Maine Press Will Gather At University

Canham, Cross To Be On Program

By BOB SLOSSER

The complete program for Maine Newspaper Day, Friday, Oct. 14, has been announced by the University.

Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will open events at a 10:45 a.m. General Assembly with an address on "The People's Right to Know."

Following a campus tour for visiting editors and publishers, and a 12:45 luncheon at Estabrooke Hall, where President Hauck will welcome the newspapermen, a series of three afternoon seminars will be held in the Louis Oakes room, starting at 2 p.m.

Cross Is on Program

Besides Mr. Canham, Friday's seminar speakers will be:

Harold L. Cross, associate dean of the Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University, and member of the New York law firm of Brown, Cross and Hamilton.

John O. Boyd, editor of the Lowville (N. Y.) Leader and chairman of National Editorial Association's photographic committee.

As leader of the first seminar, Mr. Canham, who has just served a term as president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, will discuss "The Newspapers and the Future."

Libel Will Be Topic

Mr. Cross, for many years counsel to the New York Herald Tribune, will lead a discussion of "Current Libel Problems," scheduled for 3 p.m.

Mr. Boyd's seminar topic, booked for 4 p.m., will be "Photography for the Small Newspaper."

Saturday's Schedule

At 10 a.m. Saturday, Lewis Jordan, assistant foreign editor of the New York Times and instructor in the Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia, will lead a discussion of "Newspaper Make-Up."

The shop talk, scheduled for 11 a.m., will be an informal gathering of the seminar speakers and the visiting editors and publishers.

Organizations participating in the events of the two days will be the Maine Press Association, the Maine Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, the University of Maine Press Club, and the Maine Campus.

Exhibits which may be viewed by the visitors and students will include:

Radio Trials Set For Next Week

"This is Mr. University speaking from University Town. University Town is like any town or community, perhaps yours. It is represented by all classes, denominations, and races. It's democratic."

"It has its leaders and its followers, and affords the opportunity for all to become leaders. And tonight..."

The now-anonymous voice which will be airing these familiar words again this month over radio station WLBZ will next week become a recognized reality.

Somebody Will Inherit

As the result of the annual Radio Guild competition, under which all male University students are eligible, someone will inherit the mike left silent by former Mr. Universities, Lee Davis and George Gonyar, the latter now an announcer with WLBZ.

Mr. University is a vocal symbol representing to student and local listeners the personification of the University. His voice, originating here on campus, opens and closes all of the weekly Radio Guild productions.

As this symbol, he was created two years ago with a series of programs about University life called "University Town."

Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Oct. 10 through Oct. 12, tryouts for the role will be held in the studio, 275 Stevens, at 3:30 p.m.

Intramural Debate Entries Due Oct. 13

The Maine Debate Council will debate this year on the National Collegiate Proposition, according to an announcement made at the first meeting of the group. The proposition is, Resolved: That the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries.

It was also announced that entries for the Council's annual Intramural Tournament should be turned in to William Whiting, 35 Stevens Hall, before Oct. 13. This tournament is open to all non-varsity debaters, and is especially planned to acquaint beginners with college debating.

Candidates for the Varsity Debate Team will be picked from among the intramural entrants.

Samuel Pritchard and William Whiting, both of the speech department, will coach this year's varsity team.

Forestry Club Shown Films At First Meeting

The Forestry Club held its first meeting of the year recently under the direction of Ed Stulpin, president. The more than 60 members present were shown movies of the campus in 1933, last year's forestry camp, shots of log driving on the Machias river, and scenes of the 1947 forest fires at Bar Harbor.

Masque Selects Anderson Play

The Maine Masque Theatre has announced that the first play of its 1949-50 season will be "The Masque of Kings," a tragedy, written in three acts by Maxwell Anderson, one of the world's foremost playwrights.

Anderson, author of such meritorious plays as "Elizabeth The Queen," "Winterset," and many others, is considered by many to be one of the most gifted writers of our stage, comparable only to Eugene O'Neill.

Set in the Hofburg Castle, Vienna, around the year 1889, "The Masque of Kings" deals with a political conflict between the Emperor Franz Joseph and his son, the Crown Prince Rudolph. The play shows the mental processes of Rudolph which led him to openly rebel against his father, raise himself to power, and gradually the ultimate steps that lead him to tragedy.

Tryouts for the play will be held this Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the Little Theatre. The next play, which will soon go into rehearsal, will be Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing."

