DR. JAS. M. BARTLETT PASSES AWAY SAT. AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Death Was Sudden;
Was Stricken at Office Fri.

WAS TO RETIRE IN JUNE

Had Served University for Fifty Years as Expt.
Station Chemist

Last Saturday morning, five days after a banquet given by the administration in recognition of his fifty years service at this University, Dr. Bartlett, head of the chemistry department of the Agricultural Experiment Station, died suddenly. Going to his office as usual Friday morning, he suddenly became ill, and later in the day he was removed to a hospital. There he became steadily worse.

Dr. Bartlett was the first man to complete a half century of service at the University of Maine, and the new pension plan which has been adopted, necessarily makes him the last. Eighty of his friends attended the banquet given last week in his honor and they presented him on that occasion with an engraved gold watch. Born on September 25, 1854, in Litchfield, Dr. Bartlett attended the grade schools and academy in that town. In 1876 he entered the Maine State College, graduating with a B.S. in chemistry in 1880. In the winters of 1881 and 1882 he earned much of the expense of his education by teaching. Then as a salesman for nursery stock, he earned sufficient money to permit him to do graduate work at Cornell University. In 1883 he received his Master's degree in chemistry from Maine and then he became assistant chemist at Penn State College. Staying there for two years, he returned to Maine on May 1, 1885, as assistant chemist on the staff of the Maine Fertilizer Control and Agricultural Experiment Station. Ever since, he has served on this staff in more important capacities. Twice he has held the position of Director of the Experiment Station during the incapacity of its former head, Dr. Morse. And for many years, as head of the chemistry department of the Station, he has had charge of all the chemical work connected with it, being particularly occupied with the inspections of fertilizers, farm feeds, seeds, foods and drugs, insecticides, and fungicides. Conducting his experiments with reference to the State regulatory laws on these products, he has helped effect notable improvement in the quality of the products sold, thus performing valuable services to agriculture as well as the people of this State.

In 1927, Prof. Bartlett was awarded the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Science by this University "as a loyal son of the State of Maine, contributor to the scientific advancement of Agriculture and contributor to important methods of analysis of the Official Agricultural Chemists Association."

Dr. Bartlett is survived by his wife, whom he married in 1889, two daughters, and three sons, and several grandchildren. His children are Dr. Emily M. Bartlett, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Willard Barber, of Wethersfield, Conn.; Mrs. Ivan G. Ames, of East Millinocket; Burton E. Bartlett, of Bangor; and Edmund H. Bartlett, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Throughout his fifty years of working at this University, Dr. Bartlett has worked quietly in his corner of the laboratory, surrounded with test tubes, reagents, burners, scales, and such other equipment as he had occasion to use. He has made few speeches but rather, while others have expounded, has worked honestly and painstakingly in his quiet manner for the benefit of State and University.

PRaises HAUCK FOR "MAINE DAY" IDEA

Although Maine Day has proved itself to be a worthy feature of Maine's college life, and columns have been written in praise of its accomplishments, few have been in direct contact with outside reaction to the experiment. The following is an excerpt from a letter sent to a student by his father.

"The accomplishment, that is the hearty realization of your transforming silly stunt day (or worse) into one of rich fun with a touch, perhaps, of wholesome culture and inspiration, is a real achievement for President Hauck for which he deserves exceptional commendation."

The Chi O sorority went to the ledges last Monday night on a picnic given to the seniors by the underclass members of the sorority.

BALDWIN CONDUCTS RETREAT SERVICES

Talks on "Reweaving
Of a New World
Pattern" Sun.

To consider conditions for "the reweaving of a new world pattern" was the theme of the Maine Intercollegiate Missionary Union at its retreat last weekend at Camp Jordan. Thirty-five students from Colby, Bates, the Bangor Theological Seminary, and the University of Maine were gathered there. Under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Dewitt C. Baldwin, former missionaries to Burma, the group discussed the imperatives of missions and circumstances governing missionary procedures.

The Saturday evening discussion, held in the lodge by the side of the open fire, was conducted by Mrs. Baldwin. She said in part that at this period of our life, that we are thinking about life interests, and we are for the first time reaching out above the ego levels of life. Christian mission is at the heart of this outreach for life itself. It promises to affect the total human life of the world more than any other single cause. Although Christians differ widely in their interpretations of God, there is one assumption they hold in common—the value of human life, the value of personality.

Chester Smith, conducting the Sunday morning service, spoke of the influence of nature on man's perspective. At the afternoon business meeting the Student Volunteer Conventions and arrangements for sending delegates to the coming quadrennial convention were discussed. Reports of the different groups on their own campus work were given.

Mr. Baldwin conducted the final session in the council ring on the hillside. Talking on the subject of "Reweavers All," he spoke about the individual responsibility of every thoughtful person to do his part in the reweaving; not alone concerned with any single local problem, but in attacking those intelligently in the light of relations to and implications in the whole world concept of the particular phase with which he is dealing. A fitting close to the day was the impressive communion service in charge of Rev. Cecil Fielder.

DEBATERS IN RHODY TOURNAMENT TODAY

David Brown, Sargent Russell, and Spurgeon Benjamin, all three veteran Maine debaters, left for Rhode Island yesterday morning to participate in the New England Intercollegiate Speaking Tournament sponsored by Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary forensic fraternity, and being held on the campus of the Rhode Island State College.

They were greeted last evening at a banquet which was provided for all the delegates of the various participating universities. Following this banquet, President Bressler of Rhode Island State College announced the subject for an extemporaneous speaking contest in which each school was allowed to enter one delegate. David Brown was designated by Coach D. W. Morris to represent Maine. It is not yet known who won this contest.

This morning the debate tournament was held. The debates were of the legislative, heckling type, a type of debate which provides for one-man teams and allows the debaters to interrupt one another in the course of their respective speeches. The delegates were prepared to argue either side of the question of debate, which was, "Resolved: That the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions." The winners of this tournament were not known to the Campus at the time of this writing, but this afternoon they are to stage an exhibition debate before the other participants, the coaches, and the general public.

A meeting at which the debaters and their coaches will discuss future policies and plans will be held Saturday morning, and following it Maine's representatives will return to the campus.

Hon. Lt. Colonel Reviews R.O.T.C. At Sat. Parade

Phyllis Hamilton Receives
Salute of Unit; Final Inspection Sat.

PHYLLIS B. HAMILTON, attired in uniform in accordance with her rank, reviews R.O.T.C.

Despite the cold breezes which swept over the new baseball field last Saturday morning, more than three hundred turned out to witness Miss Phyllis B. Hamilton, honorary lieutenant colonel of the local R.O.T.C. unit, review the troops. Miss Hamilton, attired in a regulation uniform of olive drab and barrack's cap, received the salute of the battalion which then passed in review before her.

The regular yearly inspection of the R.O.T.C. will take place next Tuesday and Wednesday when Major Carlock, at present stationed in Bangor on Organized Reserve duty, will inspect and review the battalion.

