Debate Team Takes 2nd In Tournament

Outstanding Award Given To Minsky

The Maine Debate Team won second place in the second annual Tufts Invitational Debate Tournament last week end. Leonard Minsky, of Maine, received an individual award as one of the two best speakers of the tournament. Eighty debaters from 20 eastern United States colleges and universities participated in the debates.

Maine established itself as a contender for the championship by upsetting defending champion Georgetown University in the opening round. In subsequent rounds, Maine defeated Suffolk, American International, Rutgers, Vermont, and two teams from Boston University.

Loss To Dartmouth

The Maine debaters gained entry into the final round with Dartmouth by defeating Temple University. Dartmouth was declared winner of the championship debate by a 3-2 vote of the judges.

At the conclusion of the tournament, it was announced that Stanley Barrecca, Boston University, and Minsky had been selected by the judges as the outstanding speakers of the event.

In addition to these honors, the Maine affirmative team was the only undefeated affirmative team in the entire tournament. They won five straight debates.

Team And Opponents

Members of the Maine team were Bob Moran and Don Waring, affirmative, and George Brontas and Leonard Minsky, negative. The subject debated was nationalization of basic United States industries.

Other colleges participating were Harvard, Curry, Emerson, Rhode Island, Northeastern, Tufts, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, and Fordham.

Proof Deadline Dec. 9

The final deadline for all picture proofs to be turned into the Prism office at 211 East Annex will be Friday, Dec. 9.

His Excellency, Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, President of the fourth regular session of the General Assembly of the United Nations, Chief of the Philippine Mission to the United Nations, Chief Delegate of the Philippines on the Far Eastern Commission in Washington, D. C., who will address the student body in a general assembly at Memorial Gymnasium, Wednesday, Jan. 18.

Annual Vespers Service Offers Varied Program

The annual Christmas Vespers program, traditionally an outstanding feature of the musical season here, will be given on December 11, at 4:15 p.m., in the Memorial Gym.

Following is the complete program of the Christmas Vespers service: Choral Preludes: Good News from Heaven the Angels Bring, Pachelbel; God's Son is Come, Bach—Brass Ensemble.

Antiphon: From Heaven Above to Earth I Come, Schumann—Glee Club. Processional: Adeste Fideles, Portuguese—Congregation, Glee Club, & Orchestra.

Preces: O Lord, Open Thou Our Lips, Byrd—Paul Payson, Cantor; Glory to God in the Highest, Pergolesi—(Continued on Page Five)

Noted Filipino To Speak At University Assembly Scheduled For Jan. 18

Event Announced By President Hauck Wins Immediate Student Acclaim

By BOB WINSHIP

General Carlos P. Romulo, president of the United Nations General Assembly, will address the student body and faculty on Wednesday morning, Jan. 18, it was announced today by President Arthur A. Hauck.

General Romulo's speech at a General Assembly in the Memorial Gymnasium is expected to draw wide attention in view of the present international situation.

Students Applaud

When told of General Romulo's scheduled appearance here, James McBrady, president of the General Senate, said, "General Romulo's address here shows the great interest the University is taking in order to get the best speakers possible to address the student body."

Neil Matheson, another student, said, "We hear a great deal about the U. N. through the papers and radio. Now we'll have an opportunity to hear about it first hand. It should be very interesting."

"Important To Know"

Sid Folsom, editor of the Pine Needle, declared, "It's important for today's students to know what's going on outside their own back yards. Here's a good chance to gather a little first hand information about the U. N. Thanks to the University for such interesting speakers—and let's be on hand to listen."

Still another student, Bill Robertson, said, "This assembly presents an invaluable opportunity to broaden our knowledge of the world and its machinery—let's go and stay to its conclusion."

Helped Form U. N.

As head of the Philippine Delegation to the United Nations Conference in San Francisco in 1945, General Romulo aided in shaping the formation of the organization and because of his work in the succeeding sessions, he was elected president of the fourth regular session which opened on Sept. 20 of this year.

Masque Play First Nighter Well Received

By MARILYN HOYT

Last evening, at the Little Theatre, the Masque's current production, "Much Ado About Nothing," turned out to be much ado about something as far as the theatre audience was concerned.

As the final curtain fell amid enthusiastic applause, general consensus held that it was the best comedy ever staged by the Masque. The four-day run will conclude Saturday.

A Delightful Evening

The impressionistic set and acting, the variety of the script, comedy, drama, singing, dancing, and a hint of slapstick, combined to bring to the audience a delightful evening of entertainment.

Al Dumais, as the witty Benedick, did an excellent piece of acting. His facial expressions when he learned that the sharp-tongued Beatrice loved him were priceless.

In Role of Beatrice

Elaine Lockhart, in the role of Beatrice, was also superb. Her gracefulness of gesture and movement were beautiful to watch.

Bill White's villainy and Bob Arnold's sulkiness fitted to a perfection their character roles. Bill Heyne as second watchman, and Ted Jennison as Dogberry, brought the house down with laughter with some of their antics.

Dick Buck and Joe Zabriskie played their roles with equal gusto, leading one to believe that they were having as good a time as the audience.

Four Maine Co-Eds Join Salvation Army For Good Day's Work

By BETTY JANE LADD

Last Saturday I worked for the Salvation Army. Three other girls and I went to Bangor and offered our services. Marilyn Hoyt and I wanted to get a feature on some charity organization and persuaded our roommates, Joan McKeig and Barbara LaBonty, to go with us.

