SCHOOL OPENS

Look At Us

Football was never like this, as the five Maine Gridders on the left will testify. Pre-season practice was well worth the sweat when Flash Gordon, Rabbit Dombkowski, Phil Columbe, Jack Zollo, and George Marsanskis teamed up to give K. O. Foley a few pointers on handling the pigskin. Maybe it was K. O. who broke up the Rhode Island game.

Record Enrollment Over Half Completed As Officials Plan For Classes Monday

About one-half of the University of Maine's expected record-breaking enrollment of 4,800 students had registered by Thursday noon, and University officials and faculty were nailing down final plans for the opening of classes on Monday, October 6.

New Library Open At Last

With the transfer of 215,000 books nearing completion, the new library will begin its first academic year of service when classes open Monday.

"The building is as new to us as it is to the students," said Mrs. Dorothy S. MacDonald, reference librarian, "and there is bound to be confusion at first, but with cooperation from all concerned we will get by until things are more settled."

Several sections of the space used by the library will be unfinished until late this month, including tops for the circulation and reference desks and permanent file cabinets.

For study purposes, the New Library has about the same seating capacity as the old building. However, more space will be given over to study rooms within two years when the mechanical drafting department can be moved into another building.

The new library will be staffed by a permanent personnel of 10,

Extra Space Found For Meeting Rooms

Two more rooms to be used as student meeting places have been opened up through the cooperation of several university officials. The rooms, actually one large space which can be partitioned into two, are the downstairs dining halls in Estabrooke.

Because a certain amount of cleaning must be done each night before either room can be used as a meeting or social hall, rental charges will be made. The charges will be as follows: student meetings, $2; student social affairs, $5; kitchenette (if wanted) $1.

The rooms can be used during the following hours: Monday through Thursday—7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday—7 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., for formal dances—8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Arrangements for use of the rooms can be made through Bob Worrick's office, New Library. First result of the opening up of this additional space is that five of the six Maine sororities will be able to meet in Estabrooke Hall.

Member Federal Reserve Bank

Young men and women will always find this banking institution interested and helpful in their business progress. Responsibility is reflected by a checking account, which is also a factor in establishing credit and standing.

The Merrill Trust Company

With twelve offices in Eastern Maine

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The class of 1951, numbering over 1200 strong, completed signing up Wednesday. Two thirds of that number will be taken care of at the Brunswick campus, while the remainder, women and off-campus men, will study at Orono. Early figures indicated that the College of Arts and Sciences would get more than half of the Orono frosh.

Upperclass students began registering Wednesday morning, and will finish Friday.

Tuesday evening all freshman students met with President Arthur A. Hauck and other University officials in an informal get-together in the Memorial Gymnasium. President Hauck introduced the various deans of the colleges, and the deans of men and women.

Student leaders met the class of '51 Wednesday evening in two separate meetings held by the deans of men and women, and campus activities were explained. Thursday President and Mrs. Hauck will be "at home" for the annual freshman reception. Refreshments will be served, and group singing is planned. The reception will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Registration week will be topped off with a rally-dance Friday night, two football games Saturday, and a dance Saturday night.

Greeting both new and returning students are two new men's dormitories, the new class room building in back of Stevens Hall (East Annex), the New Library ready for operation, and a nearly completed mess hall.

Union Fund Drive Gets New Director

William C. Darroch, a graduate of the University of Maine, has been appointed associate director of the University of Maine Union Building Fund, Chairman Raymond H. Fogler announced today.

Darroch will assist Executive Director Charles E. Crossland in the campaign among alumni, faculty, students, and friends to raise $900,000 for a Union Building. The drive is nearing the $600,000 mark.

Mary Whitcomb Heads Soph Eagle Society

Mary Whitcomb was named president of the Sophomore Eagles at the last meeting of that organization in the Spring. Other officers, who will serve the coming year, are: Barbara Richardson, secretary; and Shirley Hughes, treasurer.

Veterans' Pay May Be Late

Those checks may be late.

The Veterans Administration, anticipating an enrollment of 1,325,000 World War II veterans in colleges and universities this fall, advises ex-G.I.'s to be able to meet personal financial obligations for at least the first six weeks of the fall term.

The expected enrollment will set a new record of at least 10 percent over the previous high mark of 1,209,000 last April. In most cases, veterans should receive their first subsistence check early in November, if they enroll properly and if the institution certifies their enrollment to the VA properly.

