Junior and senior elections to membership in the society were made during the evening. Juniors elected were Louis C. Costrell, Robert W. Doe, Alexander H. Raye, and John F. Raye. Seniors elected were Ernest F. Andrews, Ralph W. Butler, Charles Y. Cain, Albert Ellingson, A. Stanley Getchell, Karl N. Hendrickson, E. Eugene Holt, and Kenneth B. Young.

Costrell is a major in electrical engineering. He is a member of the debating club, the Electrical Club, and last year's winner of the Tau Beta Pi slide rule. Robert W. Doe, a pulp and paper major, was a member of the banquet committee during his freshman year. Alexander Raye and John Raye are both mechanical engineering majors.

Ernest F. Andrews, member of the Maine Outing Club, the cross country team, and Phi Gamma Delta, is a major in pulp and paper technology. Ralph W. Butler, a major in civil engineering, is a member of the Civil Club, Sigma Nu, and the American Society of Civil Engineers. Charles Y. Cain, pulp and paper major, is a member of the cross country squad, the Student Senate, Maine Masque, and Gamma Sigma.

Albert M. Ellingson, winner of the Harvey scholarship, is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the boxing squad, the rifle team, and Phi Eta Kappa. A. Stanley Getchell, a chemistry major, is a member of the band and Alpha Chi Sigma, honorary chemistry society. Karl N. Hendrickson, a general engineering major, was honorably discharged from the United States Naval Academy. While there he was a member of the fencing team. He is now teaching fencing here. E. Eugene Holt, a member of the basketball squad, is an electrical engineering major. Kenneth B. Young, a civil engineering major, is president of the Civil Club and a member of Phi Eta Kappa.

Three Debate Teams Travel to Vermont

Two University of Maine teams will travel to Vermont this week end and one to Salem to debate the question of unicameral and bicameral legislatures.

Blanche Holman '38 and Priscilla Tondreau '38 will uphold the negative of this question tonight at the University of Vermont. Miss Holman will be participating in her first college debate. She is a member of the Women's Forum.

Miss Tondreau also gains her first college debating experience. She is active in the Women's Forum.

Tomorrow night Myer Alpert '40 and Brooks Browne '41 will uphold the negative in a cross question debate with the men's forensic team of the University of Vermont. Browne previously participated in a radio debate.

Myer Alpert, of Bangor, will debate the first time intercollegiate. He was active, however, in debating at Bangor High School. Alpert will cross question the opponents and will give a short refutation.

Also on Friday, Ruth Gray '40 and Marian White '40 will uphold the affirmative of the same question at Massachusetts State Teachers' College in Salem. Ruth Gray, the first affirmative speaker, opens her second year of college debating.

Miss White has had no previous debating experience in college.

Pulsifer Opens Lecture Series

'Poetry and Poets' to be Topic of Maine Poet
At First Lecture

Harold T. Pulsifer, a poet of the state of Maine, will open the Contributors' Club lecture series tonight at 7:30 in 15 Coburn Hall.

Pulsifer will deliver a talk on "Poetry and Poets." He will first read from his own poems and then give reminiscences of other poets.

Pulsifer was graduated from Harvard University in 1911. He has been managing editor of the Outlook, and is author of several collections of poems. He has contributed to many magazines, and received a doctor of letters degree from Bates in 1935.

He is a member of the Poetry Society of America, of which he was elected president in 1931 and 1932, the Poetry Society of New England, the Harvard Club, the Players Club, the Authors Club, of which he was formerly on the governing council, the Century Club of New York, and the Megantic Club.

Among the collections of poems Pulsifer has published are "Mothers and Men," 1916; "Glory of the Dawn," 1923; "Harvest of Time," 1932; "First Symphony," 1935; and "Elegy for a Horse," 1935.

Tickets for the lecture series may be obtained at the bookstore and at the door. Tickets for individual lectures may be obtained at the door.

Co-eds Allowed To Have Radios

Women students in all dormitories may now have radios in their rooms as a result of acceptance by the W.S.G.A. of recommendations by the administration to that effect.

Freshman women will be permitted to have radios in the second semester. Students are forbidden to have outside antennae on their radios, but the only rules governing their use will be those of courtesy.

Lifting of the prohibition against radios in the students' rooms was brought about after a campaign begun early in the semester and concluded Tuesday night. Directing the campaign were Mary Wright and Mary Helen Raye and a general committee chosen by Mary Wright, president of the Women's Student Government Association. The general committee consisted of house presidents and one other member of each house.

The question as to whether or not radios should be permitted was discussed at house meetings last week which revealed that the majority of students favored granting permission.

Deputation Team at Hampden

A deputation team from the Wesley Foundation and the University conducted the evening service at the Hampden Methodist Church Sunday evening, November 28. The members were: Nelson Carter, Robert Goodwin, Alden Whitney, Natalie Nason, and Leona Runion.

