"I Didn't Intend To Stay," Says SAE's "Mother Mac"

By DON GROSS

Mrs. Edith McCollum, Sigma Alpha Epsilon's beloved "Mother Mac," who "didn't intend to stay" when she walked through the fraternity's front door 25 years ago, was presented a silver tea set at a banquet honoring her service as house mother, Thursday evening, Feb. 10.

The motherly "Mrs. Chips" was presented the tea service by William Kendall, president of the local SAE chapter. Master of ceremonies for the affair was T. Russell Woolley.

Said Mrs. McCollum, recalling the beginning of her service, "I agreed to come to Orono only during commencement of 1924." She had been asked to fill the role of Mrs. Mary Parcher who had recently died.

Asked why she stayed Mrs. McCollum answered, "When the boys asked me to stay I told them I would. I don't know why I said that, either, because I had intended to refuse the offer."

From 1904 to 1949 SAE has had only two house mothers; Mrs. Parcher, who served to 1924, and Mrs. McCollum.

Among the administrative and faculty guests from the University were Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Hauck, Mr. and Mrs. Elton E. Wieman, Charles O'Connor, Philip Brockway, and Dean Fred Loring.

Mrs. McCollum received a silver pin from Dean and Mrs. Wieman, and a copy of Jonathan Fisher, by Mary Ellen Chase, from Dr. and Mrs. Hauck.

"Twenty-five more years," Bill Johnson, fraternity resident, answered when the question arose as to how long Mother Mac intended to remain as house mother. She only smiled.

A native of Maine, Mrs. McCollum returned to her home state after the death of her dentist husband in Cambridge, Mass. Her summer home is in Deer Isle. She was graduated from Castine Normal School. Her only son lives in Boston.

The formula of her success for managing college men is very simple. "I don't interfere with the boys too much, but they know where to come when they need a button sewn."

$6,000 Bequest Granted Maine

The University of Maine has received a bequest of $6,033.69 under the terms of the will of the late Mrs. Lillie C. Hemphill, of Houlton and Portland, Dr. Arthur A. Hauck announced today.

Trustees of the University have voted to establish a $4,000 scholarship fund and also purchase a $2,000 electric organ for the music department with the money.

The scholarship fund will be known as the "Lillie C. Hemphill Scholarship Fund." The net income of this fund will be used for the assistance of students "whose character, ability, promise, and financial need make them worthy of scholarship aid."

Mrs. Hemphill was born in Meductic, N. B., in 1876. She and her husband made their home in Houlton from 1927 until 1943 when they moved to Portland where Mr. Hemphill died in 1945.

Mrs. Hemphill inherited the greater part of the estate of her sister, the late Violet E. Grosvenor, an interior decorator living in New York City.

Two Dances Mark Carnival Opening

The Maine Winter Carnival, highlight of the University winter season, is slated for Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 21-22. Festivities will get underway Monday evening with the crowning of the new Carnival Queen and will wind up Tuesday night with the Maine-Rhode Island game in Memorial Gym.

Jack Darvil and his band will furnish the music for Monday night's Intramural Ball also in Memorial Gym. The highlight of the Ball will be the crowning of the 1949 Carnival Queen by President Hauck and the presentation of a loving cup by last year's Queen, Carolyn "KO" Foley.

This year's Queen is being elected today by the student body, but the final decision will not be known until the dance Monday night. Candidates for the honor include Janet Bannister, Susan Beisel, Beverly Currier, Joanne Josslyn, and Mary Marsden.

Another dance will also be held Monday night when the Pack and Pine Club will sponsor a semi-formal affair in the Women's Gym. This dance is to accommodate the people who couldn't obtain tickets to the Intramural Ball. Tickets are $1.50 and will be on sale today and tomorrow in the bookstore. The Maine Bears will fur-

Fire Fighting Instructions Are Outlined

What do you do if the house is on fire? It's a little detailed but the administration answered the question this week. Here are the instructions.

1. Call Orono 600 (Orono F.D.) and give the exact location of the fire. Also, if it's between 7:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., call the University operator, 441. If it is at night or on Sunday, call Orono 740.