We had planned to wear the uniforms complete with bonnets and go out on the street to help the cause. You can well imagine the situations we projected ourselves into during the week preceding our assignment. Finally, after we had exhausted our imaginations, Saturday arrived...by that time some of us were wishing that we had never thought of the idea.

The Salvation headquarters in Bangor is just opposite the Brass Rail. We found it. Holding our heads high we sailed through a likely looking door, to find ourselves in the lobby of a men's hotel. Hastily we mumbled apologies and backed out onto the street. We waited there until we saw the familiar bonnet of an Army worker and followed her through a small door at the back of the building.

Captain Fleming looked rather amazed when he saw us. We told him we wanted to do charity work and he seemed pleased to have our assistance. Five minutes later I found myself back on the street loaded down with the Army magazine, The War Cry, and a collection can in my hand.

We separated then. Two of my friends went to sell the War Cry throughout the Bangor business district, while my roommate and I went to ring the bell at the kettle in front of Freese's.

It wasn't long before we began to feel our part. We were constantly snubbed by some people and encouraged by more sympathetic holiday shoppers. The one thing we agreed on was: It was the person you didn't expect to give who tossed a coin into the kettle.

We worked all afternoon and successfully sold the magazines besides encouraging people to contribute. During that time my friends and I found ourselves with a new set of values. Hereafter, when we see the traditional bonnet and the wire covered kettle, we'll stop and think of the social work and field services this organization has sponsored successfully. We'll also think of the hard work that goes into the collection of the funds.

Scholarship Applications Now Available

All students wishing to apply for scholarships for the school year of 1950-51 should obtain application forms at once from the Office of Student Aid and Placement, 66 Library. Application forms should be completed and returned to that office by January 10.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of the following: (1) financial need; (2) scholastic standing; (3) campus leadership. A minimum point average of 2.0 is required for any consideration.

All applications will be reviewed by the University Scholarship Committee and awards will be announced at Scholarship Recognition Day in May.

Job Clinic Success, States Brockway; Big Aid To Students

Student interest in the Job Clinic established by Placement Director Philip J. Brockway has been eminently satisfactory, according to reports received from participating students and from the director of the program.

Mr. Brockway states that about 60 students started with the first training group and that approximately the same number finished the five-meeting program.

Student interest is summed up in the statement of Alan Darrel of Theta Chi, a prospective February graduate: "The program has been very beneficial to me and gives very good service, especially to those students who find difficulty in writing letters of application or in filling out the many necessary forms."

Dutch Election To Be Feature Of Ice Revue

The outdoor ice review will be the scene of the coronation of the Maine Carnival King and Queen on Jan. 13, the first day of what promises to be a gala two-day event.

A so-called Dutch election will be held for the students whereby the voters will cast their ballots for the opposite sex only, according to the Winter Carnival committee. The committee revealed that each fraternity and men's dormitory will select a candidate for Carnival Queen. Off-campus men will also choose a candidate for this honor.

Two male prospects will be selected for Carnival King by each of the women's dormitories, while off-campus women will nominate one candidate for this position.

Colonel To Be Chosen At Ball

Advanced ROTC students are being issued their uniforms so they, too, may appear at the Military Ball in uniform. Although tuxedos will undoubtedly be worn by many of the students, service and ROTC uniforms are expected to be more popular.

The Scabbard & Blade, sponsor of the annual Military Ball, will highlight the evening's dance with the crowning of a new Honorary Lieutenant Colonel to replace Elaine Lockhart.

Elaine's successor was elected by a general vote of the student body at the polls in the Library Tuesday, and her name is known only to those lucky few who helped count the ballots. She will receive her commission and an inscribed loving cup during the intermission ceremony.

Al Corey and his twelve-piece band will play for the Military Ball.

Yuletide Party In Estabrooke On Wednesday

A Christmas party for foreign students on the campus will be given Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in South Estabrooke Hall by the Orono-Old Town Branch, American Association of University Women.

The feature of the program will be a forum, "Toward Peace," with foreign students taking part.

Students on the panel are: Lawrence Evans, England, chairman; Remigio E. Aggato, the Philippines; Maung Shwe Htoo, Burma; Mogens Knochel, Denmark; Nicole Josette Moatti, France; Antonios Papadopoulos, Greece; and Aruthur Schoedel, Germany.

The program is in charge of the international relations committee of the AAUW. Mrs. Hiny B. Kirshen is chairman.

Hostesses are Mrs. Walter Witham, chairman, Mrs. Edwin Giddings, Mrs. Theodore C. Weiler, Miss Constance Burgess, Mrs. Wilson B. Stallworthy, Mrs. Arthur Stevens, Mrs. Anthony Jochems, and Mrs. Marian S. Webster.

Fraternity Changes Not Expected For Considerable Time

In spite of the urgent tone of the resolution passed by the National Interfraternity Council at their last meeting concerning discrimination, the prevailing trend of thought here at the University of Maine is to the effect that there will be little, if any, immediate change.

Tom Collins, head of the Interfraternity Council, who attended the meeting in Washington, believes that while this is the beginning of a new trend, results will not be evident until after the biennial meetings of the various national fraternities.

Robert Worrick, assistant to the Dean of Men, summed it up in almost the same words. He expressed the view that "the resolution will not be felt here on the campus for a considerable time due to the complex machinery of the national fraternities."

Watson Conducting Flammable Tests

Professor Harry D. Watson, head of the department of mechanical engineering, is now conducting tests of appliances using inflammable fluids. This testing is in accordance with the provisions of a law passed by the state legislature at its last session.

