, results of Wednesday's elections showed one glaring student weakness. The total vote was light, and of that vote, only twenty-three out of a possible one hundred and fifty "Spring Veterans" cast a ballot.

Campus activities must be kept in the hands of the students. In order that this may be possible, students must show a willingness to participate, and an interest, in what goes on about them.

This means all students. Not just ex-Maine men. Not just girls. Not just a few "live-wires." Everyone must pitch in and work together. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link.

We want no weak links on this campus.

—L. J.

Mrs. Theodora Rhodes, Colvin's House Director, was the surprised supper guest of the 1944-45 Colvin charges last Monday night at Spruce's Log Lodge. Mrs. Rhodes, who is leaving the University at the conclusion of this semester, had been invited to supper at Spruce's by several of the girls, but found on her arrival that all of last year's Colvinites had assembled in her honor. As she entered the door, she was greeted by the Colvin theme song, "Give a Cheer!"

The girls had reserved the lodge from 5 to 6, and had a hilarious reunion eating, singing, and talking over old times. Mrs. Rhodes was presented with a gold compact as a farewell gift, as a token of their appreciation for her kindness and understanding during their freshman year at college.

Houseparties, similar to those held by fraternities in pre-war days, constituted the social event during the past week.

The boys at Lambda Chi Alpha claim that theirs was the most attractively decorated house on campus. The social committee, composed of John La Point, chairman, Stan Thomas, Hal Perry, and their assistants really did put in a lot of work, and deserve credit for a job well done. Each room was done in a different color with a completely different theme. Every doorway was transformed into an arch of apple blossoms. Charlie Welch's orchestra provided the ideal musical background for the formal Friday night.

The men at Phi Eta Kappa, all veterans, held a semi-formal Friday night with Hal Blood's orchestra. The rooms were decorated with pastel streamers, soft lights, mistletoe, and apple blossoms. The dance committee was headed by Robert Preti, with Floyd Beecher and Robert Millar assisting.

At ATO, the house party atmosphere was definitely prevalent. Colored streamers arranged in Maypole style with colored balloons in the center of the ceiling, and apple blossoms on the walls and around the lights formed the decorations.

It can still be said that June is the best month of the year for people's thoughts to tend toward matrimony. June 15th will see Betty Brown and Jay Calkins married at the Fairfield Baptist Church in Fairfield. Shortly afterwards Jean Le Baron and Charles Sawyer will be wed in Waterville. Bob Dutton and Dottie Currier will marry on June 20 in Auburn, and Brad Haskell and Mary Lou Williams of Auburn will be man and wife on June 22. Carol Griffie and Roland Porter will be married on June 25 in Orono.

Peg Asker became the bride of Lawrence O'Leary last month. The engagement of Pat Taylor to Bud Daggett of Milo has been announced. The wedding will take place in the fall.

An engagement of last December which has not been announced until now is that of Frankie Callan to Warren Rogers, who is in Germany at present.

Four recent engagements of campus-wide interest are: Jan Scales and Ike Webber, Shirley Titcomb to Fred McLeary, Joan Greenwood to Bob Franz, and Jean Webb to Fred Robie.

Late Robert Drummond Served Here 37 Years

Dr. Robert R. Drummond, who died at his home in Orono on May 10, was formerly the senior member of the faculty in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Head of the Department of German, Dr. Drummond taught at Maine since his return from study in Europe in 1909. He was appointed as head of his department in 1919.

Dr. Drummond was deeply interested in music, and was associated with many Bangor musical groups. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Beta Phi honorary societies.

Lovers, Proceed Cautiously! Romance Can Be Deadly Game

By Ike Webber

As the executioner said to the doomed man as he threw the switch, "This'll kill you." I was looking over the newspapers a few days ago (some of us have that much time) and I came across an interesting article that went to the tune of some guy over in London making such ardent love to his fiancée that she collapsed and died in his arms; all of which goes to show you that some men just don't know their own power, (power that is).

