Four Speeches Planned During Peace Assembly To Be Held on Tuesday

Students To Speak On Their Views Of Subject

BAND TO PERFORM

Campus Organizations Are Represented On Committee

A Peace Assembly, with students as speakers, will be held on Tuesday morning, April 19, at 9:30 in the Memorial Gymnasium. The student symposium of the University of Maine will interpret "Which is the Way to Peace?"

Four points of view will be presented by the following students: Philip Temple '39, who will advocate international co-operation; Alice Lerner '38, who will discuss a means of achieving peace; Richard Healey '38 will propose peace through preparedness; and the pacifist point of view will be upheld by Kenneth Brooks. Howard Goodwin '38, president of the M.C.A., will preside as chairman. The University Band will furnish the music. During the assembly, posters of the Spanish Loyalist government will be exhibited.

The assembly represents the planning of a committee of 20 student members, all representatives of 16 different campus organizations—M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., W.S.G.A., Student Senate, International Relations Club, Universalist Forum, Unitarian Young People's Organization, Women's Forum, Abnakis, Masque, Debating Club, and Liberal Club.

Credit for the Peace Assembly is due chiefly to the Student Executive Committee, consisting of David Trafford '39, chairman, Lucille Epstein '39, vice chairman, Margaret Williston '38, Charles Peirce '40, and Howard Goodwin '38.

Radio Programs For April 12, 19

"A Dinner for Fifty" and "A Class in Electrical Communications" will be the titles of two radio programs presented by the University Radio Committee on April 12 and April 19 respectively. Featuring a dramatization of classroom details and events, the programs will attempt to convey highlights of certain characteristic courses in the University.

"Dinner for Fifty" under the direction of Miss Cecelia McCarthy, instructor of Home Economics, will illustrate some of the problems and details of large scale food planning and preparation. Assisting Miss McCarthy will be Barbara Ware, Althea Millett, and Norma Lueders, all seniors. Music for the program will be furnished by Miss Ruth Trickey.

The program under the direction of the Department of Electrical Communications entitled "A Class in Electrical Communications" will be under the direction of Professor Walter J. Creamer. The details of the program will cover some of the theories and practice of modern methods of communication confronting the Electrical Engineer. Assisting Professor Creamer will be Richard Boyer, Harvey Kenneson, and Thomas Lynch, seniors, and Paul Winslow, a junior.

Both programs are scheduled for the period of eight to eight-thirty in the evening, the Home Economics Program for Tuesday, April 12, and the Engineering Program for Tuesday, April 19.

The University of Maine will be host to more than forty high schools in the state when the annual secondary school speaking contest is held on April 22. Dr. Howard L. Runion, of the public speaking department, announced today.

The purpose of these contests, Runion stated, is to stimulate interest in effective public speaking and reading in the high schools and academies of the state. If past years are indicative of the trend, competition will be high. Prizes of individual medals will be given to the students winning first, second, third, and fourth places in each division. The four divisions are serious readings, humorous readings, declamation, and extemporaneous speaking.

Many Attend 32nd Farm-Home Week

A new record in attendance marked the thirty-second Farm and Home Week held at the University during the spring vacation.

Registration of 2,035 persons, surpassing the previous high of 1,804 reached last year, proved this event the largest of its kind ever held in Maine.

More than 180 speakers appeared on the programs planned to meet the interests of all groups of Maine farmers. Those speaking at the banquet included Governor Lewis O. Barrows and C. B. Smith, of the Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

The Maine Federation of Agricultural Associations, meeting here during the week, voted to erect a tablet in the agricultural "hall of fame" of the College of Agriculture, in honor of Stephen L. Goodale, secretary of the Maine Board of Agriculture from 1856 to 1873. The tablet will be dedicated during Farm and Home Week next year.

R.O.T.C. Team Closes Season

The University of Maine R.O.T.C. Rifle team closed a very successful season with the termination of the Wm. R. Hearst's National R.O.T.C. Match on March 15.