Alumnus Magazine Has Face Lifted

A new cover design will top the list of several innovations to make their appearance in the first issue of The Maine Alumnus, scheduled to come off the presses early this month. Lowering the name-plate to the bottom of the page, the new cover is simplified and leaves more room for a picture.

Several added pages in this year's editions will make room for more class news, which, according to Editor John Sealey, is the most popular section of the magazine. A page of editorial comment, absent for many years, will also be included.

Copies of The Maine Alumnus, beamed mainly to graduates of the University, are made available free of charge to all fraternities, sororities, and dormitories in order that students may become better acquainted with the activities of Maine alumni.

Nat Diamond To Play For Saturday Dance

Nat Diamond and his orchestra will provide music for Saturday night's big "after the game" stag dance to be held in Memorial Gymnasium.

Sponsored by the American Association of University Women, dancing will last from 8 until 11:30 p.m. Admission is 50 cents tax included.

This marks the 24th year that the Orono branch of the AAUW has sponsored such a dance, with the proceeds going into that organization's student loan fund.

New Comers Are Invited To Join Maine Campus

Newcomers will be welcomed to the staff of The Maine Campus at an "information-education" meeting next Thursday evening at the MCA building at 7:15 p.m. Larry Jenness, Editor, will explain the work of The Campus, and detail the many opportunities open on both the editorial and business staffs.

Regular staff members are expected to contact their department heads or call at the Campus office before Saturday for assignments.

Placement Office Aids Vets' Wives

Veterans' wives will again get top-drawer consideration from the University Placement Bureau in this fall's drive to fit jobs and applicants.

"Over 100 veterans' wives found employment through this office last year," said Director Philip Brockway, "and it is our hope to serve even a greater number this season."

All students and wives who wish to make use of the Placement Bureau in finding part time or full time employment should register early, stated Mr. Brockway. The Placement office is located on the second floor of the New Library.

According to Mr. Brockway, applications are treated on a basis of need, except when a certain job requires specific talents.

Rally-Dance To Set Off Social Whirl

A slam-bang rally and dance with campus mayor Bob Merchant as master of ceremonies will get the local social whirl off to a fast start Friday night in the Memorial Gymnasium at 7 p.m.

President Arthur A. Hauck, Dean Elton E. Wieman, head coach Eck Allen, and members of the coaching staff will be on the platform, with Phil Jones held in readiness to lead singing. President Hauck will welcome the students, and Coach Allen will introduce some of his staff and members of the football squad.

A pick-up band and some of last year's cheerleaders will be on hand to make things lively.

Sponsored by the Skulls and "M" Club, the after-rally dance will feature Jimmy Sprague and his Maine Bears (see page 4). Admission will be 50 cents per person tax included, and dancing will last until 11:30 p.m.

Season Tickets On Sale For Faculty, Vets' Wives

Season passes for faculty and students' wives are now on sale at the office of Faculty Manager of Athletics, Ted Curtis. The price is $4.

This is a reduction from the regular $6.50 price as these passes do not cover admission to home basketball games.

President's Message

It is a pleasure to have this opportunity to welcome you to the University—you who have come for the first time and you who are returning to familiar scenes. You have seen the evidence of our efforts to provide for

We are particularly happy that the new Library is ready for your use.

The contributions of former students, while some were still in college and others were alumni, helped to make possible this beautiful library building. Two additional dormitories for men, long needed, are opening this fall because an interested State Legislature appropriated funds toward their construction. The Federal Government has also had a part in this preparation for your instruction here. Two temporary buildings have been moved to the campus. One provides essential classroom and office space (East Annex, east of Stevens Hall), the other, to be completed later this fall, additional dining facilities. Other efforts, less visible, also play a vital part in providing the educational opportunity for the increased number of students.

All of these contributions have been an expression of deep faith in you and in the future of our country. The measure of the success of all these efforts, however, lies not in the buildings or the size of the faculty, but rather in the meaning of the education you acquire here and in the contribution you make to the community and to the world after your graduation.

—ARTHUR A. HAUCK

Greetings

Howdy, Bub.

Nice meeting you, whether it's for the first time, or just renewing acquaintances after a long summer. Hope Tuesday's rain didn't discourage you. Oldtimers remember that it always rains on important occasions around here—formals, big assemblies, or football games. But everything's good fun, rain or shine.