I figure that when a guy makes that kind of love he's burning up God's green acres, (acres that is), and especially after they had been engaged for seven months. He either had Hermes' touch or the worst case of halitosis on record. I don't know, but it's getting so that your life isn't safe, regardless of where you are nowadays.

I can't figure out a better way to die. I imagine it would be something like having your funny bone cracked at five second intervals until you died from laughter. I should think it would make your head ache, though. (It does—I just tried it).

Investigation proved that during the embrace he exerted pressure (of the lemon-squeeze type, probably) on the back of her neck. He hit a vulnerable nerve center, (must have faked her guard out of position and mousetrapped her center) which caused immediate paralysis of her heart and lung functions. It definitely adds up to this:

Peeking In Keyhole, Marsh Tells Tale Of College Family Life

By Bernard Marsh

"Evenin', Honey. How'd everything go? Supper ready? How's for a kiss?" "Everything's fine, Darling. Supper in a few minutes. How went the classes? Here's your kiss—say, how did you get your shirt collar so grimy?"

Why, I guess there weren't any clean shirts this morning, remember? I asked you for one—"

"Are you inferring that I don't launder your clothes often enough? Why didn't you ask me for a clean one last night? I could have fixed you one."

"Of course I wouldn't accuse you of negligence, Honey. I didn't complain about it. I didn't think to notice last night—"

"No, you didn't complain. You just wore a dirty shirt so everyone could see and wonder why your wife doesn't do anything about it. Very subtle. And we've only been married two months. You—you louse!"

"Easy, Honey. I don't think anyone noticed. I couldn't very well go shirtless. Classroom instructors frown on it."

"So, now it's all my fault, is it? You're trying to make an issue out of a little slip on my part. You—you're probably getting tired of me already, and this is your way of letting me know."

"Now, Sweetheart, take it easy. You brought the subject up. Let's not fight, huh? C'mon, let's kiss and make up."

"Don't you touch me!" "Aw, Honey, please—"

"Don't you speak to me!" "Look, Sweetheart. It was all my fault. I'm a louse to treat the best little wife in the world like that. I'm awfully sorry. I'll never, never, do it again. Won't you forgive me just a little? C'mon, kiss me, huh?"

"Well—"

"Please, Honey?" "If I forgive you, you'll promise not to do it again?"

"I promise. Cross my heart."

"Well—Okay. A girl has to make allowances. You do for me sometimes. You taste good. And that reminds me—it's suppertime. Take your coat off and let's eat. And after this when you want to start a fight, wait till after mealtime, will you?"

the guy started a fire, then used gasoline to put it out.

The pathologist said that the man was more to be sympathized with than anything else; obviously he didn't wish her death (that was a brilliant conclusion to arrive at).

It's getting so that women are mere putty in the hands of men (take that hat off before it gets too tight). You've got to learn control, (control that is). Girls are so fragile, so feminine, so weakly-knit, so easily susceptible to your touch (loosen that shirt collar Mr.).

And here's a tip to the coeds—the next time that certain guy whispers sweet nothings in your ear, and his arm stealthily creeps around your neck, (neck, that is), look out, it may be love in his eye, but it could be murder in his heart.

Right now I've got to go. I just heard that the Home Management girls (ten in number) had a baby (one that is) and it sounds like quite a story.

Student Magazine Will Offer Humor, Cartoons, Fiction

With the final approval of the administration, plans are progressing towards giving the student body an initial jab in the arm next Fall when the first issue of the new magazine, "The Pine Needle," toddles off the press.

Avowedly devoted to a light side in the humorous manner, the magazine will start out with a series of anecdotes devoted to as complete a coverage of university life as possible. Anything from the Bookstore to the class in Refresher French goes with no holds barred.

Following up on that will be the outstanding short story contributed by a student. The range may vary from something with a sports slant to one which places emphasis on realism and factuality.

Cartoons will be scattered through the publication, with interest placed on the more titillating aspects of campus life.

