Chin and Chatter

We are feeling quite disgruntled—one fair co-ed read the Campus on Friday and thought that she was reading the one of the week before. When she found out, she naively remarked, "I thought the news was a bit early, at that."

And the English prof who, when asked what it took to start a duel in Pope's day, replied, "Two men who are willing to duel."

And what about the charming young instructress in Sociology who tried to spell "parallelism"?

Then there's the freshman who was registered for a course in U. S. History, but who started in a course in Medieval History. When asked if he couldn't recognize that he was in an early history course, he replied, "I thought we were going back to pick up the threads." And they hang wall-paper.

And the learned prof who tried his hand at picking the lock on the front door of Arts and Sciences one evening. But he couldn't quite make it.

The following State Document has been received:

Dear Sir:

There should be a law to prevent the killing of wild animals within the distance of—oh well—smelling distance of the dormitories. Tonight some reckless young men cornered a black and white pussy right in front of my window. They deliberately killed it—now what do you think of that! But that is not all, either. In doing that, they allowed the odorous little animal to perfume the whole vicinity. Now it is impossible to open a window for circulation of air, or to even open the door into the hall without a gas mask. Is there not something which can be done to prevent the performance of a similar foolish act by other freshmen?

Yours truly,

Yessir, in the words of that immortal song, there ought to be a law against that.

Add signs of winter—the huge coal pile in back of the powerhouse.

The new song surely went over big with the common mob; everyone enjoys a good old "sing" anyway, and when the new song book comes out, perhaps the chapel period will be further enlivened.

And did you know that after witnessing Ermo Scott's splendid gymnastic exhibition in chapel, Miss Lengyel has requested him to teach a couple divisions of girls' P.T. for her?

Another Bag Scrap over and another group of sophs disrobed and disillusioned. Perhaps a movement is abroad to turn Maine to a Greek school; at any rate, the old Athenian custom of racing nude seemed to be in great favor Saturday, especially with the Sophomores. Lucky the blankets held out.

Small wonder that the psychology department is so popular. Let us quote one of the new instructors:

"I will illustrate this point and then show you some more curves."

According to Professor Sprague, the University of Maine Chorus looks very promising this year. Already there are a large number of students registered for the course, and there are still many who have attended the classes, but have not as yet registered for credit.

The Maine Chorus is to take part in the Eastern Maine Festival Chorus, which will be held in Bangor, on October 22. The feature artist of this annual event is to be Miss Nannette Guilford, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company. There will also be several numbers by the Bangor Symphony Chorus.

Maine Defeats Rhode Island by One-Point Margin, 13-12; No Score in Second Half as Teams Tighten Up Defense

For the ninth consecutive time, Maine defeated Rhode Island on the Orono field last Saturday. The game was closely played from start to finish; both teams were evenly matched, and the issue was in doubt until the final gun.

Both Maine and Rhode Island were weak on the defensive, but very aggressive on the offensive. Rhode Island held Maine for downs immediately after the kick-off, and Blocklinger made a good 40-yard punt against the strong wind. Goff, the speedy Rhode Island full-back, caught it and made a sensational run-back of 30 yards. Rhode Island then made two first downs without much trouble, and Goff tore four yards thru left tackle for the first touchdown. Captain Cieurzo failed to kick the goal.

Rhode Island punted to Moran, who ran the ball back 20 yards. Then began an unbroken march down the field. A clean forward, Blocklinger to Smith, resulted in a first down. Another forward was attempted but not completed. Maine, however, was awarded the distance on it since Smith, the receiver, was tripped up as he was about to make the catch. This was one of the two penalties of the game. Maine's first touchdown came after a short line plunge by Moran. Wilson failed to kick the goal. Soon after this, the quarter ended.

In the second period Rhode Island started off strong. Four off-tackle thrusts by Goff, a 40-yard pass, Cieurzo to Cragan, and Maine's goal was again threatened. Flaherty made 5 yards thru center, and an 8-yard plunge by Goff put the ball over. Cieurzo again failed to kick the goal.

Fickett fumbled on the kick-off, and

Rhode Island started another march down the field, when Captain Horne recovered a fumble for Maine. Then the tables were turned. Forward and lateral passes, line bucks and end runs, in which Blocklinger, Wilson, Smith, and Bagley featured, soon put Maine in scoring position. Romansky went thru center for the touchdown. Wilson kicked the goal for the point which later proved to be the winning margin.