Six Junior Girls Vie for Honorary Lieutenant Colonel

HONORS GLEASON

(Exclusive to Campus)

Wally Gleason, left tackle on the Maine Varsity, will be named tomorrow night (December 3) to the Kellogg All-New England Team selected by Bill Cunningham, newspaper writer and radio commentator.

Cunningham, who is a member of Collier's All-American Selection Board, has been following the activities of New England teams all season and has been broadcasting views each Friday night at 7:30 on the regular Kellogg Sports Commentary.

Entire Student Body Eligible To Vote Next Monday

NEW SYSTEM USED

Ethelmae Currier To Give
Certificate of Office
To Successor

By Mary Bearce

Campus Star Reporter

Six junior women were named candidates for the honorary lieutenant colonelcy of the Maine R.O.T.C. Monday night, it was announced today by Lester Tarbell, battalion adjutant.

The candidates are Marion Dunbar, Barbara Grace, Edna Louise Harrison, Virginia Maguire, Ruth Pagan, and Ethelyn Parkman.

A new method of electing the honorary lieutenant colonel is being inaugurated this year, with the entire student body being eligible to vote. The voting will take place Monday in a tent beside Lord Hall.

The certificate of office will be presented by Ethel Mae Currier, present honorary lieutenant colonel, to her successor during the intermission of the Military Ball, which is to be held in the Memorial Gymnasium a week from tomorrow.

Their Records

Marion Dunbar, a pledge of Chi Omega sorority, was candidate last February for Winter Carnival Queen.

Barbara Grace, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, belongs to the Home Economics club, the Women's Forum, and the Chorus. She is on the Prism board.

Edna Louise Harrison, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, was chosen a Sophomore Eagle and was elected to Neai Mathetai. She is a member of the Maine Campus staff and of the Prism board. She is also social chairman of Balentine Hall.

Virginia Maguire, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, is a leading actor for the Masque. She had the leading role in "Arms and the Man" last year and in "First Lady" this fall. She is a member of the Women's Forum, El Circulo Espanol, and secretary of the Students' Arts Club. She was a Sophomore Eagle.

Ruth Pagan, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, belongs to the Students' Arts Club and is president of the Contributors' Club, and vice president of the Women's Student Government Association. During her freshman year she was on the class executive committee and in the Maine Outing Club, and last May was on the Maine Day committee. She was a Sophomore Eagle.

Ethelyn Parkman, a member of Chi Omega sorority, served as class secretary her sophomore year and was a candidate for Winter Carnival Queen in her freshman year. She belongs to the Home Economics Club, the Chorus, and serves on the Prism board.

Mannone's Orchestra

Wingy Mannone and his orchestra will play for the Military Ball on December 10. This orchestra has played throughout the country in such places as the "Famous Door" in Hollywood, the "Hickory House" in New York, and the "Yacht Club" in Chicago.

Mannone has made many recordings, including "A Fine Romance" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," for Victor and Blue Bird Records. He has written several lyrics, such as "Walking the Streets," "Swing Out," "Deep Jungle," and "In the (Continued on Page Four)

Scotland Scene Of Masque Play

'The Wind and the Rain'
Will Be Presented
December 7, 8, 9

Scotland is the scene of the Masque play, The Wind and the Rain, which will be presented next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings in the Little Theatre.

As the play opens in the boarding house of Mrs. McFie (Emily Hopkins), two boarders, Gilbert Raymond, whose part is taken by Arnold Spavin, and John Williams, represented by William Wright, are returning for the new term at the nearby medical school. At this time a new boarder, Charles Tritton (Clark Kune), tries to enter their group. Ignored by the older students, he is guided by Dr. Paul Duhammel, whose part is played by Walter Schultz.

Charles confides in the doctor his beloved mother's ambition that he marry his childhood neighbor and sweetheart, Jill Manning (Elizabeth Trotter). Paul introduces his friend, Ann Hargreaves (Marion Hatch), to Charles. She becomes very sympathetic toward him.

The second act opens two and a half years later, during which time friendships have deepened and memories of home have become slightly dimmer. These memories are vividly awakened when Jill, with another home town boy, comes to call on Charles. Jill does not see the situation as Charles does and in resentment gets disgustingly drunk. Returning to Charles in this condition, she meets Ann, who immediately senses the situation and leaves.

The final act sees two of our boarders ready to receive their M.D. degrees. Ann, who has stayed until final exams, decides to leave for her home in New Zealand. Before she goes, Ann, who is now deeply in love with Charles, tries to make it plain, with due respect to Jill, that the end has come for them.

That night Charles learns that his mother is very ill. After her death Charles burns his last bridge at home by telling Jill that Ann means more to him than anybody else does. He returns to Mrs. McFie's to what he believes to be a house full of memories and finds that Ann has waited to find out about his mother.

During their absence they have both done much thinking, and when they meet, many of the loose strings are brought together to make a grand finish for a grand play.