Particular emphasis is placed on fire and explosion hazards.

CARBON MONOXIDE... FRIEND OF MAN

Thanks to high-pressure synthesis, it now leads a useful life

To the man on the street, carbon monoxide is just a poisonous gas that sometimes causes tragic deaths when it escapes from the exhaust of an automobile or from a poorly tended furnace.

Outside of the chemical field, few people are aware that, properly used, it is a very real friend of man. In the last 25 years, during which catalytic and high-pressure chemical techniques have been highly developed, carbon monoxide has become a key-stone of industrial synthesis.

Scientists have found that under the proper conditions of high pressure and temperature, carbon monoxide, in combination with other substances, can be converted to a variety of useful products. These or their derivatives range from an acid used in tanning hides to the sparkling plastics in milady's boudoir.

You'd hardly associate carbon monoxide with anti-freeze. But at temperatures from 300 to 450°C. and under pressures of 1500 to 15,000 pounds per square inch, carbon monoxide and hydrogen unite to form methanol—a colorless liquid from which is made "Zerone" anti-rust anti-freeze for automobiles. From methanol and carbon monoxide as raw materials, ethylene glycol for "Zerex" anti-freeze is produced.

Plastics and Anti-Freeze

Methanol is used also to make a large number of compounds such as formaldehyde and methyl methacrylate. The former goes into urea and phenol-formaldehyde plastics for light fixtures, radio cabinets, hardware, utensils, and electrical equipment. The latter is the basic material for "Lucite" acrylic resin with its many uses.

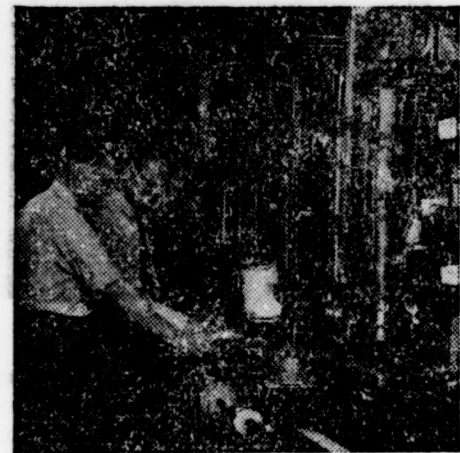

R. L. Stearns, B.S. Ch.E., Yale '49 and H. Peterson, B.S. Ch.E., Northeastern Univ. '42 checking a multi-stage carbon monoxide compressor used in semi-works operations.

The reaction of methanol with carbon monoxide leads to acetic acid, which is a well-known industrial chemical. By the same synthesis but substituting ethanol for methanol, propionic acid is obtained. From it come the "Mycoban" sodium and calcium propionates that retard mold and rope in bakery products.

Synthesis in the Future

Today Du Pont manufactures some 120 different items that are partly or wholly dependent upon elevated pressures. However, the possibilities have by no means been exhausted. Just recently, for example, chemists have been learning how to use carbon monoxide in "up-grading" certain petroleum hydrocarbons to give interesting alcohols. One of these, 3,5,5-trimethylhexanol, is prepared from diisobutylene by reaction with carbon monoxide and hydrogen.

College-trained men and women interested in working in this field at Du Pont may share in discoveries as outstanding as any yet achieved.

Because of the wide scope of Du Pont's activities, young graduates in many different fields have opportunities to select the careers that prove to suit them best as their abilities and interests develop.

Cups Of Java Due For A Rise, Says Bookstore

By JIM BARROWS

The five cent cup of coffee will take its place in history along with the nickel cigar next year when the University Store Company will raise its price to conform to recent market trends.

Harold L. Bruce, manager of the University Store Company, stated that "in all probability we'll go up to eight cents, but we won't be sure until the first of the year."

This move occurs as a delayed reaction to the upward surge of whole-sale coffee prices caused by a drought which ruined almost half the coffee crop of Brazil, world's leading coffee producer, and Guatemalan floods which have seriously damaged coffee crops in that country.

Many restaurants throughout the nation have already been forced to raise coffee prices to ten cents a cup, while shoppers may have to face the prospect of dollar-a-pound coffee. No immediate relief is in sight.

Considerable losses would occur by keeping the price of the coffee constant. Bruce pointed out, due to the fractional profits which keep the Book Store and Carnegie running. At these two havens for the weary, students consume about 150 pounds of coffee each week, or 234 tons annually, Bruce estimated.

The current hike in prices is an adjustment to the average food price increase, which from October 1939 to October 1949 has risen 97.8%, while coffee's price increased only 70.1% for the same period.

No shortage of coffee is expected, despite the rise in prices, unless—as some store managers fear—buyers resort to hoarding.

Home Hoop Games To Be Broadcast

The University Store Company, in cooperation with radio station WABI, will sponsor the radio broadcasting of the ten Maine home games to be played in Memorial Gym during the basketball season this winter.

Harold Bruce, manager of the University Store Company, stated that this move was being made since "all the students can't go to the games because there's no room for them. This will also help the University out because they're turning away outsiders, which is hurting public relations."

The first real snowstorm of the season has produced two fine twins—twin snowmen, that is. Here they are being admired by four co-eds from Colvin Hall. The co-eds, not the snowmen, are, left to right, Elinor Hansen, Mary Hastings, Barbara DeCormier, and Anna Whited.

Petition System Proves Popular

Brad Shaw, chairman of the General Senate Elections Committee, has announced that the new-type class election procedure is being well received. Approximately 60 petitions for class officer candidates have been issued.