Season tickets for the Masque productions are still available by contacting student salesmen, or may be obtained at 330 Stevens through October 14.

Vets Must Go To Class Or Lose Pay

G. I. Bill Procedure Strictly Enforced

University authorities have been asked by the Veteran's Administration to keep close check on the attendance of those students receiving G. I. benefits.

Any veteran missing the equivalent of a week's classes without proper authorization will lose his allotment.

Rules requiring the attendance of G. I. Bill veterans are being similarly enforced in other institutions throughout the country.

Procedure Tightened

Officials report that there has been a general tightening of governmental procedure affecting veteran students and that all regulations are being enforced to the letter.

Miss Betty Reid of the VA office on campus said this week that any veteran planning to attend a different school next year should contact the VA immediately in order to obtain a certificate of eligibility.

New rulings make this process compulsory before the student can be admitted to a different institution. Some new students who were unaware of this rule when school opened may have to pay their own fees until the proper papers are obtained. This process sometimes takes up to three months.

Bill Before Congress

A bill is now in Congress to make the student prove that he needs a master's degree in order to get a job before he will be allowed to do graduate work under the G. I. Bill.

The bill was introduced by the Veteran's Administration to prevent the student from doing unnecessary work after getting a bachelor's degree.

Although no definite word is available on the measure, Miss Reid said that a positive statement might be expected in the near future.

No Decision Yet On Union Building

Questions relating to the future construction of the Student Union Building were discussed by representatives of the Union Building Fund and the General Alumni Association, and members of the University Trustees Executive Committee last Saturday at a University meeting.

Results of the conference have been sent to Raymond H. Fogler, chairman of the Union Building Fund Committee. Mr. Fogler will announce the findings of the groups meeting later in the month.

Gamma Chapter Of AOP Wins Scholarship Cup

Gamma Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi has received the National Scholarship Cup for leading in scholarship among the campus sororities for four consecutive semesters. The award was made at the sororities national convention in Boston during the past summer.

Draft Situation Not Affected By USSR Bomb

The Russian atom bomb need not cause Maine students any immediate concern so far as the draft is concerned.

Col. Francis R. Fuller, professor of Military Science and Tactics, says that Army inductions under selective service are unlikely to be revived in the near future unless a major international crisis should cause Congress to vote an increase in Army appropriations.

"The news that Russia has the bomb," he said, "does not appear to be precipitating such a crisis at the present time."

Volunteer enlistments have been numerous enough to fill the Army's needs under the present budget. As a result, the draft as such has been suspended, although registration for it still continues.

Blanche Castonguay Still Patching Students Up As Head Nurse Of University's Health Clinic

By BILL ROBERTSON

For almost fourteen years, Blanche Castonguay has treated everything from small blemishes to appendectomies and she's still going strong.

Miss Castonguay, known affectionately by the students as just Blanche, is head nurse at the University's Health Service Clinic.

Blanche, who has watched many classes come and go with their sniffles and pains, began her duties in 1936. The clinic was then where it is now. During the war, however, it was shifted to the Beta house for a year.

Last spring the Beta boys marched into the clinic en masse and pinned Blanche after appropriately singing the Beta pinning song.

Red's Medical Career

When asked if she remembered any outstanding incident during her long service, Blanche thought for a moment, and then told the story of a prewar football star known as Red.

One morning while waiting for the doctor, Red became bored. He decided to take charge himself. Donning the doctor's white jacket, and putting a stethoscope around his neck, he marched into the girl's treatment room.

Fortunately for the girls, Blanche noticed that the door was closed. She investigated. There sat Red in the doctor's swivel chair, legs crossed, one arm resting on the arm of the chair and the other professionally stroking his chin. In the chair before him sat the patient—a little freshman coed.

Blanche terminated Red's medical career abruptly.

Many other incidents have enriched Blanche's years at the Clinic. Not once, she says, has she ever encountered a student who was not a perfect gentleman or lady. Red just carried his enthusiasm for practical jokes a little too far.

A native of Orono, Blanche trained at the Mercy Hospital in Portland. Always cheerful and pleasant, she has become an institution here at Maine.

Sigma Mu Sigma, honorary psychology fraternity, will hold a stag dance tomorrow night in the Memorial Gym. The Maine Bears will provide the dance music and several door prizes will be awarded.

The proceeds of the dance, as in the past years, will be apportioned to the annual scholarship award of $25, to several campus groups, and the sinking fund. The fraternity is planning to establish a permanent annual scholarship award of $25 this year.

