SENIOR SKULLS ANNOUNCE NEW FRESHMAN RULES FOR NEXT YEAR

Restricted Period Will End with Christmas Vacation.
Privilege of Accompanying Ladies on Campus
Fridays and Saturdays Denied

President Lon Cheney of the Senior Skulls announced this week that several changes have been made in the freshman rules for next year. The changes have been made by the Skulls in the hope that they will promote better feeling among the students.

The most noticeable change in the rules is that the restricted period is shortened by two months. The freshman-sophomore track meet will take place on the second Saturday in December, and if the freshmen win, the rules will be removed automatically as soon as the last event has been run off. If the sophomores win, the rules will be removed on the opening of the University following the Christmas recess.

Another change is that freshmen will not be allowed to accompany ladies without special permission from the Senior Skulls. This year they were allowed Friday and Saturday night privileges, but these will be removed during the restricted period next year.

The rule prohibiting the wearing of knickers and preparatory school insignia will also prohibit sport shoes.

The bag scrap will be limited to a hundred men from each class, the participants to be chosen by the class organizations, with the approval of the Senior Skulls. In all other respects the Bag Scrap and the Night Shirt Parade will be the same as they were this year.

A committee of freshmen made up of Stanwood Searles and Roger Heffer presented a plan to the Skulls, which would have modified the code considerably more than the modification which was passed. With the shorter period of rules will come stricter enforcement. Haircuts as a means of punishment for infractions of the rules will be retained, though they will be used only in extreme cases.

Colby College Professor Is Next Chapel Speaker

Prof. John J. Wilkinson Is History Department Head There

Professor John J. Wilkinson, Ph.D., head of the department of history at Colby College, will be the assembly speaker on Monday morning. His subject is, "Nationalism by Internationalism". Dr. Wilkinson has been professor of history at Colby for six years and is popular with the student body there.

That Professor Wilkinson is well qualified to present an interesting talk is seen from accounts of his activities. He received a B. Litt. degree from William and Mary College in 1902 and for the next three years was connected with that institution as instructor in Latin and Greek. After obtaining an M.A. degree at Columbia he was for nine years Dean of Washington College. Later on he taught history at Wesleyan University and University of Vermont Summer School before finally going to Colby in 1924.

Professor Wilkinson is a member of Phi Beta Kappa Society, American Historical Association, Political Science Association, and besides having a Ph.D. degree from Columbia holds the honorary degree of LL.D. from Washington College.

Honor Society Members on Recognition Day Committee

As previously announced, May the eleventh will be Scholarship Recognition Day. Exercises will be held at 9:30 A.M. in the Chapel. Dean Paul Nixon of Bowdoin College will be the speaker. The President of the University and presidents of the four Honor Societies will have places reserved on the platform. Student members of the four honor societies and initiates will assemble at 9:25 in the gymnasium, march in through the center door of the Chapel, and occupy reserved seats. Professor Harry Smith will play an organ prelude and postlude.

Chemical Abstracts of April 20, 1931, contains several abstracts by Dr. C. A. Brautlecht.

Maine Masque Will Present "Broken Dishes" Thursday

Writer of Farce is Also Author of "The Criminal Code." Play Is a Junior Week Feature

"Broken Dishes", the well-known farce by Martin Flavin, will be presented by the Maine Masque as the Junior Week play, on May 7 in Alumni Hall. This farce is filled with amusing situations, and the characters are all well drawn.

The plot centers around the old love affair of Jenny Bumpsted and Chester Armstrong, and the attempts of Elaine, Jenny's youngest daughter, to marry the man she loves against her mother's will.

The part of Jenny, the strong-minded mother of three daughters, is taken by Ernestine Merrill, and Elaine by Helen Findlay. Myra Bumpsted, the oldest daughter, an old maid with incurably romantic tendencies, is played by Mary Elmore, and Mabel, the plump, placid sister with a voracious appetite, by Hope Clark. Edward Berry takes the part of Cyrus Bumpsted, the lovable, cheerful, and terribly henpecked husband of Jenny.

Bill Clark, the delivery boy who is in love with Elaine, is played by Philip Anderson, and the part of Sam Green, the loyal friend and fellow lodge member of Cyrus, is taken by Walter Hall. Atwood Levensaler appears as the Reverend Dr. Stump, near sighted and deaf; Warren Kane as the city detective Quinn, and John Barry as the distinguished stranger who arrives just in time.

Florence Burrill Jacobs, Maine Poetess, Gives Reading Before Contributors' Club

Mrs. Florence Burrill Jacobs, of Madison, was the guest artist of the Contributor's Club of the University of Maine for their literary meeting on last Thursday. Mrs. Jacobs read her poetry for an hour in a manner that won the applause of the rather choice audience that greeted her appearance here.

Explaining that most poems were said to be autobiographical in their poetic treatments she explained to begin with that her poetry was largely observations of neighbors or of the well known scenes that can be found in this state. She read from her work a number of lyrics, several sonnets, and two or three longer poems of a narrative nature. She also pleased her audience with some satirical poems on the Edgar A. Guest type. Many of the lyrics and sonnets were truly beautiful, both in their conception

Jackson College Convention Attended by Maine Co-eds

Gathering Discusses Problems of Discipline Common to Many Modern Colleges

Maine was represented by Margaret Churchill, Martha Smith, Marjorie Moulton, Alice Dyer, and Francis Dean at the Student Government Conference held at Jackson College, Medford, Mass., April 23, 24, and 25. The convention discussed problems relating to discipline, the proctor system and similar problems common to all colleges, as well as the individual problems of the colleges represented at the conference. The meetings were found to be very helpful and gave the girls an idea of how other colleges were handling problems similar to those on our campus. An attempt was made to have Student Government have fewer rules and to take more into consideration the person with which it is dealing.

