'Winslow Boy' Is Considered A Success

Fine Performance Given By Arnold

By Bob Snowman

The Maine Masque opened its second production of the year, "The Winslow Boy," at the Little Theater last night.

The four-act drama, written by Terence Rattigan and directed by Hershel Bricker, was enthusiastically received by a near-capacity audience.

"The Winslow Boy" depicts the struggle of a middle-class English family to clear the name of Ronnie Winslow, a young naval cadet who has been expelled from his academy for the theft of a postal note. The trials, the humiliation, and the final triumph over the Admiralty make for a very interesting and moving play.

Bob Arnold and Ann Cutts turn in steady and accurate portrayals of Arthur and Grace Winslow, parents of Ronnie, and Wendell Hodgkins deserves a great deal of credit as Ronnie himself.

The rating of "best performance" should go to Paul Payson for his characterization of Sir Robert Morton, the attorney who wins the case against the Crown.

Harlan Witham supplies comedy as the bumbling, pathetic assistant to Sir Robert Morton. Barbara Stewart takes the part of Catherine, sister to Ronnie, and George Sherman plays John Watherstone, Catherine's fiance who breaks the engagement when she refuses to use her influence to close the case.

Dwight Frye draws an amusing portrayal of Dickie Winslow, an older brother who does not quite understand what all the fuss is about.

"The Winslow Boy" is made more effective by the exact set and lighting, which greatly heighten the illusion of a solid but not pretentious English home just before World War I.

"The Winslow Boy" is rather long, and at times a slow-moving play. But it is interesting, and the fine performance of the entire cast makes it very worthwhile.

Close Count Elects New Class Officers

Ralph E. Barnett, James A. McBrady, Russell E. Meade, and Edgar M. Bailey, Jr., were elected presidents of their respective classes Tuesday, as 40 per cent of the student body turned out to the polls.

Although the number of students exercising their franchise did not reach the 50 per cent mark aimed at by Hal Marden and his General Senate election committee, the group expressed satisfaction at the turnout. The 1514 votes cast was several hundred over the number cast in the primaries.

Elected to senior class offices with Barnett were John P. Zollo, vice president; Cynthia J. Hayden, secretary; and Arnold A. Davis, treasurer. Of a total number of 863 members of the senior class, 360 cast ballots.

In the junior class, Edward J. McDermott was elected vice president to McBrady, while Ruth Holland was chosen secretary, and Alton M. Hopkins was elected treasurer. Only 507 of a class of 1482.

Patricia M. Simmons received highest number of votes for vice president of the sophomore class, and Mary E. Marsden and James E. Elliott were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. 465 members of a class of 1120 cast ballots.

Edgar M. Bailey, president of the freshman class, will be supported by Edgar F. Lord, vice president; Jeanne Frye, secretary; and Mary L. Snyder, treasurer. Slightly more than 50 per cent of the freshman class voted, with 182 of 360 casting ballots.

C. Seymour Card was elected Sophomore Representative to the Athletic Board.

Works Of Honore Daumier Now Being Exhibited In Carnegie Hall

DAUMIER SKETCH, "REGRETS"—One of a series of sketches titled "Parisian Types," the above by Honore Daumier is included in the display now hung at the art gallery.

The works of Honore Daumier, satirist, humorist, and caricaturist of the 19th century, are being displayed in the Print and Lecture Room, Carnegie.

Daumier is considered the greatest realist in the art world of his time.

His keen insight into human nature, his ability to search beneath the surface and reveal the fumbling, bumbling Mr. Average Man make his humor universal and his subjects immortal.

Daumier was much better known in Paris as a political cartoonist whose scathing wit pointed out the sham and hypocrisy of dishonest or incompetent officials. David Low, the great contemporary English cartoonist, occupies much the same eminence today.