A word to you newcomers about people running around saying "Hi" to you—don't be alarmed. You see, we've still got a few people around here who should have graduated years ago, and they find it hard to shake that age old Maine tradition which says "Thou shalt speak to all those you meet." That friendly spirit has taken a bit of a beating during these post-war-inflated years (as what part of the campus hasn't?), but you can bet that the Maine "Hello" won't be killed that easy. Try a few "Hi's" yourself and see how they work out.

Things will be a wee bit crowded on the campus this year, not much like 1941. Don't get discouraged—there's room for all and six men for every woman. This corner personally thought that last year with its 3,000 students would be hell-on-wheels, but it turned out to be an enjoyable season. More people this year, more space, more instructors, there ought to be more fun and a little education to boot.

Take it easy, Bub, we'll see you around.

Dear Boss

Take a letter, Miss Jones. It's going to Boss, University of Maine, Orono, Maine. Dear Boss:

As students of the University of Maine, please remember that, this year as ever, you're the boss. You own, edit, and publish The Maine Campus. It's your paper.

You have established that the main purpose of the paper is to print news, to keep the student informed as to what is going on. Along the way, your paper serves as a workshop for some of the students who hope to make journalism a career, it entertains its readers a little, and it represents the opinion of its boss through letters and articles submitted at large. But mainly it prints news.

Now Boss, remember that while you own the paper, you don't have to be a snob. You can roll up your sleeves and work on it, too. There is room for all—writers, cartoonists, business staffers or just hard workers. There will be a meeting of all interested "stockholders" next Thursday evening at the MCA building. Why not show up?

Whether you work with us, Boss, or just read the Campus, we hope you'll be satisfied. Write us a letter now and then, and let us know how we're making out.

Sign that "For the staff of the Maine Campus," Miss Jones, and let's "take ten" at the Bookstore.

Hi !

WHAT TO DO?

What to do? What to do? Father welcomes newcomers, talented or just interested, as long as they are willing to work. The Maine Radio Guild, airing a fifteen minute show per week, provides a practical training ground for future network stars. Guild graduates are numbered among those handling big-time radio spots. See Mrs. Marjorie Williamson.

For the thinkers, there is the Politics Club and the International Relations Club, both of which are discussion groups open to all students. The Political Breakfast Club is by invitation only. The Press Club, another campus-wide affair, brings well known members of the working press to speak before local audiences.

In the out-of-doors field, The Maine Outing Club provides plenty of exercise for the hikers and campers. The Riding Club and the Flying Club should also interest a good many people.

The Maine Masque, with four major theatrical productions a year, catches for the stage struck. Under the direction of Herschel Bricker, the Masque

Hello, Everybody!

Summer's gone—
And we carry on
With weddings, pinnings—
And babies born.

We certainly hated to see this wonderful summer go by but are glad to be back on campus—prying into everybody's business once again, getting your "society news" together each week.

This has really been an eventful vacation for many Maine students. They've been busy here, there, and everywhere—working (?), basking in the sun, swimming, fishing, sailing, and dancing and romancing. Proof of the "romancing" part, at least, is offered here:

Married this summer: Kay Bridges and Bud Grant; Betty Perkins and Don Stebbins; Polly Speirs and Deep Bardsley; Jean Heartz and Roland Babcock; Bea Ross and Monty Higgins; Prudy Speirs and Leon Higgins; Joan Ambrose and Phil Shaw; Martha Rodick and Bill Horner; Jean Archer and Orman Twitchell; Arlene Tankle and Morris Pilot; Pauline Stevens and

Al Clements; Mickey Libby and John Grant; Diane Yost and Charlie Mason; Cynthia Cummings and Bud Williams; Wilma Brown and Whitey Miller; Joan Vermette and Fred Glover; Jean Ritchie and Hokie Adams; Betty Busch and Bob Bagley; Inez MacKinnon and Bill Rogers; Virginia Libby and Robert Purdy; Barbara Potts and Thomas Smith; Lois Bazemore and John Campbell.

Recent engagements are those of: Jose Libby to David Hayes; Hazel Hayman to Ralph Gould; Libby Tufts to Barc Goodrich; Marit Andersen to Bill Wilson; Carol Rice to Dick Keiser; Pauly Parent to Larry Jenness; Gylene Smith to Mert Goodall; Aletha Meade to Benjamin Blackmore.

