RELAY TEAM MEETS EAGLES IN K. OF C. GAMES AT BOSTON

TAYLOR ALSO TO COMPETE IN TWO-MILE EVENT SATURDAY

As a result of time trials held Saturday afternoon, Coach Frank Kanaly has picked varsity and freshman one-mile relay teams which will represent Maine in the coming K. of C. and B.A.A. meets. Maine's varsity four, which will run against Boston College next Saturday, Jan. 30, in the K. of C. meet at Boston, will be selected from the following six, who made the best times Saturday: Capt. "Heinie" Eaton, "Bucky" Rounselle, "Dan" Torrey, and "Hunk" Burnham. Eaton, Rounselle, and Torrey are all seasoned veterans and should make a great showing against B. C., while Burnham has had plenty of experience and should give his man plenty of trouble.

At the same time, four freshmen were named to make up the team which will run in the intercollegiate relay race at the B.A.A. meet Feb. 4. This intercollegiate race replaces the usual three-cornered tilt which has taken place the last few years between Dartmouth, Maine, and M.I.T. freshmen. The freshmen who made the best times are as follows: Niles, McCarthy, Wilkins, and Ryder.

Besides the relay team, Forrest Taylor '27, long distance star, will compete at the K. of C. meet in the two mile event, where he will be pitted against such stars as George Lermond of B.A.A., national six-mile champion, Fred Pease of New Hampshire, New England cross-country champion, and others.

On the same date, "Art" Hillman, Maine's greatest cross country runner, will run in the Millrose A.A. games over in New York in the two mile event there.

Alan Helfrich, American half-mile champion, who is now working out daily in the new indoor field with Kanaly's runners, is expected to feature in the coming K. of C. meet, where he is favored to win the "600." The former Penn State star has been working out with the Maine runners all this year, and the many who have been privileged to watch him run will observe with interest his work in the coming indoor meets. Helfrich's presence here has not only helped him in his own training work, but has been a source of inspiration to the wearers of the Blue, who have picked up many pointers from watching the work of the stellar half-miler.

Time trials will be held sometime this week to determine the two-mile team which will run against Bowdoin in the

IMPORTANT MEETS ON WINTER TRACK CARD

The Maine relay teams will take part in four important meets during the coming season, while Maine men will be entered in two other meets, according to the winter track schedule just made public by Graduate Manager B. C. Kent. The season opens Saturday night of this week, when the one-mile relay team runs against Boston College in the Knights of Columbus games at Boston.

The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 30 K. of C. Games, Boston; Varsity Relay vs. Boston College; also individual entries.

Jan. 30 First practice meet for Track Squad at Indoor Athletic Field

Feb. 4 Millrose Games, New Madison Square Garden, New York City: individual entries.

Feb. 6 B.A.A. Games, Boston: Varsity Relay vs. New Hampshire

Freshman intercollegiate relay individual entries

Feb. 6 Second practice meet for Track Squad at Indoor Athletic Field

Feb. 13 Third practice meet for Track Squad at Indoor Athletic Field

Feb. 15 Portland American Legion Games: Varsity 1 & 2 mile Relays and individual entries

MAINE STATION BROADCASTING

WGBX to Go on Air Twice Weekly

The University of Maine broadcasting station, WGBX, which has a power of 500 watts can only use one-fifth of that power now under the present rules.

Last November a radio conference was held in Washington under Secretary Hoover. At that time a rule was passed prohibiting the licensing of additional broadcasting stations and also prohibiting any increase in power by stations already licensed.

The plant at the University of Maine held a license at that time for 100 watts, but was in the process of increasing that to 500. This was done within a comparatively short time and a new license was applied for. This was refused, and for a time the station was not allowed to broadcast at all. Temporarily, however, it has been permitted to operate on the condition that not over 100 watts be used. While this is better than not at all, the department is seriously handicapped in its work.

In spite of the ruling, several new stations have been licensed, or have been allowed to use increased power. Senator Frederick Hale, working with Justice C. J. Dunn, is trying to obtain the new license for WGBX. Justice Dunn declares that, if necessary, he will go to Washington himself to attempt to secure the license.

The studio of the station is located on the second floor of Wingate Hall. Programs are now being broadcasted every Sunday afternoon and Wednesday evening.

This week, Wednesday, Prof. L. J. Pollard of the Division of University Extension has charge of the program. Later it is planned to give extension work by radio for people of the state unable to attend the University.

