Cut In Funds Is Hard Blow To University

Legislature Returns School To 1931 Basis

Failure of the 94th Legislature to appropriate funds requested by the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine poses a serious problem, President Arthur A. Hauck said this week.

"In effect," President Hauck declared, "the University, despite its large number of veteran students and greatly increased enrollment, is expected to operate with a state grant no greater than that of 20 years ago."

Needs Were Made Known

On October 20, 1948, the Trustees requested the Budget Committee of the 94th Legislature to provide the University with $325,000 a year in addition to the Mill Tax for the 1949-51 biennium. This was the amount received for the 1947-1949 biennium for Orono and The Brunswick Campus. The Committee was informed that this request did not include any funds for capital improvements or expansion of services.

January 12, 1949, Gov. Frederick G. Payne in his budget message to the Legislature said, "An outstanding service has been carried out by our state university in providing for an accelerated program in the interests of our veterans desiring college training. Because of mounting enrollments resulting in increased costs all along the line, the University of Maine should be provided $300,000 per year in addition to the presently established one mill tax." The Trustees then requested a special appropriation of $300,000 per year in addition to the

Lambda Chi Wins Interfraternity Sing

Lambda Chi Alpha captured first place in Tuesday evening's fifth annual Interfraternity Sing. The winner's trophy, an engraved plate, was donated by the Ohio Alumni Association. For the second consecutive year the program featured solos by Inez Frost, Bangor soprano.

The eve of Maine Day festivities found the Memorial Gym well-filled for the presentations of eight competing fraternities.

Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Eta Kappa, Phi Mu Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Sigma Chi returned to the Sing for the fifth time. Sigma Phi Epsilon made its initial contribution to the affair.

The judges committee for the event was under the chairmanship of President Arthur A. Hauck and consisted of Dean Elton E. Wieman, Dr. Charles Metcalf, Rev. Charles Dartnell, Mr. Gannett, Mr. Cyrus McCready, and Dr. G. William Small.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR A. HAUCK, after 15 years of untiring service to the University and its students, receives a presentation from Biff Shalek, chairman of the President's Day Committee, representing the Maine student body. President's Day, honoring Dr. Hauck, was held in conjunction with Maine Day.

President Hauck Honored; Scholarship Established

Maine Day was given a fitting climax in the field house last night when a $3,000 student scholarship fund was presented to President Arthur A. Hauck in honor of his 15th year as President of the University of Maine.

The income from the fund, given in trust to the University of Maine Foundation by the students in honor of President Hauck, is designed to assist needy students, and is to be administered by President Hauck at his discretion.

The scholarship was established yesterday by the classes of 1949, 1950, 1951, and 1952. Other organizations or agencies may make further contributions to the fund as they see fit.

A radio-phonograph console was also presented to Dr. Hauck by Biff Shalek, chairman of the President's Day committee, and Mrs. Hauck received a set of silver candelabra and bowl.

Glen Gray Is Booked For Commencement Ball

Glen Gray and his Casa Loma Orchestra of 16 pieces will be the feature attraction of the Commencement Ball, June 10.

Bruce Folsom, chairman of the dance committee, has announced that the ball will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The senior class voted to pay for the ball by an assessment of $3 to be paid by bill later this month. The vote took place at spring registration.

Julie O'Brien is one of the three vocalists for the orchestra.

The day's events got under way at 8 a.m. with the inauguration of the new mayor in front of the Library. At 8:20 a.m. His Honor fired the shot that gave nearly 1,500 students and faculty members the signal to start planting 1,000 trees, and cleaning up the campus.

The reforestation projects were finished at 11:30 a.m., climaxed by the planting of a memorial tree near Rogers Hall. The planting ceremony, which was sponsored by the College 4-H Club, included an invocation by Rev. Charles O'Connor, and a solo by Priscilla Goggin. President Hauck

Maine Editors Tell Students Of Problems Facing Reporters

"What's Wrong With Cub Reporters?" will be discussed by editorial executives of Maine daily newspapers at a University of Maine Press Club luncheon in Room D, South Estabrooke Hall, today.

The panel, second of its kind to be sponsored by the Press Club, will be conducted by Col. Daniel S. Dexter, editorial writer of the Leviston Evening Journal.

Newspapermen expected to attend, besides Dexter, are:

Kalil Ayoob, city editor, Bangor Daily News; Vincent F. X. Belleau, city editor, Leviston Evening Journal; F. E. Cousins, assistant managing editor, Portland Press-Herald; Evening Express; Robert G. Drake, editor, Waterville Sentinel.

The group will be welcomed by Joseph H. Cobb, president of the Press Club.

Last year, under the direction of City Editor Belleau, the group discussed "What Makes A Good Reporter."

Students of journalism, members of the Press Club, and friends will attend.

Maine Day Inauguration Ushers In New Slate of Major Student Officers

Tiny Elected Through Write-In Vote; Expresses Surprise But Accepts Post

BY WOODY BIGELOW

In an amazing upset, arising out of an unprecedented eleventh-hour campaign staged by his followers, dark-horse Robert "Tiny" Fletcher literally came out of nowhere to be elected Mayor of the campus for the coming year.

Fletcher, who now has the distinction of being the only mayor ever to be elected to office without presenting a formal campaign, had a comfortable margin over his opponents, Al Harrington and Bill Robertson. He took office Maine Day morning.

Winners of major student government contests were:

President of General Student Senate: James McBrady.

Vice President: Arthur Dentremont.

Secretary: Margaret Murray.

Treasurer: Barbara Grover.

President of Women's Student Government Association: Dorothea Butler.

Vice President: Joanne Josslyn.

Secretary: Jeanne Frye.

Treasurer: Bertha Clark.

President of Men's Athletic Association: Edward J. McDermott.

Senior Member: Alton M. Hopkins.

Junior Member: Paul Flaig.

President of Women's Athletic Association: Betty Friedler.

Vice President: Phyllis Os-

good.

Secretary: Nancy Knowles.

Treasurer: Lora Moulton.

Class Parts:

Class History: John Ballou.

Class Chaplain: Jack Zollo.

Class Ode: Paul Ford.

Upon official notification of his election, Mayor Fletcher expressed surprise. "I'll gladly accept the position, but I must admit I'm surprised at the outcome," he said.

According to Fletcher, he did

Tufts College Head To Speak

Dr. Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts College, will be the chief speaker at Commencement Exercises, Sunday, June 12, President Arthur A. Hauck has announced.

