Eight High Schools To Battle For Maine Interscholastic Hoop Trophy

Houlton and Eastport Open Card Friday Morning; Finals Saturday Afternoon; Interfrat Boxing Finals Feature Of Saturday Afternoon

The ninth annual University of Maine Inter-scholastic Basketball Tournament will be held at the Indoor Field tomorrow and Saturday. Eight strong teams will be competing for the Harmon Cup. Houlton High School appears to have the strongest team, having been undefeated this season and numbering among their thirteen straight victories, one over the University of Maine freshman team. Old Town High has lost only to Newport High School, over whom they also have a victory. Old Town has won ten games.

Northeast Harbor has a strong team. They have won fifteen games and lost only two, those being to Farmington Normal and Castine Normal. They are the Hancock County representatives.

Fort Fairfield has a record of twelve victories and three defeats. Two of these defeats have been suffered at the hands of Houlton.

Gardiner High has won seven and lost three games. Dexter has won nine and lost two. Eastport is undefeated, having won nine straight games.

Thursday night, in the Indoor Field, Brownville Junction, which has won eight and lost two, will play Brooks High.

Maine Sextet Victors Over Conn. Aggies

The Girls' Varsity Basketball Team wound up the season last Saturday evening in the Alumni Gym with a 41-24 victory over the Connecticut Aggies.

Madeline Hussey was able to again show her ability in shooting. Goldie Modes, as side-center, was especially good at intercepting the Conn. Lassies' passes.

Director Lengyel played the whole squad in the game. During the last few minutes of the game the six seniors were put in, to finish their last game. These girls started as Freshmen and have played together for four years. They are Mary Robinson, Caroline Collins, Beulah Kneeland, Madeline Hussey, Ruth Greenlaw, and Helen Moore.

Captain Collins stated that the varsity played its best game this season.

The costumes of the Conn. Aggie girls were different when contrasted with those of the Maine girls. In spite of the one-sidedness of the game it was interesting to watch.

Varsity Debating Team Returns From Trip

The varsity debating team of the University of Maine, taking the negative side of the question: Resolved that the Jury System should be abolished, debated against New Hampshire State University, Rhode Island State College, and Boston University on its recent trip.

The debate with New Hampshire was held along the American style with ten minute constructive presentation and five minutes in refutation. A good-sized audience attended this discussion which was of the no decision variety through the desire of New Hampshire.

At Rhode Island the Oxford style of debate was employed with fifteen-minute constructive presentation and rebuttal by one member of the affirmative (Rhode Island) alone. This debate was held in the recently completed Edwards Hall—the Rhode Island Chapel and was well attended. The judges awarded the decision to Maine at the finish of the debate which was closely contested throughout.

Maine met Boston University at Somerville High School auditorium in Somerville before an audience of several hundred. Boston U. was represented by an all veteran team—two members being students of the school of law of that institution. The judges awarded the decision to B. U. This debate as the one with New Hampshire was along the American plan.

Intra-mural Hoop Cup Won By Beta Theta Pi

Beta Theta Pi nosed out Phi Eta Kappa Tuesday night 32-21 for the Intra-Mural Basketball championship. The game was a fast one thruout, altho Beta held the edge thru the game. Beta started the contest with a bang and ran away from Phi Eta in the first eight minutes of play, scoring eight points. Whitten retaliated for Phi Eta in the last of the quarter by dropping in a long field goal which ended the quarter 8-2.

Phi Eta was unable to cut down Beta's edge in the second quarter and the former held the lead to the end of the half with a margin of 16-6. Phi Eta could not seem to find the hoop, while Higgins and Kinney dropped in long shots from midfield and the corners, keeping Beta well in the foreground.

In the third quarter Phi Eta cut down the Beta lead to a 26-18 tally for the third period, and started going strong, outplaying Beta for the remainder of the game. Lancaster was shifted to center for Phi Eta, and Sweetser shifted to back. Fickett of Beta, Kenyon's freshman back, broke loose for Beta, dropping in seven goals almost in succession. Whitten and Hartley of Phi Eta paired up in a speedy demonstration in which Whitten displayed floorwork equalled on the campus only by Lamb of Beta and drove snappy passes to Hartley, who scored for Phi Eta.

