FAMOUS LECTURER SPEAKS TO MAINE STUDENT AUDIENCES

DR. BARKER MAKES DEEP IMPRESSION AT THREE MEETINGS

Dr. Charles E. Barker, H.D., P.C.D., of Grand Rapids, Michigan, visited the University of Maine on Wednesday and occupied the day with three addresses to the student body. On Tuesday evening he spoke to over 200 men of Bangor and surrounding towns on the subject "The Duties of a Father to His Son." This address was originally delivered in Salt Lake City and made such an impression that Rotary clubs all over the country demanded his services. Since then he has talked to over 1,500,000 people in over 3,000 lectures.

Acting-President Boardman who attended the Tuesday address at once requested Dr. Barker to speak to the Maine students. Incidentally in accepting Dr. Boardman's invitation, Dr. Barker mentioned that Wednesday was the only open date which was available for a year to come.

In the morning he spoke to the college as a whole, and the interest shown by the audience was proof of the effectiveness and conviction of his words. He calls himself the "Health Adviser." His sole purpose is to present to the people certain facts which are indisputably true, but which are not often proposed for consideration to those who would benefit from them most. He was unanimously accepted by his hearers from the first remarks which he made. Every point which he included in the address was given genuine attention.

In an interview with a reporter, he made it clear that he was deeply impressed with the attitude of the assembly. He said of it, "In all of my lectures, I have never talked to a student body which was more openly receptive or more uniformly attentive than was the Maine audience." He went on to make an interesting observation.

"I congratulate Maine for not having a larger student body. The registration at the University of Maine is ideal. I have caused not a little antagonism in stating this belief to larger colleges. I am trying to get the fathers of young men and women to send their children to colleges of from 1000 to 1500 or at most 2000 students. My own daughter spent three years in a small school of 1000 students. Only in a college of this size can one get the real value of a college education. Larger institutions are too impersonal."

In the afternoon at one thirty, Dr. Barker spoke to the young women. He spoke to the men at three twenty. His message, one of health, had for its basis his experience as a physician, and as general adviser to William H. Taft when president of the United States.

WINTER CARNIVAL TO BE BEST EVER

PLANS NOW GOING FORWARD RAPIDLY FOR ANNUAL EVENT

Plans for the Winter Carnival are progressing rapidly and a detailed report of the program as well as the date will be given out in the near future.

The Carnival will be held near the campus this year or as near to it as possible. There will be skating, skiing, snow-shoeing and other winter sports competitions. A new skii-jump is under construction and will be ready soon. There will also be a hockey game during the Carnival.

It is the intention of the Intra-Mural A.A. to make this year's Carnival "the best ever," and the presence of plenty of snow, the lack of which prevented the carrying out of the complete program of the 1925 Carnival, combined with the support of the student body, is expected

STUDENTS GAVE $450 TO M. IN T.

Lee Vrooman Submits Budget of Expenses

University of Maine students last year contributed $450 to the Maine-in-Turkey project. Believing that the students should know how the money is being spent, Lee Vrooman has sent in the following budget, which gives expenditures for the present year.

Part salaries, Lee and Helen Vrooman, $175.

Expenses, College student club work, $75. These clubs have the definite object of character building for the boys by helping them to study the social and personal problems of life. This money will reproduce itself in another cause, since these clubs are planning to do relief work among the refugees in Smyrna.

Peace Prize Essay Scholarships, $25. These prize essays are to cover phases of international friendship and war prevention, and through them the American teachers hope to lead the Turkish students to constructive thinking of the roads to peace and good will.

Girls' Institute Club Work, $25. This item covers work among the girls conducted by Helen Vrooman, similar to the boys' club work.

Girls' athletic equipment, and general equipment, $25 each. These items cover the work of Ruth Crockett, Maine '25.

The last two items are Agricultural Experiment Work, $50, and Agricultural Educational Work, $50. The agricultural work is the newest department of the college and Lee Vrooman states that this work seems to be the most appreciated by the students.