Dr. Carmichael, who is a native of Germantown, Philadelphia, has been associated with Princeton and Brown universities. He was chairman of the department of psychology and dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Rochester from 1936 until 1938, when he became president of Tufts.

Director of the National Roster of Science and Specialized Personnel in the early war period, Dr. Carmichael is also the author of several books on psychology.

He received the B.S. degree from Tufts and the Ph.D. from Harvard. He has also received many honorary doctorates.

All-Maine Women Elect Janet Pettie President

Janet Pettie was elected president of the All-Maine Women Tuesday morning at the annual initiation breakfast held at Dean Edith G. Wilson's home.

Fourteen women were initiated into the society along with the election of officers. Other officers elected were Barbara Richardson, secretary, and Caroline Strong, treasurer.

Maine Masque Members To Hear Morning Telegraph Drama Critic

George Freedley, drama critic of the New York Morning Telegraph and consultant-curator of the Theatre Collection of the New York Public Library, will be guest speaker at the Maine Masque Theatre's initiation and installation banquet next Tuesday.

Active in theatre since his graduation from the University of Richmond, Freedley is an officer of the New York Drama Critics Circle, president of the Theatre Library Association, a member of the Board of Directors of the American National Theatre and Academy, and a member of the Board of Directors of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Best known for his work on the Morning Telegraph and at the New York Public Library, he has compiled, edited and co-authored several books on the theatre, including "A History of the Theatre," "Theatre Handbook and Digest of Plays," and "A History of Modern Design."

During the Masque's installation ceremonies, more than 25 new members will be initiated into the theatre group, new officers will be named, and committee heads will be chosen.

The banquet will be held at the Commons in Oak Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday, with all other activities to be held in the Little Theatre.

Annex Men Reach Goal In Union Building Drive

The Brunswick Annex has reached its Union Building Fund quota according to John Sealey, Jr., executive secretary of the Alumni Association and chairman of the drive.

With more than 91 per cent of the Annex freshmen subscribing, the quota of $16,000 was reached last Saturday and indications are that the amount will be increased.

The drive is now in its final stages and will end on Alumni Day, June 11.

Student Using Tape Recorder In His Classes

"It doesn't help a bit in identifying spot passages in exams," and yet William Mincher, a junior English major, has found that by reading back notes into a tape recorder he is able to transform them into condensed lectures.

Bill, a regular announcer on a Bangor station, has recorded 30 hours of material on almost 50,000 feet of tape in the past year. Besides class work he has caught unrecorded music and dramatic sketches from the radio networks.

This is the first known instance of a Maine student using a tape recorder during a course of study, and it may well be a forerunner of the student's standard equipment in the future.

Both tape and wire recorders are portable and it is not inconceivable that students will be able to make a practical use of this study aid.

New President Of Men's Senate Aligns Self With 'Liberal Wing'

This is the first of a series of biographical sketches of the new leaders of student government organizations.

The new president of the Men's Senate is a member of what he calls the Senate's "new liberal wing, that has taken shape this year." Dwight Demeritt, who represents Off-Campus men, has backed revision of athletes' schedules to give them more time off in the afternoon, revision of the Senior Skulls, and elimination of the "cut rule."

Although only a sophomore, he has been recognized for his ability and integrity. A government major, Demeritt is well-versed in parliamentary procedure and has had experience in group leadership. He has served as Secretary-Treasurer of OCUMMO, is a member of the Senate Examination Committee, Maine Day Committee, is a wearer of the Maine Debate Key which he won as a Freshman, and belongs to Pi Kappa Delta (honorary forensic) and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Members of the Men's Senate have varied views concerning the new president. Jim Hinds, one of Demeritt's staunchest backers, said after the election:

"The problems confronting the Senate today demand the keen combination of progressive thinking and vigorous action. It's a job for a man whose political growth is just beginning to reach its prime. Dwight Demeritt is just that man. He has a tremendous capacity for work and a consuming enthusiasm for getting things done. His past record proves him to be straightforward and sound. His methods are simple and direct, hence effective."

Dorm Landscaping Nears Completion

Landscaping has been nearly completed in the Dunn, Corbett, and New Dorm #3 areas, Francis McGuire, Director of Plants and Facilities, announces.

Working with Prof. Roger Clark, McGuire's department has planted trees, bushes, and shrubs, and has re-finished the lawns.

Senate-Skulls Negotiations Stall Solution

Controversy between the Men's Senate and the Senior Skulls has gone into another week without solution.

The only action taken was at a meeting between representatives of both groups.

Disagreement between the two organizations arose after Senate investigations of the Skulls resulted in a revision in the society's constitution. Changes were made, but the revised charter was rejected by the Senate.

Ceremonies were held at which new Skulls were tapped, but their status is unknown.

According to Ralph Barnett, chairman of the Skulls committee, the representatives will report back to their groups about the meeting.

John Graffam, chairman of the Senate representatives, declined comment, stating only that a report would be released when the Senate was adequately prepared.

The meeting Tuesday was a continuation of one held the previous evening at which the Senate and Skulls committees reportedly made no progress toward a solution.

Healy Writes Study For U Of M Series

Major Richard W. Healy is the author of the latest number of the University of Maine Studies, a history of secondary education in Androscoggin and Franklin Counties in Maine.

A graduate of the University in the Class of 38, Major Healey is an assistant professor of military science and tactics for the University's ROTC unit. He is a member of the U. S. Army.

The book, containing 165 pages, gives the historical, social, and political background of Androscoggin and Franklin Counties and shows the effect of the background on the development of secondary education in each community.

Copies of this Maine Study may be obtained at the Library.

Announcement of Pan-Hel's new president and introduction of the six newly-elected sorority presidents will highlight the Panhellenic formal dance tomorrow evening at Memorial Gymnasium.