Pinned: Jane Longfellow to Bill Cullen; Betty Small to Ed Simms; Barbie McAloon to Bill Chesworth.

Note: House Social Chairmen: Please turn in all social news (parties, engagements, weddings, baby announcements, and any other such items of general interest) to Bonnie Andrews, Balentine Hall, before Monday noon of each week.

Thou Shalt Not

In cooperation with the Maine Development Commission, we publish the following "Ten Commandments of Hunting Safety." The commission frankly fears that if hunters go on killing hunters at the same old rate, moose, deer, and bear will take over the state legislature.

Treat every gun with the respect due to a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.

Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.

Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.

Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.

Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.

Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.

Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.

Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Monty Higgins Says:

In the women's magazines this fall are hordes of pictures of gaunt young women giving with the new look, which one and all will wear back to college this fall. I wonder, will the dungarees be lowered four inches also? Just how long will Jane College wear the new look? Probably like always, she will be out of her new long skirts in a day or two and into a saggy, baggy old short skirt and an even droopier sweater. Her hair will look like a neglected dustmop. She may climb back into the new look for some weekend later on.

In the few magazines which could be called men's fashion magazines are glossy plates of young men in such back to college clothes as smartly cut tweed sports jackets, gabardine slacks, soft snap brims, and rubbed briar pipes. I can't make it. I shall look far worse than Jane College. I have shaken the moth balls from my old hunting shirts and my peajacket and have battered my battered briar pipe some more.

Who gets out these magazines anyway?

When will Uncle Sam up the GI sustenance to someplace near skyrocketing prices? Much too often these days a veteran in college lives by the sweat of his frau.

My wife and I are living in an old sea chest, brassbound and cozy. We like it. Anyway, it's not so bad as our friend Eddie who lives in a chicken house—slightly adapted. He wouldn't have it so rough if it weren't for the roosters waking him at dawn, and Eddie doesn't have a class until ten forty-five. And—the farmer says if Eddie doesn't stop disturbing the hens at Ed Junior's two a.m. feeding, out Eddie and family go.

Eddie is thinking of buying a cottage, Lookout-By-The-Sea—now on Frenchman's Bay, and having it moved to Stillwater. It will need insulation, but even Lookout-By-The-Sea is better than get out by the first.

When the snow flies we shall build igloos.

When I was married last June I thought it best to settle right away who would be boss. A family must have a head, a chief, an executive—in short, a boss! So, I said then and every day since, "Darling, you're the boss." That was that.

HERE'S HOW THE 1947 FOOTBALL SCENE will look from a front row seat in the new east side bleachers. With 800 extra students on campus this fall, chances are mighty slim that a vacant spot (upper right) will grace any of the three home games. Seeded sixth in the New England parade by Francis Wallace, Saturday Evening Post expert, the Pale Blue will face Northeastern, Connecticut, and Bowdoin before local partisans. In the picture above, the white-jerseyed bear gridmen are shown facing New Hampshire in a game that proved to be a walk for the wrong side. Despite Wallace, who puts the Wildcats three notches up on Maine this year, it could be a different story.

IF THE 1947-48 indoor track season produces a thriller half as good as the one Elmer Folsom (Me.) and Payson Kenyon (N.E.) are panting about above, you should live so long. Both undefeated in the 1000 yd. run until they met last winter, they produced a ding-dong battle with Folsom forging ahead in the stretch to win. Baseball also can be exciting, as Gerry Poulin demonstrates below with a swan dive into home plate.

Mayor Goff, Alice Fonseca, Elaine Connors, Jo Bouchard, Bonnie Andrews, Margo Stebbins, Paulie Marcous

LIKE MOST SCHOOLS where sex can be found rearing its beautiful head, Maine goads its athletic teams along with helpful, uniformed feminine pulchritude. Last year the six luscious dolls above did the job. (That's a second hand mayor on the end.) This year, who knows?

Directly on the right, four hams from an advanced acting class are getting set for a play to be produced by the Maine Masque. The culprits: Biff Shalek, Peg Morris, Mary Dirks, and Lydia Backer. You'll hear more from the Masque.

Lower right finds Jim Sprague and his Maine Bears exactly as they looked during the many times they furnished the tunes for last season's weekend dances. Jim, standing by the microphone, will be back again this fall with many of the same tooters who knew all about matches and the two little dogs in the ditch. That's Bob Slosser taking the sax solo.

