Prism Breaks Records; Size of Book and Sales Exceed Previous Marks

This Edition To Be
Largest Prism
In History

NEW LAYOUT USED

Many New Features
To Be Included
In 1939 Issue

Several records have been broken by this year's "Prism", and many new features added, Artemus Weatherbees, "Prism" editor, declared today.

In the second of his two major announcements of the year, he enumerates some of the features which he has incorporated into the book.

"This year's 'Prism' has set a record in subscriptions which surpasses last year's unprecedented record of 912 copies by nearly 150, subscription this year having reached nearly 1050 copies in spite of the fact that the featured class is smaller by fifty than that of last year," said the editor. "Not only has a record been set in the number of copies sold but also in the number of pages in the book. Last year there was a record number of 336 pages; this year sees the addition of 50 more."

"The foreword discloses that the editor's objective is: 'to present as complete a record as possible of the actors in the University of Maine scenes of 1937-38 in as free and semi-formal a style and in as unprejudiced a manner as possible.'"

"Section headings this year are in a free-hand style, cover two pages, and are printed in blue."

"The faculty section has been touched up considerably. Many campus pictures, and a special arrangement of the pictures of the faculty members themselves have done much to better this section."

"For the first time juniors have special blue sketches, and informal pictures, besides the usual cut. Activities have been classified according to honors, honorary societies, special awards, athletics, and miscellaneous, and Dean's List and Tutorial Honors are recognized."

"The seniors have been generously allotted half as many pages as the featured class, and have been given activities write-ups. Cap and gown figures have been inserted to break up the monotony of the section."

"Cutaways of the freshman and sophomore class pictures have been interspersed throughout the freshman and sophomore sections and do much to make these sections less monotonous."

"For the first time the fraternity pages include pictures of the pledges. The groups of the members are out-of-doors pictures. The write-ups of the fraternities contain a list of members prominent in campus activities and their positions in these activities, outstanding graduates and their occupations in both local and national chapters, as well as a short history of the fraternity. Special free-hand headings are used in this section as well as the sorority section."

"The sorority section also has informal pictures of the members of each sorority."

"A new section has been included in the 'Prism' this year—the dormitory section. It has pictures of the students taken outside of their respective dorms. It also recognizes the off-campus men, off-campus women, home management house, and the cabins."

"Perhaps one of the greatest changes in this year's 'Prism' is the expansion of the Women's Sport section from 3 pages, which has been the maximum in the past, to 16 pages. Men's Sports have at

Le May to Teach Summer Classes

Miss Mary L. LeMay, chairman of the department of mathematics, of the Ottawa, (Ill.) township high school, will be the visiting professor in mathematics at the University of Maine Summer Session, which opens July 5. She will give courses on methods of instruction and of testing, designed for high school teachers. These comprise: Content of mathematics in Secondary Schools; Teaching of Secondary School Mathematics; and Testing Techniques in Mathematics for Secondary Schools.

Miss LeMay, a native of Illinois, was educated at Blackburn College, Illinois Wesleyan University, where she graduated in 1920, and the University of Illinois from which she obtained the degree of M. S. She has done supplementary work at the Universities of Colorado and Wisconsin. She has had thirteen years of experience in teaching in the high-school field, and before going to Ottawa, taught at Carlinville, Illinois, and Wabash, Indiana.

Additional courses will be given in Mathematics by Professors M. F. Jordan and W. S. Lucas of the University of Maine faculty.

Special Program For Farm Week

A varied and interesting program has been arranged for the thirty-second annual Farm and Home Week to be held here at the University of Maine, March 29-31.

A special program has been planned for the women, emphasizing family finance, rural cooperation, accessories in the home, and the needs of the youth of today. The American Home Department of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs and the annual Child Development Institute conducted by the Maine Children's Council will meet during the week in conjunction with the women's group.

Talks by many well-known poultrymen will be given, and this year, for the first time, a special program has been arranged for turkey growers.

Take Prominent Parts in Revue

Ruth Trickey, who plays part of Miss Headliner, and Joan Fales, who plays part of Gypsy Shows Knee in Maine's first Varsity Show, tomorrow evening.

Springfield College Gymnastic Team To Give Exhibition Saturday Evening

The Springfield College gymnastic team will give an exhibition Saturday evening, March 19, at 7:00 P. M. in the Memorial gymnasium.

The team, coached by Prof. Leslie Judd, who has himself appeared in an exhibition before King George, have shown before thousands of spectators in the United States, Canada, and Mexico. Four request performances have been given in Madison Square Garden.

Among the outstanding members of this year's team are Hugh Noble, captain and capable performer on the parallel and horizontal bars; William Wright, a champion baton twirler; Carol Newcomb, a trumpeter who refused a position with a Major Bowes' unit, and who is also very good; Harold LeMaistre of Australia, who performs one of the spectacular dances on the program; and last but not least, Clem Perkins, who furnishes the comedy relief.

And Perkins really is funny. He has that rare gift of the old-time circus clown of performing difficult feats with such dexterity that the audience laughs with joy at his skill, as well as his good-natured air that radiates clear across the floor.

There are twenty-four men on the team. There is not space here to give account of each one, who is an artist in his own line. One has to see a performance to appreciate this extravaganza.

This exhibition is brought here by the department of athletics and the assembly committee, free to students and members of the faculty and their families.