Music will be by the Maine Bears, and dancing will last from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

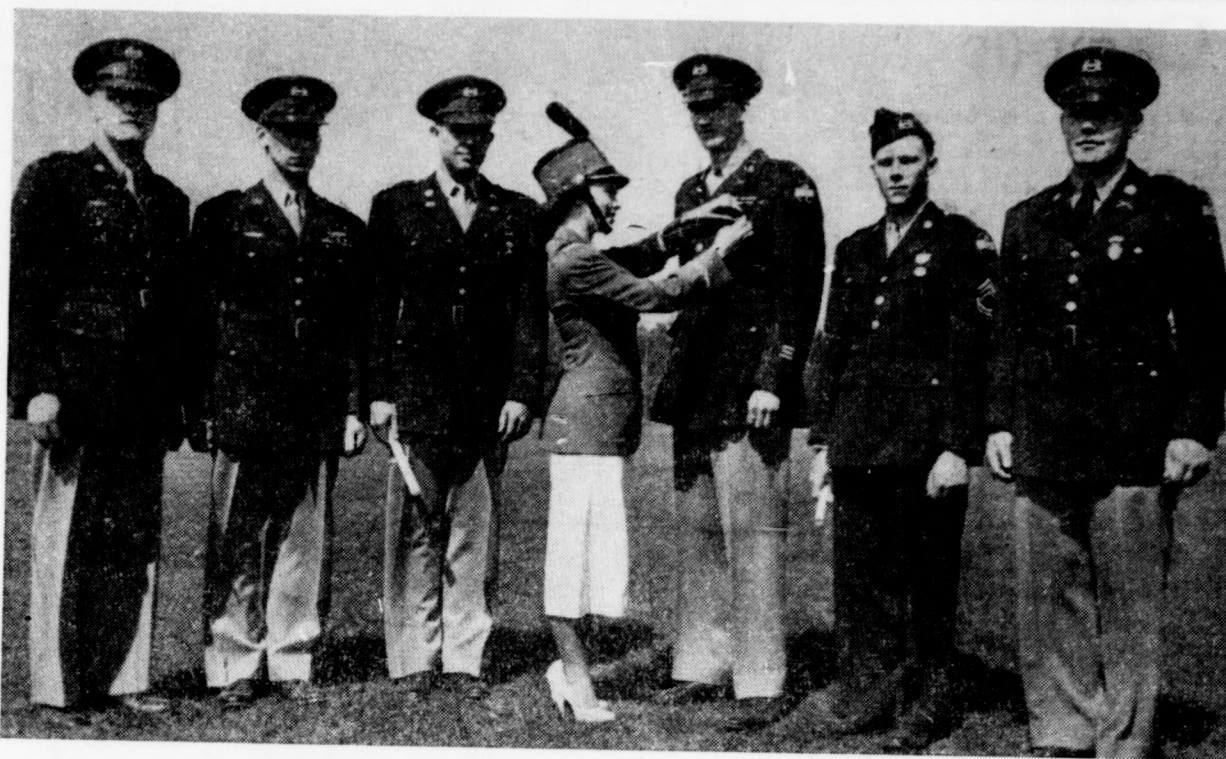

Sue Dartnell is chairman of the dance committee, which includes Peggy Sewall, Jenny Shaw, Betty Friedler, Gwen Stewart, and Jeannette Morgrage.

Wildlife Majors Plan Outdoor Publication

Three Wildlife Conservation majors are planning something new in the way of Maine outdoor life publications. Ronald Speers, Kennebunkport, James Cating, Orono, and Alberton McLain, Brewer, have slated their magazine, "Outdoor Maine," for August publication.

The magazine will be devoted to the interests of conservation and will be tailored for Maine sportsmen.

The first women's dormitory was Mount Vernon House.

Maine ROTC Rifle Team Receives Hearst Plaque For Second Place In First Army Area Matches

The ROTC rifle team, at a review Monday afternoon, received a Hearst plaque for taking second place in the William Randolph Hearst ROTC intercollegiate rifle team matches during the past winter.

The plaque was presented by Ernest Hoftyzer, advertising director of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Receive Medals

Members of the rifle team, who also received individual medals, are William Derby, Leroy Rand, Bradford Butler, Joseph Bernstein, and Vernon Bond.

Major Myron D. Smith directed the activities of the team.

At the same review Monday, outstanding military awards were made to members of the campus ROTC unit by Miss Elaine Lockhart, Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel of the Cadet Corps.

Parker W. Gray, president of the Chemical Engineering Society and member of Tau Beta Pi, was awarded the U. S. Coast Artillery Association medal for being this year's outstanding first-year Advanced Anti-Aircraft Artillery student.

Average of 3.61

Gray attained a military average of 98 per cent and has a cumulative average of 3.61, highest scholastic mark received by the ROTC student since the inception of the postwar program in 1946.

Honorable mention for the CAA medal was accorded Edward M. Reny and Edward L. Alexander.

Edgar E. Gammon, chairman of the ROTC Club, was awarded the Military Department Medal as an outstanding second-year Basic student, and for demonstrated military proficiency and leadership qualities. This medal was first given last year through the efforts of Col. Francis R. Fuller, head of the military department.

Trio Commended

In connection with the same award, letters of commendation were accorded to Hayward C. Noyes, Alexander C. Leidy, and William R. Thompson.

Cadet Major Andrew J. Orr and

Cadet Captain William H. Drisko, who have completed the second year advanced course, were designated as Distinguished Military Students. They will have opportunity to apply for regular commissions in the U. S. Army instead of the usual commissions in the Reserve Corps.

The Armed Forces Communications Association Medal was awarded Cadet Captain Theodore R. Littlefield. This is the first time this award has been made at Maine. It is awarded to the outstanding student in the second-year Advanced Signal Corps.

100 Students To Get Awards, Scholarships

President Albert W. Trueman of the University of New Brunswick, at Fredericton, will be the speaker at the annual Scholarship Recognition Assembly, Wednesday, May 18, at 8:45 a.m. in Memorial Gymnasium.

Nearly 100 students and future students will be honored with scholarships and prizes at the assembly. Last year 83 students received scholarships, and 13 received prizes.

Among the awards given are the Merritt Caldwell Fernald Scholarship and a tuition credit awarded to the junior student having the highest rank.

The prizes include the Mu Alpha Epsilon Award and the Pale Blue Key Award. The former is given annually by the honorary musical society to a student showing promising musical talent and who has had at least one year of active participation in music at Maine. The latter prize is given each year to some member of the freshman class who needs help and who has shown promise in track as a freshman.

Politics: Dogpatch Style

Just before last Tuesday's elections, several signs were seen on campus that had evidently been put there by persons quite interested in the outcome of the elections.

The signs said, in effect, "Vote NO both bills—Class Constitution, and General Senate Constitution."

This message was, for the most part, marked on the signs erected by the Mayor candidates. This defacing of already existing signs smacks of a low type of political advertisement such as is often seen in large cities. It is also typical of a low type of politics.