Officers of Sigma Mu Sigma are: Robert C. Webster, President; Kathleen M. Heald, Secretary; and Joan H. Bither, Treasurer.

Grad Club Elects Bishop President

New officers of the Graduate Student Club were elected at the club's first meeting of the year, held at the home of Dean Edward N. Brush.

New officers include Neil Bishop, president, and Fanny Campbell, secretary-treasurer.

At the next monthly meeting of the organization the Chinese graduate students will present a program.

Visiting Musicians To Give Concerts During Semester

The Music Department has announced a series of 4 musical events for the fall term.

The first performance will be a program of organ music by Edward Prescott, on Oct. 16 in the Carnegie Hall foyer.

On Nov. 18, Mary Hayes Hayford and Edward Prescott will join forces in a recital of two-piano music.

Christmas Vespers, with the University Chorus and Orchestra and the Brass Ensemble, will be held, as in the past, on Dec. 11 in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The last musical event of the term will be a concert on Jan. 22 in Carnegie Hall, commemorating the bicentennial of the death of Johann Sebastian Bach. A group of student soloists and a string ensemble will participate in a program of the composer's works.

These concerts are all to be held on Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

There is no admission charge, and the public is cordially invited.

Pine Needle Lays Plans

Plans for the first issue of the Pine Needle were formulated at the first meeting of the staff last week.

It is hoped that the magazine will make its appearance about Homecoming time.

Maine ROTC Students Attend Summer Camps On East Coast

Seventy-five students and four permanent members of the ROTC staff have returned to their classes after participating in a six-week training course at various Army camps along the eastern seaboard.

The University of Maine was represented at nine camps, each of which offered training in a different field of military operations to ROTC students from many eastern colleges and military institutes. These students were organized into special units within the camps for the duration of the training program.

40 Hour Week

From June 18, when the course started, to July 31, its closing date, the cadets were on a 40-hour-a-week schedule of intensive training, which included both instruction and practical exercises.

The program at Camp Edwards, the Coast Artillery camp on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, can be taken as typical. Here, cadets spent the first two weeks in drill, map-reading exercises, and physical training, which culminated in a physical qualification test. Firing practice on 90 mm guns and 40 mm guns and machine guns followed at Wellfleet, farther out on the Cape. The final week of the course was devoted to a field problem where a mock aerial attack gave students the opportunity to show, under actual combat conditions, the practical knowledge and skills they had acquired.

Participating Groups

Cadets from the University of New Hampshire, Fordham University, the University of Pittsburgh, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, The Citadel, Hampden Institute, and the University of Delaware, as well as the Maine students, participated in the exercises.

The six weeks weren't entirely devoid of recreation for the Camp Edwards cadets.

DeMolay Holds Supper

All DeMolay members on campus are invited to attend the initiation supper of the first class of the new Bangor Chapter of DeMolay, at the Masonic Temple, Main St., Bangor, at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 12.

All those planning to attend are requested to leave their names with Robert Hall, Room 15, North Dorm #16.

New England Home Ec Clubs Hold Conclave

The Home Economics Clubs of New England will hold a workshop at Camp Alomoosook this week end. Representatives and advisors will be sent from 18 colleges.

The program will begin Friday night, Oct. 7, with a picnic supper on the beach. Saturday morning, there will be a tour of the University of Maine campus, followed by a tea at Home Management house. The guests will then go to the women's dormitories, where they will hold informal discussions.

Miss Frances Eurban, secretary of the college club department of American Home Economics Association, will be the guest speaker at the banquet in Estabrooke Hall at 6

More Room For Prism

Each year the cost of publishing the Prism runs in excess of $20,000. To anyone who wishes to ponder a moment on this sum it is overly apparent that an undertaking of this kind is one of tremendous proportions.

At best, the publication of the yearbook is an uphill fight for whoever may be the editor. The very size of the project demands tremendous amounts of time on the parts of all those who are connected with it.

The size also demands that adequate working space be provided in which the editorial copy required to fill the 450-odd pages may be properly handled. These two requisites, plenty of time, and plenty of space in which to work, are the most important factors in the production.

The amount of time which each participating student spends working on the project is, of course, an individual problem, and must be worked out as such.

But the problem of an adequate place in which to work is not an individual problem, and should be worked out between the student editor and the administration.

For years, Prism staffs have been working in an office in the MCA building which is no larger than a medium-sized broom closet. There is no room for more than two people to do anything constructive in this room at the same time.