Fickett was high man of the mixup with sixteen points, and Higgins and Hartley tied for second with ten points each. This final game gives Beta Theta Pi the Intra-Mural Basketball Championship of the campus and the Intra-Mural Trophy Cup, and awards to Phi Eta the second place Trophy cup. This is the second consecutive year that Beta has won this cup.

Boxing Prelims and Semi-Finals Fought

The preliminary bouts and semi-finals in the Intra-Mural Boxing League were staged Monday and Tuesday and the finals will be held Saturday P.M. before the Inter-scholastic Basketball finals. Keen interest was shown in this sport and a large crowd of students and outsiders attended the bouts. All were well pleased with the decisions of the judges and with the type of boxing that was carried on. In the prelims there was a fast bout between "Ed" Buzzell of Phi Kappa Sigma and "Bob" Feeley of Orono in which the boxers fought to a draw and in which Buzzell won the decision in the overtime round.

Prelims (120-140 lb. class):

Kirby Page Will Visit Maine Campus Monday

On March 18th and 19th, next Monday and Tuesday, Kirby Page, author, editor, clergyman, and lecturer, will be on the Maine campus. The Maine Christian Association has succeeded in arranging this unusual opportunity for all students of the University. Mr. Page will be on the campus for these two days to deliver four addresses, to attend certain history and economic classes, and to meet informal groups in the M.C.A. Building.

Kirby Page is America's outstanding lecturer on Peace and International Relations. He is a world traveler, having crossed the ocean fourteen times and visited some thirty countries of Europe. He has interviewed many notable leaders in countries—prime ministers, cabinet members, jurists, educators, industrialists, clergymen, and editors. Mr. Page has studied economic, political, educational, and religious problems in many lands.

In our country this man has spoken before influential audiences of more than two hundred colleges. He is at present editor of the World Tomorrow, a journal published in New York City "looking towards a social order based on the religion of Jesus". From a collegiate viewpoint it is interesting to know that Kirby Page is a graduate of Drake University, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, former inter-collegiate tennis champion of Iowa, and a varsity basketball player.

The Administrative Board of the University has granted two forty-minute assemblies as opportunities for all the students to hear the messages that Mr. Page will bring in his four addresses: International Relations, Industrial Relations, Race Relations, Essential Christianity.

In addition to this work the speaker will be the guest of honor at a faculty tea on Monday at 5 P.M. in the M.C.A. Building.

FRESHMAN GIRLS DEFEAT BREWER

The Maine freshman girls' basketball team chalked up another win last Saturday night in Alumni Gym when they defeated Brewer High 24 to 15. Most of the time Maine's basket was not dangerously threatened.

This game winds up an undefeated season for the Frosh, of which they are justly proud.

Rising Night, the end of freshman rules and regulations, will be held next Wednesday night at 6:30. The members of the freshman and sophomore classes will gather in the field in front of Balentine Hall for a rope-pull. The Senior Skulls will be in charge of the exhibition and the class scrap will not begin until both sides are properly lined up and the opening signal is given.

In past years it has been customary to hold the rope-pull on the bank of the Stillwater or in a brook behind the Phi Gamma Delta house, but due to the placing ahead of Rising Night to a much earlier date than usual, it has been found necessary to have the rope-pull in the snow or mud in Balentine Field, since the river is now frozen.

Rising Night is one of the oldest traditions of the University, and failure of either freshmen or sophomores to participate in the frolics is considered a serious breach of tradition. It is the time for the first-year men to avenge all the misery and abuse they have been compelled to accept from the second-year students, and for the latter to attempt to prevent the success of any showing of superior group power.