Another section which will probably elicit some interest from members of the student body are the pin-point profiles on faculty personalities. Curves and angles will be discreetly dealt with. In addition to the features enumerated above, space will also be devoted to sports, and reviews of the theatre, movies, and books.

Primary purpose of this magazine will be to have as great an interest as possible by appealing to both men and women in all branches of learning at the University. With the increase anticipated next year, the magazine should have an excellent chance of success.

It is to be issued the tenth of each month and will be sold by subscription, two dollars a year for eight issues.

Maine To Attend SCM Summer Camp

Harriet Steinmetz, retiring president of the Maine Christian Association, and Don Crossland, newly elected president, will head a group of delegates from the University of Maine to the summer conference of the Student Christian Movement held at Camp O-At-Ka, East Sebago, Maine, June 17-24. The U. of M. delegation will be in charge of recreation for the entire meeting of the conference.

The camp is sponsored by the Student Christian Movement of New England, and delegates from nearly all New England colleges attend the session. A well-balanced program for the week includes worship, addresses by educators, seminars, recreation, and a musical program.

NO SPECIAL PREFERENCES!
Dear Editor:

I was shocked at the Maine Campus for trying to promote the "athletic factory" system here at Maine. Your editorial seemed, at least, a bit strong.

Why should athletes be given preference in scheduling over other students. I have to work, and could do a better job and earn more money if my classes were all held in the morning. Will I get consideration... preference?

Are athletics more important than security? My family depends on my allotment plus what I can scrape together at my job....

If athletics are what the taxpayers (I'm one) set up the University of Maine for, let's do the job right. Let's cut out all afternoon classes and get everybody to do Nordic Health-Marches up the Mall to make obeisance to Charles Atlas in his north-campus temple.

LET'S EAT!

Dear Editor:

"Malnutrition Would Be Unjustifiable," the second editorial in last week's Campus, did the off-campus students a great service. They need better facilities for eating.

Keep up your drive for better dining services for off-campus students. Perhaps somebody will get the idea that "Malnutrition Would Be Unjustifiable."

MAKE UP YOUR MINDS

Dear Editor:

As I remember it wasn't too long ago that there appeared in the Campus an article by a Vet condemning us co-eds because we were immature "bobby soxers." Last week we were informed we are obnoxious because we are sophisticated. It seems these perfectly mannered, want-all-they-can-get Vets are hard to please. Personally I don't believe they know what they want or what they like. How about making up your minds, fellows?

EYES DOWN—JUST A LITTLE

Dear Editor:

Thanks, fellows—fellers, that is—thanks a lot for the compliments you've been paying us. We really appreciate it.

You veterans have done a lot for us and really we are thankful. You have given us our present and our future. We ask one more thing—give us back the "Maine Hello."

It seems that you are a bit dissatisfied with us. In fact it seems as though you are dissatisfied with everything. We have taken you in and tried our best to make you feel at home and welcome. But would you co-operate? Would you meet us halfway? NO!

We have been friendly toward you. We have given you the same "Maine Hello" that we give everyone else. Yet, will you respond? NO!

I charge you with manslaughter. You have killed our "Maine Hello" intentionally, willfully, because you think it is flirtatious. Your punishment is to speak to every co-ed you meet on the Maine campus until you leave here.

We have done our part; now it is your turn. The campus is as much ours as yours. Won't you please unbend and say "Hi"?

We like you a lot, fellers, and want to be friends with you if you will let us.

Dear Editor:

I am a woman at the University of Maine, and Bill Brennan's blasé statement that Maine women aren't natural is the first indictment of that sort that I've ever heard in my three years here.

I will grudgingly admit that there are a few women on campus who try to act somewhat high and mighty, but there are definitely the same number of men (if not more) who are in that category.

Of all the places in the world where one can find girls down to earth, Maine has ranked first for a long time. If you have been around at all, Bill, you will understand my statement. There are quite a few colleges in New England which are plum full of would-be glamour girls and pretenders. The long-haired, Lake type.