University Judging Team Wins N. E. Championship

A University of Maine apple-judging team won the annual contest sponsored here by the New England Intercollegiate Fruit Judging League.

Members of the Maine team, which scored 7,525 of the possible 7,800 points, were: Rockwood M. Berry, Livermore Falls; Stanley Gates, South Paris; and Wends S. Milliken, Portland. Other teams competing were from the University of New Hampshire and Connecticut State College.

High individual scorer was Stanley B. Tenney, who scored 99.2 per cent. Berry and Gates of the Maine team were tied for second place at 97.7 per cent. These three men received medals from the league.

Phi Kappa Phi Initiates Large Group of Seniors

Seventeen seniors were initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic society of the University, on November 18 in the Faculty Room.

Those initiated were: Ernest Adams, Francis Bradbury, Nelson Carter, Rose Costrell, Mildred Dixon, Howard Goodwin, Elizabeth Gruginis, Virginia Hall, Ida Hart, Miriam Hilton, Francis Jones, Leo Lieberman, Evelyn Miles, Althea Millett, George Philbrook, Cora Sharon, and Sherman Vannah.

A social meeting followed the initiation, with piano solos rendered by Mrs. Evelyn Miles, Howard Goodwin, and Leo Lieberman. Dr. C. A. Dickinson showed some moving pictures of campus activities, including Maine Day, Homecoming, and Commencement.

We Have a Band

The University of Maine is very proud of its championship band, the band that won the first state intercollegiate band contest, which, incidentally, was originally the idea of our own drum major, Edward Brannmann. A year ago, the band rendered a service to the Franklin Prett Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Orono, and instead of accepting a sum of money offered, asked that it be used to stimulate interest in college bands of the state. That was the start.

During the negotiations, more than twenty letters were sent by our band leaders, and Brannmann made two trips to Waterville for conferences with the director of music at Colby, who enthusiastically championed the idea, and became chairman of the organizing committee. Then forty men were picked from our eighty-man band and drilled for the competition—and really drilled.

Few realize that this group drilled from two and one-half to four hours every night from the day after the Bowdoin game to the night before the contest; few know that the non-commissioned officers aided in the training and loaned their Sam Browne belts to improve the appearance of the band uniform; few know that the band members and their friends opened their own pocketbooks to pay for half the expenses of the trip and marched in a parade in Waterville to earn the remaining half—all this before the band marched onto the field for victory against fine competition.

By its accomplishments during the past two years, the band has become known throughout the state as "the crack University of Maine Band," and the other colleges were determined to beat us. Bates obtained two commissioned army officers for special training; Colby, trained by its energetic and interested director, fielded a superbly playing band, and Bowdoin sent a band that was hard to beat.

The result we know. The Maine band, without active support from our department of music or the administration, built itself into the unit that brought Maine's only state championship this fall. The generalship of drum major Brannmann, the fine supporting performance of his assistant on the field, the first girl drum major in the history of the University, Ruth McClelland, the general assistance of Armando Polito, the special trumpet arrangements of Merritt Trott, the generosity of the non-commissioned officers, and the personal sacrifices of the band members themselves culminated in "bringing home the bacon."

This, Maine men and women, is our band. This is the band that responds to the needs of the military department, the requests of the athletic department, the desires of the assembly committee—yes, even to a request last spring from the state department of agriculture for aid in advertising the Maine apple, big or otherwise. The askers want this, they want that, until a band member often feels like a member of the chain gang. Wherever he goes he pays double his fare. He pays for a blanket tax as do other students and he presents his book at the gate as do other students, and then he proceeds to work his way in. Furthermore, at the state series games he has the assurance of some of the poorest seats at the field. After rainy days, as at Bates this fall, he pays for cleaning and pressing his uniform, and the players of woodwind instruments often must make replacements of parts ruined in the rain. The band member gets no golden trophy for a championship team, he gets no letter for his sweater, he gets no scholarship or honorary award for his efforts and ability. He may, after a certain amount of service get a small key—provided he will pay five dollars for it.

A junior or a senior, to be in the band, must deposit cash or get surety for his uniform; he must forego the opportunity to see an athletic contest from a good seat, with a friend perhaps; he must forfeit a Saturday's freedom for morning drill; he must be ready to respond to the call of every organization which thinks it could use the band to advantage. For this he gets one hour's credit—which is practically an insult—and some experience. Useful no doubt, but there is a point beyond which even honey no longer satisfies the sweetest tooth.

Are we giving the band a square deal? Are we giving it the aid and encouragement it deserves? We understood that a band "M" was being designed—that was a year ago. First base should be fairly well polished by now.

Our band deserves the active support of the department of music and the administration. Given proper backing, it can grow to greater heights, to greater fame, to greater credit to the University of Maine. It will then take second place to none in New England nor be content with a tie with Bowdoin.

A. M.

The rumor printed in the column "Strange Interludes" of the last "Campus" that Lawrence Denning was married is false. Denning says he is not and never has been married. The "Campus" regrets the error.