Students registered in Mt. 8 will be excused from classes Tuesday at 1:30 and students registered in Mt. 6 at 2:25 the same day. Those taking Mt. 2, 4, 6, 8, or 12 will be excused from their classes Wednesday morning at 11:00 to participate in the inspection.

SENIOR FORESTERS TAKE INSPECTION TOUR WED.

The senior foresters, 19 in number, left last Wednesday noon on an inspection trip with Professors Ashman and Goodspeed. They visited the Western Maine Nursery in Fryeburg Wednesday. On Thursday they were guests of the CCC Camp on the Gale River Experimental Forest in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. The Yale Forest in Keene, N. H. and the Harvard Experimental Forest at Petersham, Mass. were visited by the foresters on the following day.

Campus Reporter Sees Same Faces At Bookstore; Does Dreaming There

There are four places at the University of Maine, each unique unto itself alone... the farm road... the river bank... Pat's... the Book Store... and the most typical of these is the Book Store. It is the one place where college life seems really collegiate—except perhaps at the more important football games. That is, collegiate according to the ideas we absorbed from various sources when we were very young—in high school and the movies. College is very nearly like these youthful visions—in the Book Store. It may be due to a confusion in the average mind of Coca Cola with higher education, of ice-cream sodas with the more dashing aspects of life. However it is, the fact remains that it is possible for the laziest of people to sit in a corner of more or less seclusion, watch the gang go by, and feel in the thickest of things—a satisfying and inexpensive pleasure.

There are in general the same people every day—the confirmed general-store addicts, the easy-goers—and also the fa-

Pays Tribute To Work and Memory Of Dr. Bartlett

Co-worker Lauds Personality
Of 50-year Experiment
Station Worker

By Edith M. Patch

Holmes Hall, headquarters of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, was closed the afternoon of May thirteenth. Flowers and a gray ribbon hung as a symbol upon the locked door. James Monroe Bartlett may no longer be seen in the laboratory over which he presided for a full half century.

Yet a sense of his presence remains in that room. It lingers as an echo of quiet counsel spoken to those who came to him seeking advice in matters of importance. It stays, as a savor of gentle mirth, in the recollection of those with whom he shared his whimsical perspectives. His associates find comfort in their experience that they need not lose such impressions of companionship.

There is, indeed, solace in the knowledge that the attributes of those we honor are not taken from us but are bestowed like gifts we may retain in grateful memory. Generous is the endowment we have thus received from Doctor Bartlett. If we hold the fullness of our appreciation of his kindness and wisdom in silent thought, it is because we know that our friend would prefer such unspoken tribute.

It may not be out of place to remark that the members of the Station Staff are glad that expressions of affectionate esteem were not delayed until the hour of obituary words. Last September we met to celebrate the eightieth birthday anniversary of our colleague. April 29 some fourscore of his friends gathered about banquet tables to rejoice that he had been a member of the Staff for fifty years. In a room made beautiful by flowers, with gracious music, with friendly reminiscence, and with gifts (a golden watch and fifty roses) homage was rendered to him and to his wife. The sentiment of that evening is good to recall as a part of our happy association with James Monroe Bartlett—true in personal friendships and true in the tasks of his long and notable service in the field of science.

(This is the heart-felt tribute of one who has been his co-worker for over a quarter of a century. May I add the humble tribute of the students who have known his wise judgment, felt his kindly friendship.—Ed.)

PRIESTLY MORRISON ADDRESSES FORUM

Famous N. Y. Director
Discusses Actors
At Colvin Wed.

Priestly Morrison, prominent New York stage director, was the guest of the Women's Forum on Wednesday, May 15. In the afternoon the Forum gave a tea for Mr. Morrison in Colvin Hall. Members of the faculty and the Forum were invited to meet him. Mrs. Muilenburg poured.

In the evening Mr. Morrison met with the Forum to discuss informally some of his experiences in the theater. He started by telling his views of the modern schools for acting as compared with the training of old actors. He explained what it takes to make an actor, and said that he placed technique above ability and personality. Then he told about various actors with whom he had worked. He found Ann Harding charming, alert and level headed; Sylvia Sydney, lovely, and not at all temperamental. He said temperament as it is understood today is much exaggerated where actors are concerned. He considers Walter Houston a truly excellent actor, and Fay Bainter is one of his favorites. Miriam Hopkins is quite southern and charming, according to Mr. Morrison. He found Gary Cooper a bit slow, but very handsome and a good actor. He said he was not as lucky with Lionel Barrymore. Many more such famous people he discussed at length and told interesting anecdotes of his experiences with them. As for critics of the theatre, Mr. Morrison said that George Jean Nathan, Robert Benchley, and others who write for weekly or monthly publications, are far more reliable than the daily columnists.

Mr. Morrison began his career in the theatre as an actor in 1894. He acted for eight years, and then directing became his chief vocation. Until about 1917 he directed mostly in stock, and since then he has made only New York productions with occasional short seasons of stock in summer. He spent two seasons, 1908-10, in Australia and New Zealand as general stage director for the J. C. Williamson interests.

FELLOWSHIPS GIVEN TO THREE MAINE MEN

Donald M. Stewart, Silas M. Bates, and Basil Staples have been announced as the recipients of the three major fellowships given to undergraduates every year. The Arts and Sciences fellowship was awarded to Stewart; the Technology fellowship to Silas Bates; and the Agriculture fellowship to Basil Staples.

Stewart is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honor fraternity, and dean's list student in the Department of English. He has served as editor of the Maine Review, campus literary publication, this year, after associating himself earlier with the Freshman, the Campus, and the Prism. He is a member of the Maine Christian Association Cabinet, the Post Prandial Club, the Contributors' Club, and Kappa Gamma Phi, journalistic fraternity. He belongs to Sigma Nu social fraternity.

Bates, since his entrance an honor student in mechanical engineering, is actively associated with Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity.

Staples, a member of Alpha Zeta, agriculture honor fraternity, is an outstanding student in the field of biological chemistry in Agriculture. He has taken a part in the work of the 4-H Club and the Agricultural Club since his freshman year. He belongs to Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity.

At the annual elections of Delta Tau Delta fraternity the following officers were elected: president, James Haggatt; vice-president, Arnold Tripp; treasurer, Firth Dennett; and secretary, Richard Spear.

Balanced Team Cops Title at Lewiston Track Classic COLLECTS 52 POINTS

Murray Leads Maine
Scoring with Two
First Places

Although they broke no records, Coach Chester Jenkins' cindermen proved to be the better balanced team when Maine's four colleges met at Garcelon Field last Saturday for the 38th renewal of the Maine Intercollegiate Track Meet. Scoring in all but three of the 15 events, taking five first places, and sweeping the 100 yard dash, Maine rolled up a score of 52 points to out-point her nearest rival, Bowdoin, by the comfortable margin of 13½ points. Bates finished third with 34 points while Colby trailed far behind with 10½ points.

