Immense Crowd Helps Celebrate Maine Night

Twentieth Annual Maine Night Celebrated by Loyal Alumni all Over the United States.

For the twentieth time Maine Night was celebrated on the University of Maine campus. The gymnasium in Alumni Hall was packed to capacity. As one speaker put it, "they cover the earth below, around the sides and reach half way to heaven." Not only was Maine Night observed on the campus, but evidence was given by the telegrams that it was being celebrated all over the United States. The loyal alumni from all over the country telegraphed their good wishes and a word of cheer for the team.

For several minutes before the meeting opened, our matchless Maine band led by "Stut" Lincken gave the alumni a splendid exhibition of snappy music.

Col. Strickland, the chairman of the Board of Trustees, was the chairman of the meeting. He said that Maine Night is for the glory of Maine. He then turned to the cheer leader and said, "Let's have Maine the long way, the short way, and every other way." When the cheers had subsided he went on to say that the Board realizes fully the needs of Maine and that in the next legislature they are going to take the budget football over for a touchdown. To do this the trustees will need the loyal support of every alumnus and student.

Gov. Baxter being unable to come, sent Leon F. Higgins to present his compliments and greetings. Mr. Higgins begged to become a member of the team that puts the budget football over for a touchdown.

The next speaker was Dr. Whitman Jordan of the class of '75. He said that the greatest thing in the state was the

Maine Alumni Teachers Hold Annual Banquet

The fourth annual banquet of the Maine Alumni Teachers' Association was held in Bangor Thursday evening October 26 at the Chamber of Commerce. Invitations to the banquet were sent out by W. D. Towner, the Alumni secretary, and about 130 were present.

Dean Stevens acted as toastmaster and gave an interesting outline of the history of the organization from its founding 6 years ago.

The principal speakers were Dr. C. C. Little and Mr. W. D. Towner. Dr. Little based his address on the needs of the University and the plans being made for its improvement. He explained the financial needs fully and made an appeal to those present to give the University their support as they go out through the state. He also outlined a plan for a college of education to be established pointing out the benefits to be derived both by undergraduates and teaching alumni. Summer school was also touched upon and its need of support in order that Maine might keep pace with other colleges in this movement.

Mr. Towner spoke briefly on the future plans for the organization.

Many of the Maine songs were sung and a novel idea for getting acquainted was introduced when each one present was asked to rise, give his name, class and place of teaching.

Following the banquet, a business meeting was held and the constitution for the Alumni Teachers' Association proposed by H. D. Foster '16 was endorsed. Dr. Ellis, chairman of the nominating committee announced the following officers for the coming year: president, F. L. S. Morse, superintendent of schools in South Thomaston; vice-president, Verne Beverly, Patten; secretary-treasurer, Linwood Kelley, South Portland. The officers with Ardis Lancy Rand, Augusta, and Norman Matthews, Waterville, are to act as an executive committee.

The special purpose of this association is to elevate the standard of the second-

Cross Country Team Is Ready for State Meet

The Team Goes to Lewiston Determined to Win the Championship of the State

The fourteen men who finished first in the trials for the Maine Cross Country meet last Friday will go to Lewiston this week and a team will be picked to run in the meet Friday afternoon. Bates has won the last two years and last year defeated the Maine team on our own course. The team is going to Lewiston Friday with the determination to get revenge.

The prospects for the Maine Cross Country team this year are very good. The squad of thirty-five have been working for six weeks, rain or shine, to be in trim for the three coming races: the State Meet next Friday, Nov. 3; the New England two weeks later, and the National Cross Country Meet held the week following the N. E. Meet. The squad has been sticking together well thruout the stiff workouts and Coach Flack has much good material from which to pick.

Four letter men in this sport are out, Capt. McKeeman, Patten, Raymond, and Webb. Raymond did not run last year as he was ineligible, but made his letter his freshman year. He led the field in both the Interclass Cross Country Meet and in the State Meet trials. Capt. McKeeman, Patten and Webb made their letters last year and were among the first five to finish in the trials. "Pete" Wilson "Wes" Ames, Noyes, Smith, Pease and Ed Kneeland did not make their letters last year but are giving the letter men a good chase. The freshman class has some good runners representing them on the squad: Hillmon who won the Interclass Meet, Sylvester and Hart who were in the first fourteen in the trials and Beedle, Heistad, Pendleton, Pike and Ttate have been running well also.

There is one more week to train for the State meet and then there will be two weeks of hard work following and a trial will be held to determine who will run in the New England and the National Meets.

The initiation is to be held on Thursday of this week.

Maine Co-eds Participate In Dancing Exhibition

A group of graceful talented girls took an active part in the successful entertainment given at the Teachers' Convention, Friday afternoon at the auditorium in Bangor. Under the direction of Miss Teresa Huesman, the girls' athletic director, the girls performed the stately minuet, the glide waltz, and the modern foxtrot, showing the marked contrast between the old and new dances. The girls made a charming appearance in the picturesque costumes of the period and received a great ovation from the appreciative audience. Thru a misunderstanding they were announced as the "pupils of Orono High School" much to their relief and gratification.