During the season the Maine team has competed with some fifty-five leading colleges and universities of the United States, winning a total of 60% of the postal matches. ## To Select Coed For Junior Month

A representative of the University of Maine is to be chosen for Junior Month to be held this year at Boston from June 20 to July 20.

New England Junior Month, which is sponsored by the Family Welfare Society of Boston, has for its purpose the promotion of an understanding of social needs and services among young people, who, as future leaders of their communities, will stimulate social work.

Each of eight New England colleges chooses one delegate whose expenses are paid by the Family Welfare Society and her college. The delegates spend two and one-half days of each week touring Greater Boston and observing each type of institution that pertains to social service. The girls are lodged in the Elizabeth Peabody Settlement House in the midst of the Italian community and the program for the month is arranged to give them as close contact as possible with social conditions and the problems arising therefrom.

Students who are interested should apply at Dean Wilson's office.

Americans Aid Agression By Trade

FAVORS BOYCOTT

Brute Force Used To Quell Peace Movements

By Alice Lerner

The Japanese militarists are fighting a war not only against the Chinese but also against their own Japanese people, said Miss Haru Matsui, member of the Japanese Peace Association, speaking at the third meeting of the University Forum held in the Little Theatre last Sunday evening.

Japan's military policy is bringing ruin to Asia. The continuation of her "Holy War" in China means even greater suffering among her own people and the crushing of progress and liberty in Japan. Conditions among city workers and especially among the peasants are wretched, because of oppressive taxation, low wages, and high living costs, Miss Matsui said.

The real attitude of the Japanese people to the war in China is the most important question to all peace-loving people in the world today, Miss Matsui declared. If the Japanese people were able to unite to demonstrate their real attitude, the militarists would be unable to continue the war.

Contrary to what is popularly believed about the unity of the Japanese people, the internal struggle against the militarists is the real reason behind the Chinese aggression. Wholesale arrests of peace advocates and brutal suppression of all internal unrests are the means employed by the fascist militarists to force popular support of

Maine Masque To Play Farce

The Masque play, "The Servant of Two Masters," which will be presented in the Little Theatre on April 26, 27, and 28, was written in the eighteenth century by Carlo Goldoni, who was amused by the comic personalities of his companions.

Goldoni, the real founder of modern Italian comedy, was born in Venice in 1707. His first playthings were puppets which he made dance. When he was a young man, he ran away to join a Venetian company of players in spite of his father's demand that he learn a profession. An early study of the Greek and Latin poets gave him the desire to imitate their comedy. Having found his proper setting, Goldoni created comedy of character in Italy, by following the example of Molière, and conveyed clear-cut images of society in as natural a manner as possible. The whole social life of Venice is to be found in Goldoni's plays. He died in 1793.

"The Servant of Two Masters," the last play of the season, was translated from the Italian by Josephine Profita, a senior majoring in Drama. It is a farce comedy written solely for entertainment.

In the belief that a finer artistic atmosphere will result, a minimum amount of scenery, three different sets, will be used, although the play has three acts and ten scenes. Sixteenth century costumes will be worn instead of those of the eighteenth century life of Goldoni.

An Answer

In their last editorial the previous Campus board challenged their successors to pursue a vigorous, frank, and bold policy. They warned us of the dangers that such a policy entailed, but insisted that only a course characterized by these attributes would result in constructive benefits. The Campus accepts the challenge, not because it feels obliged to accept challenges from this, or any, source, but because it agrees with these principles and aims to uphold them. The editorial policy of our predecessors deserves much credit and the new board heartily endorses it. In frankness, constructiveness, independent thinking, and skillful expression, the editorials of the former board have few peers in Campus history.

