Still Looking, Says Wieman On Vacancy

Hope For Successor By Spring Training

By BILL BRENNAN

No indications as to who would be the University of Maine's new football and basketball coach were available at press time, and Dean Elton E. "Tad" Wieman said he was not prepared to say anything about how the problem would be solved.

Filling the vacancy left by the resignation of George E. "Eck" Allen as head coach of football and basketball would be completed in time for spring football training, Wieman said, but no definite plans for a successor have been made yet.

Blames Health

Allen's resignation came shortly after he was under-fire from the undergraduate "M" Club, but Wieman hinted

Grads Hear Millis And Thurrell

Andrews, Welch Top 130 Degree-Holders

Ten masters' degrees and 120 bachelors' degrees were awarded University of Maine students Friday night at special mid-winter commencement exercises in the Women's Gymnasium. Dr. John S. Millis, president of the University of Vermont, who received the honor degree of doctor of laws, was the commencement speaker.

Thurrell Speaks

Robert Thurrell, a graduate of Maine in 1915 and former president of the General Alumni Association, was principal speaker at a dinner given by the association to the graduating students before the exercises.

Of the new graduates, Richard A. Andrews and Emmalin C. Welch received degrees "with highest distinction," and Harold W. Gausman and Relief A. Nichols were awarded degrees "with high distinction."

Eight students who received their degrees "with distinction" were William N. Weston, Fred B. Knight, Richard L. Sawyer, Howard E. Spencer, Jr., Joseph R. Uzman, Frank W. Crimp, Jr., Robert M. Folsom, and Stanley J. Miller.

President Millis, in his commencement address, proposed "The Age of Collectivism" as a new title for "the age in which we live." He said the principle of collective action was to be found in international and national spheres and also in the economic and social life of this nation.

Arctic Explorer To Speak Tonite

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, internationally known explorer, teacher, and scientist, will give an illustrated lecture at the University tonight in the Little Theatre, beginning at 7 p.m.

He comes to the University under the sponsorship of the Maine Outing Club and the University Assembly Committee.

Although Commander MacMillan's lecture will be based upon his many expeditions to the far north, the feature of the evening will be the showing of 3,000 feet of colored film taken last summer on his trip to the Arctic. These films, he says, "are the best I ever brought back from the Arctic."

A native of Provincetown, Mass., a graduate of Bowdoin, MacMillan has spent 39 years in Arctic work and has travelled over 200,000 miles of the arctic waters. He has explored Labrador, Ungava Bay, Foxe Basin, Baffin Island, Ellesmere Land, Greenland, and the Polar Sea extensively. His achievements have won for him many high honors both in the United States and abroad. It is understood that Mrs. MacMillan, author of the recently published book, Green Seas and White Ice, will accompany Commander MacMillan to the campus.

VA Studies Grad Demand

The next few years will see an increased demand for college graduates in the fields of psychology, medicine, teaching and some phases of electricity, according to a study prepared for the Veteran's Administration by the Department of Labor. The study also predicts keener competition in the fields of engineering, chemistry, pharmacy, law, and personnel relations.

The nation's demand for health service, which is outstripping the supply of newly graduated doctors and dentists, will result in small expansion of the country's medical staff. Although a record number of bachelors' degrees have been awarded in psychology during the past year, there is still a need for well-trained persons in this field.

Educational leaders have called for one million teachers to be trained in the next ten years, with the most positions available in kindergartens and elementary schools. In the electric utility industry, employment will be increased by openings for engineers in the installation and operation of new facilities.

Despite opportunities in electrical engineering, engineering graduates generally will find "stiffer competition" for jobs, the study said. The report also stated that competition for jobs among chemists with only B.S. degrees was increasing.

Pharmacy graduates are still in demand this year but larger graduating classes are in prospect for the next several years. Law graduates are already having trouble getting positions in their field. Employment prospects for newcomers in the personnel field are not expected to be good in the near future.

Union Bdg. Fund Reaches 89% Mark Special Gifts Goal

The Androscoggin Valley special gifts division of the University of Maine Union Building Fund, of which Thomas Mangan, of Livermore Falls is chairman, has just reached its quota of $13,000 in special gifts subscriptions, James M. Sims, of Boston, chairman of the campaign special gifts committee, has announced.

Five special gifts areas have previously reached or exceeded their goals as follows: Massachusetts—Hazen H. Ayer, Boston, chairman—$51,550 or 145% of quota; Connecticut—Rhode Island, Fred D. Knight, Hartford, Conn., chairman—$14,602 or 133% of quota; New Hampshire—Vermont, Robert F. Thurrell, East Wolfeboro, N. H., chairman—$6,550 or 119% of quota; Middle Atlantic states—James E. Totman, Baltimore, Md., chairman—$19,750 or 113% of quota; and Eastern Maine—Harold M. Pierce, Bangor, chairman—$38,400 or 101% of quota.