The program follows:

1. Wand Rhythms The Team.
2. Side Horse or Rings.....Individual team members.
3. Juggling act Clem Perkins.
4. Los Viegitos (Dance) Team members.
5. Horizontal Bar Individual team members.
6. South Sea Island Fire Dance

Indoor Tennis Review Trophy Tournament Will Be Held in Memorial Gym Tuesday

The 16 foremost tennis players in the University, including the outdoor champion, Vernon Kent, and the runner-up, Julie Brodie, compete in an indoor tennis review trophy tournament Tuesday evening in Memorial gymnasium.

In addition, four coeds—Fern Lunt, Miriam Landon, Alice Ann Donovan, and Louise Rice—will battle for women honors. Silver cups will be awarded to winners of women's and men's singles, while a plaque will be given to the runner-up in the men's singles. Medals will be given to third and fourth place winners among the men.

The tournament will be open at 7:30 p. m. to students and members of the faculty. Blanket tax will be necessary for admittance, although special complimentary tickets will be issued to guests outside the University.

Matches are to be run off on a time schedule with the matches up to the semi-finals lasting 12 minutes each and the finals lasting 30 minutes. The winner of a match will be determined by the number of points earned and not by games. Women's matches will each be 10 minutes.

Cups, plaques, and medals won by the various winners will, it is expected, become the possession of the house or dormitory the contestant has represented. Thus, two names will appear on each reward, that of the house and that of the individual winner.

Men selected to compete are: Clayton Merserau, Sigma Nu; Tom Kane, Theta Chi; Jack Maines, Beta Theta Pi; Dick Pierce, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; William Chandler, Sigma Chi; Jim Cahill, Kappa Sigma; Leslie Brookes, Sigma Chi; William Veague and Roddie Elliott, Phi Kappa Sigma; Vernon Kent, Alpha Tau Omega; Austin Chamberlain, Phi Gamma Delta; Julie Brodie and Elmer Lipa, Tau Epsilon Phi; Dick Chase, freshmen; and Clark Thurston and Sewell Ginsberg, commuters.

All sixteen, observers claim, are potential winners, although Vern Kent, Julie Brodie, Leslie Brookes, and Rod Elliott are slightly favored over the others.

Kent, a tall freshman from Fort Kent who came from behind to lick Brodie in last year's outdoor tournament, has a strong service and plays a great net game. Brodie, however, has been undefeated in indoor competition this winter and may avenge last fall's defeat.

Elliott is a newcomer to the tennis sport at the University, but those who have seen him play in Canada say he is the best in the school. The little Montreal senior was also an All-Maine halfback in football and one of the best skijumpers of the east in winter sports.

The other member of the big four is Leslie Brookes, who was University champion two years ago. Brookes is an aggressive player and may regain his former top position.

A possible dark-horse is Clark Thurston, a commuter, who did very well last summer in the Eastern Maine open tennis tournament. Thurston, incidentally, is one of the few men at the University who have defeated Brodie.

Officials for the tournament include:

General chairman: Dr. George M. Small, coach of tennis.
Judges: Dr. Arthur A. Haeck, Dean Lambert S. Corbett, Dean Olin Lutes, Dean Edward Allen, Helen

Student Production Has Satirical Plot And Original Songs

Discuss Plans Of Maine Day

Classes Combine to Give
One Skit In Evening
With Faculty Play

Plans for the fourth annual Maine Day to be held Wednesday, May 4, were discussed by the general Maine Day committee at their first meeting Sunday evening at President Hauck's home with chairman Lincoln Fish presiding.

The major change in the program is to be the abolishment of individual class stunts for the evening entertainment. It was decided that the entire student body should present one skit, to be under the direction of the evening committee, with the faculty play to be as in the past. These activities will begin at 8:00 o'clock, each to last approximately 30 minutes, and to be followed by general dancing until 11:00. Admission to the evening entertainment will be by blanket tax for students and by ticket for faculty and University employees.

Sentiment from both the freshmen and sophomore representatives showed that interclass rivalry had outworn itself, and the afternoon

Music Night Plans Are Announced

A program of wide interest and variety has been prepared for the annual "Music Night," which will be held in the Little Theatre on Thursday evening, March 24, at 7:30, followed by an informal dance in the Alumni Hall Gymnasium. Paul Monaghan will furnish music for the dancing.

The following numbers will be presented on the concert program: University Band—"Soldiers on Parade", de Luca; Excerpts from the Operetta "The Chimes of Normandy", Planquette; University Chorus—"Dayspring", Tchaikovsky; "Vale of Tuoni", Sibelius; "The Goslings" (Humoresque), Bridge; Londonderry Air, Irish Folk; University Orchestra, Excerpts from the Ballet Russe, Luigini, a. Czaras, b. Valse Lente, c. Scene; Violoncello Solo with orchestral accompaniment, Andante, Gabriel-Marie, with Marion Hatch as soloist.

Besides the above, the following will also appear on the program in numbers to be later announced: University Trio—John DeLong, violin; Marion Hatch, Violoncello; Evelyn Adriance Miles, piano; and as soloists, Elsa Parshey, violinist; Ruth Trickey, soprano; and Edward Marsh, tenor.

Josephine Profita Translates Play

Josephine M. Profita, senior in the college of Arts and Sciences, and a major in Drama, translated Carlo Goldoni's "The Servant of Two Masters," which will be presented by the Maine Masque on April 26, 27, 28 as its last production of the season.

The translation of this play by Miss Profita is an innovation in that it is the first time in the history of the University that a student has attempted such a task.

Miss Profita has studied Italian abroad and in addition has taken several courses while at the university.