It naturally follows that most of the work in the past has been done in dormitory rooms, in the library, and in other places that were available. This is not a healthy condition.

One may safely assume that any professional publication, the cost of which exceeds $20,000, would scoff at the prospect of having to work out of a pint-sized office such as the Prism occupies.

More space is badly needed, and it is understood that at present, an effort is being made to acquire adequate facilities.

It is hoped that such accommodations will soon be found, for this is the least that can be done for any student editor who carries the tremendous weight of a $20,000 enterprise on his shoulders.

Rule Infractions

Notations have been made this past week of two rule infractions on campus that might be called unethical if nothing else.

First, the Interfraternity Council's ruling on upperclass rushing states that pledging shall take place only between Oct. 3-13, inclusive. It has been reported that some pledging took place before that date. This is an obvious infraction of the rule set by the fraternities themselves.

Second, freshman rules state that frosh shall not attend organized fraternity parties on week ends. An open invitation to attend a party last week end was extended by at least one fraternity. This constitutes another rule infraction.

Of course it may be argued that the invitation itself was not in opposition to the rule, since the freshman must actually attend before an infraction may result. But at the same time it may be argued that an invitation which cannot be complied with because such compliance is against a University rule is somewhat nonsensical.

Sociability and friendliness toward freshmen is a fine thing. Rule jumping is something else.

These two instances may very well be examples of innocent exuberance, but hereafter careful discretion should be exercised in relation to rules that have been agreed upon.

Congratulations this week go to the 90-piece University Band. After one short practice session, the half-time marching at the Springfield game was exemplary for its precision and timing.

According To St. James

By Dick St. James

Once again the General Senate has been elected and this year it faces the tough task of legislating for the largest Orono campus enrollment in the history of the school. The task is tough because the Senate, like any other governing body, cannot please everyone.

The Senate will be criticized at times during the year and some of the criticism will probably be warranted. But the question is not one of what the criticism is but where it comes from. We all know the answer to that question. The loudest criticism always seems to come from the students who don't bother to vote.

The right to criticize comes with a person's active participation in school politics. Our basic mode of participation is to vote in all elections. Only then can we claim the right to criticize, either constructively or destructively.

I know that this matter of "Get out and vote" is old and has been used time after time right here in this paper. Everyone is probably pretty sick of it. But it is plain logic and the foundation of good government.

So the next time the General Senate or one of the other student governing organizations does something you don't approve of, think it over before shooting off your mouth. If you voted at the elections, you have the right to go and talk to your Senator and find out how he voted on the case in question. Then you can talk things over with him. Maybe you'll find out that you voted for the wrong person and decide to do better the next time. That's O.K.

But if you didn't vote, you haven't the right to go running to your Senator nor the right to say anything. You'll just have to blame yourself for not voting and try to become reconciled to a year of silence.

The right to vote here at Maine belongs to every student and there are plenty of chances to exercise it during the year. Senate elections, the least heralded but most important, have passed and the number of votes cast was quite satisfactory as far as I know. But the only completely satisfactory vote would be a 100% turnout, something which we will probably never reach but can always aim at.

Between now and June there will be elections for class officers, mayor, carnival queen, athletic board members and other offices. The elections will be well organized and there will be ample chance for everyone to cast their ballots. So get out and vote. Then you can claim the right to sound off.

THREE GUESSES

By Sid Folsom

1. Unless I miss my guess, this is going to be a big year at Maine. Already we've noticed the great school spirit everyone's sporting. The rallies are better attended, the gang around the bookstore isn't griping quite so loudly as last year, and everyone's glad to see everyone else.

From the minute we hit campus, the right idea has seemed to be to pitch in and help make this a terrific college year. We've needed a big year for a long time; a busy, exciting year, with lots of spirit and parties, and lots to talk about in years to come. When our elders start talking about the "gay old days back at Siwash U. in '22," we can look right back at them and spiel about the fun, the work, and the hell-raising we took in our stride back at Maine in '49.

2. But has it occurred to anyone to wonder where all this spirit is coming from? What about it? Why didn't we have it before? Is it here to stay?

My guess is this: the answer to the mystery lies in all those pretty, little blue caps we've seen wandering around, resting lightly atop the heads of our Freshman Class. Our campus has a good-sized Freshman Class for the first time in three years, and the change this year is for the better. Besides keeping the Owls and Eagles happy, the frosh add atmosphere. Their appearance at rallies and parades and their general presence is good for everyone. Thank you, Freshmen, for coming to Maine!