2. Give the alarm to all occupants of the building.

3. Keep a check on where the fire extinguishers are located. If the fire is of small proportion, apply extinguisher.

4. In case of an oil fire or a short circuit in electrical wiring, use a pyrene or a carbon dioxide extinguisher. Direct the discharge as close to the fire as possible, applying first at the edge and bottom of the blaze and working forward and upward.

5. Supervise the removal of equipment and records from your building or office.

6. Report any potential fire hazard to Mr. Dempsey, supt. of buildings and grounds, tel., ext. 16.

Under the regulations each school may enter as many two-men teams as it desires. ## New Signs Erected To Locate Forest

The University forestry department has erected four signs giving the general location of the University's forest, a tract of 1,700 acres located largely in Old Town. The signs are of a rustic type, made from logs cut from the University's forest.

Held on a long-term lease from the federal government, the forest is used by forestry students as a field laboratory in mensuration, silviculture, and game management.

sented with a trophy, and each of the four members in the final round will be awarded medals.

The Maine Debating Council and the Speech Department are sponsoring the tournament.

Judges for the tournament will be selected from the Speech Department, from the Debating Council, and from among the visiting debate coaches.

History Of State Is Theme Of Book By Maine Graduate

A comprehensive history of Maine, from early settlement days to the beginnings of the Industrial Era and young statehood is the theme of the book, A History of Maine, By Marion Jaques Smith, University of Maine Alumna, class of 1932.

Mrs. Smith presents the story of Maine from the viewpoint of a Maine teacher who felt the need of a standard and readable history of the state. Her book will be the first of its kind since the last century.

State and private institutions have cooperated in supplying data and illustrative matter, and the book will contain reproductions from old prints and paintings, and many new drawings.

Quizzer Finds Variance On Exam Question

With the completion of final exams the griping period is now in full swing. Some instructors do not return prelims or finals to the students, and this practice is receiving a great deal of verbal abuse.

Dr. Edward F. Dow of the history and government department, Dr. Albert M. Turner of the English department, and Dr. Wilmarth H. Starr of the modern languages department made statements indicating that their departments thought it desirable to return exams to the students when it was possible.

The question and comments:

"What is your opinion on the report that in one department here, the policy of not returning prelims and finals to the students is enforced?"

Dr. Albert M. Turner—English:

"The English department usually returns tests to the students, but in some cases the individual instructor finds it preferable not to return them. I feel that this is a justifiable position."

Dr. Wilmarth H. Starr—modern languages:

"Our policy is to return the exams to the students and also to discuss them in class if possible."

Dr. Edward F. Dow—history and government:

"The department policy here is to leave it to the individual discretion of the instructor."

New Life For The Owls

The Men's Senate is investigating the policies and practices of the Skulls and the Sophomore Owls. The Senate holds that the Skulls and Owls have fallen down on their jobs. It offers as a partial solution the suggestion that new Skulls and Owls be elected by the student body rather than by outgoing members of the two organizations.

These organizations were set up mainly for the purpose of instilling into new students the Maine Spirit. They were to acquaint freshmen and transfer students with the history and traditions of Maine and see that they conducted themselves as Maine men and women should.

The Skulls and the Owls, however, have become little more than policing organizations. Their main duty now consists of squaring freshmen's hats. About the only time a new student is given any dope on history or traditions is after he gets caught without his hat, or walking on the grass, and is invited to a meeting at the gym.

That, at any rate, seems to be the assumption under which the Men's Senate is acting.

We suggest that the General Senate take over the problem, since orientation of new students concerns both men and women. We further suggest that the General Senate set up a definite list of duties for Owls, Skulls, Eagles, and All-Maine Women pertaining to orientation of new students. Perhaps the following items could be included:

Let the Skulls and the All-Maine Women act as senior advisers to Owls and Eagles, who would do the actual instruction of freshmen.

Let a series of meetings be held, with a sophomore and senior representative chatting with a small group of new students.

Let several mass meetings be held at which general information would be given, followed by group meetings of the type suggested.

Whatever action is taken on this problem, it seems well to bear in mind:

That tradition conceivably can be instilled by group discussion and lecture.

That it cannot be instilled by merely having freshmen wear hats, keep off the grass, not talk to members of the opposite sex, and be in their dormitories by 7:30 p.m.

