Frosh May Be Pledged Next Year After Easter

University Trustees Amend Previous Ruling Regarding the Pledging of Freshmen

Houses will be allowed to pledge men immediately after the Easter recess next year according to a vote of the trustees of the University at a meeting held April 25.

The vote taken was as follows: At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held April 25, 1929, the following vote was taken:

"Voted that the action taken April 7, 1927 regarding fraternity pledging be amended in the last paragraph so that this paragraph shall read:

Fourth, that beginning with the spring of 1931 we be allowed to pledge freshmen after the Easter recess with the understanding that the pledges shall not be initiated nor allowed to live in the fraternity houses until the beginning of their second year at the University."

This action is the result of much discussion of pledging rules on the campus, and also the action taken by the Interfraternity Council which presented a petition to the Board of Administration asking for a change in the pledging rules.

April Issue of Maine-Spring Interesting

The Maine-Spring appeared Monday with its stories rather better written, and more interesting than usual. This issue should be of great interest to students and faculty, as much discussion has been going on whether or not to have a Commencement issue.

Look for "Advice to Ill-starred Singers," "Fisherman's Luck," "Chicken Thieves," and "In Defense of Cheaters" for plenty of chuckles and laughs; for more serious reading, turn to "Son," "Princess," and "Enemy." Lovers of poetry will find enjoyment in "My Lady of the Mists," "Reverie," and "Night." There is something for every taste in what represents the editorial board hopes, the finest literary efforts of the University.

The new editors desire the frank opinion of the students on the success of their first venture. It is by comment and criticism that the magazine grows. Remember, however, that there is another issue coming soon, and no magazine can exist without contributions. If you would have the Maine-Spring represent the best that Maine can produce in a literary way, buy it, criticize it, and contribute to it.

Freshman Tracksters Smother Deering High

The Maine Frosh won their first meet of the season, Saturday when they took over Deering High with a score of 91-35. Due to the numerous recent rains the track was in rather poor condition, and no spectacular time was made in any of the running events. Chase scoring 15 points and Dekin 10 points were Maine's two outstanding men. The highest individual scorer, however, was Favor of Deering. Although only a junior at Deering he showed exceptional ability scoring a total of 17 points. Summary of meet:

120 yard high hurdles: Won by Eaton, Deering; second, Allen, Deering; third, Timberlake, Maine. Time 18.2.

Cows and Maine Co-eds Impress Untermeyer

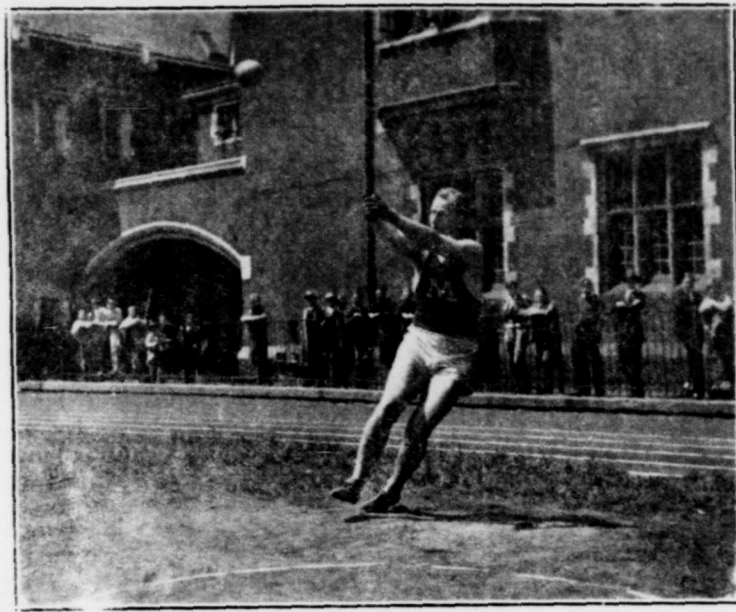

"Your co-eds are bigger and better," replied Louis Untermeyer, renowned poet, in answer to a query from a representative of the "Campus."

"And do you know that I was impressed more by the cows in the barns than any other thing on the campus" he continued. "I actually spent twenty-two minutes watching them."

He made an offer to Dr. Draper and Dr. Ellis, who were showing the visitor the sights at the University, for the "loosies," but Untermeyer states that he was not taken seriously. His next poem is to be "An Ode to a Cow."

A large but attentive audience listened to Untermeyer's interesting talk at Chapel, last Friday evening. He spoke on "The New Era in American Poetry"

In Action At Penn. Relays

RIP BLACK

Rip Black Places First In Hammer While Maine Men Make Good Showing

Last Saturday at Philadelphia, Rip Black clearly defended his claim as the best hammer thrower in the East. Maines captain out-threw his Olympic teammate, Don Gwinn of Pittsburgh, by over three feet with a throw of 160 feet and 8 inches. One of Black's throws went over 170 feet but he lost credit for it because of a slight foul.

The four mile relay team placed third in the final event of the program. Twenty schools went to the mark. Maine defeated seventeen of them, including Dartmouth, Harvard, N.Y.U., Cornell, Michigan State, Wisconsin, Army, and North Carolina. Bud Brooks led off, followed by Bud Lindsay, Harry Richardson, and Vic MacNaughton. Maine's time was 18:03 minutes. This time had only been bettered twice in eighteen years before last Saturday, when Penn State and Indiana both broke the existing record of 17:51 minutes.