Those taking part in the performance were Johnnie Johnson, Betty Hunt, Tete Ward, Kay Mahoney, Jean Marr, Kay Hunt, Helen Mayo, Ruth Barstowe, Ida Stackpole, Mabel Hall, Louise Kincaide and Betty Kingsbury. Mary Friend officiated at the piano.

5000 Maine Teachers Hold Annual Convention

The largest gathering of the Maine Teachers' Association was held in Bangor, October 26, 27, and 28. 5000 members were present at this, the twentieth annual and 42d State Teachers' Convention. From the standpoint of meetings and addresses a new standard was set.

The school music festival officially opened the convention at the Auditorium, Thursday morning. The program that was given showed the fine work that is being done in music in the state.

The Bangor Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Professor A. W. Sprague, gave a concert Wednesday night in the City Hall for the visiting teachers.

Thursday afternoon, Doctor Fannie Dunn, Professor of Rural Education at the Teachers' College, Columbia University, spoke in the department of Rural Schools. She stated that ten thousand hours was the outside limit estimate of the time available for the rural child's education, his total capital. Just how can it be expended to the best advantage? The equipment of the schools must be such that all this time will not be wasted.

Hon. E. W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education for New Hampshire, also spoke on Thursday afternoon. His topic was "Discipline and School Control."

"The Truth in School History" was the subject of an address by Albert Bushnell Hart, Professor of History in Harvard. "The only truth in school history," said Prof. Hart, "must be a selection out of the infinite number of true happenings which shall be small enough to come within the compass of a school course, and large enough to offer a fair picture of the people and times studied."

In the Department of Home Economics a very interesting lecture was given by Mrs. S. Agnes Dunham on "Teaching the Use of the Income." She stated that it was a virtue to spend less than we have, and that it is our duty to earn and spend wisely.

The feature of Thursday afternoon was the address by Donald B. McMillan, the renowned Arctic explorer. He gave a resume of the reasons for his adventure, and took up the results of the expedition.

Hockey Manager, Kennard, Robinson. Basketball, Poole, Powell, Prouty. Tennis, French, Hall, Rafferty.

Five thousand spectators on Alumni Field, Saturday afternoon, witnessed Maine's decisive victory over Colby to the score of 14-0. Colby, coached to stop Small, did not make any progress in doing so and time and time again the versatile backfield man raced for long gains around Colby's ends.

With a full varsity lineup, the first time since the Vermont game, Maine faced the task of increasing her lead in the state championship. The victory can be credited mainly to the wonderful running of the flashy open field and off tackle plunger, Henry Small, who placed his team in position to score the first touchdown and who made the second after eluding the Colby team and outstripping the visitor's defense across the goal line.

Following a very poor beginning for the pale blue eleven which fumbled Millett's kickoff which gave Colby the ball for the first play on the Maine 10 yard line, the Maine line braced and held the blue and gray for downs.

On the very first play, Small shot off the Colby left tackle, eluded the secondary defense and flashed up the field for 46 yards where he was finally thrown to the turf by Levee, Colby's quarterback. Merritt shot thru center for six yards, Gruhn following for two more.

Thirty-six yards away from Colby's goal Maine launched her strength on the

Excellent Artists Coming For Lyceum Course

The Lyceum Course for this year is to be of special merit, and the artists that will appear in Alumni Hall during this course, will be worthy of our attention. It is seldom that we are able to witness such fine talent, and have it brought to our own campus. The number of concerts has been reduced from five to four; thereby gaining entertainments of even better quality than before. You will have the opportunity of hearing them as follows:

November 9—Edwin Whitney will present the play, "Adam and Eva."

January 16—White Dramatic Company

February 10—The Russian Cathedral Quartette

March 16—Mary Potter and The Boston Symphonic Quintette

Edwin Whitney, the favorite of last year, will greet us again. To see Mr. Whitney and to hear him present a full evening play is to realize why he is pronounced the most popular entertainer before the public. He is a splendid figure of a man, a clean-cut American, radiating personality in every gesture and word he utters. He has developed the art of play reading to the finest degree of perfection.

Some people like to hear a concert, some a lecture and others an entertainer

The Special Train

In times past when we have invaded the enemy's territory to play a state series game, we have always procured a special train and have gone en masse to the scene of action. Maine teams have always received mighty strong support whether playing a winning or a losing game. Special trains have always been in order when in any possible way obtainable. This idea of the special train has become in a way, a tradition and a just one. So this year when we are on our way to Bowdoin with victories over Bates and Colby to our credit, it seems that we may expect the student body to come thru and have a special train to Brunswick according to custom.

