SHERWOOD EDDY TO ADDRESS STUDENTS HERE NOV. 24-25-26

WILL DISCUSS THE UNREST OF YOUTH IN AMERICA

Sherwood Eddy, world traveler, writer upon social, international and missionary problems, and one of the most popular speakers to student audiences in America will be on the campus November 24, 25, and 26. The reception given him here last March and the enthusiasm he created induced "Bill" Wilson, new M. C. A. secretary and Frank Hussey, president, to secure him to speak again to a Maine audience. During the past summer, Mr. Eddy made an intensive study of social and labor conditions in Great Britain meeting there with practically all the leaders of the late British Labor Government and other men of political prominence. He has just published a new book on "The Abolition of War" in which he outlines the development of his own thought on this question.

In his addresses this year he will center on the unrest and grouping of youth, especially American students, as they face the great problems of international, racial, social, campus, intellectual and personal life.

Those who will meet Mr. Eddy for the first time will find him a mature-looking man of some fifty years, powerful in physique and expression. He talks straight from the shoulder, his experience and his ultimate object permit him to do this with the so-called "delicate problems" without beating about the bush. This fact alone makes him tremendously popular with a student audience as well as his insight into their problems. Since graduating from Yale in 1901 he has attended Union Theological College in New York and has received a number of advanced degrees from various of the large universities of the country. His work for the past thirty years has been in India, China, Japan, Egypt and during the war in Europe and the near East. His years abroad have fitted him to deal in a truer perspective with the present world situation as a moral challenge to America. A more detailed account of his three day program will be given in the next issue of the "Campus."

DECEMBER 5 IS CARNIVAL DATE

Girls A. A. Plans to Present Novelties

The annual Penny Carnival given by and for the Girls' Athletic Association is coming to Alumni Hall on December 5. Already the committees are at work, devising new attractions and revamping former ones. The tag and ticket committee is in charge of Shirley Roberts; the entertainment, Cora Emery; the properties, Dorothy Dinsmore; the clean up, Grace Murray; the publicity, Amy Adams.

Even as the Military Circus, the Penny Carnival is rapidly becoming a Maine social institution. Two years ago, the girls decided the best way to increase the funds of the G. A. A. was to show the men their idea of a real entertainment. The Penny Carnival proved a synonym for festivity. It is a circus; a vaudeville show, a Sweete Shoppe, and dance pavilion all in one.

Has anyone forgotten the clever impersonation of Faculty, the jumping Ford, the sweet cider, and the Jazz Melody Girls?

A penny will be the password to each attraction.

Students of New York University will build an airplane which they plan to fly in the air meet in conjunction with next year's Pulitzer races. An aero club has been formed to carry out the plan, composed of undergraduates and faculty members.

CADETS TO GET ELEVEN STUDENTS COMMISSIONS

At Exercises on Alumni Field Saturday Forenoon

Thirty-three cadet officers in the R. O. T. C. will receive commissions Saturday morning at 11 o'clock following a review on Alumni Field. All but seven of the officers have attended summer camps at Camp Devens. In case of inclement weather, the presentation will be in the gymnasium. At this time, the 1924 pledges to Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity, will receive ribbons.

The men who will receive commissions are: Lt. Col. Osmond S. White, Bangor; Maj. J. Winthrop Chandler, Newcastle and Francis S. Dole, South Brewer; Captains Ernest S. Ridlon, Cape Porpoise; Vaughn B. Everett, Fort Fairfield; John P. Downing, Bangor; Mansfield M. Packard, Bryants Pond; Irving S. Bailey, Waldoboro; Lindsay B. Chalmers, Albion; Lincoln A. Sennett, Albion; Lawrence C. Connor, Bangor; George A. Haskell, Lincoln. First Lieuts. J. T. Blair, Medford, Mass.; H. G. Perkins, Orono; Hoyt B. Savage, Milo; Charles F. Moody, Saco; Stanley B. Hyde, Saco; Cecil J. Cutts, Portland; David C. Jacobs, Rockland, Mass.; Carl A. Lejonhud, South Portland; George A. Muzzey, South Berwick; William M. Allen, South Portland; Harry W. Candage, Waterville; 2nd Lieuts. Sumner H. Fifield, Bangor; Hilton Humphrey, Bangor; Clarence Hart, Orono; Carl H. Bischoff, Franklin, Mass.; W. H. True, Jr., Portland; Robert C. Stewart, Dorchester, Mass.; Francis E. Weatherbee, Lincoln; John T. Marshall, Orono; L. S. Saulsbury, Brewer.