Chairman Sims' latest report states that $268,483 in special gifts subscriptions have been received to date. This is 89% of the $300,000 special gifts goal.

Jobs Open in Physical Science, Biological Aid

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for Physical Science Aid and Biological Aid to fill positions in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity. The jobs pay from $2,152 to $3,727 a year.

To qualify, applicants must pass a written test and, except for the lowest salary level, must have had additional experience in either physical science or biological science. Appropriate college study may be substituted for the required experience.

Dr. John Schoff Millis, president of the University of Vermont, was recipient of an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws here during mid-winter graduation week end. The graduation speaker, Dr. Millis was a graduate and Doctor of Philosophy of the University of Chicago.

In the bestowal of the degree upon Dr. Millis, Pres. Hauck said, "We welcome you to our campus today as the honored and respected head of a sister institution bound to us by many ties of friendship and common purpose."

Keeney To Do Research

Norwood H. Keeney, Winterport, has been recently appointed to the Gottesman Foundation Fellowship allocated to the pulp and paper division of the chemical engineering department and the University of Maine, Professor Lyle C. Jenness, head of the department, announced this week.

Take "Ambulatory" Individuals To Infirmary Quick, Say Wheels

Procedure in case of accidents on the campus was outlined this week in a bulletin from the administration as follows:

In the event of serious accident to a student in a laboratory, or elsewhere, the person in charge should:

1. Stop profuse hemorrhaging, if possible, and make the individual comfortable.
2. If individual is ambulatory, remove him to the Infirmary at once.
3. In case of injury to the spine or head, or in case of obvious fracture of any extremity, call the University physician for instructions.

MPA Newsmen Discuss New Plan

Representatives of the Maine Press Association and the University of Maine have continued discussion of the advisability of retaining a field manager who would devote part of his time to teaching duties at the University and part of his time to the association's activities.

Preliminary discussion of this project was started at a meeting of the two groups last fall. The field manager idea was endorsed at a recent meeting, but no definite action was taken.

Those attending the recent meeting from the Maine Press Association besides Harvey were Bernard Esters, Houlton; Charles Helfenstein, Caribou; Donald Stuart, Ellsworth; Douglas Fosdick, Auburn; representing the University of Maine were Pres. Arthur A. Hauck, Dean Joseph M. Murray, Prof. Wayne Jordan, Charles E. Crossland, and Howard A. Keyo.

No Tuition Charged Students In 1869—Times Have Changed

By DON KING

This is the second article of a series on the history of the University of Maine, which may be especially interesting in conjunction with the observance of Dr. Arthur A. Hauck's 15th year as president and the University's 80th anniversary.—Ed.

This school year of 1948-49 marks the 80th anniversary of the entrance of the first class of students into the Maine State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, the original name of the University of Maine.

On September 21, 1868, twelve young men were welcomed into the white wooden structure which was to serve as lecture hall, classroom, and dormitory for that school year. The faculty for that first class consisted of Dr. Merritt Caldwell Fernald, acting president and professor of mathematics and physics, and Samuel Johnson, farm superintendent and instructor in agriculture. Both were products of Bowdoin College.

At first no tuition was charged if the student was a state-of-Mainer, but this was soon changed. If he was from out of state, the fee amounted to $12 for each of the three terms per school year.

Rooms for that first class were free. Each room was furnished with a bedstead, mattress, table, sink, and four chairs, with the student supplying all other bedding. Three dollars a week plus 50 cents for washing and fuel were the expensive items.

The first year curriculum was indefinite, consisting chiefly of class and laboratory work in practical farming. For the opening years a trial and error method was used in formation of a definite course of studies.

Social life 80 years ago was nil. There were no co-eds until 1872. Bangor was only eight miles away but to travel down to the city on the Veazie Railroad was expensive, especially to the students who, like many of later generations, seldom rolled in money.

In fact, the students had to earn their expenses by several devious ways. College regulations stated that since this was a "institution of practical arts, each student should work on various college projects 15 hours each week.

British Production To Have Showing At Oakes Room Today

"Stairway to Heaven," a British production starring David Niven, Raymond Massey, and Kim Hunter, will be shown Thursday, Feb. 10, in the Louis Oakes room of the Library at 2, 4, 6:30, and 8:30 p.m. Admission is 45 cents, tax included.

The movie, second in the series of four to be presented to University of Maine students and faculty by the Education Club and the Child Co-operative Study Group, is in technicolor and was acclaimed by the New York critics as one of the ten best pictures of last year.

Produced by Michael Powell and directed by Emerich Pressburger, it tells of an injured RAF pilot's fight for life with the aid of a courageous American girl and an understanding doctor.