What do you say, everyone? Would you want to miss the fun of going down on a special train with the old Maine gang? A time to remember the rest of your life! Yes, you'll have a good time and what's more you will help support a team that deserves support. Sign your name to the list that will get the special train, now, and help swamp Bowdoin. Let's make the Bowdoin boys sick of bear meat.

Think for Yourself

Do you think for yourself or do you let the other fellow do all of the brain work? If you do, you are getting at least, something out of your education. That is one thing that each individual should derive from college, the ability to do his own thinking and to work out his problems. We feel that in the light of recent events, we are justified in making a criticism on this point with regard to many individuals now attending this university.

During the last fortnight a very important matter was brought up before the students for their consideration, a problem worthy of more real consideration than any that has confronted the student body for a long time. We are speaking of Dr. Little's proposed plan of student government. The matter was referred to the students and they were given opportunity to express their individual opinions. When they were asked to give a rising vote on the project, a few voted according to their own opinion of the merits of the case, some failed to vote at all, while many admitted afterwards that they voted a certain way because others did or through ignorance.

Now, disregarding the pros and cons of this case in question, it is unquestionably an issue of the very greatest importance in what kind of light does this represent our student body? We think that the situation offers an excellent example of mental laziness, and our earnest plea to every student is: For goodness sake, think; form your opinions; stick to them; be a factor in college circles, not a wall-flower.

Let's wind up that state football series with a bang.

Good Work

It does one's heart good to be able to voice whole-hearted praise after being called upon to deliver nothing but unfavorable criticism. We would speak of the cheering during the game last Saturday. It was good, the cheer leaders worked hard and the students, themselves were on their toes every minute. Keep it up, everyone, and you'll convince people that the old Maine spirit has really returned.

Bowdoin has boasted that she will have that big Maine bear eating out of her hand. Let's help the bear eat Bowdoin.

Posters on Campus

At a meeting of the trustees last year, it was voted that no bills should be posted on the trees on the Campus. A notice of this ruling was printed in the Campus. As there have been bills very prominently posted on the trees this fall, it has been thought necessary to remind the students of the matter. We are all justly proud of our beautiful campus and it is hoped that in the future, the rule of the trustees will be observed.

The Cross Country Meet

Next Friday we are sending to the State Cross Country meet at Lewiston a powerful team made up of hard fighters. That team is going to run a race that day, that will give us one more victory and will prevent Bates from winning the decisive leg on that M. T. A. A. cup. Let's do our share to help that team of ours. If you can possibly do so, go down to Lewiston, Friday and help the boys along the course. They are making a desperate fight for Maine. Do your share.

CORRESPONDENCE

Passaquottabuze, Maine.

October 30, 1922

Editor of the Maine Campus

Sir,

Seeing as how I ain't been up to Maine for some time, I reckon my old pals have all graduated. Well, I was down to Isaac's house the other night and he was reading one of your papers that his granddaughter sent home to him, and it took my eye first thing so I see to like "I guess I'll get that paper to read." So if you happen to have any left over just send one down to me.

I suppose that you young fellers up there go a-larkin up to Old Town on the Veazie express. I remember one time Ben and Jim and I went up. We found some girls and walked up the river so far that when we got back the train had been gone ten minutes. Another time we was taking some co-eds to Bangor and one of 'em lost her hat just below Veazie and they had to stop the train while Ben goes back to get the hat. I don't s'pose that you have any such actions as that now, but you tell the boys that they had better be careful how they go tearing around. Now don't forget my paper.

The Town of Orono A Community Study

In Maine, as in other New England states where the town system prevails, the town absorbs most of the functions of local government. The inhabitants of each town are a body corporate, capable of suing and being sued, and with the right of appointing attorneys and agents. The act of incorporation by the legislature defines the boundaries of the town, and the boundaries may be subsequently changed by the legislature with or without the consent of the town. As the town owes its status as a body corporate to an act of the legislature, so also it may surrender its charter of incorporation and cease to be a town.

Orono was incorporated as a town in 1806 and adopted the town system of government similar to that in vogue in all the towns of New England. The governing body of the town is the town meeting, in which every inhabitant who is qualified to vote for the high executives of the state and nation, is allowed to vote. At the town meeting, which is usually held on a Monday in March, all the elective officers of the town are chosen, money is raised and appropriated for all town changes, and regulations are made for the conduct of all the town business. These meetings are excellent examples of pure democracy and popular government. Special meetings may be called from time to time whenever needed by the selectmen on the request of ten or more legal voters.

The call for the town meeting is in the form of a warrant drawn up by the selectmen and posted by a constable in some public place in town a week before the meeting. The warrant specifies in separate articles the various articles of business to be performed, and only such matters as are listed in the warrant can legally be considered and acted on by the meeting. Following are a list of articles chosen from the warrant of the meeting of March 27, 1922, which give a good idea of some of the questions considered at such a meeting:

Articles 1 to 12 are concerned with the choosing of the various officers of the town.