"The Servant of Two Masters" is a classical farce in three acts, with the setting in Venice in the eighteenth century. Tryouts are being held this week; and rehearsals will get underway next week.

Revue Is First Of Its Kind At Maine

DANCE FOLLOWS

North and Cotting
Are Starred In Revue

By Mary Oberly

After weeks of continuous rehearsing, the Pale Blue Revue of 1938, starring Frances North and Roger Cotting, and produced by the Student Arts Club, will be presented tomorrow evening at Alumni Gymnasium. A semi-formal dance will follow the Revue.

The production represents the original work of Maine students. Story, music, and costumes have been furnished by members of the University ably aided and abetted by the faculty. The music and lyrics were written by Leo Lieberman and have been arranged for orchestra by Watie Akins, whose band will play for the dance. Musical numbers during the show will be played by a 14-piece band made up of members of Watie Akins' and Perley Reynolds' orchestras. The song titles indicate the satirical nature of the story: "I'm Just a Shirley Temple At Heart," "How to Win Friends and Influence People," and "You've Got to Try Love." "Ecstasy," sung by Ruth Trickey, will be the musical highlight of the show.

The story is a political satire, written by Phyllis Marks of the Contributors' Club. It concerns a romantic piano-tuner who has great schemes for bringing peace and happiness to the world through rhythm and love. He goes to a League of Nations meeting as a band leader and there he meets Evangeline, the daughter of aristocratic old Senator Cottonseed. At first Clarence has nothing but trouble, for the Senator will not accept him as a suitor for his daughter and the League of Nations will not accept his proposal to preserve peace.

However, when the chairman of the meeting, Anthony Tweedin, resigns, Clarence takes his place and everything is straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned. In the course of the action various world-recognized characters are brought in to lighten the satire.

Frances North, who will play Evangeline, has appeared in several Campus entertainments with her particular specialty of song and swing. Roger Cotting, as Clarence, will handle the masculine lead. Joan Fales will play the role of Gypsy Shows Knee and convince the audience that Gypsy is a misunderstood girl when she sings "I'm Just a Shirley Temple At Heart."

Other important characters are K. Stanford who will play Anthony Tweedin and Merritt Trott and Virginia Maguire will take the parts of President and Mrs. Rose-melt.

A chorus of Maine co-eds will dance to Lieberman's songs. The routines are varied and boast of formations and wedges in addition to tap steps. Eileen Cassidy of the Physical Education Department is in charge.

Solo dancers will be Mavis Creamer and Theodore Sobel, of Campus fame as "Shag and Skip." They have innovated a new interpretation of the Shag for this production.

Costumes are under the direction of Edna Louise Harrison. The chorus will be costumed in pale

A New Collegiate Magazine

The present school year has seen the birth of a new venture in collegiate journalism in New England. Several undergraduates at Clark University conceived the idea of a New England intercollegiate magazine with a threefold purpose; to present news from every college and university in New England; to print literary contributions of worth; and to express student thought and feeling. These students, with associates from other New England colleges, brought into being the "Collegiate Review."

For the current season it is being published quarterly, but will, in the fall of 1938, become a monthly. Each issue, besides news and literary material, includes a survey of some college campus, stories of campus personalities, and many other features. Colby, Bates, Bowdoin and the University of Maine are among the forty-one colleges and universities cooperating in this new publication.

Few copies of the "Review" have appeared on this campus, but with the appearance of the spring number which will contain news from the University of Maine, student interest should be awakened to subscribe to and offer contributions for this new magazine. The "Collegiate Review" offers an unparalleled opportunity for individuals or organizations to get some of their literary works printed in a magazine read on nearly every college campus in New England. The opportunity seems too good to pass by.

Maine Day

Already the committee for the fourth annual Maine Day is at work. The sunny days of May seem far away, perhaps, but the committee is determined that nothing shall be left undone that should be done to make Maine Day a success. This event, so young in years yet already so rich in the memories that will become tradition, must become as integral a part of our university life as homecoming day, or commencement, for no other day can so bring to every student and faculty member such a feeling of pride in his university. For faculty and students to work together to make our campus more beautiful, to frolic together, to spend an evening together in play and dance, will, as no other day could, swing the elements of dissension into one mighty pulse of loyalty and enthusiasm. Maine could not but be better for it.

University Glee Club

Praises have been sung, and justly so, for the presentation of "Johnny Johnson". One feature which has not received much publicity, and yet met with very favorable reception, was the singing by the male chorus. It brings up the old question of why there is no male glee club or even a university quartette at Maine. It hardly could be for lack of talent. It seems as though a few enterprising songsters might do well by themselves and the University by organizing at least a male quartette.

Because of a necessary three day leave of absence by Edwin S. Costrell, "Campus" editor, Arland R. Meade has served as editor-in-chief and Clement Smith as managing editor of the "Campus" this week.

Lord Heads Extension Chiefs

George E. Lord, assistant director of the Maine Extension Service, was chosen chairman of the Northeastern Section of Extension Directors at the annual directors' conference held in New York City, March 3 to 5 inclusive.

This conference, which includes directors and assistant directors of the Extension Service in the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, serves as a coordinating body between the states and between the Extension Service and some of the newer Federal agencies in the agricultural field.

Every third Saturday at 4 a. m. Arthur L. Loessin of Columbia, S. D., starts a 300 mile drive to attend the special classes for public school teachers held at the University of North Dakota. He travels the greatest distance of any in the class. (A. C. P.)