State Highway Model On Display In Library

A scaled model of the state highway between Waterville and Augusta is now on exhibition in the Library.

The model was prepared for the State Highway Commission by John W. Hatch, China, and was originally shown at the Eastern States Exhibition at Springfield, Mass.

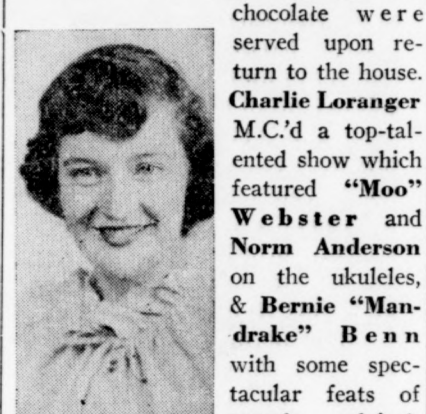

Approximately eight feet long, the model is scaled twelve inches to the mile, and depicts the easing of grades and curves on new Maine highways.

the light of a roaring fire in the fireplace climaxed a wonderful evening for everyone.

The Kappa Sigma Hat Party on Friday night was a huge success with everyone wearing his own personal creation from lamp shades to bread baskets. Entertainment in night-club style was very ably provided by "Torchie" Emily Smaha, Angie "Frankie Laine" Polito, "Scotty" Jimmie Law, and M. C. Artie Tsomides. Saturday night a Sweater Party with refreshments from the Snack Bar and a blazing fire kept everyone happy. A Hamburg Party on Sunday night topped off another grand week end.

The Prism, a $15,000 business venture conducted by the Junior Class and supported by University of Maine students, is just about ready to roll off the presses, adding another 450-page volume to the list of past successes.

The policy of the Prism staff and the University has been to make no profit on the publication, which has assumed major proportions since its small beginning in 1916.

Today, it takes 16 weeks to print the Prism in its entirety, and this item, together with the outlay for the many engravings, consumes about two-thirds of the total cost. The remainder covers photographic and secretarial fees.

Women students wishing to apply for positions as senior residents for 1949-50 can obtain application blanks now from Dean Wilson.

Findlen Joins Happy Family At Alpha Gam

Alpha Gamma Rho has finally corralled the last of the Findlens.

George P. Findlen, Fort Fairfield, father of Hebert, Paul, Joseph, and George Jr., all past members of Alpha Gamma Rho, and William and John, present members, was initiated into the chapter during examination week.

Mr. Findlen, a former state senator, is the director of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange, and in the spring of 1948 he was the international representative for the Maine Rotary Club at Rio de Janeiro. A farmer whose seed growing ability is recognized throughout the eastern United States, he has also found time to direct the singing of the 4-H Clubs at the Farm and Home Week held annually at the University of Maine.

Son Thomas Findlen, the only non-member of Alpha Gamma Rho, attended Maine one year and didn't pledge.

Linguistic Problems Discussed By Starr

University Weatherman's Job Was Hobby Of First President

By DON GROSS

Recording the weather on the University campus—mechanical advancements of science being what they are—has changed from a hobby of the first president of the University of Maine to "just another job" for Linwood (Red) Stormann, technician in the physics department. Red's personal hobby is a greenhouse he's building at his home in Stillwater.

Red's weather reading is simplified somewhat by a disk temperature graph which charts for a week at a time. The barometer, rain gauge, and wind recorder is checked at certain intervals, all from the inside of Aubert Hall. Dr. Merritt C. Fernald's weather observations took him outside the house in all kinds of weather and at all times of day and night.

Records Are Valuable

As a result of the efforts of the first president of Maine, the University now has an almost unbroken history of 78 years of weather recordings. Dr. Fernald's meteorological records, now in possession of the University library, become, in his own words, "increasingly valuable with the length of time which they cover."

The Agricultural Experiment Station took over the recording of weather after Dr. Fernald's retirement. They continued from 1892 until 1911 when the Physics department assumed these duties.

In January 1907, the Experiment Station recorded a minimum drop of 40 below zero temperature. Last year, Red Stormann said, the coldest temperature registered was 29 degrees below zero, on February 10-11. Maybe the old timers were right when they say the winters are not like they used to be. The year of 1886-87 saw the biggest snowfall with a recording of 152 inches. This compares with a runner-up of 128 inches in 1922-23.

Fernald Notes Phenomena

Not only did Dr. Fernald check his dry and wet bulb thermometers, but he also enjoyed making notes on celestial phenomena.

"Aurora brilliant in early morning," he wrote under the dateline of January 3, 1870, "Red or pink predominating—disappeared with clouds."

Another notation under dateline, March 13, 1871, reads: "Ice left Penobscot river at Bangor. Earliest date on record. Date nearest this was March 21, 1842."

