JUNIOR WEEK OPENS WITH MASQUE PLAY THURSDAY EVENING

TRACK CLUB CABARET WILL CLOSE FESTIVITIES SAT.
NIGHT

Junior Week will open officially with the presentation Thursday night of Philip Barry's play "You and I." This is one of the products of the "47-Workshop" at Harvard, written under the direction of Prof. George T. Baker.

It is the story of a young architect who, falling in love, decides to give up his intended career and marry. His father, a successful business man, had himself been artistically inclined, but had forsaken painting that he might marry. This presents the gist of the play.

The father unwittingly condemns his son's proposed course, without realizing that it parallels his own. Later, under the influence of his wife, the older man leaves his business and tries his fortune at painting. His success, and the happy solution of his son's dilemma form the basis of the rest of the play.

The background of the play is distinctly modern, ultra-modern even. There are many humorous situations scattered throughout the three acts.

The leading role is taken by Otto A. Sackert, as Roderick White. Although he is a stranger in Maine dramatics, he is well cast. His actions are natural, and his rendition of the part sensible. Miss Anna L. Torrens plays the female lead as Veronica Thrane whose love leads her to attempted sacrifice for "Ricky" that he may devote himself unreservedly to his architecture. Miss Torrens' work as leading lady in "Ice-cream" last year is quite enough recommendation.

Kenneth W. MacGregory takes the role of Maitland White, father of Ricky, around whom the action revolves. Mr. MacGregory has been in Maine dramatics for three years. Miss Marion Lord plays Nancy White, his wife. Miss Lord had a similar part in "Ice-cream" last year, and did admirable work.

Other characters in the play are Geoffrey Nichols, J. H. Pierce, G. T. Warren, Henry C. Demmons, and Anna Stinchfield.

R. O. T. C. CAMP BEGINS MAY 31

Will be preceded by Parade Memorial Day

The spring encampment of the R. O. T. C. will be held at Camp Andrews, Newport, Maine, beginning Sunday, May 31, and extending to Thursday, June 4.

The corps will parade in Orono on Memorial Day and entrain for Newport the next noon from Webster station.

The encampment will be conducted as in former years, the cadet officers having complete charge over the camp, with the regular army officers present to act in an advisory capacity. Calisthenics, drills, reviews, parades, forced marches, sham battles, lectures, and competitive games will be the regular work. Most of this will be carried out in the forenoon and later afternoon with a rest period of several hours following the mid-day meal.

Passes from the camp will be freely given unless the privilege is abused. Entertainment will consist of band concerts, company ball games, and trips by ferry to the Newport movie house.

Col. Goodale of the first Corps Area headquarters, Boston, will be present near the end of the encampment to inspect the unit and to help judge the companies during their competitive drill.

Wednesday will probably be visitors' day with Doctor Little and members of the faculty present to review the corps. The annual "Scabbard and Blade" dance will be given on this night, and the big turkey dinner as a final wind-up will be served on the day following.

FROSH TRACKSTERS BOW TO HUNTINGTON TO TUNE OF 77-49

GORMAN STARS WITH THREE FIRSTS AND TWO SECONDS

Huntington School of Boston sent its track team to Orono Saturday to meet our frosh speedsters, and they not only met our youngsters, but went home to the Bean City with the bacon safely tucked away under their belts.

The Boston team showed all kinds of class, and, although the yearlings made a gallant fight, the result was evident early in the afternoon. The final score was 77 to 49.

The feature of the meet was the all round performance of Gorman, who placed first in the 12-pound shot, discus, and javelin, and second in the pole vault and twelve-pound hammer throw.

Parshley, who won the 120-yard high hurdles, 220 yard hurdles, high jump, and took third in the broad jump, was second high man.

Clark, who won the hundred and the two-hundred, brought 10 points to Huntington, while Dooley brought in the same amount by winning the 440 and 880.

Capt. "Spec" Hale, "Sam" Thompson, "Dibby" Deveau, and "Father John" Caldwell furnished the freshmen with most of their points, the most spectacular race of the afternoon being that between Hale and Carney of Huntington. (Continued on Page Four)

FINAL SCHEDULE

The schedule of final examinations appears in this issue of the Campus. Finals begin on Friday, May 22, and end May 29. Saturday, May 30, Memorial Day is a college holiday.

ROBERT FROST HERE TONIGHT

Prominent New England
Poet gives Public
Reading

Robert Frost, prominent New England poet, is to read selections from his works tonight in Coburn Hall. Mr. Frost is one of the best known American poets of the day, and it is expected that students and faculty members will take advantage of this opportunity to hear such an outstanding literary figure.