John Murray, sophomore sensation, was the Pale Blue standout of the day, leading the pack to the tape in both century and 220 yard dashes.

The Black twins, Ken and Ernie, did their part for Maine in their specialties. After letting his rivals take the lead in the first part of both 440 and 880 yard runs, Ken came through with his usual strong last minute sprint to give the leaders of the 440, Grey and Marvin of Bowdoin, a taste of his dust as he broke the tape. He again repeated the stunt in the 880, coming from behind to outrun Danielson of Bates to place second behind Joe Marsh who had led the pack all the way without extending himself.

Cliff Veysey, the Colby Comet, took the one-mile run, with Ernie Black his only threat. Ernie circled the course on Veysey's heels until the gun lap when the superior leg power of Veysey gradually widened the gap. But by that time the field was well strung out and Ernie and Harry Saunders had no difficulty in placing second and third.

Clay Totman was the only other Maine man to take a first place. Although his javelin throw of 180 feet 8½ inches was at least seven feet short of his throw of the Holy Cross meet, it was plenty good to take first, while Al Bell outthrew Tony Kishon, Bates strong man.

"Gramp" Goddard made three outstanding performances, taking second in both low and high hurdles behind Phil Good, Bowdoin flash, who broke both records by ½ of a second, and placing second in the Maine cleanup in the 100 yard dash.

The Pale Blue made a surprise in the 100 yard dash, Murray, Goddard, and Huff, running Bowdoin, Colby, and Bates contestants into the ground to place one-two-three. Vin Hathorne and George Frame were the only other Maine contestants to garner points for the Blue. George was overshadowed by the performances of Kishon and Johnson of Bates but beat out other rivals in the hammer throw to place third. Vin Hathorne tied with Rideout of Bowdoin for second place honors in the pole vault with Meagher of Bates clinching first with a jump of 11 feet 6 inches.

The summary:

One mile run—Won by Veysey, Colby; second, E. T. Black, Maine; third, Saunders, Maine. Time, 4 min. 26 sec.
440 yard run—Won by K. Black, Maine; second, Grey, Bowdoin; third, Marvin, Bowdoin. Time, 50½ sec.
120 yard high hurdles—Won by Good, Bowdoin; second, Goddard, Maine; third, Purinton, Bates. Time, 15 sec. (New meet record.)
100 yard dash—Won by Murray, Maine; second, Goddard, Maine; third, Huff, Maine. Time, 10½ sec.

PHYSICISTS ATTEND MEETING AT COLBY

The entire Physics Department of the University of Maine went to Colby last Saturday for a joint meeting with a similar group from Bates, Bowdoin and Colby.

In the first part of the meeting there were several short papers given which dealt either with teaching or research problems. The last part of the session was devoted to a paper on bio-physics by Dr. W. T. Bovie, who is at present associated with Colby College.

Dr. Bovie, who is perhaps best known by his invention of the Bovie Electric Needle used in bloodless surgery, followed his paper by a demonstration of the "electric knife" by moving picture films showing its use in four different surgical operations.

Despicable

It has been called to the attention of the Campus many times in the past that the books in the University library have been misused. The latest report is that some thoughtless, selfish and inconsiderate person has torn several pages out of one of the Encyclopedia Britannica volumes.

Books are valuable articles, and doubly so in libraries where they are at the call of many. Few people like to have their books maltreated, particularly when they have been loaned. The deliberate misuse, not to mention the tearing out of pages, of a book is despicable. It is a peculiar type of person who practices such things, particularly in the anonymity which accompanies the use of reference books in the Maine library. Such people are hardly desirable as students.

The librarian here allows students privileges far exceeding those accorded the student bodies of many schools, and were they to curtail these privileges they would be justified.

There has been too much stealing and misuse of books and the Campus will look with favor upon any plan which may be proposed to halt such practices. Under the present system it is up to the students themselves to see that the library volumes are treated as they should be treated.

Stein Song

Mr. Lincoln Colcord must have had somewhat of a surprise when he came to speak before the student body at the Junior Week Assembly. The author of the Stein Song's words must have been more than surprised, for those assembled insisted upon changing the words in one phrase to the version made popular by Rudy Vallee. The correct wording at the point in question is "Fill as the rafters ring." That is as it is written, and as such should be sung. Only then will we be singing our "Alma Mater."

Norway High School won the sweepstakes cup for the highest total number of points in the skills and judging contest, held last Friday and Saturday on the University of Maine campus, in which 100 agricultural students from 25 high schools competed. East Corinth Academy was second and Presque Isle, third.

The winning teams were: In poultry judging—Sherwood Emery and Gus McNally from Sherman High; in potato judging—Alfred Poulin and Fred Loring from North Yarmouth Academy; in dairy cattle judging—Fred Crouse and Floyd Bull from Washburn High; in rope-sploding—John Roberts, Norway, and in rafter-splitting—Ltdon Duran, East Corinth.

A new contest this year was the horse-judging with prizes offered by the American Horse and Mule Breeders Association. First prize of $20 was won by Byington Skolfield of East Corinth. John Houghton, Fort Fairfield; Walter Farwell, Greely Institute; Donnell Martin, Fort Fairfield; and Robert Philbrook, Leavitt Institute, were tied for second place and received $7.50 each.

The Theatre Group presents a series of four one-act plays in the Little Theatre, Tuesday, May 21, at 7:15 p.m. Admission 15¢ or two people for 25¢. Everyone is invited.

The plays are: "Two Crooks and a Lady"; "The Third Man"; "The Feast of the Holy Innocence"; and "Postscript."

To the Editor of the Campus:

For several weeks a gentleman with a distinguished appearance has been hitting rocks in the vicinity of our home (Bar Harbor), and last Tuesday when him and them stood with him went away, we find behind him one of those shiny hammers. Well, he bust our concrete garden wall like it were some new rock, I presume likely. Ennyhow, we don't want that that hammer cluttering up the front walk.

Do you know his whereabouts and could ya tell him to fetch it? I think he is a professor at your institution, leastwise, he acts like one. Y'know, he onct told me he liked red-headed gals—only kind he favors—I got red hair, so be sure to let him hear that we think the hammer's purty 'spensive and Ma and me we took it down to the bank and they got it locked up in their safe.

Respectively yours,
Hortense Hoffenlauger

NOTICES

The fourth scientific gift book for children in the series being written by Dr. Edith M. Patch of the Experiment Station of the University of Maine was issued by the Macmillan Company last month. The new book is called "Holiday Shore," and is the result of a collaboration between Dr. Patch and Dr. Carroll Lane Fenton, paleontologist and zoologist. This new book complements the previous numbers in the series, "Holiday Hill," "Holiday Meadow," and "Holiday Pond," all of which were written by Miss Patch alone.