3. And now just one little pet peeve, if you don't mind. We all know of any number of talented kids running around the campus who aren't making their talents known. Why not? It doesn't take much time to drop over to the Masque, the Glee Club, the Band, or even our own little Campus office, and get in on the fun.

Maine is growing in activities, and we need lots of support to keep them going. It's not only a chance to help some of the clubs, but it's a good way to help the University, and, incidentally, also help yourself. A little outside fun is relaxing, interesting, and an excellent means of meeting people.

Come on out!

Drop Finals

To the Editor: This article from the New York Times attracted my attention and I believe the entire student body would be interested in it:

West Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 27—The days of a gallon of black coffee and a benzedrine pill as aids to midnight cramming before final examinations are gone forever, at least at Purdue University, according to Dr. Frank C. Hockema, vice president and executive dean.

The wartime speedup of instruction caused abandonment of the two-week end-of-semester "finals," and Purdue is not going to return to them. Instead, says Dr. Hockema, end-of-semester tests are only one of several bases for grading. Tests are given throughout the semester as the instructor sees fit. Dr. Hockema believes that a well-written examination should permit the bringing of textbooks or cribs to class, if the student wishes. "The student who would spend the examination period looking up the answers instead of buckling down to writing would not pass anyway," he believes.

How about putting it in the Campus? Maybe Maine will follow Purdue and abandon the drudgery and misery of finals.

BERNARD BERKOWITZ

Editor's Note—As reported in the Sept. 22 edition of The Maine Campus, the subject of final examinations at Maine has been reviewed by a joint student-faculty committee. The report of this committee, recommending that "in general, final examinations be retained," has been presented to the University's Committee on Administration and is now being considered by the various faculties of the University.

Open Letter

To the Editor: An Open Letter, Let's stop the practice of reserving whole sections of choice seats at future athletic events.

How many of you who went to the football game last Saturday were denied vacant seats because someone told you they were reserved? By what authority do these people reserve sections? To our knowledge, the only groups granted this privilege are the band, the mayor's party, and the freshmen.

Seats should be delegated on a first-come, first-served basis. Why should certain groups post vanguards, stake out a claim to rows of choice seats, and hold them past game starting time for later arrivals? Meanwhile, innumerable students trek to these sections only to be refused seats. It seems if certain groups wish to sit as a body, they could at least arrive early enough (as a group) to secure adequate seats.

We all paid the same athletic fee; let's demand equal rights. Why shouldn't we be allowed our choice of available vacant seats?

University Society

BY MARILYN HOYT

The losing of a football game, the first cold touch of autumn weather, and a few other distracting factors did nothing to hamper the gay party spirit that reared its jovial head again last week end.

Over two hundred people attended Sigma Nu's first informal vic dance of the fall semester, Saturday. The newly constructed game room in the cellar took ample care of the crowd. Refreshments of cider and sandwiches were served during the evening.

MARILYN

Tau Epsilon Phi had its first party in its new house last Saturday. Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Gro-noski. Congratulations on your new house, TEPS, I hear it's a beautiful building.

Lambda Chi also held an informal vic dance last Saturday. The guests ate, danced, and sang, the sum total which added up to a very pleasant evening.

Sigma Chi, all dressed up in beautiful leaves, thanks to Bill Fogler, was another Frat that had a vic dance Saturday night. Refreshments were served and a nice time was had by all. By the way, thank you for the apple.

At ATO Saturday night, couples danced to the music of the Maine Bears Trio, listened to Joe Soy-chak strumming on his "singing guitar," ate doughnuts, drank cider, and had a very good time.

Theta Chi's informal vic dance, which about 60 couples attended last Saturday night was a big success. The walls were gaily decorated with colored leaves and boughs. Guests were entertained by pianist Bob Verrall. I guess, Thetas, you won't need me to announce your parties any more.

Betas held a dance directly after the game Saturday. Although it was called a "tea dance" coffee and sandwiches were served. Ray Downs and his orchestra played. Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grady, and Dr. and Mrs. Beamesderfer. Should I quote the freshman girl who said, "I had a simply marvelous time"?

Informal vic dances were held at Kappa Sig, week end before last, to officially open the weekly parties at the house. Brothers and their guests enjoyed the dancing and fun. Refreshments were served.

The Canterbury Club held a reception for the new students at the home of Father Gary. Hostesses were Eden Fort, Shirley Johnson, Anne McKiel, and Marilyn Wyman. Punch and cookies were served.

