Six Panels On Display In Munich

A display prepared by Maine journalism students will be on view in Munich at a joint American-German press exhibition which opens April 24.

Sponsored by the Office of Military Government for Bavaria and the Bavarian Newspaper Publishers, the exhibition is designed to give Germans a better understanding of the workings of the free press in the United States.

The University of Maine show consists of six panels illustrating the theme of "The University and the Press." It was prepared with the cooperation of the art department, which aided in the layout work, and of the department of modern languages, which provided German translations of explanatory texts.

Part Press Plays

Nameplates of Maine newspapers figure prominently in the display, which is intended to demonstrate the part that the press plays in the life of this state and the life of the University. Photographic and printed materials are combined to explain how news flows to and from the University. Attention is paid to the University's own agricultural and technical publications, to the student newspaper, to the program of instruction in journalism, and to the part played by student reporters in covering campus news for the newspapers of Maine.

Blue and red dots on a large map of Maine are used to show the locations of the state's daily, weekly, and other newspapers.

Press Club

At the suggestion of an official of the Army's Civil Affairs Division, a part of the exhibit is devoted to the University of Maine Press Club's campaign to publicize the present need of German editors for CARE packages from the United States.

Most of the exhibits at the Munich show will be prepared by newspapers, press associations, professional organizations, and manufacturers of printing and publishing equipment.

According to word from Washington this week, the University of Maine will be one of two American universities represented in the displays. The Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University, is preparing an exhibit on the life and work of the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World and founder of the journalism school at Columbia.

Bowdoin Men Arrive For Public Debates

Maine debaters will meet Bowdoin College in two debates here on campus Friday evening. The debates are open to the public.

Maine will be represented by Doris Vollmer and Margaret Mollison on the affirmative and Bob Moran and Francis Bean on the negative.

The debates will be held in the Lewis Oakes room of the library and 6 South Stevens Hall. Both are scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The question for discussion is Resolved: That a Federal World Government be established.

Appointments To Be Made By Committee

The staff of the Maine Campus recently accepted a recommendation from the Student Publications committee which authorizes that organization to elect the editor and business manager of the Campus, beginning this spring.

Under the new system, after the two top positions have been filled by action of the committee, the editor and business manager will appoint all other staff members.

This will replace the old plan under which the top editorial positions were filled through elections held by the entire Campus staff.

The new system was accepted after considering a number of recommendations made by the Men's Student Senate. A Senate committee, headed by Elmer Smallwood, has been working with the Student Publications committee in trying to find means of expanding and improving the Campus's news coverage.

The committee went on record as believing that the editor of the Campus and his assistants should be free at all times to decide what the paper shall advocate editorially and what it shall oppose, subject only to its obligation to be accurate and fair, and to respect the law of libel and the community's canons of good taste.

The editor and business manager become ex-officio members of the Publications committee under the new plan.

It was decided that the committee would accept applications for the two positions from any eligible students.

Hearings for this year's applicants were held yesterday afternoon in 208 East Annex. The committee will discuss the applications and announce their selections soon.

May 12 Will Be 14th Annual Maine Day

May 12 marks the University's 14th annual Maine Day. This co-operative function, instituted by President Hauck, is a yearly effort by students and faculty members to clean up, and generally improve the appearance of the campus.

In the past 14 years much important work has been accomplished in this combination of field-and-labor-day. Last year several trees were planted, the North Dorms were graded, and millions of cigarette butts were sniped from around the entrances of all the buildings.

This year work will get under way at 8:20 a.m. and be continued through 11:30. Students may choose from 25 projects which include sweeping the roads, raking leaves, and working in the MCA. Some of the more attractive jobs will include work at the Elms, women's gymnasium, repair of Estabrooke tennis court, and development of the picnic grounds at Stillwater.

Project cards will be distributed this week end by the Maine Day committee. These cards are divided into two parts. On the left side, the student will list his first three choices of projects, or, if he has no preference, he may so indicate, and will be assigned to a project. Included on the card is a space for the student's name and address. The right side of the card consists of an assignment slip which is filled out by the committee and returned to the student informing him which project he is assigned to. These cards will give all students an opportunity to register for clean-up work on Maine Day, and will be sent to all fraternity presidents and dormitory counselors.