Mr. Frost is in Maine attending the Bowdoin Institute of Literature being held this month in commemoration of the centennial celebration of the graduation of Longfellow and Hawthorne from Bowdoin. On Monday evening he addressed an enthusiastic audience as the opening event of the Bowdoin program. He is coming to the University upon the invitation of Prof. H. M. Ellis of the English department, and under the auspices of the Contributors' Club.

Robert Frost is the greatest living exponent of New England life. Although born in California, most of his life has been passed on farms in various parts of New England. He treats the problems and hardships of farm life in an altogether original way in his poetry. As a literary leader, he is generally recognized both in this country and in England.

The early sale of tickets for Mr. Frost's lecture foretells that he will speak to an audience that will more than fill Coburn Hall to capacity.

M. C. A. DEPUTATION TRIP

Last Friday afternoon an enthusiastic group of students left the campus on an M. C. A. deputation trip to Dover-Foxcroft. Sunday morning "Bill" Wilson and Edith Hanington conducted the service in the Congregational church. Harold Ballou and Hope Norwood in the Methodist and Fred Armes and Ann Thurston in the Baptist church. Fred Armes acted as chairman of the young people's meeting at which Ann Thurston and Hope Norwood distinguished themselves as extemporaneous speakers. At a union service in the evening, Bill Wilson acted as chairman and Edith Hanington and Harold Ballou gave short talks.

Side lights on the trip are that Bill Wilson learned to play many games that he did not know existed. Fred Armes made a hit as a song leader and Ballou made a name for himself as a story teller.

GAMES THIS WEEK

Wed.—Maine vs. Bates at Lewiston
Sat.—Bowdoin vs. Colby at Waterville
Coach "Cuddy" Murphy and his gang of ball tossers returned Saturday from their week's trip and are now all set for their next battle, when Maine will meet Bates at Lewiston Wednesday in the opening state series game for these two teams.

The Bears made a fine showing on the trip to southern New England, although two of the three games played found Maine on the short end. In both games at Providence, the defensive play of the Maine infield was a feature, four lightning double plays cutting off as many dangerous rallies. Capt. Stearns and "Joie" Gay looked like Barry and Collins around second base, both making several spectacular plays. Gay's playing was one of the outstanding features of the new Hampshire tilt also.

Inability to hit in the pinches, coupled with a pair of costly errors, was enough to lose the game to Providence College game. "Hap" Crozier pitched great ball and deserved to win his game.

George Thompson found the going too tough after the fourth frame in the Brown game and was forced to retire in favor of "Al" Rep-cha after the Bruins had scored five runs by dint of some timely hitting. "Rep" did a good relief job, and kept the hits well scattered, his only slip resulting in a four base whack by Mitchell, the Brown third sacker in the eighth. This was the third homer of the afternoon, Thompson and Newhall also having connected for circuit clouts.

AWARD PRIZES TO SPEAKERS

Seventeen Schools Take Part in Speaking Contest

The finals in the interscholastic speaking contest for secondary schools were held in the Arts and Science building last Friday evening.

The contest has been well attended this year, with seventeen schools competing. The trials Friday afternoon narrowed this field down to but seven. Of these four were in the recitation class, and three in the declamation.

The results of the finals in the evening, are as follows. First honors in the recitation division were awarded to Miss Blanche Dutton of Cony High School. The winning selection was of a humorous nature and titled "George and the Bear." This was given with much sympathy and subtle delicacy. Second prize went to Alice Williams who gave a scene from the "Music Master" of George Klein. Other contestants in the final in this class were Helen Mosher of Bangor High School, and Miss Irma Dunton of Hampton Academy.

In the declamation class, William Ranson of Hineley, Maine, won first prize with a selection from the "Opening of the Mississippi" by Lewis. Frank H. LeMoine of Kennebunk High School was awarded the second prize. The other speaker in this class was William Record of Woodland High School. The judges were Dean Stevens, Dean Chase, and Miss Percie T. Hopkins.

Policies

In the first quotation you have the fundamental purpose of these editorial columns; and in the second the power innate of the news columns themselves. Of the truth of the first, there is room for much doubt; but of the rightness of the second, there can be no question.

The new editor of the Campus feels very meek and lowly in realizing that he is to fill the place of such a capable man as he who has just stepped from office. The point and originality of the opinions which have been here expressed during the past year are of such high degree that the successor's very best can be none too good.

But the old order changeth, and inexperience will attempt to fill shoes, much too large at present. For those who may wonder what are the aims and goals of the present Campus Board, I shall try to express them here.