Those who have taken out petitions already, and those who are planning to take them out, are reminded that the deadline for their return is 5 p.m., Monday, Dec. 12. All petitions will be checked for validity upon receipt by the Elections Committee. Petitions are now available at the Dean of Men's and Dean of Women's Office.

Following a thorough check of all petition signatures, the names of the nominated candidates will be compiled in ballot form. The class elections will take place within two weeks following Christmas vacation.

Members of the committee are Brad Shaw, Phil Ward, Marilyn Seavey, Dick Spencer, and Alvan Mersky.

Sorority To Entertain

Pi Beta Phi will hold its Christmas vesper tea for new faculty members Sunday, Dec. 11, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. in North Estabrooke.

VA Training Officer In Togus Transfer

Mr. Boyd F. Pike, VA training officer who has been at the University of Maine since 1946, has recently been transferred to the VA Center at Togus.

Mr. Theodore Littlefield, who has worked in the Bangor office since the start of the VA program, will be at the University mornings Monday through Friday.

Home Ec Clubs Meet At State House; Maine Girls Attend

The State House in Augusta was the scene for the meeting of the Maine State College Home Economics Club last Sat., Dec. 3. The purpose of the meeting was to further cooperation among home economics clubs in the Maine colleges and also to promote a better understanding between the American Home Economics Association and the clubs in their various colleges.

The University of Maine was represented by the president of the local club, Margaret Batson; state club treasurer, Elizabeth Shaw; past president of the state club, Martha Fogler; and the co-advisers of the organization, Dr. Katherine Miles and Miss Esther Martin.

Master Clock Soon To Hang In Library

A master clock, complete with buzzer, will be placed on the second floor wall of the library over the stairs, Louis Ibbotson, librarian, has announced. Preparations for the placing of the clock are now underway.

Several smaller clocks will be placed in strategic positions in the various rooms throughout the library.

Mr. Ibbotson also stated that the former engineering drafting room on the second floor will be converted into a reading room.

Opera Auditions Open

Auditions for the Kurt Weill opera, "Down in the Valley," which the music department will present next spring, will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in Carnegie Hall.

Pine Needle's Fall Issue Goes On Sale Today

This year's first issue of the Pine Needle went on sale today at noon, featuring sections covering fall sports, campus glamour, fall fashions, stories and poems, and cartoons.

Copies are on sale at the bookstore, Carnegie lounge, and the Dunn Hall canteen.

Published by students of the University, the magazine will have three more issues during the remainder of the school year.

Pine Needle is inaugurating a new staff organization with this issue. The new set-up will be based on standard departmental organization, as is followed by most other publications.

New Registration Plan Does Away With Lines

The colleges of the University have announced that registration will no longer take place in Memorial Gym. Instead the student will register in his own spare time without having to stand in line.

The student will pick up his registration material from his dean's office and visit all the departments as usual. But the departments will not be set up in the gym. This move will prevent much of the rushing and lining-up of the past.

Frat Initiations Violate Code

Fraternities are here to stay. So is Hell Week, so it seems.

But the fraternities have been abusing their rights in regard to initiation of pledges. Last week, in their spirit of fun, they kept the University awake each night until approximately 4 a.m. by marching their shouting pledges around the campus, pounding drums and singing jolly old drinking songs.

This is in violation of the Interfraternity Council code, which states that each fraternity shall restrict its nighttime activities—during Hell Week—to its own house.

We think that is a sound rule, and feel that its soundness was demonstrated last week by the violating fraternities. No one likes to be wakened in the wee hours of the morn; even the fraternities will agree to that.

If the brothers want to subject their pledges to such tortures as paddling, counting the pickets in the fence surrounding Mt. Hope cemetery, and beer-drinking at Pat's, that's up to them and their pledges. The pledges expect it anyway. But such stunts as clogging Carnegie in the evening with weirdly dressed hopefuls, and singing nasty ditties to the girls' dorms after midnight, are not funny—at least not to the non-fraternity element.

In all fairness, it should be mentioned here that some of the fraternities did restrict their activities to their houses. But some of them didn't.

What is the solution? Possibly the Interfraternity Council, made up of fraternity members, closes its eyes when Zeta Beta Zeta frolics through the campus, issuing loud challenges to other frats.

If this be the case, we need a more powerful council—one that will enforce its regulations.

Good For The Bookstore

Barrels and barrels of cheers go to the bookstore for the decision to broadcast all the home basketball games over station WABI this year.

In view of the possibility of a winning Pale Blue five this season, it is highly probable that the gym will be filled to capacity every night of a game, and there will be many loyal fans who will be unable to gain entrance to the contests.

The seating acapacity of the gym is reported to be under 3,000, and the number of students at Maine totals around 4,800. Hence, it is evident that there will be many who will appreciate a play by play account by a capable announcer. Oh, for television!

There are many of those who remember several games last year (the Rhode Island game, for instance) when they were forced to stand in the lobby or outside of the hall and listen to the cheers of the lucky ones inside.

The next thing to the radio cure would be to kill off half of the student body, thereby allowing the remainder to be comfortable, or to double the size of Memorial Gym, making it even possible for outsiders to attend.

It seems evident that the owners of our campus store have chosen the most practical and desirable method for trying to please everyone. Thanks.

The patchwork tie comes to Maine

According To St. James

By DICK ST. JAMES

The home basketball season gets under way tonight and the gym will be filled to capacity if past years are any indication of what to expect. And, as in past years, the gym will probably echo the sound of unwarranted boos and jeers all during the game.