The projects committee, under the direction of Marit Andersen and Bill Creighton, includes the following people: Florence Bruce, Jean Cunningham, Phyllis Tebbets, Edward Happ, John Schmidlin, and Robert Beals.

Hartgen's Art Displayed Here

An exhibition of 20 watercolors by Professor Vincent A. Hartgen, head of the art department, will be on view in the Louis Oakes room of the library, April 6-24. The pictures are being shown on the campus after a six-months' tour which has included State Teachers College, Kutztown, Pa.; Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Middlebury College; and Hingham, Minn. The paintings will later be shown at Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Professor Hartgen is becoming known for his impressions of Maine, although he has been painting here only since his arrival at the University in the fall of 1946. He says Maine offers a fine opportunity for the artist, especially the artist interested in the changing landscape for which Maine is famous. His exhibition will show scenes throughout Maine in the summer and fall, with special emphasis on the coastal areas.

Good Will Drive Opens In May

The University of Maine Good Will Chest will sponsor a charity drive during the week of May 3-8. The Good Will Committee has set a goal of $7500 for the drive.

Allocation of these funds will be: 40% to the World Student Service Fund, 10% to CARE, 10% to Save The Children, 20% to miscellaneous organizations, and 20% to an emergency fund.

Order Of Temple Plans Program On Lodge Exams

Earl Ingalls will present a program on Masonic Lodge examinations at the next meeting of the Order of the Temple, to be held Thursday, April 22, at 7 p.m., in the Orono Lodge Hall.

The program will be designed to assist members in "working their way" into strange lodges.

Several candidates will be initiated at this meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Money in the WSSF is used to provide books and equipment for college and university students in foreign countries. Many such students have been aided in the past, and have been able to complete their education through these donations.

Save the Children is an organization which supports foreign schools for younger children. The University of Maine has been supporting a girls' school in France for several years through this group.

The CARE packages will be assigned especially to students in the areas to which they are sent.

Included in the miscellaneous organizations receiving the funds will be the Red Cross, Salvation Army, and various health organizations such as the Cancer and Heart Foundations.

A permanent emergency relief fund will be established to cover special cases such as the Bar Harbor fire. This reserve fund will eliminate the necessity for special drives during the school year. The Good Will Chest, as it is now organized, will become a permanent institution at the University and its annual relief drive will be the only such drive to be held in the future.

Goodbye

This is the time of year Campus editors say goodbye. We crawl out of the ivory tower, stop cutting classes, and try to act like normal, happy students again.

Next week at this time another unhappy soul will be sitting in the hot seat marked "Editor in Chief—Don't Disturb." But don't think we won't envy him.

Every minute of this past year has been packed full of pleasure and worth while experiences. There have been a few trying times, but what life situation doesn't have its sore spots now and then.

In bowing into the background, we should like to express appreciation for the fine cooperation shown by the staff, and in particular to Don Spiller, Martha Leeman, and Cliff Whitten. These three people, by working many extra hours themselves, have lightened the editor's personal load considerably.

As far as the Campus as an institution is concerned, Elmer Smallwood and his Men's Senate committee deserve praise for the many suggestions they offered and for the motivating force they provided in our recent renovating spree.

As editor, it has been a pleasure and a privilege to work with Jim Donovan, president of the General Senate. Donovan has done a tremendous job in pushing the Senate towards its rightful position of importance on Campus.

Speaking of the Senate brings up Bill Brennan. Bill has dammed the Senate, rightly or wrongly, many times. First let us remember that Bill speaks only as one person, and not as the voice of the paper. However, an argument has it that sometimes his writings have dampened the spirit of the Senate, hurting more than helping. Our comment is that people who will be daunted by criticism had better not try to do anything for the rest of their lives.

To the new editor go our sincere wishes for good luck and happy publishing.