Current ideas in painting owe much to Daumier. Oil painting, the medium he would have liked to have used exclusively, were influenced by the simplicity and starkness he learned in his black and white line drawings. Etchings and lithographs were a sideline with him, although an important sideline. It may be said that he lived for his oil painting, but by his drawings.

Maine Students Attend Boston Church Session

When a small group began the Stein Song at a banquet in the Boston Armory Saturday evening, those present were amazed to see 44 delegates stand and sing. The MCA, under the direction of Rev. Charles O'Connor and Miss Ruth Wadleigh, was responsible for the participation of that large number of Maine students at the Churchmanship Conference sponsored by the New England Student Christian Movement in Boston, Dec. 3-5.

With headquarters in the Old South Church in Copley Square, the conference brought together 800 delegates from campuses in New England and New York to work on methods of co-operation between various Protestant denominations.

The Maine students, representing six denominations, joined the delegates from nearly 40 other colleges in both denominational and interdenominational meetings. Well-known religious leaders opened discussions of campus religious problems.

The group from the University returned Sunday. Several of the students will report to various campus organizations this week on the work of the conference.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Holds Installation Of New Chapter

Orientation, lectures, and informal initiation will be conducted Saturday, and the formal installation ball will be held at night at the country club. The Maine Collegians will provide the music. Sunday's installation proceedings will be followed by a banquet. Frank Licher, the installing officer, will be the guest speaker.

Chi Rho Sigma has been a TKE colony since last spring. It will become the 64th chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

"Ponto" Young Is Arbiter Of The University Parking Lot

By JOHN CONNERS

Chief Frank Cowan's only full-time assistant and unofficial greeter to hundreds of students daily is Thornton "Ponto" Young—best known for his work in the parking lot behind Stevens Hall.

To this important cog in the machinery of the University falls the task of seeing that between 400 and 500 cars student, anxious to leave the University for the Thanksgiving holidays, pulled out of line a trifle too impetuously.

Ponto is a native of Stillwater, and is not, in any sense, a newcomer to the campus.

In the twenty years that have passed since his name was first entered on the University payroll, "Ponto" has served in several capacities, but none as hazardous as the one which now takes him to the Stevens Hall parking lot by dawn's early light.

During his two years at the parking lot, "Ponto's" reflexes have come in for their share of exercise. Some drivers, he explains, often miscalculate the efficiency of their brakes or the speed of their cars—or both. In such cases, he doesn't dodge sideways or skip back—he just jumps up, landing on the car's bumper. While this procedure may unnerve even the most hardened driver, it saves wear and tear on "Ponto's" shins.

In general, and as long as things go all right, Frank Cowan's assistant enjoys his work and gets a "great kick" out of meeting the boys and girls. But they often worry him, he says. Sometime, he warns darkly, someone is going to get hurt if people in one car fail to wait until the following car is parked. There have been several narrow escapes this year, he says, because doors have opened in the way of a rapidly approaching fender.

He refuses to take credit for the smooth operation of the parking lot, preferring to attribute it to the cooperation of the students.

"They make it easy for me," he says.

are parked daily, with fender crinkling kept at a minimum. In fact, "Ponto" figures that in the two years he has been on duty he has safely berthed 179,999 cars. The 180,000th banged up a fender, he says, when an over-eager

WILL YOU BE THE ONE...

According to statistics, one person who is reading this paper now will not be around to read it next year. He, or she, will be dead—killed in an automobile accident.

Yes, statistics released by the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company state that one person in every 4,500 will be killed in an automobile accident this year. The Campus has approximately 4,500 readers.

Go ahead, shrug your shoulders and say, "If it's me that's going to be killed there's nothing I can do about it." But, before you drop your shoulders stop to think. If one person reading this paper is going to be killed in a crash, it stands to reason that the odds are mighty high that you will be the person doing the killing.

Here's why. Approximately 4,250 readers of this paper live for nine months in an area roughly one square mile in size. You do more driving in this area than anyone else. The odds are in favor of you killing that person.