The University weather bureau, under the supervision of Dr. Charles B. Crofutt, meteorological instructor, makes no weather predictions, but sends monthly reports to the Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Weather Bureau.

N. E. Newman Clubs Will Meet Here Feb. 11-13

A meeting of the New England Province of the Newman Club Federation will be held here Feb. 11-13.

The N. E. Province initiated the round-robin meeting schedule at its Convention held last April for all Newman Clubs in the New England area. Meetings have been held at the University of Connecticut, the University of Vermont and the University of New Hampshire.

The University of Maine Newman Club expects delegates from all Newman Clubs who are represented in the New England Province Chapter.

Pat Rozzi is chairman of the Planning Committee for the meeting.

Religious Panel Slated

The Women's Forum, which meets at 4 p.m. today in North Estabrooke, will have as panel speakers Riva Greenblatt, Shirley Look, and Marilyn Wyman.

Library Sends Modern Books To Poland

A great need in Poland for up-to-date material on agricultural subjects was partially alleviated this week by some 2,500 volumes sent to Poznan, Poland, from the University library.

Louis T. Ibbotson, librarian, said the shipment included about 35 packing cases containing 70 volumes each, among which were sets of U. S. Department of Agriculture publications and reports of Agricultural Experiment Stations in the various states.

Other copies of the publications are available at the University library, Ibbotson said.

There will be a meeting of all members of the editorial staff of the Campus Friday, 3:45 p.m., at the Campus office. Everyone is requested to attend.

A Good Coach Is Leaving Maine

George E. "Eck" Allen, University of Maine football and basketball coach, has resigned because of ill health.

That, of course, is no longer news, but to us the fact that a person who has been associated with the University for several years is leaving is worthy of comment.

During his time here, Allen has accumulated a record which would be the envy of many a coach. In football State Series competition, his squads have won eight of twelve games played, and have never been defeated by Bowdoin or Colby. In basketball, his State Series record is 19 wins against 11 losses.

It's all in the record books.

Eck Allen leaves a definite gap in the athletic program of the University—a gap which it will take a good man to fill.

Best wishes, Eck.

Hear VIPs This Month

It is gratifying to realize that even though the University of Maine is way up in the northeastern part of the country it has begun attracting VIPs (Very Important People) as speakers.

This month we have at least three such individuals coming here. Trygvie Lie, secretary general of the UN; Carl Sandburg, famous author; and Donald MacMillan, explorer de luxe.

Having such people at the University, where students can see them, listen to them, and size them up at close range is advantageous. We can always learn things from such people, and we can learn them better if we have the opportunity to learn first hand.

We gladly take off our hats to those organizations and committees which have had the diligence to keep digging until they get really worth-while speakers or entertainers here.

In line with this, Vincent Hartgen has announced that he hopes to have some of America's foremost painters here to lecture in conjunction with his American painting courses.

Every organization on campus should take notice of these moves. Perhaps it costs more money for a well-known person, and perhaps it takes more work and more time to get him here. But after you do get him, it is certainly worth the effort.

The least the students can do is show their appreciation of the efforts by turning out en masse to these functions. It's almost a duty, and it certainly should be a pleasure.

Letters Must Be Signed

At the time of writing, the Campus has two letters to the editor which would be of interest to our readers. One of these letters, a joking article about women, was signed "Belts and Suspenders." The other, a vicious article about editors, was signed "Anonymous," and was deadly serious.

The policy of the Campus has been never to print anonymous letters. If the authors of these two letters want their contributions printed, and are not ashamed to send us their names, let them do so and we shall gladly print both letters—both of which are good for a laugh.

SCOTCH AND SODA

by Biff Shalek

For graduation the Women's Gym was decorated in the traditional pine tree motif. Symbolic of the student who finally comes out of the woods. To start the proceedings, the organist played a lively piece and then broke into the solemn processional march announcing the arrival of the body—student. I imagine that the occasion is supposed to be serious, but I don't believe that the atmosphere should take on the appearance of a wake.

Each student looked as if his best friend had been cut off in the bloom of life. The black cap and gown he wore made him look like a pall-bearer rather than a joyous student who is about to crown his academic career with a long sought after diploma.

Of course graduation exercises should not take on the appearance of a three ring circus. And I am not trying to criticize the nervousness of the students involved. But of the entire affair, Prexy was the only one who had an air of humanness about him. True he's seen many a graduation in his time, but his manner was one of—Well boys, you've been through the mill for four years now and from here on you're on your own. Don't let it worry you. If you've trained yourself conscientiously you can lick anything you tackle. The guest-speaker, Dr. Millis, gave a fine speech, but I had the feeling that it was the kind of speech that would make better reading than listening.

I should hope that come June, when the majority of the class of '49 graduates, that the atmosphere is one of confidence and faith in what the future holds.