The New Look

SPRING SUGGESTIONS... let your accessories be a part of, not an afterthought, to your costume.... Scarves, one color, or in two-color, geometric designs continue in high favor.... The new stockings are colored—a sheer shadow of a shade, perhaps, but a definite color. For example navy blue, chocolate, black or pastels for special occasions.... Flowers and the softer clothes complement one another. Fresh or artificial ones look equally attractive pinned on a pocket or belt.

The best handbag shapes this spring are neat and flat, the sizes, small to medium. Taffeta and faille are back again for late-in-the-day use.... We notice a dress-up note for those casual cottons in the shape of a narrow gold kid belt. Slip on a pair of matching sandals for that finishing touch.... Lipsticks and nailpolish take on a new look in pretty pink shades.

Did I bring any books home this vacation?

SCOTCH AND SODA

By BIFF SHALEK

There are too many sour pussers on campus. The Maine Hi seems to have been strangled. What gives? The old Maine spark is gone. Things aren't that bad. True, some of these professors have become drunk with their power the way they assign outside readings, but that shouldn't get you down. Look at the situation philosophically. Shoot 'em. Pat's isn't even the same. Saturday night in the old days you were sure to find two or three ATO boys salting their beers and having a real boisterous time. Old Town is dead too. Never hear any one talk of Indian Island any more. Things have changed.

So as I take the cap off of my Pepsi Cola and watch the foam creep up in the glass, I meditate.

The true Maine spirit seems to have taken an awful licking. You go into the bookstore nowadays and all you see are long faces. Everybody's got troubles. They order a cupacoffee and sit there and moan. If it isn't this it's that and the other thing. Vacation? Heck they need a Vacation to get over their Vacation.

So what's the solution? Caster Oil? No! What Maine men need are more devil may care Maine Women who will stand by their sides when they swipe the clapper and cheer them on to bigger and better endeavors.

WHAT ABOUT SKIING?

Dear Editor:

Several persons have asked me if the Outing Club could do anything to have skiing made a major sport at the University. Of course, the matter is entirely out of the hands of the M.O.C., but the organization is interested in the problem for the Outing Club is the father of competitive athletics here at the University.

In view of this, it seems that this organization should be entitled to express an opinion on the present matter. We believe that skiing should certainly be classified as a major sport, and offer the following facts to support this belief.

1. More students are interested in skiing than in any other sport. We know that an average of 250 students used the ski slope across the river every weekend, and that many more traveled to other nearby slopes when our own became too crowded.

2. The University ski team has more than earned their right to a major letter. In 1947 they placed second in the Intercollegiate Ski Union meet, bowing only to Middlebury by six points. Dartmouth College and McGill University, both well known for their ski teams, trailed Maine by several points.

In 1948 at the Lake Placid Ski Tournament, Maine placed third although some of the individual scores were higher than some set by the best collegiate skiers in the country.

3. Skiing is a spectator sport. Last February McGill University voted 35,000 dollars to finance the two days of festivity at the winter carnival and regained the money through spectators' fees. Dartmouth College has taken in almost twice this amount at some of their carnivals in recent years.

4. Such a move would not increase the cost of the skiing program to any extent and would serve only to increase the interest in this grand sport and give the Maine team a higher goal to shoot at.

We hope that the committee now investigating the problem will take the above facts into consideration when they make their decision on this matter.

I'm Usually Wrong But

By BILL BRENNAN

Despite popular opinion, extensive research has uncovered that vacations are no longer periods when students toss aside their books, forget everything they've learned in classes, and blissfully wander about without a care.

No, vacations have become a period when students do more studying than normally, recall everything they have accumulated from classes, and worry about the multitude of examinations which await them upon their return to school.

It's unfortunate, but true, that many of the professors and instructors now expect their students to spend a large part of their vacation studying for exams, all of which come during the first week back to classes.

That's the way it is, and experience has taught us that there is little can be done about it as far as protesting is concerned. One hardly soul suggested that no one prepare the required work, but there's always one person who is eager, nulling the effect of such a round-about protest.

It is this column's duty to try and do something about the situation. Perhaps we've been defeated too many times on other issues, or perhaps we're just beginning to realize the futility of it all, but we don't have the energy to get really excited and demand changes, etc., etc.