Enlargements were discussed at the last meeting of the Photography Club. It was decided that all persons who wish to become active members of the club should submit, by the next meeting, an enlargement of 5 in. by 7 in. on 11 in. by 14 in. cardboard.

Open Letter from the M.C.A.

The time has come to look objectively at the Maine Christian Association. An organization growing out of the deep-seated convictions of students back in those early days when the University was known as the Maine State College, its work on campus was carried on by students with the help of faculty until 1915 when a full-time secretary was appointed. From then on its expanding activities have followed closely the growth of the national organizations of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. with whom it is affiliated; its heyday on the University of Maine campus was in 1929-1930 when student contributions to the undergraduate Associations amounted to $1500 and the Advisory Board employed three full-time secretaries.

We are now in the throes of an upperclass men's drive. That means we must penetrate those impregnable strongholds of collegiate inertia, the fraternity houses. We are realistic. Our canvassers will be left in no doubt as to the failures of the M.C.A. We admit them. But we are not willing to concede that a campus Christian association has not a vital part to play at the University of Maine any more than we are willing to admit failure for those values represented in our economic and social life which make for progress and put individual living on a higher plane. The beginning of a thoughtful approach to post-college days might be found in a constructive M.C.A. program.

What shall that program be? Within the next six weeks every twenty-fifth student enrolled at the University of Maine will have a chance anonymously to give his own opinion. Will you be provoked to thought?

One thing more. At the north end of the campus standing inconspicuously behind the University Press is a white building known as the M.C.A. That building symbolizes an appreciation by the University Administration of the values for which the Maine Christian Association stands. Physically it represents a service rendered to commuting students and to other campus organizations, yes, but spiritually it adds purpose to the life of all students at the University of Maine whether they know it or not, or care to work actively in its program. Its function is as important to University life as are those same spiritual values indispensable to a well-integrated personality, and hundreds of collegiate Christian associations throughout the length and breadth of the country bear witness to a recognition of this fact.

Do you wish to contemplate the University of Maine without the Maine Christian Association? Be thoughtful in your answer.

KUBLA CANTS

By Lewis Nightingale

I dere boss:
I went to aroostook during vacation, and spent two days at some lake up there. it's a big county, boss, and reminded me of one of longfellow's poems. you know, that one that goes 'by the shore of snitch and gimme.' and there's another line about the 'muddering pines and the to-mahawks.' or maybe these quotations come from two different poems.
another thing I learned was the battle hymn of the student.
mine ears have heard the horror of the coming of the test;
my brain is slowly slipping, when to dig in would be best;
my books are being opened, when I'd rather let them rest;
or toss them far beyond.

i have opened books by watch lights of a hundred study lamps;
i have taken notes so often that i've got the writers' cramps;
i have tried to learn their meaning while the p'fessor roars and ramps or lectures on and on.

i have read the dullest text books writ in hazy rows of black;
i have read them in the library where they pile them stack on stack;
i myself have purchased some, and i would like to take them back, but learning must go on.

they are sounding out the pealing of the bell that bids me seat;
they are sorting out the papers so no one will try to cheat;
my crib notes won't be worth a darn so i might as well retreat, for how can i go on?

'mongst the beauty of potatoes i was born in northern maine;
there's a glory in their blossoms that surpasses cramming gain;
in other words, all college does is give me one big pain in the place that i sit on.

and, boss, i guess that is just about all i can say.

I'm glad that was all b had to say or I wouldn't have had room to cram in this little bit about what happens to the campus lovers when winter sets in. It's called Maine Man to his Miss.

So we'll have no more of loving
'Bout the campus here at Maine,
For the winter's not for roving,
And the cold keeps in the swain.

For the snow cools off the heart,
And the hearth is red and warm,
So the lover will not start
Out into the storm.

Though the moon be just as moony,
Though it be as large and bright,
My dear, we cannot spoony,
For we'd surely freeze tonight.

Of course, that may not be the reason at all, but as I have said before, where there's a will, there's a way to get around it, or too many relatives, or something. By way of conclusion, here's another toast:

CORRESPONDENCE

(The correspondence columns of The Campus are open to the public on pertinent subjects, and letters are welcomed. All letters should be signed with the author's real name, but a pen name will be used in publication of the letter if desired. The ideas stated in these columns are not necessarily those of The Campus and should not be so considered. The editor reserves the right to withhold any letter or a part of any letter.)

To the Editor of the Maine Campus,

Music at the University, from the standpoint of the listener, is woefully limited. So far as this writer knows, the University sponsors only one project that attempts to cater to the lover of good music.

The music department owns one of the finest electrical reproducers that has to date been developed. It is an expensive unit, and should not be confused with the conventional "phonograph." In addition to the instrument, the department also provides a new and very extensive library of high-fidelity recordings, including all of the well-known classics, and a limited number of popular recordings. These recordings, both classical and popular, have been made by some of the outstanding artists and orchestras in the world, and as close an approach to perfection as the art allows.