WILL VOTE ON WORLD COURT QUESTION TUES.

STUDENT SENTIMENT TO BE EXPRESSED THROUGH STRAW BALLOT

On Wednesday, December 17, the Senate of the United States discusses the question of the adherence of the United States to the World Court. The proponents of the bill have been engaged during the past year in trying to find the popular sentiment toward the question, and in order to make a good impression on the Senate, they have arranged to have a straw vote among the colleges of the country, which will be polled on Tuesday, Dec. 8.

A World Court committee was formed at the University a few weeks ago consisting of Henry Trask, Kenneth MacGregory, Cyril Cogswell, Robert Scott, Serena Wood, Marion Cooper and Edith Andrews. Through this committee, Frederick Snyder, the famous journalist and Paul Blanshard, the labor leader, were secured to speak to the students, to show them the need of the entrance of the United States in the World Court to bring about universal peace.

The straw vote at Maine will be held in Alumni Hall on December 8, under the direction of the World Court committee, and the results will be sent to Princeton University, where they will be combined with those of the other colleges and then presented at Washington at the Senate discussion.

The committee requests that all those having an opinion either for or against this proposition, record it by voting next Tuesday, since the question is one of vital importance to the whole world, and popular feeling may play a large part in deciding it.

MAINE REPRESENTED AT TWO CONVENTIONS

DELEGATES TO ATTEND WORLD COURT MEETINGS AT BOSTON AND PRINCETON

The University of Maine in connection with its program to arouse interest in the World Court problem which will appear before the Senate for consideration on the 17th of December, is planning to send delegates to both the Boston Conference and that which will be held at Princeton University.

For several weeks, speakers have been brought to the campus for the purpose of informing the students of the real fundamentals of the situation. Attempts have been made in the columns of the Campus to bring to the attention of the undergraduates what are the merits of the case.

Next Tuesday a vote will be held, at which time every student will have an opportunity to cast his vote for or against the proposition. That is, whether or not he is in favor of the entrance of the United States into the permanent Court of Justice. This problem does not involve intricate international problems. Its result merely expresses, or refuses to express the willingness of the United States to cooperate with the other forty-eight nations which have already joined the court in attempting to abolish future chance of warfare.

This week end, a Conference will be held in Boston with the representatives of all the leading New England colleges. At this convention, prominent speakers who are well-informed, will address the gatherings on the subject; and provide them with more material for consideration. Following this there will be group discussions. At the close there will be a consensus of opinion taken, which will be forwarded to the Princeton Assembly to be added to their conclusions.

The Princeton Conference will be composed of delegates from all of the Eastern colleges. The Conference will run on lines parallel with that in Boston, but on a much larger scale. The findings

INTRA-MURAL DEBATES OPEN

Two Weeks Competi- tion Will Start Monday

The Intra-Mural debates, rules for which were announced in last week's Campus, will open next Monday evening, when three debates will be held at different places on the campus. The series of debates will last for two weeks, ending at the time of the Christmas vacation. The question for debate is, Resolved that the United States should have Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws.

The different fraternity and non-fraternity groups are divided into three leagues, southern, northern, and central. By elimination the number of teams in the competition will be reduced to two, which will meet for the Intra-Mural championship just before the holidays.

Each team is to supply a judge who is approved by its opponents and the Debating Society will supply the third. This change in the original plans has been made necessary by the difficulty met in securing enough judges for all the debates each night.

Further announcements will be made in the columns of the Campus as soon as these preliminary debates are completed.

The schedule for the first three days of next week is as follows:

Monday, Dec. 7, 8 P.M.

BANANAS INTERVIEWED BY CO-ED REPORTER

DELIVERS FAREWELL ADDRESS TO MAINE BEFORE TURNING IN FOR WINTER

"How do you do, Miss Co-ed. Yes, it is cold out, but of course I am well protected by my nice fur coat. I just came out to get a good breath of fresh air before I turn in for the winter. I had planned on staying up a few weeks more until the folks all left, so I could wish them a Merry Christmas, but if this cold holds out I guess sleep is the thing for me."