We are on the ball, Mr. Brennan. A Maine girl is not full of fool tricks, but of common sense. It's too bad you have a grudge against a few of us. A rash generalization such as you have made makes us see red.

Dear Editor:

So far the girls have had nothing to say in answer to the nasty cracks that have been directed against them by certain so-called well-informed writers. I think most any sensible girl will admit that the cracks have been justified, but it's about time the tables were turned.

The vets came back with the idea that they were going to take over Maine. They expected the girls to grow up over night and be "mature." I, for one, do not intend to change from my natural self into the sophisticated human being (?) which has also been severely criticized.

The Maine "Hello" has almost entirely disappeared since the vets hit campus. If a girl as much as smiles, she is labelled as a flirt. The girls have stopped speaking since they have gotten no response. Who wants to smile and get a dead-pan in return?

Everyone likes the vets and welcomes them back, but it's hard to understand such a lack of interest. They have no interest in dances (did you ever see such a stagnant stag-line?) or in other campus activities such as the Frosh Banquet. I'm ashamed to say how few vets there were there.

If the vets want a different kind of girl, it's up to them. There's a lack of understanding on both sides that is only natural under the circumstances. Come on, men—won't you admit that maybe you might be wrong about these Maine girls? We're not such a bad lot if given half a chance. You know, it might be your fault, too.

VETS WHITEWASHED

Dear Editor:

I feel that an injustice has been done the veteran at the University, and I feel that I am entirely responsible. Last week my article about Maine women appeared, and since then I have seen several letters from the coeds. These letters, all very sensibly written, blamed the veterans, as a group, for what I wrote.

The veteran did not write that article. I wrote it. I am a veteran, true, but I am only one, and what I, as a veteran, say should not be misconstrued to be the attitude of all veterans. The opinions I expressed were my own. I don't know if other males on campus agree with me or not, but the fact remains that I am the only person responsible for what was written.

If you feel like telling someone what you think of them because of my ar-article, please tell me. If you want to claw some eyes out I have two that are in fine shape. So claw mine out, not some innocent guy that wants to live peaceably. Don't blame the veteran, blame me.

Bill Brennan

Unfortunately, a paragraph was cut from Bill Brennan's recent feature story. Bill will readily agree that there are some girls on campus that he would be very glad to spend the rest of his natural born days with. He didn't mean to condemn all of the girls, just that certain class which he terms "hard-boiled sophisticated women."—Ed.

Summer Work Offers Good Money, Says Placement Bureau

"Students can make one hundred dollars or more for a summer's work at camp, depending upon their capabilities," says Phillip J. Brockway, director of the University's Placement Bureau.

Inquiries are still coming from camps and hotels concerning both men and women, and a late rush of requests is expected. The Placement Bureau is for the use of the students, and is always open to them.

The Bureau is still working to locate places for graduating seniors. Recently a representative of Filines visited Maine to discuss department store work. A New England Telephone and Telegraph representative came here and described opportunities for college women as service representatives with a new pay scale starting at $30 a week.

This work involves contact with the public for telephone service. Opportunities in this field are available both in Maine and outside.

Pale Blue Meets Bobcats Saturday In Diamond Finale

Vickery Betters Toss To Win Maine's Only Points In IC4A

Bettering the throw that won him the New England title by fourteen feet, Earle Vickery placed third in the National IC4A track and field championships at Annapolis last Saturday to give the University of Maine the only points scored by a Pine Tree State athlete.

Vickery's best distance was 187 feet, 2 3/4 inches, just two inches behind Leonard Naab of Michigan State, but over 20 feet back of the winner, Bill Chynoweth of Army. Only eight inches separated the second place winner from the last scorer, in fifth place.

The train strike kept Bowdoin's two stars, Matt Branche and Neil Taylor, from the meet but Ted Curtis, Maine faculty manager of athletics, secured plane reservations for Vickery.