But let this endorsement in no way be interpreted as a blanket approval of the ideas or changes advocated by our predecessors. The Campus now has a new board, and, consequently, new ideas and new principles. Its future policy must be one of independent thinking, unhampered by previous commitments. It is the debatable phases and changing conditions of daily affairs that most deserve the editorial discussion of the newspapers. Mere expressions of approval of the accepted conditions have no constructive value. The policy of the Campus for the coming year, therefore, will be one devoted to the stimulation of interest and the encouragement of action on those questions of most importance to the University. It will aim always to favor that which is designed for the greatest benefit for the largest number, in preference to that which favors "interest groups" or minorities. The Campus policy will be unselfish and utilitarian; any attempts to accuse it of personal motives will be wholly unjustified and without basis.

We go forth in full confidence that our future policy, based on these principles, will win the esteem and respect of the great majority of our readers; and that, a year hence, we will merit the sincere and honest commendation of these same readers.

Peterson Speaks On France, Italy

Professor Roy Peterson, head of the Romance Language Department, at the meeting of the French Club last Wednesday evening, compared democratic France and fascist Italy as he saw them during his stay in the two countries last year.

Professor Peterson called attention to the confused industrial conditions that exist in France and the constant willingness of French workers to strike.

"In contrast to France," said Professor Peterson, "Italy does not permit strikes, there is an abundance of work; and laborers seem well satisfied."

"However, France retains her freedom of the press while Italy does not," Professor Peterson added.

Rhode Island Assn. Gives Scholarship

Dr. Paul Cloke, Dean of the College of Technology, and Alumni Secretary Charles E. Crossland of the University of Maine left Monday morning to attend and speak at a series of four alumni meetings of University alumni in Southern New England beginning Monday night.

The Rhode Island Association holds its annual dinner tonight in Providence. This organization has just created a scholarship trust fund which aims to endow the scholarship recently established by the association at the University.

The series will conclude with a meeting at Worcester of the Worcester County University of Maine Alumni Association. All of these organizations are active in sponsoring scholarships at the University.

The last reading test in French and Spanish for current year will be held Wednesday evening, April 20, at 7 p.m. in the north wing of Stevens Hall. The French test is scheduled for room 19; the Spanish test for room 21.

Students who expect to take this test must notify the department in advance at room 3, Stevens, north, not later than noon of Monday, April 18.

Dean Paul Cloke of the College of Technology and Alumni Secretary Charles E. Crossland left Monday to attend and speak at a series of four alumni meetings of University alumni in southern New England.

New members of El Circulo Espanol, Spanish Club, were initiated at the club's regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Following the meeting plans were discussed for the spring picnic.

By PRISCILLA HASKELL

Life in pre-war New England was untroubled and uneventful, more or less isolated from the troubles of the outside world, says John Franklin Carter in The Rectory Family. In this book of reminiscences he tells of his boyhood and youth spent in the provincial atmosphere of Williamstown, Massachusetts.

One of seven children, six boys and one girl, he grew up in the days when the family was still the center of social life. The fact that his home was in a college town probably made culture play a more important part than in other New England towns, while his father's position as Episcopal rector probably gave religion a more prominent role in the life of the family than in other homes. Yet the children were not at all hampered by these restrictions and led rather a carefree existence, with no necessity of worrying about where the money was coming from.

Simple Pleasures

Their pleasures were very simple, for in those days children were resourceful at providing their own amusements. They took great delight in such pranks as pouring water through a hole in the bathroom floor onto the head of the cook in the kitchen below. A large part of their time was spent out-of-doors, with horses and dogs to add further interest. In the evenings the whole family joined in playing games, or listened attentively while Mother read aloud.

There were always guests in the house, for New England hospitality was then taken for granted. The visitors might be some of the numerous relatives, visiting clergymen, or sometimes a famous personage, such as President Wilson. Likewise the children naturally assumed that wherever they went their friends' homes would be open to them.

Of course in such a large family there were inevitable accidents and sicknesses. But these were so numerous as to make little impression, except possibly on the sufferer himself. In summer there was the annual odyssey to some resort, either on the coast, in the White Mountains, or sometimes at the family camp in the Adirondacks. But most memorable of all was Father's sabbatical year, when the whole family journeyed to California.