Down below, your eye will catch Bonnie Andrews, president of the Women's Athletic Association, and Donna Welts, president of the Women's Student Government Association.

Coming Up!

Pictured on these two pages are scenes and faces familiar to students who hung around the Maine ivy last year. Many of the faces will be in the limelight for another season, while the scenes shown here will be duplicated often for an ever changing and appreciative audience. All pictures are by Ted Newhall.

HERE WE HAVE ROYALTY. Quietly day-dreaming beside a photo of Perry Como is carnival queen Paulie Marcous. Queen Paulie was chosen by her subjects during last year's winter carnival, and will rule supreme until snowtime rolls around again. You can keep up with Paulie in the fashion column of the Pine Needle.

THE LUSCIOUS BLONDE above can make you forget all about being a civilian in no time flat. She's Jan Scales, Honorary Lt. Col. for Maine's ROTC Unit. Colonel Scales, true to the eagle, is a bear on military discipline, especially officer-EM relations. Find out for yourself, dogface, it's no hardship at all.

MARY-GRACE TIBBETTS

JIM DONOVAN

ALL MACHINERY must be kept running smoothly by wheels, and on the left are four of Maine's most important.

Mary-Grace Tibbetts, the girl with the smile, is currently boss lady in the Panhellenic Council, an organization which looks after the affairs of the five Maine sororities. Panhell, as it is commonly called, is made up of representatives from each of the sororities.

Jim Donovan, after a few years in service, made his comeback as a junior last year heading the student section of the Union Building drive. After doing a bang-up job in helping put the drive over the top, Jim was elected president of this year's General Student Senate. The General Senate is the highest student governing body on campus.

Down below, nattily decked out in top hat and tails, is a man who can't be overlooked, our own Mayor Bob Merchant. Mayor Merchant won the hearts and votes of the student body after a hectic campaign last fall in which he distinguished himself as an expert roller-skater. If custom runs true to form, the mayor will be much on display this fall.

Last but far from least in the panel of four sits Bryce Lambert, Editor in Chief of last year's Prism, and now serving as President of the MCA.

In the lower left hand corner where they might be overlooked are three of the zaniest screwballs ever to escape from Bangor's house on the hill. Known as the Sunshine Boys (alias the Cheer-oat crooners) they are, from left to right, Denny Evans, Don Thomas and Biff Shalek. Known from coast to coast as professional entertainers, they get along best in Orono, where tomato throwers have notoriously poor aim.

The two jokers at the bottom of this column will be responsible for The Maine Campus during the coming year. Larry Jenness, left, is editor, and Don Spiller holds the business manager's job. They will take care of all complaints, suggestions, and contributions

THE TWO FUGITIVES from a turkish bath shown in towelng above are smiling about their first prize for the best costumes at last spring's Penny Carnival. All wrapped up in themselves, they are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Franz. Down below is a sight that will warm the hearts (?) of many who have been or will be pledges to the 14 Maine fraternities. That time, gloriously called Hell Week, is just around the corner.

Dr. James Yen Speaks Here

Dr. Y. C. James Yen, founder and general director of the Chinese Mass Education Movement, will be guest speaker at the University's first general assembly to be held next Thursday, October 9, at 9:45 a.m.

Dr. Yen, whose son, William, is now a student at Maine, is a graduate of Yale University with a master's degree from Princeton. Dr. Yen gave the 1944 Maine commencement address and was at that time awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

Presiding at the assembly will be President Arthur A. Hauck.

In a change from general procedure, the third period will be set aside for assemblies, with no shortening of classes.

Improved Bookstore Finds More Space For GI Textbooks

Forty-five additional book stacks, enlarging the Bookstore capacity to about 45,000 books, were made available when the inside of the Bookstore building was renovated late this summer.

"All of the extra space which has been provided through remodeling will be used for the more efficient handling of books and supplies," Harold L. Bruce, Bookstore manager, states. "Later, if we find we can make space available, we may enlarge our facilities for fountain service and lunches."

The Bookstore was incorporated in 1911. Previously it had been operated as part of the post office and telephone exchange at the University.

HERE'S THAT FOLEY GIRL AGAIN, this time with double trouble in the form of Flash Gordon and George Marsanskis. Two number 38's are enough to confuse most anyone, but K.O. doesn't seem to mind at all.

