Maine Sportswomen Are Not To Compete With Other Colleges

Women's Intercollegiate competition is to be abolished at the University of Maine. This was decided at a meeting held Tuesday noon at Alumni with the majority of the college women in attendance. Miss Lengyel, the instructor of physical education, was in favor of the elimination of intercollegiate athletics. Among many reasons for her belief she stated that the University of Maine is situated at a distance from other schools, and that it was a great expense to travel to the various colleges for games. She informed the girls that more than one thousand dollars was spent this year on three trips. Next year this money will be spent so that the majority of the girls will benefit instead of a few. Miss Lengyel suggested a substitution for the women's intercollegiate athletics in which all girls have an equal opportunity to participate in sports. The coaches, who under the present system have given their time to the few students on varsity team will distribute the time among all students. In this way all will have equal opportunity. A point system has also been worked out whereby first an insignia of the team, then the numerals and last of all the school letters will be given. This system will be used next year and successful results are anticipated. Rebecca Mathews, Hazel Parkhurst, "Spud" Churchill, and "Stubby" Burrill spoke before the decision was made.

Holy Cross Vies With Maine Track Squad on Saturday

Thirty men will accompany the Holy Cross track team when they journey to Orono on May 10. A well balanced Maine team will meet a squad of individual stars from the Massachusetts institution.

In the sprints the visitors will enter Jimmy Daley, three times indoor intercollegiate sprint champion. He will also compete in the running broad jump. George Morin, winner of the New England javelin throw last spring, will be entered in that event as well as the dashes. Ned Flanagan, runner-up to "Rip" Black in the hammer throw last year at the New England and recent winner of that event in the Penn Relays, will compete here.

Bernie McCafferty, a middle distance sensation, will run in the quarter and half mile runs. Bill Madden, who ran second to MacNaughton in the New England mile last year, will run here, also. Captain Hal Klumbach, a sterling quarter-miler will run in the 220 yard dash and the 440 yard run. Tom Perry, a Bangor boy, will be entered in the 880 yard run.

Lack of meets has served as a drawback for the Maine boys. Without competition, little can be known on the progress of a track man. Holy Cross has not lost a point winner from last year's New England's, whereas Maine has been less fortunate.

For Maine, Stymiest and White will be entered in the century, in which event they have been doing 10.1 seconds. Benson and Stymiest will be seen in the 220 and Tolman with Dekin will show their wares in the 440. Tolman's best time is 49.4 sec. In the half mile, Wendell looks good.

Lindsay and Brooks will run in the mile, although the latter's best bet is in the two mile. Lindsay holds the college record of 4.20 indoors and 4.25 outdoors.

College Dramatists Offer Religious Play

"He Came Seeing", by Mary Hamlin, one of the finest of the recent religious plays, will be presented by the Wesley Players at the Methodist Church Sunday evening at 7.45. Those who saw "The Confessional" a few weeks ago will remember the dramatic power and splendid interpretation of this group of students who have interested themselves in plays religious and ethical.

The scene of "He Came Seeing" is in Syria at the time of Christ. The well chosen cast includes Henry Conklin, of New London, Conn.; Lucile Nason, of Readfield; Edna Grange, Smyrna Mills; Allen Bratton, Williamstown, Mass.; and Paul Elliott, Beverly, Mass.

Kenyon's Baseball Outfit Trims Kents Hill and Higgins

Coach Kenyon's freshman team received an excellent start in its baseball season last Thursday, when it defeated Kents Hill, 12 to 4. The game was not exceptionally close at any time, but was marked by the heavy hitting of the yearlings, who batted the ball consistently to all corners of the field and registered 14 hits.

A comedy element was introduced by Hall, Kents Hill's right fielder, who put himself in a class with the football players who run the wrong way by stealing second with bases full. A moment later he added further to his discomfiture by letting an easy fly go over his head for a home run.

Romansky did well in the box for the freshmen, allowing but four hits.