War an Awakening

Even when the boys went away to school at St. Mark's and later to Yale, their life continued at much the same untroubled pace. At Yale the author became one of a small literary circle, which included Stephen Vincent Benet and Thornton Wilder. In the middle of his college career, the United States entered the World War, and the spell was broken. After a year or so overseas, the Carter boys returned to find both themselves and New England changed. Not until then had they realized that they could not always continue in their pleasant isolation.

The Rectory Family is not an exciting book, but it is delightful in its quiet way. To older readers it will probably have the charm of memory, while it may make the younger generation wish that they had grown up in a similar atmosphere.

On Saturday, April 16, Mrs. Himy Kirshen will entertain, assisted by Miss Helen Lengyel; Mrs. J. H. Huddleston, assisted by Mrs. Matthew Highlands; Mrs. Robert Drummond, assisted by Mrs. Herbert Lamson; Miss E. Faye Wilson, assisted by Miss Ruth Crosby; and Mrs. G. D. Chase, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Ring.

The tea scheduled for Mrs. Bryan's, Mrs. Allen assisting, has been postponed due to the illness of Mrs. Allen. It will be held later.

Mr. Edwin S. Costrell
Miss Priscilla Haskell
Members of the Campus Staff

The Special Supplement of the Campus was certainly a surprise to me, a pleasant and gratifying one. Now I shall have to try harder than ever to merit some of the generous statements you "put in print."

It is a high privilege to be associated with the University of Maine. Nowhere are there friendlier and more co-operative co-workers—students, faculty, trustees, and alumni.

With deep appreciation and best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Results Announced In English Examinations

The highest ranking seniors and juniors in the English Major Examinations in the Mechanics of Composition were announced by Dr. Ellis of the English department last week.

The juniors are, in the order in which they ranked, Eva Chase, Priscilla Haskell, Albert Toner, Elaine VanNosttrand, Edith Stevens, Sybil Green, Margaret Orser, Ferne Lunt, Anna Anderson, Mary Orr, Marguerite Bannigan, and Clark Kune.

The seniors are Regina Shay, Azalea Boyer, Carolyn Long, Grace Curtis, Virginia Hall, Helen Lewis, Barbara Brown, Edwin Costrell, Blanche Holman, Lorraine Gross, Marion Hatch, Merritt Trott, Olive Conley, and Lewis Nightingale.

Miss H. Adele Howe, Personnel Director of Burdett College, Boston, will visit the University on Friday, April 22, to discuss with interested students the question of business and secretarial training after college. Miss Howe will plan to speak to all interested students in a group at one o'clock that day in the Placement Bureau, arranging individual interviews afterward, if any students would like to discuss details further.

It would be helpful if interested students would leave their names with Dean Wilson or the Placement Director before noon, April 22.

A musical event of interest to University students and faculty will be the Easter Cantata "The Crucifixion" by Sir John Stainer, to be given at the Methodist Episcopal Church Easter Night at 7:30 under the direction of Dr. J. Thomas Pellow of the University faculty. William J. Cupp, of Bangor, baritone, and Matthew McNeary, of the faculty of the School of Technology, tenor, will take the solos for male voices. Mrs. John Hawkins and Mrs. Wilbur Park will be the other soloists.

There are few presentations of the theme which rank with Stainer's work and with the assistance of the guest soloists the production of Easter Night should be pleasing to all lovers of sacred music.

Varsity and freshman indoor track and basketball certificates are ready and may be called for at Ted Curtis's office. Those receiving the awards are asked to call for them as soon as possible.