The Bangor High school Oracle won first place in the periodical class; the Cony Cue of Cony High, Augusta, took second place; the North Star of Houlton High was awarded third honors. Honorable mention was given to the Margarette of (Continued on Page Two)

Dr. Draper Publishes Broadside Elegies

"A Century of Broadside Elegies: being 90 English and 10 Scotch broadsides illustrating the biography and manners of the seventeenth century," the collection recently compiled by Dr. John W. Draper, professor of English at the University of Maine, and published in London by Ingpen and Grant, presents photographic reproductions of literary material representative of a civilization which is past, yet which influences American life today through the remnants of the emotionalism which occasioned the elegies. The broadside funeral elegy, says a reviewer in the London Sunday Times, was a type almost if not entirely confined to England geographically, and chronologically to the period between the reign of Elizabeth and the commencement of the Hanoverian dynasty.

"How many of these curious and interesting productions may have seen the light during the time of their popularity," the review continues, "it is impossible to say. Mr. Draper is aware of the existence of some three hundred, of which one third are contained in this volume."

"The publishers have accomplished their share of this production to admiration. In excellence of paper, typography, and binding, this volume is as fine a piece of work as has been produced in recent years."

Explaining the content of the volume, The Glasgow Herald says that "the death of an eminent or a notorious person was almost certain during the seventeenth century, to be celebrated in a number of broadside elegies, which were doubtless sold at the funeral and in many cases affixed to the hearse. These pieces were written largely for middle class readers, and constitute a vivid reflection of the (Continued on Page Three)

THE BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Altho the preparatory school teams which have in the past exhibited the best brand of basketball at the annual tournaments are not to participate in the contests this week-end, there will be, without doubt, several first-class demonstrations by the high school quintets. It is a pity that so many instructors of the University have found it necessary to compel their classes to participate in mid-semester examinations while such a popular diversion is on the campus. However, education must come before athletics, if we believe what we are told.

The boys who will take part in the games of the tournament may be coming to the University for the first time. They probably have read of the great Maine football and cross-country teams, and upon seeing the Indoor Field they will feel that we have something here to offer them along athletic lines at least. Altho no college or university likes to admit openly that it is especially anxious to induce athletes to attend, it is generally realized that this is the case. Many of the boys will decide to attend the University of Maine because of its athletic facilities. It would be well for us to explain to these boys not only what advantages Maine offers athletically but also educationally. Make them feel at home and show them that our university can give them the higher education they desire.

RISING NIGHT

The class of 1932, next Wednesday night, will throw off the fetters which have prevented it from enjoying complete freedom of action since entering the University. Rising Night is one of the biggest occurrences of a student's four years on the campus, one which he will long remember. There are several kinds of relief which the Maine man discovers: the relief which vacation brings, the relief which follows a week of examinations, the relief of knowing that he will be graduated with his class, and others, but none of these can be compared with the relief he feels when he learns that he may talk to a girl, smoke a cigarette, and wear gaudy golf-hose without fear of the wrath of his more advanced brothers. This is freedom.

The Rising Night activities center about the rope pull and the individual scraps. It might be well to remind the contestants that it is possible to hurt a man's feelings without causing serious bodily injury. The customary "ducking" is known to have made many men feel sorry for their past actions.

In another column we are publishing a letter from the manager of the Strand Theater of Orono. We suggest that the members of the two celebrating classes show their appreciation of this offer of a free show by refraining from storming the doors of the theater before the first show is finished. Last year considerable damage was suffered at the theater on Rising Night and the University students were subject to criticism for their actions. The mob spirit should not be carried too far.

THOSE LAST FEW WORDS

Many students of the University are being called down by instructors for tardiness in arriving at classes on Monday mornings, when shortened hours are in order because of the weekly chapel exercises. In many cases this criticism is unjust, because their failure to reach class on time is often caused by the negligence of other instructors.