—BILL BRENNAN

Frats Could Take More Men

Since the great influx of students to the Maine campus there has been a lot of bickering about fraternities. It has been said many times that fraternities are choice groups and that only a certain number of privileged students are fortunate enough to become members.

I believe I have a solution to the problem that shouldn't be too difficult to carry out. Those fellows that have a desire to join fraternities could do so if the frats were to remove the limit on the number of men allowed on their non-resident quotas. Several adjustments might have to be made in regard to resident and non-resident membership. For instance, a two-year residence limit could be established. But in a fraternal group that shouldn't be a problem.

With a system built along those lines many who today are non-fraternity might well find an opportunity to join the fraternity circle.

A student husband came home to his wife, opened the door, and gave her one giant-sized kiss. Next he grabbed the vacuum cleaner and did the house. Next he made the beds and then washed the dishes. His wife started to cry and upon being questioned she said, "The baby has been sick, they came and took back the radio, your mother is coming, the stove went out, and now you come home drunk."

IT HAPPENED--HEAR

BY MARILYN HOYT

...And all of a sudden I saw it—Al Dumais was wearing a mustache. Out of mere curiosity I pointed to it questioningly. "Oh that," he said, licking it down with the tip of his tongue. "I'm growing it so people will respect me." He straightened his shoulders, lifting his head defiantly. "I'm tired of people treating me like an old shoe."

A couple of cute Freshman girls, Dottie Miller and Yvonne Richmond, were running around the campus recently with an old toy gun. They asked every man they met if it belonged to him. Nothing happened—I guess the Maine men are growing staid—they've lost their spirit for adventure.

...Doesn't riding in a bus make you nervous? Have you ever noticed how the passengers stare into space, at the advertisements, or out the window? One simply can't get any attention for oneself. Probably that's why Lady Godiva rode a horse instead.

Have you heard about the latest fad? Exchanging boy friends for that good-night kiss. We don't need a public relations bureau here at Maine, we're self-sufficient.

I hear the B.T.P.C. (Below Two Point Club) is having ecstasies of delight. John Wentworth is getting only 3.6 this semester, instead of his usual 4.0.

I was concentrating very hard in Spanish class the other day, when I noticed in amazement a girl sitting beside me tugging furiously at the pant leg of a boy who sits behind her. I glanced sympathetically at the boy, who was growing more embarrassed by degrees. Finally in desperation he whispered hoarsely, "Hey, cut it out."

The brazen hussey turned around with an aghast, "Oh—I thought it was my coat," and shamefully hid her face behind a Spanish book for the rest of the hour.

If anybody wants to be popular around South Estabrooke, he'd better learn how to do jig-saw puzzles. Althea Kirk and Sid Turner are getting to be very adept. Sid, however, still hasn't the necessary patience. We heard him mumbling to himself the other night, "This piece ought to go here. It must go here. Well, what do ya know, it doesn't? Aw heck! I give up!"

Mail Bag

Buttons And Bows Want Bells On Toes

To the Editor: There appeared in the "Mail Bag" recently a thrilling exposé of the date problem as seen by "Buttons and Bows." The letter was indeed interesting, but I don't quite agree with all the points presented.

These "darned good kids" for instance, sit around on week ends because they don't particularly like to date unless there is an automobile seat somewhere in the picture for the convenience of their fannies. And accusing us men of being conceited—WOW! When it comes to conceit here at Maine, we men look like so many ten percenters stacked up against the self-centered women on campus.

It really seems to me that the females at this University are more interested in pieces of jewelry emblazoned with Greek hieroglyphics, and internal combustion engines supported by four wheels than they are in the males of the school.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with "the good old average American gal"—too bad we don't have any here at the University of Maine.

My regards to "Buttons and Bows." "BELTS AND SUSPENDERS"

Student Suggests Counseling Service

To the Editor: Have you ever met the student who comes to college, enrolls for courses but does not know where he is going—in a word, what he wants to become professionally? The problem is a common one. Could we the students be given more help in this direction?

It is true that the department of psychology counsels on a part time basis, and when such work can be fitted into teaching schedules. In fact, this department gave guidance to some seventy-five students last semester—probably a small proportion of those who needed such help. Certainly instructors from other departments have helped in their capacities as advisers but is the sum total enough to meet the genuine need.