To say that we wish to maintain the standard set by our predecessors is not enough. We would like to lift it even higher. This may be accomplished, we feel, in the following ways. The supreme business of a newspaper, whether college or metropolitan, is to present the news to its readers—all of the news. This is accomplished through the medium of the reporter. His business is to keep his journalistic ears open, and so trained that they embrace all that may be of interest to the readers of his sheet. Yet no matter how large the staff, inevitably there must slip by some bit of news, some interesting event, some odd incident, that by right belongs to the public; and yet lacking communication with the newspaper which can give it its deserved place in the sun, passes by and is lost in oblivion.

The Campus belongs to the college and to the students. Unofficially every reader is part of its staff, and in a measure responsible for matter that ought to be presented on its pages. This is to say, that the Campus requests that all organizations, clubs, societies, athletic or social, feel a perfect freedom to inform it of any of their workings or activities. Only with such cooperation can this paper hope to attain the completeness for which it is striving.

For our part, we shall do our utmost to include in each issue every new thing of importance occurring previous to its publication. Even as a new machine does not acquire mechanical smoothness and highest efficiency until it has been run a few hundred miles; so our first few issues may lack the balance and entirety which is our ultimate wish. If this prove to be the case, we crave your indulgence until we have learned "what makes it go."

All signed communications to the Campus will be published if they have semblance of being within reason. The Campus assures everyone that it will be most liberal in that respect. All contributions by its staff of extraordinary merit, will be honored by signing the writer's name to it. By their fruits they shall be known, to paraphrase the familiar quotation.

The Campus proposes to be non-partisan in every respect. Whatever opinions may creep into its pages will be only the prompting of fairness, and based upon no blind aversion. And it proposes to be accurate. Names, dates, figures and all of the vital components of a news story; it hopes to print without opportunity for complaint. If it so happens that some discrepancy appears, for errors are a universal likelihood, it would request that such a lapse be brought to its attention.

So in conclusion to this address of welcome, I would say that we quite agree with the departed editors statement that he had bequeathed us "a healthy paper." He did. Yet if our intentions as agreed upon among ourselves, have a fulfillment in the ensuing year; then we shall not only have maintained the health of the Campus, but will have made it still stronger, still broader, and still more rosy-checked.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Four cat-mothers wish to announce the arrival of kittens, two of these families live at dormitories and two at fraternity houses.

Since his senior year in college when he was editor of the Campus, a brass radiated Ford has served our registrar faithfully, even to this day it purrs as the above cat-mothers but as predicted in the Scandal Sheet the genial registrar has disposed of it and now drives a shining new sedan.—E. M. E.

Scoop's CORNER

By Scoop

"Responsibility comes to him who can bear it." Thus our "Scoop" has passed into his job of piloting our four pages of advertisements and accounts of past events thru the sea of noncooperation in which our Campus has always sailed. But he will calm that sea; he is that kind of fellow. Some call it personality.

At all events, he is going to come thru. C. E. J. purged the sheet of "the old fight" and more recently of such blanket words as "many" and "nice." His editorials excited favorable comment in metropolitan newspapers but were attacked by small town editors. Altogether his work was well done and he stepped from the bridge with the old boat headed for clear water.

K.W.M. wants more advance news, more cuts, and perhaps another page. He is going to get it because we are all behind him; but what should be done with Scoop's Column? It is obvious that with his new duties he can not conduct it without making a sacrifice somewhere else so it either has to be abandoned or turned over to another.

The latter alternative won out and yours truly was selected as the goat. He, however, was reluctant to tackle it because he knows best his own limitations. Never could he conduct it as Scoop did—covering everything from sports and college customs to drama and art and all in that quaint carefree style that is Scoop's very own. Furthermore, literary style is a difficult thing to copy and when it is copied successfully it becomes plagiarism which in turn is professional cribbing.

Therefore, this will still be Scoop's Column but will suffer minor changes. Since the Exchange Editor has been abolished it will perhaps contain random clippings from other college papers and also chance observations and comment on our own campus. No doubt the reasoning will be fallacious at times and the King's English will be treated as if it had been cast to the Jester.

But as Chauncy B. Tinker said in a recent number of the Atlantic Monthly: "Better the yearning and tragedy of growth through imperfection than the serene stagnation of the ideal." "Growth through imperfection" was the phrase that stuck.

I began to meditate on it and draw little circles on the page. Wasn't that the way most of our writers grew: through failure, hack work, and more failure? Incidentally, I thought of the lecturer, now a U. S. Senator, who said that a professor of English cannot write a readable book outside of one used for reference because it is too near ideal; therefore, mechanical. Obviously he advocated the "trial and error" method in writing and with limitations I agree with him. The reaching of this conclusion brought me out of my trance and I was astounded to find the whole page covered with Spencian circles.