MAINE-LY MUSIC

By Bob Slosser

This week, the Campus presents the first column on music and its relation to the campus. By Bob Slosser, musician and writer, "Maine-ly Music" will be a regular feature of the Campus, alternating with columns by Marilyn Wyman and Dick Willis.—Ed.

Charlie Barnet is coming to Colby this week end to play for the annual winter carnival! Students at the Waterville college are really going to get a treat because the Barnet band is composed of some of the greatest top-flight musicians in the country, and they really play some great stuff. The music produced by the Barnet aggregation is danceable, and fine to listen to.

In a couple of weeks, Feb. 21, Jack Darvil is coming to the University of Maine to play for the Intramural Ball, which is a part of the winter carnival. Who is Jack Darvil? He is a disciple of that mickey-mouse bandleader of New England fame, Carl Broggi. Both of these cornballs originated in Sanford, Maine. They have traveled around Maine and New Hampshire playing for various dances sponsored by people who want a new band, but are not willing to get out and hustle up means of bringing in a good band.

People attending the dances played for by Darvil and Broggi got just what they deserved for allowing the promoters to push them around. They got overly-commercial music played by a group of nine musicians and a vocalist. I wonder what we'll get?

In looking over a release from the General Artists Corporation, I was very bitter to notice the number of colleges, besides Colby, that are going to hold proms this month and next which will feature name bands. Take a look at this and see if you don't feel neglected.

Woodbury Forest College—Sam Donahue; North Carolina State—Jimmy Dorsey; Yale University—Jimmy Dorsey; University of the South—Sonny Dunham; University of Wisconsin—Woody Herman; University of Iowa—Woody Herman and the King Cole Trio.

Publication Board Secretary Reports

To the Readers: After the January 20 issue of the Campus had gone to press, the Student Publications Committee received a letter from Ralph Barnett, president of the General Student Senate, relative to this newspaper.

In his letter, President Barnett reported that the General Student Senate disapproved of the Campus editor's editorials and that it advocated the editor's removal.

Subsequently, in a letter to President Barnett, the Student Publications Committee said:

"The policy of the Student Publications Committee with respect to the Campus editorial page was defined by resolution in the spring of 1948 as follows:

"It (the committee) recognizes that an obligation to be accurate and fair, and to respect the law of libel and the community's canons of good taste, must apply alike to news columns and editorial page.

"Subject only to that obligation, the committee believes, the editor of The Maine Campus and his assistants should be free at all times to decide what the paper shall advocate editorially and what it shall oppose.

"This committee is not an arbiter of student opinion and it will not become such."

"While the members of this committee feel that the phraseology of a recent editorial did transgress the community's canons of good taste, and have so advised the editor, the committee does not feel that further action on its part is warranted by the circumstances."

LARRY JENNESS, Secretary
Student Publications Committee

Student Asks Why Mail Not Mailed

To the Editor: I am wondering what right, legal or otherwise, anyone has to hold our mail here in Orono during an official vacation period.

The day after I returned from the Christmas vacation I received a letter which I would have received two weeks before had I been here. That letter was an important one and I should have had it as soon as possible. There is every reason to believe that a lot of other students had the same thing happen to them.

The bulk of student mail would not be involved. I think one can safely say that most of our correspondents would know where we were and no letters would be coming from them. However, there are those business contacts, letters of less frequent exchange, and the like, that remain here over the vacation period.

Technically we do not live here during a vacation. The rooms are not ours; other people occupying them in our absence. Our belongings are not guaranteed to be here when we return so why should our mail be held? Nothing else is, except, perhaps, the option on our rooms.

This may seem rather petty to some students but all I can say is wait 'till it happens to you. I didn't think of it until it happened to me.

I'd like to know if our mail can be forwarded and, if so, why isn't it done? It seems as though a system could be worked out between the University and the post office so that a student could have his mail forwarded if he wishes.

Intramural basketball, currently at the halfway mark in the schedule, has been improving in the calibre of play. Games worth seeing are being missed by many students who don't realize the ability of many of the intramural players. Phi Mu's single point-victory over Phi Gam Monday night thrilled more than 300 spectators.

Two top games to be played soon include once-beaten Corbett #4 vs. undefeated Dunn #2 Feb. 14 in the 7:30 set of games, and the battle of the undefeated fraternity teams, which will vie with the New Hampshire track meet Feb. 19. Kappa Sigma, defending campus champion, faces Phi Mu Delta in what should prove one of the best contests of the year.

Maine's play in basketball may be expected to pick up if the Connecticut is a fair indication. The noticeable spirit of the varsity sophomores seems to have affected the entire squad.