Articles 12 to 18 have to do with the raising of money for making and repairing highways, roads, bridges, etc.

Art. 18: "To see if the town will vote to cooperate with the B. R. & E. in painting the steel bridge across the Stillwater River and to raise and appropriate money for the same."

Art. 24: "To see if the town will vote to buy seats for the town hall and to raise and appropriate money for the same."

Art. 30: "To see what action the town will take in regard to Daylight Saving Time."

Art. 33: "To see if the town will vote to change the location of the proposed Orono-Bradley bridge from the Ferry Site in Webster to the proposed site at the foot of Pine St."

Art. 37: "To see if the town will cooperate with the several towns, City of Old Town, Towns of Milford and Bradley, in the Motbov Health Union and to raise and appropriate money for same."

Art. 49: "To see if the town will vote to accept the jury list as prepared by the selectmen, treasurer and clerk."

Art. 55: "To empower the selectmen and treasurer to procure money, by temporary loan, or loans, for the use of the town, and see what instructions it will give thereto."

The procedure of the town meeting conforms in general to the familiar rules of parliamentary law. The meeting is called to order by the town clerk, who reads the warrant. Next comes the choice of moderator, the town clerk presiding and administering an oath to the person chosen. A town clerk for the ensuing year is then chosen, and sworn before the moderator or justice of peace. The meeting thus organized, the remaining articles of the warrant are taken up one by one, the election, by ballot, of the town officers being the first business in order. The moderator presides throughout the meeting, and is empowered by law to preserve order. The proceedings of the meeting, including the results of all votes taken, are recorded by the clerk.

Following is a list of the officers of Orono elected at the last town meeting, March 27, 1922:

Moderator, Archer L. Grover; Town Clerk, Charles H. Ring; Selectmen, 1st, L. F. Crane, 2nd, E. L. Mann, 3d, Daniel McDougall; Overseers of the Poor, The Selectmen; Assessors, The Selectmen; Road Commissioner, B. L. Read; Town Treasurer and Tax Collector, J. F. Cota; Members of School Committee: A. L. Grover, J. H. Stinchfield, Mrs. J. H. Huddleston.

Cemetery Trustees: E. F. Virgie, Donglass Fitzherbert, Harold Hamlin. Auditor of Accounts, Chas. H. White. Constables, J. C. Plourde, W. H. Smith, B. A. McKenzie, V. E. Gilpatrick, Perley Rogers, W. F. Getchell, W. V. Avery, Fred Doyle, A. C. Dore.

Surveyors of Lumber and Measurers of Wood and Bark, Hadley Spencer.

Weighers of Hay and Coal, Hadley Spencer, Jeremiah Calkins, R. L. Perkins.

Fire Chief and Building Inspector, Walter E. Hogan.

Sexton, M. J. Longley.

Town Physician, Dr. J. H. Knox.

Milk Inspector, Dr. H. Jackson.

Truant Officer, Asa Hanscomb.

Health Officer, Dr. H. Jackson.

The three chief executives of the town are the selectmen. In addition to the general oversight of the affairs of the town a great variety of functions are performed by them. In addition to the man does most of the work and receives five hundred dollars ($500.00) per annum. The second selectman gets a salary of four hundred dollars ($400.00) and the third, three hundred ($300.00) per annum. Collectively, they supervise the expenditure of money voted by the town for particular or general purposes, and have charge of the buildings and other property of the town. The town does not elect assessors of taxes or overseers of the poor so the selectmen perform the duties of those officers, with the power to appoint a number of minor officers to assist them. They prepare a list of registered voters and act as supervisors of elections. They license auctioneers, victualers, itinerant vendors, etc., lay out local ways and bridges, and grant the use of the town ways to railroad, telegraph, telephone and lighting companies. They perform, in general, any duties not by law devolved upon some other town officers. A detailed report of all their financial transactions must be submitted, in writing, to the annual town meeting.

The town clerk is the recording and registering officer of the town. He is compensated to the amount of $200.00 and expenses. In addition to his duties in connection with the town meetings, he issues licenses and permits, and keeps a record of marriages, births and deaths.

The valuation of the real and personal property of Orono, and the assessment upon individuals and corporations of their proportion of the annual tax, is the work of the board of assessors (the selectmen). All personal and real property of any real amount is taxed to 100% of its value. The tax rate for the year ending March 27, 1922, was $32.00 per $1000.00. Tax on each poll is $3.00 and there are 965 polls. In an examination of the report of the assessors for the past year, one will find that over 50% of the returns from taxable property in the town is from non-resident owners. This fact is made clear when we learn that the greater part of the income from taxation is derived from taxes on the personal and real property of the huge paper making concerns located in Orono but whose owners are domiciled elsewhere. An important point to be stressed is that Orono's tax rate is lower than that in any of its neighboring towns and there are very few, if any, towns in the state having a tax rate below that of Orono's. Financially the town is very well off, its greatest debt of any importance being the $50,000.00 appropriated for the new sewer system. When the assessment is made, the list is committed to Mr. J. F. Cota, the town tax collector, whose duty it is to collect the tax. The treasurer receives all the money collected by the town, whether from taxation or from other sources, and pays it out on order from the selectmen.