Sunday, a musical program was given, which has been very highly praised.

INDEPENDENTS WIN OPENER

Hockey Team Trimmed Rovers by 6-3 Score

Maine's newly formed independent hockey team opened its season last Saturday afternoon and added its share to the long string of week-end victories by scalping the C.P.R. Rovers of Brownville by a 6-3 score.

The game was played on the new rink in the rear of the power house. Captain "Boze" Baxter, and "Archie" Stover, stars of the 1924 team, featured for the home team, while McDonald was the leading light for Brownville.

Score:

MAINE (6)	(3) BROWNVILLE
Stover, lw	lw, Vickers
Lopaus, rw	rw, Marsh
Maxwell, c	c, McNeil
Deveau, ld	ld, Durant
Atherton, rd	rd, McDonald
Baxter, g	g, Connorton

Goals scored by: Stover 2, Maxwell, Deveau 2, Atherton, Durant, McDonald 2

Substitutions: Webber for Maxwell, Lucas for Stover, Stover for Lucas, Lucas for Lopaus, Dickson for McNeil.

Penalties: Deveau, 1 min., slashing; McNeil, 1 min., tripping; Vickers, 1 min., tripping.

Blanket Tax Raised

Beginning with the spring semester, the athletic assessment, better known as the "blanket tax," will be increased from $3.75 to $5.25, it is announced by Treasurer Frederick S. Youngs. This action was taken at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in October.

Students holding blanket tax tickets will be admitted to basketball games without additional charge.

VARSITY FIVE SWAMPS FORT WILLIAMS, 58-22

SOLDIERS PROVE NO MATCH FOR CAPTAIN LAKE'S MEN

Portland's Fifth Infantry again visited Orono Saturday evening, this time being represented by a basketball team, and, as has been the recent custom, served as a species of mattress on which Capt. Lake and his playmates rolled about in transports of delight, after the manner introduced by Maine baseball and football teams during the past year. This Infantry outfit looked a thousand percent better than the other aggregations which have lately visited our vicinity, however, and caused the Blue five more than a little trouble, although the final score was 58-22.

The game marked the opening of the home season for the Bricemen, and a fair-sized crowd was on hand to give the conquerors of Dartmouth the once over. The Maine hoopers had plenty of stuff, and showed it, their lightning passing and accurate shooting being a sight for the proverbial sore eyes. From the time that "Bill" Hanscom rolled in the first of his five baskets to start the scoring for the evening until "Speed" Branscom popped a point from the foul line to wind up the festivities, the Maine club worked together like a machine, and completely bewildered their soldier opponents. Lake, Beatty, Kamenkovitz, and Hanscom all fattened up their batting averages, with the Maine leader being high point man with sixteen markers

STUDENTS TO PASS ON FRESHMAN WEEK

WILL EXPRESS OPINIONS ON VALUE OF OPENING EXERCISES

When students undertake the task of registering during the next week or ten days, they will be given a chance to express their opinions in regard to the benefits derived from Freshman Week, this being done in answer to a questionnaire which they will be asked to fill out. Since the seniors are the only class now in college that has not gone through the Freshman Week exercises, they will answer a questionnaire different from that submitted to the members of the three lower classes.

The questions on the blank to be filled out by juniors, sophomores, and freshmen are the following:

1. Do you think that Freshman Week benefited you in fitting you for your college life?
2. Do you think that the value obtained justified the financial expenditure involved in coming a week earlier?
3. Do you think that the Freshman Week period should be shortened?
4. Do you think that it should be

Dr. Little to Have Charge Of Biological Station

Dr. C. C. Little, former president of the University and now head of the University of Michigan, will return to Maine next summer to conduct the courses in Biology at the University Biological Station at Bar Harbor, according to an announcement by Dr. H. M. Ellis, director of the Summer Session.

The Bar Harbor station was founded in the summer of 1924 by Dr. Little, and he has spent the greater part of the last two summers there in experimenting and teaching. The courses given there are included in the curriculum of the Summer Session, which is held at Orono.

Although the Bar Harbor station is connected with the University, the University does not contribute to its financial support, the burden of which has been borne in the past by Dr. Little and other private individuals.