"Holiday Shore" treats of life along the sea coast in an extremely interesting manner that appeals both to adults and children. Dr. Patch has the rare gift of being a great scientist who can write of the subject in such a manner that a child can not only understand but appreciate the wonders of science.

This book while the fourth in the gift book series which Miss Patch has written is the eleventh volume written by her for children. The interesting part of the authorship of these books is that Miss Patch's primary work is a scientist and her more than one hundred purely scientific works attest the fact that she has not slighted her profession in order to write excellent books for children.

In The Library

By Thomas Lynch

The recent death of America's foremost poet and the publishing of new books by two other Maine authors makes this a literary season of considerable moment in Maine.

Edwin Arlington Robinson was born at Tide Head, Maine, and at an early age began the work which was to fill well over 1000 pages with the poetry that slowly won him recognition as one of America's major poets.

Although Mr. Robinson never sacrificed the "inner poet" to style, his technique is truly masterful, and his lines are musical. In particular, he gave the sonnet form new life and breadth. Primarily, however, his work, which is always alive and pulsating, deals with ideas and people, and his lines are ever freighted with that essence of poetical power, thought provoking ideas.

A few of his better known works are: The Man Against the Sky, Ben Johnson Entertains a Man from Stratford, Tristram, Cavender's House, and Story of the Nightingale.

And now we turn to the more pleasurable task of heralding the arrival of two new books. Again does Mrs. Carroll, the author of As the Earth Turns, pick up her pen, and the result this time is A Few Foolish Ones. Again does she choose for her subject the country life of our own state. The story, which is continuously mildly reminiscent of As the Earth Turns, glorifies the homely, simple values of rural life by expertly presenting a picture of that life as it may very well be. No, it is not idyllic, it is not too romantic—trust Mrs. Carroll to avoid that; it is a picture painted of short, smooth dabs of conversation, homely tasks, and of living characters.

In a nut shell, and A Few Foolish Ones will not go into a nut shell, the story treats of an ordinary man who marries, against the wishes of his wife's parents, and settles down to the business of living. By a ceaseless persuasion of the "proven values" of hard work, thrift, and honesty, he accumulates a considerable wealth, and makes for himself a place of importance in the community. His children grow up, become modern, and travel their roads, but refusing to be fired by the "new fangled ideas," he remains true to the simple values.

A Few Foolish Ones is the story of living a life. It is great in its simplicity, and good reading for anyone.

Rachel Field engages our attention with Time Out of Mind. This, too, has its setting in Maine, but this time it is woven of the restlessness of the sea. It is so completely a story of action and plot, and so spacious is its theme, that this report cannot even partially indicate its interest and merit.

The story takes us back to the time when every sea was dotted with Maine ships. A wealthy, successful ship owner, who is too stubborn and set in his ways to appreciate changing times and new ideas, fails to see that the day of the wooden sailing ship is at an end, and, after losing much money, still insists upon building a fine new sailing ship. In it he placed his fortune and his son. He lost the former, and very nearly did the latter, who, although he had no use for the sea and wished to study music, was forced to take the trip.

The story deals with the effect this man's intolerance and narrow-mindedness had upon his family. It traces the decay of a great industry and of a great mode of thought.

Another book which we have examined is The Autobiography of John Hays Hammond. Space forbids details, but

H. WHICKER HAS WORK
PUBLISHED IN "STORY"

Harold W. Whicker, instructor in English, appears as the author of the first story, "Voyageur," of the June issue of Story, a monthly devoted to high grade short stories.

In the Contributors' Column the author gives the gist of the story: "Years ago, when I used to knock around Puget Sound and Alaska waters in my canoe, I gathered the material out of which this strange little piece is written. It deals with an old San Juan Island beachcomber's love for a boy. The theme is one of such gentleness that it can be told only in the old man's rugged language."

Mr. Whicker has also been honored this month in having his essay, Nex Percé Harvest, selected as a part of the latest text book on composition entitled A Preface to College Prose. This book is edited by Professor Charles Gott of Tufts College, and is published by Macmillan. Mr. Whicker's essay reveals an aspect of Western prairie life seldom encountered in literature.

MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR COMMENCEMENT

Plans for Commencement are being rapidly formulated. The dates have been set as June 7-10. Saturday, June 8, marks the sixtieth anniversary of the organization of the General Alumni Association. In keeping with this anniversary the Commencement committee has made plans to honor the ex-presidents of the organization at the Alumni banquet. The ten living ex-presidents are: G. H. Hamlin '73, of Orono; E. M. Blanding '76, of Bangor; C. S. Bickford '82, of Belfast; W. R. Pattangall '84, of Augusta; J. F. Gould '82, of Bangor; A. H. Brown '80, of Old Town; A. W. Stephens '99, of New York City; H. E. Sutton '09, of Boston; R. H. Fogler '15, of Chicago; and A. L. Deering '12, of Orono.

The Commencement committee consists of H. D. Watson '18, A. K. Gardner '10, G. F. Dow '27, A. W. Goodspeed '28, and Mary Reed '29, for the faculty; Beulah Osgood '26, Sally Palmer '27, R. M. Bailey '28, K. D. Larsen '29, for the alumni; and George Cobb, Senior Class President, and George Carlisle, chairman of the Commencement Week Committee, for the students.

Dean James N. Hart and M. D. Jones, Professor of Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, last week made an extensive trip throughout the Preparatory schools of the state, interviewing prospective students of the University of Maine. Among the schools visited were those in Bridgton, Fryeburg, Cornish, Limerick, Limington, Oxford, Hebron, South Paris, and Norway. The topic of Dean Hart's talks was "Why Go to College?" Professor Jones spoke on the subject, "The Nature of Training in the College of Agriculture."

Saturday, May 18, Fred Loring, Director of Short Courses, will speak to the students of Foxcroft Academy on the opportunities presented to the student in the College of Agriculture. That evening he will address the Conference of Piscataquis County 4-H Club Leaders being held in Dover-Foxcroft. The subject of his talk will be on Parliamentary Procedure.

The Phi Beta Kappa fraternity held its annual initiation banquet Thursday night at the Penobscot Exchange Hotel.

Dean Mullenburg was the principal speaker. His topic was: "The Perils to Scholarship in a World of Dissolution."

It is a story of an active life told by a man who lived in the thick of things.

"SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW"

SHH—not so loud. Even the walls have ears. And the Sigma Nu house is equipped with microphones for house parties. Thanx mainly to the efforts of one lanky, tousled-haired lad named Pendell.... Wonder what Lennox and Crockett thought of it?... So the scamperlads won the title and a certain lad (or two?) a keg of that frothy amber stuff. Whoops!... Pardon these gray hairs, folks, but we've been waiting for a cup of coffee in the bookstore....