As college students, incidentally in the age bracket with the highest percentage of automobile accidents, we supposedly have intelligence and foresight enough to realize what can cause an automobile accident. However, if we have them, do we use them.

Common sense is all that anyone needs to keep from being the cause of an accident and possibly a death. If you have common sense, use some of it... especially when driving.

Brotherhood Of Men?

Of interest to the students here, especially after several articles written by this writer and by Biff Shalek, is the fact that consideration of the question of what to do in regard to racial discrimination among college fraternities was postponed for one year by the National Interfraternity Conference at its 40th annual session held in New York City, Nov. 26-27.

The National Undergraduate Interfraternity Council, meeting at the same time, recommended that a committee be appointed to study "the changing conditions concerning fraternity membership."

We strongly feel that the Interfraternity Council is side-stepping the issue. Nowhere on a college campus can intolerance and discrimination be delivered such a strong blow as through the various fraternities. It is indeed true that fraternities should have the right to select its own members free from any domination or pressure on the part of the educational institution, making whatever restrictions it sees fit, but as was stated in one of the resolutions made at the conference, "... the fraternity system will flourish better if the character and personality of the individual are regarded as paramount, rather than his race, color, religion, or nationality."

Please understand us. We have no personal grudge against any fraternity. Fraternities and sororities have a rightful place on the campus of the University of Maine. We do feel, however, that the majority of the fraternities and sororities are not doing their parts in fighting intolerance, which, given the opportunity, can turn this "home of the free" into one of the biggest messes in history.

And that is why we heartily praise the stand taken by Phi Kappa Psi at Amherst College, giving up their national rights in order to have a colored brother.

Fifteen men will be inducted in Maine's next draft quota. Al Winchell, former University of Maine Student and now in his last year at a Boston Law school, will be among the fifteen. Mr. Winchell, at the beginning of World War II, was examined by Army physicians and declared 4F. Rather than rest on this excellent excuse to continue his education, Mr. Winchell enlisted in the Merchant Marine. He received injuries in this service to his country which required him to be hospitalized for some time.

Of the 8,000,000 men who served overseas in the armed forces, over half participated in occupations less hazardous than did Mr. Winchell. Disregard that. Of the other 3,000,000 who worked in the U. S., almost all positions were less hazardous. He made more money? Having been in close association with the Merchant Marine at Salerno and Anzio, I can assure you he earned it. However, disregard all that—please!

Regard this: I'm not saying that they should redraft any serviceman who has served his allotted time. I'm not even saying that they should exempt Merchant Marines who served a comparative time during the War, although I wish Mrs. Smith and Mr. Brewster would look into the situation very carefully....Whoever the gentleman is that figures Al Winchell can best serve his country by going into the service, I wish he would get this: We've had enough killing, maiming, and destroying. Sure we need a standing Army, but let men like Winchell become the doctors and lawyers who will preserve and interpret life. The eighteen months of maggies draws he will be forced to serve won't enable him to best serve his country.

Of the 800,000 population of Maine, considering only the eligible 25-year-olds, surely there must be someone who can better fill the role of soldier—at least till he finishes his education.

PETTICOAT ANGLES

by Marilyn Wyman

Most of my colleagues on the paper refuse to believe that the males on campus could possibly have difficulty making time with the Maine co-eds. Being of the stronger sex, they make a gallant presentation of responsibility for their troubles to the fairer members of society.

Granted that our gab sessions at midnight do not overlook the subject of men, perhaps you would like a few quotes from female opinion.

Maybe you, Mr. Maine, got a cold shoulder or a "Sorry, I'm busy" because you——Are wedded to the first person singular pronoun, the I've seen—I've done—I've been everywhere type.

—Think a 7:30 phone call Saturday night will get you an 8 o'clock date.

—Don't introduce your date or even leave her while you join the boys in the next booth.

—Never refer to Emily Post's main points.