INTRA-MURAL FIGHT CLOSE

Betas Only Team to Have Clean Slate

Intramural basketball is in its last stages, and still the battle wages in the Central and South Leagues, with no winner yet decided. Beta, by defeating Theta Phi Kappa, its most powerful contender, 31-23, has clinched the North League crown. The Betas are the only outfit to go through their schedule with a clean slate, although, according to the data at hand, they have one more game to play, with Theta Chi. It seems reasonably sure that the leaders will take this scrimmage without much trouble and enter the finals undefeated.

Phi Eta's defeat of Phi Kap and the falling of Kappa Sig at the hands of the Phi Gam bandits, causes a double tie between Phi Eta and Phi Gam with each team to play one more game. Phi Eta has already walloped Phi Gam, but the latter five has shown great improvement over their early season form and should give the green clad warriors a real rub should the issue resolve itself down to a playoff between these two.

Sigma Chi and A.T.O. have both finished their schedules and are tied up in a knot down in the South League. The playoff should be a hot battle and will probably take place very soon. The standings follow:

NORTH LEAGUE

	W.	L.	P.C.
Beta	4	0	1.000
Theta Phi	3	1	.750
Commons	2	2	.500
Theta Chi	1	1	.500
Sigma Nu	1	3	.250
Sigma Phi	0	4	.000

CENTRAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	P.C.
Phi Gam	3	1	.750
Phi Eta	3	1	.750
Phi Kap	3	2	.600

FROSH VICTORS OVER FOXCROFT

Yearlings Defeated Academy Team in Home Game

Maine's freshman basketball team evened up their season's average Saturday night by defeating Foxcroft Academy in the preliminary to the varsity encounter by a 33-22 score. This was the first appearance of the Wallace coached outfit on the home floor this season, and they made a good impression on the local fans. Folsom, the frosh center, had a big night, caging eleven points. Hobbs and Hartley, forwards, also showed plenty of ability, as did Lancaster, who replaced Hobbs in the waning moments of the battle. The frosh outfit appears to be every bit as good as those which have taken the polished surface in past years, and should give a good account of itself. This week's game with Jonesport H. S., winners of last year's tournament, has been cancelled on account of final examinations.

Smith of the Foxcroft team was easily the main cog in "Stubby" March's five, scoring fifteen points, more than half of his team's total.

Score:

MAINE FROSH (33)		FOXCROFT ACADEMY (22)

SENATORS HALE AND FERNALD COMMENT ON STUDENT VOTE

REPLY TO MESSAGE SENT BY COMMITTEE AFTER RE- CENT BALLOTING

DIVIDED ON POLICY

Hale Favors, Fernald Opposes American Adherence to Court Protocol

The Student World Court Committee, in connection with its activities in trying to persuade influential persons of the advisability of the United States affiliating with the World Court, sent telegrams to the two Maine Senators, Hon. Frederick Hale and Hon. Bert M. Fernald.

During the past week, communications have been received from both of them in answer to the telegrams which were sent. Senator Hale states his intention to vote favorably upon the question. Senator Fernald, on the other hand, expresses the conviction that the action is unjustifiable and refers to the protocol for his authority. The substance of the two letters is as follows:

SENATOR HALE'S LETTER

January 21, 1926

Student World Court Committee,
University of Maine,
Orono, Maine.

Gentlemen:

I have your telegram of January 19th. I am very much in favor of having the United States enter the World Court and I hope to see the necessary legislation enacted at the present session of Congress. I shall certainly do what I can to see that it is enacted.

Thanking you for your telegram, I am,
Very truly yours,
(Signed) Frederick Hale

SENATOR FERNALD'S LETTER

January 23, 1926

The Student World Court Committee
University of Maine,
Orono, Maine.

Dear Friends:

I greatly appreciate the interest which you are taking in public questions. In the matter of the World Court however, I would suggest that you give the protocol very careful study. I think such action will convince you that our adherence to the Court would not be for the best interests of this country.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Bert M. Fernald

Bouncing Bouncers

Probably there is not a student in the college who did not either go to the Strand Theater last Friday evening, or at least wished that it were possible. Such is the desire of a college student to do something or join a "conspiracy" which is different. Beginning with a just motive it ended in success as far as that motive was concerned; but unfortunately for the theater in question.

Anyone with an understanding of the psychological make-up of college men and women, and men in particular, must realize that their reactions and recreations differ decidedly from those of the sedate normal human being whose lives are stereotyped repetitions from one day to the next. They live a life of moderation, unbroken by the enthusiasms of the early twenties.