If one can't attack, one must try to pacify, so just for this week we take the role of "The Great Pacifier."

Contrary to many thoughts, teachers are humans, with all the shortcomings of humans. It is a good bet to wager that many of them don't like work any better than we do. It is even possible that teachers like to spend their vacations just messing around. And if these assumptions are correct, then we know why we have tests right after vacation.

Picture, if you can, the poor instructor coming back from vacation. He hasn't prepared any lectures or class exercises, just as we haven't prepared any assignments. He doesn't want to get back into the grind of teaching, just as we don't want to again begin the work of studying.

What does he do? Simple. He tosses a test at his class so that he will have time to form his lectures.

That's the only possible reason why we have so many exams following vacations. So please bear with your instructors. They feel the same way we do about coming back to school, but they're in a much better position to make the transition from leisure to work easier and less painful.

Monty Higgins Says:

My heels are so run down I look like a detective. That is, all that many detectives ever run down are their heels. Anyway, a few short years ago a pair of new rubber heels could be had for some two bits or at most thirty-five cents. Nowadays, after retreading your heels the cobbler shifts the shoe nails in his mouth around and snarls through them, "Eighty cents, Bub!" Gad, before long heels will be expensive as steak.

Which brings to mind that recent steak has been so tough I am sure cattlemen got their shipments to cobblers and butchers mixed.

Was I surprised when a professor friend jumped at the chance for a refill from my tobacco pouch. I learned he had been smoking a mixture of dried, ground seaweed and aged sawdust. I only had Rough Cut in my smudge pot.

Things are rough when profs have to smoke cornsilks and such. I know that most married GI's in college live in poverty like on Tobacco Road, but I didn't realize the profs had an even lower standard. What is the University doing with all the cash Uncle Sam pays (out-of-state tuition rates, too) to educate his nephews? Building dorms, I know. But why don't the profs demand more cash? Something oughta be done.

Now, I'm not proposing we put Imported Aromatic in the prof's pipe, but maybe we can work up to Standard Virginia.

Editor's Notes

The annual Campus Banquet will be held Wednesday, April 28, 6 p.m., at Spruces Log Lodge. This is one week later than the original date. All staff members wishing to go should contact the editor, unless they have already done so. Shingles and keys will be awarded at that time. The banquet is free.

Show French Film Here Wednesday

Two showings of the French Film, "Un Carnet de Bal," will be sponsored Wednesday, April 21, by the French Club. The movie has French dialogue.

The afternoon performance will be given at 4 in the Little Theatre, and in the evening at 7:30 in the Oakes Room of the library. Admission will be 25 cents.

The story is based on the refinding of a dance program from a ball attended twenty years ago. With strains of comedy and tragedy, the movie shows what has become of the various dance partners across the years.

There will be a meeting of Ocummo, the off-campus men's organization, on Monday, April 19, at 7:30 in Carnegie Hall Lounge. All off-campus men are invited. Plus the regular business, a softball team will be formed and all interested men should attend.

Panhel Dance Features Prexies

Presidents of the six sororities and of Panhellenic Council will be announced at the annual Panhellenic Ball to be held May 7.

Theme for the dance will be Stardust, and decorations will be in blue and white. Each sorority will have a booth for its patronesses and alumnae and there will be a booth for the chaperons. These will be decorated with sorority banners as well.

Lloyd Rafnell's orchestra will play for the dance which will be strictly formal. No corsages will be worn as the presidents will be presented with flowers.

Dorothy Ansell is chairman of the dance committee. Others working with her are Alice Raymond, Val Este, Barbara Hines, Pat Woodward, Lorraine Ward, and Sally Weeks.

Diamond is the birthstone for April.

Fifty dollars in prizes will be awarded the three winners, with all students eligible. Speeches, from seven to ten minutes in length, may be on any theme the contest committee approves. They must be delivered extemporaneously, and excessive use of notes will be condemned.

Contestants will be judged on the following points: choice of appropriate subject, development of theme, knowledge of subject, organization of speech, correct use of English, poise on platform, quality and use of voice, direct manner of speaking, and ability to win and hold an audience.