Beverage Achieves Research

The feature article in the March issue of The Maine Alumnus, entitled "Laurels Lightly Rest" by Lee Galvin, tells of important research work which is being carried on by Harold H. Beverage, '15. Beverage is chief research engineer for R. C. A. Communication, Inc., and President of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

All major comprehensives in the College of Arts and Sciences will be given Saturday, March 19. The time, morning or afternoon, will be announced by each department, Dean Allen said.

Oral comprehensives in the College of Arts and Sciences will be given during the last full week in April.

The following pledge reports have been received and properly recorded by the Interfraternity Council:

KUBLA CANTS
 By Lewis Nightingale
 Once every year all the college papers in the country manage to get off that old dissertation on bananas, and since I never was one to break with tradition—"I don't like bananas, and I'm glad I don't like bananas, for if I liked them I'd eat them, and I hate the darn things." Now that I've got that off my chest, I'm reminded of something. You ought to hear Don Adams order a banana split the new way. It'll drive you nuts.

It would appear that I've had too much about drinking in this column. People seem to miss it since I left it out. And yet, what criticism when I put it in. There is nothing wrong in writing about the pupils of Bacchus. Coleridge, the dope, even quoth a line now and then when he was thirsty that went something like—"Water, water everywhere, . . . but not a drop to drink." That is misquoted slightly, but not much, not much.

First sign of spring, the increase of twosomes in the book store ordering icerim cones. And with that indication, mention should be made of a few things that become involved with spring. First of all comes courtship, defined by many as consisting of a man chasing a woman until she catches him. That brings up love, love in the spring, a misunderstanding between fools. Ah love, beware, be where? Love and books never did mix, but of two evils, choose the prettier, as I don't know how many others have said before me.

Another thing that comes up in the spring rush for feminine pulchritude on every campus is that someone is going to discover that the bevy of beauties is not large enough to go around. For those who get a woman Whose eyes are crossed,
 Has hair like kelp,
 Be sure it's dark
 And that will help.

This next is a bit of senseless diatribe along political lines, and though I had a hand in it, I'm not responsible.
 A Briton wouldn't a-woooing go,
 "Heigh-ho," says Eden.
 "Whether Chamberlain wanted or no,
 I've told II Duce where he can go,
 And out went Anthony Eden.

Now that the time has come to bring this strip to a close, I am sticking on one more bit that may express the sentiments of many, and to save them the trouble of saying it themselves, I've done it for them. Always willing to please, you know, et al. (Or don't you know et al?)
 I think that I shall never see
 An end to this, Kants' poetry.
 We all like verse, but it's a sin
 The way that Kubla rubs it in.

NOTES

Prof. Charles G. Cumming of Bangor will speak at the next Vesper Service to be held in the Little Theater Sunday afternoon, March 20, at 4:15. His subject will be "The Path of Sacrifice". Professor Cumming spoke at the Sunday morning service during Freshman Week this year here.

The Elms String Trio will play two selections during the service. This will be the last Vesper Service before Palm Sunday.

Mrs. Janet Nelson, special lecturer in the freshman hygiene course, is the speaker for the next meeting of the Y. W. C. A., to be held in Balentine sun-parlor Monday afternoon at 4:15.

No meetings in the series of informal fraternity discussions will be held during the week of March 21.

Plans are being made for a series of short religious services to be held during Holy Week. The program for these services will consist of music and a brief talk.

In view of the latest European developments, attention is called to the fact that copies of the "London Times Weekly" may be found in the Reading Room of the M. C. A. Building. These are the only copies of the periodical available on campus. In them will be found some of the British views of the contemporary crisis.

Paul Bunyon On Campus

Wayne Garland, six feet, eight inches tall, the most lofty student in the University, once . . .

Was a member of the C. C. C.—158th company, down at Southwest Harbor. Although Wayne was not a specialist, during his year and one-half enlistment, he . . .

Had a job unlike any ever before offered by the officers of the Triple C. After Wayne had performed feats that would arouse the envy of Paul Bunyan himself, a series of legends grew up about him, in which he was described as . . .

The man who held the tops of trees so that they would remain steady while other men sawed below . . .

The man who waded a mile into the Atlantic Ocean before the water was deep enough for him to swim . . .

The man who, when standing on the ground, kissed the major's daughter while she was sitting on a seat atop the ferris wheel at the fair . . .

The man who had such a long digestive tract that in winter boiling soup fell in ice-cubes as it reached his stomach.

But Wayne really became famous when he was commissioned by the government to go from one camp to another . . .

Pick off the swallows' nests from beneath the eaves . . .

Which he could do without a ladder. But Wayne had to quit this well-paying job after a year . . . Because he got cricks in his back from stooping so much!

Σ N Elects Mesereau President

Clayton D. Mesereau was chosen president of Sigma Nu fraternity at an election held this week. Other officers are: Stuart Currier, vice-president; Arthur T. Cartier, treasurer; Robert Rich, recorder-reporter; Allyn E. Charpentier, chaplain; Thomas S. Pinkham, marshal; James McCain, sentinel; Winfield Smith, third member of house committee; Otis Davis, steward; and Carleton Clark, alumni contact officer.

Students at Oklahoma A. and M. College can walk on dry steamlined sidewalks even on icy, slippery days. When college engineers designed the underground system of laying steam heating lines between buildings they were placed underneath some of the main interconnecting sidewalks. The steam pipes keep ice or wet spots from collecting on the walks. (A. C. P.)

Gamma Nu's at the University of Oklahoma have an unwritten code that no girl may date a boy whom a sorority sister is already dating. (A. C. P.)