Graduation exercises each June represent an annual turnover of approximately $20,000,000 in direct expenses. (ACP)

KUBLA CANTS

By Lewis Nightingale

Here it is Saturday, and raining and snowing and doing just about everything possible to hold spring back. Reminds me of just such a day last spring when I go to the big city to call on the motive for living of that time. Her folks go out and leave us to take care of the baby, which is all very nice until some dope calls her on the phone, making me temporary foster father of the offspring which is a future Joe E. Brown with a voice like the M.G.M. lion.

A lullabye will batten his hatch, says I, and thus begin:
Sleep, my baby, go to sleep.
Don't let me hear another peep.
Tomorrow I'll buy you a new red cart.
So, my baby, please shut up.
Don't you worry, I will keep;
You yelled all day, and now you sleep.

All of which scared the kid nearly to death, so I try a bit about the wind, which is supposed to have qualities of inducing sleep.

When the wind is in the tree,
It makes a noise, incessantly;
As if there were not noise enough
To bother one, without that stuff.

I got sidetracked on that one, so I began to wish she'd drop the phone and attend to the bawling brother herself. Maybe the kid needed to be chided. . . . Whoa, boy, perish the thought. Maybe something on the lighter side would do the trick.

The calf, the goat, the little lamb,
How happy is their day!
They do not seem to give a damn
For anything but play.

And that doesn't help either. The youngster is immune to my best poetical efforts. A bit about spring might help him appreciate the sunny side of things, perhaps.

April showers, so they say,
Bring the flowers out in May.
That may be so, but I can't see
What good this snow and sleet can be.

Again I got sidetracked, and the kid still yells. An animal story used to shut me up.

Said the little red rooster
To his group of chickens,
"The way you're laying
Is fowl as the dickens."
The chickens then said,
"Why you darned old thing,
What you really need
Is a touch of spring."

No help in sight. The kid is still out in front, and leading by two weeps and a yelp per second. I still believe the pen is mightier than the vocal chord so I give him one more try, this being inspired by a walk a few days before.

The April sun is shining free,
As, parasolled, I roam the hill.
It isn't raining rain for me,
But then it darn soon will.

I sign off, and the kid cries on, proving himself the greater genius. Miracles will never cease, in this streamlined age the one boss shay pulled under the wire to win first place in the English comprehensive sweepstakes. Congratulations.

Spring seems to be here except for the freezing weather and so many inches of snow. . . . but maybe it really has hit some. . . . ## Miss Schweppe To Teach Courses in Summer School

Teaching and administration problems, especially those related to "social studies," in elementary and secondary schools will be treated in courses offered by Miss Emma Schweppe, instructor in history at Hunter College High School, New York, during the University of Maine Summer Session, according to the announcement of Professor Roy M. Peterson, Director of the School.

She will give "Teaching and Social Studies in the Secondary School," "Supervision in the Elementary School," and "The Elementary School Curriculum."

A meeting of the Contributors' Club was held in Balentine sunparlor Sunday evening.

A series of functions for next year and the possibility of having a writers' folio were discussed. Lewis Nightingale was chosen to be the first contributor to the folio.

Election of officers will be held at the next meeting on April 4 in Balentine.

Y.W.C.A. Members Attend Series of Teas Saturday

Mrs. E. Reeve Hitchner, Mrs. Ernest Jackman, Mrs. George McReynolds, and Mrs. Albert Turner were hostesses at a series of teas held for Y.W.C.A. members Saturday.

Mrs. Hitchner spoke on her travels in England and was assisted at tea by Mrs. Joseph Murray. Mrs. Turner illustrated her talk on old porcelain with pieces from her collection. Mrs. John Klein, at the home of Mrs. McReynolds, declared that "Spanish music is different" and explained by playing piano selections. Mrs. Harry Crandon, at the home of Mrs. Jackman, discussed the question, "Do Maine novels give a real idea of Maine?"

Martha Chase, Hope Jackman, Faith Shesong, and Dora Stacy were the assisting student hostesses.

As the Bulletin of the 1938 Summer Session is now ready, students who expect to take courses this summer may obtain copies at the Summer Session office, 3 Stevens North, or at the office of the Registrar. Rooms may be reserved at the Summer Session office.