Maine Debaters End NE Tour

Maine teams won five out of 13 contest debates at two top New England tournaments over the past vacation.

At the MIT invitation tourney April 2 and 3, four Maine coeds were one debate off the winning pace as they split eight decisions.

June Swanton and Margaret Gorham, affirmative, defeated MIT and Worcester Poly Tech. Kay Kennedy and Pauline Parent, negative, defeated Boston University and Rhode Island State.

The MIT tournament was won by Williams College with a record of five and three.

Varsity teams from 25 New England, New York, and Pennsylvania colleges were on hand for the regional tourney at Middletown, Conn., April 9 and 10. Six winners were picked for the national tourney at West Point.

Leon Gray and Larry Jenness, debating both sides of the question for Maine, went down before Penn State, Holy Cross, and Dickenson, winning over Swarthmore.

Workshop

A panhellenic workshop will be held May 26 on the subject of attitudes. Its purpose will be to form codes to raise the standards of sorority women on campus.

A general meeting will be held first at which two visiting officers will speak. These will be Nancy Beasley of AOPi and the province director of Delta Zeta.

Panel discussions will follow and will be led by students. Topics of these will be announced next week.

Betty Baker is in charge of the workshop. Also on her committee are Mary Ann Dineen, Carol Smith, Nancy Carter, and Elaine Craig.

This is the second panhellenic meeting which has been held this year. Last fall Professor Wayne Jordan spoke to the group on his experiences in Germany.

Vets Hit Dean's List

Nearly 70 per cent of the students named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at the University of Maine are veterans. Of the 843 students named to the Dean's List, 747 are studying at the Orono campus and 96 at the Brunswick campus. Exactly 523 veterans were on the scholastic honor roll at Orono and 50 at Brunswick.

Bear Facts

By MURPH LINEHAN

Well, good people, this is the last time that the above byline will appear . . . yes, this is our swan song. This writer considers it a privilege to have been able to voice his opinion and views in the Bear Facts column. Perhaps we've tread on toes, if so, our sincere apologies . . . maybe we've made you smile a little, we hope so. Most of all, our underlying purpose was to present the news . . . the side-lights as well as the obvious. In this latter respect you are the judge of our success.

April Fool!

Last issue (green, like the racing form), evidently some readers did not notice the last paragraph of the editorial . . . that one explaining that Bear Facts was written in jest, for several students accused the author personally of having loose screws above. We assure all and sundry that the subject matter was completely devoid of truth . . . should such a story ever develop, it would never suffer the anonymity of an inside page. It is also hoped that the resultant slander and libel suits are dropped.

To the Next Sports Editor . . .

May the gods of journalism smile upon you, sir, and may the god of mechanism keep the linotype machines in good order when presstime rolls around. Seriously, pal, it is our wish that you derive as much satisfaction from writing for the Campus as we did. It is also our hope that you surround yourself with a group of sports-writers with as much talent as this year's bunch. Here we hand out plaudits aplenty to a swell gang; to Bob Winship, Jerry Rogovin, Al Moulton, Ivan Crouse, Ed Baylis, Ken LaBarge, Hal Jack, and Helen Buzzell . . . thank for your cooperation, and good luck in all of your endeavors.

To the Administration

This week's column shall bring to a screeching halt all verbal battles between us . . . at least until the next sports staff takes over. However, giving credit where credit is due, is in order . . . as per the Administration's plans for an improved U of M athletic plant. A word of caution, though . . . since intramural sports are definitely on the upswing, all possible action must be taken to expedite this program. A good reason for any disinterest that may occur is the infrequency of contests. Specifically, softball games last spring did not enjoy the popularity of basketball, because of the lack of facilities. That do-or-die schedule wasn't in accordance with the regular intramural program. In the words of a great "humorist," "Let's get this show on the road!"

Our Final Spiel

Maine's success in athletics was never as marked as this year. Perhaps the tremendous increase in school spirit is the reason . . . maybe it has been the remarkable sense of cooperation achieved between the coaches and players. Whatever the cause, it has paid dividends in school prestige. Who knows, perhaps someday Maine will go big time in college athletics, and if it does happen those of us now at Maine will be able to look back and say to ourselves, "I can remember when it all started."