A college student is tasting the resources both of himself and of the world. He is slightly intoxicated with the fascinating insights which he receives into his fellows. He cheers hoarsely for his Alma Mater, and his every attitude is intensified to the n-th degree. This is a result of tradition and natural youthful exuberance. Every phase of his activity become suffused with this exhilaration of spirit.

What more natural that their reactions to the moving pictures should be marked with a character, radically differing from that of any ordinary audience. It is part of the life they lead, and the role they are playing. It bespeaks an interest, which when eventually diverted into their future businesses and occupations, will aid greatly in assuring their success. So, with a natural freedom of mind their comments upon screen presentations are voiced aloud. Stirred with the rhythm of a march, they keep step and mark time with their feet. Filled with mischief they good-naturedly torment their neighbors with tiny missiles, expecting the favor to be returned. It usually is. These things are the why of student demonstrations which so distress those whose lives share none of the extreme joy of the college student's daily life.

Owing to an unfortunate misjudgment, the owners of the theater acquired the services of a special policeman. He was not there primarily to quell the audible appreciations of the university audience. He was there to prevent the entrance of persons unfit to join the theater patrons; such as drunkards or others whose actions could fairly be judged offensive. One evening, the roars and remarks assumed unusual proportions, and the manager felt that it was owing that part of his audience which could not share in the fun, to make an attempt to quell the miniature riot. So as a warning the special was instructed to appear as a kind of signal that there were certain limits of propriety which might well be observed. There was the error, without which there would have been no conspiracy.

For to attempt to stem the tide of their zeal was but to open another flood-gate and augment it. Brute force, such as was personified in the menacing glance of the officer, was a stimulant. The buzz rose to a howl, and the howl to a roar. The hum of voices gave way to pandemonium. The officer was perplexed. This was what they sought and they showed their delight at his indecision. The evening passed.

But the movement had begun. The students gathered in little protesting groups and plotted revenge upon what they considered was an unjust infringement of natural liberty on such an occasion. They decided to "bounce the bouncer." They did.

The events of Friday night are fairly common property. They assembled in a body and never ceased their demonstrations until the lights turned up for intermission. They pulled the curtain, and the management proved their lack of hostility by proceeding with the show. They played the piano and led the students in the Stein song without protest. They howled and cheered and whistled and pounded and yelled, hoping that the bouncer would appear—to be bounced. But discretion proved the better part of valor in his case and he was never heard from. The management had ordered him to keep away. So far, there was nothing which would arouse antagonism on the parts of either the students or the theater owners.

True, the theater would have been just as well pleased if the movement had not been so vociferous as to force several of the gentler patrons to withdraw until the second performance; so that they might enjoy the picture. They would have felt a great deal more kindly inclined if they hadn't been told by three of their regular audience that they would never again enter that theater. Even that would not have made them feel that their business was lost, if it weren't for the fact that each of these three persons felt the situation so keenly that their own natural justification of the prejudice would doubtlessly influence some others to share the resentment which they had carried away.

One of the owners admitted that the theater was especially built for the students. He stated without hesitation that lacking the student patronage, the business would fail. He said that for that reason, and because he and his partner sympathized with the spirit of college people, they did not expect the quiet and passivity which is found in metropolitan picture houses. But he also paid tribute to the fact that during the times when the college is closed, the firm had necessarily to depend upon the patronage of the townspeople.

And he was right. Whereas it may not be an even proposition; whereas the students do truly have more claim upon the theater than the others; nevertheless it is only the part of chivalry and consideration, to realize that the feelings of the rest are actual and just. One would not expect a professor's wife to rise in her seat and cast a peanut at the head of another professor's spouse. Such actions are beyond expectation. By the same token, it is natural to suppose that those people who go there wish to enjoy the show in peace. Movies are an illusion. They serve to create a world of fancy for the spectators. And it is extremely distressing to have a scene which is fundamentally pathetic, shed every whit of reality under the prolonged whoop of a misguided college student.

The point of this editorial is to plead for a sense of fitness of things. There seem to be some occasions which well merit the expression they receive. But there are others which deserve silence and appreciation. The management says that it will be only too glad to turn the theater over to the student body on any evening if it can be warned of it beforehand. They have the very awkward task of trying to please both the students and the less sympathetic folk who have in the course of time come to regard outbursts at inappropriate moments as uncalled for.