"You want to talk to me about Maine? Well, I'm a 'Maine girl' so of course I can't say enough for Maine. Please come down here where I won't have to shout at you. Don't be frightened of me."

"What do I think about the football and cross country teams? Well, about the best thing I think that happened in the whole season was the way the rest of the students turned out to help the boys win. Yes, miss, some days I would

The Student and the World Court —a Thought

The announcement that Maine is to send a delegate to the Student World Court Conference at Princeton University makes it evident that student opinion is of weight even in matters of international politics. Our points of view and considerations have a meaning to those whose votes will decide whether or not, the United States is going to enter the World Court on an equal footing with the other member nations.

Frederick M. Snyder, who addressed several groups of Maine audiences on the question made clear one of the most antagonistic attitudes; that of timidity in the quick acceptance of a proposition whose results can not but be vital.

No reform, however significant it may be, ever receives a whole-hearted support until time has proven its value, or until consideration has proved conclusively that the advantages outweigh what disadvantages might thereto accrue. But this Court is already established. It did not wait until the United States expressed its approval and intent to join, before becoming a factor in international administration. Already the Court has rendered six judgments and eleven advisory opinions. It is an active body. Our discussion is but to decide whether we wish to reap the advantages of such a Court of Justice.

Fundamentally the underlying cause of the institution is the abolition of the cause of war, and therefore the abolition of war. Such a goal has been uppermost in the minds of intelligent leaders since wars first spread death and desolation over the homes and firesides of men. The real impetus to the realization of such a movement is a distinct outgrowth of this last gigantic demolition of countries and humanity. The suffering which the Great War caused was never in the least degree counterbalanced by the political gain of the participating nations. Rather it emphasized the very futility of brute destruction where sane arbitration and understanding could well have gained a like and more satisfactory end. So the Court was established and forty-eight of the so-called major nations have signified their willingness to lay their disputes before its arbitrators.

The United States dislikes to transfer any of its inherent power to another body. Independence is a national characteristic. But where independence merges into aloofness, marked too with a slight degree of snobishness, then independence ceases being a worthy attribute and becomes an impediment to progress. The United States has no more love for war than any other nation. None but radical agitators would embrace military conflict as a solution where rational arbitration could better resolve a disagreement. From one point of view, the civil authorities dislike to place the destiny of so large a state, in the hands of an organization composed of judges from smaller states. Their contention is that such men are not fitted to judge the principles which must guide the more powerful body. But that is selfish and unwarranted. The judges for this Court are selected from the greatest minds of every state and nation which is a member. In what more competent assembly of men, could such matters be safely confided? Unbiased as the majority would be, their decisions would be impartial. Yet of such quality are their members, that the judgments could not but be fair and just.

It is not so much, after all, why should the United States join. The moot point is, "Will she?" Once the step is taken, national affairs will adjust themselves to the policy. It may be true that the present Court is not perfect in every respect. But what organization ever, at its birth, had its principles so formulated that change was obviated? Time is the crucible, into which are poured the tenets and formulations of any organization. The residues which stand the test, become indelibly incorporated into the organization's guiding principles. The gases of inadequate regulation which the heat of experience drives from the mixture are revised, amended and retained in a form which more nearly approximates the necessities of the body in question.

The World Court is in its comparative infancy. It needs proving. Yet on the other hand, it has already demonstrated its efficiency in the decisions and opinions it has given. And it is on solid ground. Different details of its mechanism may need revision, but the function of the body will remain unaltered. It is that fundamental principle of fairness and its antagonism toward any form of war which will be its breath and substance until years have established the background of sound judgments and efficient diplomacy between nations; that will transform the World Court into a vigorous and influential instrument of international justice.