The same hitting that was outstanding in the Kents Hill game was again quite noticeable in the slugging contest with Higgins Classical Institute at Charleston on Saturday. The freshmen, although scoring 13 hits, were outbatted by the locals, but showed much better ability to come through with men on bases and won, 9 to 6.

The pitching in this game was divided between Romansky, Fine, and Alley.

Coach Kenyon has every reason to be proud of his team. It has great batting prowess, fields well, and shows ability to come through in the pinches. There is every reason to believe that it will hang up an enviable record for the season.

On Thursday the freshmen travel to Kents Hill to play a return game, and on Friday the yearlings tackle the New Hampshire freshmen at Durham.

Pres. Boardman Gives Dinner To Student Senate

On Tuesday night, the old and new members of the Student Senate were given a dinner by President and Mrs. Boardman at their home. After dinner the Senate formally convened and proceeded with the business of the evening.

The Senate went on record as favoring the adoption of boxing as an Intramural sport, with the addition that the winners in the various classes be entered in intercollegiate competition with other colleges within the state.

The date of the pledging of freshmen next year was discussed at length. Opinion was divided on the subject, and inasmuch as some of the houses had apparently not discussed the question of the date to be fixed, further discussion was deemed inadvisable and the matter was referred back to the houses again for another review of the subject. The status of transfers, two-year students in agriculture, and special students was also discussed. Two-year students are to be regarded as transfers, and may be pledged after the completion of a semester of satisfactory work.

Kent, retiring president of the body, gave the history of the Senate, and its accomplishments during the past year. Among the things done were the direction of the drive to sell tickets to support "Bananas," the elections of class officers, the dates of some formal parties were definitely fixed, the reimbursement of the fraternities for the expense they go

Frosh Track Team Swamps Portland By Score of 67-41

Another decisive victory was chalked up for the freshmen when they defeated Portland High School 67 to 41, last Saturday. McKiniry, for the freshmen, was the outstanding man in the meet, taking two first places, one in the 100 yard dash and the other in the 220 yard low hurdles. Conroy of Portland gave McKiniry a good run in the century and Dolan of Portland was not far behind the yearling star in the low hurdles, taking a second place. This was the concluding meet for the Frosh this season.

Booth also took two firsts, one in the mile and the other in 880 yard run. Havey won both the pole vault and the broad jump. Dolan was the outstanding man for the Portland team, taking first in the high hurdles and running a close second in the 220 yard low hurdles.

Kahill and Jordan took Portland's only other first places; Kahill in the high jump and Jordan in the discus. The visiting team missed their team captain of last year, Larry Johnson.

Summary:
100 Yard Dash—Won by McKiniry, Maine; second, Conroy, Portland; third, Ingram, Maine. Time, 10 2-5 seconds.
One Mile Run—Won by Booth, Maine; second, Haskell, Maine; third, Carlin, Portland. Time, 5 minutes, 6 1-5 seconds.

Maine Trowned 5-1 As Bowdoin Player Smashes Home-run With Bases Full

Whittier Performs Babe Ruth Stunt in Fourth Inning; Taft Knocked Out of Box; Perkins Proves To Be Man Of the Hour Striking Out Seven Men

Crowded Junior Week Program Occupies Guests

A home run with the bases loaded won a game for Bowdoin yesterday on Alumni Field when they played Maine. The hit, which came in the first of the fourth, was made by Whittier. He smashed a long low hard drive over to the Theta Chi end of the field—a hard hit, particularly as it was headed directly into the wind. Souther pitched the whole game for Bowdoin and did a good job of it, holding Maine to seven hits, and making nine strike-outs. Taft started for Maine, but in the fourth, Bowdoin hopped on him for the home-run with a full house that won the game for the visitors. Perkins then replaced Taft and at no time for the remainder of the game was in any serious trouble. Taft made no strike-outs, and gave seven bases on balls before he was yanked in the fourth. Perkins struck out seven and gave no bases on balls in the time that he was in there.