Powerful and Balanced Track Squad After 4th Straight State Crown

Seniors Dominate In Defense of State Title

By Dave Astor

Annexation of the fourth consecutive state intercollegiate outdoor title, the eighth in the ten years that Coach Chester Jenkins has been supervising track at the University of Maine, is the goal for which the varsity track team is confidently striving. And there is no reason not to be confident, for with a potential winner in every event but the javelin, this year's track team promises to be one of the strongest group of cinder pounders ever assembled here.

Bill Hunnewell and Red Clifford make up the duo upon whom Coach Jenkins pins his hopes in the two mile event. Indoors, Hunnewell had no competition whatsoever, and indications show that he might not receive much unless teammate Red Clifford provides it. Clifford was captain of Maine's championship cross country team.

With Johnny Gowell, who in the last indoor event was entered in three events and broke three meet records and one college record, the hurdle events are well taken care of. Gowell will be aided capably by the Higgins twins, Foster and Ralph, and Mal MacKenzie, all of whom showed marked improvement during the indoor season.

The flying Gowell will also be expected to carry the burden in the broad jump, although Bill McCarthy improved rapidly during the indoor season, bettering twenty-one feet several times.

Waldo Hardison will be attempting to break his twelve feet six inch state mark in the pole vault. Coach Jenkins has been correcting some of Hardison's minor faults of late that may prove major factors in his vaulting thirteen feet to a new record. Spike Leonard, Charlie Weaver, and Ed Rich are competent vaulters and potential point winners.

Bill McCarthy, Foster Higgins, and Ralph Reynolds are Maine's best bet in the high jump. McCarthy and Higgins have been hovering around the six foot mark consistently and might at any time during the season clear the six foot two inch mark, the present college record held by McCarthy.

Ed Byer is one of the question marks of the team. Byer, according to Coach Jenkins was one of the most improved runners in the University last year and was capable of running on even terms with the teams best dashmen until he pulled a muscle in his leg. Should Byer regain the form that he is capable of, he, Bob Atwood, and Lou Smith will be charged with carrying the University colors in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

If Sid Hurwitz gives up the quarter mile for the 100 and 220, Johnny Haggett will run the 440 and Don Smith will double in the half mile and the mile. Although Hurwitz is state 220 yard champion, the 440 is his specialty, having been clocked under 50 seconds in this event in which he is state champion.

Haggett is a capable quarter miles although his best race is the half mile event. Indoors this season, he negotiated the 1000 yard run in around 2:20 consistently, and as a member of the mile relay team at the B.A.A. Games in Boston this last winter, Haggett did his quarter in 51 seconds. Two cross country men, Floyd Jackson and "Smoky" Jordan, round out a capable half mile trio.

Running a 4:21 mile before injuring his foot, Don Smith has proven himself to be one of the best milers in New England. It will be a surprise to no one, should Smith break the tape in one of the outdoor meets in less than 4:20. Oliver Neal's performance against Colby this winter stumped as a miler who shows promise and may pick up valuable points.

The weight events find Hal Dyer and Stan Johnson as the leading competitors. Dyer was undefeated indoors in the shot put and discus while Johnson also had a clean slate in the 35 pound hammer throw. Last year Johnson was hurling the twelve pound hammer over 180 feet, but it remains to be seen whether the extra four pounds that the varsity must contend with will make any degree of difference.

Dyer will be aided by Kelley and Harvey in the discus and Ireland in the shot put. Phil Rogers, Maine's jack-of-all-trades, R. Smith and Marston are also contenders in the hammer throw.

The javelin, supposedly the weakest event at present finds Ted Harding, Bill Bowers, and Hemingway as Maine's hopefuls. Coach Jenkins has intimated that the improvement shown by these men lately indicates that the javelin may soon be almost as strong as any of the rest of the events.