—Seldom organize a program for the evening, but would rather waste time deciding what to do after 9 p.m.

If you have read this far, maybe you would like to know just what is necessary for an Estabrooke (or Balentine, Colvin, Elms, East or West) Achievement Award. A positive reaction usually results if you——Are a good mixer—in crowds, NOT of drinks.

—Don't resort to a copyrighted line.

—Don't constantly find it necessary to insult woman's intelligence.

These are a few minor irritations which are retaliating arrows for the characters who forget to look at home when they are throwing criticism. We don't expect Hollywood heroes in every snack-bar booth, but a little consideration will go a long way.

P.S.—Women, with their sympathetic natures, will undoubtedly date you just the same.

Players Pay To Play Nordormers Object

To the Editor: As we sit here gazing out upon the beautiful view afforded us from our Nordorm penthouse (pig pen with venetian blinds) in Pork chop alley; there's no law north of the infirmary. We off campus students think we have a good topic for our nightly bull session.

Along with the rest of the advantages offered us, we have been invited to participate in intramural basketball.

We have noticed in numerous campus publications and also in the local scandal sheets that our land grant alma mammy takes great pride in notifying the public of the large turnout for intramural sports.

Even though we realize the price of money has gone up, this is no reason to make the players pay for what is known as a university sponsored program. As we willingly (don't beat me again) part with our money, we think an explanation is in order.

Is There No Justice For Our Co-eds?

To the Editor: Is there justice on this campus? Where? Monday evening my wife was on the bus leaving Bangor at 9:30. There were two girls from the dorms on the same bus. That bus stalled just below the railroad crossing in Veazie and for some reason could not be started.

Those girls walked through the pouring rain and called college reporting what had happened. When they returned someone asked if everything was straightened out. They said that they had called in but would receive a demerit for every ten minutes they were late and had to wait for the next bus which must have been at least half an hour later. Figure it out for yourself.

I certainly couldn't demerit my wife for being late. As a wise man once said, "A rule that is not elastic is no rule at all." Are the hearts of the officials of this college made of stone? It certainly wouldn't have taken a great deal of time to check on the "story."

If they are to prepare the students for the time when they will be on their own, it seems to me that they should show them justice now. I'm sure that Dean Wilson knows how just such injustices may lead to crime.

Yours for more and better justice,
H. G. W.

Looks Like Jerry Missed A Trick

To the Editor: In reference to Jerry Rogovin's paragraph on those "Cheating Christmas Vespers," he admits they are important traditionally but says it is unfair to the boys who want to play basketball to stage the service in the Memorial Gym.

Evidently Jerry did not attend last year when about 4000 people (including the orchestra and glee club) witnessed one of the year's most impressive events. From where I stand, it would look slightly silly to put 4000 people in the Women's Gym while 15 or 20 guys are knocking their heads against the floor in the big gym.

Bear Facts

BY JERRY ROGOVIN

Intramural hockey will enter its second phase December 13 when the goalies will pick teams out of a hat. The number of students signed up so far now exceeds 70, so there will be six or eight teams in the round robin competition.

The University and the military department are still up in arms over the handball court. The door remains locked, and very few people in the gymnasium area know what is to come next. At a recent meeting of University officials, the idea of using part of the field house cafeteria (toward the back, bordering on the field house) for a gun room, but the administration is the final authority on the matter, and they have neglected to act.

Intramural changes were announced after the monthly meeting of IMMA last week. Among them was the rule permitting transfers to play if they did not earn a letter at a college which grants a degree. The University has the same regulation for intercollegiate sports. In addition, the group ruled that fraternity men in the South Apartments or Trailers could play for their houses or their resident teams, but that fraternity off-campus men had to play for the houses.

Scott of Bates might have been right if he had called a foul on Maine fans in the Saturday opener. The crowd was quite noisy when he shot his free throw near the game's end, but not quite the same when Goddard took a foul throw earlier.