Monte Moore's death is mourned by the entire state. The 57-year-old Bates athletic director was the originator of the currently abused rule which denies a JV player the right to sit on the varsity bench after playing the preliminary game, if the JV's play representatives of the varsity college. Bates has abused the rule constantly, once causing the sole defeat of Maine's Jayvees. In all fairness to this University and other victims, shouldn't something be done? The rule should be preserved or abandoned, but not tossed around!

Maine's little-publicized attempt to aid University athletes and athletic enthusiasts finally received due recognition through the efforts of Howard Keyo and the faculty manager. Contact lenses were available for inspection and demonstration at the gymnasium last month for those who were interested. Three students who play on University teams have accepted the new-type lenses, and several others have followed suit.

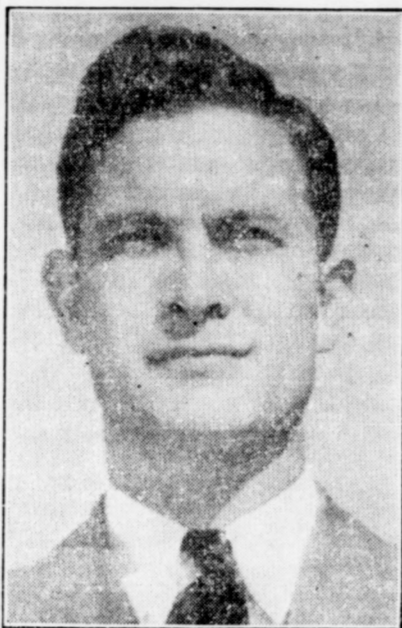

Informal hockey has gained more and more fans as the season has continued. The current blanket of snow may have hindered operations for a while, but the schedule will continue. General skating, however, is suffering because of hockey's spectators. Students without skates are interfering with the skaters. The area is too small for so many people. Perhaps temporary stands may be constructed to provide for the sport's fans.

The fraternity all-point scoring race has been narrowed down to two houses after two sports have been completed. Without counting basketball, still with more than half of the schedule to be played, Kappa Sigma leads the 17 fraternities with 87 points. Phi Kappa Sigma trails by three with 84.

The University plan for using the women's gym for final exams proved a success. Memorial Gymnasium was open all through the examination period for regular varsity practice, and for the enjoyment of all those who had the time to play. But the slippery surface hindered such practice sessions. Why not move the weekly dances to the women's gym, too. Either that, or have the floor washed of the excess wax.

Ted Curtis just wouldn't give up—Just look at all that snow! Wonderful, eh, Ted?

Allen Departure May Force Snively's Leave

that Allen had considered resigning prior to that organization's request for his removal. Allen, in his letter of resignation, said, "I am convinced that the strenuous duties and constant pressures involved in serving as head coach of two major sports have recently been detrimental to my health."

The coach, who came to Maine from Brown University in 1941, has been under medical care for some time, and has made several trips to the Leaky Clinic in Boston recently.

His resignation was received "with regret" by Pres. Hauck, who said in a letter of acknowledgment to Allen that he had been authorized to give the resigning coach a leave of absence for the spring semester.

Pres. Hauck in his letter said, "Although I have been aware for some time that, for reasons of health, you might feel it advisable to give up your coaching duties for a time, I can only accept your resignation with sincere regret."

Snively May Go

At a conference with members of the press and radio, Wieman said that a new coach would have the privilege of naming an assistant coach, with budgetary limitations. It is possible, therefore, that A. Barr "Whoops" Snively, named as assistant coach last fall, may not be returning to the University in that capacity.

During his career at the University of Maine, Allen-coached squads won three State Series titles—two in basketball and one in football—and were involved in a three-way tie for the title one year. Of 12 State Series football games, his squads lost only three, tied one, and were never defeated by Bowdoin or Colby. His grand total of wins

TKE Bowls Over PEK In Pin Crown Playoff

Tau Kappa Epsilon recently won the Interfraternity bowling championship. TKE and Phi Eta Kappa finished in a first place tie with 36 wins and 8 losses each. A playoff was rolled on the Orono Alleys, and TKE took the pin crown by a total of 11 pins, 1532-1521.

The standings in the league at the close of the season were as follows:

In basketball, the Bears under Allen won 19 State Series tilts while being defeated in 11 games, and in the New England Conference the Pale Blue won 12 and lost 13 under Allen for a total of 31 wins and 28 losses.

Wieman is quoted as saying that he understood Allen had no definite plans for the future but had various ideas in mind.

Savignano Scores On First Try As Grid Coach At Hampden

By JOHN MURPHY

Al Savignano, while not voted the coach of the year in 1948, probably held the most unusual coaching position in the state during the past football season.

As an undergraduate at the University of Maine, Savignano held the head coach's job at Hampden Academy in Hampden just outside Bangor.