The representatives believe that the Maine girls should feel fortunate to think that our Student Government has so few rules and that they are very lenient in comparison to the rigid and firm rules found at other colleges represented at the conference. A set of resolutions was passed which will be printed at a later date. The other colleges represented at the convention were R. I. State College, Connecticut Agricultural College, Massachusetts State College, Bates, Colby, Middlebury, New Hampshire State College, and Jackson.

and in their formation, while many of the sonnets read were taken from groups of such poems under a general head.

Not to disappoint her audience as far as the autobiographical element was concerned, she concluded her readings with a lyric which she admitted was from her own life, rather than from the lives of her neighbors.

Mrs. Jacobs, a school teacher, is one of the younger Maine poetesses, and her work shows a masterly handling and a fine spirit that speaks well for her future development. Her rather critical audience were deeply impressed with the beauty of her poems and the promise of even greater work.

The Contributor's Club, the host of Mrs. Jacobs, is composed of students and faculty members of the University.

Interesting Program Being Planned for Next Play Day

Event To Be Held on Campus May 9. Program for Fair or Rainy Day Is Planned

A varied and interesting program has been planned for the high school play day, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, to be held on the campus on May 9th. Two tentative programs have been made out, one for a fair day and one for a rainy day.

According to the first program, the delegates from the various high schools will register in Balentine gym at 8:00 A.M. The morning will be spent on the athletic field. The schedule includes track events, races, archery and soccer games. At 12:15 P.M. there will be a picnic lunch, with songs and group stunts. In the afternoon the soccer finals will be played, as well as human croquet, baseball, volleyball, and dodge ball. The day will end with a banquet at Balentine.

In case of rain the athletic events, beginning with a "get-acquainted" dance, and including dodge ball, volleyball, relay races and apparatus work, will be held in Alumni gym. A complete schedule will be published next week.

Jean Keirstead is in charge of the program, Peg Davis of the banquet, Marjorie Moulton of the picnic, and Mary Sylvester of publicity.

Miss Lengyel has announced that Szandar will be present as one of the guests of honor.

The New York Alumni Scholarship No. 2 Essay Contest will be held Tuesday evening, May 5, at seven o'clock D.S.T. in 14 Wingate.

Levensaler Will Represent Maine in Speaking Contest

Picked from Six Students to Speak on Topic "Peace" at Bates Monday

Atwood Levensaler will represent the University of Maine in the annual speaking contest of Maine colleges to be held at Bates on Monday night. This contest is sponsored by the Intercollegiate Peace Association and the contestants must speak on "Peace", advocating it in some way other than by force of arms. Levensaler will speak of obtaining peace through education of youth.

Six students took part in the preliminaries held here at the University. They were John Longley, Errol Higgins, Francis Ricker, Paul Langlois, Laurence Hawkins, and Atwood Levensaler.

The Peace Association undertakes contests of this type every year in those states which wish them. On Monday evening three Maine colleges, Bates, Colby, and Maine, will be represented. The winner's manuscript is to be sent to a National Contest. First prize is sixty dollars and second prize forty dollars.

Winslow Jones, Maine '30, was the winner of the contest last year.

Two important Y.W.C.A. cabinet meetings were held this week. The new upperclass cabinet met Tuesday afternoon to discuss their work for next year, and the freshman cabinet also met on Thursday afternoon to decide what part they, as sophomores, would have in "Y" next year. They also completed their plans for the meeting which they will give to the upperclass girls next Thursday evening at Mt. Vernon.

Packard Is Speaker At Monday Assembly

Tells Audience Real Meaning of Education Is Vague to Most People

"Why Education" was the subject of an address given at Chapel Monday morning by Bertram E. Packard, State Commissioner of Education and member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine.

Mr. Packard struck the keynote of the address in his anecdote of the Oxford professor, who, after many long and studious years spent in educating himself and others, wrote: "After fifty years of education, I still wonder what it is all about."

According to Mr. Packard, we, too, "wonder what it is all about."

"We do not really understand the term 'education', any more than we understand the term 'democracy'. And, both of these are of vast importance to us, not only as separate factors in our civilization, but also in their relation to each other. The two are very closely interwoven in both tradition and present standards."

Mr. Packard in explaining this statement gave a brief survey of the educational development in the United States. He showed that in this country, at least, education had its beginning in democracy. He pointed out the fact that it was the need for competent persons to carry out the plan of self-government that in the first place led to the rise of educational institutions.

He went on to say that as the population of the country grew, and as the government became more complicated, the necessity for a more highly-developed system of education became evident, and the standards were made higher.

"At the present time we have established certain outstanding ideals of education—mainly three: Elementary education must be provided for all persons at the expense of the government. Secondary education must be provided for all persons at public expense. And the secondary schools must be preparatory for a higher school of education so that those who wish to do so may avail themselves of such an opportunity."