The coming of this sort of thing to the Maine campus is something to be scrutinized by everyone who is interested in the type of young politicians we are producing. It has always seemed to this writer that there are already enough unpleasant aspects to politics without starting, in the colleges—a place where students of good politics are supposed to be found—a practice that is, to all interested persons, a bit offending.

The thought behind these little signs may or may not be healthy. If messages such as these bring a more professional aspect to local campus politics, then this may be said to be good for the campus in general.

However, if this sort of thing is indicative of a skulking type of political manipulation, then it may be said to be definitely detrimental to the local scene.

It is the sincere hope of this writer that this sort of scribbling will be stopped, and that if anyone has anything to say about local issues that he will make himself known, and stand up for his policies. With all the hue and cry being raised by local people as to the importance of student politics, it seems a shame that those very persons can't be important in an above-board manner.

Interest Shown In Young Maine

At noon today, a group of editorial executives from Maine daily newspapers will be on campus as guests of the Press Club.

These editors, all busy men, have left their desks, and, in most instances, have traveled a long way in order to talk with students who hope to become newspapermen themselves some day. In particular, they are going to talk about the problems that confront a beginner in the field.

The readiness of these executives to sit down with a group of undergraduates, and share their experience with them, seems worthy of comment. To us, it is an encouraging sign.

That the students appreciate it is evidenced by the personal interest they show, and the many questions they ask.

Although it may not have occurred to the guests of the Press Club, we think they are setting a fine example—one that may mean a great deal not only to young journalistic aspirants but to all Maine students.

We say this because there is always the possibility that such an example may be followed by leaders in other fields.

One hears a great deal about Maine's losing its young people to other states. Without going into the economics of it, we can certainly venture the opinion that get-togethers like today's would go a long way toward minimizing this migration of the state's young people.

Whether business, industry, or journalism is involved, it seems to us a lot of good can come from these informal conferences.

We All Make Them

Some salty sage once made an earth-shaking comment about mistakes. He acknowledged the fact that everybody makes them, and attempted to correlate the fact with the production of pencils equipped with erasers. We find that, despite our best efforts, we make mistakes. Therefore, we have created a correction department on this page. You will find it at the bottom of the letter column. Although we hope that this correction department will not have to appear in the paper often, we will use it whenever necessary to correct our mistakes.

MAINE-LY MUSIC

By Bob Slosser

After having used the term "bop" so many times in the past, an explanation of the word seems overdue. At the request of a few non-believers and middle-of-the-roads, a definition of the word is here attempted.

As all probably know, bop is derived from be-bop. Where be-bop came from, heaven knows. Merely say that it is the name of a stage in musical development.

To say that bop is a development is to say that it all began years ago with the natives of Africa. When the natives became slaves in America, they started the blues. The blues appealed to whites as well as Negroes; and before long, New Orleans Dixieland came, followed by jazz in Chicago, Kansas City, and New York.

Long-reigning swing followed, and it was a long time before progressive jazz began to move in. A few realized that Afro-American music was reaching its greatest height, and the progression continued until bop, our subject, was developed.

To give a definition of this latest development is a hard thing, but it is best explained by the impression one receives from Charlie Parker, the greatest alto-man that ever picked up a horn.

When Charlie plays, it seems that he closes his eyes to the outside world and looks into his idea-filled mind. What he seems to see at first is a jumbled mass of notes and ideas. Suddenly, a group of the notes and ideas take shape and form a unique and thoughtful passage.

Then, just as suddenly, the notes and ideas shatter and become a part of the mass again. Charlie strains some more, trying to force that mass into just the right shape. Then perhaps he will hear some idea-provoking passage from the pianist or the bass-man. This helpful passage will cause that jumbled heap of notes in his mind to form into a delicate and beautiful shape, and he will play; and that delicate and beautiful pattern will come out of his horn.

Another factor that enters into the sound that comes out of Charlie's horn is the time element. Charlie's searching and straining for just the right idea makes him play behind the beat. He is so busy looking and listening for his ideas that the beat will often go by before he plays; however, it is interesting to note that Charlie's being behind the beat in his ideas never causes the beat to be lost. Bop has definite rhythm just as all music does.

PETTICOAT ANGLES

by Marilyn Wyman

The Men's Senate has quieted down after the rebuffs for their last attempt at sensationalism which leads one to wonder if a little light on the subject didn't surprise them....

Another point which should be a sore point with these boys is the question of membership. Among the voting members of the Men's Senate are 15 representatives of the Off Campus University of Maine Men's Organization. President Joe Murray has stated that active membership of this organization averages 25 men. All of this means, in simple arithmetic that even the Men's Senate can understand, that these "representatives" actually represent themselves and two-thirds of another man.

Now Mr. Hinds or Mr. Moran can accuse me of writing propaganda but those figures are statistics which are recorded in proper University offices. The figures also follow that at Senate meetings of twenty-nine or fewer members, which is the general attendance, that 15 constitutes a majority.

How many students on this campus realize that the furor created in recent weeks by this body of doubtful status over such issues as the Skull abolishment is the work of 15 men, who in their wildest dreams can't claim to represent even 1% of the student enrollment?

For a group which has come to the fore with an amazing number of dictatorial plans lately, the Men's Senate has mighty little democratic power behind it. Just what is the Men's Senate?

Mail Bag

Lauds Writer's Stand On Student Govt.

To the Editor: A lot of us have wondered why the University of Maine does not dominate the state athletic events completely. We have here about 5,000 students, almost as large a group as the combined student bodies of the other three Maine schools, and yet we go on getting beaten by them in all sports except track and skiing.

It seems to me that out of 5,000 students a better team could be formed than out of half that many. So, I figure there must be enough athletes of better than fair ability on the Maine campus to beat anything that Colby, Bates, or Bowdoin could put on the field under normal conditions.

The reasons for the unsuccessful athletic ventures of the Maine teams are probably known by only a handful of people, and are undoubtedly so numerous that these few persons do not know them all. But, I do know one thing, many good athletes are walking around the campus, and have never been out for a team. There must not be much of an attraction, or possibly "school spirit," but most of these men play on semi-pro teams for little more than the enjoyment of the game.

I can tell you some of the things they do not like. The baseball coach, for instance, has little cards made up and sent around to his "boys," notifying them of the beginning of practice. That creates a select group, and in my opinion, bad taste, to say the least.

These men, if they do go out, may soon find themselves cut from the squad without having a fair chance to show their ability. They find, also, that the old art of "apple polishing" is not dead, but being averse to it, refuse to engage in its practice. Many good men never report for a practice.