Football at Hampden had been non-existent from the 1940 season until the fall of 1947. In that year the inexperienced Broncos failed to win a single game but they did build the foundations for the 1948 campaign.

Savignano took over the coaching reins last fall and led his comparatively green eleven to five wins and one loss. Very few coaches can boast of such a record with only one previous season of building.

With a total enrollment of only 150 students, including both boys and girls, Hampden has been forced to play larger schools. Ellsworth High, which is about four times as large as the Academy, was the only team to defeat the Broncos, taking a 19-12 decision.

High Point of Season

Savignano's team hit its high point when it walloped Crosby High of Belfast, a larger school, 25-12.

Maine Skiers Off To Hanover

Coach Ted Curtis' varsity ski team which came through with flying colors last weekend at the Rumford Winter Carnival, will be looking for new laurels this week end as it treks to Hanover, N. H., for the Dartmouth carnival.

Hawkes and Dwelley placed first and second in the down hill events at Rumford, while Dave Newton was fifth in the 9-mile cross country. The only men to finish ahead of Newton were three olympic men and Si Dunklee, New Hampshire ace.

McGill Carnival Offers Beaucoup Recreation

The winter carnival of McGill University, Montreal, Canada, featuring three dances, athletic contests in hockey, skiing, basketball, boxing and other sports, will be held Feb. 16-19.

Carnival guests will find opportunity for skiing, skating, tobogganing, and other outdoor revelry. Students wishing accommodations should write to John Dobson, chairman of the McGill Winter Carnival.

Bowdoin, Bates Are Next Foes For Sezak Men

The Maine state series moves into the final round this week end with Bowdoin and Bates coming to Orono for games with the Pale Blue. The Polar Bears will be here Saturday night and Bates next Wednesday.

Julius Millman's two long set shots in the final minute of play stopped Maine's spirited drive to snap a 10-game winning skein. The Bears tallied a foul, but time ran out with New Hampshire leading, 52-51.

First game starters Bert Goddard and Don Kelsey sparked Maine to a halftime lead, 30-27, and kept the Bears ahead of the Wildcats until the closing minutes.

The Jayvees outlasted Coburn in the preliminary game, 81-64. Dentremond paced the scorers with 27 points.

Maine is currently resting in the series cellar with a record of one win against five defeats. The addition of some new blood to the team, however, may improve the Sezakmen and add more games to their win column.

Bowdoin, with a record of three and three in series play, has downed the Bears twice this year. Sparked by Sid Conolly and Dick Pandora, the Polar Bears have been the surprise of the state. Their twin wins over Maine were the first achieved by a Bowdoin hoop team in three years.

Bill Simpson, the state's highest scorer, will lead the Bobcats' invasion of Memorial Gym. Simpson has been immense this year for Ed Petro's team. Other Bates men to watch are Slim Somerville and Bob Carpenter.

One-Mile Relay Men 2nd To R.I. In Boston

Maine's one-mile relay team placed second to Rhode Island State at last week's Boston Athletic Association meet at Boston Garden.

The quartet of Bob Bleakney, Ken Vennett, Clint Tripp, and Wally Brown, trailed the Rams, who were timed in 3:29.s, but defeated Massachusetts and Connecticut in a Yankee Conference competition.

Blaine Beal finished third in the fourth heat of the 45-yd. high hurdles. The heat was won by Ed Dugger, who placed third behind Harrison Dillard and Jim Gehrdes in a record-breaking race.

Boston-Indians Series Features Jones' Talk

Jeff Jones of the Boston Braves scouting staff showed motion pictures of the Braves-Cleveland World Series games to more than 100 interested students Tuesday evening in the Louis Oakes Room.

Comics Is Motif Of This Year's Winter Carnival

The comic strip motif will prevail in the sculpturing contest of this year's winter carnival.

A Snow Ball, to be sponsored by MOC in the Women's Gym, Monday, Feb. 21, will feature the Maine Bears orchestra. This dance, semiformal, is held to attract couples who are unable to get tickets to the Intramural Ball. Tickets at $1.50 per couple may be obtained at the Bookstore Thursday and Friday afternoons, Feb. 17 and 18, or from members of the Pack and Pine Club.

The bus for the MOC outing for novice and expert skiers at King's Mountain will leave the Bookstore Sunday, Feb. 13, at 9 a.m. and will return at 5 p.m. Cost, including bus fare and lunch, is $1.50 per person. Those making the trip are requested to sign at the Bookstore before 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Debate Teams Face Action At Boston And N. Brunswick

Two University debate teams will go into action this week end, as Maine squads travel to Boston and to New Brunswick.

Donald Waring and Lawrence Jenness will participate in the Third Annual Boston University debate tournament Friday and Saturday. Leonard Minski and Robert Moran will participate in a single debate at the University of New Brunswick on Friday.