The convention of students and their discussions will not be of minor importance. A body representative of the collegiate mind of the country, is one which will not be ignored. Often it takes but a small word, expression of opinion or preference, to swing the balance from one mode of thought to another. Professedly in favor of the World Court as the majority of the students are, whatever results from the assembly at Princeton, will be toward convincing senatorial opinion of the value of the entrance of the United States into the World Court.

Maine-in-Turkey

About four years ago a man and his wife, graduates of the University, decided to dedicate their lives to others whose educational advantages were less fortunate than their own. They were Lee and Helen Vrooman. In June 1924, at a very impressive chapel service, the University of Maine bade them God-speed as their own.

After a brief time spent at a language school, the pair sailed for Turkey, and settled in Smyrna. Their history has been printed in the letters which they have sent to the University from time to time. Last year another Maine graduate joined them. She was Ruth Crockett. All are now at the International College in Smyrna. Their work is purely instructive. Religious teaching is forbidden by Turkish statute; as a result of the formation of the Turkish republic.

Mr. Vrooman, with his knowledge of modern methods of agriculture has been invaluable in developing the lands in Turkey. His wife's efforts are directed toward the education of the girls of Turkey. Miss Crockett has charge of trying to teach the people to play. Although handicapped by lack of apparatus, she is conducting physical education classes. She is the only woman there fitted for the work. With such a varied program in charge of our three representatives, it is plain that Maine is playing no small part in the work of modernizing the Turkish people.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. J. H. Mahoney,
Maine Campus
Dear Mr. Mahoney:

There seems to be some misunderstanding in the student body because the midsemester marks cannot be obtained more promptly. At the suggestion of one of the deans, I would like to give this explanation thru the Campus.

The midsemester ranks cover the first eight weeks of recitations, from September 23 to November 18, inclusive. The instructors have from November 18 to November 23, inclusive, to grade prelims and make out their reports. The reports are due in the Registrar's Office on or before November 23.

If that were all there is to the process, the students could have their ranks quite promptly, but the marks must be entered on individual student cards, carefully checked, the cards arranged by colleges and sent to the college deans. Even by working over time, this requires from five to six days. At the deans' offices, the cards must be sorted according to ranks, notices written to delinquent students, all before the ranks are ready to be given out to the students.

The process might be shortened if the intent were simply to get the ranks into the students' hands without comment, but the purpose of the midsemester marks is to afford an opportunity for the deans to confer with the students about their records, also to commend high ranking students and advise with students whose work is not progressing satisfactorily.

This work necessarily takes from a week to 10 days after the ranks are filed in the Registrar's office, but I want to assure you that the work is completed just as rapidly as is possible with the force at our command.

Sincerely yours,

James A. Gannett
Registrar

OWLS INITIATED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Friday, November 27, a part of the Sophomore Owl initiation took place and the ceremony was completed Wednesday night. The Friday "exercises" consisted chiefly of paddling, but the remainder of the initiation was more interesting (to the sophomores anyway).

Cushing, Raynor K. Fitzhugh, Charles P. Stone, Oswald Minuiti, Cecil R. Race, Peter Jankouskitz, James Currie, Russell Baker and Robert F. Scott.

FRESHMAN SQUAD CUT

Coach Stanley Wallace's freshman basketballers are now holding regular workouts and getting into shape for a hard season. Over sixty men reported at the first call for candidates, but by the process of elimination this number has been reduced to 24. From this squad the 1929 team will be picked.

The candidates now working under Wally's direction are the following:

Dean R. Bailey, Bangor; Herbert J. Bates, Patten Academy; Philip Beckler, Gould Academy; George M. Crimmins, Brunswick; James Dundas, Hartland Academy; F. H. Ellis, York High; Lyman S. Gray, Fryeburg; Edwin A. Emerson, Norway; William Hartley, Lewiston; Charles W. Hamlin, Southington, Conn.; Lawrence Hobbs, Hebron; Richard Holmes, Gould Academy; Harold S. Folsom, Newport; James Kent, Waterboro; Clarence Moore, Rangeley; Gerald C. Goudy, York; Virgil M. Lancaster, Corinna Academy and M.C.I.; J. N. McCarthy, St. John's Prep and Rumford; Earle D. Graduate Manager Ben Kent is working on the schedule for the first year team and will have it ready to give out in a short time.