Finally there is one feature of that evening which passes the borders of good-natured jibing and becomes thoughtless and ill-adapted to the character of a college man.

During the evening, a piece of iron pipe over a foot long was thrown down an aisle. It was used to accentuate the beats of martial music. Two tin cans were thrown. One narrowly missed injuring the pianist. If she had not dodged it, harm would have been done. The other tore a hole in the $300.00 gold fibre screen, causing damage which is absolutely irreparable.

A moving picture screen is very delicate. The directions which accompany it, warn the buyer to beware of allowing his hands to come in contact with it; for such a slight impression as this causes a smut on the surface of the screen which will ever after appear. If mere finger prints are harmful, what can be said of the projection of a tin can against it, especially when the can tears a hole in the curtain which can never be amended. It is very obvious at times. It is not so large as to be at once visible. But when contrasted against some of the lighter images it stares at one distinctly and causes a vague feeling of uneasiness.

So added to the fact that the crusade against the bouncer was a success. (He has severed his connections with the theater); and to the fact that "a good time was had by all," the other less desirable consequences make one stop for consideration.

Property is property. No one has any right to so conduct himself that he endangers the possessions of another. If through chance he does so, it is the part of manhood to admit the fact. Things are often overlooked when circumstances are understood. To throw cans and iron pipe and peanuts and beans may be all right in an alley-scrap, but it would almost seem that they are distinctly out of their element in a theater which serves both students and disinterested patrons.

It is the request of the managers that what demonstrations must occur in the future, should be marked with a care that the chaos of last Friday should not be repeated; and that property destruction be eliminated from the program as entirely useless and decidedly expensive.

Present Outlook for Winter Carnival Good

The outlook for a successful Winter Carnival is good at the present time. There is plenty of snow for all the events for which it is necessary, and the ice is in fine condition for the skating events. Many students are getting ready to participate in the events of the Carnival, skating, skiing and snowshoeing.

The Intra-mural has done much work to make this year's Carnival the best ever, and they expect that the students will cooperate with them in every way to make the affair a success. The students in charge of the event have arranged a program which will keep the ball moving all the time, giving a wide variety of entertainments to those who attend.

The fancy skating exhibition on Thursday night, Feb. 10, will open the Carnival. The Maine band will keep time for the skaters. Following the skating the Maine Masque will stage the play "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in the chapel. The Intra-mural events for all those who wish to show their skill will hold sway all day Friday, with the Carnival ball following in the evening.

The four colleges of the state will fight for honors on Saturday. A hockey game in the morning and a basketball game at night will also be held. Open house parties at the fraternities and dormitories will end the carnival.

The Intra-mural would like to see more of the students patronize the hockey rink which has recently been constructed. The ice is kept clear of snow and so a smooth surface is assured at all times.

On account of final examinations, there will be no issue of the Campus next week.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor of the Campus:

Our long-suffering movie managers have borne with the antics of the students at Maine for a good many years, and have overlooked many a disturbance which would cause theatre owners in any but a college town to call in the state militia.

There are few things more enjoyable than an evening at the movies with a congenial crowd; all of whom are out for a good time and enjoy hugely each other's company, as well as the show itself. However, there is a limit to all good times, and when destruction of property is involved, the time has come to put on the lid.

The managers have been toleration itself, but there is a limit to every man's endurance, and the damage done to the screen more than justifies their complaint.

The Senior Skulls are, in a way, responsible for the action of the undergraduate body as a whole, when the fact is considered that many student matters are referred to this body for settlement. While it is a question as to just what can be done in this case to repair the damage, the Skulls are of the opinion that this unfortunate incident will serve as an example and that no such occurrence will be repeated.

Dear Sir:

Will you kindly give space to the correction of a slight error which occurred in a recent issue? At the S.F.A. meeting I stated that many administrative officers were of the opinion that 60-70% of the students in the various colleges are not sufficiently successful to warrant their continuance. In this connection I stated that in my opinion all college loafers should be eliminated. I did not mean to convey the impression that 60-70% of college students are loafers. I certainly think the percentage is very much lower than this. I am inclined to estimate the number at about 10%.

Very truly yours,
James S. Stevens

Sophomores Needed to Work Out for Track Manager

Manager Sam Maxwell of the track team is faced with a rather unusual situation. In the usual run of things, Maxwell would at this time have working under him two assistant managers, members of the sophomore class, one of whom would be elected manager at the end of this year. As it happens, both duly chosen assistant managers have left college, and both positions are now vacant.