But we don't want it to be like that, do we? Of course we don't. Boos are unsportsmanlike, boos show ignorance, boos make jackasses out of people. And above all, boos give visiting teams and fans the impression that Maine students are unfair, or usually just plain jerks.

The booing, we realize, comes from a minority of the students, but it only takes one jeering voice to attract attention when the gym is quiet. The booing minority can give Maine a reputation as it has other schools in the past. And that ain't good.

We've noticed at games in the last couple of years that the boos are liable to come anywhere. Suppose a Pale Blue player climbs all over an opponent's back in attempting to block a shot. The referee calls a foul and immediately all hell breaks loose as boos, catcalls, and four letter words burst forth in pear-shaped tones. So it's passed off as school spirit.

Then a minute later an opponent gets a strangle hold on a Maine player and beats him lightly around the head and shoulders with a riding crop. So the referee, with all the confidence in the world, calls a foul against the opponent. So what do we get, cheers? Naw, we get more boos, catcalls, and four-letter words.

It doesn't seem to make any difference who's winning the game, either. If Maine was forty points ahead we'd still hear the boos. Likewise if they were forty behind.

The jeerers are the most insincere fans in the gym, even though they might seem to fancy themselves as just the opposite. The most sincere people are the ones who cheer when things are going their way or when the team is fighting it out in a close game.

So tonight when you're at the game, watch yourself. Don't say boo unless you're trying to scare somebody.

Be like Sludgey. You know what he does when the referee's decisions don't suit him? He heaps coals of fire on their heads. He keeps his trap shut.

PETTICOAT ANGLES

By MARILYN WYMAN

Most of the co-eds on campus are thinking of tomorrow's Military Ball, some of last week's initiates are still asleep, and Mr. Bricker is worrying through another of the great bard's accomplishments.

"An energetic election committee" recently inaugurated a new method for naming class officers. This so-called petition system means that the voters must accept a new philosophy before they go to the polls or sign the petitions.

In the past, the office of class president, or the other executive positions, has been an honorary title, with little involved except being present at the class formal, standing in the receiving line, and serving as a member of the General Senate.

Last year some of the more ambitious souls on campus wrote a class constitution, which was accepted by all classes at the spring elections. This supposedly made more definite the job of the class officers. But as is the generally prevailing practice on campus, the president did not become a bigger wheel and immediately find himself with bills to sign or veto and all the other minor details that Mr. Truman gets paid thousands of dollars yearly for doing.

So the election committee, like all good committees, decided to stick its neck out and remedy the situation. Their answer was to eliminate the theory that the class offices are honorary. Instead they should be applied for, and awarded to deserving persons, providing that they place a petition for nomination, signed by 50 classmates before the election committee.

But suppose, in checking the petitions, one with 50 names is found, one name being that of a non-qualified voter. It follows that the petition must be discarded. Then the votes of 49 voters have been wasted.

The election committee also ruled that a person may sign only one petition for each class office. (Which, incidentally, is directly opposite to the plan as presented to the General Senate. There was a great deal of discussion on this point but apparently the election committee went over the heads of the Senate in ruling this way.) Perhaps this will eliminate having a primary to cut down the number of candidates on the final ballot, but is it a democratic way of providing everyone a chance to become a candidate. You may have two friends who want to be class president, but chances are that you will sign the petition of the first person who sees you without knowing the other friend plans to run.

Mail Bag

Missed Point

To the Editor: In last week's issue of the Campus there appeared an editorial protesting the conduct of the student body at the last student assembly. It is my belief that this article missed the point of the injustice done Mr. Pankey by so much that it is disgraceful. The article blames the students for offering "a prime example of a woeful case of distorted values."

The fact is that any causes of "a woeful case of distorted values" rest directly in the laps of the University personnel responsible for the assembly. Had the person responsible for the actual assembly program any common sense whatsoever, he would have mentioned to Mr. Pankey's manager on advance receipt of the baritone's program, that the time allotted for the assembly was nowhere near sufficient to allow for eighteen numbers.

Furthermore, had the personnel responsible for the presentation of the program been awake, they would have realized that as time ran out it was necessary for many students to leave for important classes, dining hall work, and various other compulsory reasons. They could have had an announcement made to the effect that the assembly would be continued after time was given for the departure of those who had to leave.

The University must continue to function even though an assembly is taking place. Classes must be held and unfortunately "Prof. Schmoo" who is giving a lecture or an exam on "the evolution of the Mongolian Igloo" is not interested in Why the student was unable to attend class. If the University authorities will not plan their assemblies accordingly and give sufficient time for them, the innocent and much abused student body should not have to shoulder the blame.

—C. MARTIN BERMAN

Ed. note: With humble respect we bow to Mr. Berman's slightly heated opinion. However, if Mr. Berman will kindly wipe the blinding fury from his eyes he will discover that the editorial he so charmingly alludes to is pointed in the same direction that the above letter is.

For the benefit of Mr. Berman and other persons who missed the point, let us say that the naughty, naughty administration was at fault, and the "innocent and much abused student body" was once again the victim of foul, dastardly, administrative play. If the thought is not clear now drop another line and we'll say it again.

After all, all we have to lose is our chains.

What's The Score?

To the Editor: It may interest you to know that there is an intramural basketball league functioning on campus, though we would hardly realize it from the scant (if any) publicity it receives in the Campus. I, like many others, would like to know what the team standings are, the scores of the games played during the week.

Intramural basketball is the largest activity on campus, in which hundreds of students participate every season. Therefore, it is only fair that this activity should receive proper recognition in the Campus.