Next year Maine should have more than a single entry in the meet, for Red Leclair, second in the 1943 IC4A high hurdles, will be back in college, along with Bob Emerson, premier pole vaulter of 1942, Bull Cianchette, giant weightman, Ted Wood, distance runner, now competing in Massachusetts road races, and several other outstanding men. Vickery, a sophomore, will be back again.

Burgess Is Elected 'M' Club President

Alan Burgess, member of last season's basketball team, was elected to the presidency of the "M" Club during a recent meeting at which the club was re-organized with a new constitution.

Other officers elected were Sherwood Gordon, vice president; Francis Linchan, secretary; and George Marsankis, treasurer.

Maine Golf Finals Won By Bill Dow

Maine golfers wound up the season with a University championship Playoff which took place during the last week at the Penobscot Country Club.

Eight contestants played a first four and second four bracket. Bill Dow of Portland, a junior in the college of Arts and Sciences, nosed out Ed Thayer of Sanford in the finals to clinch the championship with a 4 & 3 victory.

Football Scrimmage Last Saturday Ends Spring Practice

Twenty University of Maine footballers scrimmaged at Alumni Field on Saturday, May 25, climaxing the spring's football session. The scrimmage, which could not be game-style because of lack of players, was held under the guidance of Coach "Eck" Allen and his two assistant coaches, Windy Work and Bill Irvine.

The boys scrimmaged for 45 minutes under a very hot sun and did well considering the length of their "season." Coach Allen said that he was satisfied with the players and that he was confident that they had gained good experience and learned a lot of valuable fundamentals of the game.

Those who participated in the scrimmage are: ends, Colin McKenna, Bev Kitchen, Con Korisky, George Morrill and Jim Beaudry; tackles, Bruce Bradeen, Norm Benson, Milt Klein and Ed Penniman; guards, Dave Hall, Jack Zollo, Will Pierce, and Jack Stickel; centers, John Schmidlin and Herb Rackliff; backs, Jack Clark, Bob Dutton, Henry Dombkowski and Alex Gray.

Praise is due Windy Work and Bill Irvine for their much needed assistance to coach Allen. Both these men are pre-war grid luminaries from the University of Maine.

Girls To Obtain Locker Refunds On June 5, 6, 7, 8

Girls' athletic locker-money will be refunded on June 5, 6, 7, and 8, from 8:30 a.m. until noon. Girls sharing lockers must both be present for the refund. All girls are asked to have their lockers emptied and to bring the lock and be prepared to open it. Special arrangements will be made for girls who are taking part in the pageant to obtain their refunds on Friday the 14th. No refunds will be given at any other time than those mentioned above.

Bates Tilt Can Be Important In Deciding Series Outcome

By Fred McDonald

The University of Maine baseball team closes its season at Alumni Field June 1 with Bates listed as opposition. Bates is currently leading in the State series race with an unblemished 4-0 record. The Maine-Bates game could loom up as very important should Colby defeat Bates in a game scheduled for Tuesday night but postponed due to rain.

Bates comes here Saturday boasting of the State series leading pitcher in Art Blanchard who has won all four of the Bobcats' series victories. If they should lose to Colby Wednesday undoubtedly Blanchard will be sent to the mound again Saturday to clinch the crown. Bates needs to win only one of their remaining two games to take the title.

The University pastimers during the past week outlasted Colby to win a 14-10 slugfest, dropped a 4-2 game to Northeastern, and lost to Bates, 6-4.

In the Colby game Maine jumped to a seven run lead in the first inning, added four in the fourth, two more in the sixth, and the final Maine tally came in the last of the eighth. Colby threatened in the first of the ninth with a four run outburst but the rally ended four runs short. It was the University's first series victory.

Saturday, May 27, Walt Braley lost a tough 3 hit game to Northeastern when the old Maine nemesis of base on balls cropped up again to spark rallies for Northeastern. Errors also contributed in sending Braley down to defeat. Braley certainly has earned the title of a tough luck hurler. While pitching effective low hit ball in all of his games this year he has received poor support from his mates both in the field and at bat.