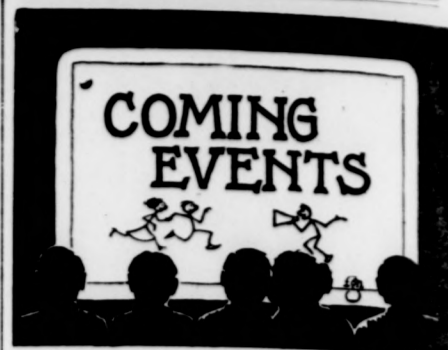

The schools of the town are under the immediate control of a superintending school committee who are elected by the town, and through whom the money apportioned for the support of the schools is expended.

The duties of the minor officers of the town, together with those of the overseers of the poor, are sufficiently indicated by their titles.

The powers of the town are now regulated by statute, most of which, however, take the form of general laws rather than of special laws for particular places. Such powers are commensurate with the duties or obligations laid upon it. As a corporation it may receive gifts or bequests in trust for benevolent, educational or religious purposes, take private land for public parks or squares, establish a public library, erect soldiers' monuments, and cause its history to be written and published.

A. T. O. Gives Banquet For the Colby Chapter

On Saturday night, Oct. 28, Colby Gamma Alpha and Maine Beta Upsilon chapters of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity met at the Bangor Chamber of Commerce for their annual joint banquet. There were about a hundred present, including active members and pledges from both chapters and alumni. The guests of honor included Dr. Clarence C. Little, president of the University of Maine; Alexander Macomber, a grand officer of the fraternity, and Emerson H. Packard, chief of the New England province. Professor Charles H. Batchelder of the University acted as toastmaster and introduced the following speakers: For Maine Beta Upsilon, Ralph C. Merrow; Colby Gamma Alpha, Arthur L. Berry; Gamma pledges, Henry Crowley; Beta pledges, Clyde Stover; Arthur Williams of Caribou and C. Parker Crowell of Bangor represented the alumni of their respective chapters; Alexander Macomber and Emerson H. Packard representing the general fraternity, and President Clarence C. Little were the guests of the fraternity. Music for the occasion was furnished by Pullen's Orchestra.

University of Wisconsin—The Green Cap, the badge of the humble freshman, is gone from the campus of the University of Wisconsin this fall for the first time. With it has gone the old traditions of hazing, it is predicted. Instead of the skull cap of green, the frosh now wear a civilized looking cap, modeled somewhat after the cap worn by the enlisted men of the United States Navy.

M. I. T.—The M. I. T. Radio Society announces that it will accept from any students of Technology for transmission free of charge to any part of the United States or the Hawaiian Islands. Messages may be given to any of the operators any evening between 7 and 10 o'clock.

Prompt delivery of these messages to their destinations is assured by the fact that the Technology station has consistent communication with the south and the middle west. It is also expected that the Institute station will have two-way communication with England and probably France this winter.

Carnegie Tech—At Carnegie Tech the tradition pageant of the "Burial of the Hatchet" marks the cessation of strife between the freshmen and sophomores. A real hatchet is buried (and immediately dug up again by souvenir hunters), after which the new men are initiated into the customs and atmosphere of the institution.

Throw off the cobwebs. Write an article for the CAMPUS.

plorations from 1830 to the present time. He pointed out how the geographical and scientific information has been of untold value to the world. The audience was fascinated by his stirring recital.

On the evening of the 26th, the City Hall was filled to capacity by the immense crowd that had come to hear the lecture of A. O. Thomas, State Superintendent, by radio. Due to electrical disturbances of the atmosphere, however, only a small part of the lecture could be heard.

Following this, the general session of the Division of Secondary Schools was held in the same hall. During this meeting William Mather Lewis, Chief of the Education service of the United States Chamber of Commerce, lectured on "Education and Business." Mr. Lewis emphasized the part that public schools have come to play in the industrial and social life of the nation. He said that American illiteracy is a menace to business. There are at least five million persons in the United States above the age of 10 who can neither read nor write.

The outstanding feature of the next morning was the meeting of the department of Primary Schools and Kindergartens. This was held in the Assembly Room of the High School building, and a large attendance listened to a concert program conducted by Miss Elizabeth Collins.

Something of interest to all high schools took place Friday noon, when the Association of Principals of Secondary Schools voted that all High Schools should bar post graduate athletics. This is to go into effect in the fall of 1923. This vote means a very important change in the government of High School athletics in Maine.

Charles Swain Thomas, editor of the Educational Department of the Atlantic Monthly Press, spoke on Friday morning to the grammar and junior high school teachers. His subject was "Life and Literature."