Maine Represented At National Conventions

President Little, Dean Merrill, Dean Boardman, Dr. W. J. Morse, and Prof. McGinnis have returned from Washington, D. C., where they attended the convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges on Nov. 12-13-14.

President Little, before going to the Washington meeting, attended the meeting of State University Presidents in Chicago on Nov. 10-11. At both conventions, he met several University executives who are interested in Maine's Freshman Week.

At both meetings, Dr. Little says, considerable time was devoted to the discussion of problems which have already been partially settled here. The necessity of simplifying the curriculum and of changing methods of inducting freshmen were the chief points discussed at Chicago.

The Washington convention was strongly in favor of having athletics supervised by some member of the faculty, which is the plan in vogue here, and the sectional conferences, such as the New England Conference, were endorsed.

The convention passed three resolutions in regard to military training: That care should be taken to have officers appointed for a four year period, that good uniforms should be provided so that the cadets would have pride in their work, and that the government should assume a more liberal attitude in regard to responsibility for the destruction of small articles.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Phi Kappa Sigma announces the following pledges:

STAE GEATHERING HELD AT WATVILLE LAST WEEK

A delegation of eleven students represented the U. of M. at the 43rd State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Maine in Waterville last week end. Those representing Maine at this conference were Fred Armes, Harold Ballou, Russell Beatty, Allan Burnham, Harry Candage, Henry Eaton, Frank Hussey, Stanley Hyde, Cuyler Poor, Henry Trask, Austin Wilkins, and Bill Wilson, the secretary. The registration was the largest ever, some 300 enrolling and all active in "Y" work. There were representatives from most every institution of learning in the state.

Friday afternoon, attention was given to distributing the delegates to the hospitable homes of Waterville. In the evening the main address was delivered by William Knowles Cooper, General Secretary, Y. M. C. A., Washington, D. C. The theme of his address was "Is America a Christian Nation?" Mr. Cooper has been more or less intimately acquainted and associated with the last six presidents of the United States. His personal reminiscences of these executive members of our government plainly revealed the spiritual nature and attitude of their minds toward God, and for their country's weal. In conclusion he summarized that after all America is a Christian nation.

Saturday morning the Maine, Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby delegates met and discussed campus problems and how to meet them. The delegates unanimously agreed that the following problems of the Y. M. C. A. existed on their campuses to a more or less degree.

1. Indifference.
2. Why no honor system.
3. Financial help to carry on "Y" work.
4. Breaking up of cliques.
5. Fellowship.
6. Moral problems.
7. Intercollegiate fellowship.

David Porter, New York, International Y. M. C. A. Students Secretary, explained in part how to meet these issues. In his extensive visits of colleges all over the U. S. it has been his observation to note that these problems existed nationally and internationally. Personal work was the keynote of his address. "Ye are the salt of the earth."

John Currie, New England secretary, addressed the students on the subject of temptations.

In the afternoon the delegates were guests at the championship football game between M. C. I. and Skowhegan. Incidentally, M. C. I. won, 6-3.

Masque to Present "Candida" on Dec. 18

The date of the play to be given by the Maine Masque and Domino society has been changed to December 18, or the night before the Christmas holidays begin. This is the same night that the M.C.A. has the annual Christmas tree.

The rehearsals under the competent coaching of Professor Bailey have been going very smoothly. As this is the first time that a George Bernard Shaw production has been given on the campus, the students and faculty will have an excellent opportunity to see a real fine play.

In order to interest the faculty, reserve seats will be saved for them at the regular price of fifty cents.

The final selections have been made for Shaw's "Candida."

M. C. A. STARTS DRIVE NOV. 19

Solicitors Visit Students In Fraternities and Dormitories

The annual financial drive of the M. C. A. is being held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week and received its send-off at a dinner in the United Parish vestry Tuesday evening at which the Cabinet and volunteer solicitors met and discussed plans. Doctor Little and Mr. Hubbard, secretary of the Bangor Y. M. C. A. spoke and helped to outline the plans of the campaign.