Both teams tightened up during the second half, and no score was made. Maine threatened once, but lost the ball on downs on Rhode Island's 15-yard line. Several beautiful Maine passes, Blocklinger to Sims, came later in the period, but to no avail, and the game ended with the ball near the center of the field.

New System Planned For Girls' Athletics

For the past few years it has been difficult for the senior girls to be well represented in athletics. Many of their games were played with the team lacking four or five girls. A new plan has recently been devised as follows: this year a cross-section of the upper class girls has been taken and arranged in six groups. The same has been done to the freshman girls and added to these six groups. These groups will play five games in each activity. Every girl is allowed one major and one minor sport at a time. These sports are under the point system. A girl making the team in a major sport receives 50 points. If the team wins the girls receive an additional 20 points. If the team wins all games, the girls are awarded 150 points and their numerals.

The winning teams in a minor sport are awarded 135 points and their numerals. They receive 25 points for making the team and an additional 15 points for every game won.

Letters are given for four sets of numerals and the emblem is given for three sets of letters.

This is a tentative plan subject to change.

According to the new plan of women's athletics at the University of Maine, all women students have been placed under the following groups:

GROUP I

Rachel Adams, Ella Blanch, Madeline Bunker, Doris Cornellier, Dorothy Davis, Barbara Edes, Eleanor Grinnell, Kathleen Hardy, Elizabeth Kimball, Effie Mayberry, Dorothy Monihan, Mildred Poland, Doris Rosen, Hazel Scully, Dorothea Temple, Mary Wescott, Alma York, Arissa Frost, Ruth Shesong, Evelyn Smith, Helen Osgood, Emily Thompson, Olive Whiting, Ethel Smith.

Freshmen Defeat M.C.I. Gridsters in Opening Contest

The Freshmen by their 19-0 victory over M.C.I., gave conclusive evidence that they have the makings of a good team. The Frosh seemed to be partial to forward and lateral passes of all kinds. All three touchdowns that were made by them were paved by forward passes. Their defense was good against line plays and end runs, but they did not seem to be able to stop the few passes that were thrown by M.C.I.

M.C.I. lacked a concentrated offensive that had the power to score. At two different times they were in a scoring position and lost the ball on downs. The visitors had a team of individual players who did not work together. Their defense worked well at times, but they were completely thrown off by the Maine passes. By the end of the third quarter the backs were afraid to back up the line for fear of a pass. The M.C.I. line was fast and rugged so that they were able to stop most of the line plays tried by the Frosh.

Maine won the toss and elected to defend the west goal. M.C.I. decided to receive. The kickoff was run back for a few yards, and M.C.I. started a determined march for the goal. They lost it on downs after being in a good scoring position. The Frosh then began to try to make gains through the line but finally had to kick. M.C.I. exchanged the kick to the Freshmen's advantage. The Frosh then began to make some real gains, both through the line and by passes. Near the end of the quarter after a series of passes a touchdown was put over through the line.

The third quarter was a repetition of the first. The Frosh gained ground consistently, but usually lost the ball thru carelessness. The punts exchanged were to the advantage of the Freshmen. Again after a series of passes another touchdown was made. This time the Frosh were successful in kicking the point. M.C.I. elected to receive, but they soon lost the ball on downs. The Frosh then started a determined attack for another

Letter Men Are Given Trophies by A.A. Board

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Board, it was decided that all men who won their letters last spring should receive a gold charm for their watch chains. Maine "Alumnus" Has Features of Interest

An unusual feature of the current issue of the Maine Alumnus, which has just been sent out to the graduates of the University of Maine, is a page devoted to short biographical sketches of three Maine mayors who are graduates of the University.

Benjamin W. Blanchard is serving his first term as mayor of Bangor. He was graduated from the Maine Law School in the class of '04, and since that time has been an attorney at law. He has always been a supporter of the Republican party, conspicuous for his public service. In 1912 he was a Presidential Elector, carrying the vote of his district

Frosh Score Decisive Win Over Sophomores In Bag-Scrap Contest

Last Saturday the class of '34 triumphed over an unorganized sophomore class, and won the traditional bag-scrap, that annual clothes ripping festival.

After the close of the third quarter of the football game, a swarm of freshmen left the stands to reappear a few minutes later, clothed in old pants and shoes, and with their manly chests and backs, covered with the class numerals, exposed to the gaze of all present at Alumni Field. They assembled, three hundred strong, on the west section of the grandstand, and, in unison, rooted for the team until the final whistle announced the end of the game.

