SCHOOL REPORT AND TOWN WARRANT

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the School Board of the Town of Jonesport.

GENTLEMEN:—I have the pleasure to present my second annual report of the Jonesport schools to you and to the people for careful consideration. It is a pleasure for me to say that with the aid of parents, pupils, school board, and teachers I have been able to note improvements in attendance, in home study, and in knowledge of work taken. Therefore, I call upon every person, and especially the parents, to keep up a strong interest in our public schools, help make improvements, and aid your school officials in establishing so wise, so thorough, so practical a system that it will become known throughout the State.

Several minor changes have been made since last year's report, but no revolutionary measures have been undertaken, nor will be undertaken under my administration. It has been and ever will be my purpose to insist on regular attendance, consistent study, good deportment, practical work, balanced grading, and the best teachers obtainable for the money we can afford to pay.

When I commenced my duties as your superintendent I found several sub grades in our primary schools. These sub grades were in most cases doing practically the same work as the grade ahead. By having these extra classes, much less time could be given to each class than would be the case with fewer classes. Therefore I have worked out this problem with the aid of some very helpful teachers. That is, we have joined the sub grades in the regular grades. In the West Jonesport Primary school this scheme was fully worked out last year. At the Cove Primary school we finally completed the change this past winter term. In other words many children by extra attention on the part of the teachers have been able to gain in some cases a whole year, others from one to two terms.

Last year pupils who were poorly prepared were not allowed to grade, and this year will see no change, except, that there will not be as many held back, since there is not such a marked difference among the pupils in the same grades as last year, and also because most of the pupils seem to be making a more marked effort to keep with their class.

This spring, the Eighth Grade pupils who have done good work, attended regularly, and have good health will be permitted to take the examinations for High school with the Ninth Grade. I hope this change will be a strong inducement for pupils in the lower grades to do good work, to try to understand fundamentals thoroughly, so as to save a year in the grammar school. There is no reason why a majority of our pupils should not prepare for high school in eight years. All that is necessary is health, diligence, and the aim to get ahead.

There has been a marked increase in the average attendance this year due mainly to increased vigilance of your truant officers, but our attendance is not perfect as yet, so parents need to see to it that pupils are in school when possible, and that pupils be in school on time. There are still too many cases of tardiness. Please bear in mind that when pupils are out of school when ill, or tardy for other reasons, that parents should send a written excuse stating the reasons. Such excuses are required not by request of teacher but by authority of the School Board and Superintendent who are given such authority by the State. Last year the total registration in our schools was 573 and the average attendance was 490.24. This year the total attendance was 565. and the average attendance was 511.4. Last year we had 35 different teachers in our common schools. This year we have had only 26 teachers. Please note these changes for better schools.

There needs to be some minor repairs on the grade buildings in town as painting, repairing roofs, and the laying of better floors in two buildings. Better furniture should be provided in several cases.

The town is well provided with text books which are in very good condition. There will be no need of expending as much money for books the coming year as in the two past years.

The town did not receive as much money from the State this year as last year for several reasons. First, the town's valuation did not increase in the same proportion as in the State as a whole. Second, the number of pupils was less this year than last year, while there was a large increase in the number of pupils in the State. Third, the town during the past three years has not raised as much money according to the population and valuation as the average town in the State, therefore the State Superintendent withheld the Equalization Fund and will continue to withhold it until Jonesport raises for common schools a sum equal to or above what the average town in the State is raising.

In looking up the past history of the common school fund as raised by the town, I found that Jonesport raised $2600. in 1907, $2100. in 1908, $1600. in 1909, $600. in 1910, $1659.20 in 1911, $600. in 1912, and $900. in 1913. An average of $1437.03 for the seven years. But the average for the two past years has been only $750.

Providing the State pays the same amount next year to the town for the Common School and Mill Funds as this year, the town must raise at least $1700. for common schools in order to have 30 weeks. It will be impossible to cut down our common school expenses very much, because we have decreased teacher's wages a little this year, and because of the much higher cost of living we cannot make another decrease, without, a much weaker teaching force will result. I believe a small saving can be made in buying fuel, as coal can be bought cheaper in the spring than in the fall, and wood can be bought in larger quantities at competitive prices for less money than by the single cord. Another saving can be made by having the schools open earlier in the fall before the approach of cold weather.