Story of the game by innings:
1st—Ricker drew a walk, Whittier sacrificed him to second, and he went to 3rd on a passed ball. Dwyer drew a base on balls, Urban got a base hit, scoring Ricker. Chalmers flied out to Wescott, and Rose was out at first. 1 run.
2nd—Plummer got a base hit, Smith sacrificed, Plummer to second, Hincks got a 3-bagger, scoring Plummer, Wells struck out, and Wescott was out at first. 1 run.
3rd—McGowan flied out, Crimmins got a base on balls, Souther was out, advancing Crimmins to second, Ricker was out. No runs.
4th—Kisonak struck out, Palmer got a base on balls, Pratt got a base hit and Palmer was out at second on a fielder's choice. Taft flied out. No runs.

Junior Week has come and gone, leaving in its train a group of pleasant memories. The week opened with the presentation by the Masque of Galsworthy's "Escape", of which a review will be found in another column. Friday morning, Junior chapel was held. The president of the class, Norman Webber, spoke on the history of the class, and was followed by Mr. Fassett, who spoke of the things that one should get from college. After the exercises in chapel were concluded, the Senior Skulls for next year were tapped in front of Alumni. Friday evening, the Prom was held in Alumni. Two hundred and fifty couples were present, a few too many for comfort.

Only a few members of the Junior class turned out for the treasure hunt which was held Friday forenoon of Junior Week. The prizes were won by Parker Cushman and Ethel Thomas and Doris Osgood. A fountain pen was awarded as the men's prize. The prize for the women was divided between "Dot" Osgood and "Tommy" Thomas, each receiving a ring with the Maine seal.

Saturday morning, the R.O.T.C. passed in review in front of Polly Stearns, the honorary lieutenant-colonel of the organization. Saturday night, the week was closed with the annual Track Club Cabaret under the direction of Don MacKenzie, president of the Club. This dance, one of the most enjoyable of those held in the hall throughout the year, was well attended. Between dances, some freshman girls put on a dancing act, and Jasiomis and two of his star pupils exhibited their tumbling ability. With the close of this dance, another Junior Week had passed into memory.

Maine played her first home game of the season last Saturday, when she walloped Bates 8 to 2. While the result was pleasing to the Maine fans, the game itself was not entirely satisfactory; it was loosely played, with numerous errors on both sides, and the Maine team failed to play the brand of baseball that it has exhibited in the earlier games. The contest looked at first to be a catastrophe for Maine when Perkins got off to a bad start and let in two runs in the first inning. He soon tightened up, however, and pitched well during the remainder of the game.

Bates scored her two runs in the first inning, but Maine promptly tied the score in the second. Both teams then went scoreless until the fifth, when Maine put on a batting spree which, together with timely errors by Bates, enabled her to register six runs.

The result of the second home game, with Colby on Monday, was not quite so favorable. Brown, Colby's pitcher, started the ball rolling for the White Mule with a home run in the third inning. Double scores in the fourth and fifth and single counters in the seventh and eighth accounted for the other Colby scores. Maine registered once in the fifth and twice in the sixth, but that put an end to her scoring.

Colby showed an amazing ability to put the ball along the third base foul line, just inside of the bag and just out of reach of Wescott. This was Wescott's first return to the team since his recent injury; he played third in the place of McCabe, who was temporarily out with a sprained ankle.

Solander pitched a good enough game for Maine; had breaks and numerous errors by his teammates accounted for the greater part of Colby's scores.

to in providing accommodations for visiting athletic teams, the drawing up of a seating plan for the bleachers at the football games, the ordering of a bulletin board to be erected at some suitable point on the campus, and the incorporation of the now defunct Interfraternity Conference in the Student Senate.

Kent then went on to tell of the cooperation needed during the coming year, and expressed his gratitude for the support given him by Dean Corbett. President Boardman spoke briefly, and gave his views on the Senate and the need that it fills on the campus. Dean Corbett was then presented with a framed Student Senate shingle.

Kent then resigned the chair of office to Mr. O'Neill, the incoming President of the Senate.