"In the past few years we have been trying to give the high school student who will not be able to go to college a broader preparation for life. We realize the necessity for preparation for our leisure time as well as for our life-work. The primary object of education now is to make for better citizenship and better democracy."

Tennis Team Will Compete With Other Maine Colleges After Several Years' Lapse

This spring for the first time in several years, the University of Maine will take part in intercollegiate tennis competition. Although the Athletic Board has not yet sanctioned tennis as a minor sport, they have approved a three match schedule for the tennis team. The schedule is as follows: a dual meet with Bates, the state tournament at Bowdoin late in May, and a match with Fort Fairfield High School.

Coaches Hurd and Freese will pick a six man team from the quarter-finalists in the tennis club tournament to represent Maine in a meet with Bates at Lewiston on Saturday. Although Bates was last year's state champion, Maine, with a well balanced team of several experienced players should make an excellent showing.

It is impossible that caricature can flourish again until we get a healthy spirit of irreverence for men and things.

Junior Week, one of the more important affairs of the year, will be held here next week, starting May 7. Junior Chapel, at which time the new members of the Senior Skulls will be tapped, is to be the first event on the program.

Thursday evening the Maine Masque will present the Junior play, Broken Dishes, which has a fine cast. Plans are being made for a treasure hunt on Friday morning followed by the formal dance, the annual Junior Prom in the evening.

Saturday morning there will be three events which will interest everybody. The first of these is the military review at alumni field where the honorary lieutenant-colonel, Miss Helen Stearns, will review the troops. A track meet is also being held between the Freshmen and the Aroostook County High Schools. In the afternoon there will be a varsity track meet between M.I.T. and Maine. The track club cabaret, Saturday evening is the final affair in the Junior Week program. The chairman of the committee is Austin Beechler.

The Junior Prom May 8th promises to be one of the most colorful affairs of the year. One of the outstanding features of the dance will be the orchestra, the Georgians from Lewiston under the direction of Lloyd Rafael. Unique favors are being given.

The committee is introducing some very novel innovations in decorations also.

Evedyn Randall is chairman of the Junior Prom committee, with Austin Fittz, Caroline Cousins, Gordon Hayes, and Bill Fahey assisting her.

Announce Poster Contest Open to College Students

$100 Prize Will Be Awarded for Best Work Submitted

A poster contest open only to students enrolled in a university, college, or an art school, is being conducted by the National Student Federation of America. The posters should illustrate the slogan, "There shall be no more war", and place emphasis on the humanity point of view. The winning poster will win a $100 prize, and if it meets with the approval of the organizations working for disarmament, will receive nationwide distribution.

Since there are several students on the campus who are artistically inclined, special attention is called to the fact that all posters to be entered in the contest should be received at the Headquarters of the National Student Federation of America, 218 Madison Ave., New York, before 5 P.M., May 18th, 1931.

The posters should be 24 inches vertical by 26 inches horizontal, must contain not more than three colors, which may be water colors, crayons, charcoal or ink, and they must be on heavy paper.

They will be judged by a jury of well-known artists on the following points: idea, impression created, design, composition, color, and lettering.

New Officers Are Elected For University Orchestra

At a recent meeting of the University orchestra officers for the coming year were elected as follows: manager, Shirley Young; assistant manager, Francis Lord. Plans were discussed for the awarding of shingles and keys to members who fill the requirements for them. Galen Veayo, the present director who graduates this year is expected to be replaced by Harold Doe, who is now concert master of the Bangor Symphony Orchestra.

The Maine orchestra at the present time is composed of thirty-two pieces. During the past year it has played for Masque presentations and has given two concerts—one in Brewer on March 12 and the Annual Maine Music Night on (Continued on Page Three)

SUPPORT THE BASEBALL TEAM

Maine students will have their first opportunity to view their varsity baseball team in action on the home field next Saturday afternoon, when the Colby team comes to Orono. In spite of the fact that the Bricemen have just returned from a rather disastrous early season trip, all hopes for a championship team are by no means lost.

It is true that the Maine squad has already lost one game to Colby. It is also a fact that four more games were lost in rapid succession. But this in itself is no indication that the season is destined for a complete failure. Last year Maine also lost the first two games of the season. It succeeded in taking over Bowdoin during that first trip of the year, but a week later the Brunswick aggregation turned the tables and swamped the Blue on our own field. But following this unpromising beginning Maine came back and defeated every other college in the state, and defeated them often enough to gain the state championship.

Remembering this, Maine students should at least be willing to give the support it deserves. The five games that have already been played showed that the Maine team, win or lose, can at least put up a good game. Anyone who goes to Alumni Field next Saturday can at least depend upon seeing a game worth watching. And with good support there is a better than even chance that the Blue will come through. This support was lacking last year. The games played at Orono were not the ones which gave Maine the pennant. It was the games played at the other colleges. The number of errors made and the games lost on Alumni Field became notorious. When a team loses at home and wins while away, it looks as though the support was not all that it should be.

Next Saturday will show whether the students at Maine can stand behind their team or not. If they do, there is a good chance that Coach Brice's charges will repeat their victory of a year ago. If not, the prospects are not so bright.

We don't know the favorite brand of cigarettes smoked by college men, but the favorite depository for butts is evidently the lawn in front of the Arts and Sciences Building. Convenient, and one of the best known methods of how not to beautify the Maine campus.