At the conclusion of the game the hordes of freshmen, shouting war cries and bloodthirsty yells like a band of savages, poured down from the stands, and hauled the large canvas bags filled with straw to the center of the field. They then retired to behind the goalposts where Don Marshall delivered the instructions not to bite, pull hair, or scratch.

The sophomores, true to their numerals, "33", gathered in a straggling line on the other side of the field, about thirty-three in number.

At the signal from the starter, the representatives of both classes thundered down the field to gain possession of the bags. What followed is a sad tale. The handful of sophs provided no opposition to the overwhelming army of frosh, who surrounded the bags, and made way with them toward their own goal-posts. In fact, the only sophomores who even got a look at the bags were those who were fleet enough to get close to them before the freshmen arrived to encircle and drag the sacks to victory.

During the very brief struggle which did ensue, both classes were pulling, tugging, and, by sound and sight, ripping shirts and pants indiscriminately from each other, leaving the undraped bodies of many in the full view of those who watched proceedings. Some football players, however, relieved the embarrassment.

Gunning and Booth Win Varsity Cross-Country Time Trials Saturday

A Junior and a Sophomore proved to be the fleetest candidates for positions on the varsity cross country squad at the University of Maine this fall. The men were given their first time trial of the year by Coach Jenkins Saturday, and Everett Gunning and Harry Booth loped over the finishing line abreast. Mank, Fuller, Austin, Pendleton, and Brooks were not far behind, however, and it seems likely that the pale blue will present a much more evenly matched aggregation than it has during the past year or two, when Harry Richardson and Bud Lindsay were leaving their teammates far behind.

The time trials were evidently pleasing to Coach Jenkins, and he expressed satisfaction that the Maine Harriers would give their opponents the same brand of competition that they have been offering for several years past.

The first meet of the year, a dual with Connecticut Aggies, has been shifted ahead a week, and instead of meeting the orange and black Oct. 18 as was the original plan, the race will finish between the halves of the Maine-Conn. game Saturday. The change will give the Connecticut runners a chance to travel with the football team, and supporters of both schools will be on deck to witness the finish. It will also give the Maine hill and dalers a longer rest before the Bates dual, Oct. 31.

William Whited '26 and Kaarlo Kangas '32 were killed, and two others seriously injured in an auto accident that happened Saturday night near the Orono-Veazie town line. Whited, the driver of the roadster, died instantly and his three companions, Thomas Keresy '32, Kaarlo Kangas '32 and John Pearson '32 were all seriously injured.

At the Eastern Maine General hospital yesterday afternoon it was learned that Kangas had died at 8:10 a.m. Wednesday morning. Keresy and Pearson were declared by Doctor Hurlbut of the hospital staff to be out of danger by Wednesday afternoon. Pearson's skull was not fractured, as the rumor circulating on campus said. His scalp was badly cut.

According to report, Whited's auto, travelling at a high rate of speed, attempted to pass another car, but got out of control, left the road and rolled over many times along the car track. The car was badly wrecked by the accident.

Whited was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, and was engaged in selling insurance in Orono and the vicinity.

Kangas, Keresy and Pearson, all from Massachusetts, were members of Theta Chi fraternity. Keresy was a member of the frosh basketball team his first year here.

Prize-Winning Song Is Played in Chapel; Liked By the Student Body

With the opening of Chapel on Monday, Mr. Fielder of the Maine Christian Association led the Assembly in a prayer for William Whited '26, who met his death and the three University of Maine students, Kaarlo Kangas, Thomas Keresy and John J. Pearson who were seriously injured in an automobile accident on the Bangor-Orono road, October 4th.

Then, led by the Maine Band under the direction of Ermo Scott, the student body joined in the initial singing of "The University of Maine Band" at Chapel Monday with a pep and enthusiasm that acclaimed Joseph McCusker's prize-winning song a rousing hit on campus. The band played the catchy tune several times, and the Assembly, aided by printed sheet forms sold before Chapel, rapidly became familiar with the new song-hit.

The background and history of the song was sketched by Mr. Crossland, Alumni Secretary. Joseph McCusker, '17 of Braintree, Mass. wrote both the words and tune as a contribution to the Alumni Song Contest, and dedicated it to the U. of Maine Band and to those members who went across during the World War. The song which was awarded a prize of $50, met with such popularity when introduced to the Alumni, that it was decided to publish it. Mr. McCusker, with characteristic Maine spirit, signed over the $50 prize and the copyright of the song to the Alumni Gymnasium Fund. As a token of appreciation, Mr. Crossland was authorized to send Mr. McCusker and Mr. G. O. Hamlin of New York, a message of thanks—to Mr. McCusker for his generosity in signing over the copyright, and to Mr. Hamlin for the material expression of his goodwill toward the new song.