The Yankee Conference talks at Boston last weekend produced the decision that no member college could begin football practice before Sept. 1 "under any conditions." Maine never starts before that date. They also decided that beginning with the 1949-50 season, a member college must play four conference schools to win a championship in all sports except football. That sport will begin the rule the following year because schedules have already been drawn up for next season.

A new State Series ruling has it that junior varsity players cannot sit on the bench with the varsity in the same night. It seems unfair in the light of Saturday's game with Bates. Maine's jayvees played Ricker, so that Bates had a larger potential squad to use in the varsity game. At Colby, the Frosh are their junior team, so

Red Keith and Bob Hanson of Phi Gamma Delta are planning an interfraternity ping-pong tournament for 5-man teams. Hanson will donate a nine-inch trophy to the winner. The idea is to better interfraternity relations by visits and after-supper matches. It's a fine idea, and one that would be good for the entire campus.

Miss Lengyel of the women's physical education department has consented to open the gymnasium on Sundays for intramural teams to practice. But the teams must sign up with her, and the permission will go through Dean Wieman's office. Every team using the women's gym must see Miss Lengyel first.

In lieu of that, I can see where I pulled a bad boner last week in regard to Christmas Vespers.

Not to detract from the freshman basketball team when they play outside teams, it doesn't seem fair that the Frosh should play in the dormitory league. The Frosh have many men to choose from; the dorms are thrown together in pre-registration without regard to athletic prowess.

Colby Coasts To Easy Victory Over Maine

Records Trace
Court History

BY BILL BROWNE

The facts of the birth of basketball at the University are almost lost in the mist of the past, but inter-class games date back to 1902.

In that year the University formed a team, and the captain coached the squad in the absence of a regular mentor. John T. Phelan, George Owen, and John Neary were three of the pioneers.

It was not until 1918 that Maine had a full-time coach. He was C. E. Mueller, and he stayed two years. He was followed by James Baldwin in 1920, the year basketball became a major sport. Bates, Rhode Island State, Brown, Boston College, New Hampshire, Northeastern, and the Portland A.C. appeared on the schedule. Maine defeated Rhody, 38-23, and again in 1921, but never again. Ted Curtis played on the 1920 quintet.

Harvard was scheduled for the first time in the 1922-23 season. Maine completed the season with a 9-8 record after a year's layoff in which a girls' team was sponsored.

Caddy Murphy, a 300-pound legend, became coach in 1923. Yale, Tufts, and Trinity College were added to the schedule.

While the teams were improving, the facilities were not. Home games were played on the second floor of Alumni Hall. Spectators sat in the balcony, Colgate, Rutgers, C.C.N.Y., Wesleyan, and Worcester Tech were played in 1924 for the first time.

Fred Brice took up the coaching chores in 1925. R.P.I., Massachusetts, Union, and Dartmouth played Maine that year.

Maine won only three of 12 games in 1928, and student interest reached a new low. Intercollegiate basketball

An interfraternity ping-pong tournament is being planned by Robert Hanson, Phi Gamma Delta. Each house will sponsor a five-man team for three singles and doubles matches. The winners of the tournament will receive a nine-inch trophy which is being donated by Hanson. Interested fraternities should call "Red" Keith at Phi Gamma Delta immediately to sign up.