Book Review

"Mother of Washington"

By Nancy Byrd Turner

In this day when biography is enjoying great popularity, readers are absorbing whatever comes their way; but a book dealing with one of the heroes of the past or with members of a famous family is sure to be welcome. Now Nancy Byrd Turner has written a biography in which Mary Ball, mother of George Washington, is the central character.

We learn that she was born in Virginia in 1707 and that she passed her childhood in a deeply religious atmosphere. This calm and uneventful life influenced her in later years when her famous son was leading his country in revolt against the mother country and when the colonies were readily seeing events take place of which they had never dreamed.

Mary Ball met Augustine Washington in England, and the story has it that she nursed him back to health after an injury received while riding. Both young people returned from their visit to the mother country, married, and settled at Pope's Creek, Virginia. George was the first of their children.

The book follows the story of George's childhood through the eyes and emotions of Mary Washington. When he first enrolled in the militia to fight against the Indians, his mother objected; but as he advanced to the position of Adjutant General of the Northern Division of the army which fought for England in the French and Indian War, her heart swelled with pride at the military prowess of her son.

The last chapters of the book are devoted to the hopes, fears, and life of Washington's mother during the American Revolution. She died shortly after the First Inauguration.

"Mother of Washington" has more or less conjecture in its pages, but the author has dealt wisely with the facts and has made the most of them. The result, which is a pleasant story in an easy style, is worthwhile and entertaining reading for anyone.

The Best Plays of 1929-1930

Edited by Burns Mantle

Since 1919 Burns Mantle has been writing a summary volume of the best plays and the theater history of each year. His latest volume as usual sums up the season on Broadway, in Chicago, and San Francisco, and includes any events which made the past season outstanding or unique.

With many other dramatic critics, Mantle believes that the past year was a precarious one for the modern theater, but the ten plays which he has chosen are stronger and better than the ordinary run of stuff handed out in so many theaters. Mantle believes that there are lasting qualities in the following ten plays: Green Pastures, The Criminal Code, Berkely Square, Strictly Dishonorable, The Last Mile, The First Mrs. Fraser, June Moon, Michael and Mary, Death Takes a Holiday, and Rebound.

These plays are probably familiar to the majority of Campus readers who are at all interested in dramatics. Mr. Mantle has made his book doubly valuable, because in addition to the plays and the summary of the season, he has also sketched the life of each author. Other elements of interest in the work are a complete list of all plays produced in New York in 1929-1930, with their cast and a brief outline of the plot; tables showing the greatest successes with the number of their performances; information concerning little theaters; a summary of previous volumes of this book; a long list of actors and actresses with a short life sketch, and an index of authors and of recent plays and casts.

Sally Meets Tragic Fate in Epic Battle

By Duke W. L. Vollrath

When the eggs laid by Sally, famous one-eyed Salamander captured a week ago by Oak Hall's eminent fishermen, hatch, the newly arrived children will be most unfortunate in that they will be orphans. Sally's having no eye on the right side of her head got her into trouble last week, serious trouble from which she will never recover.

Sally, being by nature the possessor of that characteristic so common to college students and known as laziness, was basking in the sunlight in her cage on the window-sill when her slumbers were suddenly interrupted by a visitor in her cage. The visitor was none other than a vicious looking mouse, who had emerged from a crack in the floor and in exploring the room had discovered Sally. Sir Mouse made what was nearly a fatal mistake when thinking that Sally was dead, he started to eat parts of her tail.

Immediately a fierce battle ensued. Sally had to keep turning around continuously so that she could keep her antagonist in her range of vision. Mouse teeth snapped like iron jaws as the vicious grey thing tried only to fail again and again to sink his tusks into Sally's throat. Sally's only weapon being her heavy tail, she whipped it into play. The furry creature ducked the blow of the powerful tail once, but the second time it was wielded it struck him, and knocked him clear out of the cage.

With his ire wholly aroused the wire-tailed monster rushed back into the cage. Again the tail hit him, but this time in the face. His jaws closed like a vise around the end of the tail, and the intense pain of the bite caused Sally to roar with anguish. In roaring she closed her one eye, and gave the murderous mouse his chance. He rushed at her throat, and his clean white teeth sank deep into her jugular vein. With a few last struggles Sally opened the eye that had served her for so long, gazed into the free outdoors which had so recently been her home, but to the happiness of which she knew she should never return, and giving a final moan of forgiveness, died.

In cooperation with the State Department of Education, the summer session is adding to its work for the first time courses for teachers of manual arts in schools of the state. It is expected that two such courses will be offered this summer. Mr. W. E. Brunton of the Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania has been secured as instructor.

Officers of the Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers elected for 1931-32 are Ronald E. Young '32, chairman; Gerald O. Frost '32, vice-chairman; Roland J. Tibbets '32, secretary; Thomas Morrison '32, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of the above officers and Harland O. Poland '32, Ralph C. Brooks '32, and Hubert A. Vernon '32.

AND THEN WHAT HAPPENED?

Have you heard the story going the rounds of the campus about Maine's own understudy to the great "one-eye" Connolly? "Mac" McCarthy, so the tale is told, crashed the gate at the annual Mason's Ball held in Orono last week. This he accomplished with ease, neatness and dispatch, and everything was going along fine until the partner he was dancing with asked, "You're a Mason, of course, aren't you?" "What?" said Mac. "I say, you're a Mason, aren't you?" she repeated. At this juncture the light of understanding burst forth upon the face of our fellow schoolmate. "Why, no," he answered, "I'm a pre-med."