The bell system which the University uses to warn classes is becoming inadequate as new buildings are being constructed upon the campus quite a distance from Wingate Hall. Classes in the Armory and in the agricultural buildings find it difficult to hear the bell, and the class is therefore stopped when the professor or instructor happens to look at his watch. Many times the instructor holds the class so long that the members are late in reaching their next destination. The criticism of the student's tardiness follows, and such criticisms have been known to cause lower grades. This is one example of poor management. The second example is that of the professor who hears the bell but who has a few more paragraphs which he must give to his students before he dismisses the class. We have no sympathy for this man. A class is supposed to stop when the bell rings and the instructor who keeps his class after the hour is up should receive the criticism which is now being heaped upon the student.

There is one professor at the University who makes a practice of keeping all his classes several minutes after the bell rings. The class to which he lectures just before dinner is usually ten minutes late in getting out. Yet what can the students do? It is not safe to criticize the professor; he might be angry and lower one's grade. The student cannot leave the room before the class is dismissed, because that might incur the displeasure of the professor, too.

On behalf of the students of the University the Campus is asking members of the faculty to watch the watch, to heed the bell, and to prepare their lectures in such a manner that the least important part comes last.

WE PASS ON

With this issue another Campus board passes on. Little change

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor of the Campus

Dear Sir:

It is customary for the management of the Strand Theater to invite the members of the freshman and sophomore classes to attend the second performance at the theater on Rising Night, free of charge. Thru your columns I wish to extend an invitation to the members of the classes of 1931 and 1932 to attend the second performance next Wednesday evening without charge. In order to allow those who participate in the rope-pull to attend the second performance without waiting until 8:30 o'clock, the first show will start at 6:30 and the second at 8:00 o'clock.

Sincerely yours,
A. L. Goldsmith,
Mgr. Strand Theater, Orono

1932 GIRLS TO BOSS SOPHOMORES NEXT WED.

Wednesday the fourth hour, cuts were given to all women students in order that they might attend the Student Government meeting which was compulsory. This meeting was the third one of a series of four which are given at various times throughout the year.

Mary Robinson spoke on the Rising Night exercises to be held this year. The freshmen were, at first, in favor of having fights, but the upperclass girls showed them that the fights are too expensive, that they are not all fun, and in previous years hard feelings among the girls have resulted. In place of the fights it has been decided to have a huge bonfire somewhere on the campus a week from Wednesday night. All during the day the sophomores will be under freshman ruling and will have to wear freshman caps. A big freshman paper cap will be made and carried through the fire by means of two poles. The girls are going to try establishing the new method this year, instead of the former fights. The juniors and seniors are not to take any part in the exercises at all.

Dr. Ashley Smith spoke on Womanhood, and the woman's duty in the world. After the meeting each class got together and nominated a committee to nominate Student Government officers for the coming year.

MAINE PROFESSORS AT EDUCATION CONFERENCE

Dr. Lutes and Dr. Ava Chadbourne of the Department of Education recently attended a National Educational Convention at Cincinnati. While at the convention they attended meetings of the National Society of College Teachers of Education. This society holds its meetings in the form of interest groups on various subjects. In the group on the History of Education a committee of twenty reported on the textbooks on the History of Education available in regard to their respective states. Miss Chadbourne reported for the State of Maine. In this meeting it was discovered that only eight states had adequate material for the study of Education in their territory. The society has planned a series of year-books dealing with the problems of college education. Next year the subject will be "Tests and Measurements in College Education."

Dr. Lutes also attended a series of meetings of the heads of departments and Deans of Education in land grant colleges. At these meetings the problems of professional training of teachers in land grant institutions was discussed.

On his return trip Dr. Lutes joined Ermo Scott in Cleveland, and they attended a banquet of Kappa Phi Kappa, national education fraternity.

will be made in the personnel of the editorial and business staff; the seniors say goodbye to University of Maine journalism, the members of the other classes are promoted or continue in the same positions they have held this year. It is the ever-present progress which characterizes life.

We feel that it is unnecessary for us to give the usual summary of accomplishments of which outgoing boards usually boast. Our readers have worked hard to improve journalism and campus activities; we are the judges of our success. We realize that we have made enemies; we trust that we have made friends for the Campus and the work connected with it.