On Friday afternoon the following officers of the Association for the year were chosen: John A. Cone, Supt. of Brunswick-Topsam schools, President; Miss Helen Robinson, Portland, Vice-President; Adelbert W. Gordon, Augusta, Secretary; Clarence W. Proctor, Bangor, Treasurer.

A tentative draft of the act to create the Maine Teacher's retirement system for presentation to the next legislature, was drawn up.

Professor F. J. Kueny, of this University, delivered an address on the "Uses of the Past Tense in the Indicative."

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served during the evening.

M. I. T.—Captain D. H. Smith of the famous convict ship "Success," now on exhibit at Warren Bridge, Boston, has put up $250 in one of the strangest competitions offered college men. Captain Smith offers $125 to the Harvard man, and the same amount to the Technology man who will undergo a week's imprisonment in solitary confinement aboard the ancient craft. Should either the Harvard man or the Technology man quit before the week is out, the survivor will receive $250, if he sticks out the week.

Public Health Service In Town of Orono

In raising the standard of community life in the cities and towns of this nation, we have learned, by the great advancements of medicine and science within the last decade or so, that the question of public health is a consideration of vital importance. Health is no longer reckoned as merely a matter of private concern to the individual, for the state now recognizes that the preservation of health is one of its most important functions.

The citizens of Orono and surrounding towns are guarded by public health organizations which do their work so effectively under careful administration, that much praise and appreciation is due them. The organizations to which a great deal of credit is given are The Central Penobscot Public Health Association, the Motbo Health Union and the Red Cross.

The Central Penobscot Public Health Association was formerly known as the Old Town and Orono Anti Tuberculosis Association. It was an organization formed by the citizens of Old Town and Orono in 1905, whose chief function was the prevention and care of tuberculosis. After a number of years of successful work in curing and reducing the spread of tuberculosis, it became apparent that, in order to be of maximum service to the community, its functions must be broadened so as to cover the prevention and curing of diseases other than tuberculosis. Therefore in 1919 the present organization, namely The Central Penobscot Public Health Association, was formed, as a division of The State of Maine Public Health Association. Although it is a division of the State Health Association, it is purely a private undertaking.

The Association is made up of twenty-one representatives, 6 from the town of Orono, 2 each from Milford and Bradley and 9 from the City of Old Town. The representatives from each town are elected at the public mass meeting held every January for this purpose. The officers elected at the last meeting for the ensuing year are:

President, J. S. Stevens of Orono; secretary, F. J. Small of Old Town; treasurer, Edith Gray of Old Town. Each town also elects its vice-president, making a total of four vice-presidents.

Each of these officers and representatives serve for one year and receive no compensation for their services.

Financial support of the association is obtained from three sources, namely, (1) town appropriations; (2) public contributions and (3) sale of the Christmas Seals.

Three hundred dollars are raised by Orono, five hundred, by Old Town and seventy-five by Milford.

Citizens give freely in support of this organization, upon which the safety of their lives depends, as is indicated by a reserve fund in the treasury of the association.

The greater part of the association's work is handled by Mrs. Esther L. Higgins, R. N., in a very efficient and capable manner. She fills the position of Public Health Nurse for which she receives a salary of $1,500, each town paying its proportional share. She is active in visiting the homes and the schools, doing work that is largely preventive, and giving bedside care whenever needed. She is also put in charge of the summer camp, located in Old Town, which is conducted for the benefit of children, who it is feared might develop tuberculosis. The following data is taken from the annual report of the Public Health Nurse of the Town of Orono for the year ending March 27, 1922:

Number of days spent in Orono	77
Number of calls made	403
Number of clinics held	24
(Attendance 188)
Number of visits to schools	8
Number of patients taken to hospitals for treatment	11

"Among those accompanied to the hospital 9 have been for throat operations."

The Association also conducts a public health clinic, every Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the office of the clinic physician, Dry Bayard. The clinic lasts for an hour and Mrs. Higgins is always present. Any citizen of Orono, who wishes free medical examination, is urged to attend these weekly clinics. The report of the district nurse shows that a number of cases were handled during the past year, and that the examinations by Dr. Bayard, "have been given prompt and efficient support."

Another organization that is doing work equal to the Central Penobscot Public Health Association, is the Motbo Health Union. This Union derives its name by the rather ingenious manner of combining the first letters in the names of the respective towns making up the Union, namely, Milford, Old Town, Bradley and Orono. This organization has the distinction of being the first health union in the state of Maine. It was organized by the combined votes of the citizens, Jan. 1, 1920, and its support (financial) is apportioned among its member-towns according to population. Orono pays about 4-15 of the whole which amounts to about $425.00. This money was used to pay the salary and expenses of Dr. Howard L. Jackson, its present Health Officer, who receives full time, and serves for one year. Dr. Jackson's office is in Old Town, but regular visits are made to Orono, on Tuesday and Thursday of each week. Dr. Jackson, besides his compensation from the Motbo Union, receives a subsidy from the State amounting to about $800.00. Besides attending the clinic, Dr. Jackson inspects the sewer system, and with the assistance of Dr. D. K. Eastman, gives the tuberculin test to all the cows in Orono. Dr. Jackson was especially influential in bringing about the town appropriation of $50,000. for the new sewer system which was started last year to replace the old privately owned system that has in past years failed to serve more than a few citizens. Last spring the town voted to raise $50,000. for the construction of the much needed sewer system as laid out by Health Officer Jackson and the sewer committee. During the past summer work was started and much headway was gained in laying the new sewer, which, when completed will be so great a service to the whole community.