Prof. Wofford G. Gardner, head of the Speech department, will accompany Waring and Jenness. Both debates are on the subject of Federal aid to education.

Seal Article Published

Philip M. Seal, assistant professor of electrical engineering at the University of Maine, has recently had an article published in the Proceedings of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Award Open To Women Graduates

Women graduates of colleges in the New England and Middle Atlantic States will be eligible for the first time this year to compete for a $1500 fellowship to be awarded by Barnard College for graduate study in the social sciences.

The Public Service fellowship, established in 1934 by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, will be awarded for the fourth time by Barnard, and can be used for graduate study in any approved college or university.

Candidates must have received the bachelor's degree not earlier than May, 1941, and not later than July, 1949, from a college or university in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, or Delaware.

The student must have shown special ability and interest in the social sciences, and must show promise of future usefulness in the public service. Applications, which must be submitted by April 1, 1949, may be secured from Prof. Conrad Arensberg, Barnard College, New York 27, N. Y.

Geology Club Paper Reports On Meteorites

Articles concerning falling meteorites featured the first edition of Rock and Hammer, a student publication of the University Geology Club, which came off the press last week. Edited by Wayne Plummer and Raymond Woodman, the edition also contains articles of information to geology students and a resume of the geology club's activities.

The club, through the work of president Jack Donohue, has recently undertaken the task of mapping the coastline of Mount Desert Island. This is the first step in geological mapping to find where each different rock type is located.

Advisors for the club are Dr. Joseph M. Trefethen and Professor Vincent Shainin.

Evans Attends Meeting

Professor Weston S. Evans, civil engineering department head, attended a series of meetings of the American Road Builders Association in Washington, D. C., this week.

Senate Debates, Investigates, And Negotiates

Numerous investigations, recommendations, and discussions were reported on, made, and held at the last meeting of the General Student Senate, but the only final decisions arrived at were that the organization would finance the repairing of chairs in Carnegie Lounge and continue negotiations for the installation of a pay telephone in the Library.

Although the group passed a recommendation that it request the Administration to exempt all "Dean's List" students from the 24-hour cut rule, no further developments were available.

An investigation on the possibility of installing coin automatic washing machines in the men's and women's dormitories proved that such a step was favorable to the students, and the matter will be brought before a trustee meeting Feb. 19. Charles E. Crossland, Director of Student and Public Relations, said.

The Senate formed a committee composed of Harold Marden, Barbara Richardson, and James McBrady to meet with department heads and other advisors. They are to investigate the question of students not knowing until the last minute whether or not they would be eligible for graduation. This matter was previously called to the administration's attention by the Campus.

Also under investigation was the question of final examinations, with Robert Fletcher, Dwight Demeritt, Robert Drew, Robert Greenleaf, John Graffam, Elizabeth Hempstead, and Barbara Grover on the committee.

A committee composed of Mr. Crossland, Harold Marden, Ralph Barnett, James McBrady, Russell Meade, and Edgar Bailey, formed for the purpose of defining the duties and powers of class officers, was accepted by the Senate.

Italian War Bride On Radio Guild Show

An Italian war bride, Mrs. Eva Connor, was interviewed on the Maine Radio Guild program over station WLBZ, last Wednesday.

The script included a dramatization of Mrs. Connor's first introduction to American neighborhood gossip. She commented on her impressions of American women, home life, and shopping facilities as compared with those in her native land.

The recent installation of new equipment in the University studio has again made it possible to broadcast the University town series direct from the campus.

Night Art Courses Are Big Success

The night art course instituted Feb. 3 by the School of Education in conjunction with the Art Department is a complete success, Professor Vincent A. Hartgen reported this week.

The present enrollment in the course is 63, and according to Professor Hartgen, it will jump to 75 before the end of this week. As a result of the tremendous enthusiasm shown in the course, it was necessary to split the group. One meeting will be held on Wednesday night, the other on Thursday.

Professor Hartgen stated that he was surprised at the interest shown by the professional and business people of the surrounding communities.

The course, which is not open to University students, will run for 15 weeks and two undergraduate credits will be allowed.

GRADUATION

dinner, Mr. Thurrell said he was disturbed "to watch the apathy of the rank and file of our American citizens and their inertia to throw off the coils that are gradually suffocating this nation."

"Integrity and courage are no longer guiding lights for those who lead our nation on the downhill path," he said. "Campaign promises to capture votes are the order of the day."

"What we need today are men of action—leaders. They are always at a premium," Thurrell said.

Those receiving masters' degrees were Stora Emmett, Anne McLean, Eugene Mawhinney, Thomas Harrington, William Stone, Shao Tung, William Georgitis, Samuel Robinson, Gerardus deRoth, and Harold Dyer.

Receivers of BA and BS degrees were:
