Rushing Has Improved

As was expected, the new system of rushing inaugurated this year has evolved considerable discussion. Most of the concern stems from the length and the duration of the days. Of course, there will always be a diversity of opinion in regard to the present system. We feel that the most satisfactory solution thus far is the Interfraternity Council system.

The obvious tendency in the various changes made in the rushing system is to maintain the traditional time required of both fraternity men and freshmen. The present duration of two weeks is regarded as a necessity for the time in which all of the members of both groups can become acquainted. However, it is impossible and impractical to determine in what future years the duration may be shortened. It is evident that strict rules might be passed which would restrict the daily rushing period. If such rules are successfully enforced, this would surely allow those people participating to appropriate more time for the regular collection of classes, examinations, and their personal interests.

Not the least of the rules which might be passed to improve rushing conditions is a rule strictly enforcing a silence period. If this rule is properly written and enforced, it would be another effective deterrent to the kind of rushing that occurs between the hours of 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Next Thursday we have our first departmental meeting, and we will have a discussion of the various campus organizations. For some this may be their first meeting of the semester, while for others it may be the last for a while. We will try to keep our meetings as informal as possible, and will present them with the letter we sent to the associations in Augusta, Saturday.

"At the bookstore: Why don't you get a little magazine. It's called "Campus.""

"Well, if you're still with us, then why don't you then type a magazine."

"Okay, have Mayor Patterson say a few words."

"I think that's the point of the meeting."
Colby Mules in Attempt To Hand Bear Courtmen First Series Set Back

Dana Drew

I never had so much sympathy for the umpire who gets socked with the pop bottle as when I was in the front row of Colby's game with St. John's last night. The bear courtmen were certainly the best in New England Conference struggle.

The game consisted of at least a tie for the heftiness of the back seat. The Bear Mules won over New Hampshire's men in the second series to give the old Colby fans a win.

The Mule system has improved tremendously under the able hand of Coach Whitehouse. The bears are not nearly as competent as they were last year, but there may be some different ways this Maine team can work to their advantage.

The Bear courtmen have a marked desire for victory, and that desire is getting more marked each day. The Mules are not nearly as strong as in the past, but there is a chance that the courtmen may be able to gain their first series in a long time. The Bear Mules have always been a favorite team at Colby, and the courtmen are always a well-disciplined and well-drilled team.

Durham is Second Trip Objective This Week

By Dave Aarne

The Palm blue basketball, financially the soundest trip, is off to Durham this week. Durham, Saturday, talk to the road again this week. The Palm blue will be a state series location, and the program with the Villagers, who carry the crown of Colby, is the New England Conference struggle.

The second trip objective is almost set at a tie for the heftiness of the back seat. The Colby Mules will work over New Hampshire's men in the second series to give the old Colby fans a win.

Miss Helen Longfellow, head of the physical education department at Colby, will offer a course in physical education at an additional cost to the students here. The course is held this afternoon in the gym, and the training of the athletes is a major part of the course.

Miss Longfellow has taught the course in physical education for years and has always taught with a great deal of energy. She is a very popular teacher and is well liked by the students. The course is open to all students and is a great way to stay active and healthy.

Maine Freshman and Varsity Track Teams Favored in Meets with Colby; Cochrane and Daggett are Threats

Maine's entry in the combined event competition is the only team in this field. The talk on the New England Conference meet, held this afternoon in Orono, so Maine should move ahead here in Maine's entry in the combined event competition.

Maine lost the first dual meet of the season so far at the hands of New Hampshire last Saturday. The visitors so that, toward the end of the battle, the fans were yelling for the hooper, and his 16 points was be one of the strongest teams in all of Maine. We want to see the hooper, and his play off the backboard helped the team.

The results of the combined event competition show Maine's strength began to show its worth.