Among the matters discussed was that of daylight-saving time. The question of the allotting of booths to the fraternities at formal dances in Alumni was brought up. There was quite a bit of sentiment in favor of doing away with the booth system altogether, as the booths take up a lot of space that might otherwise be devoted to dancing. The question was referred back to the houses. The Senate was notified that some State policemen were going to check up on the law against "bumming", on speeding, and on the traffic rules in Orono. The cooperation of the students is asked in these matters.

The Senate then adjourned. Shingles were given out to the retiring members of the Senate.

The members of the Senate spent an enjoyable evening, with President and Mrs. Boardman, and Dean and Mrs. Corbett as the hosts, and expressed their gratitude by a rising vote of thanks.

Philip J. Brockway was elected president of the Contributors' Club for the coming year at a meeting of the Club at Phi Eta Kappa. The other officers elected were:

Vice-president, Donald Fogg; Secretary, Doris L. Gross; Treasurer, Frances Fuger.

BOOK REVIEW

freshman contribution, is by Frances Busse, whose work shows promise.

There is one unfortunate criticism to be made—the exceedingly poor punctuation throughout the magazine. Whether the errors are typographical errors or the author's own mistakes, The Maine-Spring can not be at its best with atrocious punctuation or lack of punctuation glaring at the reader.

Friday morning, May 9, the University will go on daylight saving time. Classes will begin at seven, and the whole program will be put ahead one hour. This will be daylight saving in fact, but not in name, as there is a state law that prohibits the changing of clocks. Therefore, those who desire to be on time for eight o'clock classes can put their clocks ahead if they so desire, but the official time of beginning classes will be seven o'clock.

Masque Production Favorably Reviewed

Selecting for its Junior Week play, John Galsworthy's "Escape", performed Thursday evening, May 1, in the chapel, the Maine Masque undertook a task of multiple difficulty—the task of presenting a piece which relies for effect almost wholly upon the creation of atmosphere, which consists of nothing save a series of incidents strung loosely on a somewhat tenuous central plot, and which demands no small amount of technical equipment. That the Masque was successful in such an undertaking should be satisfying to the members of the organization and to those responsible for this production.

"Escape" is primarily a study in situations; beginning with a prologue in which occurs a killing, it proceeds with the escape from prison of the man convicted of the killing, presents a series of scenes in which during his flight he encounters various individuals, and concludes with his taking sanctuary in a church, from which refuge he is driven back to incarceration not by the force of law, but by the impulse of his own conscience, which cannot allow a priest to lie to save him. Obviously, all of these situations afford admirable opportunity for the delineation of character, and for illustration of the reaction of different types of mankind at seeing a fellow mortal fleeing from an imprisonment which jangles every fiber of his being.

Of these, one may well instance Myrtila Guilfoil as the girl of the town in the prologue, Anna Lyon as the lady in Episode III, and H. L. Bricker as the old man in Episode IV, a scene in which dramatic intensity was nicely balanced by simple humanity. The fifth episode was comparable to the fourth in its faithfulness to life. In this, Samuel Bachrach, Atwood Levensaler, Madeline Riley and Jean Campbell gave a realistic performance, which was near enough to burlesque to be genuinely amusing. The work of Caroline Cousins in a later episode was likewise meritorious. Evaluated, naturally, in terms of Masque productions, the cast as a whole performed well.

C. Munro Getchell as Matt Denant, the escaped convict, had a part which properly played could be disheartening. It is to Mr. Getchell's credit that he well restrained a tendency toward histrionism which has occasionally marred his work in the past, and that he made Matt Denant intense yet convincing. The concluding scene, in which Matt is confronted by the parson, played by Mark Bailey, was especially well done, Mr. Bailey giving to his role sufficient emotionality to make it real.

Properties and sets were well handled, and the lighting effects of the play were entirely successful. The first scenes, played in a fog, had enough eeriness to succeed, and did so. They were, however, injured by the fact that the dramatic illusion was inescapably shattered now and again by the raucous squeal of a folding chair under some restless spectator. To have drawn the curtains along the outer wall of the auditorium and thus to have prevented the reflection of passing automobile headlights on the blue gauze of the fog screen would have been wise.