54 Proctors, 5 Residents Begin Duties

Five senior residents and 54 proctors took up their duties of keeping watch over Maine's largest enrollment early this week with the arrival of some students on Monday.

Senior residents include Gloria McGinley (Elms), Marit Andersen and Pauline Marcous (East Hall), and Sylvia Snow and Guylene Smith (West Hall). Senior residents serve in freshman dormitories only.

In the men's division, head proctors number Donald Spiller (North Dorms), Will Anderson (Oak and Hannibal), and Harrison Crowell (New Dorms).

The complete list of proctors and their residence is as follows: North Dorms—Head Proctor Donald Spiller, 11-R; Asst. Head Proctor Edward Cowles, 11-R; Norman Spear, 1-11; Clarence Bean, 2-10; Mortimer Williams, 3-11; Thomas Coughlin, 6-10; Donald Peterson, 5-11; William Ramsay, 4-10; Paul Mayberry, 7-11.

points the way for the socially conscious student. With work programs running from the religious through social to entertainment, the MCA is one of the most active organizations on campus.

Again in the religious line can be found the Newman Club, for Catholics; the Hillel organization, for those of Jewish faith; the Canterbury Club is an Episcopalian group—The Wesley Foundation, a discussion group.

Just about every department fosters a club with special academic interests. The list is practically unending: Mathematics Club, various language clubs, Aggie Club, Radio Society, Balance & Beaker, the Physics Club, Education Club, several chapters of national technological societies, and more.

Back to the discussion class, the Women's Forum specializes in informal debates for women only, sometimes bringing in good speakers. The Maine Debating society stages an intramural debating tournament each fall, and debates intercollegiately.

For those with special talents there is the Chess Club, the Stamp Club, the Photo Club, and the Bridge Club. Getting back of the original treatise

Bear Facts

BY BILL BRENNAN

October, 1947, has finally rolled around, bringing with it the start of another year of school, cold weather, football games, and just about everything but Francis "Murph" Linehan, sports editor of the Campus and present creator of the Bear Facts column.

Murph Linehan is familiar to most of the students on the campus, through his activities last year on this little product of the pulp industry, and also through his activities on the Maine football squad of 1945. That year, Murph was a starting halfback on the varsity football squad, winning his letter.

The Bears have a good squad lined up this season, and we hope a good season ahead of them. A veteran of last year is available for every spot, with some veteran reserves. Others who are newcomers to the Orono campus have given all indications of being great help to Eck Allen and his coaching staff. Tops among the newcomers are Reggie Lord, an outstanding ball player on Bob Raymond's Annex squad last year; Randy Adams, another Annex man; Freeman Phillips, also from the Annex; and Lou Oddi.

Let's take a look at the probable starting lineup against Northeastern for this afternoon. At left end is Bob Emerson of Bangor, a letterman in both football and track.

Left tackle is big George Marsanskis, All-Maine tackle last year. Also a letterman in both football and track, Marsanskis was a starter last year, and was captain of the Maine squad in the opening game this season. Jack Zollo will probably be holding down the left guard spot. A letterman, Jack won the distinctive honor last year of being selected for Little All-American honors.

Back at the starting center spot this season is Sherwood "Flash" Gordon, also a letterman in baseball as well as football.

On the other side of the center is Phil Murdock, who is probably the outstanding lineman so far this season; Norm Benson, a little tackle weighing only 226 and a starter last year as was Murdock; and at end Alan Wing, a six foot end with sticky fingers.

The backfield will have Hal Parady at quarterback position. Parady, a letterman, proved very satisfactory last weekend against R. I. running the team well. Rabbit Dombkowski, a speedy, shifty letterman, will have his regular spot at right half with Lord playing beside him at left half.

Either Steve MacPherson, a letterman, or Bus Sproul, a newcomer, will be at fullback. MacPherson is a good runner, while Sproul is a consistent gainer of ground by bucking the line.

Unfortunately space prohibits any further run-through of the Maine squad. So we'll grab a few more inches and give our predictions of this weekend's games, a very foolish thing to do, I fear.

Maine over Northeastern, 21-12; Bates over Trinity, 14-7; U. of Mass. over Bowdoin, 12-7; and U. of Vermont over Colby, 20-7.

There they are, and if they're not right blame it on my crystal ball. Early in the morning the darn thing isn't too clear.