We have quite a serious problem to solve at the High school. The building is not well lighted, heated, ventilated, or large enough for present demands. Each year from now on will present greater demands. We have a strong Commercial Course started with a dozen pupils, and more coming in each year. There is no room in the building for them. Something ought to be done. The State Department has asked me to take the matter up with the people this year. I suggest that something be done to alleviate the condition of the school and at the same time not overburden the tax payers. If the lighting, heating, and ventilation of main room be improved and an annex built for a commercial room, no doubt the school would be cared for, for years to come.

I wish to say that the school is in very good standing. That it prepares students, properly, for college, as we now have pupils in various colleges, who are only graduates of our high school, and that there are at least six of the Class of 1913 who passed college examinations successfully.

There is a strong spirit of loyalty for the school, and a unity in the school which will aid in maintaining a high standard.

There has been a change in the faculty during the year, and I felt a bit discouraged when I learned we were to lose from the force two experienced teachers, but I am encouraged to know that we have secured two conscientious workers to fill the vacancies. The school is well taught and handled by the present corps of teachers.

In conclusion, I wish to call your attention to the report of Prin. Harold C. Alley, and also to the Appendix where all statistics and financial statements are made clear in brief form.

I feel justified in saying that our school system and our corps of teachers will compare favorably with any in the State.

Parents: If you inculcate a desire for education in your children, and encourage them to follow the courses to the completion of our high school course, you will have done more for their glory and contributed more toward giving to them a successful life than you could by hoarding the money of generations as a windfall.

Many courtesies and kindnesses have attended me in my work during the past year through the thoughtfulness of citizens, parents, pupils, teachers and School Board. To you all I feel deeply indebted. I wish you all success in the broadest sense.

D. HERMAN CORSON,
Supt. of Schools.

Report of Principal of High School.

To the Superintendent and School Committee of Jonesport:—

I have the pleasure of submitting to you and to the citizens of Jonesport my first annual report. In it I will endeavor to make clear to all those interested the present condition of the high school and to make several suggestions for improvements which are needed.

Let me first give the statistics of attendance in the different courses.

Total members registered	49.
Average attendance	46.3.
Number of cases of tardiness	24.

Of the total registration, 23 are boys and 26 are girls. There are 25 pupils taking the college preparatory course, 14 taking the scientific course and 14 taking work in the commercial department. In addition to the 49 students registered for the fall term, 6 new pupils entered at the beginning of the winter term, 4 of whom are taking commercial work.

The total number of pupils in the high school is about 6 less than last year, owing to the more rigid entrance conditions, which have made the freshman class unusually small. This loss in numbers, which at first thought, might seem to indicate some lack in the school, is far outweighed by the superior preparation already exhibited by those admitted. Such increased effectiveness of preparation for high school work must react favorably upon the standard of work accomplished, for it is obviously true that any teacher can show much more worthy results if he or she be given well seasoned timber with which to build. Consequently, although it may mean hardship for a few, the great advantage to the school as a whole would seem to merit the permanent adoption of the present entrance requirements.

The figures for average attendance deserve careful consideration. The average has been lowered by the enforced absence of some members of the school, but in a few instances, the attendance of the remainder leaves something to be desired. It is conservative to say that any pupil who is absent loses nearly half the value of the lesson. Discussion by the class, explanation by the teacher and the constant repetition of the important points is invaluable in making a deeper and more lasting impression on the mind of the pupil. If he is not there, this result is, of course, not attained, and can only be imperfectly secured when the work is made up. In addition, valuable time and nervous strength of the teacher is wasted in hearing the recitation of make-up work. The above applies with nearly equal force to cases of chronic tardiness. When pupils come in late, classes are disturbed in their recitations and undesirable confusion is created. In addition, a habit is being formed in the plastic character of the student which in later life may be a source of injury to his chances of success. For these reasons, will not all parents co-operate with the superintendent and myself in reducing these evils to a minimum?

