Concert Will Be Given By Harvard Glee Club April 19; Open To All

Chorus of Sixty-six
And 2 Pianists
To Perform

PROGRAM VARIED
Songs in Five Languages
To be on Program
At Gymnasium

Songs in five languages are included in the program which the Harvard Glee Club will sing in a concert, open to the public, to be given in the University of Maine gymnasium Wednesday, April 19, at 8:00 p.m. The sixty-six singers and their two accompanists, under the leadership of G. Wallace Woodworth, are being brought to Orono by the co-operation of Albion P. Beverage, director of the Maine Christian Association, and the University Assemblies committee.

The "Miserere" of Gregorio Allegri, who died in 1652, the third number on the program, is sung annually in the Pontifical Chapel in Rome during Holy Week and is considered one of the most beautiful compositions which has ever been dedicated to the service of the Church. There was a time when it was so much treasured that to copy it was a crime punishable with excommunication.

Offenbach's bacchanale from "La Belle Helene" is from a comic opera of the period a little before Gilbert and Sullivan in England. Offenbach was the source of a great many aspects of the style of Sullivan, but was rather more ribald. His music was characterized by extraordinary gaiety. The Harvard group have also included Sullivan, singing choruses from "Iolanthe" as the concluding number.

Mozart's "Choruses for Freemasons" was composed originally for men's voices and was written for the Masonic Rite at the lodge of which the composer was a member. The two Czechoslovakian folk songs on the program are by Anton Dvorak, who, with Smetana, was one of the two founders of the Czech school of national music.

The club will also sing the prelude and finale from Malipiero's "San Francesco d'Assisi," a one-act chamber opera, a large part of which is given over to the scene of St. Francis preaching to the birds and to the death of the Saint. The first American performance of these excerpts was given by the Club at its concert with the Boston Symphony orchestra last month.

Omicron Nu Elects Six

Home Economics Frat.
Elects Three Seniors
And Three Juniors

Six students, including three seniors and three juniors, have been elected to Omicron Nu, the national honorary home economics society, it was announced recently.

The students are Vera Brastow, Charlotte Hennessy, Jean Grange, Maxine Robertson, Margaret Steinmetz, and Marion Tufts.

Vera Brastow, a senior, was president of the Home Economics Club last year and is president of the home management house. She has been assistant manager of basketball and is a member of the "M" Club. She was an associate member of the Prism board and was awarded the Freshman Scholarship cup.

Charlotte Hennessy, also a senior, is on the All-Maine hockey team and is a member of the "M" Club. She is a member of the Home Economics Club, the orchestra, the Y.W.C.A., and received the W.S.G.A. scholarship her sophomore year. She belongs to Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority.

Jean Grange, a senior, is a member of the Home Economics Club and the Y. W. C. A. She was awarded the Merrill-Palmer scholarship her junior year. She is a member of Phi Mu social sorority.

Maxine Robertson, a junior, has been a member of the All-Maine hockey team for the past two years. She also plays basketball and volleyball and is a member of the "M" Club.

Margaret Steinmetz, a junior, is a member of Pack and Pine, the Y.W.C.A. cabinet, and Phi Mu social sorority. Marion Tufts, also a junior, is a member of Neai Mathetai and the Home Economics Club.

They will be initiated next week.

Plans Made For Annual Maine Day

Reports were discussed and plans made for the 4th annual Maine Day at a meeting of the Maine Day committee held at President Hauck's home April 9.

Reports of the four sub-committees on the morning program, afternoon events, evening skits, and publicity were read by the chairmen.

Both students and faculty will take part in the evening skits. There will be a dance after the entertainment.

The mayoralty campaign will be shortened to one day, it was announced. The publicity committee will hold a meeting April 16 to choose the candidates.

'You Can't Take It With You' Is Year's Last Masque Play

"You Can't Take It With You," to be presented at the Little Theatre April 26, 27, and 28, will be the Maine Masque's last production of the year.

With hardly a breathing spell after "Helen of Troy," Masque members and advisors are now working on an entirely different type of play. While of the currently popular "screwball" variety of show, "You Can't Take It With You," however, has a very worthwhile meaning, although it must be said that its authors, Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, have used an unusual technique in getting it across. Fireworks and soft music, a ballet dancer and a wrestler, a drunken actress and three G-men, a Russian Grand Duchess and a careful of snakes all do their part in turning the stage into something rather resembling a mad-house.

This play ran on Broadway for over two and a half years, and has been made into a movie. For his direction of this screen version, Frank Capra was given the annual award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts.

The cast for the show includes the Masque's president, veteran Clark Kunej, swagging hero of "Roadside," who, in this show, plays an elderly man; Winnie Warren, who will be remembered for her acting in "Heartbreak House"; Robert Cail, the seedy old reprobate of "Roadside"; Barbara Ashworth, who will play a tipsy female; and Ruth Trickey, who in this show will prove that she is a bit of a ballet dancer as well as a singer. Neil Sawyer, Earle Rankin, George Risman, Emily Hopkins, and others will also appear in the cast.

A New York publicity man, Mr. Arthur Baron, formerly connected with the original Broadway presentation of "You Can't Take It With You," was on the campus last week and, after attending one of the Masque's rehearsals of the show, expressed an extremely favorable opinion of the way it was cast and the way it was shaping up under the guidance of Director Herschel Bricker.

Nominations Made For Alumni Watch

Alfred Mallet, Dana Drew, Paul Browne, Herbert Leonard, Philip Grant, Artemus Weatherbee, Bernard Robbins, and William McCarthy have been nominated for the Washington Alumni Watch Award. Election will be held May 2.

Mallet is a varsity football man, and a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity.

Drew is president of his class, a Senior Skull, a Dean's List man, and varsity football and basketball athlete, and a member of Phi Eta Kappa fraternity.

Browne is vice president of his class, was president of Sophomore Owls, is a Senior Skull, and a member of Phi Mu Delta.

Grant is a member of Xi Sigma Pi, president of Student Senate, and a member of Sigma Chi.

Weatherbee is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, a varsity debater, member of the Masque, editor of last year's Prism, manager of tennis, and former president of Beta Theta Pi.

Robbins is a member of the Agricultural Club, Scabbard and Blade, is a track man, a Senior Skull, and a member of Phi Mu Delta fraternity.

