"Accent On Youth" Shows Good Directing, Acting, and Designing

Supporting Cast Aids
In Sophisticated
Handling

By Raymond Valliere

The Maine Masque deserves to be congratulated on its "accent." The cast displayed an adept hand for sophisticated comedy to an extent that is perhaps unusual for an amateur college group. The audience on more than one occasion forgot the actors on the stage and saw only the characters, so successful were the players in submerging their personalities beneath the personalities of the persons they portrayed.

The play itself proved to be an almost perfect vehicle for the cast. It was replete with clever lines, and the cast seldom failed to take advantage of them. A play of this type, worldly-wise, clever, unimpeachable, is easily ruined by amateurs, for the effect of its punch-lines depends frequently on a mere gesture, on an imperceptible pause, or a change in voice tone. These are subtleties of acting which are often beyond the capabilities of a non-professional group, but without them the force of the play would be lost. The cast of "Accent on Youth" demonstrated a not inadequate handling of these subtleties with only an occasional slip, and even these errors lose their significance when the play is viewed as a whole.

This play presented a radical change in performance when compared to the Polish Prof. Joins Faculty

Dr. Stanislas Francis Sniesko, of the University of Krakow, Poland, and former Rockefeller Foundation scholar at the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed research assistant in the department of bacteriology at the University for the remainder of the academic year, President Arthur A. Hauck announced here today. Dr. Sniesko's appointment has been made possible through the cooperation of the Maine Canners' Association.

Dr. Sniesko received both his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Jagellonian University of Krakow, doing his graduate thesis in the field of medical bacteriology. For several years he was instructor in the Institute of Experimental Medicine at Krakow.

He continued his advanced studies, after receiving his doctorate, Leipzig University, in agricultural bacteriology, at the Pasteur Institute in Paris and at Stockholm. During his Rockefeller fellowship from 1929 to 1932, his researches in commercial fermentation of cellulose attracted attention throughout this country.

Student Affairs Committee Formed

A committee on Student Affairs of the College of Arts and Sciences has been appointed by Dean Edward J. Allen for an examination of the extracurricular activities of the student body. The committee consists of Dr. Wilmarth Starr, chairman, Professor James Stewart, Dean Edith Wilson, Professor Milton Ellis, and Professor Karl D. Larson.

The present objective of the committee is to examine club activities of the student organizations. One of the first steps was to call a meeting of the club advisers and students representing various clubs for a general discussion.

The meeting was held on November 4 in the faculty room in South Stevens. A discussion developed on the question of the vitality of the club programs, membership, and roll of extracurricular activities as related to the formal education program.

Hubert Wilkins Will Speak In Bangor

Arctic Explorer Will Come to City Hall
December 14

Sir Hubert Wilkins, one of America's most distinguished explorers and scientists, is to speak the evening of Thursday, December 14, at the Bangor City Hall under the auspices of the B.H.S. Debate Club. Captain Wilkins has commanded seven different expeditions to the polar regions, more than any other living man. He has spent ten years in the Arctic and another ten years in the Antarctic.

Captain Wilkins' unusual record includes six "firsts." He was the first to discover new land from the air. FIRST to cross the Arctic Ocean by airplane. FIRST to land on any ocean, and, unaided, walk home. FIRST to fly over the Antarctic continent. FIRST to fly about the North Pole, by moonlight in the depth of winter. FIRST and only explorer to use a submarine under the Arctic ice.

Captain Wilkins is no stranger to the lecture platform. Few men have addressed such varied audiences and in so many different countries. He has spoken before scientific groups and before hundreds of popular audiences throughout the English-speaking world. Each time he has returned from his expeditions he has been in great demand for lecture appearances.

Because of his plans for a new submarine polar expedition being interrupted, due to war conditions, Captain Wilkins will remain in America this season, and, according to popular request, he is filling a limited number of lecture engagements while he is acting in an advisory capacity in connection with European affairs.

Many Maine students will remember the successful presentation two years ago of Richard Halliburton by the same group. As at that time, inquiries and seat reservations should be directed to the Debate Club at the Bangor High School office.