The number of pupils enrolled in the commercial course shows that its practical value is being recognized by the parents. In addition to regular members of the school, 4 post graduates have returned to secure a business training. This course, now in its second successful year, is rapidly outgrowing the quarters assigned to it, and some provision must be made for next year's classes. At present the laboratory is being used for several of the recitations and for a typewriting room, but such an arrangement cannot be made permanent. More room will be needed next year and must in some way be provided.

In the other two courses, there has been no important change this year. Next year it will be possible, by concentration of work, to leave free one and possibly two periods now given to algebra and history. This time will be devoted to advanced students in the commercial course. In the other two courses, the work done is sufficient to enable the average student to be admitted to any of the higher institutions of learning, and it is my hope and expectation that this high grade work be maintained.

When speaking of quality of work, the question of how much time should be given to home study comes in. In grammar school, nearly all work is done in the school building and ordinarily but little home work is required. In the high school such an arrangement is impossible and I wish to state positively that no pupil can do credible high school work without at least two hours spent in hard study at home. It seems reasonable enough to suppose that parents, who think a high school course worth four years of time, which is undoubtedly true, should desire that this time be not wasted. Then they must see to it, those who have children in high school that every student have a suitable time and place for home study and that he use it regularly and persistently. In this way only, by friendly cooperation between the parent and the teachers, can best results be attained.

Other school activities outside the class room deserve brief mention. All the education gained during the four years in high school does not come from text-books; in addition to knowledge, a course in a modern school ought to give the student a taste of real life, both social and practical. It should make all more at ease in public and give the more capable a chance to bear responsibilities such as come with undertakings which the school supports. In this respect, I consider Jonesport High School especially fortunate.

School socials, instituted by my predecessor, have been continued with gratifying success. So far four have been given. Nearly every student has attended and reported a jolly time. I have been assured that the greater ease of manner and increased willingness to assist in making them a success by furnishing music has been very noticeable. With the proceeds, magazines and reference books have been secured for the school. Work has begun on the school paper and with the cooperation of both students and townspeople, we hope to maintain the standard set for us last year. Personally, I believe the training in business management and in bearing responsibility is well worth the work and time required of the editors.

Another need of the school is work in debating. Owing to lack of library facilities, we lose all the experience in public speaking and training in logical reasoning which such work gives. When this need is provided for, I hope to see debating taken up as thoroughly as it is in many other schools. The school has also maintained a basketball team this winter. Five games have been played to date, other games are scheduled and the season is sure of being a financial success. In addition to this, the clean playing and gentlemanly conduct of the boys when away from home reflects credit on the high school. The annual drama given by the senior class was made very successful by hard work on the part of those participating and by the efficient coaching they received. The proceeds are to be used in defraying graduation expenses.

There is one reform which I very much wish to see carried out. It is the simplification of the graduation exercises. If parents will see to it that the graduates are clothed as reasonably and rationally as possible, the teachers will try to do their part by making the exercises represent the real work of the school and will not attempt to make orators out of healthy, red-blooded boys and girls who really possess a great deal of practical knowledge and deserve a chance to prove it.

It is conventional to express appreciation for the able work of the assistant teachers and the help received from the superintendent. I wish I had the power to make it sound so real that everyone would feel that it came from the heart, for in my case it certainly does. Miss Gladys Bailey, who is a graduate of Smith College, has filled the position left vacant by Miss Elsie Keene and by faithful and painstaking work has fully maintained the high standard of this department. Miss Gladys Beaugeard, working under difficulties, has laid the foundation for as thorough a commercial course as can be found in any school of the same size in Maine. In addition, from her experience of last year she has been able to assist me greatly in dealing with the many problems that confront a newcomer. For this assistance I cannot express my gratitude too strongly. Superintendent D. H. Corson has made my work effective through the support he has accorded me and the wide practical experience which has been at my disposal. It is not too much to say that the present satisfactory standing of Jonesport High School is due almost entirely to the able assistance which I have received from the above mentioned educators. In closing I wish to thank most sincerely all those who by acts of kindness and courtesy have helped make my first year in Jonesport one to be long remembered.

Respectfully submitted,

HAROLD C. ALLEY, A. B.,
PRINCIPAL.
