Guest Speakers

Lisa Liberatore kicked off the semester with Matt Donahue, Vice President and Chief Impact Officer at Heart of Maine United Way, in both sections of her MGT 101. He explained what nonprofits are and their importance in the fabric of society.

Dr. Robert A. "Bob" Strong talked to students in Dr. Lobe's Financial Strategy class (FIN 353) and SPIFFY members about portfolio objectives and portfolio management practices. Dr. Strong is a well-known personality in Maine's Finance community. He is serving as Chairman of the University of Maine Foundation. He is a retired Chairman of the Bangor Savings Bank, a University Foundation Professor Emeritus of Investment Education, and a Professor Emeritus of Finance at the University of Maine. The audience greatly enjoyed Dr. Strong's insights, filled with anecdotes, wisdom, experience, and research accumulated over a long career. "We were all intrigued by Dr. Strong's pedagogy, which explained the multiple facets so everybody could easily grasp the major takeaways," says Dr. Sebastian Lobe.

This week, Kevin Hancock, managing owner and Chairman of Hancock Lumber, discussed his journey to find his voice and leadership style in Dr. Nadège Levallet's MBS 649 class. He also shared what he believes should be an organization's purpose and what empowered leadership looks like at Hancock Lumber.