Varsity Baseball Team Loses Last Two Games

Storrs, Conn., April 22—The Maine squad met defeat against a weak Connecticut Aggie outfit by a score of 5 to 4.

The winning run was scored in the ninth when Lewis, second baseman, was unable to field a drive by Kolb scoring Levanti.

Score by innings:
Maine 0 3 0 0 0 1 0 0—4
Aggies 0 0 2 0 0 0 1 1—5

Hits, Maine 9, Aggies 7. Errors, Maine 9, Aggies 1. Batteries, Spurling, Perkins and Wells; Roeber, Calamari and Tourville.

Brunswick, Me., April 24th—Bowdoin turned back the invading Pale Blue from the University of Maine by the score of 4 to 1 on Packard Field today. In spite of the icy blasts that swept the field, the Housermen played heads-up ball, scoring two runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth.

Maine made its lone run in the ninth when Frost who doubled, was advanced to third by Smith's single and came home on Dwyer's wild throw to second.

Two Former Maine Students Make New Cigarette Paper

The following excerpt from Time will be interesting to those who remember William and Louis Schweitzer:

"Two brothers, former students of the University of Maine, now engaged in the paper business, promise to revolutionize the cigarette industry in the United States and may challenge France's monopoly as a cigarette paper making nation by manufacturing American made paper on an equal quality. These two brothers are Louis Schweitzer, graduate in the class of 1919 from University of Maine, and William P. Schweitzer, who attended the University two years.

"In Elizabeth, N. J., they have a factory all equipped and ready on an instant's notice to commence the making of high grade cigarette paper, which hitherto has been entirely imported. All United States cigarettes are wrapped in paper imported from France.

"The brothers have the word of Jean de Montgolfier, leading cigarette paper manufacturer of France, that their product is superior in every way to his. At present the Schweitzer factory is idling along, turning out only enough wrappers to satisfy the curiosity of needs of small cigarette manufacturers. But the plant is so geared that at a moment's notice it can be whipped into quantity production, to shatter French monopoly.

"The Schweitzer brothers are the third generation of a paper family. Grandfather Joseph Schweitzer, who lived in Odessa, imported paper from France. His son, Peter Joseph Schweitzer emigrated to the United States, set up an importing business and later acquired a mill in France. Louis and William Schweitzer went to the University of Maine, majored in paper engineering, and later worked in France.

"In a mill at Jersey City they make carbon paper and the thin tissue which radio manufacturers need for insulation. Their factory at Elizabeth was acquired in 1929, equipped for manufacture of cigarette paper. Their method is modern, but essentially the same as that in France. Rags are washed and beaten, transformed into paper to which calcium carbonate is added to aid combustion. Many of the mechanical features in their factory have been invented by Louis Schweitzer."

It is requested that members of the senior class turn in their orders for graduation announcements at the Treasurer's office at once.

SCREEN

"I'm sorry," explained Director George Fitzmaurice to the bland individual applying for a role in "Strangers May Kiss", Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, "but we decided to use a Frenchman instead of an Englishman. We'll have to get someone else."

A beam of joy wreathed the countenance of the applicant.

"Voila!" he exclaimed. "That's beautiful swell—make it French, German, Italian, Dutch, Spanish or Belgian. I speak all those languages and some Chinese and Greek too!"

The linguistic actor, George Davis, disclosed he has played parts in pictures of seven different languages for foreign release, having acquired his knowledge while traveling around the world with circuses.

"You win!" laughed Fitzmaurice. "I haven't any arguments left!"

Davis plays the role of the interrupting hotel waiter in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the Ursula Parrott novel which will come to the Strand Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

SUPPORT THE BASEBALL TEAM

Maine students will have their first opportunity to view their varsity baseball team in action on the home field next Saturday afternoon, when the Colby team comes to Orono. In spite of the fact that the Bricemen have just returned from a rather disastrous early season trip, all hopes for a championship team are by no means lost.

It is true that the Maine squad has already lost one game to Colby. It is also a fact that four more games were lost in rapid succession. But this in itself is no indication that the season is destined for a complete failure. Last year Maine also lost the first two games of the season. It succeeded in taking over Bowdoin during that first trip of the year, but a week later the Brunswick aggregation turned the tables and swamped the Blue on our own field. But following this unpromising beginning Maine came back and defeated every other college in the state, and defeated them often enough to gain the state championship.

Remembering this, Maine students should at least be willing to give the support it deserves. The five games that have already been played showed that the Maine team, win or lose, can at least put up a good game. Anyone who goes to Alumni Field next Saturday can at least depend upon seeing a game worth watching. And with good support there is a better than even chance that the Blue will come through. This support was lacking last year. The games played at Orono were not the ones which gave Maine the pennant. It was the games played at the other colleges. The number of errors made and the games lost on Alumni Field became notorious. When a team loses at home and wins while away, it looks as though the support was not all that it should be.

Next Saturday will show whether the students at Maine can stand behind their team or not. If they do, there is a good chance that Coach Brice's charges will repeat their victory of a year ago. If not, the prospects are not so bright.

We don't know the favorite brand of cigarettes smoked by college men, but the favorite depository for butts is evidently the lawn in front of the Arts and Sciences Building. Convenient, and one of the best known methods of how not to beautify the Maine campus.