THE SUNDAY evening services at the Pentecostal ("Holy Rollers") Church at Pea Cove seem to be interesting more and more students each week.... Or is it the lonely roads out that way?... Has anyone signed up yet for one of Jim O'Connor's one way trips to Paradise, or the Foolish Islands?... Look out, Greenlings, stay away from Bangor. Your every move has been recorded.... The upperclassmen seem to favor the Roma.... Could it be those elf-like waitresses that flit about the premises like the departed ghosts of the circus fat lady?

QUITE a few imports on the campus last weekend. Are the co-eds losing their appeal or are they just "old stuff" by now?... We were surprised to see Tau Beta Don Pederson with a blond vision from downstate.... and were the amorous glances flying thick and fast!... These compulsory Stu G. meetings! They harken back to compulsory chapel and even further back—to the Revolution, in fact, and Taxation Without Representation.... But what can you do?....

OH DEAR, and they say old fashioned romance is dead. Perhaps it is, but who would expect it to appear so devastatingly on the Maine campus.... Shake out the crinoline, Aunt Sephorie, and dust off the periscope, here come those two lovebirds, Aunt Beth and Uncle Si. All they need is a bustle and a mustache cup to make the picture complete. Or has Sid stopped trying to raise a mustache since the second bottle of hair tonic gave out?....

WON'T graduation raise havoc among some of the more flaming romances! Just think of the many happy couples that will be broken up. Let's see—there's Cyn Wasgatt and Buckminster.... Ev Tracy and Wally White.... Vel Colson and Ed Littlefield.... Lee and Bob.... Cobby and Bussell.... Max Dowd and Janet Campbell.... Bob Willard and Betty Hart.... Bobby Lewis and Reggie (Mayor) Naugler.... Ella Rowe and Joe Galbraith.... Hope Wing and Al Galbraith (the Betas and Tri-Delts are doing K.O., thank you)....

HOW can these spring friendships be expected to reach their blossoming stage with such uninspiring weather. But it doesn't seem to prevent Peg Hinchley and Dick Bither from taking those noonday walks.... And Louise Calderwood seems to be getting the rush.... Crowley has a new admirer—we can't keep up with her peripatetic amours. Just "Call her Savage".... Now that house parties are in full swing many co-eds' hearts will be broken because of that girl friend back home. Ha-Ha, so the eds seem to think. Cora Sharon spends most of her time in the hospital. No, she's in the best of health, but it's because of Hawkes minus his appendix.... We suggest that Annette Young and her B.F. leave their post at the foot of M.C.A. stairs, for, after all, it is rather embarrassing for innocent bystanders.... Ruth Currie finds that German is much easier and more interesting now that Wesley Oliver studies with her....

WE have to thank the Colby Echo for this item which is reproduced in full from their gossip col'm, "The Schemer Speaks": "If any of the neck-craning group were present at the intercollegiate music concert last Thursday eve, they no doubt orb'd the tireless play Bill Carter made for that U. of M. brunette violinist.... can't say his taste was bad, on the other finger.... name was Ruth Kimball for those whom Bill won't tell."

The Delta Zeta sorority held its annual installation on Monday, May 4, in the M.C.A. building. The following officers were installed: president, Elizabeth Gifford; vice-president, Mary Treinor; secretaries, Mildred Covell and Leonore Dorr; and treasurer, Gertrude Murry. Two alumnae guests, Miss Annette Matthews and Miss Kathleen Hardy, both of Bangor, were present at the installation.

Tri Delta sorority had their Pansy Breakfast Saturday morning at Miss Patch's summer house. This is an annual affair held in honor of the departing seniors. The breakfast was prepared and served by the pledges.

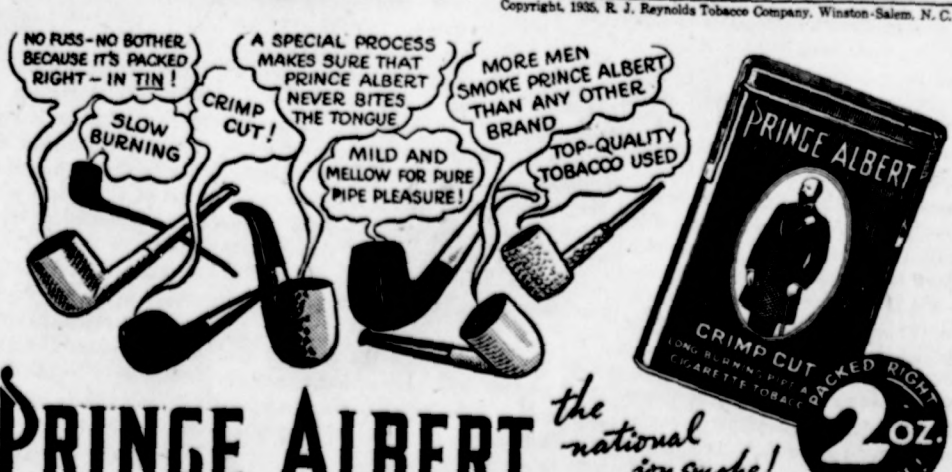

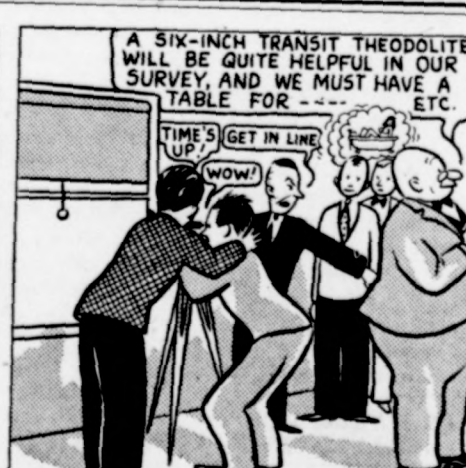

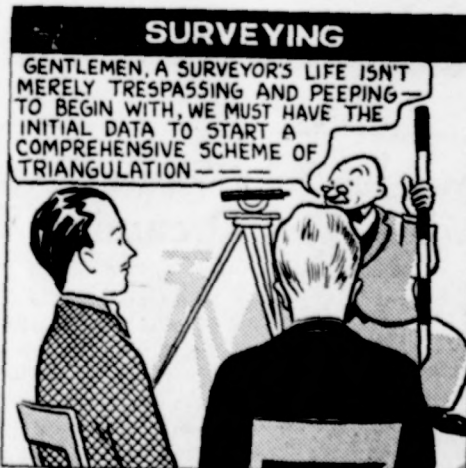

Prof. and Mrs. Murray, Prof. and Mrs. Chadbourne, and Prof. and Mrs. Waring were the guests.

The initiation of the Contributors' Club was held on Wednesday evening, May 8, in Stevens Hall. The following pledges were initiated: Burton Mullen '36, David Brown '36, Carolyn Brown '37, Gerald Hinchley '37, Celia Cohen '37, and Jane Stillman '37.

MAINE FIGURES IN MAGAZINE ARTICLE

An airplane view of the University of Maine campus and a picture of an historically famous spot with Donald FAVOR '34 in the foreground are included in the leading articles of the May issue of the National Geographic Magazine concerning the State of Maine.