Maine Net Men Complete Southern Trip

VETERAN MENTORS Bill Kenyon, baseball, and Chester Jenkins, track.

Maine Wins One Match, Drops To Navy

The Varsity Tennis team completed its first pre-season southern trip last week. Seven players and Coach Small left Orono Sunday, April 4, and returned Saturday, April 10.

The men who made the trip were Fred Hermann, Robert Thoits, Laurence Van Peurse, Robert Macdonald, Owen Southard, Harry Allen, and Frank Potenzo.

Outstanding during the trip was Owen Southard, ranking fifth, who won five out of six matches played, dropping only his doubles match with Navy. Van Peurse, ranking third, made an excellent showing, winning four out of his six matches. Bob Thoits, ranking second, won two and dropped four.

Team scores are as follows: At Annapolis, April 6: Navy 8-Maine 1. At Ashland, Va., April 7: Maine 7-Randolph-Macon 2. At Lexington, Va., April 8: Washington & Lee 6-Maine 3.

Warm, rainy weather was encountered during the trip, and all the matches had to be played on asphalt or Har-Tru courts. The members of the team were impressed by the cordial reception received at the three southern colleges.

Coach Small welcomed the opportunity of working off the early season blisters and stiff muscles in preparation for the New England series which begins next week. He said the competition was as fast as any likely to be encountered in New England, as Washington and Lee is coached by Fred Perry, former World's Champion; Navy, by "Art" Hendricks who held number eight National Ranking in 1941; and Randolph-Macon, by Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, former Wightman Cup player.

Golf Team Has Powerful Squad

Thirty-four candidates for the 1948 University of Maine Golf team greeted Charlie Emery Friday afternoon at his first meeting of the season. With five out of six lettermen back from last year's squad, the Maine golf squad coached by Charlie Emery may be expected to field a strong team to better last season's record of 3 wins and 3 losses in match play.

Lettermen back from last year's squad are: Eugene McNabb, Dick Smith, Warren Wilson, Wendell Wilson and Phil Bickford. All these men are capable of shooting in the "seventies," and under the guiding hand of Coach Emery should be able to better their performance this year.

Of the nine numeral winners of last season's junior varsity, five are out for the squad again this year. They are Bob Dagdigian, Jim Firmin, Joe Hammond, O. B. MacKellar, and Ronnie Stewart.

With the first match of the season with Boston University at Boston on April 23, Coach Emery plans to have the squad out as soon as possible.

Those reporting at the first meeting were: 1948: Philip Cabot, Elmo Hall, Richard Smith, Wendell Wilson.

1949: Philip Bickford, Robert Cool, Owen MacKellar, Bill Mann, Richard Smith, Donald Spear, Ronald Stewart, Roger Thurrell.

1951: James Dineen.

Kenyon Is Still Undecided On Lineup For Opening Game

Bill Kenyon's University of Maine baseball nine will officially get the 1948 diamond season underway Saturday when they meet Ducky Pond's Bates Bobcats here at Orono. With the team still forced to hold their practices in the field house because of the soggy field, the opening day starting lineup for the Bears still remains who's on first and what's on second as far as Bill Kenyon is concerned. The one thing certain about Saturday's exhibition contest and the one Monday with Colby is that everyone is going to get a chance to play as Kenyon wants to get some idea as to who can hit and who can field before the team hits the road on the trip through Southern New England.

Kenyon did venture a little information on his probable pitchers for Saturday's game as he announced that veterans Dick Preble and Will Braley probably wouldn't be used because he wants to get a look at some of the new men on his hurling staff. Ernie Martikainen, Joe Archibald, and Fred Thurlow are the likely choices to work the Colby game with Monday's starters still in doubt.

Kenyon believes that the teams to beat this year for the State Series title will be Colby and Bowdoin. Bowdoin has picked up several new men including no-hit no-run Vern Johnson of last year's Annex team. With these new players and a strong group of veterans back, Danny Macfadden should be able to field a strong team. Colby has many veterans back and should be strong.