Another thing, wasn't it last year that Eck Allen had such difficulty in getting his whole squad together for a practice because of the class schedules of some of his players? With a little effort on the part of the administration, and cooperation with the athletic department, many more men would go out for teams if this situation could be changed.

The little harm it would do would certainly be for the ultimate good of the school. If the administration is worried about the scholastic standing of the school, then I point to the Ivy League to refute any such claim.

The general student body would certainly like to see Maine one of the athletic king pins of New England, and are bewildered when it is not.

I am not advocating subsidized athletics, but like would to see some of the changes, which could apparently be made, come about.

We lost a very fine golfer to Bowdoin, because, as I understand, Bowdoin offered him some financial help we could not, or did not offer in some form or other.

Maybe the acquisition of the services of Davey Nelson shows a trend in the right direction. I hope so.

CORRECTION

In the last edition, the Maine Campus ran a story on page six, column four, about Women's Student Government elections. In it we said "All women students are expected to vote in the WSGA elections, since fines are levied for failure to cast a ballot." This statement was based on erroneous information. Such fines are not levied.

Fletcher Wins In Surprise Election Upset

not know that he was being con- sidered as a candidate, until, awakening Tuesday morning, he discovered that his supporters had been busy the night before, distributing posters throughout the campus. From that point events moved quickly, culminat- ing in the upset election.

Aside from this startling event, the general elections were car- ried on without incident.

A cool breeze whipped over the mall and accompanied the few students who straggled to the polls as the election proceedings got under way at 9 a.m. As the morning wore on, however, larger crowds began to gather about the ballot tables, and by 11 a.m. the balloting was in full swing.

Many Show Interest

In addition to those casting their votes, many students gathered together in small groups to discuss the merits and weaknesses of the candidates and to watch the progress of the balloting.

Election officials expressed the belief that the good weather plus student in- terest would bring a good turnout from the student body, although it was doubted that last year's record mayoral vote would be equalled. In that election Mayor Richard Huff won in a land- slide, polling more votes than all his opponents combined.

Table for Each Class

The election set-up this year was the same as that employed for the first time last year. Balloting tables were set up along the main sidewalk on the mall, with each class allotted a special table.

It was found that this procedure was more conducive to obtaining votes, due to the central location of the ballot boxes and tables.

The voting came to a close at 5 p.m.

Faculty Facts

We have it from a reliable source that Dean Elton E. Wieman can bal- ance himself on one foot on an up- right coke bottle and pick up a handkerchief from the floor. You may try this at your own risk. He is also adept at sleight-of-hand tricks involv- ing coins, kicking the cross-piece at the top of a doorway, and other feats requiring muscular coordination. All this you might expect from a man who was in nationwide charge of physical education in the A.S.T.P. during the war years.

Wells Leads Search For Missing Silver; Recovers $777 Worth

Nearly fifty per cent of knives, forks, and spoons, and other dining hall equipment which had been re- moved from the various dining halls on campus were recovered Wednes- day, according to Bill Wells, Director of Housing.

During a drive held Maine Day, Wells' organization brought back half of the material, valued at $777. Since last fall, the equipment has been re- moved from the dining halls to the various dormitories by students, Wells said.

Wells asked that all students who still had dining hall equipment in their rooms return it to him before leaving at the end of the semester.

Cut In Funds Hits University

funds provided through the one mill tax.

Legislature Fails To Act

Failure to provide the needed funds arose from the fact that the Legisla- ture decided not to increase State revenues through taxation.

This action leaves the University, from the standpoint of state support, with about the same amount as was provided in 1931-32. That year the Mill Tax produced $757,000 annually. After providing for agricultural re- search, the agricultural extension ser- vice, and other research there re- mained $630,000 for resident instruc- tion and capital expenditures. Since there were then 1700 students enrolled at the University, this was an annual state appropriation of approximately $370 per student.

The Mill Tax in 1949-51 will pro- duce $762,000 annually. In 1949-50, veteran students will number approx- imately 2,000 and in 1950-51 about 1,000. The estimated total enrollment at the University for 1949-50 will be about 4,000 and in 1950-51 about 3,200.

An annual appropriation of $762,000 will be available from the Mill Tax for the 1949-51 biennium. After pro- viding for research and extension work, the per capita state grant for 4,000 students would be about $140, and in 1950-51 with an expected en- rollment of 3,200 students the grant would be $175 as compared to the $370 per capita grant in 1931-32. When the higher per capita amount was received, the value of the dollar was much greater than it is now.

From 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. there was a University Open House in all the buildings on campus. Students and faculty members wandered from one department to another, admiring the many elaborate displays and exhibits.

At 3 p.m. a capacity crowd wit- nessed the Maine-New Hampshire baseball game before returning to their rooms tired and hungry, but happy.

At 7 p.m. all hands converged on Memorial Gym, where they laughed themselves hoarse witnessing the stu- dent-faculty musical extravaganza, "Artie Get Your Gun." Marshal Artie Hauck battled his way through three thrill-packed acts, the scenes of which were all in a Western saloon.

The presentation of the President Hauck Scholarship followed the play.

A second showing of the Maine Mast production was held at 8:45 p.m., following the scholarship presentation, for the benefit of those who were un- able to attend the first show.

University Society

BY MARILYN HOYT

With only three more weeks of school to go, the social calendar is be- ing crowded with parties, teas, and enough activities to give any student a happy send-off into his summer vaca- tion.

Two hundred and fifty dogpatchers, and that's not an understatement, joined the festivities last Saturday night at ATO's Daisy Mae party. The guests gathered in a dark and dismal Skunk Hollow, and lis- tened to the tal- ented strumming of "Unwashable" Joe Soychak on his guitar. Vari- ous other enter- tainment and fun couldn't help but bring the after-com- ment of some yokel, who said, "It ware a danged gud tym."

Mr. and Mrs. Suarez and Ma "Mammy Yokum" Whitney acted as chaperons.

Mighty and little Hiawathas, heap big braves, and cute little squaws did an Indian dance up the paths to Delta Tau's happy hunting grounds last Sat- urday. The house was transformed into a pine forest and Indian encamp- ment, which was very realistically done. The most ferocious looking of all, Jim Demetriou, Mal Bartlett, Stan Roberts, and Al Harrington, candidate for mayor, put on an entertaining skit for their guests.

Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Baier, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grove.

A bridal shower was given Jayne Hanson and Jean Cunningham Mon- day afternoon at Lambda Chi. Teddy Powers was hostess, and close friends attended.