McCarthy was a Sophomore Owl, is a member of Pale Blue Key, a varsity track man, a Senior Skull, and a member of Kappa Sigma.

University Forum Hears Fritchman

Religion must give us things to do as well as things to believe, declared the Rev. Stephen H. Fritchman, director of the Unitarian Youth Commission, in advancing a five-point program of social action in answer to the question, "What Can Christians Do," at a meeting of the University Forum held last Sunday evening in the Little

Athletic Society Nominations Made

The following have been nominated by the Student Senate for the positions of student representatives to the Athletic Association:

The present junior class chooses the association president and one member for the coming term. The sophomore and freshman classes elect one member each. Elections will take place May 2.

Nominations are as follows:
President Robert Atwood, Harold Gerrish, Malcolm Roberts, and Donald Smith.

Senior nominations: Floyd Jackson, Norris Adams, Charles Wilson, Richard Dyer, Kenneth Burr, Fred Johnston, Herbert Peabody.

Next "Campus" Poll To be held Monday

The fourth poll of student campus opinion will be held Monday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the regular ballot boxes.

Included in this poll will be a blank line on which the students are requested to write any question which they think appropriate to polling the students.

The questions in this poll are:
1. Do you believe that the United States should send munitions to European democracies in event of a European war?

2. Do you believe Congress should gain the peoples' approval before declaring war? (Ludlow Referendum)

3. Do you prefer this year's method of class elections to other ways?

4. a. Do you believe the C.I.O. (Continued on Page Four)

List Members To Alpha Zeta

Include One Professors
In Twelve Initiates
Entering Society

Twelve new members were initiated into Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, last evening.

Included among the twelve initiates was Professor Matthew E. Highlands, of the department of bacteriology. Professor Highlands, who received his Bachelor's degree from the University of Maine in 1928, has been connected with the College of Agriculture since 1935.

Other members installed at this meeting were: Paul E. Browne, a senior majoring in Agricultural Economics and Farm Management. Browne was president of his class for two years, was a member of the Sophomore Owls and the Senior Skulls. He has participated in varsity football and baseball and is a member of Phi Mu Delta social fraternity.

Edward Potter, a junior majoring in Poultry Husbandry, and president of Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity; Orman P. Hunt, a junior majoring in Dairy Husbandry, and also a member of Alpha Gamma Rho.

Joseph M. Johnson, a junior majoring in Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, a member of Phi Kappa Sigma; Alvah E. Pangburn, a junior, an Agronomy major, and a member of Phi Eta Kappa.

Philip E. Curtis, a junior majoring in Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, a member of Phi Mu Delta, and varsity basketball man; Rockwood N. Berry, who is a sophomore majoring in Horticulture, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Neal H. Walker, a sophomore, an Agronomy major, and vice president of Alpha Gamma Rho; Frederick M. Crouse, a sophomore majoring in Dairy Husbandry, and a member of Phi Eta Kappa.

Owen H. Smith, an Agronomy major, a sophomore, and a member of Phi Eta Kappa social fraternity; and Richard W. Akeley, a junior majoring in Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, and also a member of Phi Eta Kappa.

Choose Nominees For Class Parts

Nominations for senior class parts were made by a group of senior representatives at a meeting held Tuesday, April 11.

The election for the class parts will be held May 2. The nominations are as follows:

Valedictorian: David Trafford, Dana Drew, Edith Stevens, Artemus Weatherbee, Madge Stacy, Roger Stinchfield, Edna Louise Harrison, and Priscilla Haskell.

Class Ode: Mildred Walton, Pauline Davee, Alice Pierce, Charles Patrinelis, and Audrey White.

Marshall: Lawrence Kelley, George Grant, Kenneth Blaisdell, Harvard Whitten, Richard Bramhall, Harold Anderson, David Astor, and Brooks Brown.

Prophets: men—Frederick Patterson, Laurens Parkman; women—Virginia Maguire, Katherine True, Louise Rice, and Ruth Pagan.

Poet: Audrey White, Albert Toner, Charles Patrinelis, Louise Rice, Reginald MacDonal.

Juniors Elected To Tau Beta Pi

Honorary Engineering
Fraternity Adds 10
Tech. Students

Ten juniors were recently elected to Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity.

They are: Leon Breton, Wallace Beardsell, Wiljo Lindell, Stephen Gross, William Cook, Edwin Rich, Philip Hutchinson, Richard Morton, Guy Susi, and Edward Stanley.

Breton, chemical engineering, was president of the Sophomore Owls last year. He is secretary of the interfraternity council and the student senate. He is a former varsity basketball man and a member of Kappa Sigma.

Beardsell, also in chemical engineering, is a Dean's List man. He is a member of Kappa Sigma.

Lindell, chemical engineering, is a track man. He received the Hovey Memorial scholarship last spring at recognition assembly.

Gross, mechanical engineering, is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma.

Hutchinson, mechanical engineering, has received a Hovey Memorial scholarship twice. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Susi, chemical engineering, played on the junior varsity football and basketball teams.

Cook, mechanical engineering, is a member of Phi Mu Delta. Rich is in electrical engineering.

Phi Beta Kappa Chooses Ten; Includes 8 Seniors, 2 Juniors

Barbara Whittredge, Edward Hayes, Helma Ebbeson, Marjorie Taylor, Lucille Epstein, Artemus Weatherbee, Madge Stacy, Anna Anderson, Elnora Savage, and David Trafford have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Barbara Whittredge, '39, is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She is majoring in sociology and is a member of Sigma Mu Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi. She is active in the Maine Masque, the Y.W.C.A., and the Arts Club.

Edward Hayes, '39, is majoring in zoology. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity and has taken part in the work of the German Club, the Maine Masque, and the winter sports team. He has also been a member of the tennis and indoor track squads.

Helma Ebbeson, '40, is majoring in history. She is a member of Sigma Delta Zeta fraternity.

Marjorie Taylor, '39, is majoring in mathematics, and was recently elected to Phi Kappa Phi. She is a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority and of the Arts Club and Women's Student Government Association. She is

Two Programs Planned For Visitors

75 GUIDES

All Colleges Offer
Exhibits in Own
Departments

Over 230 exhibits and demonstrations have been planned for the fourth annual Open House this Saturday by departments in the colleges of technology, agriculture, and arts and sciences.