A short time ago Sam issued a call for sophomores to work out for assistant managerships. Two men responded. Unless more members of the second year class report to Maxwell as candidates for these positions at once, the Athletic Board, at a meeting which is to be held soon, will find itself compelled to name these two men as assistants, with the certainty that one will become varsity manager next year. The reason for the lack of response to the call for candidates is hard to see, unless it may be laid to the increased desire of students to participate actively in track competition which has been aroused by the opening of the great new indoor field. Anyway, there is open an unusual opportunity for some ambitious sophomore to win for himself a varsity managership by a few weeks' good work. Freshmen are also wanted to work out for assistant managerships of track, with the chance of a varsity managership in their junior year as the prize offered.

Former Campus Editor is Now With Boston Herald

Charles E. Johnson '25, last year editor-in-chief of the Campus has accepted a position with the Boston Herald, according to a letter received from Mr. Johnson by Registrar Gannett. Since his graduation he has been connected with the Springfield (Mass.) Union.

While in college, "Charlie" was active in work connected with the different publications. In his junior year, he was editor of the Prism, and also served on the board of the Mainiac. He is a member of Kappa Gamma Phi and of Sigma Nu fraternities.

The following letter was found on the street with no address. Scoop thought it best to publish it so that the writer of it could send it to its destination nicely arranged and printed.

Dear Pa:

The Week of Guessing will soon be here. I start my first examination next Friday. It is Guessing Week because first we must guess what the faculty means by the questions which they so often write in abominable English, then we must guess if it is a straight question or if there is a nasty trick to it, and finally we must guess at an answer.

There has been some talk about cutting out finals. The way I see it now they are O. K. for they help slow thinking dumbbells like myself to bring up our rank instead of being left out cold. These short time quizzes on which our mid-semester ranks are based often go over our heads.

Of course rank does not mean much but still it kind of pleases your vanity to get one of the first letters of the alphabet instead of a block "A" with one side knocked off. If you are pretty good you get a "B" and if on top of being good you can remember a few of the instructor's pet explanations and definitions you will get an "A". But Pa, I can't get these first letters as I used to when I was at the Old Academy and the teacher boarded at our house. One instructor told me that my attitude toward the course wasn't right but I can't help that can I?

There was a lot of talk last spring about cribbing. Most of us look at it this way: If you look at the other fellows' paper you are liable to get balled-up in his ideas like a bumble bee in a spider web—you are not stopped for long but while you are in this mess you have an awful battle to get untangled. If you have an answer and then see an answer that differs from yours you will spend precious minutes checking yourself up; if you change your answer without checking up, the new answer is sure to be wrong. I know, I've tried it.

This idea of writing on shirt cuffs or slide rules is all N. G. All the stuff you can write on this limited space you can learn in a few minutes by writing it over a couple of times on a piece of scrap paper just before you go in to a final. Besides, if you carry a "pony" like this with you there is a lot of mental effort lost in fighting down your guilty conscience and fighting down the fear that you might get caught.

One of my profs has the right idea; he is letting us bring a small piece of paper with us on which we may abbreviate the course. By doing this he is cutting out the evil of the "crib" and at the same time destroying our fear of forgetting some major part of the course. However, we are pessimistic enough to believe that the exam will be made proportionately harder.

Pa, a crib is no good for the reasons I just gave and for those alone. This stuff about a crib destroying all confidence in the future when mental effort is needed is all blah. For instance, just look at all of the speakers who use notes and manuscript.

Please send some money soon, Pa, because these co-eds and the movies come high.

Love to Ma and the folks.

Your son,

Willie Flunk

There was a regular meeting of the Contributor's Club Thursday evening, Jan. 21. The committee on revision of the Constitution gave its report. A humorous short story by Dr. Turner, "Me for the Eels," was read and one by Pauline Aiken, "The Man who Failed."

At last Maine's one mile relay team that is to meet Boston College at the K. of C. Meet Saturday night has been decided. As a result of the time trials Saturday, Capt. Eaton, Rounselle, Torrey and Burnham will make the trip. Forest Taylor is to run in the 2 mile special invitation run at the same meet.

Many may be interested to know that there was only 1/2 of one-sixteenth of a second between Burnham's and Thompson's time. While Maine may not win Saturday night it will sure give B.C. one fine run. All the men are in good condition and "rearing to go."