The Travelers Club, a student or- ganization of Masons, is planning an all-day outing Saturday at Pushaw Pond. They will hold a dance that evening at the pavilion.

Pinnings:

Teddy Powers, South Estabrooke, to Bruce Folsom, Lambda Chi; Jan Haley, North Estabrooke, to Dick Kelly, Delta Tau.

Hoyt's Hopper

With the first soft breezes of spring, our college co-eds lay aside their books, and gather on the roofs, lawns, and other secluded spots on campus for a rendezvous with old Mr. Solar Sys- tem. For proof—take a look at Pussy Nason's or Jackie Baker's Indian tan.

Not only does the bronze epidermis call for second glances, but also for light cotton dresses to show them off. To mention a few—Jo Sullivan's light lavender cotton dress. It's on the tail- ored side with a full skirt. Phyllis Tebbets looked very collegiate the other day in a green and yellow striped cotton, accented by a smart looking pair of green play shoes. Betty Ladd also leads the fashion parade with her light blue sharkskin, two-piece suit.

43 Initiated To Engineer Honor Society

Forty-three students have been initiated into Tau Beta Pi, honorary scholastic society for outstanding students in engineering. Following last week's initiation ceremonies the members attended a banquet at the Pilot's Grill.

Mark Shibles, dean of the school of education, was guest speaker.

The following members were initiated:

Edward Alexander, Oscar Anderson, Blaine Beal, Weyman Billings, Edmund Boucher, Robert Brown, Jr., Colby H. Chandler, Sherman Cole, Milton Coleman, Herbert Connell, Charles Drake, Jr., Parker Gray, Grover Fraser.

Irving Grunes, Warren Hammond, Herbert A. Harriman, Walter L. Estimates MCA Repairs At $2,000

J. Carroll Dempsey, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, has estimated that the cost of repairs on the MCA building this year will total $2,000.

Work begun includes repairing of the roof, installation of a new floor in the hallway and the recreation room, painting the second floor, raising foundation posts to even the floors, and work on a new watermain. It is hoped that all of the work will be completed this summer.

Scholarship Auditions Sunday At Carnegie

Auditions for Mu Alpha Epsilon music scholarships will be held Sunday, May 15, at 3 p.m., in Carnegie Hall.

Application blanks, which should be filed as soon as possible, may be obtained from the music office at Carnegie.

Conn. Newsman Talks To Students In Journalism Class

James L. McGovern, associate editor of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post-Telegram, talked to journalism students Monday morning about the problems of a beginning newspaper reporter.

McGovern, a newspaperman of nearly 60 years' experience, advised students interested in newspaper work to get their start on small papers. "You make a lot of personal contacts, and get to know the people that way," he declared.

As a young man, McGovern left the granite-cutting trade in 1891 to become a reporter on the Bridgeport Morning Union. He was a delegate to the World Press Conference in Mexico City in 1933, and was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the U. S. Assay Commission in 1938.

Maine Scenes Feature Exhibit

Twenty-one watercolor paintings and four conte crayon drawings by Professor Vincent A. Hartgen of the Art Department are on display in the Oakes room of the Library.

Composed of coastal and inland scenes of Maine, all the paintings have been done by Professor Hartgen since last fall.

At present, Hartgen is also holding a one-man exhibition in Chico, Calif. The collection in the Library has been shown in Idaho, the Kansas City Art League, and the University of Oklahoma.

The exhibit will be shown through May during regular Library hours.

Phillips Research Head Will Speak To Chemists

The second meeting of the calendar year for the Maine Section of American Chemical Society will be held in Aubert Hall, Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Guest speaker at the meeting will be Dr. Charles F. Fryling, supervisor of emulsion polymerization research for the Phillips Petroleum Co., of Phillips, Texas.

Dr. Fryling, who was graduated from Lafayette in 1920 and received his Ph.D. from New York University in 1924, will speak on "Low Temperature Chemical Rubber."

Preceding Dr. Fryling's talk there will be a dinner for members of the society at 5 p.m. in the President's room, North Estabrooke.

Three Students To Be Initiated To Sigma Xi

Three undergraduate students who have done outstanding work in scientific research while at Maine were named this week to associate membership in Sigma Xi, American scientific research society. They will be initiated along with 30 other persons at ceremonies in the Oakes room, May 19.

The new student members are David F. Akeley, one of the highest ranking seniors in the college of technology, William A. Kendall, agronomy major, and Robert Land, engineering physics senior who is planning to do graduate work in physics at M.I.T.

The other initiates are:

Promoted from associate to full membership—Robert Ashman, Gregory Baker, Charles Moran, Arthur Randall, Philip Seal, Benjamin Speicher, Kathryn Speicher.

Elected to full membership—Russell Bailey, Frank Beyer, Edward Brush, Gordon Chapman, Mary Clayton, Paul Cloke, Margaret Dickie, Charles Dirks, Weston Evans, Robert Hart, John Hawkins, Mathew Highlands, Fay Hyland, Lyle Jenness, Merna Monroe, Elizabeth Murphy, Eugene Ogden, Bernie Plummer, Alton Prince, Ferdinand Steinmetz, James Waring.

Elected to associate membership—Edith Ogden, Shao Tung.

The Maine chapter of Sigma Xi was installed on campus May 3, 1948. This year will be the first time that newcomers have been elected at the University.

The society receives two types of members, associate and full. The associate members are those who have shown great promise as scientists, while the full members have made noteworthy achievements in science. Full membership is limited to faculty members.

Seven of the 33 members being initiated May 19 are receiving promotions from associate to full membership.

Banquet To Honor Award Recipients

Dr. Payson Smith will be the guest speaker at the Women's Athletic Association banquet May 18, to be held in North Estabrooke at 6 p.m. Following the program theme of recreation, Dr. Smith's talk will be entitled "The Problems of Leisure."

All coeds are invited to attend the banquet, at which those who have earned W.A.A. credits will receive their awards.

The following committee is in charge of arrangements:

Eva Burgess, chairman; Caroline Strong, programs; Esther Freese, attendance; Roberta Packard, decorations; Betty Friedler, awards; Carolyn Rowell, invitations; and Connie Berry, publicity.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

Several times in the past, this column has criticized various members of the athletic staff for their actions. Thus far, this criticism has been one-sided.

Conditions at present seem to warrant a reversal of this procedure. Let's look at ourselves—the student body.

School spirit at Maine is rapidly dying.