The annual report of the Health Officer, for Orono, for the year ending Mar. 27, 1922, contains such statements as follow:

"During the past year increasing interest of our people in public health work is noticeable and gratifying—owing to the vigilance of school physicians and nurses, fewer cases of contagious diseases have occurred than during the previous year."

"Aside from pneumonia and tuberculosis, we have had no deaths reported of contagious diseases in the past year."

"Illustrated lectures for the purpose of education, with special reference to the danger of venereal diseases, have been given and well attended."

Besides the two public health associations above reported, the Red Cross Organization is very active and serviceable. It employs Miss Katherine Kirk as school nurse for the towns of Orono and Old Town.

Two physicians are appointed by the school board for one year, to inspect the children and report the presence of any contagious diseases and all apparent defects. These physicians at present are Dr. Hall and Dr. Knox.

Dr. Knox is also the town physician, appointed by the selectmen to serve for a term of one year. He is paid by the town for services rendered.

From the above report, one can get a fairly definite idea of the service that the public and private health organizations are rendering to the citizens of Orono. The most important point that I wish to emphasize in closing is the harmonious and cooperative work done by the Central Penobscot Public Health Association, the Motbo Health Union, and the Red Cross. Although each association is controlled by separate executives, and they are of different membership, they get the maximum financial support of the communities by drawing money from different sources, and they work together without friction of any kind in their endeavor to give a maximum amount of efficient service to the community.

University. He said that the institution was entering into a new period in its history, a period of challenge; challenge to the State of Maine, challenge to every alumnus and friend of the University, challenge to very student.

"The University," he said, "never had a more capable and willing Board of Trustees than they have at present. This institution was established for the welfare of the nation. It was established to educate young men and women to service for your state and nation. If you fail in this service you are not playing the game." In a less serious manner he went on to tell of some of the experiences of his undergraduate days. He said that about forty-nine years ago some eighty cadets of the University started on an expedition. In a town, down river where a certain institution of learning is situated, they were greeted with cries of "potato diggers" and "turnip pullers." He said that if the train had not gone on promptly, those students would have had a chance to learn of the muscle produced by eating potatoes and turnips. He asked the football team if they would revenge that insult of old. At the close of his speech he asked that everybody arise and stand in silence for a few moments in memory of the name of Louis Southard, a loyal alumnus and for a long time a member of the board of trustees.

Frank E. Southard of Augusta was the next speaker. He told of the various achievements of the University other than in athletics. He said that one of our greatest achievements was that we recognized the Doctrine of the Flannel Shirt. He said "This shirt is put on at the beginning of the freshman year, is worn continuously through the four years, and at Commencement the gown is pulled on over it. It is non-washable, and non-shrinkable; it is the flannel shirt of a democratic college spirit. It is the highest shirt on the line! Long may she wave! Confusion to her enemies!"

Coach Flack was called to the platform to give the alumni and students the situation of the cross country team. He said that the team entering the state meet this year has an average time per man of one and one-half minutes faster than the men that ran last year. He said that there is one freshman running who will make this freshman class be remembered for a long time. He repeated his statement made at a former rally that if Bates wins the cross country championship this year she will have the best team she ever had or ever will have.

Capt. MacKeehan was then called to the platform. He said that last year Bates trimmed us on our own course which was unforgivable, and next Friday the team goes down to Bates for revenge.

A collection was taken up to get money to send the band to Brunswick next Saturday. One hundred and forty dollars was realized. It was planned to send a twenty-five piece band but as a surplus of money was raised a larger band will go down and do their best to help trip Bowdoin.

The two football coaches, Brice and Murphy were called to the platform in turn to give the alumni the dope on the team. Coach Murphy, after a few brief remarks, said, "We're going to win, that's all I can say."

Capt. Lunge said that the team had two things to do. One was to beat Colby Saturday and the other was to win the State Championship next Saturday by defeating Bowdoin.

Bull Krieger, a former football star for Maine was the next speaker. He said that it is up to the people Saturday to let the team know they are out there on the bleachers as soon as the team leaves the gym. "We can't win tomorrow's game on last Saturday's playing," he said. "The best football team in the country can't win a game without fight and spirit and the ones to instill that into the team are the students. The joy of playing the game is the ultimate success."