SHINGLES

Shingles, the framed cardboards bearing "This is to certify, etc." are mighty fine things to cover up defects in wall paper; they locate your desk to the person coming into your room for the first time; and they break up the monotony of the usual scheme of collegiate decorating—these are their practical purposes.

I have several of my own. Two of them represent hard work and the warmth of personal satisfaction steals over me when I notice them, in spite of their familiarity. One of the others reminds me of the freshman numerals, it is one of too many.

A shingle should represent real merit and a shingle hunter should be condemned; so should the organization that makes the initiation fee a source of revenue.

At the present time there are too many organizations giving these certificates and too many members in most organizations. When a few outstanding, representative leaders in an activity band together, the crowd will respect them and accept their dictation.

That is one reason why the Men's Student Senate failed. It did not have the right personnel from the beginning. The Senior Skulls are a more select group; you may doubt the leadership of the individuals but the fact remains that they get things done.

Maine Defeats U. of N. H. in Last Game of Spring Trip which Maine finally won, 8-3, after spotting the Durhamites to a five run lead in the first three innings. Crozier was invaluable after the third, and his double left with the bases jammed was largely responsible for Maine's ultimate victory.

With Crozier, Thompson, Repscha, and Johnson all ready to go against Bates, Maine is well fortified in the hurling department. If the Blue players can continue to sock the apple as they did in the New Hampshire game, Bates will have a tough time trying to win to-day's battle. Maine's starting lineup for the series opener will probably be as follows: Cassista 3b, Hackett cf, Stearns ss, Wing rf, Meserve lf, Paul lb, Gay 2b, Gruhn c, Crozier or Thompson p.

The scores of the three games played follow, the Connecticut Aggie game having been cancelled owing to rain and cold weather:

Unusual New Plan Used
by A. G. Davis Devised
by Successful Business
Man Who Struggled
Thru College.

A. G. DAVIS

Every University of Maine student is interested in a good sound method of adding dollars to his bank account. Not only the student earning his way thru college, but every one can use several hundred extra dollars. The same plan used by Albert G. Davis is now open to students of the University of Maine. The St. Louis business man who made it possible for Davis to earn $712 in just 40 days knows the student's financial handicap. He earned his way thru college. Now that he is in a position to do it, he is making it easy for other students to earn the money they need.

The unusual money making plan that helped Davis is too lengthy to cover in these columns, but he suggests that every student write Mr. M. H. Rhodes, 1400 Pendleton St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Rhodes has offered to outline the details of this dignified, business plan to students who are sincere about wanting to earn good money thru conscientious effort. The number of students to participate in this opportunity is limited and you should write Mr. Rhodes at once. Just ask for his "College Student's Proposal."

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS
Since the "Shot Was Fired 'Round the World"Do You Know

That from April on to June, Lexington and Concord, Arlington and Cambridge, with the residents along the line of the famous march from Boston to Concord in 1775, are playing host to the American Nation? This is the sesquicentennial of the colonists' first armed resistance to the mother country.

The events of that memorable day are celebrated in verse, story and moving picture. It is an American epic and needs no retelling. Today Lexington and Concord are shrines of the nation, and this year thousands more will make their pilgrimage to these historic spots. It is said that the guest book of the Hancock-Clarke House at Lexington contains more signatures than any other historic place in the country.

The John Hancock is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and obtaining college graduates for the personnel of the field staff.

And he has lived to see it

Back in 1885, Thomas A. Edison succeeded in transmitting electricity at 220 volts for one mile—an achievement and a promise.

The promise was fulfilled a few months ago, when electricity at 220,000 volts was transmitted two hundred and forty miles to supply Los Angeles with light and power.

Now five billion dollars are invested in electric power plants. A stupendous figure that testifies to the alertness of thousands of college-trained men who have been leaders in the production and use of electric power.

The electrical era has only dawned. Each year some new machine or discovery makes it possible to apply electricity in unexpected ways. The graduate of today will find electricity directly or indirectly a means for even greater accomplishments, no matter what his calling in life may be.

In 1881 Edison shipped to the Paris Exposition his "Jumbo" dynamo—eighth wonder of the world. It could light 1000 lamps. Now there are G-E generators large enough to supply current for over a million lamps, each with four times the candle-power of the lamp of 1881.

The General Electric Company produces other electrical apparatus which makes it possible to transmit power over great distances. It has put electricity in seven-league boots. In its laboratories, scientists are now experimenting with voltages ten times as great as the highest now in use.

If you are interested in learning more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.