The article on Maine is the thirty-first in the series of American state and city stories being published by the magazine. Appearance of the article in the magazine means that it will reach nearly a million homes of members of the National Geographic Society. This membership, the largest of any educational and scientific in the world, is represented in every civilized country and in every community in the United States of fifty or more inhabitants.

Paying tribute to the State's cultural advantages, the author of the article, Dr. George Otis Smith, notes: "The colleges of Maine are all located in important industrial centers: Bowdoin at Brunswick, Colby at Waterville, Bates at Lewiston, and the University of Maine at Orono." After listing an impressive roster of prominent people graduated from Maine's colleges, he points out, "Of special interest to the members of the National Geographic Society is the fact that one of the University of Maine graduates is Captain Albert W. Stevens, whose explorations of the stratosphere and unsurpassed photographs from the air are familiar."

CAMERA CLUB SPEAKER DISCUSSES KODACOLOR

A. H. Dockray, New England representative of the Eastman Kodak Cine Department, addressed the local Camera Club at its last meeting of the year Thursday evening, May 9. Mr. Dockray's talk included a demonstration of the use of the Kodascope, Kodacolor, and Kodachrome.

An informal discussion of the new Cine Kodak Special, which was on display for the benefit of the members of the club, followed the lecture. Fred Hall, president of the organization for the past year, presided at the meeting.

Tech Notes

The spring meeting of the American Chemical Society in New York, during the week beginning April 22, was attended by Dr. C. A. Brautlecht, who read a paper on lignin analysis. The registration for this meeting was about 5,000 and several hundred papers were presented. Breakfasts, luncheons and dinners of several alumni and other groups included a Maine luncheon at which several alumni and former chemistry staff teachers were present. The 300th anniversary of the beginning of chemical industry in America was especially celebrated with reference to industrial chemical developments since 1635.

The University of Maine was represented at the annual New England convention of Student A. I. E. E. Branches at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., on May 3 and 4, by Lyman F. Brewer, John N. Hamilton, Dexter L. McCausland, Louis H. Morrison, Curtis B. Plummer, Elmore L. Wood, and Alfred B. Cox, Student Chairman, who were accompanied by W. H. Bliss, staff member and Local Branch Councilor. Mr. Morrison presented a paper, "A New Reverberation Time Meter." The Maine group also visited the General Electric Company plant at Schenectady.

A very pleasant joint dinner meeting was enjoyed by the Spectator Club, the Faculty Club, and the Conversation Club at the Condukeag Canoe Club in Hampden the evening of May 8.

On the afternoon of May 13, in company of W. H. Bliss, Instructor, electrical engineering juniors inspected the plant of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company at Bangor.

At a meeting of the Bangor Engineers Club and the Bangor branch of the Maine Association of Engineers, held at the Bangor House the evening of May 8, Mr. C. C. Heritage, Technical Director of the Oxford Paper Company, opened the evening's discussion concerning Maine's pulp and paper industry with an excellent talk on the "Present Status of Pulp and Paper Industries in Maine."

Poets represented in the list are Lindsay, Neihardt, Frost, Morgan, Carman, Guiterman, William Rose Benet, Coffin, Snow, Robinson, and Millay.

Junior and senior civil engineering students and the class in Industrial Engineering, in company of W. S. Evans, A. C. Lyon, H. W. Leavitt, H. D. Chase, E. J. Felker, and F. T. Martin of the Civil Engineering and Chemistry staffs will visit the lime kilns at Rockland and the cement plant at Thomaston May 17.

Read below what leading sports champions say about Camels

With the preference of star athletes overwhelmingly for one cigarette, that cigarette has to be exceptionally mild! Its name is well known to you—Camel. Here's what an Olympic champion diver, Harold ("Dutch") Smith, says about Camels: "I've found a great deal of pleasure in Camels. They never interfere with my wind." Rip Collins, of the St. Louis Cardinals, says: "Here's the best proof I know that Camels are mild: I can smoke them steadily, and they never get my wind."

Rowland Dufton, of the New York A. C., says: "Squash is a game that requires A1 condition for tournament play. I've found that Camels are so mild I can smoke all I want, and they never upset my nerves or get my wind. That's what I call real mildness!"

Dick Shelton, world-champion steer dodger, says: "I must be sure the cigarettes I smoke are mild. Camels are very mild—don't get my wind." And those two brilliant golfers, Denny Shute and Helen Hicks, have come to the same conclusion—"Camels do not get my wind."

How this mildness is important to you too!

Camel smokers can smoke more—and enjoy smoking more, knowing that sports champions have found Camels so mild that they never jangle their nerves or get their wind.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

CAMEL

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Coed settles down; rain drives against the windows; wind whizzes around the corner; more rain; wave leaves coed's hair — ah! the perfect atmosphere in which to create humor. Coed says, "Here goes."

Deputation Teams Complete Season

By Bettina Sullivan
Campus Star Reporter

This year the Maine Christian Association of the University of Maine has sponsored one of the most extensive programs in its history. From December, 1934 to May, 1935, fourteen trips have been made; the teams have covered over 600 miles, and have visited communities throughout the southern half of the state. Each trip has been remarkably successful with much favorable comment from the people of the towns visited.

The typical deputation trip is as follows: a group of five or six boys and girls, undergraduates in the University, drive to some outlying community on Saturday afternoon. They are entertained in the homes of townspeople Saturday night and sometimes Sunday night as well. On Saturday night the team is usually in charge of a social gathering for the young people of one or more churches. They lead the games and songs, and have a good time getting acquainted with the people.

On Sunday, the teams occupy the pulpits of one or more churches, bringing to the people of these communities the opinions and convictions of the best thinking youths in the college. A boy and a girl usually team together, speaking on phases of the same theme. Other members of the team handle the minor parts of the service. Almost always there is one member of the team that takes care of the special music. This feature of the programs has been greatly appreciated.

Sometimes the team splits up and one part conducts the service in one church; at the same time the rest of the team is taking charge in another church. Afternoon and evening services are a regular part of the deputation program, as well as leadership in young peoples' meetings. All of the week end trips include four or five services. The team returns Sunday night or Monday morning, tired from a strenuous day, but happy in the satisfaction of a worthwhile accomplishment.

Besides these weekend trips, several deputations have been made to nearby churches for one or more meetings.

Among those who have participated in this work are: Sargent Russell, Rachel Fowles, Josie Naylor, Ross Newcomb, Josephine Profita, Ruth Kimball, Beryl Warner, Rena Allen, Spurgeon Benjamin, Ellen Hodgkins, David Brown, Elizabeth Jordan, Margaret Homer, John Mouw, Dana Sidelinger, Evelyn Adriance, Margaret Williston, Lucinda Rich, Mildred Dixon, John DeLong, Howard Goodwin, Ruth Currie, Leonore Dorr, George Clarke, Helen Blake, Alice Sisco, Barbara Brown, Frances Austin, Bettina Sullivan, and Thomas Fielder.