Varsity Court Men Face Hard Slate

Taking advantage of the favorable weather, the tennis team got an earlier start than usual this year. During the week following vacation the final ranking matches for position on the team were begun and should be concluded this week provided the Indian winter does not remain with us.

This year the intensive indoor schedule, which, incidentally, now makes tennis an active three-season sport, has proven a great help in organizing the squad as a unit. Culminating in the big indoor tournament on March 22, the matches have stimulated the players' interest in the sport and retained their skill. As a result, the squad is now on its toes ready for the pre-season swing through New England. This trip includes matches with New Hampshire, Connecticut, and Rhode Island. After the trip the regular varsity season of eight matches starts with Bowdoin at Orono on May 7 and ends with the Intercollegiate State Series at Lewiston on March 24. A separate schedule of seven matches will be played by the freshman team, including trips to Wassookeag and Portland.

Of the varsity squad, Chamberlain and Elliott, the versatile newcomers, played especially well indoors. Brodie, carrying on his usual unbeatable game from outdoors to indoors this past winter, will undoubtedly be outstanding in the freshman matches during the spring season.

Golf Team Begins Practice Indoors

The golf squad began their indoor practice last week under the tutelage of Coach William Wells. A practice range consisting of large canvases and mats has been installed in the boxing room at the gym for the use of the golfers.

The squad will have the veterans Hank Piorowski '40, Stuart Bryant '38, Larry Burney '40, Clayton Mercereau '39, Russell Leaf '40, Howard Forrestal '38, and Dick Monroe '38. There are several promising golfers among the freshmen whose services will be helpful.

The University Turf-diggers are looking forward to a busy season. The varsity golf schedule is as follows:

May 7 Bowdoin at Brunswick
May 11 Colby at Orono
May 16 Colby at Waterville
May 23-24 State Intercollegiate Tournament at Waterville

A few of the golfers may be sent as representatives of Maine to the New England Intercollegiate Meet held in early May at Oakley C.C., Mass. Besides the regular schedule, Coach Wells is planning to run a tournament among the members of the squad.

Kenyon Rushes Baseball Squad for Exhibition Game on Patriot's Day

Southpaws Needed As Bears Face Colby Warmup

The varsity baseball team has been holding regular workouts every afternoon with keen competition for all positions.

Some of last season's veterans have been looking good and have the edge on the other candidates. Phil Craig, an understudy to Phil Meally last year, is favored to win the catcher's job. Doc Gerrish, a sophomore, caught for the freshmen last year and is a strong batter. Consequently, Kenyon is looking around for a place for Gerrish since the latter is too good a man to waste on the sidelines. Fred Bucklin, another sophomore, and Elwood Millet are capable of replacing Craig at any time.

At the first base position, Bill Weber is hard-pressed by the hard hitting junior, Maison Goodrich. Fred Johnston and George Digby have also been working hard for the job at the first sack.

The race for the second baseman's job is a close one. Kenyon has Gerrish, Gauthier Thibodeau, a former Bowdoin player, Elroy Day, a regular last season, working out at this position. It is hard to tell who has the inside track on the position, as all the candidates are able players. A pair of sophomores, Ronnie Dykes and Jerome Steeves, have shown ability at the second sack during the try-outs.

The shortstop's position is practically cinched by Frank Tapley, a veteran of two years. Tapley is a smooth fielder and a good batter, and the chances that Bill Ward will dislodge Tapley are small. Due to an attack

Football Men Report For Outdoor Practice

Next Monday all the candidates for the varsity football team will begin an intensive outdoor practice session which will be highlighted by much contact work.

In order to get a line on the potentialities of the men trying out for the team, Coach Brice said that he would feature contact in order to see just what they could do, and that in order to be eligible for the team next fall the men who have been invited to participate must report unless they have a special excuse.

All candidates for the team are requested to draw full equipment this week.

of measles, Dana Drew is temporarily out of the running for the berth.