In comparing the current Maine squad with last year's team, Kenyon believes that the chances of improving last season's disappointing showing this spring are good. The team should have better reserves and more slugging power with the addition of new players, and there is also the fact that last year's lettermen now have a year of experience behind them and shouldn't make the same mistakes they made in the past.

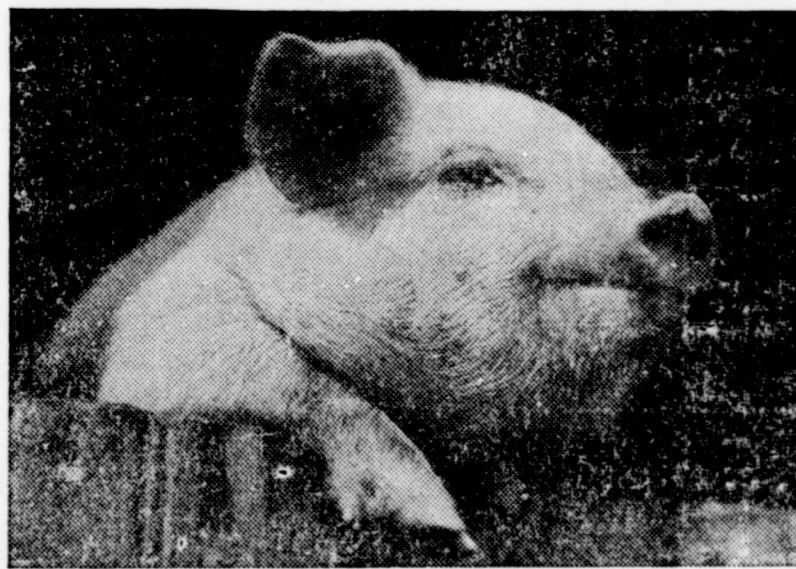

If the weather holds and the Bates and Colby games are played at Orono this weekend, Kenyon revealed the rather startling information that it will be the second time in his twenty-five years at the University that the annual exhibition game with Colby usually scheduled for April 19 has been played at Orono. Only once before has the

Young Republicans' Club Will Hold Second Meeting Tuesday

The Young Republican's Club will hold its second meeting next Tuesday, April 20, at 7:30 p.m., in the Carnegie lounge.

The club's organization will be completed with election of permanent officers and committee appointments. A report will be given on the recent Republican State Convention by members of the club who were present. The remainder of the meeting will be taken up with a political discussion.

All students interested in politics are urged to attend and participate in the club's program, slated to extend throughout the spring semester.

At the club's initial meeting, held before vacation, Ed Hackett was elected temporary chairman. Nicholas Brountas was made assistant chairman, and Charlotte Alex secretary.

In discussing the aims of the club, Hackett declared that the group should concentrate upon stimulating interest in political affairs among students on campus, with special consideration of Republican candidates for the presidential nomination.

Brountas pointed out that other colleges in the state have political organizations of this kind, and added that, with such a club, candidates can be shown the voting power that will induce them to come to the University to speak.

Fogarty Elected Prexy By Women Vets Club

Patricia Fogarty was elected president of the Women Veteran's Club at its last meeting. Also chosen as officers for the coming year were Kay Heald, vice president; Anna Lurvey, secretary; Lucille Thompson, treasurer; and Gladys Sampson, delegate.

Preceding the meeting Lois Nicholson sang for the group.

Guild Plugs Mayor

The coming mayoral campaign will get a plug by the Maine Radio Guild next Wednesday night on their regular program over WLBZ at 7:15.

Gloria Noyes Edits 'Rock and Hammer,' New Publication of Geology Students

The Rock and Hammer Club, Maine geology society, has just issued a new publication which bears the same name as the organization. The group plans to publish a new issue each semester.

The publication carries a list of officers, committees, and advisers; reports of the president, program committee, exploration committee, secretary, editor and historian; an article, "The Value and Variety of Maine Minerals," by Dr. Joseph M. Trefethen, state geologist and professor of geology at the University; and various other features.