Music Box concerts featuring this machine are presented to the public in the music room in North Stevens each Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:45. Requests are gladly catered to, and often can be played on the date the request is made. It is customary to enter or leave the concert at any time during its duration, and thus the concert is moulded to fit the convenience of its patrons.

At this writing, no definite program sequence has been devised, but the concerts are generally composed of request numbers. The typical concert includes one entire symphony, and several shorter selections from the classics. The practice of playing a symphony in its entirety is almost unique to this type of concert, and should commend itself to the serious as well as to the casual listener, for it provides the compositions in their architectural completeness, and thus allows better appreciation of both composition and composer.

Music lovers are invited to investigate the features of this magnificent instrument. It is more than a substitute for good music: it is the best music of the ages, lacking only the actual presence of the artists.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Lynch '38

Rev. Herman Berlew of the Orono Methodist Church is to be the speaker at the vesper service Sunday at 4:15 p.m. in the Little Theatre. Ruth Trickey will sing. This will be the last of the regular vesper services until after Christmas vacation. The program for December 12 will be the annual pageant, presented with the co-operation of the Music department.

The M.C.A. is conducting its annual drive among the upperclass men.

Hail to thee, blithe spirits,
Called by name of 'Gin.'
The label on your bottle
Fills me with chagrin,
For I know not whether I Should drink or rub you in.

Orchestra picture will be taken at the next rehearsal in North Stevens. Pictures are to be taken outside unless otherwise indicated. It is imperative that everyone be prompt.

Individual sittings not obtained during the last visit of the Sargent Studio photographer are scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3. All juniors, seniors, and faculty members who have not had pictures taken for the Prism either this year or previous to this year may obtain sittings by appearing in the basement of North Stevens, Dec. 3.

The Sargent Studio representative will be here for three days—Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, December 3, 4, 5—to give out Prism portraits at the Prism office at the M.C.A. No portraits will be given out unless paid for at the time of delivery. Be sure to bring your money with you.

Kenyon Seeks To Develop Four Equal Combinations On Bear Basketball Squad

Stanley, Webber Are Good in Practice Sessions

The problem of developing four combinations all about on a par faced Coach Bill Kenyon today as his University varsity basketball team neared completion of its third week of practice.

"Elimination of the center-tap has made the collegiate brand of basketball even faster than it was last year," pointed out the Maine coach. "Consequently men and endurance will be prime essentials for any squad that wishes to be successful."

"Actually, there will not be any first-string five. Instead, every man of my first 20 will be considered a part of the first team and used accordingly."

Combinations Used

Combinations used by Kenyon this week included:

Team 1: Dana Drew and Phil Rogers, forwards; Ed Stanley, center; and Bill Webber and Dwight Lord, of Camden, guards.

Team 2: Gordon Raymond, Louie Bourgoine, and Jerome Steeves, forwards; John Pillsbury, center; John Harriman and Willis Phair, guards.

Team 3: Charles Wilson and Leon Breton, forwards; Ken Clark, center; Bob Cullinan and Ben Ela, guards.

Team 4: Bill Veague and Bill Ward, forwards; Newt Rodgers, center; and Harry Shute and Phil Curtis, guards.

Other players who saw considerable service were: Charlie Patrinelis and Bob Harvey, centers; Elwood Millett, John Perry, and Howie Forrestall, guards.

Kenyon Pleased

Kenyon was especially pleased with the work of Chic Wilson, Phil Curtis, Leon Breton, Jerome Steeves, all members of last year's crack freshman five. Despite their inexperience, these sophomores were expected to strengthen the Maine squad considerably.

Ed Stanley, tall junior, who was ineligible last year, and Bill Webber, a husky guard and center, were also praised by the Maine coach.

"Stanley is going great at present, and will be a great deal of help if he can keep up his present pace," declared Kenyon. "Webber is in the best shape he has been during his college career and should be much better than last year."

Earlier this week, the Maine mentor, in order to have a workable group, cut his squad to 32 men.

Survivors were:

Forwards: Phil Rogers, Dana Drew, Louis Bourgoine, William Ward, Arnold Veague, Gordon Raymond, Leon Breton, Charles Wilson, Jerome Steeves, Joe Hamlin, Whitney.

Centers: Ed Stanley, Bill Webber, Ken Clark, John Pillsbury, Newton Rodgers, Bob Harvey, and Charles Patrinelis.

Du Pont Representative Interviews Tech Seniors

Inaugurating the employment year for university seniors, George R. Beach, assistant manager of the Personnel Division of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., visited here Tuesday to interview fourth-year students of chemistry, chemical engineering, and mechanical engineering. Beach first addressed the group of 20 seniors interested in this type of employment, outlining the opportunities which it presents. Individual conferences followed.

Beach visited the university last year and employed several members of the graduating class.