Book Review

"Mother of Washington"

By Nancy Byrd Turner

In this day when biography is enjoying great popularity, readers are absorbing whatever comes their way; but a book dealing with one of the heroes of the past or with members of a famous family is sure to be welcome. Now Nancy Byrd Turner has written a biography in which Mary Ball, mother of George Washington, is the central character.

We learn that she was born in Virginia in 1707 and that she passed her childhood in a deeply religious atmosphere. This calm and uneventful life influenced her in later years when her famous son was leading his country in revolt against the mother country and when the colonies were readily seeing events take place of which they had never dreamed.

Mary Ball met Augustine Washington in England, and the story has it that she nursed him back to health after an injury received while riding. Both young people returned from their visit to the mother country, married, and settled at Pope's Creek, Virginia. George was the first of their children.

The book follows the story of George's childhood through the eyes and emotions of Mary Washington. When he first enrolled in the militia to fight against the Indians, his mother objected; but as he advanced to the position of Adjutant General of the Northern Division of the army which fought for England in the French and Indian War, her heart swelled with pride at the military prowess of her son.

The last chapters of the book are devoted to the hopes, fears, and life of Washington's mother during the American Revolution. She died shortly after the First Inauguration.

"Mother of Washington" has more or less conjecture in its pages, but the author has dealt wisely with the facts and has made the most of them. The result, which is a pleasant story in an easy style, is worthwhile and entertaining reading for anyone.

The Best Plays of 1929-1930

Edited by Burns Mantle

Since 1919 Burns Mantle has been writing a summary volume of the best plays and the theater history of each year. His latest volume as usual sums up the season on Broadway, in Chicago, and San Francisco, and includes any events which made the past season outstanding or unique.

With many other dramatic critics, Mantle believes that the past year was a precarious one for the modern theater, but the ten plays which he has chosen are stronger and better than the ordinary run of stuff handed out in so many theaters. Mantle believes that there are lasting qualities in the following ten plays: Green Pastures, The Criminal Code, Berkely Square, Strictly Dishonorable, The Last Mile, The First Mrs. Fraser, June Moon, Michael and Mary, Death Takes a Holiday, and Rebound.

These plays are probably familiar to the majority of Campus readers who are at all interested in dramatics. Mr. Mantle has made his book doubly valuable, because in addition to the plays and the summary of the season, he has also sketched the life of each author. Other elements of interest in the work are a complete list of all plays produced in New York in 1929-1930, with their cast and a brief outline of the plot; tables showing the greatest successes with the number of their performances; information concerning little theaters; a summary of previous volumes of this book; a long list of actors and actresses with a short life sketch, and an index of authors and of recent plays and casts.

By Duke W. L. Vollrath

When the eggs laid by Sally, famous one-eyed Salamander captured a week ago by Oak Hall's eminent fishermen, hatch, the newly arrived children will be most unfortunate in that they will be orphans. Sally's having no eye on the right side of her head got her into trouble last week, serious trouble from which she will never recover.

Sally, being by nature the possessor of that characteristic so common to college students and known as laziness, was basking in the sunlight in her cage on the window-sill when her slumbers were suddenly interrupted by a visitor in her cage. The visitor was none other than a vicious looking mouse, who had emerged from a crack in the floor and in exploring the room had discovered Sally. Sir Mouse made what was nearly a fatal mistake when thinking that Sally was dead, he started to eat parts of her tail.

Immediately a fierce battle ensued. Sally had to keep turning around continuously so that she could keep her antagonist in her range of vision. Mouse teeth snapped like iron jaws as the vicious grey thing tried only to fail again and again to sink his tusks into Sally's throat. Sally's only weapon being her heavy tail, she whipped it into play. The furry creature ducked the blow of the powerful tail once, but the second time it was wielded it struck him, and knocked him clear out of the cage.

With his ire wholly aroused the wire-tailed monster rushed back into the cage. Again the tail hit him, but this time in the face. His jaws closed like a vise around the end of the tail, and the intense pain of the bite caused Sally to roar with anguish. In roaring she closed her one eye, and gave the murderous mouse his chance. He rushed at her throat, and his clean white teeth sank deep into her jugular vein. With a few last struggles Sally opened the eye that had served her for so long, gazed into the free outdoors which had so recently been her home, but to the happiness of which she knew she should never return, and giving a final moan of forgiveness, died.

SUMMER SESSION ADDS NEW COURSES

In cooperation with the State Department of Education, the summer session is adding to its work for the first time courses for teachers of manual arts in schools of the state. It is expected that two such courses will be offered this summer. Mr. W. E. Brunton of the Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania has been secured as instructor.

Officers of the Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers elected for 1931-32 are Ronald E. Young '32, chairman; Gerald O. Frost '32, vice-chairman; Roland J. Tibbetts '32, secretary; Thomas Morrison '32, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of the above officers and Harland O. Poland '32, Ralph C. Brooks '32, and Hubert A. Vernon '32.

AND THEN WHAT HAPPENED?

Have you heard the story going the rounds of the campus about Maine's own understudy to the great "one-eye" Connolly? "Mac" McCarthy, so the tale is told, crashed the gate at the annual Mason's Ball held in Orono last week. This he accomplished with ease, neatness and dispatch, and everything was going along fine until the partner he was dancing with asked, "You're a Mason, of course, aren't you?" "What?" said Mac. "I say, you're a Mason, aren't you?" she repeated. At this juncture the light of understanding burst forth upon the face of our fellow schoolmate. "Why, no," he answered, "I'm a pre-med."