The University will be open to high school students at 1:00-5:30 in the afternoon. The general public will be admitted for the evening program from 7:00 to 10:30. Guides will be provided for the visitors. The 75 volunteers chosen for the work will be arranged in two shifts.

Popularity of the exhibition is shown by the fact that requests have been made by parents from all over the state for an open house this year to help high school students choose courses. Last year the attendance increased 50% over that of the first year.

New Demonstrations

New demonstrations this year in civil engineering are quick sand, pressure on sand, shearing strength and permeability of soils, and sanitary engineering. The newly-formed physics club is completing a Van de Graff generator which will produce at least 100,000 volts of static electricity.

The departments open for inspection will be home economics, in the College of Agriculture, physics, in Arts and Sciences, and the whole College of Technology.

The motorist will be interested in room 431 Aubert where he will see tests on gasoline. The basement of Wingate, with its tests of road material, will also attract him. The foundry will demonstrate how his car will be welded after the next mechanical break.

Home owners will want to see the dial telephone exhibit in 28F Lord Hall, the burglar alarm in 28A, the heating and ventilating exhibit in the main laboratory, and the whole home economics display in Merrill Hall.

Those looking for pure spectacle will cover the rest of the technology buildings and the physics department in Aubert where a multiple spectrograph will make an artificial rainbow several inches wide, the electron ultramicroscope will be shown, and a 50 foot pendulum will indicate the rotation of the earth. ## Elect Nineteen Students and Professors to Phi Kappa Phi Sixteen seniors and three faculty members have been elected to Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic fraternity, Professor Albert M. Turner, president, announced recently.

Those elected are: Anna M. Anderson, Alma M. Armstrong, Gwendolyn M. Baker, Wilfrid E. Bettoney, Edwin Byer, P. Emily Dean, Dana E. Drew, John S. Edwards, Marie T. Folsom, Ruth Gregory, William B. Page, Madge E. Stacy, Roger M. Stinchfield, Marjorie Taylor, John F. Whitney, and Barbara F. Whittredge. The faculty members are Professor Clarence E. Bennett, Professor John F. Klein, and Professor Herbert D. Lamson.

Members of Phi Kappa Phi are chosen from the upper ten per cent of the senior class. Membership in this society is the highest scholastic honor obtainable at the University.

Miss Anderson, an English major, is a member of Neai Mathetai, the orchestra, French Club, Arts Club, and Y.W.C.A. She received a University Trustee scholarship last year.

Miss Armstrong, majoring in romance languages, is a transfer from Westbrook Junior College. She is taking tutorial honors.

Miss Baker, a home economics major, is a member of Neai Mathetai, Omicron Nu, and received the Freshman Scholarship Cup. She was the Merrill Palmer appointee last year and is a member of the home economics club, the Y.W.C.A., and the M.O.C.

Wilfrid Bettoney, majoring in mechanical engineering, is a transfer from Northeastern University.

Byer, a zoology major, was a member of the track team his first two years and is taking tutorial honors.

Miss Dean is majoring in home economics. She was assistant editor of the 1939 Prism, and is a member of the Women's Forum, the Home Economics Club, and the Y.W.C.A. She is a member of Chi Omega social sorority.

Drew, a major in farm management, is president of the Senior Class, a member of Alpha Zeta and the Senior Skulls. He was a Sophomore Owl and class president his Freshman year. He has played football, basketball, and baseball, and is a member of Phi Eta Kappa social fraternity.

King Cotton Imperiled

The South has been described by President Roosevelt as the country's "economic problem number one." This contention undoubtedly remains true today, but certainly one of the most depressing problems facing Congress currently is a problem not including the entire Southern difficulties, but involving the South's most vital product, cotton. For the past seven years American cotton exports have been steadily declining until today our total cotton exports are less than half what they were in 1932.

To aid the cotton growers, who have suffered tremendously from this declining market, the government has made loans on 11.5 million bales of cotton which it must dispose of soon. Domestic consumption has remained fairly constant throughout this period of the declining foreign market, but it has not been nearly sufficient to absorb the increasing crop. By August 1 of this year it is anticipated that the United States will have 26.5 million bales of cotton on hand.

The imminence of this situation has been very apparent to Congress in recent weeks. Sundry solutions have been offered, but not until the gigantic "Barter" proposal was made known last Monday did any seem satisfactory. Nearly all the previous proposals had suggested some sort of subsidization. The President and Secretary Wallace had urged that the government subsidize the cotton exports and thereby "dump" our surplus on foreign markets. This would have the very detrimental effect of provoking a violent trade war and offering American goods to foreign consumers at lower costs than they can be sold to domestic consumers. It is also inconsistent with Secretary Hull's rather successful reciprocal trade agreements.

The recent proposal that we exchange with European democracies our cotton and wheat surplus for such products as rubber and tin would reduce our cotton surplus without subjecting us to criticism for "dumping" our products on foreign markets. If this plan is put into effect, it will also augment America's supply of war materials which is consistent with the desires of the War Department. At a time when international trade is being further complicated by threatening wars, the government could dispose of its cotton surplus by much worse methods than the proposed "barter" plan.

Club Hears Talk On Marine Laboratory

Professor Joseph Murray, head of the zoology department, gave an illustrated lecture last Thursday evening, to the Biology Club members, on the University Marine Laboratory, at Lamorne.

Dr. Murray said that the 55 acres of land had been given the University by the state in 1931, and then turned over for marine research. Each summer the 20 to 30 students studying there, from all over the United States, have the advantage of having fresh material and a natural laboratory. The course, which is for 6 hours credit, lasts for 6 weeks, and costs $120 for tuition, and room and board in the dormitory there, he concluded.

The club elected the following temporary officers: Chairman, George Risman; secretary, John Dillon; publicity agent, Kendrick Hodgdon.

The following committees were nominated and advised to meet as soon as possible. Program committee:

Mr. R. L. Sprague, Portland manager for the Union Central Life Insurance Company, will present an illustrated lecture on Life Insurance as a vocational field in Room 305 Aubert Hall at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, April 20.

Illustrating the points of his talk on the opportunities in the field of life insurance for college graduates by means of slides, Mr. Sprague will present a unique outline of the subject. Although of particular interest to seniors, the lecture will be open to any who are interested. Following the talk, Mr. Sprague will be available for individual discussions and interviews.

Harris McClean, Marianne Russell, Robert Robertson, George Chase, and Martha Hutchins.

Constitution committee: Harold Rhineland, O'Neil Robertson, Kendrick Hodgdon, Edith McIntire, and Merle Wing.

The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, April 20, 7:15, in 15 Coburn.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mimi

The heavens appear to be getting slightly coy these days. They gave us a white Thanksgiving, a white Christmas, and, by the looks of things, we'll be having a white May Day. We call it "unfair" weather. By the time we get around to wearing our new spring clothes (rather, our spring clothes) summer will have bounced upon us.

Stephen Leacock and the rest of those boys get a great kick out of running around talking and writing about how American people are continually rushing about, going as fast and as fast as possible. Without trying to be too subtle about the whole thing, we suggest that Leacock and his pals take a little trip on the "Clipper," more commonly known as the Creeping Baby, or, in other words, that positive speed demon of a trolley that crawls between Bangor and Orono.

During vacation one of the Bangor gals breezed down to Boston. Her parents, the worrying type, told her to wire some kind of form greeting (because same is cheaper) so that they would know she had arrived safely. When she reached Boston she immediately went to the hotel and, once at the desk, asked for either a birthday, sympathy or congratulations message. All the clerk appeared to have were Easter greeting messages, so our friend had one sent to her parents. The next evening there was a long distance call for her. Her father and mother were frantic; they hadn't received any word from her, and were practically hysterical from worry. After assuring them she was still alive and well, she rushed to the clerk's desk to find out what had happened to her telegram. Sadly enough, she discovered that, through the clerk's kindness, her Easter greeting telegram was being held up until Easter Sunday. Our friend, being a lady, counted to ten and let it go at that.

CRACKS AROUND CAMPUS—In the Dorm: Dreams are such marvellous things—it's a shame we have to sleep through them.

In the Frat: Of course I miss her. Whenever I think of her, that is. At Soph Hop: You've broken my heart, wrecked my life, and ruined my whole evening.

Chemistry Major: The next suit I get is going to be of exceedingly rough material. I'm tired of scratching my matches on the soles of my shoes.

In the Frat: If at first you don't succeed, double it and match him again.

Lest we forget, congrats to the ten Phi Beta Kappa's. Scholastically, they don't come any beta. (Our apologies for the pun—but we like it.)

Donovan Chosen Head Of W.S.G.A. at Elections

Alice Ann Donovan was elected president of Woman's Student Government Association at the elections held yesterday. The other officers are Helen Wormwood, vice president, Alma Hansen, secretary, and Margaret Phillips, treasurer.

Miss Donovan, a junior in the Arts and Sciences college, is a past treasurer and vice president of W.S.G.A. She is a past Sophomore Eagle, an All-Maine Woman, and the secretary of the junior class. She is a member of the Arts Club and of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Miss Wormwood, a sophomore, is a past treasurer of W.S.G.A. She is a Sophomore Eagle, and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. She is president of the Elms dormitory.

Miss Phillips, a freshman, is president of North Hall, and a member of Woman's Student Government this year.

C. Winfield Richmond, widely traveled in Europe, will be guest speaker at the annual Junior Week assembly Friday morning, April 28. Junior Week will also include a Masque play, "You Can't Take It With You," running on April 26, 27, and 28, and will wind up Friday evening with the annual Junior Prom in Memorial Gymnasium.

Richmond, a teacher of organ and piano at the Northern Conservatory of Music, has traveled abroad for several summers to music festivals in Italy, France, England, and Germany.

The "Campus" broadcast will be on Thursday evenings over WLBZ at 7:15 hereafter, rather than at 7:00.

The 160 freshmen and sophomores at Goucher College follow no less than 114 different personal curricula. (ACP)

THE RATTLER

By Al and Don

Apparently our Spring vacation will begin in June this year.

We know some fellows who say they're going to beat the game by getting married if war is declared. Not a bad idea, if you can get anyone to marry you.

The success of Mal Hallett at the Soph Hop ought to be a good argument for the name-bands. He sure went over. Now if anyone has the dope on the Junior Prom music, we'd like to know. It is only a couple of weeks off.

Speaking of bands, Jan ("Music with a shuffle") Savitt seems to have things well under control at the Lincoln's Blue Room. Taking over for such big timers as Isham Jones and Artie Shaw, of Jan is broadcasting some mean music these days.

The goldfish-gobbling thing has gone altogether too far. It's a real threat to the clam centers of Maine. How does the song go?—"I want some sea-food, mama." For the benefit of home industry we urge all loyal sons to order their "favorite dish" in the shell instead of on the wiggle.

From somewhere long ago and far away, we hear, petticoats are coming back, to join the ranks of the hoop-skirt, the cameo brooch, and the shirt-waist. O. K., girls, but while you're being reactionary about your fashion, why forget the hats? This season's storm and stress numbers certainly are the tops in delirium tremens. One of the sources of the aforementioned mad millinery is said to be current events. Brrr. We'd like to see the girl friend sporting a putsch or an anschluss. Something would have to give way. Probably it would be our fine friendship.

In the spring our fancies turn to thoughts of marriage and a job, or, to be more precise, a job and then marriage. But to our horror last week we noticed that we were getting bald. Not all of our hair was disappearing, of course, but there was a definite thinning in front. In fact, we could actually look up through the front of our hairline and see clear patches of white skin. We were considerably alarmed.

Needless to say, we have taken precautionary measures. Each morning and night we briskly brush our scant locks fifty times. We apply olive oil liberally every other day to combat dryness of the scalp, and, when we have more time, we massage those precious locks vigorously. If we can stop the speed of that receding hairline in time, we may get that job, and, er, yes, that woman.

The University of Maine Photo Club is holding an exhibit on April 26 of prints submitted by members of the faculty and student body, in the Art Museum, South Stevens Hall. Anyone who has prints made by himself from his own negatives is invited to send them in to be hung in this exhibition.

All prints must be mounted on either 11 x 14 or 16 x 20 mounts and turned over to Dr. Frederick Martin, Aubert Hall, or to some other member of the Photo Club not later than Monday, April 24.

The Students' Arts Club will meet in South Stevens Tuesday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. The annual election of officers will be held at this time. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

By Mary Oberly

The Germans are people whose true nature is not to hate but to love all their fellowmen, says Nora Waln in Reaching for the Stars, recently published account of her four years (1934-1938) in Germany.

In ages past they have reached so high, searching for truth for mankind, that they have touched the stars. They have brought down for us gifts beyond estimation and their contribution is not ended.

As an eye-witness of life in Nazi Germany, she takes the stand for the defense, not for the government "which decides what is good and what is bad," but for the fundamental nature of the people themselves. She is firmly convinced that they will emerge triumphant. Their history, especially that of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, their period of intellectual flowering, will be a strong determinant. The molten barbarism being poured over them now will not affect them as strongly as it would a less cultured people.

Most disturbing to author Waln is the extreme inconsistency between the basically warm, human nature of these people and their intense, blind, cruel, stupid nationalism. However, she does feel that their native intelligence will assert itself over blind submissive obedience to the now rampant nationalistic horrors.

The book does not scientifically analyze or dissect Germany as a specimen afflicted with a disease, totalitarianism, and proceed to lay an indicative finger on the causes. It is rather the reactions of one woman to what she saw and experienced. As an artistic writer, she is chiefly interested in people.

And there is much of beauty in it. She does not dwell on the sadistic horrors, the tyrannies, and the gross stupidities. But when she does touch upon them, she is convincing. The contrast between the vivid picture of simple, happy joys and friendships of German life before the thick, black, gaseous cloud of Nazism beshrouded and permeated it, she draws with startling effectiveness. The degradation, physical, moral, mental, and intellectual, that we've read about in Savage Symphony and other sources, she treats with reticence, reserve, and simplicity.

Much use is made of conversations with the Belgians, Austrians, Czechs, and Germans she met, thus achieving a sense of reality and first-hand information. Convenient historical supplements as well as Germanic customs and folk-lore are deftly woven into the account to facilitate interpretation of the present-day scene.

Stylistically, the book is an achievement. The author's touch is gentle, light, and remarkably graphic. The 380 pages abound in memorably distinct pictures. Clear, easy sentences are heightened by an excellent choice of words rich in imagery, all of which makes for rapid and pleasurable reading.

Publication of the "Campus" will probably be on Friday instead of Thursday, next week. This change is necessary because of the unusual amount of work being done at the University Print Shop, and is expected to continue throughout the month.

STRANGE INTERLUDES

By University Snoops

Hello again—nice vacation? Hope you all have jobs and are looking forward to a lovely spring (??). Did someone say summer is around the corner? Where—California?..... Congratulations to actor FRED LIBBY and Phi Bete PAT HASKELL who make the "nth" pin hanging. RUSS and HONEY went and did it, too, congratulations to you two..... PAGAN and PHOEBE are sporting engagement rings..... the class of '39 certainly isn't slipping on that point..... the practice house girls are beginning to wonder if, with its ivory soap complexion, its pink cheeks, its sunny disposition, it's the baby that attracts all the boys—or maybe it's the beach-wagon..... many happy faces seen at Soph Hop, a really successful dance, JOE HAMLIN, per usual, LOUISE STEEVES, EVY RANDETTE, and other familiar ones seen..... also a lot of imports, but the co-eds are still seen in ther..... MADDY SMART will look lovely as a bride..... no, not prophesying anything. She just resembled one..... BILL SMART and NAT FELLOWS seen around campus..... DAVY ASTOR has been heard around campus humming "SYLVIA"..... so STEVIE HAMLIN wants to learn how to play bridge, we wonder why..... FITZIE'S PAUL will be here for the A O Pi dance this week-end..... even the MAYOR couldn't make Freshman Banquet too lively, but the girls had a good time, the programs were overflowing with names..... good-looking import HAL BRONSON had up for Soph Hop, not to mention some others..... GERTIE seems to be one advocate of a swimming team..... it seems almost like leap year with Soph Hop, Junior Prom, sorority dances coming off one right after the other; better keep your ties straight, and your shoes polished, boys..... for those of you who are wondering, Artie Shaw chose Hollywood instead of Portland, strangely enough, to play at during vacation. He's making a picture..... things have gotten to the point where FRANKIE TURNER (LA) BARGE(s) down to Bucksport almost between class periods..... see you at the ski jump.

SWING CORN-ER SWEET

There is no doubt about it. Mal is harsh, due to the loudness. Hallett has a good band. If you don't believe it, ask any one who went to the Soph Hop. Mal didn't do too well on the smile business, but he can make his boys dish out plenty of rhythm. His music was very danceable, and his arrangements were superb. And wasn't the drummer hot? He went right out of the world on that long break during the seventh dance. His break lasted so long that all the boys in the band had time to leave the stand and go out for a smoke. And when it comes to bass-slapper "Tiny" Joe Carbonero we really find him one of the best in the country. All the evening he had a large crowd around his doghouse. He stole the whole show with his clever antics and specialties. Let's have more bands like Hallett around here.

Isham Jones for the Junior Prom! We all remember Jones as the author of "I'll See You in My Dreams." A few years ago Ish took a drop, but he is now definitely on the climb. Today critics rate him as one of the outstanding dance bands in the nation. His popularity is rapidly nearing his former high mark. During the last year he has been booked at the best places from coast to coast. He must be good, or Consolidated Radio Artists would not give him the five-year contract he signed last month. CRA doesn't give long contracts to everybody.

Maybe I am wrong, but don't you think that Watie Atkins' hot trumpet man could tame down a little? He seems to be forcing his notes and blating too much on his solos. His tone

New England Road Trip Opens Tennis Season; Schedule Four Matches

Varsity Will Meet New Hampshire April 19th

By Ken Hodgdon

The New England trip of the varsity tennis team will begin on Wednesday, April 19, opening the season against New Hampshire University, at Durham.

The team will then proceed to Boston, playing Boston University April 20. They will then play in succession, Connecticut State, at Storrs, and Rhode Island University, at Kingston, returning to the campus Sunday, April 23.

This year Coach Small has the best balanced team he has ever brought together, and, although he has been hard hit by the loss of Vernon Kent and Julius Brodie, singles and doubles champions respectively, he states that there is considerable strength in the middle and lower positions of the singles and especially in the doubles.

Prominent among the contenders for positions this year are: Russell Crockett '40, Richard Pierce '41, James Cahill '39, William Chandler '40, and Austin Chamberlain '39.

Competition has been so close that the final selection cannot be made until next week.

Leading contenders for the freshman team are: Charles Guard, Harry DeShon, Charles Welch, Raymond Bucknam, Elmer Thompson, Alton Clark, Michael Habern, Stewart Svedman, Robert Healey, Raymond Wilson, Robert Watson, Thomas Moore, Harold Warren, Donald Marriner, and John Barrows.

The freshman team opens the season May 6 with Houlton at Orono; then follows Portland Junior College on May 8, Wassookeag May 11, Ricker May 18, and Caribou May 22, all at Orono, in that order.

Although the freshman team this year will not be as strong as the outstanding team of last year, it is, Coach

Indoor Tennis Championship To Be Played on April 14

The finals of the Indoor Tennis Championship will find Dick Pierce, '41, doubles champion, pitted against Russell Crockett, '40, in the indoor Memorial Gymnasium, Friday evening, April 14, at 7:30. Both of these men came through a field of fifty-two players to become the finalists in this tournament.

This Annual Indoor Tennis Tournament, besides deciding the indoor championship for the University, aids Coach Small in selecting the Varsity and Freshman teams for the spring season. Final selection will not be made until next week, but the autumn and winter training has narrowed the squads down to about 25 men who will compete for positions on the two teams.

The judges and other officials on Friday night will be: President Hanck, referee; Deans Corbett, Cloke, and Allen, foot-fault judges; Professors Starr, Watson, Gardner, and Kent, linesmen; Dean Lutes, Professor Demeritt, Mr. Arthur Stevens, Mr. E. S. Hurd, Mr. Jack Freese, umpires; Professors Ellis, Lord, Scamman, and Dow, recorders.

Varsity Riflemen To Meet Bowdoin in Match Here

Seven varsity riflemen will meet the Bowdoin Rifle Club in a shoulder-to-shoulder match here this Saturday afternoon, shooting prone and standing positions.

Maine's first team placed second and its second team seventh in the army corps area matches for New England. The first team also placed third in the Hearst Trophy match, the corps area headquarters announced recently.

Small expects, good enough to win the majority of the matches on the schedule.

By Erwin E. Cooper

During the past few years a great deal has been written about the subsidization of college athletics. The conflict arises out of the belief, on the part of some people, that athletes should receive monetary compensation for their efforts.

This desire to pay athletes for their performances does not arise out of any altruism, in most cases, but out of a desire to see old Podunk up there in the athletic limelight.

Many college administrations and alumni value a winning athletic team for the free advertising that it can give the Alma Mater. Whether we realize it or not, colleges advertise in just the same way as industry or the chamber of Commerce.

The answer to the whole question comes with one's belief in the purpose of intercollegiate athletics. Idealistically intended as a method of physical training for the college youth, intercollegiate athletics has been changed, at least in many cases, to a well-subsidized and really professionally promoted type of athletics. Some of the larger universities, and now some of the smaller ones, are coming to sponsor teams in much the same ways as our cities sponsor professional baseball, football, hockey, and other professional athletic teams. A college football game today receives more ballyhoo than the arrival of Ringling Brothers' circus. In fact, the ceremonies preceding some of the annual Bowl games would cause an outsider to confuse these football classics with P. T. Barnum's greatest show on earth.

*****

The demand for high-powered teams has caused many of the students of universities to lose their opportunity to engage in intercollegiate competition because only the super athlete may compete in big-time competition. Many universities have recognized this problem and have established huge intramural programs for the students in the university who are still amateurs. This has been possible where schools have been able to finance huge stadium seating, fifty thousand or more spectators, because of the resulting income. Schools of our own type, however, will find this difficult, and, if the money devoted to athletics is to be spent in paying a group of professional athletes so that the school may receive free advertising, the student who came to college for an education will be denied the possibilities for physical advancement that he rightly deserves.

Colleges must decide between these two courses. Fortunately, here at the University of Maine, we are not faced with any problem of overemphasis in athletics. This column does not believe that a man should be discriminated against just because he is an athlete. It merely feels that if a college is to exploit athletics commercially that the players be compensated accordingly, but if athletics are to be run for the enjoyment of the students on an amateur basis, then the athlete should be dealt with financially on the same basis as any other student.

Unfortunately, all colleges do not see things within this light, and have developed a major league scouting system to ferret out likely prospects for next year's team. In some cases, when a prospect is not considered for enough developed, they will even see that he is farmed out to some preparatory school for a year so that he may have the benefit of a year's seasoning. Some colleges are more or less subtle in their methods, but it all amounts to the same thing. Colleges who wish to keep things on a simple pure basis are oftentimes handicapped, for within their own athletic rivalries several schools may come to employ these methods.

Spotlighting the Campus:.....Lighting the campus in a spotlight of sports is something that is a little more difficult than usual, with all this snow blanketing any attempts at activity out of doors on the part of the spring athletic teams.....Word reached us that the exhibition game with Colby, scheduled for April nineteenth, has been definitely cancelled, because it now appears that Coach Kenyon's squad will not have even one day's practice outside before that date.....Coach Small's Tennis Team leaves on its spring trip next week.....This week's best bet in sports is that Indoor Tennis Final Friday night.....Anyone who can find time to attend should be well rewarded.....Here's something from down Bowdoin way. It appears that Ray Huling, among other outstanding Polar Bear trackmen, will be ineligible this spring. Hank Dolan, Bowdoin's star high jumper, however, will be able to compete, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding.

Storms Keep Baseball Team Inside; Kenyon Hopes For Good Season Despite Lack of Seasoned Material

Skeet Team Organized; Marksman Called Out

The University administration has approved the formation of a skeet team for which matches have already been arranged with Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Cornell, West Point, and Annapolis, it was announced recently.

The first of the two matches scheduled is a triangular meet with Harvard and Princeton in Boston on April 29. The second is a match with the above mentioned colleges and Dartmouth, Cornell, West Point, and Annapolis, it was announced recently.

Prof. C. W. Chapman is coach of the University skeet team.

Membership of the team has not been determined as yet.

All those interested in trying for a position on the team should get in touch with Prof. Chapman, Bob Harris, at Kappa Sigma, or Clay Merseure, at Sigma Nu.

All-Intramural Court Five Chosen by Committees

Climatic to what was characterized by Prof. Stanley M. Wallace, head of Public Education Department, as "one of the best seasons ever played in Intramural Basketball," two all-intramural teams have been chosen.

The teams selected include:

Harold T. Stanton, forward, Dorn B.; Howard M. Kenney, forward, Phi Mu Delta; Bernard C. Robbins, center, Phi Mu Delta; Carl Toothaker, guard, Delta Tau Delta; Angus E. Humphries, guard, Phi Mu Delta.

Second Team:

Warren R. McNeill, forward, Phi Eta Kappa; James H. Ashby, forward, Phi Mu Delta; William D. Hamilton, center, Phi Eta Kappa; Newton J. Rodgers, guard, Theta Chi; Harry D. Shute, guard, Beta Theta Pi.

These teams were selected in cooperation with house captains and League officials.

Four Games Open Season Of Intramural Baseball

The 1939 season of the Intramural Indoor Baseball Tournament was formally opened April 5 with the play-off of four games.

In these four preliminary contests, Dormitory A defeated Kappa Sigma, 19-6. Phi Eta Kappa eked out a close victory over Delta Tau Delta, to the score of 9 to 7, while Phi Gamma Delta walloped Lambda Chi Alpha, 27-3. Alpha Tau Omega won from Dormitory B on a forfeit.

In two more games played April 6, Tau Epsilon Phi beat Alpha Gamma Rho, 22-15, with Oak West taking over Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 22 to 19.

In order to facilitate the refereeing of the matches, a number of upper-classmen have been recruited from the department of Physical Education. They include Paul Browne, Ed Stanley, Parker Stuart, James Cahill, Phil Curtis, Robert Burleigh, George Digby, Clifford Daigle, Red Lane, Mike Cohen, and Spud Peabody.

Loss of Atwood Dims Spring Track Outlook

Outdoor track practice has been in full swing ever since vacation, although the actual workouts have been held inside the field house. The first of the two dual meets this spring will take place two weeks from Saturday with Springfield College at Springfield.

The hammer throwers have been able to go outside, and for the last week have been working out in the parking lot on the north side of the football field. The outdoor track is still half covered with snow and ice, and the remaining half is under water. It is not expected that it will be ready for the runners until the week-end of the Springfield meet.

The Massachusetts team has not won a meet with Maine in the eleven years Coach Chester A. Jenkins has been at Orono, and it is hardly likely that they will break the string of losses this year, although Maine is weak in the dashes and hurdles. The only good sprinter, Bob Atwood, was stricken with pneumonia during vacation, and will not return to college for at least two weeks more. This means that he will not be able to run again this spring.

This year, as in past years, Maine has its most outstanding stars in the weight events. Stan Johnson, a junior, is one of the best 35 pound weight and 16 pound hammer throwers in the country. During the past indoor season he won the 35 pound weight throw at Harvard in a meet held in conjunction with the B.A.A. games, defeating Bill Shallow, Harvard ace, Carl Boulter, Johnny Magee's star pupil from Bowdoin, and several more of the best men in the east. A little later, at the National IC4A indoor championships in New York, he placed second to Bill McKeever, of Cornell.

Outdoors Johnson will throw the hammer, but he will be in for a lot of competition from his sophomore teammate, Lefty Bennett. The latter twice beat Johnson in the indoor event, setting a new meet record against New Hampshire. He has shown promise of being able to throw the big ball better than 55 feet.

Last year, as a freshman, Bennett set a college record in the 12 pound hammer throw when he heaved the lighter weight a little over 202 feet. There is little question but that he will do just as well with the 16 pound hammer, and Johnson himself predicts that Bennett will dethrone him in the state meet.

Hal Dyer, a senior, took care of the other weight events this winter, winning the 16 pound shot put in all four dual meets and also the discus throw in the two meets of the event. In the Bates meet he set a new college record in the discus throw with a toss of 135 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Bennett and Jake Serota, another sophomore, ably supported Dyer in these two events, while Serota also threw the indoor hammer three times, taking a third behind Johnson and Bennett to sweep the event.

In the pole vault, Spike Leonard, Charlie Weaver, Ed Rich, and Franklin Dexter gave Maine an exceptionally strong group of competitors. Johnny Daggett, of Colby, was the only man to defeat Leonard, the state outdoor title holder. At least two of the remaining three jumpers placed in all but one meet.

Maine has little chance of successfully defending her state championship outdoors against Bowdoin, although her chances of winning the New England title are much better. Lack of balance will give Bowdoin a win, but the unusual strength of the Pale Blue individual stars gives Maine the chance at the bigger crown. In addition, Johnson, Bennett, and Smith are all possible scorers in the national championships.

NOTICE

All those who desire to attend the CAMPUS banquet to be held May 16 must leave their names at the CAMPUS office before Saturday, April 15. Anyone whose name is on the masthead is eligible to attend.

Keen Competition For Positions On Team

By Dave Astor

Unless the inclement weather changes for the better, the varsity baseball team might have to travel on their New England road trip without a single day of outdoor practice. In fact, Coach Kenyon claims that the weather might prove more of a menace to the Pale Blue than the opposition.

The shining light of the present darkened baseball situation has been the extreme competition for all positions. "Competition is so keen that I can't give any predictions as to who will occupy positions, because I don't know myself," said Coach Kenyon. "I feel, however, that if we get any breaks we will have a fairly good season," added the genial coach.

This comes as a surprise, for there is a definite lack of veterans. The only veterans in the infield are the battery candidates; Bud Browne and Phil Chick, pitchers, and Phil Craig, catcher. Al Mann and Lefty Holmes, last year's frosh pitchers, have shown improvement and might be among the starting pitchers. Hal Anderson and Fred Bucklin have also shown plenty of ability behind the plate.

Since there isn't a single veteran left for any other places in the infield, it would be purely likely to predict any candidates having cinched a position.

Charlie Arbor, Fred Johnson, and Maison Goodrich are the leading contenders for the starting berth at the initial spark. Neither of these is a strong hitter so the final decision of who will start will probably be based on fielding ability.

Among the leading contestants for second base are Gauthier Thibodeau, Ronnie Dykes, and Joe Humphries. Humphries showed plenty of ability on last year's frosh team. Dyke and Thibodeau, however, have had more experience than Humphries.

At the shortstop and third base, hitting will be the leading factor in deciding who will answer the starting call.

Dana Drew, Willie Ward, and Black have shown the most ability at shortstop, and probably one of these will be the starting shortstop on the road trip.

At present it looks like a two-way fight between Shelley Smith and Harv Whitten for the hot corner position. Both are capable fielders and good hitters.

It will be impossible to choose members of the outfield until the squad is able to practise outside. However, Ray Norton and Doc Gerrish, holdovers from last year, Ken Clark, Jim Talbot, and Deak Adams are to be in line for positions.

Campus Awards Seven With Staff Promotion

Richard Cranch, '42, of the School of Forestry, has been a star reporter on the Campus, after a year's work in contributing sports and regular articles.

Others promoted are Helengrace Lancaster, '40, Daniel Roberts, '42, Miriam Golden, '40, Patricia Gogan, '40, Virginia Eddy, '41, and Mary Louise White, '42, who were made reporters.

Paul Ehrenfried, '42, Joseph Ingham, '41, and Joseph Cohen, '42, were made cub reporters.

The University of Maine, represented by Joseph Glasser, Erwin Cooper, Stephen Baccigalupo, and Edward Oppenheim, won the cup award at the Rhode Island Model Congress, held March 31 at Kingston, Rhode Island.

Twelve New England schools participated, six in the House of Representatives, and six in the Senate. Maine won first honors by discussing in the House the proposal that one billion dollars be spent for a Nicaragua Canal. Two members proposed the bill and two opposed it. All members of the House were given a chance to voice their opinions. Judgment was based upon the entire performance of the day.

Hamlin-Pagan Plan Marriage in June

A recent announcement of interest is the engagement of Ruth Pagan to Joseph Hamlin. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Pagan is a member of the senior class at the University of Maine. She has been active in campus activities, having been chosen an All-Maine Woman and president of the Woman's Student Government Association. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Mr. Hamlin was graduated from the University of Maine last June and is now athletic instructor at Mattanawcook Academy, at Lincoln, Maine. While at the University, he was an outstanding athlete, having been a member of the varsity football, basketball, and baseball teams. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Freshman Class Holds Banquet Saturday Eve.

The class of 1942 held their Freshman Banquet last Saturday evening in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Edward Barrows, class president, acted as toastmaster. The speakers included President Arthur A. Hauck and Mayor Frederick G. Patterson.

Following the banquet a dance was held, for which Watie Atkins and his orchestra furnished the music.

The banquet committee included Roger White, chairman; Margaret Phillips, Dallas Edwards, and William Irvine.

Mal Hallett's Band Plays at Soph Hop

Music by Mal Hallett and his orchestra was the feature of the Soph Hop for the class of 1941 which was held Friday evening in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Specialties from the singers, Madeline Greyes and Terry Pinkham, from "Tiny" Joe Carbonara, and from the whole orchestra held the spotlight at various times throughout the evening.

The decorations consisted mainly of a white background for the orchestra with the class numerals done in the class colors, green and white. The class banner was made by Hilda Rowe.

President and Mrs. Arthur A. Hauck; Dean Edith G. Wilson; Dean and Mrs. Arthur L. Deering; Dean and Mrs. Lamert S. Corbett were on the reception committee.

The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. George E. McReynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Rising L. Morrow.

The Sophomore Hop committee consisted of Lawrence Kelley, chairman, Hilda Rowe, Virginia Jewett, Samuel Tracy, and George Grant.

Chandler Is Elected To Maryland Sigma Xi

According to an announcement recently made by Doctor Ronald Bamford, of the University of Maryland, Mr. Frederick B. Chandler, of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, has been elected to the Maryland Chapter of Sigma Xi. Mr. Chandler has been doing graduate work at Maryland and last spring completed all the residence and course requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at that institution.

Mr. Chandler has been in the employ of the Experiment Station at the University of Maine since 1928. His research work has been largely with blueberries until comparatively recent years. Recently Mr. Chandler's most important contributions have been, to our knowledge, of the role of boron and some other of the so-called minor elements in plant nutrition, particularly with such plants as turnips, cauliflower, and broccoli.

It will be made with a resonant air column in an organ pipe. The stroboscope will make a falling stream of water seem motionless.

Prints of the Maine seal will be given to guests in room 40, Wingate Hall, after demonstrations in printing, and cookies will be distributed at the home economics exhibits.

FRITCHMAN

Theatre. The speaker was introduced by Prof. Andrew W. Banning, of the Bangor Theological Seminary. Ruth Pagan served as chairman of the Forum.

The five points of social action proposed by Mr. Fritchman are: 1, a realistic program to prevent war; 2, a constant effort to span and destroy class barriers; 3, a campaign against philosophies of racial superiority; 4, the preservation of civil liberties as the foundation of democracy; and 5, more active participation in American Youth movements.

The attitude of American Youth toward contemporary problems is most important, Mr. Fritchman declared. Young people in colleges, schools, and in industry must take a keener interest in current affairs in order that they may more intelligently map out a definite program of action. This program constitutes the most realistic part of one's religion. The church must have more than an interest in humanity and in civilization.

Three elements of a living religion which are necessary for the accomplishment of any program of social action are: 1, imagination, which aids in discovering new ideals, and supplies the willingness to take risks for their achievement; 2, vigor, which is as necessary in religion as in industry, in science, and in the professions; and 3, strategy, which is a necessary part of the technique of achievement. Mr. Fritchman emphasized the importance of strategy, stating that it is recognition of the factor of time.

A discussion period followed Mr. Fritchman's speech.

this year in debating and other public speaking activities. His oration was entitled "Americans Will Fight for Democracy—at Home."

In the final round this Friday, Mr. Andrews will compete with speakers from Bates and Colby for prizes of fifty dollars, thirty dollars, and twenty dollars, and for the opportunity of having his speech entered in the national contest in which two prizes of sixty dollars and forty dollars are being offered.

The contest is made possible through the donations of the Misses Mary and Helen Seabury. About twelve of the first prize orations are annually selected to be used in the Prince of Peace declamation contests sponsored by Ohio and Illinois churches.

Dr. Howard L. Runion, of the department of Public Speaking at the University of Maine, is in charge of the contest for the state of Maine.