STRANGE INTERLUDES

By University Snoops

We wonder how all the Colvin Sophomores felt when they saw all their old flames at the dance with little Irish girls . . . Another one added to Bill Ward's list. Is Polly one of the "Ten Pretty Girls" or just an extra? . . . What happened to Betty and Bill? We thought they were going steady but . . . Connie goes in big for presidents—class president or president of the Owls; it makes no difference, does it, Connie? . . . Has Littlefield fallen for Doak and has she fallen for him? They fall harder in the spring . . . Hilda will have a whole crew pretty soon. What is Jerry going to do? . . .

You should have seen Bud and Lib the other night. They seemed quite wrapped up in each other, and it was their first date . . . Wish to contribute a few reasons why spring is here: Nancy Hennings has that far away look in her eyes; Ed Costrell is away to Bean Town on a bandelorum (he calls it business); Jo Profita is maintaining that women's place is in the home; Ruth Trickey sings sweetly to herself as she goes to classes; Pete Emery feels low because his love life is looking up; Prof. Bradt appears at his lectures in a clean shirt on Monday . . . Jo Morcault thinks of running for campus mayor; Eleanor Savage complains that it is harder to write about things than to do them (Eh Sa—description, narration, and short story). Saltzman doesn't think we ought to mention his bright new socks.

To the Editor:

As the light rays from the dreary world outside strike the dry and yellowed pages of the dusty tome opened before me, and the dustier tome upon which I sit becomes harder and harder, and my legs, because there are only about three inches between the volume upon which I am sitting and the floor, in spite of the fact that this is a very thick tome and my legs are not the longest at Maine, find more muscles than I ever knew I had to get sore, I scribble these lines to you, knowing that of all persons, you will try to do something about my distressing situation.

I have been in that gloomy region of the Building of the Intelligentia, stacked with dusty relics of the past, the Third Floor Stacks—all afternoon. An exuberantly romantic young couple around the corner occupy the only two chairs and the only table in the vicinity. Billets doux and the carving of one's initials on library tables seem to fascinate college kiddoes as well as grammar school and high school youngsters. And after all, I only have a 3,000 word term paper to hand in for tomorrow.

But I don't mind the least bit practically sitting on the floor. In fact I rather like it. I hear the drone of the pleasant monotonous voices of another couple beneath me and that and the sixteenth century irresistibly lure along the forthcoming siesta I have valiantly tried to repulse all afternoon. And then, too, here I am close to nature—close to the cobwebs on the lowest shelves of the bookcases—close to those ghosts of the earth which slyly lurk on the covers of both my volumes and have already printed a definite dark circle on the seat of my collegiate gray skirt—close to the elements as my legs inevitably rest on the cold hard glass of the Stacks floor.

But why should I describe to you all these dreary circumstances if my lot is a dusty, cob-webby one, then it must be. After all, I can't stand up and hold a ten-pound voluminous volume for five hours in my feminine arms. I'm no football hero, and I couldn't bear to ask Cupid's children, who have completely forgotten the existence of the world's cold reality, to awake to the realization of another's aching muscles, paralyzed posture, and hopelessly humpled shoulders, and bleary eyes. Love is so beautiful.

I do hope the public will excuse my fantastic suggestion that a few chairs be spread about for us few who do come to college for knowledge, and perhaps another table or two, maybe smaller ones, for single persons like me.

Of course, though, I can see the advantages as things are. I can see how much more forbidding and intellectual and dignified the library looks bare of comforts—even necessary comforts. I can note how much more we appreciate and zealously watch over every little note taken from those dusty tomes after we have stood up long afternoons holding our yellow scrap paper against the hard, cold, unsympathetic plastered walls while we added note upon note patiently. And then, I realize how comforting it is, in the midst of the sixteenth century, to realize that there are happy and affectionate people in the world when I hear from the rear of the stacks an audibly uttered endearment. And so I suppose if we students are facetious enough to expect chairs to sit in while we study and tables to rest our ten-pound volumes on, we deserve disillusionment.

But, Editor, when you have lived in disillusionment nearly four years already, its effects cease to affect. Don't think we seniors should have, well, perhaps, inverted waste baskets to take our comprehensive notes on, or— I don't want to be too particular—packing-boxes or a couple thick Webster's dictionaries.

Hopefully yours,
 JULIE.

Owing to a misunderstanding and a consequent confusion concerning the date on which the Prism goes off sale, the final dead-line for placing orders has been extended to March 26, the date on which college closes for the spring recess. If you wish to place an order clip the coupon which appeared in last week's Campus and send it to Box 52, Alumni Hall, or, if you wish, you may accomplish the same ends by calling the MCA any afternoon and asking for a Prism representative. Faculty members may obtain copies of the Prism by placing their orders by mail.

Final Community Concert Features Bruno Castagna

The final Community Concert of the season, featuring Bruno Castagna, young Metropolitan Opera star, will be presented at the Bangor City Hall on Wednesday, March 23, at 8:15.

A special bus will leave Balentine at 7:15, Maples at 7:20, the Elms at 7:25, and So. Hall at 7:30. Reservations should be made with Elizabeth Luce, Madeline Davis, Isabel Crosby, or Mary Upham. The round trip will be $40.

Those teams are here again . . . The Lewiston Sun started it and we hope to finish it, provided no one finishes us first. We refer, of course, to the selection of All-Maine basketball teams, a very difficult and almost impossible task. It would be easy to name eight or ten outstanding men, but to designate five players as the best in the state is to do an injustice to several other players who might be just as good, if not better.