The University's part in sponsoring foreign socialization is one to be proud of. It is one way of internationalizing the college.

ORGANIZATIONS

Kappa Psi sorority gave an informal dancing party at the Country Club, Wednesday evening, November 25.

Music was furnished by the regular Country Club Orchestra. About thirty couples were present, among them two alumnae, Ellen Myers '23, and Ruth Waterhouse '23.

The local branch has been practically inactive for the past two years, but this year a regular schedule of meetings and smokers will be carried out.

The association is opened to any members of the three upper classes taking a Mechanical Engineering course. Dues should be paid at once.

A meeting of the Spanish Club was held in Fernald Hall Tuesday, November 24 at 4.15. In place of answering by name as the roll was called, each member responded by giving the name of a province in Spain. The following program was presented:

MAINE STUDENT HONORED

La Prensa, the Spanish daily of New York, contains in its issue of November 25 a photo of Miss Mary Belinian, a resident of Bangor and member of the junior class of the university, as well as an essay in Spanish on the "Conquest of Mexico" which was submitted in a contest conducted during the year by this newspaper. Students in colleges and universities in all parts of the country participated in the competition, and Miss Belinian's essay is one of eighteen to which prizes were awarded. She is a graduate of Bangor High School and a major in the department of Spanish and Italian. She has a remarkable record in both high school and college, showing particular success in the mastery of foreign languages.

Scoop's CORNER

While this column of last week, concerning the production per hour of study, was going to press Scoop was collecting data which was to show if he was to increase or decrease his amount of smoking in order to increase his mental efficiency.

This data consisted of determining the number of smokers among the men belonging to the honorary arts fraternity and to the honorary engineering fraternity, also the number of smokers among forty-five major sports men when not in training.

As this data is not to be taken as standard, no great degree of accuracy was striven for and the testimony of roommates and classmates was deemed sufficiently authentic to properly classify each man. Other conditions of the research were that by "smokers" only habitual smokers were considered, and whenever a man appeared in two sports he was considered as two men.

The result of Scoop's research is that 70% of the undergraduates in Tau Beta Pi and Phi Beta Kappa are non-smokers, and that 72% of men prominent in major sports are also non-smokers.

At Antioch College in Ohio a similar but very thorough study was made of the same problem and the following paragraphs are taken from a bulletin which explained the method of obtaining the data:

A careful study of smoking among men students at Antioch does not disclose any permanent effects of smoking upon blood pressure, lung capacity, or pulse rate; but a definite relationship is established between smoking and low scholarship. Among men students, 31.8 per cent of non-smokers fail to maintain required grades, while 62.3 per cent of heavy smokers similarly fail. "Inhalers" fail most often. Before this study began, the more susceptible smokers had been eliminated, since many more smokers than nonsmokers had failed and been dropped from college.

In actual experience at Antioch, non-smokers seem to do slightly better in athletics than smokers. In track meets during the past two years they have gained an easy majority of points. On the other hand, all important events in our first swimming meet, held last spring, were won by two experts, both of whom were habitual smokers. We found no significant difference in the blood pressure or in the lung capacity of the two groups. If from one to six years of moderate smoking causes any permanent effect on the human machine, we have yet to discover it. If a moderate use of tobacco causes a temporary but not a permanent loss of physical efficiency in these respects, then the claims of those who oppose the use of tobacco must be modified.

Smokers who "inhale" have lower scholarship than those who do not. Of all smokers who do not inhale, 42.4 per cent fall below diploma grade; but of those who do inhale, 43.8 per cent of light smokers, and 65.1 per cent of heavy smokers fall below.

Smokers remaining in college fall steadily in scholarship (from 3.56 to 3.31 in three years). Nonsmokers maintain a nearly uniform average.