—BOB FALCONI

Ed. note: Two points for you. We plan to run a standing of intramural teams when space permits. The job of compiling this standing is open. Want it?

BY MARILYN HOYT

I feel in a very sentimental mood this week, with the first snowfall (probably should spout some of John Greenleaf at this moment), the Christmas spirit edging in under the door, and scads of pin-nings and engagements staring me in the face.

The Phi Kaps had their Christmas Formal last Friday night. The house was attractively decorated with the Christmas theme in mind. A large tree, colorful with lights, a fireplace built just for Santa, and even old Saint Nick himself, with a red blinker in his nose (the Phi Kaps must have been thinking of Rudolph) added to the gaiety of the party. Ray Downs and his orchestra furnished the dance music.

On Saturday, the Phi Kaps and their dates gathered at the house for a buffet supper followed by a songfest and dancing. George Soucie, assisted by his little elves, "Rock" Pooler and Rod Footman, distributed the presents from the tree among the girls. Appropriate poems went with each gift, and John Gagne will long be known as the poet laureate.

Sigma Chi had an informal dance Saturday night sponsored by the Pledge class. During intermission, the guests were entertained by Pledges, Reggie "Old Dog" Nye, Master of Ceremonies, Southern Comfort Prentiss, Mouse Knoche, Chucklet McKenney, Dark Brown Brown, B. O. Williams, and Happy Davidson who acted in a minstrel skit, while the Pledge Band supplied the background music.

All students are cordially invited to President Hauck's home Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, 7:00 to 8:00, to join in singing the Christmas carols.

TKE had an informal vic dance at Sigma Chi last Friday evening. Don Davis, John Shea, George Labun, Hal Howard, Ray Couture, Olaf Mercier, Lloyd Dickson, and Richard Pinkham entertained the group with an amusing skit about a hotel. The pledges also added to the entertainment.

Petition System Met With Favor By Wheels

A poll conducted among members of local student government has revealed that the consensus is in favor of the new petition system of selecting class officer candidates.

The question asked of student legislators was: What is your impression of the use of the petition form for naming all class officers?

Francis Bean, senator (Dunn): I like the petition system because it is similar to the one used in our state government. The petitioner gets to meet many people he would not have met otherwise.

Jim McBrady, president, General Senate: I am wholeheartedly behind the petition system. It gives dormitory residents more of a chance. I hope it works as well as expected.

Dwight Demeritt, president of Men's Senate: I think the petition system is much better. It prevents wasting of votes. It should stimulate interest in student government.

M. W. Fehlon, senator (Corbett): I will string along with the old system. Everything was working smoothly. I think the petition system will intensify the favoritism and cliques instead of doing away with them.

Prospective Husbands Should See Miss Reid

All veterans who are planning to be married in the near future should notify Miss Reid at the Veteran's Education Office in 109 East Annex.

By doing so, they may obtain their increased subsistence as soon as it goes into force. The veterans can thus save money and time that would be lost.

Original Script On Radio Guild Program

Two dramatic scripts, "The Necklace," by De Maupassant, and "The Lost Key," an original by Stan Winslow, will feature the Maine Radio Guild show this Sunday night at 10:30 over WLBZ.

The French classic is adapted for radio by Al Weymouth and is directed by Bill Mincher. Earle Stevens is sound technician and Jerry Mudge is acting as control chief.

The cast includes Gloria Noyes, Bob Colby, Dorothy Miller, Jack Tilton, and Bill Messner.

The second script is directed by Martin Needham, and the assistant director is Bill Mincher. The cast includes Robert Poulin, Bill Messner, Bob Colby, and Earle Stevens.

Mincher is to handle the music and Jerry Mudge is at the controls.

Atomic Jalopies Not Possible, Says Physicist

"We will never be able to drive our cars by atomic energy," Dr. Farrington Daniels told the Society of the Sigma Xi at the University of Maine Monday night.

Dr. Daniels began by predicting that in 100 years our oil resources will be exhausted and in 3,000 years our coal pile will be empty. There will then be three sources of power available—water, atomic, and solar. Water power will be impractical, leaving atomic and solar energy, he said.

"At present atomic energy can not compete on a market with coal," Dr. Daniels remarked. He said, however, that since one pound of uranium will equal a train of 100 cars of coal in a few years, industrial application will be practical. Atomic energy will be practical in ships and large planes, but not in cars because of the small size of automobiles.

"Solar energy is still not practical," said Dr. Daniels, "although some houses are today heated by sun rays."

He concluded:

"I am not worried about providing energy 3000 years from now, but I am worried about war in the next 10 or 20 years."

"Progress toward industrial atomic power will be slow because of technical difficulties."

Famous Artist's Works Shown

The first exhibition of Norman Kent watercolors ever to be shown at the University is currently on view in the art gallery of Carnegie Hall.

Twenty watercolor paintings of varying quality are included in the exhibition. Probably the best of these are a few recent landscapes, which show a maturity and a sureness of conception lacking in the more conventional views of shabby houses and deserted city streets.

Norman Kent, born in Pittsburgh, was educated at the Rochester Institute of Technology and the Art Students' League.

One of America's outstanding watercolorists and print-makers, he has works in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Library of Congress, Carnegie Institute, and the National Gallery of Canada, as well as in many other famous galleries in this country and abroad.

He is a member of the American Watercolor Society, the Society of American Etchers, and the Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts, and he was recently elected to membership in the National Academy of Design.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

Tonight the Colby Mules will be kicking up their heels on the Memorial Gymnasium basketball court.