Some of the places visited were: Bangor, Lincoln, Springfield, South Lincoln, Bucksport, Orono, Brewer, Sangerville, East Dover, Carmel, Calais, Belfast, Veazie, Southwest Harbor, Fremont, and East Boothbay.

Miss Elizabeth Ring, Prof. Charles Packard, Clarice Coffin, Paul Langlois, and Eva Bisbee are graduates, faculty and graduate students who have aided in making the deputations a success.

Special gratitude is due Donald Piper, Mr. Fielder, Prof. Evans, Prof. Waring, Prof. Steinmetz, Prof. Bliss and Mr. Gannett who have wholeheartedly co-operated with the teams in furnishing transportation for the trips. Also thanks is extended to Miss Ring and Prof. Packard who have added considerably to the effectiveness of some of the services.

Most of the credit for the success of this year's programs goes to Reverend Herman Berlew of Orono, who has taken much of his time and energy to act as student advisor of the deputation work, and to Chester Smith, who has acted as chairman of the deputations.

Kilgour Stops Colby With Six Hits For 3-2 Win

Behind the able pitching of Don Kilgour, the varsity's only southpaw, Maine slugged its way to a 3-2 victory over the Colby Mules and to the State Series lead Wednesday afternoon at Waterville.

Although Colby has been having a slug-fest with opposing hurlers up until yesterday, Kilgour had the Mule big-stickers in hand throughout the game and allowed but six hits while striking out ten. Tight fielding in the pinches was also evidenced by the Maine fielders, a double play, Bell to Sanborn to Anderson, pulling the Blue out from a tight spot.

Maine did all her scoring, and put the game on ice at the same time, in the fifth inning. Kilgour started off by singling. Red Walton was passed and Hal Woodbury, third man up, singled. Milt MacBride was walked, forcing Kilgour in with the first run. Clarence Keegan came to bat after Bell and Sanborn had fanned, and clouted the ball to right field for a single, which scored Walton and Woodbury for the winning tallies.

FRESHMAN PASTIMERS DOWN RICKER 10-5 SAT

A strong Maine frosh nine smashed out ten hits for as many runs, and set an invading Ricker team back by the score of 10-5 last Saturday on the new diamond. The entire game was a typical opening day—one with each team committing five errors, all of which figured in the scoring. Coach Kenyon used his entire staff of hurlers and they all pitched excellent ball, the high score being due mostly to inopportune errors. Both teams weakened at crucial moments, and men on bases were able to advance almost at will.

The frosh started their scoring in the first inning and added to this throughout the game, being held scoreless in only the second and sixth innings. The yearlings put the game on ice in the fifth by scoring three runs. Ricker made a bid in the seventh when they pushed over two tallies, but the Frosh kept the game out of the fire by collecting one in the seventh and two in the eighth.

The work of Lord, who was converted into a first baseman to replace Adams, was outstanding throughout the game as he played errorless ball and hit safely three out of five times at bat. His hits included a long homer over third base, a smashing double, and a single. The outstanding frosh pitcher was Reidman, who allowed only one hit in the two innings he worked and struck out three men.

Score by innings:	R	H	E
Maine	1	0	2
Ricker	0	1	0
Batteries:	Reidman, Additon, Shea, West, and Veague, Grodinsky, Gardiner, Cheney, and Herron.

BLACK BEARS DEFEAT BATES BEHIND GREENE

Behind the four hit pitching of Johnny Greene, the Black Bear nine turned back Bates 5-3 and went into a first place tie with Colby Monday afternoon on the new diamond.

Maine scored three in the first and two in the third, while the Bobcats made two runs in the third and one in the seventh.

Greene is the first of the Pale Blue pitchers to go the route this season and was going as strong at the end as at the beginning. There was not a single earned run charged against him and Lefty Stahl, Bobcat hurler, was not far behind.

A victim of erratic fielding during the first inning, he tightened as the game went on and held Maine scoreless after the third.

Keegan starred at bat for Maine, getting two hits in three times at bat.

Greene gave five bases on balls and struck out seven. Stahl allowed six passes and fanned one.

Score by innings:

Bates	0	0	2

Doctor Summoned To Dizzy Moose

The call came late at night. A wild moose, a moose that walked in circles, had strayed into the town of Albion. He was sick. Doctor J. F. Witter, Assistant Professor of Animal Pathology and a veterinarian, hustled his black bag into his car, picked up Doctor Combs of the State Health Department, and hurried to Albion. Excited people were gathered around the animal, still walking in circles, his head on one side. Was his brain affected? Some of the more hardy on-lookers captured the animal and held him. Doctor Witter made his examination. The moose had an earache, caused by tick infestation. The doctor did what he could. The moose stood up, shook himself and was gone into the woods.

All State Game Wardens are instructed to report all diseased game and to send specimens directly to the laboratory at the University of Maine. The laboratory cooperates with the State in attempting to determine and eradicate all diseases from the wild life of the State.

NEW CAMEL CAMPAIGN TO FEATURE ATHLETES

The mildness of Camels is the theme of the new cigarette advertising campaign of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, which features the announcement that Camels are "so mild you can smoke all you want." It is supported by statements from a representative group of athletic stars and champions in various strenuous sports who smoke Camels and have found that "they don't get your wind."

In the first advertisement Gene Sarazen, famous golf champion, pictured both smoking a Camel and in action, is quoted: "Travelling and playing as much as I do, I have to keep in condition. I smoke Camels steadily. They're so mild they never get my 'wind' or nerves."

Other athletes who comment on the mildness of Camels in statements accompanied by "action" photographs are Georgia Coleman, holder of 13 national and Olympic diving championships; Melvin Ott, batting star of the New York Giants baseball team; John L. Skillman, squash racquets champion; Bill Miller, four times national sculling champion, and Jim Lancaster, captain of an undefeated New York University basketball team. It is pointed out that a cigarette whose mildness has won the patronage of outstanding athletes—who have to know what real tobacco mildness is—naturally has a mildness which will appeal to the non-athletic smoker as well.

The quality of the tobaccos used in the manufacture of Camels is consistently stressed. Each advertisement gives prominent display to the statement, signed by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, that "Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

Kappa Gamma Phi, honorary journalistic fraternity, pledged Willett Rowlands, Ralph Higgins, and Ernest Saunders at a special meeting held in the Campus office Tuesday evening.

Membership has been extended to these men in view of their work on University publications. Rowlands is at present Men's News Editor of the Campus, and is a candidate for the editorship of the 1937 Prism.

Higgins has served as a reporter on the Campus staff for the past two years and was an assistant on the 1936 Prism board.

Saunders was recently elected Managing Editor of the Campus and has served as reporter during his freshman and sophomore years. He was a member of the 1936 Freshman board, and served as an assistant to the 1936 Prism.