Masterful Male Mannequins Costume Cow College

By Bob and Barb

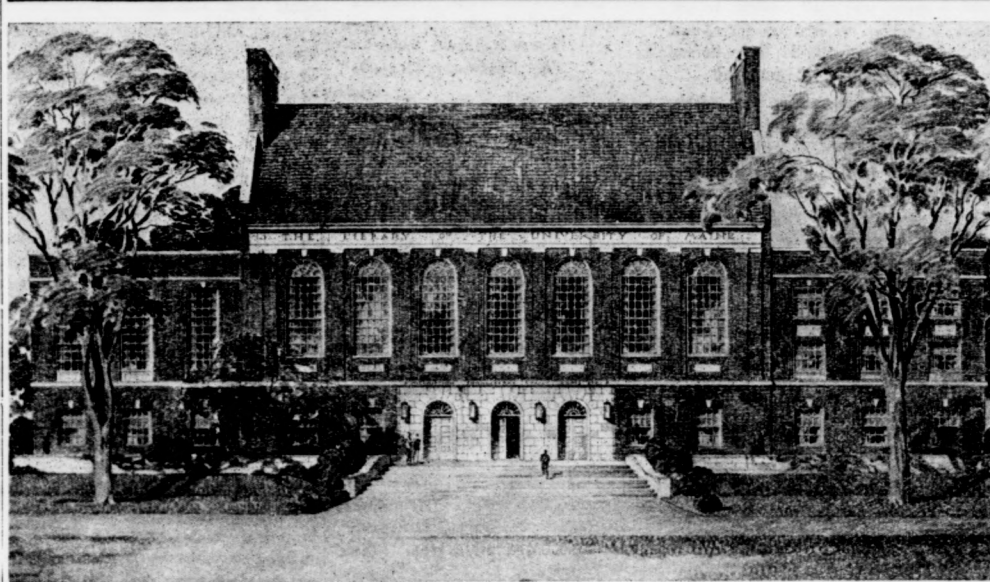

The Bookstore is probably the best place on campus to observe what men are wearing this winter, since it is admitted that the elite of the campus passes through the bookstore sometime during the day. It is here that we picked to observe the campus fashions on parade.

For instance, here comes that well-known mid-westerner, Dan Roberts, strikingly attired in a bright green and black jacket. His slacks are the latest cut with a new pleated effect. He wears no hat, which seems to be the fashion this year. The new hats are so hard to wear, boys!

Dotted here and there among the bookstore 'Cowboys' are the numerous fashion plates from the freshman class. Their ostentatious color scheme of blue, green, and white makes them outstanding. However, due to the will of certain of those above, the frosh are the ones who wear coats. Guy Torrey is notable for his droopy forelock of blond hair, his brown checked jacket contrasting with his grey tweed slacks, a green shirt to match the freshman tie, and on top of it all a blue and white cap. White wool socks and terribly dirty saddle shoes complete the ensemble.

Oh! Oh! Here comes that sweetheart of Colvin, Jake Serota. He is a remarkable specimen of what the forester about campus is wearing. A 'Crew Cut,' blue and white checkered shirt with the tails flying in the breeze. Topping the shirt is a waist-length leather jacket. It makes the shirt tails look like one of the new bustles the women are wearing. His slacks are tucked in the top of his

One of the following candidates is to be announced at intermission and commissioned by Elizabeth Kruse, of Bangor, last year's choice—Barbara Ashworth of Orono, Helen Wormwood, of Portland, Elizabeth McAlary, of Rockland, Anna Verrill, of Westbrook, and Pauline Cushing, of Portland.

Patrons for the dance will be President and Mrs. Arthur A. Hauck, Colonel and Mrs. Robert L. Alcott, Dean Edith Wilson, Major and Mrs. Harry Henkle, and Captain and Mrs. George Loupre.

Nativity Play To Be Given

The Deutscher Verein will present its annual nativity play Fritz Grebenstein's "Der Stern von Bethlehem" at 7:30 next Sunday evening in the Little Theatre.

The play is in four scenes telling the story of the holy couple seeking an inn in Bethlehem, of the shepherds in the fields who become aware of the star that shows them the way to the child, and their adoration and the presentation of humble gifts.

Those taking part are: Rudolph Haffner as Josef, Alvalene Pierson as Maria, Byron Whitney as Kuno, Juliet Spangler as Steffi, Hope Jackson as Wirtin, and Robert McDonald as Stoffel.

A choir stationed in the organ loft will sing the various traditional carols which are interspersed in the nativity play. Mr. William J. Cupp, of Bangor, is directing the choir which is composed of June Bridges, Joan McAllister, Edith McIntire, Norma Sylvester, Jeanette Lamoreau, Rudolph Haffner, and Byron Whitney.

Dr. Julius Bixler, Assembly Speaker, Starts Embassies

Dr. Julius Seelye Bixler, teacher of theology at the Harvard Divinity School, spoke on "The Need of Religion in the World Today" at the assembly on Tuesday which opened the first Embassy program at the University which is being sponsored by the Maine Christian Association.

"There are two opposite habits of life in the world today," stated Dr. Bixler. "One is controlled by force, or 'red blood,' and the other is governed by reason, spiritual insight, and education. The question of the day is, can the party of reason stand up against the party of force?"

He stated that religion is the opening for new experiences and that it is concerned with the validity of abstract ideas and the validity of the mind. "Religion is understood through an appeal to the mind. The problem of life is, what to consider before one's self." We must return to the essence of religion in what is good and true and can be justified as reasonable. This appeal of the basic ideal of the mind leads to God. "Our quest for God is the quest for the mind at work in life."

Dr. Bixler believes that we must adjust an idea to reality and to what the world is like at present. However, we must not sacrifice our belief in good, truth, and honesty because we see they are not always abided by today. "It is good to inquire and know the truth. Evil is unstable, for it is at war with itself as well as with the world." But lessons of goodness are of the mind and are not completely lost and do not have to be learned over again by a new generation. Possibly the historians of the future will refer to our era as the "bodily age," because we

Roy Fernald To Address Politics Club

Roy L. Fernald, of Winterport, former State Senator from Waldo County, will deliver an address on "State Finances" under the auspices of the Political Science Club in the Little Theatre, Tuesday, December 12, at 3:30.

Fernald, a graduate of the University of Maine, is a former professor of economics and an experienced legislator. He has served in the State Legislature for four consecutive terms, two in the House of Representatives and two in the Senate. In his last term in the Senate he was Republican majority floor leader and chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Among his other degrees he holds a Master's degree from Harvard and an LL.B. and LL.D. from Boston University. He is reputed to hold more earned degrees than any other individual in the country.

The address will be open to all students and members of the faculty.

Poll Favors Reading Day

The latest campus poll revealed that most of the students voting favored a one-day reading period before final examinations. The College of Agriculture was the most in favor, with 94% assenting, as contrasted with an 87% of the voters as a whole favoring such an idea.

The students were not very enthusiastic over the suggestion that there should be established a federal Department of Education, involving federal support and control. As would be expected, the College of Education, with a 'yes' vote of 64%, welcomed such a plan, whereas the University as a whole gave it only lukewarm support, with a vote of 51%.

Seventy-nine per cent of the students agreed that the federal government should tax munitions profits.

New Building Will Provide More Study Room

REPLACES 1906 GIFT

Norman H. Mayo To Be
Head Of Finance
Committee

A campaign to assist the University of Maine in financing the construction of a new library building has been launched by the General Alumni Association, it was announced here today. The proposed building, which will cost approximately $400,000, will replace the present overcrowded structure erected by a gift from Andrew Carnegie in 1906.

The site on the campus assigned to the new library is at the south end of the Mall, lying between Stevens Hall and the Administration building, with the north facade facing the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, and the south facade facing the Horticulture building to form a smaller quadrangle with Rogers Hall on the east side and Winslow Hall on the west. The building will conform to the style of the newer buildings on the campus, the Georgian Colonial red brick structure of Stevens, Rogers, and Merrill halls. Three stories high, it will provide increased space for general reading and reference rooms and special departmental reading rooms.

The campaign will be directed by an alumni committee under the chairmanship of Norman H. Mayo, '09, of Portland.

The need of the building and the organizing of the program was decided upon by a joint alumni and faculty committee. The alumni who assisted

The scholarships are awarded to students in the College of Technology on the basis of scholastic attainment, character, and general promise.

Stanley is a member of the Masque, a member of A.S.M.E., a member of Phi Mu Delta fraternity, and was assistant manager of baseball.

Hutchinson, a Masque member, played the lead in "Accent on Youth," is a member of the Seaboard and Blade, junior varsity football squad, Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and has received the scholarship before.

Chase was a member of the varsity tennis squad.

Maine Is Second In Apple Judging

William R. Booth, Victor Levene, and Arnold Pitman represented the University of Maine at an apple-judging contest with Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire at Amherst, Mass., on November 25.

Fourteen classes of apples were judged, each class consisting of three plates of five apples, each of a single variety. A perfect individual score was 2,800 and team score, 8,400. On this basis the Massachusetts team won with 7,888 points, Maine was second with 7,650 points, and Connecticut and New Hampshire were third and fourth respectively.

Booth and Levene ranked third and fourth in individual scores. John Hall, of Massachusetts, was first with 2,694 points, Rains Lanson, also of Massachusetts, was second with 2,673 points, Booth was third with 2,639 points, and Levene was fourth with 2,607 points.

The men who made this trip also visited several apple plants. Among those seen were the New England Cold Storage Warehouse in Portland where 100,000 bushels of apples were stored this year.

Very Gratifying News

It seems that Maine students have more to be thankful for after Thanksgiving than before. The announcement that the University is to have a new library is most gratifying to all. The need has long been recognized.

To those familiar with library facilities at the University, it is obvious that they are inadequate. When the present building was opened in 1906, there were 576 students on campus. Today there are 2061 who crowd into this same structure. The 30,000 volumes housed in the library thirty-five years ago have been increased to 136,000 volumes. The present accession rate of nearly 5000 books annually has made it necessary to store away thousands in basements of other college halls. Calls for books have increased since 1923, when the first circulation figures were kept, from 18,000 to over 107,000. The present library is not fireproof and, since the books, collections, and rare documents are worth many times the value of the building, it is considered uneconomical to spend the money necessary to make it fireproof in view of its deficiencies. It is not essential to enumerate all the reasons why Maine should have a new library. Even to those not familiar with conditions here, it must be evident from the above statistics that the need is great and immediate.

Now steps are being taken to fulfill this need. The University and the General Alumni Association will each pay one half of the cost of construction of the new building. As students we should feel very fortunate that we are members of an institution possessing an alumni body with the courage and ability to undertake such a project. Maine alumni have always manifested a genuine interest in the welfare of their university's undergraduates. The Memorial Gymnasium, the largest and most modern in New England, stands as a symbol of alumni spirit. The new library will be another great memorial to the goodwill and generosity of Maine graduates.

In comparison with other institutions of higher learning, the University of Maine has very little money with which to carry out its building program. That the University, with its limited funds and resources, can start such an enterprise is indicative of the highly efficient business ability of its administrators. With this combination of alumni spirit and University administrative ability, we feel that the success of the project is assured.

About the 'Campus' Polls

Four hundred ninety students bothered to vote in the last CAMPUS poll. This is less than one-fourth of the total student body and the results can hardly be considered as opinion representative of the whole University. It would be too bad to discontinue this feature, but such will be necessary unless a larger number of students register their opinions at the next poll.

Questions voted upon by students in recent CAMPUS polls, especially those dealing with questions of University significance, have a direct bearing upon student affairs. Extracurricular activities, the acquisition of a mascot, and a day for study between the end of classes and the beginning of final examinations are all topics of student interest sufficiently important to warrant a large vote. Other questions, dealing with political, social, economic, and philosophical subjects, are included in the polls, the results of which are of significance and interest to socially conscious students.

We are not attempting to "sell" the CAMPUS poll. We merely wish to state that one more will be conducted to test student interest. If nearly one half of the student body participates in this poll, we shall consider it as an indication of sufficient interest to maintain this feature. Otherwise, it will be discontinued.

Any suggestions or criticism of the CAMPUS poll will be welcomed and carefully considered by the editor and the poll committee.

Small Town Stuff

Back to classes again and full of turkey—us, not the classes...Every one seems to have had a grand time and I guess we're all content to get back to school to rest up for Xmas vacation which will be here before we have those cuts all made up...

That Snow we had a few weeks back has all disappeared but the "Sneakin' Deacon" (Doc Winters to you) gathered up a neat little armful which he's keeping in cold storage down at the Elms... Phi Mu's glamour boy, Jim Harris, is getting to be quite a model. Do you suppose Barbie will get that portrait for Christmas? Doc Gerrish looked swell in a frame, too, but we hear that Martha's getting "Chased" by Robert Taylor.

We hear Miss Baxter's taking tennis lessons. Small time stuff... Betty tells us that Beta's Dick Chase has a few prelims between now and vacation which promise to give her many lonely nights... The maids are still cleaning up those fish scales. Fizzle. Do they really have turkeys that near to the ocean?...

I wonder what Bob Cameron had to stand on while the Balentine rug was gone. He may keep his feet warm now that it's back... It seems that Fred Tarbox swapped his pin and sixty cigars for Charlotte. Some bargaining, F.S.... You know I always thought Bob Burleigh came from Boothbay Harbor but I'd swear I passed him heading south of Boston...

Congrats to Anna and Bill. We had our suspicions before... What's this about Alice Ann and Doc? ?? Ellen Steven likes surprise parties... Marnie Deering looking forward when her AOA comes down from Brown... Guess Coting has settled down at last—Nice Polly...

The Tel and Tel evidently did a good business over the week-end—Separation certainly made the voice sound good... Our congrats to Bill Wetherbee—the Maque play was certainly a smash hit... Bob Fineberg left a week early for vacation and came back late—Minus his Tax Ep him...

It was Miles to Wheaton, but Mank goes to Church quite often... Nice election for honorary captain of the fall sports teams... Beta's Sammy takes this opportunity to ask the brethren to lay off—Let us Pray they do... Phoe Russell and Robertson had a marvelous vacation—Still trying to catch up on their sleep...

The Scabbard and Blade pledges looked pretty swell, but my, hasn't that Tracy got a voice... Have a good time at the big dance Friday. From what we hear there are going to be a lot of queer combinations. Tell you all about them next week. So long.

CAMPUS CHATTER

There happens to be a gal on campus whose fellow thinks she has things in common with Cyrano de Bergerac. A romantic guy to say the least—everytime he kisses her, he asks her please to remove her nose guard. (But look who's talking—he has such an obstruction that his features can't even come out for air.)

Not too many weeks ago Iturbi, world-famous pianist, gave a concert in Bangor. The hall was jammed with music lovers from Bangor, Orono, and surrounding territory. Our hero's pictures had appeared in the daily papers for the past two weeks and everyone was well acquainted with what he did and who he was. The program was to begin at eight-thirty. At eight thirty-two a tall man in a dark suit appeared from the left entrance. The applause was maddening. The man did not look at the audience but merely continued walk-

SPORTLAND BOWLING ALLEY

RADIO NEWS

By Buel Godwin

The Maine Radio Guild went to town with their first program on Sunday night, November 26. Letters have been pouring in with comments such as "came over great... incidental music well selected... listened with pleasure and instruction... excellently conceived... expertly carried on... let the almighty work go on... subjects interested and delighted me... congratulations" and many, many others.

The play was The Acadia National Park with the following students taking part in it: Quenton Crandall, Barbara Ashworth, Carl Duncan, Paul Morin, Philip Pierce, John Cullinan, Robert Lovejoy, Elton Carter, Francis Andrews, Eleanor Look, Russ Woolley, Beth Trott, Dorothy Ouellette, and Fred Burden. It was an excellent piece of work. WLBZ said that it was without doubt the best bit of amateur work presented by Maine from Lord Hall studios.

The Maine Campus on the air was going along very smoothly in its last broadcast until Dave Astor came dashing in with the last minute dope on the Honorary Fall Sports Captains. I heard more double talk in his five minutes of broadcast than I've heard all the rest of the year on Campus. Considering the fact that Dave rushed over to broadcast the "exclusive" between courses at the banquet, he did a good job with his ad libbing.

Last Sunday night the Advanced Music Students presented a half hour of music on the University of Maine on the Air. The Music commentary about the pieces played was prepared by Dr. Karl Larsen. Those who took part were Pauline Jellison, Anne Rollins, Ruth McKay, and Ruth Trickey, who sang the soprano solos. The girls all did a great job. I hope that they're on again soon.

Next Sunday night the U. of M. on the Air will also be a product of the New Radio Guild. It will be the last program before Xmas vacation and will combine a dramatization of Xmas drama with Xmas carols.

The Maine Radio Guild, a student organization of the University under the supervision of the Department of Speech, is now presenting a new series of educational broadcasts. Education by radio is already an accepted fact, and for that reason the Guild hopes that this series will offer instruction in the fields of science and history. This is their first venture and they will appreciate any criticism or suggestions. The address is 350 Stevens Hall.

The new schedule of University broadcasts:

Sunday, 7.30 p.m.—The University of Maine on the Air

Monday, 2.30 p.m.—The Maine School of the Air

Tuesday, 6.30 p.m.—Broadcast to Aroostook County through WAGM

Wednesday, 2.30 p.m.—Three Meals a Day, presented by Dr. Marion Sweetman, Department of Home Economics

Thursday, 7.15 p.m.—Maine Campus News

Gallery Displays Greek Athletics

A set of plates depicting Greek Athletics and Festivals in the Fifth Century is on display in the Art Gallery. The set represents the significant works of art which serve as primary source for material on the subject of Grecian life.

The plates are arranged in sequence, and they portray athletics as a part of the religious expression of the Greeks and as a part of their daily life. At the same time the illustrations represent the various forms of fifth century art and ornament, and show many details of buildings, modes of travel, and costume.

This illustrative set is the second of a series on the civilizations of Greece and Rome, and is compiled by the Museum of Fine Arts of Boston, Massachusetts.

Sponsor Series of 4 Faculty Dances

A series of four faculty dances will be held during the remainder of the school year, according to an announcement by Mrs. Noah Bryan, secretary of the Committee for Faculty Dances.

The first dance will be held on Tuesday, December 12, at 8:30 p.m. in Alumni Gymnasium. All members of the staff of instruction and all administrative officers are invited. No subscription is required this year, and the admission charge per couple has been reduced under a new plan for furnishing dance music.

A barn dance is planned for January 18, either a Valentine or a Washington dance for February, and a St. Patrick's dance on March 21.

Each couple attending the dance next Tuesday is requested to bring a decoration for the Christmas tree.

take policy; industry reconciled itself soon enough to the idea "that it had to start the giving."

Discounting the shop-worn, shelf-worn patent medicine cures, the writer notes that no simplified system, however carefully worked out, will cure the ills of the times. Youth, with its latent strength, its energy and enthusiasm, can, with an adequate, inspiring education, lead mankind to a happier, better-adjusted social economy.

There is much in this brightly-jacketed little book that appeals to logic and common sense. As an aid to a saner, clearer outlook on our own economic problems, which must be faced and dealt with soundly and rationally if we are to weather the increasingly tempestuous tumult of economic maladjustment, the book has definite value. An although the style is extremely simple and devoid of color or imagery, it has an innate warmth and sincerity. The writer's concern for humanity as such is in evidence throughout, attesting to his conviction that "man cannot live by bread alone."

"I expect other girls to propose to me too"

FOR three years I was the loneliest man in the fraternity house. Other guys had dates all the time, but not me. Everytime I called a girl I got the same reply... "Sorry but" etc. etc.

Life was miserable.

Now I have dates every night — thanks to Arrow.

One night I borrowed my roommate's Arrow shirt and went to a dance—stag as usual. Well, before I left I had more dates booked up on my cuff than a Don Juan. I heard the girls whispering: "What has come over Elmer?" "He looks so handsome." "Did you see that nice shirt he's wearing?" "Must be an Arrow."

I walked Elsie home that night and she proposed to me. Think of it!

Now I own a dozen Arrow shirts—a clean one for every day in the week... and five spares. Their collars never wrinkle, they fit perfectly, because they're Sanforized. They cost only $2 each... they're swell, and I'm grateful to Arrow for the build-up.

Indoor Track Team Is Ready for Successful Season, Says Jenkins

Bennett, Johnson, And Don Smith Are Strong

The University of Maine indoor track team opens its season early in February when it travels to Boston to participate in the B.A.A. relays. This is followed by dual meets with New Hampshire, Bates, Colby, and Northeastern.

There will probably be two teams entered in the B.A.A. relays; a mile relay team, and a two mile relay team. Coach Jenkins said this week that the two mile relay team had a good chance to win the New England championship in that race. Don Smith, Ken Blaisdell, Smoky Jordan, and Howy Ehrenbach are likely to be pouncing the boards when the two mile relay starts at Boston.

Due to graduation and the lack of material in last year's freshman class, the team as a whole is weaker than it has been in several years. The high jump, pole vault, and dashes are the weakest positions. However, several of last year's frosh will add strength to the varsity with Bill Gilman in the hurdles, Herb Johnson in the weights, and Ben Graham in the pole vault.

The dashes are the big IF of the entire squad. IF Sweat becomes eligible, he will add much needed strength to the century and furlong dashes. IF Bill Atwood can get into condition, he is apt to go places, according to Coach Jenkins.

In the 600, 1000, mile and two mile, Don Smith, Ken Blaisdell, Smoky Jordan, Howy Ehrenbach, and Mark Ingraham will share the assignments. Smith and Jordan are likely to run the mile and half mile. Ehrenbach will hold down the 600 yard run, while Ken Blaisdell will be winning the two mile for the Pale Blue.

The hurdles, a position weak last year, will be greatly strengthened by the addition of sophomore Bill Gilman who is expected to break the tape more than once for the Maine speed merchants.

Rifle Team Is To Compete in National Meet

The opening matches for the 1939-1940 season of Intercollegiate Rifle Competition will be held during the week ending December 9th, with Maine being pitted against three tough Western opponents, University of Washington, U.C.L.A., and University of Michigan.

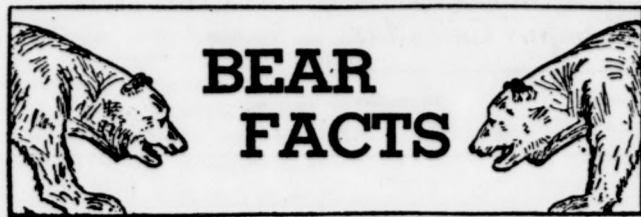

For these matches, fifteen sharpshooters will perform for Maine, the high ten scores counting for the team score. The team for this match has not yet been selected but will be determined by results of a local competition to be fired during the week prior to the match.

The schedule for the year is rapidly reaching completion with the mail man continuing to bring returns from the more distant colleges. Forty-eight matches have been arranged, and Manager George H. Ellis states that several more will be added. In addition, the team will participate in the First Corps Area and in the Hearst matches which will be fired during the early months of 1940.

Major Cooper reports his squads of Frosh and Varsity Trigger Squeezers are making good progress and, from present indications, should better the performance of last year's fine squad.

There is going to be keen competition for the pole vault with Dexter, Weaver, Rich, Graham, and Blanchard all straining their shoulder muscles. The high jump, that has been ruled over by Bill McCarthy for three years, is now open. In all probability Brink and Dexter will do the jumping. The broad jump is definitely the weakest position on the team, but Graham and Blanchard are learning fast and perhaps, before the season closes, they will be getting points for Maine, too.

The weights are Maine's strong

This inter-vacation period appears to be the period of in-betweens and marking time. It is in-between vacation, and from the looks of many of the students they're marking time—until they can go home to see their girl friends, or vice versa—and from the looks of the basketball coaches, the short space of time for practice is also good cause for worry. The basketball teams can only practice through Thursday, for Friday is the Military Ball and Saturday is the day following the Ball—if you know what we mean.

The following Friday, probably just as the squads, varsity and freshman, are beginning to look like basketball teams, the Christmas recess begins. The members of the squads, as well as the students, are expected to report back to school the second of January. Since this day is the day following New Years, neither the squads (nor students) will probably be in shape to play basketball. Four days after their return the teams open their schedules, for better or for worse.

The athletic event of the week is the frosh-soph track meet, and a great meet it should be, too. As everybody probably knows, if the freshmen win the meet, freshman rules go off immediately. If the sophomores win, the rules stay on. On paper one might conclude that the frosh should sweep the meet, but the meet will not be won that easy. It is true that the frosh have the renowned national cross country champions to build a team around, and they have a fine shot put and dashman; however, it is reported from the sophomore camp that they intend to surprise their opponents with new "fuds." The sophomores have as known stars Bill Gilman, a great hurdler, and Mark Ingraham, a distance man. Besides these they have many others who did well on the freshman team of last year. The sophomore "fuds" caused Coach Jenkins to smile when a "Campus" reporter asked him if the meet would be a runaway for the frosh. "It's going to be a lot closer than you expect," replied the genial coach.

Already a great deal of enthusiasm has been built up for this week's meet. As one frosh put it, "We've won every game and meet we've had so far, and we intend to continue that way through the winter season—with the sophomores as our first victims." On the other hand, a sophomore was heard to say, "We intend to keep those fresh men in their places." If you want to witness a real exciting meet, don't miss the frosh-soph battle of wits, half-wits, and trackmen on Saturday.

Things 'n stuff... We trust that the proper authorities are taking into consideration Jack Moran's pleas for a non-scouting agreement for all the Maine colleges. Mr. Moran, sports editor of the Times, and jayvee football coach, has something worth considering, we believe... Coach Frank Keaney, of R. I. State, is boasting of an even better basketball team this year. Woe is us... The state basketball series should provide plenty of close basketball this year. Too bad Bowdoin won't provide for a hoop team... The burning question in indoor track is, will Don Smith smash his own records?

Frosh Given Good Chance To Defeat Sophomores In Annual Track Meet Sat.

Varsity Squad Prepares For Bates Game

The varsity hoop squad went back into action this week in preparation for a busy season. The time before the first contest with Bates grows short and the practice is intense, especially in view of the coming two-week Christmas lay-off. There really isn't too much that can be said at this early stage of the team's development, for a new team is being built this season. With the loss of Lou Bourgoign, Vernon Kent, Dana Drew, and Ed Stanley has gone the greater part of the Pale Blue's scoring strength. However, in the two regular veteran guards, Charlie Arbor and Chick Wilson, Phil Curtis as center, and Harv Whitten and Buzz Tracy as forwards, Coach Kenyon can visualize a worthy scoring combination. Of course, these men are, to all ways of reckoning now, only the nucleus of a potentially potent outfit.

It is generally recognized today that seventeen or eighteen reliable regulars are needed for a powerful team rather than the former five. With the reduction of the squad of over sixty men to the present number of twenty-four, Coach Kenyon hopes to train this group to the perfection of regular players.

Among those men that have been retained on the squad and who show promise now of being able to bear varsity burdens are Parker Small, Ike Downes, Cliff Blake, Joe Burke, Gene Leger, Russ Johnson, Keith Thompson, all sophomores; Roger Stearns, Mac Roberts, Phil Curtis, Harvey Whitten, Chick Wilson, Charlie Arbor, Fred Johnston, and Phil Soderquist, former varsity material.

According to Coach Bill Kenyon: "The strength of the team is to be built around speed this year. The prospects look good, but nothing definite can be told until actual competition has been seen."

Tennis Doubles Reach Last Stage

Tennis doubles play has reached the quarter final round with four freshman and four upperclass teams dominating play. The fast play on the indoor court has produced several good matches. The doubles players are without doubt the earliest rising athletes, for most of the matches are being played at quarter past six in the morning. Conflicting schedules among the four players in a doubles match has made this early hour necessary for the playing off of matches.

In the upper bracket a sophomore combination of Svedeman and DeShon meets Adler and Quint, a freshman combination. The veterans Hamilton and Crockett face Farrar and LaBarge in this same bracket.

The lower brace finds Ingalls and Tooley meeting Watson and Lufkin in an all-freshman match. Pratt, the singles champion, is paired with Piansky and will face Guard and Chandler.

At the conclusion of the doubles tournament more singles matches will be scheduled. More reasonable hours of play will be prevalent in these matches since conflicting schedules will not be such a problem.

There will be an Episcopal Communion Sunday, December 10, at 9:00 a.m. in the M.C.A. building. Father Gordon Gillett will officiate at a Communion Breakfast which will follow the service. All students are welcome.

Cross Country Team Makes Frosh Good

The Freshman-Sophomore track and field meet which is held each year to decide if frosh rules are to remain on till Christmas will be held Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week. The field events—35 pound weight, shot put, and discus—will be held Friday afternoon while the rest of the meet will be Saturday afternoon.

Contrary to the opinion prevalent on campus, the meet is going to be close. According to the figures of Coach Jenkins, the Sophomores have a better than even chance of holding the Frosh to a one or two point margin, and an even chance of winning. Admittedly the sophomores last year had very little in the way of track material, but the fact that several of the freshman track stars of three years ago are back as sophomores this year should not be overlooked.

Brink in the high jump, Sweat in the dashes, Paterson in the mile, Ellis in the mile and one half, and Gilman in the hurdles, all have a better than fair chance of scoring in their events for the sophomores. The javelin and quarter mile are anybody's event. The frosh are weak in the broad jump, 35 pound weight, discus, and high jump. However, in the distances and middle distances they are strong with many of this year's championship cross country team running.

Remember when you struggled with fractions?

You'd be surprised how telephone engineers put them to work for you

How to put more and more wires into a telephone cable without increasing its diameter is an ever present problem at Western Electric—manufacturing unit of the Bell System. Existing ducts beneath city streets limit both the number and the diameter of cables—but demand for telephone service continues to grow.

Until recently, the largest cable contained 3636 wires in a diameter of 2½ inches. Years of study led to an entirely new insulating process that saved 3/1000 of an inch per wire. Multiply this tiny fraction of an inch by 3636, and you provide enough space to place 606 more wires in the same size cable—a total of 4242.

With such resourcefulness, Bell System engineers meet countless problems. Result: you can talk to almost anyone, anywhere—quickly, at low cost.

A telephone call home would be appreciated. Rates to most points are lowest anytime after 2 P.M. and all day Sunday.

"ACCENT ON YOUTH"

first Masque play of the present season. Mr. Weatherbee, the director of "Accent on Youth," in his reply to our criticism of the previous play stated that, as an amateur group, the members could not devote sufficient time to the rehearsal of the play to bring forth its best qualities. We believe that Mr. Weatherbee over-emphasized the time element and we also believe that this last play carries out our contention that it is experience, both on the part of the director and cast, that is the important factor. The time devoted to this play could not have varied greatly from that given to the first play, but the greater experience of the majority of the cast and of the director of "Accent on Youth" is obvious when the two plays are compared.

It is a rather difficult procedure to designate any one member of the cast of "Accent on Youth" as outstanding. The whole-hearted co-operation of the cast improved the performances of all concerned and prevented any individual performance from dominating the play. In this manner each member of the cast had an opportunity to deliver his or her lines to their best advantage and to the betterment of the play.

The first few moments of inactivity on the stage after the first curtain permitted the audience to view appreciatively the well-conceived set which provided an effective background for the players, aiding them to maintain the sophisticated atmosphere the play called for.

Philip Hutchinson was excellent in the role of Steven Gaye, the playwright who couldn't resist writing a love scene for his rival. We believe that this expresses the whole tone of the play, ridiculous, humorous, and yet there was a vague awareness on the part of the audience of an undercurrent of something that was not laughable, but too intangible to be pinned down and labeled by such words as "old love."

Virginia Howe did well in the role of Linda Brown, the romantic young secretary who finally decided that life would be much more enjoyable with a sedentary old playwright than with a muscle-conscious young actor.

The inimitable Louis Thibodeau scattered laughter freely among the audience as he fluttered vaguely through the play as Frank Galloway.

Emily Hopkins capitalized on a minor role and played it for all it was worth, being extremely convincing as the light-headed Miss Darling.

Genevieve Lang was portrayed by Barbara Welch, and her clever performance in the role prevented it from being submerged to the status of a mere build-up role for the character of Steven Gaye.

Dudley Utterback's conception of the part of Flogdell, the butler, was one of the best bits of acting we have ever seen in the Little Theatre.