Each fraternity house and dormitory is to have at least one solicitor and a number of men will be assigned to the neighboring towns. The organization has begun a strong year and if the student body continues to respond to the enthusiastic work of "Bill" Wilson and the Cabinet the association will have one of the most successful years in its history on the campus. Its building alone, and the spirit behind it is enough to influence the thinking person to respond. As Maine is a state and non-denominational college its christian organization of young men should be stronger than similar organizations at the private institutions of the state, but to gain and maintain this position requires funds and for this reason the campaign is conducted.

The budget for 1924-25 has been drawn up and is listed below:

BUDGET 1924-25

Freshman Reception	$ 41.00
Freshman handbooks	131.00
Deputations	10.00
Bible Classes	25.00
Campus Service	50.00
Speakers	200.00
Printing	50.00

Opening of Law School Is Under Consideration

A movement has started in Bangor for reopening the University of Maine Law School, according to The Portland Press Herald. It is felt that in some way, either by gifts from wealthy persons or by Legislative appropriation, funds should be obtained for reopening the school from which so many well known Maine lawyers have graduated.

Stewart Hall, an adequate two and one-half story building at Exchange and State Streets, donated by one of the most famous Maine lawyers of his time, David D. Stewart of St. Albans, in 1911 is in suitable condition to again house the school, should it be reopened.

At the time the building was donated by Mr. Stewart to replace that destroyed by fire, the standing of the Maine Law School was well established among the law colleges. It had won commendation from bench and bar as a school which actually fitted young men for the profession of law. In the examinations in all states where its graduates met in competition with the graduates of other schools, the results were nearly always in favor of Maine, although some of the schools gave a four-year course instead of the three-year course used in the University of Maine College of Law.

The University of Maine has struggled along to meet the logical demands of its departments at Orono and had no money to spare for the use of the College of Law, which at the time, instead of a paying proposition became a liability. Decrease in the number of students led the trustees to change the location of the Law School to the campus at Orono where the school gradually dwindled to the vanishing point.

Under the conditions of the deed of gift Stewart Hall cannot be used for other purposes than a law school. So the University now has a building which can be used only for running a law school, for which purpose the trustees have no money.

MAINE IS VICTOR OVER TUFTS 14-13 IN FINAL CONTEST

FAILURE TO KICK GOAL LOSES FOR JUMBOS

BLAIR AND FRASER STAR

Maine Starts Scoring Early In Game

After defeating two of the Maine colleges, Bates, 12-6, and Bowdoin, 7-6, Tufts finally succumbed to its third opponent from the Pine Tree State when it met defeat at the hands of the University of Maine on Tufts Oval, 14 to 13.

After being completely rushed off its feet by the fast-charging Maine line, Tufts came back showing plenty of fight, scoring two touchdowns, one in the second period and the second in the middle of the fourth, and but for the failure of George Perry to kick the goal after the touchdown would have tied up the score.

The work of Jim Blair featured for Maine. Not content with ripping the Tufts line into shreds, he added the extra point after both Maine touchdowns and it was just this accuracy of Blair's toe that gave Maine its one-point margin.

Tufts kicked off to Cutts who made 15 yards before being tackled by McGrath. Maine immediately started a slashing drive at the center of Tufts line. Blair and Cassista ripped through for 20 and 15-yard gains respectively, and had the ball down on Tufts 15-yard line in short order. Here the Jumbo line held, and on the fourth down Newhall attempted to dropkick from the 20-yard mark, which was low enough for French of Tufts to catch on the 10-yard line and run back 20 yards. It was at this juncture that Maine received the first break of the game, as a Tufts forward had been offside and the ball was brought back, and it was first down for Maine, 15 yards from Tufts goal.

The Maine offensive immediately got under way again and on the fourth play Cutts went over for the first score. Blair kicked the goal.

Maine's second score came in short order after Tufts kicked off to Maine.

BLUE RUNNERS PLACE SECOND

Williams Wins at New England Meet

Maine placed second in the 12th Annual N.E.I.C.A.A. cross country run at Franklin Park November 15.

George Lermond of Boston College captured first honors. He finished in the fast time of 28:14 2-5 seconds 100 yards ahead of Leo Larrivee, Holy Cross flier, who led A. S. Hillman, Maine's leading harrier by the same distance.

Williams captured the team prize, upsetting the favorite, University of Maine. The Williams total was 66, eight points better than the favorite, with New Hampshire third with 87.