Our old songs were not forgotten in the zeal to welcome the new, and a spirited singing of our own "Stein Song" proved that the famous Rudy Vallee hasn't influenced the Mainiacs in their loyalty to the original version.

WOMEN TO PLAY POSSE- NISSEN

Women's field hockey activities on the campus will definitely end when the varsity team meets Posse-Nissen on our hockey field, November 1. The only game away this year will be played with Connecticut School of Agriculture at Storrs, Conn., either November 8th or 14th.

With the memory of last Saturday's fiasco fresh in mind, it would be well to consider the advisability of continuing the Bag Scrap. As the contest has worked out for the past few years, the sophomores who have ventured onto the field have promptly been the object of a concerted freshman rush that lasted as long as the sophomores had any clothes left on their bodies. The avowed object of the contest—to drag a couple of canvas sacks off the field—was easily taken care of by a few of the frosh. The remainder devoted their attention to the denuding process.

We are entirely out of sympathy with the Bag Scrap and all that pertains to it. It is a silly and childish contest, reminiscent of the days when freshman-sophomore fights were a feature of college life. It is time that the students on this campus realized that this strenuous and pointless interclass struggle is a bit passé.

By what process of reasoning can any rational person hold that the "honor" of his class will be upheld by dragging a canvas sack off a field? Just what did the Bag Scrap ever settle—what purpose has it ever served?

We would not wish to be thought prudish in this matter, but the spectacle of college men running about a field with little or no clothing on is to say the least, a bit indecent.

In this connection, we are glad to print a letter in an adjoining column from the only co-ed who was sufficiently moved to publicly utter her disgust at the whole matter.

Maine is burdened with too many of these customs that have nothing of significance in them; now is the time to weed them out. They are sure to go finally, as the mental age of college students increases. Let's see a little progressiveness instead of a keep-it-because-it's-old spirit. Colleges all over the country are coming into the realization that we are moving in a different age from that in which class-scrapes were in vogue. Let's show the way to the other Maine colleges!

The Campus wishes to extend its sympathy to Lambda Chi Alpha and to Theta Chi on the death of their members and the injury of two others.

Correspondence

To the Editor:

Isn't it about time that someone put an end to the "Bag-scraper"? It may be an old custom, but it certainly does not reflect much credit on a school such as ours.

In the first place, one "bag-scraper" in a lifetime is evidently enough for the average college man so that by the time he is a sophomore, he can't be bothered ripping clothes off the backs of the freshmen. The freshmen, however, are full of class spirit, and always arrive on the scene in full force, easily overwhelming the handful of upperclassmen. Besides, did you ever hear of the sophomores winning the "bag-scraper"? In the second place, as a "bag-scraper", it is only a cheap, distorting contest which would be O.K. if staged by Earl Carroll, but proves extremely revolting on a football field.

I'm sure the visitors from Rhode Island were disgusted with the display, which looked like a scene from "Ben Hur."

Can't something be done about this situation?

R. N. S.

Note:—The author is incorrect in one matter. The class of 1931 won the Bag Scrap in its Sophomore year.—Ed.

Editor of the Campus,

The University of Maine has a lovely campus and we would all like to keep it so. The lawn beside the walk to Arts is always rough because of the many people walking over it. This could be remedied if the walk were widened. The walk should be wide enough for two couples going each way to pass each other without getting on the lawn (or being jostled onto it by a rushing fellow student).

Isn't there some way that this can be done?

B.S. '31

Editor of the Campus

Dear Sir:

Recently there has been considerable comment as to the way the student body (or the Freshman Class) has been singing our "Stein Song." Last Saturday at the football game the "Stein Song" was sung twice and both times it was the new version of it, that of Rudy's. Since the rehearsal of it the right way in chapel last Monday it seems that from now on the student body should be very conscious of the way it is to be sung which means the old way.

May the splendid new song, "The University of Maine Band Song" always be sung as it is now without variations or alterations.

Book Review

"Mirthful Haven," by Booth Tarkington (Doubleday, Doran Co.)

Booth Tarkington is an author whose works are eagerly read by many Maine people because they feel an especial interest in the author who has passed so many summers on the rugged Maine coast. "Claire Ambler" which appeared several years ago, was Tarkington's first novel with Maine atmosphere; everybody loved the wilful maiden who passed her summers on the Maine coast and had such a good time doing so. However, Claire was just a summer person; but at last, in "Mirthful Haven," Tarkington presents to his public, Edna Pelter, the girl from his pen whom we have been awaiting. Edna is the daughter of stern old Capt. Pelter, who, while he deals in short lobsters and is looked down upon by many of the summer people, is in his way, very aristocratic and scorns those who are not of an old-established family.