Brunswick, Me., April 24th—Bowdoin turned back the invading Pale Blue from the University of Maine by the score of 4 to 1 on Packard Field today. In spite of the icy blasts that swept the field, the Housemen played heads-up ball, scoring two runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth.

Maine made its lone run in the ninth when Frost who doubled, was advanced to third by Smith's single and came home on Dwyer's wild throw to second. Summary:

Two Former Maine Students Make New Cigarette Paper

The following excerpt from Time will be interesting to those who remember William and Louis Schweitzer:

"Two brothers, former students of the University of Maine, now engaged in the paper business, promise to revolutionize the cigarette industry in the United States and may challenge France's monopoly as a cigarette paper making nation by manufacturing American made paper on an equal quality. These two brothers are Louis Schweitzer, graduate in the class of 1919 from University of Maine, and William P. Schweitzer, who attended the University two years.

"In Elizabeth, N. J., they have a factory all equipped and ready on an instant's notice to commence the making of high grade cigarette paper, which hitherto has been entirely imported. All United States cigarettes are wrapped in paper imported from France.

"The brothers have the word of Jean de Montgolfier, leading cigarette paper manufacturer of France, that their product is superior in every way to his. At present the Schweitzer factory is idling along, turning out only enough wrappers to satisfy the curiosity of needs of small cigarette manufacturers. But the plant is so geared that at a moment's notice it can be whirled into quantity production, to shatter French monopoly.

"The Schweitzer brothers are the third generation of a paper family. Grandfather Joseph Schweitzer, who lived in Odessa, imported paper from France. His son, Peter Joseph Schweitzer emigrated to the United States, set up an importing business and later acquired a mill in France. Louis and William Schweitzer went to the University of Maine, majored in paper engineering, and later worked in France.

"In a mill at Jersey City they make carbon paper and the thin tissue which radio manufacturers need for insulation. Their factory at Elizabeth was acquired in 1929, equipped for manufacture of cigarette paper. Their method is modern, but essentially the same as that in France. Rags are washed and beaten, transformed into paper to which calcium carbonate is added to aid combustion. Many of the mechanical features in their factory have been invented by Louis Schweitzer."

The twelve men who are still undefeated are as follows: Farrar, Sargent, Clem, Bradbury, Armstrong, Colby, Griffin, Mayers, Reichert, Teague, Moors, and Brunn.

Following is a summary of the matches played: Farrar defeated Reid; Sargent defeated Howes; Lovell defeated Lull; Palmer defeated Parlin; Bradbury defeated Garland; Cope defeated Burr; Adams defeated Cushman; Colby defeated Ashworth; Griffin defeated Stone; Parsons defeated Jarrett; Lord defeated Coggins; Reichert defeated Hinkley; Teague defeated Johnson; Moors defeated Field; Brunn defeated Morrison; Sargent defeated Earle; Clem defeated Palmer; Davis defeated Small; Armstrong defeated Cope.

SCREEN

"I'm sorry," explained Director George Fitzmaurice to the bland individual applying for a role in "Strangers May Kiss", Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, "but we decided to use a Frenchman instead of an Englishman. We'll have to get someone else."

A beam of joy wreathed the countenance of the applicant.

"Voila!" he exclaimed. "That's beautiful—make it French, German, Italian, Dutch, Spanish or Belgian. I speak all those languages and some Chinese and Greek too!"

The linguistic actor, George Davis, disclosed he has played parts in pictures of seven different languages for foreign release, having acquired his knowledge while traveling around the world with circuses.

"You win!" laughed Fitzmaurice. "I haven't any arguments left!"

Davis plays the role of the interrupting hotel waiter in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture of the Ursula Parrott novel which will come to the Strand Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

Track Team Faces Dartmouth In Opening Meet This Season

Twenty-six Men To Make Trip To Hanover. Big Green Favored To Defeat the Inexperienced Maine Squad. Raymo White Expected To Star

Twenty-six pale blue cinder experts will entrain with Coach Jenkins Friday morning for Hanover to compete with the Dartmouth aggregation in the first outdoor track meet of the season.

Although Dartmouth is strong both on the track and in the field events, Coach Jenkins has been effectively grooming his charges for the meet, and with a brilliant record behind them, the Maine team should at least take some of the points away from the Indians. With the M.I.T. clash scheduled for next week, and the State Meet only two weeks away, this week's contest should aid materially in giving Maine followers a line on the prospects of the pale blue.

The chief strength of the Bruins lies in the dashes. Captain Raymo White has been consistently turning in a time of ten seconds flat for the century, and is expected to show strength in the 220 as well. Ev Gunning and Bud Brooks, co-captains of cross country, and Harry Booth will offer plenty of opposition in the competition for the longer distances.

In the field division, Maine seems to be over-shadowed by high jumpers who do better than six feet, shot putters capable of 44 feet, and a pole vaulter who pulls himself over at least six inches higher than the best that has yet been done by Maine's star, Freeman Webb.

These facts taken into consideration, plus the fact that Dartmouth has essentially the same team which cleaned up all the dual meets in which it was entered last year, and since Maine has practically all sophomores, the Green is expected to be on the long end of the count.