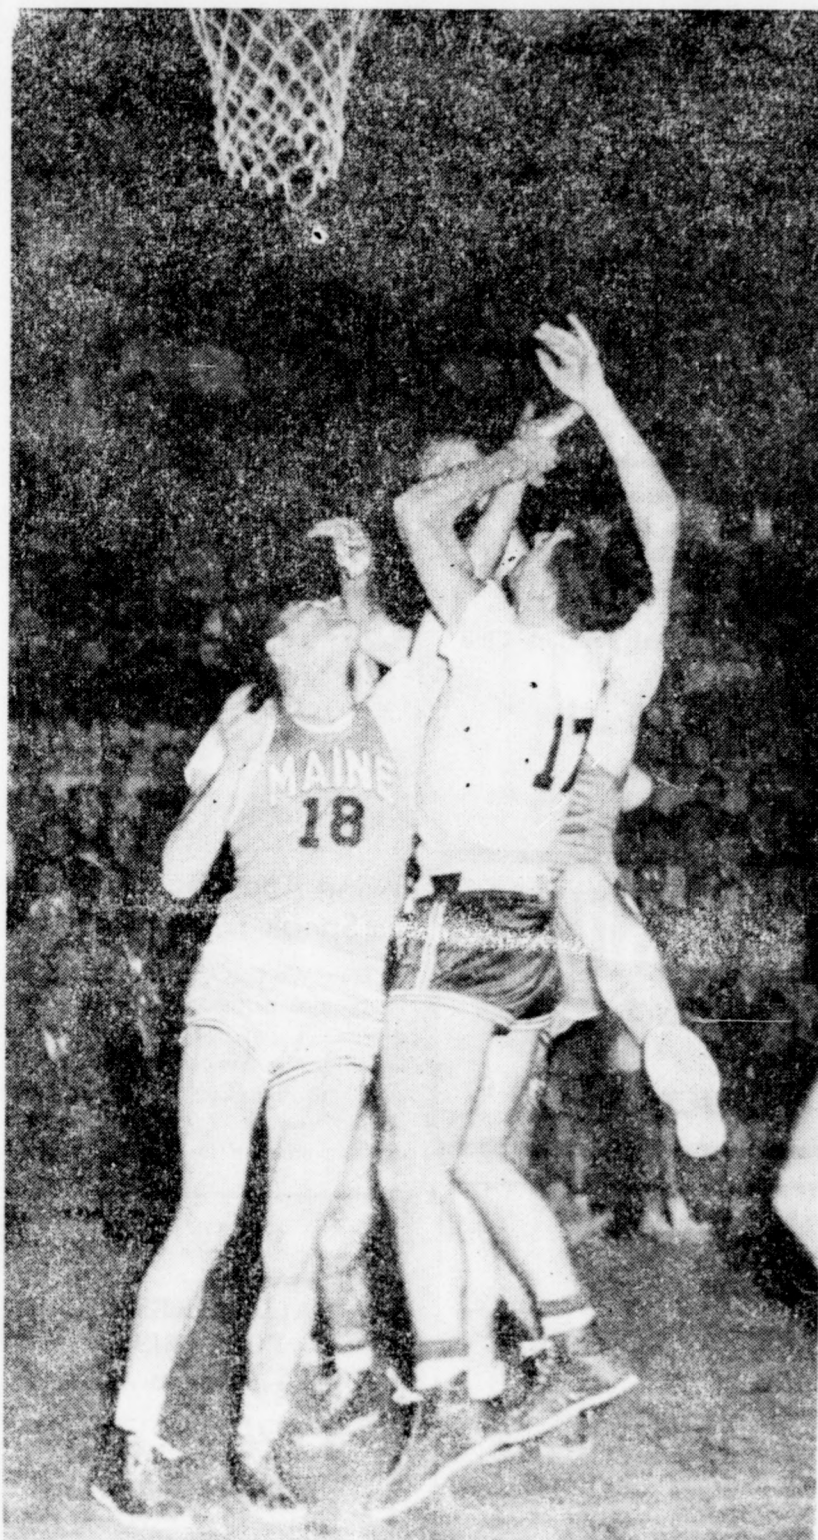

appeared to be on the way out. A captain was elected for the next season, but the sport was dropped, and not revived until 1936 for the varsity. The Frosh, under Bill Kenyon, continued to play, and journeyed to Aroostook at the close of each season for games with county teams.