It is the story primarily of Edna, but it embraces many delightful characters, both "natives" and summer people. It is rich in the atmosphere of those quaint little Maine coast villages. Tarkington in "Mirthful Haven" is doing for our coast what Joseph Lincoln has done for Cape Cod.

To return to Edna. She lives for several years with an elderly lady in New Jersey and while she is there, falls in love with the son of the social leader of the summer colony in her home town. His people do not know her family and there is a tempest in the teapot when her identity is discovered because the Pelters are disliked by the summer residents as they refuse to sell the land wanted for the yacht club. The main part of the story deals with smoothing out the resulting difficulties and the author displays characteristic artistry in bringing his story to a pleasing climax.

NEW INTEREST GROUP BEING FORMED FOR Y.W.

Miss Eulalie Collins '33, newly elected member of the Y. cabinet, is organizing a group of students to discuss industrial problems in the United States. This group, organized because of the advice of the National Y.W.C.A., should be of great interest to every alive and thinking college woman. Such questions as, "What pay do women in our local industries receive?" "How do they live?" "What conditions do they work under?" and "Would you be happy under the same conditions?" should not only appeal but arouse enthusiasm, support and keen thinking. Those desiring to take part in the discussions should see Miss Collins.

CHINESE GIRL TO TALK HERE

Miss Bung Chung Ling, a charming and very interesting Chinese student now attending Wellesley College, is to visit the University of Maine campus. Miss Ling is being brought here through the efforts of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet. She will speak informally on the Chinese student's conception of the American Student; on present day conditions of China; on the Chinese opinion of America's industrial and inter-racial condition. Posters will be put up when the day of her arrival is known.

As The Frosh Tore The Sophs Down In The "Bag-Scrap"

The Women's Athletic Association staged a Pep party at Alumni Gym last night for the co-eds. The chief purpose for the get-together was to arouse enthusiasm for the new system of athletics for women which is replacing the inter-collegiate system in order to give more attention to the training of the individual.

Miss Lengyel explained the advantages of this system and the rules and regulations. She showed the girls how they could win their numerals and letters on the point basis. By the new regulations the co-eds are all divided into six groups, each group having a group leader who is a sort of captain. Each group has a team in every major and minor sport.

Enthusiasm ran high as the groups originated songs and cheers as well as stunts for entertainment and prizes were given for the best of each.

The group leaders are: 1, Stubby Burdill; 2, Ike Montgomery; 3, Clara Richardson; 4, Joe Carbone; 5, Jean Kierstead; 6, Spud Churchill.

Refreshments were served after the entertainment by Rebecca Spencer, Kay Trickey, and Muriel Freeman.

INTERVIEWS WITH FAMOUS MEN AND WOMEN AROUND CAMPUS—#1

Frank Ruffo

our song and dance man

When questioned whence came his good looks and ability to dance, Frank said: "All that I am and all that I ever hope to be I owe to that great

Maine Bear Institution

Those Toasted Cheese Sandwiches in my coldest hours always warmed me up. Try one and be famous like me."

During the summer a large show window was installed facing the hall in the Physics Department just outside the lecture room door. The students have found it very interesting. The first exhibit included an oscillator with a frequency of 100,000,000 cycles per second along with a very small vacuum tube, a "peanut tube" and some thermocouples. Other things since shown have been standards of mass and length and devices for measuring time. There have also been shown a tipping bucket rain gauge, a sunshine recorder and an anemometer.

It is proposed to have these meteorological instruments placed on the roof and connected electrically with recorders in the window. When this is done a record will be kept by the instruments of the rain fall, the temperature, the duration of sunshine, the velocity of the wind, and the atmospheric pressure. A glance at the window will show how cold it was the night before at any time of night. If a rain storm comes on one can tell when it began and ended and how fast it was raining at any time. If a wind storm comes on one can tell how fast the wind blew and at what time it blew the hardest.

It is proposed that the other exhibits will be changed from time to time more or less keeping in step with the beginning

The Maine Christian Association is to begin its annual financial drive Sunday evening, October 12. The drive is to last four days, ending at night on Thursday, October 16.