At another meeting held recently Kappa Gamma Phi elected Roger Levenson president for the coming year; David Brown, vice-president; and Raymond Gailey, secretary-treasurer.

YEARLING TRACTSTERS TO MEET COMBINE SAT.

Saturday Maine's undefeated yearling track team swings into action against a strong Aroostook combination of Caribou, Presque Isle, and Ricker. Last year's frosh tracksters dropped a 58½-58½ decision to the combined teams of Caribou, Presque Isle, and Houlton.

The substitution of Ricker for Houlton should increase the strength of the opposition and a close meet is looked for.

Drake, who won 20 points in the meet last year competing for Caribou, will wear the colors of the Maine freshmen as will Hardison, who placed in the pole vault and high jump. Gagne, Caribou miler who won last year in 4:49, is expected to repeat.

McNeil, smart Caribou quarter miler, should give the frosh ace, Hurwitz, a brush in his specialty. Markee and Lewin, Presque Isle stars, are favored for points in the dashes and high jump respectively. Ricker has a strong all around team. Johnny Gowell, fast-stepping frosh hurdler, will lead the smartest array of freshman tracksters to wear the pale blue in many years against the invaders. Boettcher and Pettengill should show the way in the dashes. Bob Fuller and Hackett can be counted on to be with the winners in the 880. Waddington and Clifford are the Maine entrants expected to show in the mile. Gowell should lead the pack in the low hurdles and broad jump. Sherry and Whittier should show the way in the javelin with Kelley, Rogers and Drake pacing the discus entrants. Gleason, Rogers and Drake are the frosh hammer entrants.

Hardison leads the pole vaulters with Smart and Hackett carrying the high jump burden. Ireland and Drake lead the freshman shot-putting contingent. The meet will get underway at 2:00 on Memorial Field.

Today the class in Farm Management journeys to Corinna where it will observe the organization and the operation of the produce farm of Fred Nutter. The itemized expense account of the operations of the farm will be open to the students. One week from today the class will take a week-end trip into Aroostook to study the field operations of potato farms.

Mr. Charles E. Packard, assistant professor of zoology in the College of Arts and Sciences, had a short article entitled "Is It Any Business of Ours?" dealing with the problem of liquor advertising, in a recent issue of The Christian Leader. He also has a series of articles on biology running in current issues of Zion's Herald.

Maine Netmen Drop Match To Bates 5-4

After walloping the Bates net team in the singles to win four out of six of the singles matches, the Maine tennis team lost all three doubles contests to be edged by the Garnet 5-4 in the match held last Thursday afternoon at Lewiston.

Ralph Perkins, number one man for Maine, blasted Bates' leading player, Jim Carter, in the singles to win the first match 6-2, 6-3. After dropping the first set, 3-6, to Reed of Bates, Bill Brooks came back to easily take the next two sets 6-3, 6-1. In two closely contested sets Ralph Wadleigh downed Buzzell of Bates 8-6, 6-4, while Darrel Currie pinned an easy 6-1, 6-2 loss on Bates' captain, Charlie Page.

Clayt Cronkite lost to Casterline 7-5, 6-1, while John Hooper was defeated 6-4, 6-3 by Revey of the Bobcats.

The summary:

Singles:

1. Perkins, Maine, defeated Carter, Bates, 6-2; 6-3.

2. Brooks, Maine, defeated Reed, Bates, 3-6; 6-3; 6-1.

3. Casterline, Bates, defeated Cronkite, Maine, 7-5; 6-1.

4. Wadleigh, Maine, defeated Buzzell, Bates, 8-6; 6-4.

COACH JENKINS' HOME THREATENED BY FIRE

Fire caused by water, well, water bottles anyway, caused little damage to track coach Chester A. Jenkins' home Monday afternoon. Two bottles, so the story goes, concentrated the rays of the sun to such an extent that his home started to smoulder. Servants extinguished the blaze with ease.

Coach Jenkins was attending the Maine-Bates baseball game at the time and knew nothing about the misconduct of his two bottles until John Sealey informed him that his home was afire. Coolly the Coach strode to his car and went home.

A local observer can't understand how the sun had stayed out long enough to warm anything for the past two weeks.

N. H., Bates Oppose Pale Blue in Track Duel

Coach Jenkins' State Champions journey to Lewiston Saturday to compete in a tri-cornered meet with Bates College and the University of New Hampshire. Competition of the highest type can be expected between these three teams, who are all priming for the New England which are but a week away. Bates and Maine appear to have a decided edge in team power over their out of state rival. Maine, by virtue of her State title, is ranking first, while Bates will bank heavily on the weights. The Wildcat's strength is centered around the hurdles and dashes.

In the dashes, Curt Funston of N. H., has turned in the best times. He is a ten-second man in the century and is a consistent winner in the 220 yard dash. Maine's stellar trio, Goddard, Murray, and Huff, will furnish him with plenty of competition. There seems to be no one to threaten Maine's supremacy in the quarter-mile, half-mile, and mile. Ken Black, Joe Marsh, and Ernie Black should have no trouble in these, their special events.

Hummell and Stagg, of Maine, will take care of the two mile.

New Hampshire sends a great hurdler in the person of Curt Funston, for the Wildcat flyer ranks on a par with Good, of Bowdoin, as a low hurdler. The high hurdles will offer a stirring duel between Funston and lanky "Gramp" Goddard. Goddard is a fine competitor and ranks as one of the best high hurdlers in New England.

Bates has its say in the discus, hammer and shot put, with Kishon and Johnson doing the dictating.

Clayt Totman and Al Bell will be threatened only by Gale of N. H. and Kishon of Bates in the javelin throw.

With Harry Keller, Bates' star, out of the picture, due to injuries, Gale of N. H. and Ireland of Maine must vie for honors in the broad jump. Both men are capable of over 21 feet.

Just Between Us Girls Co-eds Have Hard Time

Just between us girls... if you want to see something funny! Go down to the soccer field and watch 'em play!... After it's rained all morning so the ground is soggy... They scamper out of the little brown field house when the whistle blows... And, my dears... you ought to see them rush about chasing that plump soccer ball!... Flounces of navy serge smother hips... and they wear heavy black shoes, for you see all they do is thump up and down the field after the ball... But every now and then, a girl kicks with a competent big toe... and the ball literally zooms over the heads of the opposing team...

Thighs redden... jaws clench... and arms gyrate... legs pound... They tear around the field digging up the turf... "Pos-ition!... What's the matter?... Get out there..." They gasp, pant, and suck in air... "Kick it hard... There's another one!... O-Oh!"

"Wallop it!" They mean the ball but usually it's a partner... And the mud... They slither and it stains their hands, browns their legs and smudges clean white middies... "Kick it!... Rush it here!" Feminine yelps and joyous screams... All that speed and energy in behalf of a fat puff ball, laced up the middle with two inches of cat gut.