This word itself evokes sneers and laughter from many people about this campus at present. For these sophisticated citizens of the world, this is rah-rah stuff and flag-waving.

For the past year or so, students have been ridiculing the coaching group here at the University. This coach was no good, that coach was even worse.

During the past sports seasons, it was the fad to attend athletic contests merely to make cracks at the teams and coaches. If someone could get a good laugh at the expense of the players, the game was worthwhile.

Now the situation has changed. In Dave Nelson we have a coach who is definitely on his way up. Doc Rankin knows his basketball. And so on down the line.

Where are the would-be athletes who "wouldn't play" for this coach and that one. Much hot air has been expended by numerous Frank Merriwells about their ability which would certainly come to light under a different coach.

The changes have been made but attendance at practices has not improved.

The reply to this is, "I have too much work to do. After all, I'm not getting a scholarship here."

Perhaps it is a good thing that scholarships are not being given. These Major Hoople-type athletes would be out of the picture if that were the case.

Concerning the study and class situation, the University is attempting to fix schedules next year for the convenience of athletes. A few hours during the afternoon at practice might cut down on golf, softball, and sunning time, but it is worth it.

The alibis are gone now. Let's hope that we can get some competitors.

The attitude of spectators at athletic contests is in the same class as that of the pipe-dreaming athletic greats. Criticize this, criticize that. An afternoon spent at a baseball game will convince anyone that the coach is lost and that the players are all imports from the Chinese Checkers Players Association.

An open-minded fan leaves the game wondering if the student body is cheering for the visiting team.

Maine's veteran track coach Chester Jenkins stated in a notice posted on the track bulletin board that last week was the most disappointing week of practice he had seen in 22 years of coaching here.

Football practices are virtually deserted except for a few regular repeaters.

When next fall rolls around, the students will want a winning football team. Then the fans will yell about this clown and that clown on the team. The scrap book heroes will talk about what they could do if "the coach wasn't down on me."

The players need the support of the student body; not the derisive wisecracks.

They will be trying out on the fields and on the court. Let's try to do a little ourselves.

Connecticut Here For Doubleheader Sat.

FRANK BARNDOLLAR, ace New Hampshire track man, scores the second of his two wins as he takes the 220-yard dash at last Saturday's Yankee Conference meet. Finishing behind Barndollar are: 2nd, Flynn of Connecticut; 3rd, Fetterolf, also of Connecticut, and 4th, Wiley of Rhode Island. Rhode Island took the team title for the second straight year with 61½ points.

UConn's Feature Good Pitching, Strong Defense

Maine's baseball season rolls into high gear in the coming week with five games scheduled against four teams.

The Bears meet Bowdoin and Bates in State Series action after facing Connecticut in two seven-inning contests Saturday in a three-game home stand. A fourth game is scheduled with Northeastern May 21 at Orono.

Best Mound Staff

The UConn's will probably throw the best pitching that the Bears have seen all year in the twin bill. They have an airtight team that features strong defensive play.

Bill Love is the ace of the mound staff and will pitch the opening game.

Maine defeated Bates at Lewiston, 6-3, in the first meeting between the two clubs last week. They will be favored to duplicate the feat. Marty Dow, who tossed a seven-hitter at the Garnets, and aided the offense with a timely triple, will probably be Bill Kenyon's choice to oppose Bates again.

Bowdoin Strong

Bowdoin's Polar Bears who follow Connecticut in Monday have lost a 2-1 thriller to Colby in state action. The team is strong defensively and on the mound, and has a fairly strong hitting attack.

Lloyd McDonald, who blanked Maine for six frames in an exhibition game earlier this year, will probably face Joe Archibald for the Bears.

Top Maine Netmen Journey To Durham For YC Tennis Play

Four of Maine's top netmen will carry the Pale Blue hopes in the annual Yankee Conference tennis championships this week end at the University of New Hampshire.

Larry Van Peursem, Fred Hermann, Bob Thoits, and another player, to be chosen on the showings made in the Bates and Colby matches, will make the trip to Durham for the tourney, which will include teams from Rhode Island State, Univ. of Mass., Connecticut, and New Hampshire.

On the basis of recent showings, Rhode Island is rated as the team to beat. The Rams have dual wins over Coach Small's cluster in regular season matches. The Rams won 6-3 at Kingston, and edged out the Bears 5-4 on the Orono courts.

In Sergeson, the Rhodys have the tourney's top-seeded contestant. Van Peursem of Maine, however, and Strong of Connecticut are both capable of giving the Ram ace a stiff battle.

Sergeson and Van Peursem staged a bitter fight in last Friday's Maine-Rhode Island matches, with the former coming from behind at the last minute to save himself from an upset at the hands of the veteran Pale Blue standout.

Another of Coach Small's crew who showed up well in Friday's losing cause was Frank Potenzo. He defeated the Ram's Klyen in the singles, and teamed up with Bob Sullivan to salvage Maine's only doubles victory.

"M" Club To Elect

Officers will be elected at the next meeting of the "M" Club, scheduled for Tuesday, May 17, in the Trophy Room at 7 p.m.

Tracksters Run For State Title

Coach Chester Jenkins' University of Maine track team heads for Bates Saturday to compete in the State meet against Bowdoin, Bates, and Colby. Bowdoin, the defending champion, appears to have an edge over the other schools again this year, according to Coach Jenkins.

Maine's strongest event in the Yankee Conference meet last Saturday was the hammer. Bowdoin, however, has Sebastianski in this event. He is rated the favorite to win over Dick Gordon of Maine who is still troubled by a bad ankle.

Along with strength in the weights, the Polar Bears have a potential three-event winner in Holmes.

Maine, which has been notably weak in the dashes this year with only Bill Hammond running them, should be better this week. Ed Simmons, who topped Hammond last year in the short sprints, is again out for track.

Blaine Beal of Maine and Briggs and Lee of Bowdoin look best in the hurdle events. Briggs is favored in the lows because of his speed.

The brightest spot in the meet for Bates should be Red Horne in the one-mile and two-mile events. Mitchell of Bates is also a potential point getter in the discus and shot.

Colby's power in the meet is a mystery but the Waterville school is not expected to provide too much competition.

Martikainen Hurls JVs To Decisive Win Over Higgins

The Jayvees thumped Higgins Classical Institute 18-1 last Thursday behind the airtight pitching of Ernie Martikainen and Ash Dunham.

Martikainen pitched no-hit, no-run ball for the first four innings and Dunham followed, allowing only three hits and one run for the remaining five innings.