Editor of the publication is Gloria Noyes. Officers of the club are Jack Donohue, president; John Henderson, vice president; Doris Merrill, secretary-treasurer; Henry Condon, exploration chairman. Advisers are Dr. Joseph M. Trefethen and Professor Vincent E. Shainin.

The club is now carrying out a two-point program which includes a winter series of lectures and demonstrations covering various phases of geology, and a spring and fall program which includes field investigations and explorations.

Sigma Mu Sigma Has Guest Speaker April 29

Dr. Werner Lippmann, resident psychiatrist at the Bangor State Hospital, will speak to members and guests of Sigma Mu Sigma, April 29. His topic will be "Progress and Problems in Modern Psychiatry." Dr. Lippmann was trained in Europe and practiced in Vienna before coming to this country.

A business meeting with a movie and refreshments will be held next Thursday evening in North Stevens for members only. Members are requested to know at that time how many guests they will be bringing to the following meeting.

MOC To Hold Bald Mt. Trip

The Maine Outing Club will sponsor a trip to Bald Mt. on Sunday, April 18. The mountain has long been a favorite of the organization for it offers a bit of rough climbing as well as some beautiful scenery.

All students who are interested in making the trip are asked to sign up in the usual manner in the bookstore entrance. This is done by filling out an envelope that is provided, putting the necessary fee in the envelope, and then depositing it in the mailbox marked "trip reservations." The cost of this trip will be one dollar to cover meal and transportation, and all those that are interested must sign up before 9 a.m. on Saturday.

Busses will leave the bookstore at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday and will return in time for the evening meal. The noon meal will be cooked in the open.

This is the first trip of the spring season and all members are urged to join in.

CAUSE FOR AMERICAN PRIDE...

JEFFERSON'S ROUGH DRAFT OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

A Declaration by the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in General Congress assembled

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's god entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, & to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles & organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall appear most likely to promote their safety and happiness.

Part of the original manuscript of the Declaration of Independence, written by Thomas Jefferson. It is now on display aboard the "Freedom Train." The revisions shown were included in the document finally presented to the Continental Congress.

Maine Hope Springs Eternal Pollster Finds Things Jake

That "hope springs eternal in the human breast" was again proven by the results of a poll taken recently by Rip Haskell on behalf of the MCA, IRC, and Politics Club.

The poll, dealing mainly with international relations, was conducted in conjunction with a forum to be held in New Orleans under the auspices of Time magazine.

Of the 136 students answering a prepared questionnaire, 104 felt that they would be better off five years from now than at the present time. Only 8 people saw themselves in poorer condition.

Stick With UN

Moving into more specific fields of "hope," 69 students thought that the United Nations has a good chance of maintaining peace. Pessimists numbered 50.

Not too much faith was evidenced in the US strong-arm when 104 students said that they did not think that the United States could rely solely on her own armed force plus the atomic bomb and still have a better chance for world peace.

Proponents of world federalism got a slight setback when answers split on that topic. The question was worded that the US would have voting power in proportion to population and join a "United States of the World" only with other democratic countries. Yes-65. No-61.

Keep A-Bomb

Asked if they would favor US participation in such an organization if it meant giving up control of the A-Bomb to the world government, 65 again said no, while only 54 voted yes.

Over 50 per cent of the students polled think that Russia is gaining in the present world struggle. Over half of the remaining students couldn't make a decision. Despite this, however, 50 per cent of these same students believe that the US will be ahead of the game 20 years from now.

On the Italian question, 71 students think that the Communists will take over Italy after the April 18 elections. Only 40 people favor the use of US armed forces in such an event, plus another 48 who would "ok" the deal if it were worked through the United Nations.

Go To Canada

Asked where they would rather live if they were not able to stay in the US, 42 voted for Canada, 23 for Switzerland, 14 for Brazil, nine for Great Britain, seven for Sweden, and the rest split up between Chile, Italy, Mexico, Australia, Ireland, South Africa, and the Netherlands.

The results of this poll have been sent to Time magazine to be tabulated with results from other colleges. The last issue of Time contained answers to many of these questions