In 1930 Ted Curtis returned to Maine, and began to formulate plans for Maine to again play intercollegiate ball. The first basketball game was played in Memorial Gymnasium in 1934 by two intramural teams.

A varsity squad was formed in 1936 by Kenyon and Curtis with the stars of the intramural league. Curtis obtained University approval for an outside game, and Northeastern arranged to play in Orono. The Huskies won a close contest, 36-32. Hal Woodbury turned in a stellar game for Maine.

The New England College Conference, which lasted for two years, included state universities. Maine placed third the first year.

Colby won the first State Series in 1940. Sam Sezak coached Maine that year, and until Eck Allen returned

Al Wing goes up for a rebound with two Bates players in opening game action.

Van Peurse Whips
Herman In Net Final

Larry Van Peursen is the newly-crowned University tennis champion after defeating Fred Herman, the defender, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0. Van Peursen and Herman, who were the first two men on the varsity team last spring, entered the finals more than a week before Thanksgiving recess, but the poor weather halted all further play until this week.

Individual competition for the Charles Rice indoor track trophy, usually dominated by track lettermen, will be held January 15 at the intramural meet.

The winner edged Bob Thoits in five bristling sets in a semi-final match to earn the chance to meet Herman. He dominated the finals play, forcing Herman to defend a weak backhand from the opening points. Herman reached the finals by whipping Harry Allen

Polar Bear Skin Sought

A bear skin of much sentimental value was taken from Bowdoin College following the Maine-Bowdoin football game. Anyone with information regarding its whereabouts should inform Dean Wieman's office. No questions will be asked.

Colby Hits Top
By Maine Win

Maine's varsity quintet played its second rough and ragged game of the season, but did not fare so well in the latest bout, losing to Colby, 60-45, at Waterville yesterday.

Paced by Teddy Shiro and Tubby Washburn, who scored 31 points between them, the Mules jumped to an early lead, and were never headed in a game marked by 46 personal fouls, 24 by Maine.

The home team held an 11-4 lead after six minutes, and raced away from Maine before the Bears could settle down. At the 12-minute mark the lead had stretched to ten points, and the defending champs were held scoreless for five full minutes. Colby led at intermission, 39-20.

The Bears started second half proceedings with a rush, showing more fight than in the opening period, but Washburn took over the scoring chores from Shiro, and Colby was on the move again.

Oh what fun it was to dance

At the Christmas formals Friday...

Having been invited to Theta Chi's formal (with our escorts, of course) we circulated over to have a look at things... Very impressive. The decorations really caught the Christmas spirit—with one large, beautiful, silver Christmas tree holding the center of attraction. It had the atmosphere of a very successful party. Here's what Bob Lord has to say about it...

JAN

The bow-tie and tail party got underway at 7:30 with a buffet supper and dancing afterward to the music of sharp Jack MacDonough and his flat five. Three Blue Book violations later, Bob Dagdigian dressed as Santa Claus rolled down the stairs and gave out with gifts for one and all. Santa then took off for the North Pole, had a few dances with her, and buzzed off up the chimney. The eagerly awaited intermission finally came. With a gleam in everyone's eye, people made a mad dash for the second deck where further festivities took place. Shortly afterwards, the band was led back to their places and the chaplains chose the Dream Girl of Theta Chi. The honor went to Miss Jackie Morse, drag and future bride of Ernie Parizo. Off-campus competition made off with two substantial pieces of fraternity jewelry during the evening. Pinned are Kay Stevens, Lewiston, to Bob LePage and Bertha Berube, Westbrook, to Dick Kelson. Phi Kappa Sigma held its annual Christmas House Party with a formal dance Friday night. About 50 couples enjoyed dancing to the music of Ray Downs and his Orchestra. The decorations around the dance floor consisted of pine trees with simulated mountains and guests in the background. Through the fine work of Walt Pooler the kitchen was converted into a punch lounge with appropriate Christmas decorations. A "Santa Claus" with a blinking red nose made a big hit with everybody. Dick Bleakney and Ken Chatto were the keepers of the punch bowl.