Beryl Leach, George Gray, and Paul Beaudry were the batting power in the Jayvees' second straight win.

Sezak Re-elected

Sam Sezak, Junior Varsity baseball coach, has been re-elected Secretary of the State of Maine Council of Basketball Officials.

Maine Golfers Head South For New England

The New England Intercollegiate championship will be the objective of Maine's hot and cold varsity golfers as they face linksmen from six states at Watertown, Mass., this weekend.

Coach Charlie Emery's crew, which had been hot in taking Connecticut into camp only a week previous, suffered a second round letdown to trail the Nutmeggers and New Hampshire State in the Yankee Conference matches at the PVCC last Friday.

They will be out to reestablish themselves as one of New England's leading golf powers at Watertown's excellent Oakley course.

Among those making the trip for the Pale Blue are Andy Bunker, who halved Yankee Conference medalist Johnny Pracon on the Uconn's home links, and big Bob Webber, low man on the squad's southern tour. Warren Wilson, Don Brown, Phil Bickford and Dick Smith complete the list.

Grid Drills Close With Scrimmage

Coach Dave Nelson will wind up spring football practice for his Maine gridders Saturday afternoon. Instead of an informal Blue and White practice game as originally scheduled by the new coach, Nelson plans to hold only a scrimmage using new offensive techniques.

For the last two weeks, Nelson has been working with his men only one-half hour daily. Most of the work has been with ball-handling drills with more stress being put on offensive tactics.

Beta Takes Double In Net Intramurals

The annual intramural tennis tourney got under way this week as Beta Theta Pi's court combine racked up twin victories at the expense of Alpha Gam and Tau Epsilon Phi, and Phi Kap, Phi Gam, SAE, and Phi Eta Kappa won singletons.

In the dormitory division, New Dorm #3 and Nordorm #4 gained forfeit decisions.

Frank Frisch was at bat 197 times in eight series.

Rams' Balance Takes YC Track

Scoring in 14 of the 15 events, Rhode Island's well balanced track team won its second straight Yankee Conference track title last Saturday on the University track.

The Rams piled up 61½ points to stay ahead of New Hampshire, who placed second with 47½ points. Connecticut was third with 33 points and Maine came in last with 23 points.

New records were set in the broad jump, discus, pole vault, and high jump.

Waring Elected New President Of Debate Club

The Debate Club elected officers for the coming year last Thursday at the annual banquet held at the Windsor Hotel in Bangor. Those named were Don Waring, president; George Brountas, vice president; Bob Moran, manager; Gennette MacNair, historian; Avis Zippel, secretary; and Bob Russell, treasurer.

The debate team made an outstanding record against some of the leading colleges and universities in the nation during the season just ended.

Maine won 18 of its 39 debates, defeating teams from Rensselaer Polytech, Dartmouth, Georgetown, American International, Vermont, Springfield, Bowdoin, M.I.T., Rutgers, Brooklyn College, Mount Holyoke, Colby, Suffolk University, Amherst, and the U. S. Naval Academy.

Maine was defeated by McGill, Hamilton, Bates, Vermont, Colby, Temple, Columbia, Denison, Canisius, U. S. Naval Academy, Dartmouth, Bowdoin, Tufts, Syracuse, St. Michael's College, Wesleyan, and the U. S. Military Academy.

Methodist Convention To See Religious Play

"The Brother," a religious play by Dorothy Clark Wilson, which has been presented three times in Orono and Bangor, will be staged in Houlton during the Methodist State Convention, May 27.

Directed by Bill Brennan, the cast includes University students John Wentworth and Marilyn Hoyt. Others in the cast are Matthew McNeary and Horace Pratt, both of the faculty of the University, and Mrs. Rodney Allen and Mrs. Bernie Plummer, Jr., faculty wives.

Also playing roles are Mrs. Asa Adams and George Wilson, both of Orono.

20 Freshman Girls Named Members Of Sophomore Eagles

Twenty freshman girls were named members of the Sophomore Eagles society at a banquet in Estabrooke Hall last week.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Mrs. Constance Carter, instructor in home economics, whose subject was "What a Girl Should Get Out of College." Muriel Applebee also spoke, and Dorothy McCann and Roberta Hendrick presented musical numbers. Patricia Simmons served as toastmistress.

Named to the society were Jeanette Pratt, Virginia Norton, Mary Snyder, Jeanne Frye, and Marguerite Floyd.

Constance Berry, Ruth Drysdale, Ruth Judkins, Roberta Hendrick, Evelyn Green, and Mary Jean McIntire.

Ida Moreshead, Frances Russell, Ethel Mae Scammon, Joan Hopkins, Nancy Knowles.

Martha Pratt, Sarah Bouchard, Frances Litwinowich, and Gloria Franklin.

Bowdoin Debaters Win Frosh Series

Bowdoin's freshman debaters captured the Maine Intercollegiate Freshman Debate Championship here Saturday, winning three of their four contests.

Bates contestants took two of their four to win second honors, while the host Maine team salvaged one win against three defeats to finish third. Colby did not compete.

The Freshman State Series is held annually at one of the Maine colleges for the benefit of future varsity debaters.

This year's Maine team was composed of Howard Foley, Pat Erskine, Carolyn Lindquist, and Marguerite Floyd.

Fernald Hall, the oldest building on campus, was constructed in 1870.

Intercollegiate Group Weighs School Problem

Bowdoin, Colby, and University members of the Maine Intercollegiate Senate held their fourth and final meeting in the office of President Arthur A. Hauck Sunday afternoon, where they expressed the unanimous opinion that the lack of legislative action on the problem of support for secondary schools is of vital importance to college students in Maine.

Before taking a firmer stand on the subject, Senate members decided to return to their respective campuses and discuss the problem in their own legislative bodies.

With Chairman Ralph Barnett leading the meeting, the routine business was taken up despite the absence of the Bates delegation.

A plan, originated by Bowdoin, to have intramural athletic winners for the four colleges compete against each other in a playoff was discarded as impractical because of financial and transportation difficulties.

June Stairs, delegate from Colby, reported that plans for a four college glee club concert are now in the hands of the college musical directors.

Arrangements were made to have the four member colleges exchange band copies of their school songs to promote better music at college functions.

Two Maine delegates, James Elliot and Ralph Barnett, explained Maine's plan for health and accident insurance to be used here next year.

After some discussion a motion was made and accepted that further attempts to set a definite pattern of action to be followed after the football games next season be discarded.