The new board is faced with a difficult task. It is a real job to publish the Maine Campus, to find and arrange the news, to secure advertising, and to circulate the papers every week under the conditions now present. It is hard to please all the readers; the faculty likes book reviews and faculty news; the students like athletics and jokes. What one group likes the other does not care for. The new board will make changes and improvements in the work of the retiring staff. New ideas come after every change.

We believe that the incoming board is capable, interested and eager to succeed. It has the largest group of reporters and candidates for reporters that has worked on the Campus in many years. At times the skies will be dark for the editors, and it is then that the interest of this group will decide between success and failure. We wish them success and good luck.

To our readers we wish to say that it has been their interest in our work, their criticism, their correspondence, and their willingness to cooperate with us that have made our struggles pleasant. We hope that this interest will continue because without it no board will give the best it is capable of producing.

BANGOR COMMERCIAL PRAISES HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS

The Bangor Commercial of March 9 published the following editorial entitled: "Young Journalists":

"This week-end has witnessed the annual meeting of the boys and girls who lead in the editing and publication of the publications at the schools and academies of the state, these sessions being held under the auspices of the journalistic fraternity at the University of Maine and with the assistance of the college authorities, just as such assistance is extended invariably to all worthwhile objects where aid comes within the scope of state university endeavor.

"While school news is generally dominated by athletics on such occasions as this one finds that there are other real activities in Maine secondary schools outside of sports and the prescribed courses, or we should say study and sports, for the educational ought to precede the recreational even if it does not always follow that order in the minds of the pupils.

The school publications are really meritorious and represent intelligent and hard work on the part of the scanty minority who give their attention to this method of diversification of effort. Probably but a very small proportion of the boys and girls who interest themselves in school journalism will continue newspaper endeavor after their school days but nevertheless they will have gained for they will have improved their handling of the language, have advanced their learning and fitted themselves for such writing as they may be called upon to do in their future lives.

A generation ago and previously most of us improved our readiness with the pen through letter writing but except for the elders the writing of long and carefully composed letters is about as extinct as the dodo and with no substitute. With the radio and the motor car and the pictures what time is left for letter writing?"

NOTICE

At a meeting of the Committee on Athletics this afternoon it was voted that

"This committee goes on record as refusing permission to any University of Maine student playing in any basketball game off the campus other than in a scheduled contest approved by the University of Maine Committee on Athletics."

PHI KAU DELTA ON STUDENT SENATE

At the last meeting of Phi Mu Delta the following opinion on the Student Senate was registered:

1. Membership:
  - (a) Juniors and seniors only.
  - (b) Off-campus representatives: one for every 20 men and 20 women—The selection to be approved by remainder of senate.
  - (c) Use pass card system with delegate choosing own alternate.
2. Interest—Leave this to the Senate.
3. (a) A twenty-five assessment for each student.
  - (b) No, not financially but by sending their best man as a delegate.
  - (c) The administration should give partial support.
4. One vote for every 40 women, with the President ordered to recognize the right of suffrage. The present women's governing body seems to handle their questions without the need of a Student Senate interfering.
5. Social fraternities without houses should rate equal with the other fraternities on the campus.
6. Pins and shingles.
  - (a) Let the Senate handle this matter.
  - (b) Members should pay for pin if they desire one. Senate should pay for the shingle.
7. Necessary as a link between student opinion and the administration policies. By no means a dictator.

STOCK JUDGING PAVILION IS PADLOCKED

Among the secluded buildings on the campus is found the Stock Judging Pavilion, an octagonal structure directly behind Winslow Hall. The catalog of the University states that it has a seating capacity of 600. It is used, in the daytime, by the agricultural students for the examination of cows and for practice sessions in cow-calling, and it has been used, in the evening, during the last few months, for the social work of many amorous and love-lorn couples, composed of Balentine's fairest and their swains. In fact it has almost taken the tie for first honors for popularity as a gathering place. "Diogenes" has seen queer sights and heard queer noises in the vicinity of the building all this time, but, fearing ghosts has kept away while on his evening inspection trips.