This is the earliest date at which an employment representative has called at the university, according to Philip J. Brockway, director of the Placement Bureau. "This may possibly be an indication of a busy employment year," he said.

A large delegation representing the Maine Christian Association and the Orono Student Christian Movement will attend the annual fall conference of the Maine State Student Christian Movement, to be held at Bowdoin on Saturday and Sunday.

Ralph Clifford Leads Harriers

Ralph (Red) Clifford, a three-year veteran, was elected honorary captain of the University varsity cross country squad at the annual fall athletic banquet Tuesday evening.

Other honorary captains elected were: Kenneth Blaisdell, freshman cross country; and Charles Arbor, freshman football.

Although chosen as an honorary captain, Clifford, away at the University forestry camp, was not present at the banquet, attended by more than 120 numeral and letter winners in Memorial gymnasium.

Speakers at the dinner included: Fred M. Brice, head coach of football; William C. Kenyon, varsity basketball and baseball coach; John W. Moran, jayvee coach and sports editor of the Bangor Daily News; Dr. Arthur A. Hauck, president of the University; Samuel Calderwood, assistant freshman coach; Lamert S. Corbett, dean of men and chairman of the athletic board who presented the letter awards; and T. S. Curtis, faculty manager of athletics.

Clifford, the honorary cross country captain, is a senior and has been a member of the varsity cross country squad for three years. Along with his sophomore teammate, Don Smith, he was undefeated in state competition this fall.

Blaisdell, the freshman harrier captain, was the number one man for the first yearmen and finished second in the New England and sixth in the Nationals. Lack of experience, according to Coach Jenkins, cost Blaisdell the New England crown.

Arbor, frosh football captain, was a star halfback for Phil Jones this fall. He is also considered one of the leading basketball players in the freshman class.

The hockey season has ended with the juniors winning the tournament. The game scores are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Seniors	3 (tie)	3
Juniors	6 (tie)	0
Sophomores	5 (tie)	1
Freshmen	0	6

The Freshman-Sophomore Hat Game, which was played on Wednesday, November 17, was a victory of 4 to 1 for the sophomores. The line-up:

SOPHOMORES	FRESHMEN
Libby	R.W. Whitehouse
Peaslee	R.L. Hanson
Robertson	C.F. Gleason
Savage	L.L. Creamer
Simpson	L.W. Thomas
Tondreau	R.H. North
Worcester	C.H. Philbrook
Buckford	L.H. Wormwood
Grindel	R.B. Blanchard
Donovan	L.B. Conlon
Holmes	G. Pineo

The sophomores and juniors played on Nov. 18 and ended with a 1-1 tie.

The juniors played the freshmen on Nov. 14 and the juniors won by the slight margin of 3-2.

Miss Marion Rogers explained the new basketball regulations last Saturday to various coaches and their teams. A team made up of students demonstrated these rules.

Freshman basketball began in earnest this week, with the large squad being cut to 21 men.

Already prospects of a good season are in sight, for included in the array of material are four former prep-school captains and several high school captains.

Two of these, Charlie Arbor and Spencer Leek, are all-state prep school guards. Those surviving the cut are: R. Blanchard, S. Brody, R. Chase, R. Edgcomb, W. Fenderson, A. Humphries, D. Jewell, V. Kent, B. Mackay, N. Marriner, L. Muzroll, F. Newcomb, C. Parsons, R. Paul, C. Preble, J. Reitz, C. Sherman, R. Stearns, E. Tracy, and H. Whitten.

BEAR FACTS

By Bill Saltzman

Not just another Smith... A newspaperman need never have trouble writing about sophomore Don Smith, Maine's New England cross country champion, for there are more angles to the Aroostook flyer's life story than there are football players at Pittsburg.

Indeed, one could list the highlights of Smith's career, and each topic would be a story in itself. Consider, for example, the following list:

1. Smith had never been south of Bangor previous to his entrance to the University. (Here is a genuine "small-town boy" success tale. Smith, the little farmer boy from the potato field of Aroostook, shows the city slickers how to run.)
2. He was a snowshoe champion in his high school days. (From snowshoes to running shoes... from snow trails to cinder paths... enough fancy leads to satisfy even Bill Corum.)
3. He wears glasses when he runs. (What a chance to use that great adjective "bespectacled." You know—the bespectacled flyer... the bespectacled Aroostook Express... bespectacled Don Smith....)
4. He has worked on a farm nearly all his life. (A free advertisement for the power of Aroostook potatoes. Another angle to the "farm-boy making good" story.)
5. He was New England freshman cross country champion last year and New England varsity champion this year. (At that rate he should win the Boston Marathon in about five years.) He also finished fourth in the Nationals at New York a few weeks ago.
6. His name is Smith (Franny Smith is a great football player and Don Smith is a great cross country runner.)