"Chub" Thomas was the student representative among the speakers. He said that many of the alumni when they speak of their undergraduate days give the impression that they think that 'them days are gone forever.' He said "We're here to show them that 'them days are here for ever.' Tomorrow the student body will show you that they can rock Alumni Field with cheers."

President Little, the last speaker, said that he had been waiting anxiously for Saturday to come as it would be his first opportunity to see Maine beat Colby. He said that a fair and square deal is looked for from the state by the trustees. The trustees are in the game for us just as much as the football team only they have a different objective.

"Tomorrow," he said, "is a special chance to help Maine. It is to be Maine spirit and traditions pitted against Colby spirit and traditions. Which is going to win?" It came in one big roar—"Maine." "Remember," he added, "that the game is not finished until the last whistle blows. Now let's get on our toes and stay on them until after the Bowdoin game."

right side of Colby's line and George Gruhn shot thru the secondary defense and over the line where he was tackled. Small kicked an easy goal for placement. Maine had scored within the first five minutes.

The second and last tally came in the fourth quarter when after an exchange of ball following unsuccessful forward passes of Colby, Maine started its second drive. "Small back" was the call and the blonde speedster shot from position into the right side of Colby's line, swung away out around the end and outstripping the defensive backs crossed the goal line in the far corner of the field following his dash of forty-eight yards for the touchdown. He later kicked the goal from placement held by Cutts.

But in losing, Colby did not lose easily. An ever fighting and charging line showing results attained by Coach Win Snow, made the Colby team look dangerous to the Maine eleven at all times.

Colby showed the edge in the second period, flashed again in the third and at one time in the latter locked as if she would score, but Maine knocked down forward pass after pass upon fourth down several times and put the ball in opposing territory.

Right off the whistle when the kick off bounded over Captain Lunge, Maine's left tackle, and into the crowd of Maine's backs Colby gathered in the pigskin on a fumble. Maine's line braced and held four downs and Small started his long dash up the field which helped Maine to her first score.

Millett was ever a gainer thru the Maine line and Levee before taken out of the game to allow Johnny Lampher to handle the team's forward passing, ripped off yard after yard in the second quarter when the ball was in Maine territory a greater part of the time.

The Maine team looked better in the third session, when the ball was in Colby's territory the majority of the time, although Colby always had a threat with her forward passing game. Maine attempted to keep the Colby greensward by off tackle plays with Small leading the brunt of the Brice attack.

Up to within the time Maine took the ball at midfield and Small flashed his way down the field for the second Maine touchdown, exchanges from fumbles and punts held the leather on the Colby side for the most part, Maine gaining little if any until she got the ball within scoring distance. The veteran Small then baffled the Colby team in his off tackle and around the end plunges.

The fourth session was clearly Maine's and developed into a forward passing duel, the Brice men opening up really for the first time during the game in this department. Colby showed its coaching against the Maine attack and battered the passes down as they shot down the field. Colby, on the other hand, desperate for a score, worked the same game, and except for a final minute flash, when Lampher threw to Bucknell gaining thirty yards, was not successful in penetrating into Maine's territory.

Maine outshone in rushing by three to one, made half again as many first downs as Colby, stopped the Waterville invaders and gained the ball by holding for downs five times against Colby's two, and had the little better of punting and penalties. The teams were even on running back kicks, Maine fumbled once more than Colby, while Colby suffered 50 yards in penalties to Maine's 10 yards and lost Lampher from play on account of slugging in the last quarter.

Colby gained more by forward passing, both teams completing the same average. Colby's line in the center looked very good, her backfield weakness being responsible for lack of more gains thru Maine's defense, faulty at times. Millett, Levee, Sonle, Moynahan and Keith played well for Colby, while Lunge, Small, Gruhn and McKechnie featured for Maine.

Bowdoin losing to Bates thus gives the championship to Coach Brice's charges whether they win or lose at Brunswick Saturday.

Read what Guy Harris says about making money selling Simpson Tailor made clothes.

"I worked my way thru school selling Simpson suits and overcoats."

Last spring I found myself in a position of being compelled to earn extra money to pay my expenses or leave school. Thru the employment manager at school I learned of J. B. Simpson, Inc., and succeeded in making a connection with them. Altho I had never in my life before, sold a suit or overcoat, I have earned an average of $37.00 per week by using my spare time to take orders for Simpson suits and overcoats.

"I did not depend only on the college students, but each afternoon I went out and called on from ten to thirty men. As Simpson values are exceptionally good and I could save the men from $10.00 to $20.00 on every suit or overcoat I nearly always succeeded in getting from one to five orders a day. The opportunity to do this work was a God-send to me and I can think of no better way to meet expenses than by getting the agency for Simpson clothes. The firm is 100% on the level—a big, reliable, honest institution and I cannot speak too highly of them. This season I will do even better as I have several hundred satisfied customers whom I can resell."