All-Maine teams, good or bad, are a lot of fun, however, and should be taken in that manner. Without further explanations, therefore, we present our 1938 All-Maine basketball team. Complaints will be received at the Campus office.

The team:

Forwards — Burrill of Colby, Woodbury of Bates

Center — Webber of Maine

Guards — Hamlin of Maine, Kenney of Bates

It might appear strange that Colby, which won the state championship, has only one man on the team, while Maine and Bates have each two performers. Colby, however, was a team's team, not a team of brilliant individuals.

In other words, the Mules played very well as a unit, but, in our opinion, they had only one outstanding individual, Burrill, easily the class of the state's basketball men.

For the sake of comparison, All-Maine teams picked by the Lewiston Sun and Colby Echo follow:

Lewiston Sun

Forwards — Burrill of Colby and Woodbury of Bates.

Center — Webber of Maine

Guards — Pearl of Colby and Hamlin of Maine

Colby Echo

Forwards — Rogers of Maine and Burrill of Colby

Center — Woodbury of Bates

Guards — Pearl of Colby and Lord of Maine

Another columnist in our midst . . . Fred Brice, head football coach at the University the past 17 years, turned sports columnist the other week. To be sure it was only for one day, but what he wrote is worthy of consideration.

"Probably in no other New England state is there more natural rivalry and greater competition than in the state of Maine," writes Brice in "The Sports Forum" of the Boston Transcript. "Bowdoin, Colby, Bates, and the University of Maine, year in, year out, furnish keen competition but above everything else have kept athletics on a high plane scholastically and with a high standard of eligibility and rules regulating the various sports."

After paying a tribute to Adam Walsh who "has done an excellent job" at Bowdoin, the Maine coach goes on to say that the Polar Bears will be "the favored team for next fall's campaign with Colby presenting strong opposition."

"Both Maine and Bates lost heavily by graduation, and will be forced to build new teams. Al McCoy, formerly with Northeastern, in his first coaching at Colby had a mediocre season but has excellent prospects for next fall. Colby is definitely on the upgrade."

Discussing the state track situation, Brice comments: "The (Maine) track team under Chet Jenkins has been a consistent winner, and will be highly favored to repeat this spring (in the state meet)" as they have some excellent performers in nearly every event."

Tabs: Two events for your "must" calendar: The Springfield gymnasts Saturday evening and the Indoor Tennis Review Tournament, both in Memorial gymnasium . . . Spring football practice starts soon. 'Twill be a tough job this year. Ten out of the eleven starters are to be graduated. . . Congrats to Phi Eta Kappa for its thrilling intramural championship win Tuesday evening. And nice work, Mac . . . Hal Woodbury, who is an assistant in the physical ed department, was recently named freshman baseball coach, succeeding Bill Wells, resigned. . . Good luck, Woodie . . . Best feat of the week: Johnny Gowell running wild to take three firsts at the Northeastern-Maine track meet . . . Watch the trackmen go to town in the spring . . . That is, if nothing happens . . . Maine Trackmen Top Northeastern Squad

The Maine varsity track team finished the indoor season in great style Saturday night as it swamped Northeastern University by a score of 81 2-3 to 34 1-3, giving Maine an undefeated season.

Johnny Gowell, unable to compete in the last two meets, was back in top form as he scored three firsts, tops for the meet. Gowell began by breaking the meet record in the 45 yard high hurdle event. Then he won the 70 yard low hurdle. In this event, in addition to breaking the meet record, Johnny set a new college indoor record by running the event in 8 seconds. In the broad jump, Johnny leapt 23 feet, 3-4 inch for another new meet record.

Don Smith, who has also been somewhat handicapped by injuries this season, ran a great mile, as he beat Leck of Northeastern by 5 yards, setting a new meet record of 4 min. 26 2-5 sec. Smith also ran the 1000 yard run, as Haggett was indisposed. Leck, however, took his revenge in this event, by beating Smith and setting a new meet record of 2 min. 21 3-5 sec.

Sid Hurwitz took firsts in both the 70 yard and 300 yard events. In the 600 yard run, however, Hurwitz was beaten by Mascianica, who set a new meet record of 1:14, 1-4 in the event. Other outstanding Maine performers were Waldo Hardison, who leapt 12 ft. 2 5-8 in. for a new meet record in the pole vault; Bill Hunnewell, who lapped the whole field and set a new meet record of 9:39, 3-5 in the two mile run; Stan Johnson, who won the 35 pound weight event with a heave of 52 ft., 10 inches; and Harold Dyer who won the shot put.

For Northeastern, Miles, who won the high jump with a leap of 6 ft., 2 in., and took second in the 45 yard high hurdles, and Leck, who won the 600 and took second in the mile as previously stated, were the leading scorers.

The summary of the Maine-Northeastern track meet:

16 pound shot put—Won by Dyer, Maine; second, Colligen, Northeastern; third, Whipple, Northeastern. Distance: 42 ft., 8, 3-4 in.

35 pound weight—Won by Johnson, Maine; second, Fox, Maine; third, Marston, Maine. Distance: 52 feet 10 1-2 in. New Meet record.

45 yard hurdles—Won by Gowell, Maine; second, Miles, Northeastern; third, Shanker, Northeastern. Time: 6 sec. New meet record.

70 Yard Dash—Won by Hurwitz, Maine; second, Atwood, Maine; third, Holmes, Northeastern. Time: 7 3-5 seconds.

One Mile Run—Won by D. Smith, Maine; second, Leck, Northeastern; third, Neal, Maine. Time 4:26 2-5. New meet record.