There were 96 starters representing 13 New England colleges eligible to compete for the team prize. Lermond jumped away in the lead, closely followed by Larrivee and Hillman and these three ran well in the van of the pack, throughout the whole race. They were bunched right up to the final mile when Lermond forged ahead and Hillman fell away from Larrivee in second place.

The position of the 20 men are as follows: 1. G. Lermond, B. C. (time 28:14 2-5); 2. Larrivee; 3. A. S. Hillman, U. of M.; 4. F. W. Peasley, U. of N. H.; 5. Fred Donaghy, H. C.; 6. S. K. Platt; 7. Allison Willis, Bates; 8. C. G. Patten, U. of M.; 9. C. E. Hart, U. of M.; 10. R. B. Strong, R. I. State; 11. R. Ham, Bowdoin; 12. F. W. Mc-

Publicity

By one organization or another, The Campus is constantly reminded that its affairs have not been given the publicity which they deserve. In the hope of remedying this condition, we have established the Organizations column. In this space we hope to report each week all of the activities of fraternities, sororities, honorary societies and departmental clubs.

Members of the editorial board are expected to furnish most of the material for this column. They are constantly looking for items of news interest and will be glad to take news from any organization. However, contributions will be gratefully accepted from any source. It would be desirable if each organization in the University had a publicity agent whose duty it would be to contribute timely reports each week.

The ideal college paper, we believe, is the one which contains in each issue something of vital interest to every student. It should not cater to one activity, but should present in proper proportion all of the phases of college life.

The Campus has not achieved this ideal. Perhaps, with its space limitations, it never will. But that is the aim of the present editorial staff.

Dean Merrill must have derived considerable satisfaction from the speech President Coolidge delivered Thursday night in Washington at the opening of the annual meeting of the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

President Coolidge said:

Up to the present time, the main emphasis on our agricultural education has been placed upon production. I believe that was right, because unless there is economy and efficiency in production there is no need for thought in any other direction but our experience of the last few years has demonstrated that it is by no means enough. The farmer is not only a producer, he is likewise a merchant. It does him no good to get quantity production, in fact it may do him harm, unless he can likewise have scientific marketing. I want to see courses in cooperative marketing and farm economics alongside of soil chemistry and animal husbandry. I want to see a good farmer on a good farm raise a good crop and obtain a good crop.

Dean Merrill has expressed the same opinion time and again within recent years. Last Spring, he engaged competent men to discuss marketing problems in detail at Farmers' Week meetings; and during the summer he brought about the appointment of Prof. Charles H. Merchant, who heads the new department of agricultural economics and farm management.

In the "Whirling Hub," now that the smoke of political battles has cleared away, there is a new furor. A committee of righteous college people, students and professors, is investigating the morals of the 50,000 students who attend 51 higher institutions in Greater Boston.

It is unfortunate that the lax living conditions of a few men and women who are students only in name should inspire investigators to bring serious charges against a whole group of young people. Habitual drunkards are not students for any length of time in any institution, and it is criminal to confuse them with the serious men and women who are interested only in their intellectual progress.

Pittsburgh University is erecting a building fifty-two stories high with classroom accommodations for 12,000 students. It will be equipped with sixteen express elevators and will house all departments except those of dentistry and medicine. The cost will be $10,000,000.

It is a vast scheme, of course, and entirely in keeping with the spirit of the smoky city, which swallows up some of our best engineers every year. But with our "Down East" prejudices, we don't like it. The whizzing elevators, the babel of voices, the jostling crowds, and the heavy air would remind us too much of Commerce. We cannot conceive of the temple of learning as a skyscraper.

According to Bob Dunbar, Boston Herald sports writer, there is a steadily growing sentiment in favor of playing the Maine state series football games the last of the season. The Campus would appreciate comment on this question by students. The Correspondence column is open.

Maine Is Victor Over Tufts 14-13 In Final Contest

The Tufts forwards held and Blair was forced to punt, the ball rolling outside on Tufts 20-yard line. For a brief moment the Tufts offensive seemed to get started, but was quickly halted. French was forced to punt, but his attempt was blocked by Frazer and recovered by Wilmer Elliott for Maine on Tufts 20-yard line. Maine clicked off 10 more before the period ended, and on the fourth play of the second period Repscha carried the ball over for the second Maine touchdown. Blair kicked the goal from placement.