Those who made the Freshman one mile relay team in Saturday's trials were Niles, McCarthy, Wilkins, and Ryder; Parks and Wagg were tied for fifth place. This team is to run in an open "frosch" one mile relay at the B.A.A. Games, Feb. 6, 1926.

Captain Barrows of track has been working out with the discus and hammer every morning and as a result the coach has ordered a heavier discus. (MacSawyer has also had to order more lights.) "Rip" Black has been doing excellent work in all the weight events.

"Phil" Becker beat both Stitham and Proctor in the pole vault trials Saturday but "Hobbie" beat all three of these aerialists and turned in his best performance of the year.

Those who were not present at the time trials Saturday missed some wonderful running.

After this week-end practice meets will be held in the new Indoor Field every Saturday. All students are invited to attend. The events will start at 2:30 P.M. sharp.

There will be no track practice for any men except those on the relay teams and the individuals who are to compete in the coming indoor meets from Thursday Jan. 28 to Thursday, Feb. 4.

"Artie" Hillman will leave for the Millrose Carnival Meet in New York Tuesday night, Feb. 2 and on this trip he will run against the best two milers in America.

Dean Stevens Spoke to Clubs on Relativity

On Wednesday evening, January 20, Dean J. S. Stevens gave a talk on Relativity before the combined Math and Physics Clubs. It consisted of a resume of the recent meeting of scientists held in Kansas City, which was attended by Dean Stevens.

He spoke of the discoveries of Prof. Miller that would seem to disprove Einstein's theory. Prof. Miller is the only scientist who has obtained contrary results. He has been awarded the Nobel prize for distinguished work in Physics.

Prof. Michelson of the University of Chicago, also holder of the Nobel prize, has performed experiments recently with his "interferometer" that support Einstein's theory that motion in space is relative.

The lecture was well attended and of much interest to those interested in the subject of Relativity.

The girls' rifle team fired the second match of the season with the University of Cincinnati on Tuesday of this week.

Last week the team awarded the honorary emblem of the club to Warrant Officer "Jack" Kidney in appreciation of his services as a coach.

The Spanish Club held its first meeting of the new year Jan. 19, in Fernald Hall. The members answered roll call by giving the name of a river or a mountain of Spain.

The program was as follows:
Al Mercado del Alba Frances Sawyer
La Gitanilla Mary Levine
Selections on the victrola
All joined in singing Spanish songs.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

Commencing with this issue, the Campus will conduct regularly each week, space permitting, a department of intercollegiate news made up of dispatches from the news bureau of the New England Intercollegiate Newspaper Association at Boston.

New England's colleges boast a total of 50,000 students this year. The exact figures show that there are 46,660 eager (more or less) pursuers of the flask of wisdom. Figures are not available concerning the registration at Comm. Agri. College, Providence, St. Michael's, Smith or Springfield. Enrollment at 32 other colleges and universities is as follows:
Amherst, 690; Bates, 622; Boston Col., 1109; Boston Univ., 4812; Bowdoin, 534; Brown, 1388; Clark, 350; Colby, 644; Dartmouth, 2145; Harvard, 7661; Holy Cross, 1089; Lowell Tech, 815; Mass. Tech., 2813; Middlebury, 595; Mt. Holyoke, 1024; Northeastern, 1452; Norwich, 291; Radcliffe, 944; R. I. State, 517; Simmons, 1331; Trinity, 285; U. of Maine, 1307; U. of New Hamp., 1305; U. of Vermont, 1181; Wellesley, 1599; Wesleyan, 609; Wheaton, 446; Williams, 766; Worcester Poly., 534; Yale, 4866.

Bates College expects to have its new athletic building, made possible by the gift of $150,000 by William Bingham, 2nd, of Bethel, completed by May 1. The brick walls now are nearly completed, and most of the steel is on hand for the roof. The structure will be 160 feet square.

The Tufts College student council has voted to have the student body "rate" members of the faculty at the end of the academic year. Forms will be distributed on which students will register their estimate of the professor's ability in the following details: Knowledge of subject; ability to teach the subject; general intelligence; reliability of character; personal force and personality. The students, it is claimed, are taking the proposition seriously, and with full realization of the importance of the "marking" process.

Recent debating results among the N. E. colleges are as follows: Bates 74, California 61; Boston College 3, Dartmouth 0; Harvard 2, Wesleyan 1; Dartmouth 2, Williams 1; Williams 2, Princeton 1.