Mrs. I.—Mine would be too, if I didn't pull down the shades.

Chapel Speaker Tells Of Foreign Colleges

Miss Ruth Seabury spoke in chapel Monday morning on, "Visiting Students Around the World." The speaker who spent ten months visiting sixteen countries told of experiences with people of Europe and the Orient.

In all places which she visited the natives always showed a spirit of friendship and willingness to work for the improvement of their educational systems that was very gratifying to the missionaries.

In a Bulgarian college where she lectured nearly all her hearers were able to understand the address even though it was delivered in ordinary English.

Turkey, according to Miss Seabury, has overthrown the religion of its ancestors, and is faced with the problem of interpreting spiritual values.

In India the most difficult tasks are those of overcoming the old antipathies to caste and poverty, and to establish new educational institutions.

China is trying to set up suitable schools for the common people and to instruct them in the fundamental subjects.

Miss Seabury told of meeting Gandhi, the great Indian leader and of breakfasting with a group of Brahman gentlemen who expressed appreciation for the work done by Christians to improve conditions there.

She praised the Maine-in-Turkey movement and the Maine men who have charge of this work in the Near East.

Prof.: Maynard, why does Missouri stand at the head of mule raising in the U.S.?

M.: Because the other end is too dangerous.

SCREEN

Mr. Goldsmith, manager of the Strand Theatre, wishes to announce that starting Monday, May 12 the performances will be advanced one hour to conform with the daylight saving time adopted by the University.

The charming voice of Marilyn Miller, famous stage star, will be heard on the screen for the first time at the Strand Theatre Friday and Saturday, when her initial screen offering "Sally" plays there.

Adapted from her greatest musical comedy success, "Sally" is the ideal vehicle for Miss Miller's first picture. It offers a wealth of songs, some from the stage production and others new, elaborate dancing ensembles, huge choruses and other musical features.

Alexander Gray, who sang in the stage production of "The Desert Song", plays opposite the star, and Joe E. Brown, Pert Kelton, Ford Sterling, T. Roy Barnes, Jack Duffy and many other well-known players are in the cast.

"Sally" is entirely in Technicolor, and was directed by John Francis Dillon.

Greta Garbo makes her talking debut in "Anna Christie", which is coming to the Strand Theatre Tuesday. The plot is based on the famous stage play by Eugene O'Neill. In this picture she presents her usual charm, and her voice records excellently with only a slight trace of an accent.

She is well supported by Marie Dressler, James Mack, Lee Phelps, and the rest of the cast.

If Louise Thériault '32, and Lawrence Cyr '33 will present this page at the box-office they will receive a free pass to any performance.

During the course of the evening, entertainment in the form of acts, stunts, sketches and athletic feats will be performed. Also, the possibility of a snappy speaker may be procured to further benefit the cause. A bountiful supply of refreshments will be provided to appease the appetites of the hungry.

JUNIOR "PRISM"

The Prism which recently came out is one of the most beautiful yet issued by any Junior class at the University. The art work is done in old English giving the book a decidedly medieval effect. The cover is finished in brown and has a gold embossing of the bell in Wingate Hall. In addition to the beautiful frontispiece the many colored headings of each division add much to the beauty of the book. On each page there are drawings in blue and gold. The book is divided in seven volumes as follows: college, classes, fraternities, social, activities, athletics, and advertisements. There are large portraits of Dean Hart, Mr. Gannett, Dean Corbett, Dean Bean, Mr. Youngs, Professor Kent, and Mr. Kelley (faculty manager of the Prism). There are also pictures of the University Bookstore, Balentine, and Mt. Vernon Halls, the quantitative and qualitative, dairy, and cement laboratories, and the various fraternity houses.

LETTER FROM VALLEE

The following letter from Rudy Vallee was received by a student on the campus who corresponds for a newspaper. We are printing it as a matter of general interest.

I received your article some time ago, sent by some one in Maine, and whereas I am very pleased with the effort involved in the write-up, there are several inaccuracies, one or two of which possibly did me more harm than good. It would have been much better if you had written me in advance for the facts or I would have appreciated the opportunity to check over for inaccuracies.