Maine Bear To Tackle Northeastern

With a 33-13 triumph over Rhode Island to their credit, Coach Eck Allen and the University of Maine grid machine will open the 1947 home football season Saturday at Alumni Field by playing host to the Northeastern Huskies. The game will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Accommodations for approximately 7,500 spectators have been made, and a large turnout is expected. Both the band and a squad of cheerleaders are expected to participate in the festivities.

Northeastern will bring to Orono a team that was treated roughly last Saturday by Springfield College (noted for physical education) to the tune of 41-6.

Coach Allen has spent the bulk of this week in smoothing up blocking and tackling assignments, with plenty of work in the kicking department.

J.V. Grid Team To Open Saturday

The Junior Varsity football squad opens its season Saturday morning at 9:00 a.m. against an untried Bridgton Academy squad. Almost 40 men strong, the Jayvees look to be in good shape, having been practicing now for several weeks.

After the Bridgton game, and a tilt with Ricker prep school on October 11th, the J.V.s will be split into two squads, one of freshmen to be coached by Sam Sezak, the other a regular junior varsity group coached by Bill Kenyon and Phil Jones. No schedule has been released yet for the freshman squad.

Harrier Squad Practicing Now

With the first cross country meet scheduled for October 18 against Bates College, Coach Chester Jenkins has eight veteran harriers working out in preparation for a tough schedule.

The group, all of whom have been on previous Jenkins-coached track or cross country squads, includes Doug Morton, Sam Silsby, Melvin Lane, Gene O'Brien, John Wallace, Bob Hanson, and Ken Vennett.

Expected to report this week are Elmer Folsom and Ronald Everett.

Dancing, Tumbling Clubs To Meet During Week

The Women's Athletic Association and its sponsored activities will begin operation with the first week of classes, according to announcements from the various club presidents.

The Square Dance Club will meet Tuesday. President Evelyn Ellsworth has invited all interested men and women to attend. Morna Kimball, president of Modern Dance Club, has set Wednesday evening for the first meeting of that organization. Membership is by invitation only.

Again, all interested students have been invited to attend the first meeting of the Tumbling Club Thursday. All meetings take place in the Women's gym at 7 p.m.

Hard Driving Pale Blue Dumps Rhody In Upset For Season's Opener Away

BY BILL BRENNAN

A hard driving and hard running University of Maine football squad upset the slightly favored Rhode Island Rams last Saturday afternoon at Meade Field, Kingston, Rhode Island.

Henry "Rabbit" Dombkowski, with plenty of power and speed packed into his 162 pound chassis, tied with Reggie Lord, a newcomer to the Maine squad, for scoring honors.

Maine opened up the attack early in the first quarter when Lord, back to punt, couldn't handle the pass from center. Picking up the loose ball, with Rhode Island men all around him, Lord raced through center and up to the R. I. 33, giving Maine a first down and surprising both the Rams squad and the confident students that packed Meade Field. Dombkowski picked up three yards, a pass to the Rabbit from Parady missed, and then a long pass to Alan Wing in the coffin corner connected with Wing going into the end zone standing up. Dombkowski made the point, making the score 7-0.

Filled with confidence, the Bears made their own breaks from there on. Vin Montecalvo was back to kick for the host squad, but fumbled as the Maine line rushed. He brought the ball up to the 17, but not enough for a first down, and it was Maine's ball just 17 yards from another touchdown as the first period ended.

Another pass by Parady to Randy Adams was good for 11 yards and quarterback sneak and took the ball across the final stripe. Again Dombkowski made the extra point.

Finally the Rhode Island students got their share of the afternoon's excitement as the Rams moved into Maine territory. A Becker to Vento pass, the combination which was so instrumental in defeating the Bears last year, clicked for the first Rhody score.

In the third period, leading 14-6, the Bears began a long drive down the field and in 11 plays had gone to the Rams' four. Going through a big hole opened by the line, Lord put Maine in a safe position as the Bears went ahead by 19 points.

Little Rhody came back in the last quarter with another Becker pass, this time to Dave Macauley, who was clear, for the only other host touchdown.

Still with a substantial lead, the Bears scored again by a 40 yard pass from Parady to Dombkowski, and then, as the afternoon drew to a close, picked up another six points when Lord intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown.

"RABBIT" DOMBKOWSKI

Sproul and Dombkowski plunged through to the one yard line. With the Rams set to stop either Sproul or Dombkowski, Parady called for a