The men who make the trip will be selected from the following: Captain Raymo White, Steve Mank, Mel Means, Doc Moulton, Ray Wendell, Bob Pendleton, Roy Shaw, Harry Booth, Ernest Percival, Cliff Curtis, Al Alley, Norm Webber, Johnny Gonzals, Al Emerson, Bill Jensen, Al Osier, Ev Gunning, Bud Brooks, Bill Stiles, Phil Yerxa, Lovell Chase, Art Lufkin, Don McKiniry, Bob Timberlake, Garald Duplisea, John Branch, Freeman Webb, Phil Havey.

Sidelights on the Baseball Trip

Smith played lion and the mouse with two pitchers during the trip. At Colby he knocked out four or five hard fouls and then nonchalantly tapped out a home run; at Connecticut he duplicated the feat.

In Portland, Nutting received his quarterly bath when he stuck his head out of a window in answer to McCabe's call.

Ask Captain Bill what happened in the theater in Willimantic.—And after she gave him a stick of gum!

After learning that the Northeastern game had been cancelled, the entire crew retired to the Old Howard,—to see Primo Carnera, of course.

Clark Abbott went shopping for shirts at the Custom House Tower.

Neil Calderwood appropriated some hotel property with the aid of Sam Szak. Pushed from the straight and narrow by only a simple spittoon! Who won the contest Sunday night, Neil?

Everything is on Alumni Field; all times daylight saving.

TED CURTIS has been busy having Alumni Field put into shape for the interstate meet, May 16. Weather permitting, with the field and track in such good shape, conditions are ideal for some new records.

Freshman Ball Team Wins Over Kents Hill

Contest Is Loosely Played, with Yearlings Gaining Decision by Last Inning Homer

The freshman baseball team won its opening game of the season last Saturday afternoon against Kents Hill by the score of 10-8. The contest was loosely played on both sides, with Kenyon's charges winning out in the last inning.

Kents Hill started the game by scoring a run off Searles. Maine came right back with two runs as a result of Winchenbaugh's single with two on base. Searles was replaced by Heald in the 3rd when Kents Hill found him for a couple of runs. The visitors gained another run in the 4th but Maine pushed a tally across the plate due to Karalekas' Texas Leaguer with a man on second.

The frosh gained the lead again in the 6th as a result of loose handling of the ball by the visitors, and added another run to its total in the 8th inning. Meanwhile the Hill-toppers had scored two runs in the 7th and the start of the 9th found the teams tied 6-6.

The last frame saw the prep school aggregation scoring two men off Gray who was now pitching for the frosh. Karalekas, however, started Maine's rally with a single to left field. Pearson followed with a base on balls and Wilbur filled the bases as a result of a beautifully placed bunt. Blanchard, the next batter, with three men on, smashed a terrific drive thru the pitchers box which trickled thru the center fielder's hands. Four men crossed the home plate for Maine and the game was won 10-8.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	T
Kents Hill	1	0	2	1	0	0	2	0	2	8
Maine	2	0	0	1	2	0	1	4	10

Officers of the Athletic Association will be nominated Friday noon at one o'clock in the M. C. A. Building. Each fraternity and sorority should send one representative to this meeting. Baseball Team To Meet Colby In First Home Game Saturday

Maine Hopes To Break Losing Streak. Still Looms as Strong Contender for State Title. Hallgren May Be Out Through Injury

All bad things must come to an end, and the losing streak of the Pale Blue is bound to be checked sooner or later, maybe next Saturday against Colby.

With a combination of effective pitching, fine defensive work and smashing attacks, Coach Brice's squad is enough to cause any team in the State League an afternoon of trouble.

Maine plays its first home game against Colby on Saturday, May 2, at two o'clock. Although the Brice men met defeat twice in the state series, yet they still loom as strong contenders for the State Championship.

Two of the hurlers, Solander and Perkins, the latter a southpaw, who did their share toward capturing the title for the University of Maine a year ago, are the pair Brice is pinning most of his hopes upon, but in addition he has "Nutzo" Nutting, Romansky, star of last year's frosh, Spurling and Churchill, all of whom have impressed the Maine coach as being capable.

The veterans of last year's championship team are Captain Bill Wells, catcher, "Scoop-em-up" Smith, first base, Pat McCabe, third base, and "Blondy" Hincks, center field.

Among the new men, Lewis, up from the freshman team, seems in line for second base, while Swen Hallgren will cover the short field provided a recently acquired ankle injury doesn't interfere. Should that happen, Springer will get the place. Left field is being fought for by Hall, Kiszonak and Frost just at present, while Abbott is patrolling right field because of his hitting prowess.

Group leaders for girls' baseball are urged to pick the members of their teams as soon as possible. These members must be able to play in the evening, for the games this spring will be played after dinner, due to the fact that Daylight Saving extends an extra hour of daylight.

DON'T TAKE our word for it, switch to Camels for just one day then quit them if you can. The moment you open the package you'll note the difference between fresh humidior packed Camels and dry-as-dust cigarettes. Camels are supple and firm to the touch. Stale, dried-out cigarettes crumble and crackle when pressed. But the real convincer is to smoke Camels. Every puff is a sheer delight of cool, mellow mildness; the Camel blend of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos, kept in prime condition by moisture-proof Cellophane sealed air-tight.