My start in the musical world did not begin with Cobby O'Brien, but back in Portland, Maine, two years before I met Cobby. I have never argued with Will Osborne, and you will probably be very surprised to know the facts, which you can obtain from reading my book "Vagabond Dreams Come True," which was published today. In it I mention that Osborne and his orchestra were trained to play for me and with me at the Villa Vallee long after we received popularity. Languages are my greatest interest. I majored in Spanish at Yale, and was one of the highest ranking scholars in English during my four years there, and the highest in my English exams of the whole Freshman class when I was a Freshman. I have an aptitude for artistic things, and especially the languages.

What you say about sight-reading is correct. I have never been a sight-reader, but I always read fast enough to play with the average orchestra. I do not practice a piece to learn it as much as to discover the best way to phrase it; phrasing comes with constant repetition.

Just what do you mean by the statement "Mr. Vallee likes Mr. Vallee"? For many of the facts that you have mentioned in your article show that you either did know me very well or met some one who remembered the little incidents, but that last statement shows that you know me not at all, because I have suffered all my life from an inferiority complex. I am constantly praising the other fellow, and people who like themselves don't do that. The things that I know I know, and that I do best, I make no apologies for, and will fight for my conviction. This is probably the reason for the two insinuations as to being self-assured that I find in your article.

One of the Fleischmann Hour directors, after watching a program observed that I knew what I wanted and saw to it that I got it for my orchestra, and that is probably what you have tried to express.

The reason I wrote my book is because I have so often been misquoted, just as you or Heywood Brown misquoted me in saying "I guess I am endowed with enough brains to keep my feet on the ground."

I have resented certain inferences that I did not know what it was all about and that I was going into the clouds, because my feet are very much on the ground, and once again I say that it was necessary that I write the book so that well-meaning columnists like yourself, and others less well-meaning might know exactly the facts.

When I went to New York for a job I was not paid anything per week; I was guaranteed at least one engagement a week with the Lopez office, and the minimum wage in New York being $14 for the banquet type of engagement I was assured of that much, but I assure you that I have not in the last six years, made under $60 a week for my saxophone services, and that was usually for two nights' work.

I am 28 years old and not divorced. My marriage was annulled very shortly after it took place. I have an abhorrence of divorce and am sorry that you used the word in your article, because my marriage practically never was.

FACULTY RULES ON EXTENSION WORK

At a meeting of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences held Monday, May 5, the following action was taken with reference to Extension work:

1. Students may complete work in regular extension classes not to exceed 32 hours toward the B.A. degree.

2. Students may complete work by correspondence not to exceed 15 semester hours toward the B.A. degree.

3. Students who offer correspondence work completed at other institutions will be given individual consideration depending upon the work done and the institution from which they come.

However, it is very plain to me that your article was meant in a friendly spirit, and the few little discrepancies, while not helping me, have probably not hurt me tremendously. I would appreciate it if you would write another article and give me the opportunity to put you right about any facts you are in doubt about.

I am sending a picture to you under separate cover and I am sure you are very welcome to it. I hope it pleases you. I hope sooner or later we can in the course of our fraternity songs, play "Dream Girl of Pi K. A." as I have had many requests for it. I do intend some day to make records like Gene Austin does; in fact I have made my first, which is "St. Louis Blues." It is on the other side of the Maine "Stein Song." The record was not to be released for two months, but the public demand was so great that it was released today and you can now obtain it from your Victor dealer. They expect the record to sweep the country and I hope the sales will be tremendous. I think it will put Maine on the map.

I have no favorite author, but my favorite authors are Maurice LeBlanc, Conan Doyle, Wadsworth Camp, and the author of the Bar 20 books. My favorite movie actor is Barrymore; my favorite actress Betty Compson; my favorite athlete Gene Tunney; my favorite politician Jimmie Walker; my favorite food scrambled eggs with bacon; the eggs must be scrambled with plenty of milk and be very wet, and the bacon must be crisp; whole wheat toast, light brown, thin and well buttered, and rich milk.