The College of Agriculture is making extensive plans for the Farm and Home Week. Everything is being cleaned up to impress the visitors from rural districts. The Pavilion was included in the buildings to be swept and dusted. And what a job it was to clean it! 4723 hair-pins, etc., were found on the floor. Fifteen of these were kindly sent to the editor of the Campus by a professor in the department of agriculture with the following note, "The enclosed what you call them were found by the janitor of the Pavilion." This note was a kind invitation for a story, but the only satisfaction to be derived in interviews with agricultural professors was that "the incident is closed; so is the door."

Freshman battery candidates shall report to Coach Kenyon at the Indoor Field Monday, March 18, at 4:00 P.M.

The members of Delta Delta Delta gave a sleighride for their freshman pledges last Sunday afternoon. Starting from Balentine about two o'clock the gay party made straight for Pushaw pond and a hot supper. Their ride home ended at about ten o'clock that night.

Machias High. Thirty-two delegates representing fourteen schools in all parts of the state gathered on the campus, and an interesting program, arranged by Donald H. Small '29, vice-president of Kappa Gamma Phi, kept them busy Friday and Saturday. On Friday morning the conference was opened by speeches of welcome by George F. Mahoney, President of Kappa Gamma Phi, and by Dean James S. Stevens on behalf of the University. Dean Stevens stated that the journalistic conference delegates are among the most desirous groups which come to the University, and expressed the hope that many of them would be able to come as students next year. George F. Mahoney, editor of the Campus, described journalism at the University and analyzed the type of news used in the Campus. Horton Flynn, editor of the 1930 Prism, described the year book published annually by the junior class of the University. Following these talks a discussion by the delegates took place.

Mr. Frederick G. Fasset, Jr., and Mr. W. R. Whitney, instructors in the English department, addressed the delegates in the afternoon, the former explaining the work of the newspaperman of today, and the latter the trials and tribulations of a magazine writer. Both men have had considerable experience in the field of work which they described, and their talks were of great interest to the delegates.

A banquet was served in the Alumni Hall Gym Friday evening with Prof. Charles P. Weston as toastmaster. The speakers were Oliver L. Hall of the Bangor Commercial and H. J. R. Tewksbury of the Portland Sunday Telegram. Mr. Hall relating many humorous incidents which had occurred during his long career as a newspaperman, and Mr. Tewksbury tracing the development of the newspaper in the last 75 years. Philip Ordway of Bangor High expressed the appreciation of the delegates to those who conducted the conference and to University officials.

The awards for the best newspapers, year books, and periodicals were made Saturday morning by George Mahoney. He explained the opinions of the judges, pointed out the strong and weak points in the publications, and complimented the youthful editors on their excellent work. The three first-place winners will receive banners. Following the announcement of prizes the delegates journeyed to Bangor and inspected the newspaper plant of the Bangor Daily Commercial.

The following schools were represented at the conference: Edward Little High, Auburn; Stephens High, Rumford; Washington State Normal School; Hampden Academy; Caribou High; Portland High; Machias High; So. Portland High; Newport High; Deering High; Cony High, Augusta; Old Town High.

Kappa Gamma Phi is an honorary fraternity composed of those men who are prominent in newspaper and literary work at the University.

Read 'Em And Weep

The now-famous cow-calling contest scheduled for Farm Week (spring vacation) is gaining interest by leaps and bounds, especially among the faculty.

A vagabond making the rounds of the various professorial houses, will find a rift in the customary tranquility from the staidness and domesticity.

The University Inn inmates hold nightly practice, and such a conglomeration of eerie noises and squeals! One might think piggy wiggly was in the back-ground.

Careful eavesdropping at the probable expense of imminent low grades as a retaliation found a few choice expressions, such as:

Zaidee Green: "Pedigreed, pedigreed, why do you balk?"

Wood: "Oh! You ruminative quadruped! Come to Dithy Dick!"