In their first encounter with Bates on the diamond this year Bill Kenyon's charges, although outthumping the Bobcats 9-8, lost a close 6-4 decision. Al McNeilly settled down after a rocky start in which Bates scored five runs in the first two frames, to limit them to only one run in the last six innings. Coombs, Maine's centerfielder and lead-off hitter, treated Blanchard rather roughly, combing him for three hits in four trips. Every member of the Maine line-up collected at least one hit except O'Donnell and McNeilly who were shut out at the plate.

McNeilly allowed eight hits, two bases on balls and struck out six. Blanchard on the mound for Bates was reached for nine hits, four bases on balls while striking out five.

The game for this Saturday, slated for 2:30 p.m., looms up as a thriller. Maine is expected to start either McNeilly or Braley while the decision of a Bates hurler rests on the outcome of the Colby-Bates game.

If the records are any indications, the game Saturday should bring out quite a few individual performances. In addition to claiming the series leading pitcher in Blanchard, Bates has two players in the first six leading hitters. Parent, the Bobcats' catcher, is leading all batters with a .529 average. In fourth place is Larochelle also of Bates with a highly respectable .444 average.

The fifth and sixth hitters in the individual batting race are both from the Maine nine—Gordon with a .400 mark and Gerry Poulin who is hitting .389. With this combination of heavy hitters on the same diamond anything in the way of long hits is probable.

Both teams will be playing all out to win, this last series game. The Bears although eliminated from any chance of finishing higher than a third place tie with Bowdoin can certainly cause Bates to wonder just why Maine is down so far in the standings.

Writer Triumvirate Figures Out Best 'All-Series' Team

Three members of the Maine Campus sports staff, after seeing all four state college baseball teams in action, have crawled way out on that precarious limb to pick an All State Diamond club.

Norm Parent, Bates catcher, was chosen as the most valuable man on the team. His power at the plate and masterful handling of pitchers have been the main factors in the successful Bates drive.

The members of this team were selected on the basis of their batting and fielding averages, and their speed and agility on the diamond.

The team is made up of: 1b, Josselyn, Bates; 2b, Angelides, Maine; 3b, Poulin, Maine; ss, DeKalb, Bowdoin; lf, Whitig, Bowdoin; cf, Puiia, Colby; rf, St. Pierre, Colby; p, Blanchard, Bates; c, Parent, Bates; utility, McDonough, Colby.

Picking the team were Steve Notis, Murph Linehan, and Lenny Plavin.

CLASS DAY

Theresa Dumais; Prophecy: Gene Emerson, Doris Stickney; Ode: Evelyn Shaw; Chaplain: Virginia Tufts.

A revival of the regular All-Maine Women's Pageant will follow the Class Day Exercises at 3:15 p.m. The theme for the pageant, being performed with the cooperation of the Women's Physical Education Department, has not been released; but Miss Eileen Cassidy, director, has said that it promises to be even more spectacular than those of previous years. The cast will include the Modern Dance Club members and any undergraduate women interested in taking part.

From 4 to 5:30 p.m. President and Mrs. Arthur Hauck will open their home to members of the Senior Class and guests.

This day, devoted entirely to the graduating class, will be climaxed by the Commencement Ball to be held from 9 until 2 o'clock. All seniors who will have graduated by September 1, 1946, are eligible for admission.

The activities of the day will be concluded when members of the class go to Bar Harbor to watch the sunrise from Cadillac Mountain. Since Maine is the first University in this country to see the sun rise, this will really bring the class's four years to a thrilling conclusion.

The Commencement Week Committee, which has made all plans for the entire program, consists of David Holmes and Mary Libby as co-chairmen, with Gene Emerson, Jack Day, Mildred Byronas, Evelyn Shaw, Jeanne Thompson, Mary Spangler, Donald Frazier, Angie Verenis, and Russell Bodwell assisting.