Dwight Lord has the third baseman's job fairly well in hand. However, at the slightest weakening of the latter, Shelley Smith, of Bangor, is ready to step right in.

On the mound, Coach Kenyon would like to have a southpaw who could start a game, but as yet he has been unable to find one. The southpaw candidates are inexperienced. Merrill Shea is the only one that has been on the varsity squad. Among the southpaw candidates are John Plummer and Walter Potter, both sophomores. Ed Stanley, a junior from Rockville Center, N. Y., did not work out last week due to a lame shoulder.

The first game of the season is an exhibition to be played at Waterville on April 19. After this game, Coach Kenyon will have a better idea of the men for the regular positions.

Soph Hop Held On Friday Eve.

Music by Bob Richmond's eleven Swingers, a vocalist's interpretation of "Martha," a drummer boy's break on the "Snake Charmer" and arrangements by Benny Goodman, highlighted the Sophomore Hop held at Memorial Gymnasium last Friday.

Blue and gold, the 1940 class colors, were used in the programs and decorations, and novelty was seen in the lighted 1940-M Box which replaced the much used crystal ball.

President and Mrs. Arthur A. Hauck, Dean and Mrs. Arthur L. Deering, Mr. James A. Gannett, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Murray, Dr. and Mrs. George E. McReynolds, Harold Gerish, class vice president, and Miss Martha Chase received the guests.

Dance arrangements were in charge of Miss Camilla Doak, chairman of the committee, Lucie Pray, John Littlefield, George Schmidt, Robert Robertson, and Maynard Files.

FORUM SPEECH

their program. Miss Matsui declared that suppression measures against the universities and against professional groups where liberalism is strongest have been particularly harsh.

The adoption of a boycott by Americans would shorten the horrors which the Far East is suffering at the hands of Japan's fascists. There is little danger that such a policy would endanger America's peace and prosperity. The success of the militarists of Japan would be impossible if the United States trade were to be curtailed. At the present time, 31% of Japan's import trade and 21% of her export trade are done with the United States.

Americans help materially what they condemn morally. Japan has exported $250,000,000 in gold to the United States since last March in payment for raw materials—machinery, oil, scrap iron, and steel. Without these imports of raw materials, the continuation of the war would be impossible. The American people could help stop the export of such goods to Japan by putting pressure on Congress and the State Department.

Silk is one of Japan's most important exports to the United States. A boycott on silk goods would work little hardship on American workers because machinery which is now used for silk production could be easily converted to the production of rayon or lisle goods. When Americans first started to boycott Japanese silk, there were only five mills producing lisle stockings, but now there are fifty-five.

There was a short discussion following Miss Matsui's talk, under the chairmanship of Reverend Edwin T. Buehrer of the Fellowship Church in Orono.

Miss Matsui is a graduate of a women's college in Japan. She has done graduate work in English Literature at Waseda University in Japan and at Columbia University.

Freshman Banquet Held Last Friday

The annual banquet of the freshman class was held in Memorial Gymnasium Friday night. Music was furnished during the dinner and afterward for the semi-formal dance by Watie Aiken and his orchestra.

Charles Arbor, president of the Class of '41, was toastmaster and introduced President Hauck, the speaker of the evening. Dr. Hauck lauded the record established by the class and called upon them to help maintain the old traditions. He asked the class to give their support to Maine Day.

Before the speeches, Ed Marsh led the class in singing several old favorites and, after popular demand, offered a solo. During the dinner the freshman girls were heard in occasional outbursts of song.

...asked and answered by Radio Telephone

You've probably heard the terse messages between pilots and dispatchers that you can pick up on the short waves. Did you know their radio equipment is made by Western Electric—maker of Bell telephones? This "flying telephone" is standard equipment on all the major airlines.

Regular telephone facilities and the Teletype, which speeds printed weather reports to all airports, play an important part in airline operations. By continually meeting new communication needs, Bell System services contribute greatly to the success of many industries.
