Four Peace Policies Explained
And Defended in Student Symposium at Peace Rally

Is Substitute For Peace Strike

GOODWIN LEADS
Lerner, Healy, Brooks, Temple Discuss Peace Plans

Four policies by which the United States could enter the war world were explained and debated by students of the University based on the point of view held by one of the presenters, one of the students of the State College, in an afternoon meeting of the students.

Speaking in addition to Alan Lerner, a junior majoring in economics, and Healy, a senior majoring in politics, were representatives of the students of the State College, Professor Kent, who is Chairman of the committee in charge of Peace Planners.

Wandering Johnny Forgotten That Solace May Appear in the End

By Philip Spahn, Jr.
Bangor, the Queen City of Maine, is a city where all the high-sounding and somber pronouncements of Student government, the Women's Student Association, and the Women's Athletic Association were held Thursday, April 14. Both groups have been planning activities to be held during the week of Peace Day.

In Merrill Hall, home economics students were planning activities for the week of Peace Day. The activities will have a special purpose, according to the students, to make people understand better the importance of peace.

The model of an atom, and a display of all types of neutron and fast neutrons, may be seen in Cross-section. The indoor practice range at the Gym is very popular and busy. There are also a number of the University Field hockey teams who are practicing for the first time.

Japanese Boycott

Elsewhere in this issue appears a letter supporting the Japanese boycott, which the Liberal Club is sponsoring on campus. A moment of this nature to discourage aggression by peaceful means should be encouraged. In spite of immediate hardships which the boycott may entail upon the Japanese people, the long-run benefits which they may put upon the Japanese people, the long-run benefits which they will receive if the campaign in Ottawa is carried out sufficiently such objections. It is for the university and the world's college community to continue the war without mercy. Peterson Outlines New Arts Course

Costumer, the other building in which the plays will be produced, will be used to provide the setting as a whole for the building out of which the various scenes of the play will be produced. The director will have complete control over the arrangement of the scenes, and the ideas of the writer will be followed. The costumer will work under the direction of the director and will be responsible for the overall design of the play. The costumer will be responsible for the selection of the costumes, the design of the sets, and the coordination of the lighting and sound. The costumer will also be responsible for the supervision of the actors and the operation of the stage equipment. The costumer will work closely with the director to ensure that the play is produced as intended. The costumer will be responsible for the overall design of the play and will be required to present a detailed plan to the director for approval. WANDERING JOHNNY

The music started up. A jolly Irish band, who knew the fresh young boys well, sang "The Wandering Irishman." Johnny stood at the corner of the hall and saw how the young men, and more than a few older ones, were enjoying the music.

On the dance floor again, Johnny thought of the letter he had written to his friend. "I guess they'll never find me here, but maybe they will," he said to himself. "Hopefully, they'll think I'm just a wanderer, and not a spy."