Garland: "Hence, hence, little cowlet." Kueny: "Venez icy, cow."

Mark Bailey: "Tweet, tweet, dear bossey."

Silverman: "Will you cows please arrange yourselves consecutively (at the board) beginning with Mr. Bull."

Sgt. Donchecz: "Come, cow, the army needs beef."

The shades of night were falling fast, When speeding thru a puddle passed A car that threw both snow and mud On a fair co-ed—a blooming bud,— It's—ell—for—her!

One society which it is unhealthy to be a member of on Rising Night is that of the Sophomore Owls. We wish them luck and advise them to take the 6:10 car from the campus.

If you wish to hear a dumb story get Wasgatt, O'Connor, or Ankeles to tell about the debate in New York. The babes from the woods got lost in the city.

The hairpins which were sent to the editor of the Campus will be left at the book store for identification. See Prof. Gardiner for the etc.

Last Friday Prof. Levinson was to give his philosophy class a mid-semester at 8 A.M. At 8:08 he came dashing into the Arts building, breathlessly thanked the class for their courtesy in waiting for him, and explained his tardiness by saying that he "had just been having a philosophical argument with my Ford on the theory of motion."

It is feared that the new padlock on the Judging Pavilion will put an end to the nocturnal appraisals of—calves(?).

"Eleanor Dear, will you meet me, Tonight by the sycamore tree? For I have a sweet story to tell you. Please do—yours faithfully."

So coy little Eleanor ventured out, (She forgot to sign out, too!) And while soft winds blew And the stars pecked thru, The demure little Phi Mu sophomore, Pledged up to Sigma Nu.

Now David Barker is a wise, wise boy, For brains he'll never lack, Yet it cost Dave a diamond ring, To get his frat pin back.

While Jackie Coffin is much more shy, She eyes you innocently, "Oh, no, we're not engaged, for look— It's a sister pin, you see."

Prof. Kent has given the Campus a scoop on the selection of the student officials for the basketball tournament. They are:

Ticket sellers—Mike Coltart, Spec Hale; ticket takers—John Lynch, Bill Wells; head usher—Bucky Berenson; section ushers—Jim Buzzell, Emerson Stymiest; program vendor, Charles Hardy.

Mr. Coltart will be recognized by his size, Mr. Hale by his intelligent looks, Mr. Lynch by his snoring, Mr. Wells by his haircut, Mr. Berenson by his gentlemanly manner, Mr. Buzzell by his powerful muscle, Mr. Stymiest by his bashfulness, and Mr. Hardy by his musical voice.

MAINE FROSH GIRLS DEFEAT BANGOR

Last Wednesday night in the Bangor high school gymnasium the Maine freshman girls basketball team defeated the Bangor team by the close margin of 33-32. It was an interesting game, although the Frosh did not really get going until the second quarter. During the last minute of play Bangor secured two baskets which helped somewhat to even up the scores.

There were quite a few Maine supporters in attendance. All the players entered more thoroughly into the spirit of the game than before. This was the first time in basketball history that the Maine freshmen have twice consecutively defeated the Bangor varsity.

Edith Miller at jump center played a fine game. "Stubby" Burrill, the captain, shone as usual, and the work of both guards and forwards was admirable.

Ice in River Sends Rising Night to Balentine Field

The class of 1931 has the distinction of being one of the few sophomore classes to have won the Bag Scrap in the fall. It has a reputation to hold up, therefore, and the class of 1932 has a reputation to establish.

If there is much snow on the ground on next Wednesday night there will probably be a snow wall built, thru which one class will endeavor to pull the other by means of the rope. In case there is no snow the pull will be staged over one of the numerous lakes which are found in the field on balmy days. A high grade of mud will be found, also.

It has been rumored that the freshman girls are planning to have a huge bonfire to celebrate the occasion. If this plan is carried out it will add much to the evening's fun, and if successful may become a part of the annual festivities.

Any changes in plans for Rising Night will be posted next week in Alumni Hall.