I think you have the makings of a newspaper man, but for heavens' sake don't be like the average tabloid reporter who twists things, usually to the detriment of the one he is writing about. Be human and be fair—you can still be interesting.

I will be pleased to hear from you at any time.

Most sincerely,
 (signed) Ry Vallee

PROF. DICKINSON TO HEAD NEW STATE DEPARTMENT

Educational systems have developed to the point of mass production. In some respects this is detrimental. Because of inhibitory factors arising within educational systems, and the effects of unfortunate training in individuals, many fail to achieve the success which should be theirs; they function inadequately, often far below the level of their possibilities.

The mental hygiene movement which is gaining prominence throughout the country definitely recognizes that individuals as well as subject matter should be given careful consideration. Mental health demands this. In any school system or on any college campus, one may note the many unfortunate conditionings or mental attitudes which inhibit individuals. Parents and actual teachers as well as students and potential teachers should have adequate information concerning the importance of establishing right mental attitudes in early childhood. Robust mental health is as definitely needed in successfully meeting the stresses of life, as is robust physical health.

Recognizing the need and the importance of a state wide mental hygiene program, Professor Dickinson has accepted the chairmanship of the Division of Mental Hygiene of the Maine Public Health Association. On this committee with him are Dr. Stephen Vosburgh, Pownall State School, and Dr. F. E. Carter, Augusta State Hospital.

The details of a state wide plan to date have not worked out, but in the near future parents and teacher associations, women's clubs, school superintendents and others interested in mental health will be asked to cooperate in getting before the residents of Maine the facts concerning the importance of mental health as an aid in enabling individuals to function more adequately within the sphere of education, and in actual life.

Early in May Professor Dickinson will represent the University of Maine at the First International Congress of Mental Health in Washington, D. C., and will thus have an opportunity of discussing with the experts in this field, the items which should be incorporated in a state wide program.

WOMEN'S PLAY DAY

Plans for Women's Play Day on May 24 are fast evolving. The nearby high schools are sending from two to six delegates and it is expected that from one hundred to one hundred and fifteen representatives will be here.

The guests are to be entertained by the women undergraduates of the University. Miss Lengyel's physical training classes are arranging the day's program for rain or shine, and will see to the carrying out of it. The play activities will be held on the girls' athletic field.

In the morning there will be volleyball, baseball, soccer, races, and archery. At noontime a picnic for all will be held at Gilman Falls. After lunch each high school is to present a stunt from five to eight minutes in length, the best to be awarded prizes.

The afternoon will be spent participating in soccer, track events, etc. At 6:30 a banquet will be served.

Jenny Hutchinson is chairman of Play Day. The entertainment committee is led by Kay Jackson and assisting her are Sylvia Gould and Martha Smith. Margaret Fellows is chairman of the decorations and Ellen Wareham and Phyllis Gould are helping her. Alice Bagley is in charge of publicity and Goldie Modes and Rebecca Spenser are her assistants.

CONTEST FOR AVIATION SCHOLARSHIP

University of Maine students interested in aeronautics will have an opportunity to compete for four scholarships with a total tuition value of $7,100 offered by W. E. Boeing, an outstanding figure in American aviation. Notice of the establishment of these scholarships, which are effective at the Boeing School of Aeronautics at Oakland, California, has been received by the administrative officials of University of Maine.

The first award, the W. E. Boeing Master Pilot Ground School and Flying Scholarship, is a nine months' course covering 203 hours of flying and 1224 hours of ground school instruction. Second award is the Boeing Master Mechanic course, consisting of nine months of instruction. The third award is the Boeing Master Pilot Ground School course, with nine months of instruction; and the fourth award is the Boeing Private Pilot course, requiring from two to four months of ground and flight instruction.

Any undergraduate student, including the 1930 graduating class, is eligible as a candidate.