The need for a counseling service is easily seen by talking to seniors who after majoring in a subject for four years are uncertain whether their chosen field is the right one. In fact, we all know that a large per cent of college graduates are not employed in their major field of study ten years after graduation.

A more complete counseling service would not stop with vocational guidance but would attack emotional and study problems. Every campus has many poor readers, poor spellers, and students who just don't know how to apply useful study techniques. Every campus has students with emotional problems ranging from slight to severe.

Important as counselors are, the student ultimately must think out his own salvation.

Thus when choosing a profession a student must be able to read about the various professions.

Our present library facilities give us some of this information; the need is for more of it—more carefully selected, up-to-date information on the professions. The counseled student needs such literature to help him utilize the advice given him.

Well organized counseling service is the order of the day in progressive colleges. Can we not do more in this direction at Maine?

Bear Facts

BY JERRY ROGOVIN

It's no wonder that referee Charley Wotton plans to retire from the whistle-calling business after this season; he allows himself to get so worked up at a game that the final buzzer must mean more than the fact that he can pick up his check.

Saturday's pleasant win over the pale polar bears must have established some sort of record. Has any team since the reactivation of basketball at Maine ever scored so few goals in one half. Bowdoin netted one goal and eight fouls in the first 20 minutes.

Joe Fulks of the Philadelphia Warriors of the professional loop established a record last week which will be hard to beat. He rung up 63 points in Philly's 108-87 win over Indianapolis on 27 goals and nine fouls. He missed five free throws.

While Maine students are enjoying winter carnival festivities here Feb. 21-22 three Maine students will be throwing leather at Lowell, Mass., in the New England Golden Gloves tourney. Ralph Piscopo, heavyweight, Paul Flaig, 160-lbs., and John Barber, lightweight, will represent the University in the second round of tryouts.

The first team to represent the University against outside competition on ice will be a group of 17 all-stars. They face the Annex Saturday at 2 p.m. Sunday's regularly scheduled games will be played.

Wally announces that Memorial Gymnasium is open Sundays from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Nobody should be in the gym before or after those hours.

Entries for the intramural ski events, which are to be the same as those of last year, must be in to Wally's office by tomorrow. Snow is forecast for this week end, so the slope and the jump will probably be in good shape for Tuesday's events.

Whether anyone knows it or not, A. Barr (Whoops) Snively will complete his duties as hockey coach at Williams this season. That fact makes him eligible for the football coaching job here. He was line coach for the 1948 eleven. He could double as hockey adviser.

Colby may have to forego its intended trip here to play our intramural hockey all-stars because of delayed games in its schedule. So many contests were postponed by the weather that the tail-end of their program is packed with plenty of games.

Intramural basketball still needs a third referee to watch that scoring and timing is executed correctly. The officiating in the games has left plenty to be desired, too. The good intramural refs are in the decided minority to the poor ones.

The play of the varsity basketball team has improved tremendously since the double debut of Kelsey and Bert Goddard. Regardless of the results, the calibre of team cooperation has definitely reestablished the team in the hearts of the Maine fans. Basketball has once again made itself a spectator sport at Maine.

Bill Cummings's surprise jump victory at Dartmouth reinforces the contention that major letters should be awarded to skiers who score in the various meets. The ski team is the only Maine team to win truly national recognition. The present setup does not allow enough men the right to contention.

Four Sports Pack Weekend, Carnival Action

ONE THAT DIDN'T GET BY CHARLIE BROWN was Dagdigian's low shot. Others in the picture are George Paradis (on the ice), Shipley and Branscombe. Referee Barnett is in the background.

Varsity Sports, Intramurals Feature Events

Intramural and intercollegiate athletic events combine this week end and during Winter Carnival to provide University sports fans with the most intensive schedule of athletic activities of the year.

Varsity teams compete in track and basketball in the top intercollegiate attractions, and an informal intramural all-star hockey team represents the University in the first ice contest with outside competition.

Intramural ski events for women and men and four interfraternity court games will vie with other activities for the attention of week end guests.

Basketball

The Northeastern Huskies invade Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow night to start festivities. Led by Inga Walsh and Tom Blair, the Joe Zabilski-coached Boston team will be seeking its second win over the Bears. They defeated Maine in Boston Jan. 8, 65-56.