600 Yard Run—Won by Mascianica, Northeastern; second, Hurwitz, Maine; third, McDonough, Northeastern. Time: 1:14, 1-5. New meet record.

Two Mile Run—Won by Hunnewell, Maine; second, Whicher, Maine; third, Dequene, Maine. Time: 9:39 3-5. New meet record.

Pole Vault—Won by Hardison, Maine; second, tie, Leonard and Rich, Maine. Distance: 12 ft., 2 5-8 in. New meet record. High Jump, won by Miles, Northeastern; second, tie, McCarthy, Maine, F. Higgins, Maine, and Whipple, Northeastern. Distance 6 ft., 2 in.

1000 Yard Run—Won by Leck, Northeastern; second D. Smith, Maine; third, Grant, Northeastern. Time 2:21, 3-5. New meet record.

70 Yard Low Hurdles—Won by Gowell, Maine; second Shanker, Maine. Winning time 8, 1-5 sec. New meet and indoor college record of 8 sec, set in trial heat.

300 Yard Dash—Won by Hurwitz, Maine; second, tie, Kelley, Northeastern; third, F. Higgins,

Phi Eta Kappa Court Champs

Warren McNeill's basket with only 45 seconds remaining gave Phi Eta Kappa a 35 to 34 win over Phi Mu Delta Tuesday evening in the championship game of the University intramural league.

At the beginning of the last quarter, the score was 25-29, in favor of Phi Eta Kappa. Phi Mu eagers quickly grabbed a lead and held it with Phi Eta never more than a few points behind. Forty-five seconds to go, and Phi Mu Delta was ahead by one point. In the next few seconds Warren McNeil dropped the ball through the hoop, winning the game for Phi Eta Kappa by one point.

It was just another ball game until the third quarter. Up until that time, except for mild excitement of first quarter when Phi Mu went on a scoring tour to chase up a ten point lead, the teams did not play real basketball. It was a shot here and a shot there, and although the score quarter by quarter might look like something interesting, neither squad got into their true stride.

But the third quarter was good. The teams were evenly matched, and they both fought for all they were worth, seemingly realizing that the championship hinged on just a few points one way or the other. It was a fitting overture to the one point win in the last forty-five seconds of the game.

FOOTBALL AGAIN

Forty-five football candidates will report for spring practice Friday afternoon, Coach Fred Brice said today.

The first session, however, will be devoted merely to organization plans. Actual work will start in the field house Monday and will continue for four days during which time track and baseball sessions will be suspended.

The squad will meet again during the last two weeks of May when scrimmages and signal drills will be held. During the month of May, Brice will work with individuals.

Brice faces a difficult task this year since 10 out of last year's 11 starters and 18 out of the 23 lettermen will be graduated.

Bridgton won the University of Maine Preparatory School tournament by defeating Hebron 50 to 37, Friday afternoon.

In the preliminary rounds Hebron defeated Ricker 71 to 42, while Bridgton won over M. C. I. by the score of 49 to 27. In the consolation game M. C. I. edged out Ricker 39 to 31.

CAPTAINS

Rod Elliott and Harvard Whitten have been elected honorary captains of varsity winter sports and freshman basketball teams, respectively. T. S. Curtis, faculty manager of athletics, said today.

Elliott is one of the leading ski-jumpers in the east and was also an All-Maine halfback in football. He is a senior and a member of Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity.

Whitten, who at one time starred for Aroostook Central Institute and Bridgton Academy, played forward on the crack frosh five. He is in the college of agriculture.

Edward C. Sherry and Arnold L. Veague, two lads from Phi Kappa Sigma, kept their eye on the bouncing ball last Monday night, resulting in a win over Sigma Nu, represented by Arthur T. Cartier and Allyn E. Charpentier, in the finals of the intramural handball tournament. Score: 21-4; 21-16.

After Phi Eta Kappa's Frank F. Tapley and James A. Marr copped the first game in the semi-finals, they lost to Phi Kappa Sigma, with a score of: 18-21; 21-7; 21-15.

Sigma Nu won in the semi-finals, leaving them as runner-up for the tourney.

Track Team Unbeaten During Indoor Season; Runs Up Large Scores

Licks Colby, Bates, New Hampshire And Huskies

By Clement Smith

In beating Northeastern last Saturday, the University of Maine varsity track team completed an undefeated season in indoor track. In accomplishing this feat the squad ran up a score of 324 1-12 points against 142 11-12 points taken by their four adversaries.

The first meet in which Maine men competed was the B. A. A. games at Boston. Johnny Gowell, Sid Hurwitz, Don Kelley, and Johnny Haggett, composed the Maine relay team which competed there and emerged winners over Bates and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

On February 19, the varsity participated in a meet with the University of New Hampshire, in which Maine won by a score of 69 1-2 to 47 1-2. Although Maine was ahead in the scoring all during the meet, this was the closest meet of the season.

The following week, February 26, Maine stacked up against Colby College and swamped them 97 11-12 to 19 1-2. Colby was only able to cop two first places. Incidentally Johnny Gowell and Don Smith were both out of this meet with injuries, or the score might have been even more one sided.

On March 5, Maine met Bates, at Lewiston, the only meet away from Orono. Although Maine was handicapped somewhat on the Bates track, the team succeeded in running up a score of 75 points against 42 scored by Bates.