With these figures before us, it is hard to avoid the conclusion that smoking is actually a cause of mental inefficiency.

Coach Frank Kanaly has received letters inviting the Maine relay team to participate in the annual indoor events to be held by the Boston Knights of Columbus and the Boston A. A. on January 30 and February 6. It is likely that the Maine team will be sent to both of these meets, although no decision has been made as yet by the athletic authorities.

It is to be one of the purposes of the Conference to form a permanent organization of American students for the purpose of discussing topics of current national import. The delegates will convene annually at institutions in various parts of the country for this purpose. The M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. held a joint cabinet meeting on the evening of November 24. Plans were discussed for the sunrise service held on Thanksgiving Day. The Cabinet voted to postpone the annual Red Cross Drive until after the Christmas vacation.

World Court Facts

On February 13, 1920, the Council of the League appointed an Advisory Committee of Jurists to draft a plan for the Court. This Committee had 11 members, all eminent for their knowledge of international law; and all but one of them were citizens or subjects of nations members of the League. The one exception was Honorable Elihu Root, formerly Secretary of State of the United States.

The Committee of Jurists drafted a statute or law for the Court, and submitted it to the Council of the League, which, after considering it, decided to submit it, with some changes, to the member nations. It was so submitted, at the First Assembly of the League at Geneva in November, 1920, and on December 13, 1920, the Assembly unanimously adopted a resolution providing that this statute, with a protocol prefixed to it, should be submitted to the member nations for ratification. The protocol, or protocol of signature, merely stated that the member nations, through the signatures to be attached of their authorized representatives, declared their acceptance of the annexed statute for the Permanent Court and accepted its jurisdiction in accordance with the terms of the statute and subject to the conditions of it. It was to go into effect if and when a majority of the nations in the League ratified it.

It is to be especially noted that the statute establishing the Court was acted upon by the various member nations of the League, acting independently and separately, and not by the mere action of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations. The protocol was ready on December 16, 1920, for submission to the separate nations. By September 14,

Women Excelled in Spring Class Work

Women students of the university maintained a higher average in class work than the members of the opposite sex during the last spring semester, according to figures made public by Registrar J. A. Gannett. Non-fraternity men and sorority girls surpassed fraternity men and the coeds who are not sorority members, the figures show. The average of the university, on the point system, was 2.057. The men's average was 1.964, the women's, 2.380. According to classes, the seniors led with 2.460, followed by the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen in that order.

1921, it had been ratified by 26 nations, 4 more than the necessary majority. The number of nations that subsequently adhered to the protocol brings the present total to 48.

THE 48 NATIONS NOW IN THE COURT

Forty-eight of the 55 nations that are members of the League have signed the protocol of the Court. These 48 nations are Albania, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, British Empire, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, the Dominican Republic, Estonia, Finland, France, Greece, Haiti, Hungary, India, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Liberia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Persia, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Salvador, Serb-Croat-Slovene State, Siam, Union of South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

THE 15 NATIONS NOT IN THE COURT

Fifteen nations or states of the world are outside the Court.

They consist of 7 states that are members of the League but not of the Court, viz., Abyssinia, Argentina, Guatemala, Honduras, Irish Free State, Nicaragua, and Peru, and of the 8 states in the world that are not members of the League, viz., Afghanistan, Ecuador, Egypt, Germany, Mexico, the Russian Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, Turkey, and the United States of America. This does not include Hedjaz and three very small states, Andorra (191 sq.mi.), Monaco (8 sq.mi.), and Lichtenstein (65 sq.mi.).

MAINE IN TURKEY THREE YEARS OLD

The Maine-in-Turkey project was formed three years ago in order that the University of Maine might add its power to the educational awakening of the Near East. In the past Maine students had aided Turkish students, and the opportunity for more definite service came with the departure to Turkey of Lee and Helen Vrooman, Maine '18.