The Harvard Yard will shortly become the scene of moving picture sets, if the authorities are so willing. The Yard will be used as the background for a screen revival of the old play, "Brown of Harvard." The editor of the Harvard Crimson has demanded of the film company that they present a true version of college life in their production.

An important meeting of the rifle club was held Wednesday, Jan. 20. At the meeting it was decided to hold an interclass meet during the week of Feb. 20. Five men will be selected from each class to shoot for the honors.

The freshman rifle team has been scheduled for a match with the Bangor High team, which has defeated several college in the past few weeks. The ten freshmen with the highest averages will be selected for the matches.

In last week's matches, the varsity lost to Connecticut Aggies by a score of 3674 to 3327. Results of the Michigan State match have not been announced as yet.

M. C. A. NOTES

Lay L. Long, traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, addressed the cabinets of the Y.W.C.A. and the M.C.A. Thursday evening, Jan. 21. Mr. Long discussed the opportunities for foreign service in the mission field. He also met individual students who are interested in mission work as a vocation.

Mr. Long is a graduate of Oklahoma University in the class of 1925. While in college he was leader of the Student Volunteer Group, and a member of the National Student Volunteer Council. During the past summer he was a member of the Summer College Service Group, New York City.

Mrs. Beatrice Kitchen, a National Traveling Students' Secretary in the Maqua and Eagles Meded Division gave an interesting talk at Y. W. meeting last Wednesday evening. Her talk concerned college problems and she declared that there is much harm done by the great diversity of interests on a college campus. It tends to make the student self-centered, she believes, and not excel in any one particular way. Fraternities, although they promote a sense of loyalty, give rise to an attitude of dissatisfaction and contention which Mrs. Kitchen thinks is an unChristianlike attitude.

The Chi Omega gave a tea at the Mount Vernon house Saturday, January 23 from three to five o'clock, for their patronesses, Mrs. Raymond Walkley, Mrs. E. W. Davies, Mrs. George E. Simmons, and a few invited guests. Refreshments of ice-cream, fancy cookies, coffee, candy and nuts were served.

"Our pioneering work has just begun"

RECENTLY some one said to a prominent official of the Bell System:

"Your pioneering work is done. You have created a system that makes a neighborhood of the nation."

The executive replied:

"Our pioneering work has just begun. Each day brings new problems, new discoveries, new developments, all calling for broader-visioned handling on a larger scale than ever before. If I were a young man again in years, I would choose the telephone business for my life work even more quickly than I did before."

Relay Team Meets Eagles in K. of C. Games at Boston

annual race at the American Legion games at Portland early in February. This race has always been one of the big features of the Portland meet and this year should prove no exception. Although the time trials this year are being run under new conditions in the newly opened indoor field and the runners have not yet become entirely accustomed to the new track, Coach Kanaly believes that both his one and two mile relay teams will be faster than those which wore the Blue last year.

made less intensive?

5. What do you think of the value of the evening exercises?

6. What brief suggestion (if any) would you make as to how Freshman Week may be improved?

The questions which the seniors will be asked to reply to are the following:
1. Do you think that you would have been better prepared for college life if you had had the experience of Freshman Week at the beginning of your curriculum?

2. What features of Freshman Week seem to you to be of the most value?

to his credit. Bryant, the other regular who started the game, did not do any scoring, but put up a strong defensive game, being pitted against the Fifth's strongest player, Howell, who was able to score but once. Brice rushed in his entire second team before the end of the encounter.

The playing of the two centers, Beatty of Maine and our friend Vermette, who cavorted for the enemy, was the big feature of the evening's entertainment. Beatty has recently had a new set of monkey glands installed and his playing has improved to elephantine proportions. Vermette, of R.O.T.C. fame, couldn't miss the basket and proved to be one of the main cogs in the Fifth offensive, even as was the rather ponderous Capt. Stowell, who found it difficult to keep track of "Archie" Kamenkovitz, who is not so built that he might be mistaken for Zybysko.

Phi Gamma Delta Smoker

About fifty members of the faculty were present at the annual Faculty Smoker given by the members of Omega Mu Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta at the chapter house last Wednesday night. Smokes and eats were served and card games and various other forms of entertainment were in order, the spirit of camaraderie and good fellowship between the "profs" and their hosts being predominant.