Some late bulletins on the Wives Club movement, which we brought to your attention last week... Officers of the Phi Eta representation, in addition to Mary Sawyer, chairman, are—Frances Panarese, treasurer; Joan Johnston, secretary; Shirley Webber and Joan Frye, social committee; Mary Wall (who makes very delicious cakes, we are told), refreshment committee... Mrs. Charles Mason, president of the A.T.O. club, has received word of appreciation for a Thanksgiving basket which they contributed to a social agency in Orono. This is one of the annual projects of the club.

THE HITCHING POST: Among Thanksgiving weddings were Jean Grace of Limington and Eric Doughty; Lois Sanborn to John Barbour; Frances Neal, New Canaan, Conn., to Roger Potter; Frances Cyr, Rockwood, to Fred Bigney.

PINNED:

Thelma Lord to Rabbit Dombkowski, Kappa Sigma.

Sydney Whittier to Joe Klenk, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Sarah Slocum, Orono, to Neil Merrill, Phi Eta.

Ruth Thomaston to Doc Biggers, Phi Eta.

Alice Hammond, Bates, to Ray Humes, Phi Eta.

Ethel Stone to Fred Herman, Beta Theta Pi.

Looking forward with great expectations to Alpha Gam's annual Woodchoppers Ball... to which we have been invited (with our escorts, of course).

New Speed Sign To Slow Drivers

As a further warning to all would-be Barney Oldfields, the Orono police department has erected a new and more eye-compelling speed limit sign at the south Main Street approach to the town.

There are many University car owners, wiser and less wealthy, who will sadly testify that the police department is sincere and ambitious in its effort to restrict the speed of automobiles through the town.

In most cases first offenders will receive only a warning and a common sense lecture. A second violation of the speed limit entitles the offender to a substantial depletion of his purse. In view of the large number of school children and heavy traffic through the town, the Orono police intend to enforce compliance with the speed law.

German Play Scheduled

of college... and still learning

THE Bell Telephone Laboratories is known as a leader in communications engineering. On its staff are 1,622 engineers and scientists with college degrees. Among them they have 7,200 years of college training... and they are still learning.

They study many things. How to speed your voice across the street or around the world. How to keep your voice natural in tone and volume. How to make central office equipment capable of switching your call even faster. How to produce in laboratories the materials which are hard to get in their natural form—quartz, for instance. How to conserve the scarce metals which go into wire and cable, by making one circuit carry many conversations.

From such studies they learn how to make your service better and better, and keep its cost low.

A meeting last week of students and faculty members, led to the election of Roy E. Joyce as chairman of the organization committee. Mr. Crossland's office, 76 Library, was designated as the clearing center for information and plans.

The meeting, presided over by Mark Shedd, gave those present an opportunity to ask questions of such qualified Red Cross personnel as Mrs. Hulda Hubbell, director of college activities, ARC; Mrs. Esther Baldwin, executive secretary of Penobscot County Red Cross; Samuel King, ARC field representative for Maine; and Mrs. Ted Curtis of the Orono chapter, ARC.

A Red Cross film also added to the session by explaining the activities of a college unit.

'Human Growth' Given Preview

A preview of "Human Growth," a new film on sex education, was held in the Audio-Visual demonstration room in South Stevens.

"Human Growth," recently publicized in Life magazine, is an educational film which achieves three cardinal objectives.

(1) It demonstrates for parents how sex education can be handled smoothly, intelligently, and in a socially acceptable manner in schools.

(2) It provides the classroom teacher with a suitable instructional aid for presenting the biological facts of sex as a part of human growth.

(3) It establishes, through identification, an exemplary teacher-pupil relationship which is conducive to easy classroom discussion.

The film has been purchased by the Audio-Visual Service and will be available for classroom use on the campus.