The Rhode Island State Rams provide the opposition for the season's last home court game. The Rams rolled over Maine at Kingston last month, 98-48, and currently rank with the top five teams nationally in scoring. Lanky Ken Goodwin, Bruce Blount, and Sal Sclafani pace the Rhody team.

Hockey

Ice hockey makes its bow at the University against outside competition. An all-star team of 14 men chosen from the seven teams in the informal loop will face the Annex team at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Intramural Basketball

Four games in the interfraternity basketball league Saturday will bring together the five ranking teams. The 1:30 games bring third-place Phi Gamma Delta against Phi Kappa Sigma, the fifth place five. The second set of games, which is scheduled for 2:30, brings two undefeated teams together in one half of the brace. Phi Mu Delta faces defending campus champion Kappa Sigma in a contest which should decide the inevitable fraternity champion, barring upsets.

Track

Coach Paul Sweet's New Hampshire cinder squad opens Maine's indoor track season in the field house at 1:30. The Wildcats routed Bates in their initial meet, and were trampled by Bowdoin last week. The Durham team, paced by Frank Barndollar in the hurdles and dashes, Nort Tupper in the weights, Gamble and Langevin in the vault and the jump, will be favored.

Winter Sports

Skiing gains the spotlight Washington's birthday in both the men's and the women's divisions. I.M.A.A. events include a one and one-half mile cross country run for the men, dashes and relays, novelty races, downhill and slalom for both divisions. The jump is included in the men's program.

Red Hot Bears Roll Over Bates Bobcats

Maine's varsity quintet continued its late season surge last night, blasting Bates, 60-29. Maine led from the start, and Bates was never in contention.

The floating zone defense, designed for the Bears by Coach Sam Sezak, baffled the Bobcat offense, and the visitors left the floor at intermission with only nine points. Two field goals were tallied in that total.

Paced by Charley Goddard, who racked up 14 points, brother Bert with nine, and Don Kelsey with nine, the Bears controlled both backboards, and held big Bill Simpson to one goal, and four free throws.

Bert Goddard, who was forced to leave the game with an ankle injury, will be ready to play tomorrow against Northeastern.

The Junior Varsity avenged their only defeat this year, 78-74.

Maine Skis At McGill

Winter Sports activities will not be at a standstill this weekend, despite the postponement of the state meet, scheduled for Orono.

McGill has re-extended its invitation to Maine to participate in the Carnival tomorrow and Saturday. The invitation was originally declined because of the state meet.

Emerson's Red Riots Lead Small Schools In His Coach Debut

BY JOHN MURPHY

Bob Emerson not only knows chemical formulas but he has the formula for a winning football team.

Bob led Orono High School eleven to the small school Penobscot Valley Conference crown the past season.

The Red Riots compiled a season's record of five wins, two losses and a single tie. The losses were to two of the larger teams in the conference—John Baptist and Brewer.

At present Emerson is employed by the Penobscot Chemical Fiber Company as a chemist, but he expects to be back at his coaching position when the next football season rolls around.

A native of Bangor, Bob graduated from Bangor High. He played football and basketball, and was on the track squad. He attended Higgins Classical Institute at Charleston for a year where he continued his activities in football and track.

Emerson played football for the freshmen and for the Maine varsity. In 1947, as a member of Maine's state series champs, Emerson was selected All-state end.

The long, lanky fellow was a consistent point-getter on Coach Chester Jenkins's track teams. His specialty was the pole vault, and he also did some broad jumping.

Emerson won the state pole vault every year and was counted on as a sure winner in the event in practically every meet. The only man to defeat him in collegiate competition in New England competition was Richard "Boo" Morcom of New Hampshire. Morcom won in the 1948 Olympics at London.

His best jump was 12 feet, nine inches, which tied the University record.

At Orono, last fall, Bob took a team which had only two lettermen and molded them into champions. A veteran squad returns next year.

The Red Riots defeated Dover, Bar Harbor, Dexter, Bucksport, and Lincoln, and tied Old Town.

While at Maine, Emerson was a Sophomore Owl and a Senior Skull, a member of the Pale Blue Key, the M-Club and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He and his wife are now living at 11 Webster Road, Orono.