COLLEGE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE SUCCESS

The Maine Economic Conference was held in Augusta last Friday and Saturday. There were twelve delegates from each of the four Maine colleges and many professors.

The idea was to bring groups of college men together to discuss the opportunities in Maine for Maine men and women. According to Professor Chadbourne this conference is valuable not only to those delegates who attended but all college graduates. In his opinion this conference will have succeeded if it succeeds in putting across to men and women in this state their opportunities for work.

One of the most interesting phases of the conference was the statement of the views on recreation by the U. of M. committee, stated in last week's Campus.

This conference was the first of its kind to be held in any state. Among the prominent speakers were: Gov. Wm. Tudor Gardiner; Henry O'Malley, N. S. Commissioner of Fisheries; Geo. Han-nauer, pres. of Boston and Maine R.R.; Dean Leon S. Merrill; L. G. Treadway, president of the N. E. Hotel Assn.; Clarence C. Stetson, chairman of the Maine Development Commission, and Walter S. Wyman, president of the Central Maine Power Company.

middle class puritanism of the period. Many are panegyrics; some, satires and parodies. Most have political and biographical interest; and a number make readable poetry even to the modern ear. Some of the subjects, such as Rogers, Pym, Lord Brooke and Lord Shaftesbury, have, for one reason or another, a special American interest.

"The student and the subject will find a wealth of material to work upon the abundant data on which to found conclusions. He will be aided by Professor Draper's historical introduction, which deals adequately with the history of broadsides from the time of Elizabeth to James in itself and in its relation to the literary movement."

Prof. Herbert S. Hill has been in Washington, D. C. on business this week.

VARSITY BASKETBALL SEASON CLOSED

The varsity basketball squad completed its schedule last week in the final game with New Hampshire State at Durham in which New Hampshire was the winner 33-24. New Hampshire has a fast team which has been going well, winning their last seven games, and the Maine varsity resorted to a defensive game.

New Hampshire played a strong offensive game and made use of the five man defense. The Maine team scored little during the first half; only one point was scored by them during the first quarter when Emerson dropped in a foul shot. Maine woke up in the second quarter and played a strong defensive game, holding New Hampshire down, and the half terminated 12-7.

Brice's charges rallied in the last half, endeavoring to break away from their tight opposition. Emerson played a strong defensive game at back for Maine, while Packard led the offensive. New Hampshire had too much of a lead to cut down, however, and Maine battled until the final whistle trying to bring up their tally, but in vain.

Capt. Gaunt of New Hampshire and Small tied for high honors with eleven points each and Packard was the scoring ace for the Maine varsity with eight points.

Summary:

Maine: Kent, rf, (1); Hebert, rf, 1, (1); O'Loughlin, lf; Packard, lf, 4; Sylvester, c, 2; McCann, lg, 2, (1); Emerson, rg, 1 (1).

YOUNGER COLLEGE MEN ON RECENT WESTINGHOUSE JOBS

The Duke Power Company Turbine-Generators

Where do young college men get in a large industrial organization? Have they opportunity to exercise creative talent? Is individual work recognized?

THE largest steam-turbine generator units to be installed south of the Mason-Dixon line are now being built for one of the most unusual organizations of its kind in the world. The Duke Power Company is famous for the efficiency of its power plants—and for the fact that its operating profits are distributed largely to charity.

At a horseshoe bend in the Catawba River in the heart of the Piedmont Carolinas the Duke Power Company is building a generating plant which, if present plans are carried out, will be the largest of its kind in the southeastern United States. The ultimate capacity will probably be 600,000 horsepower. The first two units, which Westinghouse is now building, each are to have a generating capacity of 55,000 kilowatts. They will develop 150,000 horsepower.

By operating at practically full capacity during the entire 24 hours of the day, letting the company's hydro-electric plants handle variations in the quantity of power required, the new units will furnish the means to reduce current costs to a minimum.

The large jobs go to large organizations. Westinghouse holds a strong appeal for young men of enterprise and genius because it almost daily provides contacts with outstanding developments in the electrical field.