A few mosts of the past football and cross country season, from a Maine point of view:

Most surprising football player: Don Mayo, the husky tackle who did a great job replacing an injured Wally Gleason in the Bowdoin-Maine game. Virtually unknown as a football player, husky Don, a hammer thrower in track, reported to Brice for the first time this fall. Although failing to make the Yale trip, he improved so rapidly that he was considered one of Maine's leading linemen at the end of the schedule.

Most outstanding football players: Joe Hamlin, an end; and Ernie Reidman, a guard; both of whom made the Portland Sunday Telegram's All-Maine team. Hamlin was selected as an All-Opponent end by Yale last week, while Reidman was a standout all season. Incidentally, Clint Frank, Yale's great All-American halfback, recently said that Smokey Joe was the hardest tackler to hit him this season.

Most outstanding cross country runner: Don Smith, the Aroostook flyer, who won the New England run and finished fourth in the Nationals.

Most promising cross country runner: Freshman Ken Blaisdell who took second in the New England freshman meet and rolled in sixth in the Nationals.

Most spirit: Ed Brannaman and his Maine R.O.T.C. Band. Not only did the band furnish snappy march drills and music during the football games, but it also won the state championship.

Most novel: The trumpet-swingster and the swing tunes of the Maine Band.

Most outstanding visiting backfieldman: Benny Karsokas, of Bowdoin. A hard-charging, high-stepping halfback, Karsokas was easily the best ground-gainer during the Maine-Bowdoin game. Fred Brice, Maine coach, later said that Karsokas was the best back he had seen in ten years.

Most outstanding visiting linemen: center Rossinski and end Little, of New Hampshire, two powerful boys who gave Maine plenty of trouble.

Locker-room tabs... How's this for an All-American team? Barantovitch, of Penn State, and Ingrasci, of Nicaragua, ends; Suchaldowsky, of Teacher College of Connecticut, and Berezney, of Fordham, tackles; Wielgolinski, of Albright, and Zajchowski, of Mass. State, guards; Wojciechewicz, of Fordham, center; Spasacinni, of Minnesota, Korolyshun, of Worcester, Tenczyn, of Lehigh, and Waitkowski, of Fordham, backs... Or probably we should call the team "the radio-announcer's nightmare"?... At any rate, here's the ideal All-American team for a linotypist or a radio announcer: Rock, of Vermont, and Nash, of U.C.L.A., ends; John, of Yale, and Wood, of Georgia Tech, tackles; Carr, of Holy Cross, and Roy, of Swarthmore, guards; Lees, of Maine, center; Heap, of Northwestern, Male, of Virginia, King, of Williams, and Long, of Army, backs... Although it's still early in the season, the Maine basketball squad looks much better than that of last year... Watch Bill Webber go to town... Track starts this week with the freshman-sophomore meet... Don't miss it... During his college days at Georgetown, Bill Kenyon, now basketball and baseball coach at the University, was selected as fullback on Hugh Fullerton's All-American team.

Funds for Red Cross Drive Exceed Those of Last Year

Funds collected in the Red Cross drive at the University this year, the second year in which such a drive has been held on campus, are far in excess of those collected last year, it has been announced.

The drive was conducted by a student committee consisting of Edward Sherry, chairman, Waldo Hardison, secretary, and William Veague, publicity manager, which co-operated with President Arthur Hauck and Dean Lamert S. Corbett.

Sophomore Team Has Show of Power In Weights

Results of the hurdle events will probably determine the outcome of the freshman-sophomore track meet Saturday afternoon in the field house.

Should the first-yearmen prove the stronger, and there is a very strong possibility that they will, freshman rules will be immediately called off. According to Coach Chester A. Jenkins, the frosh have the edge in the broad jump, javelin, and pole vault, while the sophomores appear to be better in the shot, hammer, and discus. Both classes are about even in the running events.

All of which leads up to the fact that it will be the hurdles that will determine the winner. Peculiarly enough, both classes are weak in this event.

A partial list of the participants include: Bennett, Brown, Serota, and Arbor for the frosh in the weight events against Mitchell, Johnson, R. Smith, and B. Smith for the sophomores; Brown and Hamlin, Penobscot county champion broad jumper for 1936, in the jumping events against sophomores Reynolds, Peabody, and Atwood; and Hamlin, Richardson, Blaisdell, Meserve, Erlenbach, and Jordan, frosh runners against Atwood, Dyer, Smith, Dequaine, and Jackson for the sophomores.

The rest of the team has not been named as yet, but anything can happen in this meet which, on paper, shapes up to be one of the closest in years. Of course, each class may have its "dark horses" which they are hiding until Saturday.

Seven Initiated by A. O. Pi

Seven girls were initiated into Alpha Omicron Pi, Friday, Nov. 19, at the Penobscot Valley Country Club. Those initiated were: Doreen Trask, Jane Dyer, El-nora Savage, Sophia Maisell, Joan Fales, Edna Louise Harrison, and Helen Bond.

The initiation was followed by a banquet and the annual sorority informal.

They repeat

so you won't have to!