The names of those pinned, engaged, and married are still coming in. Those in this week's mailbox were:

Collins In Warning To Fraternities About Pledging

Tom Collins, president of the Interfraternity Council, has announced that the Council will immediately set up provisions to prevent the injustices in the fraternity pledging situation which occurred last week.

The Council was informed that many of the campus fraternities had signed up their pledges before the stipulated pledging period of October 3-13 inclusive. This is a direct violation of the Interfraternity Council ruling, which states that no pledge cards shall be given out before the pledging period expires.

Sunday Services Require Great Deal Of Student Preparation

Those who attended last Sunday's services in the Little Theatre may have wondered just how those services came about.

An MCA committee comprised of Beverly Johnson, Jeanette Cates, and John Bodey, with the advice of other members of the MCA staff, has been hard at work for many weeks before any Sunday non-denominational service is held on campus.

Ministers, rabbis, and other lecturers must be contacted much in advance of their appearances on the campus.

On Sunday morning a crew assembles to assure a smoothly running service. The ushers get ready to meet church-goers at the door. The members of the choir get up early enough every Sunday morning to practice before the actual service. A host, or hostess, is present to see that the speaker's visit is a pleasant one.

Thirty-five drawings and water-colors by Waldo Peirce, famous Maine artist, will be exhibited in the Art Gallery, Carnegie Hall, throughout the month of October.

Peirce's oil paintings were shown in the gallery last year, and according to Professor Vincent A. Hartgen, enthusiasm for Peirce's work was so great, he arranged another show of this artist's pictures for this year.

The Maine artist is generally recognized throughout the country and in Europe as an oil painter; his water-colors are rarely shown in public exhibitions. The exhibit contains lively, active drawings which are the background for many of the oil paintings which have won for Mr. Peirce prizes and fame in innumerable national and international exhibitions, according to Professor Hartgen.

He is known throughout the art world as a painter of children, home scenes, rural and coastal scenes. His works have done much to spread information about the life of the everyday individual in Maine.

Mr. Peirce now resides in Searsport, where Professor Hartgen, during the summer months, selected the works for this exhibition.

The exhibition will be open weekdays from 9 to 5, Sundays from 3 to 5. The gallery is closed on Saturdays.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

One game does not a season make. Remember that, ye of little faith. Coach Dave Nelson's Bears lost to a good ball club last Saturday. In fact, Springfield had what was probably one of the best teams ever seen on Alumni Field.

So what is the result?

Already, the loyal Maine fans are moaning and criticizing. They should have done this, they should have done that, etc.

The grandstand quarterbacks have formed their battlelines and have commenced firing. The schools of thought are many but perhaps the most disgusting to me are the two following:

1. The Maine team quit. The Maine players haven't got any guts.

This seems pretty stupid especially in view of the second half play when Maine came back to gain most of its yardage and threaten the Springfield goal line.

How an individual or group of individuals can sit in the stands and decide that a player is quitting or is lacking in guts evades me. From the stands, the game doesn't look very hard but not many of the crepe hangers care to try it.

Remember, all you talk-a-good-game stars, that there is an open invitation for more football players.

2. It's the coach's fault. He's not all he's been cracked up to be.

This is, of course, a familiar refrain at Maine and other colleges and is also a good old stand-by upon which to fall back. A coach is a hero if he wins but a bum if he loses.

In fact, one staunch undergrad was even yelling for Eck Allen.

Let's look at the facts and weigh the evidence before trying to place the blame on any individual or individuals.

Springfield has virtually the same team that lost only to Toledo last season. Many of the players have had three years of varsity experience. That means a lot especially when you consider the number of men on the Maine team that are playing their first year of varsity ball.

Also take a look at the weights. Springfield's defensive line averaged exactly eight ounces over 200 pounds.

Again, if you noticed it, on almost every play a Springfield tackler was grabbing for the ball. It's no small wonder that Maine fumbled.

Of course there are still plenty of wrinkles to be ironed out of the Bears but let's give them half a chance.

Just to get off the subject of football for a moment, one of Bill Kenyon's former hurlers has signed a Boston Red Sox contract.

Red Norwood earned himself $3,000 Monday night by putting his name on the dotted line for Sox scout Neil Mahoney.

Red, a varsity hurler for Maine as a freshman in 1947, will go south next spring with the Boston club and is set to work with Scranton in the Class A Eastern League.