This ended the Maine scoring. In the middle of the second period Tufts started its first real offensive, after Perry caught a Maine punt on his own 10-yard line. A pass French to Perry gave Tufts its first real gain of 20 yards, and immediately after this a short pass, Perry to Taylor, added 10 more. A line plunge by McDonnell added four more and then another pass from Perry to Taylor gave the dusky halfback an opportunity to tear along for an additional 20 yards, placing the ball on the Maine 20-yard line.

French got loose around the right flank for the needed 20 yards that gave Tufts its first touchdown. Perry kicked the goal.

The third period found both teams see-sawing back and forth with neither team able to place the ball in a scoring position.

A Maine fumble recovered by Nate Share on his own 30-yard line, gave Tufts its second scoring opportunity, a pass from Perry to Gamage over the center of the Maine Staters' line gave Tufts 18 yards and another pass, Perry to French, added eight more. Stan Winer carried the ball through the line for four more and first down on the Maine 46-yard line.

Gamage, a practically unknown sub end, caught a long heave of 45 yards from George Perry and stepped into the limelight of Tufts heroes. He was dropped as soon as he speared the pass, but it placed the ball on Maine's one-yard line, whence on the second attempt Perry carried it over for the second Jumbo touchdown. The score was now 14-13 in favor of Maine, and it remained there as Perry missed the goal. The summary:

ORGANIZATIONS

Alpha Omicron Pi held an informal party in the Orono town hall last Saturday night. The forty couples present were made up of faculty members, guests, alumnae, and active members. Music was furnished by Berry's orchestra for the program of fourteen dances of which a number were Paul Jones and novelty numbers. The feature of the evening was the Rose Dance during which the ladies were presented with American beauties and the floor showered with confetti rose petals through rays of various colored lights.

The hall was decorated in pink and white; the lower halves of the walls were arranged in pink and the upper halves in white so as to give the whole a panel effect. An unique lighting arrangement cast the sorority's Greek letters on the floor in huge characters. Refreshments were attractively served at intermission. Chaperones were Mrs. Estabrook and Major and Mrs. Glover.

"The Maine-Spring," the literary magazine of the University, was late in getting started this year, but now that the board is organized, the first number will appear soon before the Christmas holiday. The board of editors this year consists of Anna Ashley, editor-in-chief; Henry Welch, business manager; and Miss Vena Field and John Mahoney, assistants to the editor-in-chief.

As usual, four numbers of "The Maine-Spring" will be issued during the year, and if any students care to, they can submit their stories and poems to any member of the board.

Subscriptions to the magazine can be obtained either through the business manager or the University Store, the price of a whole year's subscription being only one dollar.

The Campus Board is to foster a dance in the gymnasium, Thanksgiving day from 2 to 5:30. At the last meeting of the board it was decided that the party should be "for fun, not funds" so the low admission of seventy-five cents per couple is to be charged.

The Troubadours, a snappy five-piece orchestra, have been secured to play and by all indications it is to be a gala affair. The "scandal sheet" of the Campus is to be dispensed gratis during the early part of the dance and is sure to cause a number of smiles and frowns, for gossip too rampant for the regular publication has been allowed to accumulate in the editorial rooms for some time and will be released to the consternation of some and the pleasure of others. As the supply of this paper will be limited, it is urged that all those interested in securing a copy for present or "M" book use should be on hand. The committee: Robert Turner, Bessie Muzzy, and Edward Engel, welcome all suggestions and contributions.

Phi Omega Delta fraternity held its fall initiation dance at Brown Hall, Old Town, last Friday evening, Nov. 14. The hall was artistically decorated in the fraternity colors, blue and white. At intermission punch and ice cream were served.

Chaperones for the evening were Mrs. Edith Chase and Prof. and Mrs. H. Smith. The initiates are: W. Balch '28, Earl Dooks '27, Carl B. Jensen '28, David H. Stevens '28, Lee F. Hescock '28, Alvin A. Newell '28, Howard H. Stuart '28 and H. E. Price '28.

Wednesday afternoon the Junior Forestry class responded to a call from the Orono Fire Dept. to assist in battling a fierce brush fire that was raging along the Kelley Road. Aided by a slight breeze, the flames were making rapid advance. However, the foresters, with the aid of axes and shovels brought into play their skill in forest fire fighting, and soon had the fire under control. The fire was on Prof. Huddilston's land.

Opening of Law School Is Under Consideration

The Maine Law School was organized in 1899 and in its 21 years' service educated over 200 young men in the profession of law. Many of the judges of the lower courts and a large number of the county attorneys in Maine in the last 10 years have been graduates of this institution.

