Maine Welcomes Five Men and Women of 1932 To Campus

Varsity Football Team Is Working
Hard Under Coaches Brice and Quinn
For Rhode Island Game Saturday

Wet Weather Prevents Squad From Having Regular Outdoor Practice But Despite This Handicap
A Powerful Eleven Is Being Rounded Into Shape

Development of Punters Is Big Problem

With eight letter men back to the Maine Varsity promises to have a big season this fall. There are many good men in the lacking positions to pull the men for their jobs. Coach Brice and Line Coach Quinn have been working about 25 men for two weeks in readiness for their first game on Saturday against Rhode Island. The bad weather has hindered the work and much of the time has been spent in the indoor field. However, with their new methods of work the team will quickly be in top shape. At that time enough weather should be available to allow the full squad to work.

Frank Kanaly Accepts Coaching Post at Yale

Frank Kanaly, track relay and cross country coach at the University for the past six years, resigned last week to accept a coaching position at Yale.

On his staff at Yale will be his former assistant, Chester A. Jenkins, now in charge of track at Amherst College.

Jenkins also accepts

Former Bates Mentor Succeeds Frank Kanaly; Has Impressive Record

Although the University of Maine has a wonderful track coach in Frank Kanaly, the school has decided to hire a man more experienced than Kanaly was in the business.

Jenkins has been coach at Amherst College for the past five years as well as having been for two years before that at Bates College.

Jenkins was born in Orono, Me. and attended the University of Maine for four years, after which he taught for a year in a high school in Maine. He then went to the University of Maine for the Bachelor of Science degree in 1909 and has been the athletics department head ever since.

He first taught science at Bates College, from 1910 to 1914 as well as the mathematics department. He then went to the University of Maine for the Bachelor of Science degree in 1909 and has been the athletics department head ever since.

He has developed many fine runners on the squad, and he is expected to have a powerful 1932 eleven.

Many Fast Runners Are Candidates For Cross-Country Team

MacLaughlin, Richardson and Lists Well For Cross-Country

With Captain MacLaughlin, Richardson and Lists the three lowest scorers in last year's cross-country team, the prospects for another championship cross-country team must seem promising.

Last year Maine had one of the strongest cross-country teams in the nation. First in the Maine Intercollegiates, first in the New England championships and first in the U. A. C. meet was certainly an enviable record. In the Maine Intercollegiates, Maine scored an overwhelming victory, with a margin of 16 against the likes of 44 and 40 and Columbia.

Freshmen Have Fun In Nightshirt Parade

The annual nightshirt parade was held Monday night of this week. An approximately 750 groups of freshmen began at the front of Huntington Hall. Here and further parades that had been planned for during the entire week only left their cuirass on the floor of the main floor instead of parading—and on that part of the automation which is least exact for parade. The formation of the formation process was not entirely impractical. One yard the name of the new class had been equipped with a shuck of pinks and ticks to fit the form of a pillow, but his face was down in an end when one paraded leader

Hockey Squad Making Progress Despite Rain

On Monday the Maine Campus made the field mark and slippery, the acutely hockey team and its fans were deeply disappointed. However, the boys have been very hard at work, and although they have not been able to hold down the position of last year, they are making good progress.

The team, which is under the guidance of Coach Longfellow with the assistance of John W. Allen and W. E. Jeter, has been drilling hard and has been taking its practice and work very seriously. The boys are determined to have a much better season than last year, and they are making steady progress towards that end.

Hockey Notes

The boys don't catch the hares, but everyone seemed to have a good time at the annual Harr and Round Checker game last Saturday by the Y.M.C.A. of the town.