Last summer, Norwood performed for the semi-pro Augusta Millionaires who had some form of working agreement with the Red Sox. He pitched, played in the outfield and even worked a few games at second base.

Big Red batted .361 to lead the team and, in addition, won six games on the mound. His 99 strikeouts were also tops on the club.

A note for the little men—Bob D'Agostino, Springfield's five-touchdown halfback, stands 5 ft. 7 in. and weighs 147 pounds.

Bears Tackle New Hampshire At Durham

With a three or four way battle taking place for each position, Frosh coach Sam Sezak hasn't yet decided on a starting lineup for his squad's curtain-raiser with Hebron a week from Saturday.

A possible, but far from definite, starting lineup for the opener includes Art Aniceti and Ray Mason at the ends; Dennis Hawkes and Glenn Folsom, tackles; Steve Emmons and Harry Simpson, guards; Don LaChance or Leo Parent at center and a backfield of Ken Sparks at quarter, Howard Doucette and Charlie Foote in the halfback spots and Loring Franklin, fullback.

Other squad members are Dick Breen and Jim Wilson, ends; Bob Everheart, Don Burchard, Ray Cox, and Earle and Don Stevens, tackles; Norris Bussell, Alan Noble, Charlie Stilletti and Bob Ehrlich, guards, and Ellis Bean, Ray Atherton, Joe Alex, Fred Wallace, Doug Kneeland, and Brad Maxwell.

Women's Sports

The schedule of field hockey games and practices for the week of Oct. 10 has been announced by the Women's Athletic Association.

Monday the Freshmen meet the Seniors, Wednesday the Sophomores play the Juniors, and Friday the Frosh oppose the Juniors. Practices are scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. All games start at 3:45 p.m.

Phi Mu Delta Wins

Phi Mu Delta rolled to a 36 to 6 victory over Sigma Phi Epsilon to highlight the opening games in the fraternity division of the intramural touch football league last Sunday.

In the only Northern League game scheduled, Theta Chi edged Beta, 12 to 6. In Southern League tilts, Phi Kappa Sigma downed Sigma Chi, 18 to 6, and ATO beat out Lambda Chi on distance in a double overtime. Phi Gam won by a forfeit from Alpha Gam.

A fast, powerful Springfield College eleven, paced by halfback Bob D'Agostino, rolled to a 35 to 0 victory over the University of Maine here last Saturday on Alumni Field.

D'Agostino Scores Five

D'Agostino, a 147-pound speedster, raced to five touchdowns in the first half of the game. In addition, he personally outgained the entire Maine team, picking up 154 yards to 70 for the Bears. After his first half spree, D'Agostino sat on the bench.

Keith King, the Springfield kicking specialist, made good on all five of his point after touchdown placement tries.

The Nelson-coached Bears, held virtually helpless in the opening half with a net gain of minus two yards, came back in the second half to roll up seven first downs and threaten twice.

Springfield, using only a few fundamental plays, never did much in the second half but rested on the 35 point bulge.

Fumbles Hurt Bears

Fumbles hurt the Maine team considerably, the first Springfield touchdown coming after a fumble recovery deep in Bear territory. In all, Maine fumbled five times, recovering only once.

Bates Harriers Here Tomorrow

With several former Annex runners out, competition is keen for the first seven places on this year's varsity cross country team which opens against Bates here tomorrow.

According to veteran coach Chester Jenkins, the squad looked good last Saturday in time trials as Dick Dow, a sophomore, led the pack home.

Bates did not meet Maine last year in cross country but Red Horne of Bates won the state title. Horne is not back for 1949 but Bob Buker, whose father was once the best two-miler in the country, may take over Horne's spot.

Tough competition is coming up for the Bears the last two week ends in October when they meet New Hampshire and Springfield, both of which defeated coach Jenkins' team last year.

Nov. 3 the team will run in the New England where they placed third last year. The IC4A meet at Van Cortland Park in New York is scheduled for Dec. 14.

Coach Westerman Likes Attitude Of This Year's Pale Blue Squad

By BOB SLOSSER

"I think the attitude of the fellows is wonderful," said backfield coach Harold S. (Hal) Westerman when asked what he thinks of this year's Pale Blue grid squad.

He also went on to say that he thinks the Black Bears will improve as the season progresses.

"The new system and philosophy of football that they are under now makes it difficult for them, but I believe that once they catch on to it, they will be a good club," said the 31-year-old Ann Arbor, Michigan, native.