Last Saturday, Maine met Northeastern at Maine. This meet which was expected to be the closest of the season, ended in a score of 81 2-3 to 34 1-3 in favor of the Maine cindermen. In this meet Johnny Gowell, who was unable to compete in the Bates and Colby meets, led the team to a victory by breaking three meet records and one indoor track record.

Outstanding men of the Maine squad are: Sid Hurwitz in the 600, 300 and 70 yard events; Don Smith a great miler; Waldo Hardison, who has had a great season in the pole vault event; Harold Dyer, a steady performer in the shot put and discus events; Stan Johnson, a sophomore who has turned in sterling performances in the 35 pound weight events and is also looking good in the discus; Johnny Gowell ace performer in the hurdles and broad jump and who has broken or tied five Maine track records; Johnny Haggett, who has had a great year in the 1,000 yard event; Bill Hunnewell, who has been a consistent winner in the two mile run; Don Kelley, outstanding in the 300 and discus events, and Bill McCarthy in the broad and high jumps.

Other men who have turned in good performances for Maine are: Foster Higgins, who is one of the most promising men on the squad, and who performs in the hurdles and high jump; Herb Leonard and Charlie Weaver in the pole vault; Bob Atwood, a fine dash man; and Melvin McKenzie in the hurdles.

The freshman track squad also completed an undefeated season. In their first meet they swamped South Portland 81 to 18. In the second meet of their schedule which was with Bridgton, the Maine frosh won by a score of 54 to 44.

In a meet with the Colby frosh the following week the Maine yearlings emerged winners by a score of 63 1-3 to 39 2-3. Again in their last meet of the season, the frosh came through to whip the Bates first year men 59 to 49.

Stand outs for the frosh are: Bennett, ace performer in the 35 pound weight, discus, and shot put events; Blasidell, in the mile and 1000 yard runs; Dexter, a good pole vaulter and high jumper; Ehrenbach in the 600 yard event; and DaSilva, a good dash man.

Colvin Holds Spring Formal

In a gay and colorful setting, Colvin held its spring formal Friday evening. A bizarre effect was achieved by chandeliers of long vari-colored novelty balloons and colored lights for the unusually large number who attended. To afford more floor space the matron's reception room, in addition to the living room and dining room, was also used for dancing. After refreshments were served male escorts were shown through the dormitory.

Music was furnished by Watie Akins Orchestra with Thelma Murray. Chaperones were Mrs. J. Whittlesey, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Starr, and Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Morrow. The committee in charge was Elizabeth Gruginis, chairman; Alice Ann Donovan, and Marjorie Lynds.

Those present were: Maxine Gagnon, Wendell Brewster; Frances Violette, Robert Merrill; Elizabeth Sullivan, William Violette; Florence Farnham, John Rietz; Jean McDonough, Sherman Vannah; Eleanor Look, Edwin Lord; Margaret Maxwell, Earl Carlson; Natalie Hooper, Buel Dean; Camilla Doak, Jack Littlefield; Marion Hatch, Clark Kuney; Marjorie Lynds, Duncan Cotting; Marguerite Picard, Jack Getchell; Lorraine Gross, Carl Osgood; Priscilla Thomas, Charles Weaver; Marjorie Johnson, James Marr; Ruth Trickey, James Ashby; Margaret Cheney, Walter Hanley; Nancy Hennings, Carlton Payson; Jean Mitchell, James Harris; Iris Guio, Russell Gamage; Helen Abbott, Donald Poole; Marjorie Taylor, William West; Evangeline Anderson, Frederick Robie; Alice Pierce, Raymond Nelson; Alice Ann Donovan, Alexander Munro; Margaret Lowell, Arthur Reynolds; Jewell Hall, Donald Libby. Alumni Hold Ten Meetings

Ten meetings of University of Maine alumni are to be held during the ten days beginning March 21, according to Alumni Secretary Charles E. Crossland. Dr. Edward J. Allen, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Mr. Crossland are to attend and address these groups.

Dean Allen is to make his first visit to alumni clubs in northern New York and the Middlewest. Beginning at Schenectady Monday, March 21, the dean will address alumni of Northeastern New York, a great many of whom are employed by the General Electric Co. The following night he is to be at Syracuse to meet with alumni of Central New York. On Wednesday, Dean Allen will address a luncheon group at Rochester at noon and a dinner meeting of Western New York alumni at Buffalo that night. Ohio Alumni Association meets in Cleveland on Thursday, March 24. This group is one of the most active of all the local alumni organizations. Dean Allen will visit one or more of the big industrial plants in the city.

Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association will entertain Dean Allen Friday, March 25; here the Dean is to be special guest of Dr. Kenneth S. Field '25, head of the department of economics at Carnegie. On the same night Secretary Crossland will meet with his first group at Detroit, where Michiganders gather. The week's journey will conclude with Dean Allen and Mr. Crossland meeting with the Illinois Alumni Association at Chicago, after which the Dean returns to the East.

At 7:45 a program of moving pictures which will be open to the public will be given. Pictures to be shown include Bayreuth, City of Richard Wagner; Noerdlingen; The Harze Mountains; and The Rhine.

Wait

Wait . . . wait . . .
that's the watchword for
Chesterfield tobaccos

Here's the reason so many smokers like Chesterfields . . .

Thousands of casks of mild ripe Chesterfield tobacco are kept in storage all the time—every pound of it aged 2 years or more to give Chesterfield smokers more pleasure.

The mild ripe tobaccos—home-grown and aromatic Turkish—and the pure cigarette paper used in Chesterfields are the best ingredients a cigarette can have. They Satisfy.