There was a time when mule heels packed no wallop but those days are over. Colby's athletic teams are in their ascendancy.

Last winter, Coach Lee Williams' basketball team won the state title and this past fall, Walt Hoimer's charges tied for the football title.

Far be it for the press on Mayflower Hill to hide Colby's prowess behind a maiden blush of modesty. They have been trumpeting their glory from every hill top.

They (or so they said) recently sent the athletic doormat of the state to the University of Maine. Every man to his own opinion. But tonight, let's help Rome Rankin's team remind Colby that the doormat is still in Waterville.

Last Saturday at Bates, big Al Hopkins had his hands full with the Somerville family. Al and Slim Somerville, who attended the Annex before transferring to Bates, were engaged in a minor altercation during the game when the Somervilles, Mr. and Mrs. S. proceeded to deal the Maine guard several sharp blows on the body before referee John Fortunato declared it no contest.

Not to be outdone by his teammate, Bangor's own Bob Carpenter started to work on Bert (The Elder) Goddard. Sensing that things were moving along rather slowly, Carpenter went into his act.

Definitely he placed his elbow on Bert's nose and applied pressure with a slow, twisting motion. Several Maine players saved the valiant Bobcat from death and he was banished to the sidelines along with the non-playing members of the Somerville family.

New uniforms are on the way for the basketball team.

No longer will the Pale Blue of Maine be attired in uniforms that combine several colors of the rainbow, including a brilliant yellow apparently destined for some other school but sent here by mistake.

Jerseys will be white with pale blue trim around the neck and the shoulder straps. The pants are also white with a blue insert down the sides and a pale blue trim around the legs.

Blue sneakers, a la Rhode Island, will be added.

To top off this costume, the courtsters will have royal blue, trimmed-with-light-blue, warm-up suits.

Fullback Gordon Pendleton and guard Don Barron were both picked on the second team All-New England football team.

This is a fitting tribute to the key players who sparked Maine to a tie for the Yankee Conference title. We may have finished last in the state series but that YC crown is the first to come to Orono. The first of many, we hope.

The Yankee Conference award, a large bean pot, is on display along with other trophies in the first floor corridor in the library.

The inscription—1949 Connecticut and Maine—sure looks good.

Sign of the times (seen in the varsity locker room)—Referees make fewer mistakes than YOU do.

More than 60 candidates have already signed up for intramural hockey with the deadline set for Saturday, Dec. 10. Teams will be picked Dec. 13.

Men Of Rome To Test Strength This Week

Bears Topple Bates, 51-38, With Big First Half

Snowfall Allows 1st Ski Workout

Snow which clogged highways, slowed down buses and automobiles and cancelled plane flights sent the University of Maine ski team through its first full-fledged workout of the season Monday afternoon.

Ski coach Ted Curtis sent his squad through a long workout in preparation for the Franconia, N. H., giant slalom and cross country meet scheduled for Dec. 17 and 18.

Prior to Monday's six-inch snowfall, the skiers had been confined to conditioning work. They had gone over the course many times—but without skis.

The Franconia meet will serve to warm up the team for the Annual Invitational College Ski Week sponsored by the Sno-birds Club of Lake Placid, N. Y., during Christmas vacation, according to Curtis.

Piling up a 13-point lead in the first half, Coach Rome Rankin's Black Bears opened their 1949-50 pursuit of the State Series title with a 51-38 victory over Bates College last Saturday at Lewiston.

Meanwhile, Colby, which plays Maine tonight, defeated Bowdoin College, 60 to 44, in its opening game of the season. Tuesday night, the Mules played William and Mary in the Boston Garden.

It was sophomore guard Jack Christie who put Maine out front in the first half as he connected on six straight shots. His 12 points along with 12 by big Charlie Goddard were tops for the Bears.

Leading 34 to 21 at the half, Maine was played even by Bates during the second half, each team scoring 17 points.

Bob Carpenter was high scorer for Bates with a total of nine points.

Last night, Bates and Bowdoin met to fight for the early-season cellar position. Saturday, when Bowdoin is scheduled for the Memorial Gym, Bates will be at Colby.

Frosh, Maritime Clash Saturday

Maine's frosh basketball squad will clash with the Middies from Maine Maritime Academy Saturday at 6:15 p.m. to open an eleven game schedule.

The Junior Bears, under new coach Hal Westerman, have a cluster of former high and prep school stars on their roster and are expected to make the going tough for the Sailors.

Available for front court duty are Herb Osgood, Lin Carville, Hank Woodbrey, Dave Anderson, and Phil Hale. Ernie Sutton and Glenn Folsom share the center spot while Joe Alex, Johnny Dana, Al Hackett, Joe Saunders and Ray Crosby are the guards.

The Frosh schedule includes: December 10, Maine Maritime Academy.

January 14, Hebron Academy; 18, Coburn Classical Institute; 20, Aroostook State Normal.

February 8, game pending; 11, Old Town High; 17, Fort Fairfield; 18, Maine Central Institute; 20, Ricker Junior College; 22, Higgins; 25, Portland Junior College.

First Track Meet Scheduled Dec. 10

The varsity indoor track team will open its regular season with the Knights of Columbus Meet and the Boston Athletic Association Relays, both in Boston. In the B.A.A. meet, the team will compete in the Yankee Conference one-mile relay.

The schedule: December 10, Frosh vs. Sophomores. January 17, Intramural; 21, K. of C. at Boston.

February 4, B.A.A. at Boston; 18, New Hampshire at Orono; 25, Springfield at Orono.