Cummings Wins Jump At Dartmouth

Dartmouth College regained its carnival title from Middlebury last week at Hanover, but Bill Cummings of Maine scored a brilliant upset to win the jump of 44-meters. The jump was the longest of the carnival, and it equalled that of Sweden's Wilhelm Hellman, who exhibited his jumping skill.

Maine finished eighth in a field of ten teams.

John Chapman was the first Maine man across the finish line in the down hill. He gained 11th spot. Griffin of McGill was the winner.

The team moved one rung higher in the standings, passing Harvard Saturday. The Bears placed fourth in the combined down hill-jump to edge the Crimson.

Ted Hawkes led the Maine skiers in the Friday cross country, placing 17th. Dave Newton was next in 25th position.

The Dartmouth meet was the first strong competition for Coach Curtis's charges this winter.

600 4-H'ers Expected In Annual Event

More than 600 Maine 4-H Club members are expected to enroll in the 1949 National 4-H Garden program. Last year nearly 375,000 club members, ranging in age from 10 to 21, planted and tended approximately 80,000 acres of garden.

Each 4-H Club member enrolled in the program has an opportunity to win one of four county medal awards provided by Allis-Chalmers. There is also a state award of a free trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago, and a chance for one of eight $300 scholarships.

L.S.-M.F.T.-ABC—How Mild? Smoke, Smoke, Smoke, Say Ads

By BIFF SHALEK

A flick through modern-day newspapers shows cigarette advertisements that guarantee cures for everything from a sore throat to lumbago. Gone are the days when Henry advertised a cheap, sturdy car. Now they stress sleek lines, better vision, softer seats, and an engine that needs a new tank-full of gas every time it backfires.

The love for the good-old-days beats strong in every poor man's breast. Relax whilst we rattle off some of the ads that appeared in the Maine Campus—1932.

The pitcher shows a lovely coed and male resting in a provocative back-to-back pose with a mighty oak for a background. Says the young lady of a popular brand of weed. "They click with me, too! I'm not what you'd call a heavy smoker (Horrors!) But even I can tell that they're milder." No mention of tubercular cough here. Says the pretty Miss in another ad, when her boyfriend shouts, "What on earth are you up to now?" "I'm finding things out, smarty! (Ye Gods, Dean Wilson, take note!) I thought I'd examine the tobacco in a cigarette."

A popular shoe store in Orono was offering for sale the "Tarzan" a shoe for slickers to wear with slacks. A BOSTONIAN creation worn with corduroys, slacks, beer suits, (not on this Campus, please!) knickers, and what-nots. Prettily chic eh? Another—"What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising! Let's look at one of its greatest illusions that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior FLAVOR." How thrilling. Say did you ever see that little white thing Bette Grable holds in the ads nowadays? You haven't? Well prepare yourself for a shock. That too, is an exciting, never heavily smoked cigarette.

Skeptics Hour Feature Of 1949 Embassy Week

Embassy Week, March 7-10, will again feature the popular Skeptics Hour which proved to be the most outstanding item on last year's agenda.

The Inter-Faith series, where representatives of the Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths lay down the basic doctrines taught by each will be presented to further mutual understanding.

Topics chosen for this year's Skeptics Hours include: Science vs. Religion, What can we believe about God?

President's Day Committee Plans Program

President's Day committees are busy at work on the program to be presented in May honoring President Hauck, who this year completes his 15th year as head of the University.

The program, which will commence at noon on Maine Day, will feature a general open house for all departments and an evening of entertainment.

"The purpose of the program," general chairman Biff Shalek states, "is to coordinate all the units in the University so that the student will be better able to understand the aims and functions of a state university. For example, the open house will allow technology men to visit the College of Arts and Sciences and vice versa. The entertainment committee, by using the collective talents of the outstanding students and faculty members, plus the services of the band, glee club, and Masque, intends to stage a show that will deserve the appreciation of the student body."

Richard Singer heads the open house committee. Other members are Herbert Harriman, John Bache-Wiig, Stanley Miller, and faculty adviser Professor Benjamin C. Kent.

Maine's First Coed Registered In Fall Of 1872, Had Trouble Proving Women's Place Not In Home

By DON KING

This is the third article of a series on the history of the University of Maine, which may be especially interesting in conjunction with the observance of Dr. Arthur A. Hauck's 15th year as president and the University's 80th anniversary.—Ed.