Every Maine student is familiar with some of the things which the M.C.A. is doing. Through its program of constructive activity it has earned a distinctive place on the campus. Its work is recognized as influential toward the highest Maine ideals.

This year, as in other years, the drive is for both the men's and women's division of the M.C.A. During these four days every student will be asked to contribute his share to this work, in order that the projects of the M.C.A. may be fully accomplished.

The goal this year is $2850; $1000 will be for the women and $1850 for the men. This goal can be reached if every student will do his part. Let's do our part!

ing classes. It is also proposed that new pieces will be shown as purchased. People not directly connected with the Physics Department are invited to drop in occasionally to look things over.

123,000 tests a year

In the Crane testing laboratories, the weight arm of a specially designed machine measures the steadily increasing load suspended from a small cylinder of metal. Watching it intently is a man who has at his command instruments that measure to .00005 of an inch. The cylinder begins to yield; he notes the weight. It snaps; he notes the weight. Disengaging it, he measures the stretch and diameter at the breaking point. These tests form a part of the 123,000 determinations Crane Co. makes on its own materials every year.

63,000 of the tests are chemical; not one component from pig iron to limestone flux is charged in a Crane melting furnace whose suitability has not been determined by analysis. 60,000 are physical; not one hour's melt is drawn off in a Crane foundry whose physical properties—tensile, transverse, and torsional strengths, yield point, breaking point, elongation, and reduction of area are not known.

By such exhaustive tests and by researches of scientists in Crane laboratories, a vast body of authoritative data on metals and their properties has been collected. It is embodied in a book, "Pioneering in Science," which is an invaluable reference book for students. On request, we will send it to you.

Freshmen Defeat M.C.I. Gridsters In Opening Contest

touchdown. They were well on their way when the quarter ended.

The second half started with M.C.I. kicking and the Freshmen again started their aerial attack. A touchdown soon followed. M.C.I. then started a march down the field after running the kickoff well back. It looked as though they would put a touchdown over. Maine, however, after making a determined stand, took the ball over again on downs.

In the final quarter Coach Jones put in practically his whole squad at one time or another. M.C.I. tried to stage another rally, but it was killed off early at the start. Both teams were on about even terms at the end of the quarter.

The victory does not mean that the Frosh have an exceptionally good team. M.C.I. has a team that is weaker than any team she has had for some years past. Although the Frosh could have possibly added a few more points to the final score if the lineup had not been changed so often in the last quarter they gave a good account of themselves.

Favor and Russ showed well at quarter. Favor is an exceptionally good ball carrier. Parsons also showed well in the backfield. In the line Mitchell and Davis played good games. Quinn and Gigare functioned well at center.

The Frosh's next opponent will be Hebron Academy. Hebron is supposed to have one of the best teams that she has had in the last few years. This game will probably be one of the hardest games for the frosh.

The starting lineup for the Frosh was as follows:

Mitchell, le; Davis, lt; Marsons, lg; Wilson, c; Hill, rg; Rice, rt; Cobb, re; Favor, qb; Corbett, lhb; Sinclair, rlb;

Registration for the One-Act Play course this year has broken all former records. There are now six plays being prepared for production, all managed by student directors. The plays which are to be given this year in the course are exceptionally fine ones, all of which are written by outstanding dramatists. They are:

"The Boob," McMullen, directed by John Berry.

"The Ugly Duckling," Mansur, directed by Doris Curtis.

"The Affected Young Ladies," Molière, directed by Charles O'Connor.

"The Far-Away Princess," Suderman, directed by Atwood Levensaler.

Frosh Score Decisive Win Over Sophomores in Bag-Scrap Contest

ment by lending blankets to those who were in need of them.

There was no question as to the result of the battle, and the frosh secured their second decisive victory within two weeks.

Following the scrap, the freshman souvenir hunters ripped the canvas bags into shreds, and secured strips of it which may now be found decorating the walls of almost every room in the dorms.

During supper, in the dining room at Hannibal Hamlin Hall, cheers were given to the class of '34, and to those few of the sophomore class who showed spirit enough to come out for the scrap.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLDA group attack on the "X" of industry

Research, finding answers to the eternal $x = ?$, keeps step in the Bell System with the new industrial viewpoint.

The joy in working out studies in development is shared by many. Results are reached by group effort. Striving together, the mature engineer and his younger assistants, each contributes to the final solution of the problem.

Men of the Bell Telephone Laboratories are sharing in useful, interesting research. They are getting valuable training in the modern strategy of organization attack.

And because that strategy assures them the aid of men and material resources, they are actually turning some of their vision into fact.