Westerman came here from Hillsdale College in Michigan, where he was head basketball coach and backfield coach under football coach and athletic director Dave Nelson in 1946 and 1947 and Jim Holgate in 1948.

The soft-spoken mentor said that while he was basketball coach at Hillsdale, his teams did not set too impressive a record until last year, when they won their conference championship.

He has been named as assistant basketball coach here under new coach Rome Rankin. He will also handle the freshman team.

Westerman was graduated in 1942 from the University of Michigan, where he was outstanding as a guard in basketball in 1939, 1940, and 1941. He played football there only as a freshman.

On the domestic side, the single-wing expert is a married man living in the South Apartments. He has four children—two boys and two girls.

He says that he likes Maine and the people very much. It was a little strange to him at first, for he had never been in this part of the country before. But now that he has been here for a time, he thinks the state, the University, and the people are fine.

Gridmen Seek Comeback Win, 2nd YC Victory

Still licking their wounds suffered in the Springfield game, the Black Bears will meet a very tough Yankee Conference contender Saturday when they tangle with the New Hampshire Wildcats at Durham.

Coach Dave Nelson has had the Pale Blue squad out every night in preparation for the tilt. He even held an hour scrimmage on Monday, and he followed it with plenty of contact work and scrimmage on Tuesday and Wednesday. Today, he will taper off.

Wildcats Will Be Tough

Drilling both on last week's mistakes and on New Hampshire plays, Nelson offered no comments on the outcome except that he believes the Wildcats are as tough as Springfield, and the Bears will have to improve a lot if they want to hold their own.

Nelson did offer praise on the play of Hal Marden in Saturday's game. He believes that Marden showed a lot of competitive spirit and ability.

Reports say that the Durham Wildcats are one of the stronger teams in the Yankee Conference again this year. Although they are under a new head coach, Chief Boston who replaced Biff Glassford who went to Nebraska, they have plenty of experience on the squad.

Mather Is New Star

Carmen Ragonese, the terrific speed merchant who drove Maine crazy last fall when the Wildcats beat the Bears 27-6, is no longer in school, but the Granite Staters' offense has not fallen behind due to the excellent passing of quarterback Bruce Mather, who reportedly handles his team beautifully from the T formation.

According to Nelson, the only Maine regulars who have not been able to partake of all the practice work this week are end Alan Wing and halfback Reggie Lord.

Wing is suffering from a prolonged cold, but is expected to be ready for action by Saturday.

Lord received an injured knee in the Springfield game, and it is not known whether or not he will play against New Hampshire.

Tennis Tournament For All Students Starts Saturday

The fall tennis tournament, which is open to all students of the University, will begin Saturday morning.

Coach G. William Small announced that all candidates for the varsity and freshman tennis teams should enter the tournament by contacting the coach or Faculty Manager of Athletics, Ted Curtis.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner and the runner-up.

Coach Small also announced that only three veterans from last year's varsity tennis team are back—Bob Thoits, Frank Potenzo, and Ben Blanchard. However, the vacancies are expected to be capably filled by members of last year's strong jayvee squad and by men coming up from Brunswick.

Frosh Race With MCI

Coach Chester Jenkins' freshman cross country squad will open its 1949 season here tomorrow against MCI's state prep school champions. MCI will field the same team that won the title last year.

Fire Procedure Outline Given By Authorities

The Administration has announced the following rules to be observed in case of fire in any University building:

1. Call Orono 600 (Orono Fire Dept.) and give the exact location of the fire. Also (between 7:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.) call the University Operator and report the fire. Or (nights and Sundays and campus observed holidays) call the University Heating Plant, Orono 740.

2. Give the alarm to all occupants of the building.

3. If the fire is of small proportions, apply fire extinguishers which are located in all buildings. Know where the extinguishers are located in case of an emergency.

4. In case of an oil fire or a short circuit in electrical wiring, use a pyrene or a carbon dioxide extinguisher. Direct the discharge as close to the fire as possible, applying first at the edge and bottom of the fire and progressing forward and upward.

5. Supervise the removal of equipment and records from your building or office.

6. Report any potential fire hazard to Mr. Dempsey, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, Ext. 16, or the Safety Committee in your building.

7. Please do not congest a fire area with cars.

University fire signals are as follows:

One short blast at 12:45 daily except Sunday—for testing only.

Two long blasts—signal for the U. of M. volunteer fire department to report at the Orono fire station. All others disregard signal.

Three long blasts—fire alarm for south portion of campus.

Four long blasts—fire alarm for north portion of campus.