Without repeater tubes, which amplify voice currents every 50 miles, telephony over very great distances would hardly be possible. Incidentally, the telephone repeater tube was one of the first applications of the vacuum tube principle, which now makes it possible for you to talk across the continent as easily as just around the corner. Changing needs call for continuous telephone research to make your service more and more valuable.

Why not call Mother or Dad tonight? Rates to most points are lowest after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday.

Sororities Open Rushing Season

Sorority rushing parties began immediately after the Thanksgiving recess. Several small parties were given during the past week.

Monday afternoon Phi Mu entertained the following girls: Ruth Seavey, Mable McAllister, Eloise Hutchinson, Betty Hopkins, Margaret Philbrook, June Bridges, Edith Cousins, Mildred White, Winifred Blanchard, Yvonne Pomroy, Ruth Garrison, Margaret West, Frances North, Barbara Young, Mavis Creamer, Marjorie Whitehouse, Joan Chapman, Mildred Chapman, Blanche Conlon, Claralyn Preble, Eleanor Winchell, and Charlene Perkins.

The following freshmen and upperclass women attended the party given by Chi Omega Monday from five to seven.

Barbara Ashworth, Mary Bates, Miriam Brown, Mary Chapman, Mildred Chapman, Alice Christie, Elizabeth Cliff, Mavis Creamer, Virginia Eddy, Elizabeth Emery, Elizabeth Gammons, Beatrice Gleason, Virginia Hill, Emily Hopkins, Dorcas Jewell, Virginia Jewett, Frances Rhoda, Charlotte Hennessy, Margaret Hauck, Glenna Johnson, Margaret Jones, Elizabeth Luce, Elizabeth Mack, Phyllis Meserve, Shirley Mitchell, Patricia Murray, Frances North, Mary Oberly, Barbara Cliff, Priscilla Pineo, Ernestine Pinkham, Claralyn Preble, Ruth Reed, Elizabeth Reid, Pauline Riley, Hilda Rowe, Frances Sawyer, Madeline Smart, Camilla Thomas, Esther Thomson, Anna Verrill, Dorothy Wing, Helen Wormwood, Barbara Young, Carolyn Calderwood, and Betty Johnson.

Tuesday evening Delta Delta Delta entertained the following:

Margaret West, Gwendolyn Weymouth, Elizabeth Emery, Sarah Culberson, Helen Wormwood, Emily Hopkins, Florence Farnham, Barbara Young, Pauline Riley, Shirley Mitchell, Elizabeth Peaslee, Elizabeth Hopkins, Corrine Comstock, Elizabeth Mack, Edith McIntire, Ruth Reed, Ruth Garrison, Mary Burke, Isabel Crosby, Elizabeth Cliff, Frances Rhoda, Barbara Ashworth, Joan McAllister, Mary Bates, Priscilla Pineo, Mary Boone, Frances North, Priscilla Achorn, Beatrice Gleason, Frances Sawyer, Alice Christie, Carolyn Calderwood, Madeline Smart, Elizabeth Gammon, Glenna Johnson, Margaret Hauck, Camilla Thomas, Elizabeth Johnson, Patricia Murray, Barbara Cliff, June Bridges, Elizabeth Reid, Hilda Rowe, Betty Drummond, Mary Oberly, Mavis Creamer, Ernestine Carver, and Helen Maling.

"Stille Nacht" to be Presented By German Club Monday

The cast for the third annual Christmas play to be presented by the German Club has been selected by Prof. John Klein. The three-act play, "Stille Nacht," will be given December 6, in 235 Stevens.

The cast is as follows: Maria, Frances Lannon; Joseph, James Siegel; Kaspar, Edward Hayes; Melchior, Sidney Alpert; Balthasar, Dennis Curran; Jakob, Azalea Boyer; Stefan, John De Long; Peter, Francis Bradbury; Ein Vagabond, Nancy Hennings; and the Innkeeper's wife, Faith Shesong.

Elizabeth Drummond has charge of properties.

Seniors have less than a week left in which to fill out activities sheets. Artemus Weatherbee, editor of the Prism, requests that they come to the Prism office in the M.C.A. building immediately and make out their sheets.

2 Alumni Scholarships And Prize Are Awarded

Two alumni scholarships and an award were announced today by President Hauck.

Alton S. Hamm, a senior in civil engineering, will receive the stipend of the Southern California Alumni Association scholarship for the current academic year.

William Hatch, a sophomore in forestry, has been awarded the Waldo County Alumni Association scholarship.

Artemus E. Weatherbee, a junior in history and government, has been awarded the Sigma Mu Sigma Award for the current year, in place of Robert Jackson, the recipient announced last spring, who did not return to the University.

Home Ec Club Initiates Forty-six At 1st Meeting

The Home Economics Club initiated forty-six women Wednesday evening, Nov. 17, at Merrill Hall. Miss Marion Rogers showed movies of campus life.