Candidates must have maintained a scholastic standing to classify them in the upper one-third of their class for the entire period of their enrollment. The candidates must write an essay on one of the following subjects: "Aviation's Contribution to Internationalism," "The Development of Air Transportation and its Possibilities," or "The Development of Safety Features on Established Air Transport Lines."

The essays which must reach the Boeing School by June 9, will be judged by a National Committee of Award, composed of prominent educators and leaders in the aeronautical industry.

The Boeing School of Aeronautics is associated with the Boeing aeronautical companies, including the Boeing Airplane Company at Seattle and the Boeing System, operators of the Seattle-Los Angeles and San Francisco-Chicago air mail, express and passenger routes.

Full details of the Boeing scholarships competition may be obtained from the administrative offices or from the Boeing School of Aeronautics, Oakland Airport, Oakland, California.

Richardson and Gunning will hold forth in the two mile, which the former has done in 9 minutes 34 seconds.

The loss of Jones and Hammond in the hurdles has put a serious cramp in that direction. Stiles has broken a bone in his foot and it is a question whether or not he will be in condition to compete. He will probably be in shape for the State Meet. Yerxa remains as the only hope in this event, but he lacks experience.

Lufkin in the low hurdles looks favorable to take Jones' place. It is only since mid-years that he has been training in this event. He may also be in the broad jump. Charlie O'Connor in the high jump assisted by Burnham and Cuzzo did well at Bates and ought to repeat Saturday. Charlie's best height is 6 ft. 1.4 in.

In the broad jump O'Connor did 23 ft. 5 1/2 in. at the State Meet last year and 22 ft. 6 in. at Bates. Gowell, Curtis and Fickett will be seen in the discus. Gowell threw the platter for a distance of 142 ft. to make him New England champ in that event, last year. Gowell and Webber will enter the hammer throw and the shot. The latter has thrown the 16 pound sphere for a distance of 42 ft. consistently. He took a third in this event at the New England last year.

Wescott will be unable to be in the pole vault because of the injury sustained in baseball practice. Burnham will aim to make up for the loss. In the javelin Jensen and Ashworth are even with a distance of 160 ft. The former has heaved the javelin 168 ft. indoors.

A Congregational minister was once asked, how he had allowed his daughter to marry an Episcopalian. He rather sagely replied, "Dear friend, as far as I have been able to ascertain, Cupid has never studied theology."

A DEAN WITHOUT A DEGREE

(Northwestern Daily)

There is at least one college dean in the United States who never went to college. This distinction, if it may be called such, belongs to Edward Wilbur Berry, dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Johns Hopkins University, famed for its high educational standards.

Dean Berry graduated from high school, worked several years as a clerk, salesman, and then became an undisputed geology expert. He studied—yes, because he wanted to and not because he had to. There is all the difference in the world.

It was not many years before Mr. Berry became a prominent figure in educational circles. Johns Hopkins called him in to take over an important deanship. Now as a college dean, this is what he still thinks of a college education:

"Today the undergraduate is the product of a stuffing machine—crammed with facts, with information of more or less unrelated and useless nature. When he has poured back enough to score his points, he is branded with an A. B.—and put on the market as a pure product. It is a mere label on a bootleg bottle."

Dean Berry's liberal arts attitude warms our heart. How many times we have thought such thoughts—yet we are afraid, actually afraid, to forego a college education because we are not sure that without this brand we will look very attractive on the market.

"Remain in Maine to study," is the message of an illustrated folder, describing the Summer School of the University of Maine, which is being sent to teachers in the schools of the state this week. Stressing the attractions of the Maine campus, and the recreational facilities available during the summer session, the folder urges teachers to stay in their home state to carry on their summer professional training.

In order to make possible the sort of training which teachers desire, the summer session program of course is arranged to offer material of special value to teachers. The courses offered are listed in the folder, and include athletic coaching, chemistry, economics and sociology, education, English, French, history and government, home economics, Latin, mathematics, music, physical education, physics, psychology, public speaking and dramatics, pulp and paper making, Spanish and Italian, and zoology. A reply card is attached to the folder for the use of those who desire more information.