March 4, Northeastern at Orono; 11, Boston University at Orono.

Track Managers Needed

Track Coach Chester Jenkins has issued a call for assistant managers. Freshmen or sophomores interested should see Coach Jenkins or manager Dave Knudsen any afternoon after 3 o'clock in the field house.

Pale Blue Five To Face Colby And Polar Bears

By BOB SLOSSER

This week, fans will see whether the Men of Rome can rise to the heights of the ancients or whether they will fall as did last year's Pale Blue five, which also defeated Bates in the opening game of the season.

Tonight the Bears go against the defending champions of Maine, Colby, in the first home game of the year, and Saturday evening, they face an unpredictable Bowdoin quintet.

Crucial Series Tilt

Tonight's affair promises to be the battle of the year, determining who will get the jump on the state series. Both teams have one league win under their belts, and the team to win tonight will be a heavy favorite to come out on top in the end.

With Teddy Shiro and "Huck" Finnegan pacing the Mules, many followers have picked them as the strongest team in the state. Their branching out into big-time ball, playing in the Boston Garden and also in the mid-west, shows that they are expecting a powerhouse for the next few years.

Having played several games so far this season also gives the Waterville lads an experience advantage, since the Bears will only be playing their second game under their new system.

The outcome of tonight's contest will also determine the favorite in the Maine-Bowdoin game Saturday. The Polar Bears went down last Saturday to Colby 60-44.

Bowdoin Power Unknown

Not much is known about Dinny Shay's Bowdoin club except that a pre-season gathering picked them as the team to beat this year. As in football, they have shown themselves to be very inconsistent.

The picture here at Maine finds the hopeful Romans raring to go after three days of hard practice spent ironing out the mistakes made against Bates.

There is an air of optimism among the players, but Coach Rankin has not been much of a prophet, being very non-committal about the strength of his squad. He commented that his boys looked very good at times against the Bobcats, especially defensively. However, he said, "They lost their poise when Bates shifted from a zone defense to 'man-to-man'."

This could prove quite bothersome since Colby reportedly uses a "sinking man-to-man."

Bradley Injures Leg

A sad note to Rankin was the report from the doctor that John Bradley, promising sophomore forward from Gloucester, Mass., has been sidelined until after Christmas vacation because of an injured leg.

The jovial coach said that Bradley had been pushing forward very fast, and his absence will be a great loss to the team.

Rankin reported that he does not have a definite starting team as yet. All of the men that played last week showed up well, with Jack Christie hitting the net very accurately in the first half and Lowell Osgood playing an outstanding defensive game.

No Preliminary Game

According to Ted Curtis, faculty manager of athletics, there will be no preliminary game Thursday night, with game time set for between 8 and 8:15.

He received numerous decorations for his part in the liberation of the Philippines including the Distinguished Service Cross of the Philippines, the Gold Cross, the Silver Star, the Purple Heart, a Presidential Unit Citation with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Philippine Legion of Honor (Commander), Pulitzer Prize Winner

A graduate of the University of the Philippines, A.B., 1918, and Columbia University, M.A., 1921, Romulo received the Pulitzer Prize in Journalism for distinguished correspondence in 1942 for a series of articles on the Far Eastern situation just before the war.

He was the author of several best sellers including "I Saw The Fall Of The Philippines" (1942), and "I See The Philippines Rise" (1946).

General Romulo received many honors for his work in aiding the re-establishment of the Philippine government following the war.

Resident Commissioner

He served as Resident Commissioner of the Philippines to the United States from 1944-46 and acting secretary of Public Information in the cabinet of President Sergio Osmena of the Philippine Commonwealth, 1944-45.

Romulo received the First Annual Gold Medal Award given by the World Government News in 1947 for work in the United Nations for peace and world government. He received several other awards including the International Benjamin Franklin Society's Gold Medal for "distinguished world statesmanship in 1947."

General Romulo will mark his 49th birthday on Jan. 14, just four days before his visit to Maine.

Pledges Suffer And Like It As Fraternities Hold Initiations

An array of pots and pans, ear rings, bells, and war paint, blended with the slick haired, half-shaven or non-shaven, sober-faced pledges, greeted the arrival of Hell Week last Monday, Nov. 28.

For three days the lowly pledges did everything from polishing Carnegie lounge to serenading the East and West hall girls.

Ann Dibblee Awarded WAA Seal For 1949

Ann W. Dibblee has been announced as the winner of Women's Athletic Association's Seal Award for 1949.

The seal is the highest athletic award that can be won by a University of Maine woman. It is awarded on a basis of W.A.A. points earned, scholarship and character.

Guards zealously protected the secrets of their inner sanctuary: secrets that would make an ordinary man shudder.

There was water-in-a-glass carrying, tattoo wearing, book hugging, and Allah-praising. The lowest form of campus life was being pushed down, stepped upon and smeared.

Some ran to and from classes, not eager but goaded by their masters in the cars behind them. Some walked, speaking to no one, unsmiling, breathing little.

From all outward appearances, Hell Week and a book-reading, general cleanup Greek Week, were successfully carried out.

Upperclassmen maintained that last year's Hell Week was just as tough and sleepless, but many agreed, in an unofficial poll taken at most of the houses, that the pre-war height had not yet been reached.

Physics Course Recognized

The University of Maine is among the first institutions in the nation to have its curriculum in engineering physics accredited by the Engineer's Council for Professional Development. Curricula at Maine which have been re-accredited by the council are civil, electrical, mechanical, and general engineering.