It was considered most fitting that Maine stand behind these two alumni who are giving their lives in foreign service. Furthermore other natives of Maine have served in Turkey, including Cyrus Hamlin, who went there from Bangor half a century ago, and in more recent years, Joe Beach, Donald Perry, and David Beach.

For several years there has been a Yale-in-China and a Princeton-in-China of large proportions. Dartmouth and Williams also carry on foreign educational work. Maine was fortunate in selecting Turkey for this foreign work because of its situation between the East and the West, and the tremendous possibilities in the country's future development.

The alumni as well as the students are now interested in the enterprise, so that it has become an all-Maine project.

A sun-rise watch was held Thanksgiving morning under the auspices of the M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. At six-thirty all who were interested met at the Observatory to see the sun-rise. Henry Trask gave a short talk on the spirit of Thanksgiving. Marion Cooper spoke on Friends and Mr. Wilson read a chapter from the Bible. A hymn was sung as the sun came up over the fields.

Home Ec Dance Successful

A dance which was well patronized by both the students and the faculty was given in the gym Saturday night by the Home Economics Club.

The refreshments of sherbert, cookies, and punch were made and sold by the girls of the Club. Music was furnished by the Troubadours.

Miss McGinnis and Miss Green from the Home Economics department were the chaperones.

The proceeds, amounting to fifty dollars or more, will go toward a new fireplace for North Hall, the Home Economics Practice House.

A ruling was recently put in force at Colby which states that the men and women students must sit in separate sections of the stands during football contests. In this way it is thought that the students will show more pep during the games.

GIRL SCOUT LEADER INSTRUCTING CO-EDS

Miss Thelma Trott from the National Office of the Girl Scouts of America is giving a course in Girl Scout leadership for the women of the University, this week. Over seventy-five have registered for this already.

This course embraces the work of the Tenderfoot test, the Second class test and some of the First class test, as well as special training in leading girls. A similar course was given by Miss Trott's sister two years ago.

Two periods a day for this week will be given over to Scouting.

This work is being given under the auspices of the University Extension Service, of which Prof. L. J. Pollard is the director.

All the brawn of all the workers of the world would fail to supply the power needed for our construction and production requirements. Modern civilization is based on cheap power readily applied to tasks of all kinds.

Machinery works: Man thinks

According to college tests, man develops one-eighth horsepower for short periods and one-twentieth in steady work. As a craftsman—a worker who uses brains—he is well worth his daily wage. But as a common laborer, matching brawn against motorized power, he is an expensive luxury.

With a fifty-horsepower motor, for instance, one man can do the work of 400 common laborers. He is paid far more for his brains than his brawn.

The great need of this and future generations is for men who can plan and direct. There is ample motorized machinery for all requirements of production and construction. But motorized machinery, no matter how ingenious, can never plan for itself.

And that is precisely where the college man comes in. Highly trained brains are needed more and more to think, plan, and direct tasks for the never-ending application of brawn-saving electricity.

And the day I heard the whistle blow and heard some one say Maine had won the State Cross Country meet I felt rather bad to think I hadn't been over. But "Artie" Hillman came over to say

"Hello" and I told him how proud I was of all his boys. Of course "Ginger" and the football boys I think are just wonderful. What Maine girl doesn't? And while I'm sorry some of them are leaving I just know Paul and his team will carry the good work along and be winners next year.

"And I do hope Captain Alma Perkins will bring her hockey team down to see me some day. I do want to congratulate them on bringing home that victory from Canada.

"About basketball? Well, I really can't say much about it, because I'm asleep nearly always when the team is making its fight for Maine. But sometimes in my dreams I hear the cheering and I sort of smile to myself and turn over and when I wake up in the spring and hear all about them I'm just as pleased as can be. You tell them I'll be dreaming of them all winter and wish them the best of success.

"While I don't know very much about some of the other things that go on in Maine, yet I hope everything turns out for the best.

"Must you go? Well, come and see me next spring, won't you? I'll try to be wider awake than I am now and perhaps I can entertain you better. You see—I am—so—sleepy—now—