The University of Maine campus has long been famous for two things: its cold winter weather, and its coeds. The cold winters have always been here, but not the coeds.

For several years after its opening in 1868 the Maine State College, as it was then known, was exclusively masculine. In 1872, however, a Miss Louise Hammond Ramsdell applied for admission to the State College in the junior class.

The regulations of the college did not make any provision for the admittance of women, so the president, Dr. Merritt Caldwell Fernald, went before the Maine State Legislature and asked for an amendment of the rules. As a result the legislature, on Feb. 23, 1872, passed a law admitting women to the Maine State College. Miss Ramsdell was accordingly admitted in the fall of that year.

Being the only woman in a college of young men was an adventure as well as a fight. Maine men of that year believed that a woman's place was in the home rather than in competition with the so-called stronger sex.

But the young lady was equal to the occasion. According to Dr. Fernald's history of the University, Miss Ramsdell was a member of his class in practical astronomy when he offered a prize to the first student who could correctly demonstrate a certain problem in spherical geometry.

The 12 young engineers scoffed when Miss Ramsdell said she could demonstrate it, but the scoffing soon changed to chagrin when she proceeded to demonstrate the problem point by point.

Miss Ramsdell broke the ice, but when she graduated in 1874 there were only a few other women at the college. In fact, up to 1905 there were never more than 25 women registered at one time, and it was not until 11 years later that the college roll counted 100 coeds.

The chief problem concerning women was the lack of dormitories. Girls who attended had to board with families on or near the campus in Orono. But with the opening of Mt. Vernon house in 1898, and Balentine Hall in 1913 the way was open to the accommodation of many more coeds in the years to come.

Explorer Sees No Real Threat From Russians

"There will be no war with Russia for a long time to come. We are the best prepared nation in the world today and Russia is not ready for war."

This was the import of a speech by Commander Donald B. MacMillan, internationally known explorer and scientist, in an illustrated lecture before an overflow audience at the Little Theatre Thursday evening.

Commander MacMillan, 75-year-old veteran of 27 trips to the Arctic during which time he carried out valuable scientific work for the government, said that we have established six radar bases, twelve meteorological stations, and six air bases in the Arctic area. "And Russia knows all about it," he said.

Commander MacMillan declared that the United States has spent over $500,000,000 in Greenland for military and scientific projects. "But the Danes will never give it up; they are proud of their territory," he added.

Highlight of the lecture was the showing of 3,000 feet of colored film taken last summer on his last trip to the Arctic, giving a fascinating description of that area and its people and wildlife.

A graduate of Bowdoin College, Commander MacMillan has spent almost forty years exploring the Arctic region and has covered over 200,000 miles of water. He plans to lead another expedition to the Arctic next June.

The lecture was sponsored by the Maine Outing Club and the University Assembly Committee.

Senate Debates Bill On Popular Election Of Skulls And Owls

The Men's Senate last week went on record as favoring popular election of Senior Skulls and Sophomore Owls.

The measure, introduced by Robert D. Moran, would replace the present system of one-year Skulls and Owls selecting their successors.

A committee, headed by Moran, was appointed to consider the details of an election, and the duties and qualifications of these two organizations. Other members of the committee are James E. Davee, Bradley T. Shaw, James A. Hinds, and Lawrence C. Smith.

Plant Science, Engineering Buildings Seen Ready By Fall

The Plant Science and Engineering buildings, now under construction on the campus, will be completed and ready for class occupancy by next fall, Parker Cushman of the University's grounds and buildings department said this week.

The Plant Science building, estimated to cost about $523,000, will have classroom and laboratory facilities for departments of agronomy, forestry, horticulture, and entomology, and laboratories for the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station's departments of plant pathology, entomology, and plant breeding.

Original plans for the Plant Science building, according to Prof. M. D. Jones, chairman of the building's planning board, called for five separate structures, but were later combined into one building serving the five departments.

The Engineering Building, estimated to cost approximately $455,000, will have offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the civil engineering, mechanical engineering, and industrial cooperation departments.

Quarters which these departments now occupy in Wingate Hall will be taken over by the Physics Department.

Present plans call for a basement only at the southeast portion of the Engineering Building, but Cushman said the University plans eventually to raise both wings to the height of its three-floor center section.