Among the graduates who have since attained prominence are John E. Nelson, Congressman from the Third District; Raymond Fellows of Bangor, candidate for attorney general; James C. Thorne, county attorney of Somerset County; William H. Fisher, judge of the Kennebec County Superior Court; F. R. Chesley, judge of the Saco Municipal Court; Seth May, Maine prohibition director; Frank D. Fenderson, clerk of Courts of York County; J. M. Gillin, attorney, Bangor; Carroll B. Skillin, attorney, Portland; Bernard Archibald, attorney, Houlton; Leon G. C. Brown, attorney, Milo; State Senator-elect Mark A. Barwise of Bangor; Matthew McCarty, former judge of the Rumford Municipal Court, and D. F. Snow, former county attorney of Penobscot County.

Scoop's CORNER

By Scoop
The Mainiac's "Literary Digest" came out this last week, and it was so good that I can't help mentioning it. It is the best number that I have seen for two or three years. From the cover straight through there are actual novelties and originalities which I regret to say, have not always characterized the Mainiac in past numbers.

The cover is perfect in its intentioned simulation of the "Literary Digest." When the numbers arrived and I tried to inveigle the boys into parting with their quarters, they gave me a what-are-you-trying-to-put-over look, and refused to listen. Finally someone bought a copy, and discovered that it was a "sheep in wolf's clothing." Right away, I was mobbed by those who had turned me down a few seconds previous. I was fooled at first by the cover design. It took a freshman to point out the silhouette in "Moonshine Among the Trees." And printed by "Flunk In Agony" at exam time;—it was suggestive to say the least.

The departments in the magazine are burlesques on the regular sections of its prototype: "Topics in Grief," "Spicy Life," "Concurrent Poetry," "Foreign Exchange," and others with the regulation captions, but treated in a wholly different vein. The graph on the rise of eggs in China was especially pathetic.

The modern photoplay versions of novels of literature are burlesqued in the dramatic section. There is a particularly fine cut of the cast of the play, "With No Mother to Guide Her."

Likewise there are several reviews of books written by members of our faculty. The doubtful character of Eyster's works is hinted at. This ought to en-are a nice sale of the books. One of the products is discussed; by Thelma Kellogg and one by Turner, "the gentleman from India." Lastly, three books by Halverson, leader of chapel, and incidentally a professor of psychology. The simple style of the author is commented upon, and other qualities of his works. Altogether the reviewer has done an admirable piece of work himself, and his remarks are humorous and to the point.

There is an illustrated treatise on the swamp-kitty, which is to most of us a familiar subject. But there is such a thing as being too familiar with this same subject, as experience has taught me.

Then there is poetry, art, and some really funny jokes; products of this and other campuses. There are but few places where I felt that the editors and contributors had put together a lot of aged jokes or low humor merely to pad the issue. This Mainiac starts in being funny, and keeps right on being funny to the back cover. All I could complain of was the brevity of it; the quality seemed to me O. K. If this is the standard of future issues, they will cease being mere necessary bores, and will be eagerly awaited, even as the lucifer advertisements in the Campus.

Eleven Students Represent Maine at "Y" Convention

Buenos Aires spoke on the "Y.M.C.A.'s unique position in South America."

The convention ended Sunday evening and brought to a close one of the most interesting and beneficial conferences held yet for the further promotion of Y.M.C.A. work. The students left in the spirit of returning to their respective campuses to "clean up" and make this world a better place to live in.

PIPE BENDS GET AROUND MANY DANGER POINTS

Good pipe-line engineering employs pipe bends in many places in preference to elbow fittings and expansion joints.

In steam lines which feed reciprocating engines, for instance, the pulsating flow of steam makes the use of pipe bends at right angle turns almost imperative to avoid hammering. In straight runs of piping subject to temperature variations, pipe expansion bends are the most satisfactory means of taking up expansion and contraction.

Pipe bends of any form reduce the strains which are usually the cause of leaks at joints. They must be properly designed, however, and made to fit into place without forcing. Otherwise dangerous strains may be set up in them, completely offsetting the advantages derived through their use.

Investigations carried on by Crane Co. have uncovered much information of value about pipe bends. The results are summed up in complete data tables that form an interesting chapter of Crane catalog No. 51. If this book is not in your files, we will be glad to mail you a copy on request.