Bill Gowell placed fifth in the discus throw competition. Gowell came within a few inches of third place with his best throw of 137 feet. Charlie O'Connor tied for third in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 10 inches. It is reported that the take-off was unusually soft, and that only two men jumped over the above height, one being Hedges of Princeton, an Olympic point winner. O'Connor placed seventh in the broad jump with a stretch of 22 feet 2 inches.

One first place, two thirds, a fifth, and a seventh, is a good record for the University of Maine in competition with over a hundred colleges from the East and Midwest.

Varsity and Frosh Baseball Squads Priming for Games

The Maine Freshmen are all primed for their battle with Bridgton Academy Friday afternoon. This will be the opening game of their schedule as the Kents Hill game postponed to last Monday because of rain on last Friday was unable to be played because of the poor field conditions and the thunder shower.

Prescott Ward, a strong catcher, who has been ineligible until recently, may get the call behind the bat in place of John Moore and Red Boynton. Ward has had plenty of experience and should fill in well as backstop.

Nutting will probably get the starting assignment in the box although both Surling and Bagley will have a chance to show their offerings. All three of these boys have been showing up well in practice but none are in condition to pitch the whole of the first game.

Milt Sims, one of the strongest prospects on the squad, both from a batting and fielding viewpoint, will start at first base or right field. Sims is fast and is a handy man with the bat. If Pease does not lose his hitting streak he may get the first base call while Sims will be shifted to right. Pease has been hitting them far and wide but is a little slow for the field.

Don Dillon will hold down the second sack in a capable manner and Grancy will cover the short field. McCabe will knock them down around the hot corner. All of these three are fast fielders and good men with the willow.

The starting lineup for the outfield is uncertain as several of the boys are not showing the stuff they started with but (Continued on Page Two)

A.T.O. Breaks Interfrat Pledging Rule Wednesday

Ten Freshmen Pledges Living at House is Charge; Pledging Starts at Midnight Tues.

Alpha Tau Omega was charged with breaking the rule of the Board of Administration which states that not more than six freshmen pledges may live at the chapter house, at the regular meeting of the Interfraternity Conference held at the M.C.A. Building Wednesday evening. A. T. O. has ten freshmen pledges living at their house, it was brought out at the meeting. A fine of $300 may be imposed on a fraternity breaking this rule by the Interfraternity Conference. No action as to the fine or provision for the A.T.O. pledges moving out was taken at the meeting last night as no officers of the interfraternity organization were present at the meeting.

It is expected that the new pledges will move out of the A.T.O. house some time today, and that the officers of the house will take steps to regulate the infringement on the rule with the Interfraternity Conference.

There was some discussion at the meeting about houses allowing their pledges to live at the houses after the quota of six has been filled.

Pledging at the several houses on the campus started at midnight Tuesday when a few of the fraternities fearing that waiting until Wednesday morning would result in their losing their prospective brothers hung the pledge emblems on the lapels of their men shortly after the zero hour. The Tuesday evening entertainment in most cases took the form of theatrical parties. Some of the pledges took their charges to Bangor play houses while others remained in Orono.

Widow of First Acting President of Univ. of Maine Passes Away

Orono, April 30

Mrs. Mary Lovejoy Fernald, widow of Merritt C. Fernald, first acting president of the University of Maine, died this morning at 3:45 o'clock, after a year of failing strength, but only for the past six months had she been confined to her room and for a short time to her bed. She would have been 84 years old the 8th day of May this year.

Mrs. Fernald leaves a daughter, Mrs. John A. Pierce, who has lived with her for many years; four sons, Dr. Robert H. Fernald, professor of dynamic engineering at the University of Pennsylvania, who with his family are now abroad; Prof. Merritt L. Fernald of Harvard University, Reginald L. Fernald, manager of the Pratt Teachers Agency, N. Y., and George B. Fernald of St. Mark's School, Southboro, Mass.; one nephew, Dr. H. H. Heywood of N. Y. and six grandchildren, Merritt C. Fernald, a student at Yale University, Frances and Mason, children of Robert Fernald; Katherine Fernald and Henry G. Fernald of Cambridge, Mass., children of Prof. Merritt C. Fernald, and John A. Pierce of Hartford, Conn., son (Continued on Page Three)

At the annual meeting of the Penobscot Valley Alumni Association, Friday, April 26, held at the Penobscot Valley Country Club, the new officers of the Association were chosen for the forthcoming year and Prof. Corbett of the University was appointed the new Dean of Men. President Boardman gave a resume of the activities of the University of Maine from an educational point of view and outlined his program of activities in regard to the University of Maine for the future.

President Boardman emphasized the fact that any organization in order to function must be founded on a sound basis and have good financial backing, and laid stress on the fact that in the educational world any institution may benefit thru the findings of another educational institution.

The president stated that he believed under the present scheme of education where intellects of all sorts are thrown together in one class that the poorer students found difficulty in progressing and that the brighter students were allowed to become mentally lazy. Thru a system of "honors classes" and other means, Pres. Boardman hopes to remedy this evil. In conjunction with this topic an interesting (Continued on Page Two)

Scholarships For Univ. Women Students Offered in Education

The attention of the women students of the University is called to a scholarship for a twelve-months training course at the Child Education Foundation in New York City. This scholarship is available each year to a graduate of the University of Maine.

The tuition for the twelve months course is $350 and is given as a loan scholarship with the understanding that the candidate will pay the registration fee of $18.00 in two installments for the privilege of the scholarship and will then return the amount during the first year of teaching without interest. The scholarship of $800 for residence in the Students' House is a gift scholarship. It is understood that the candidate will teach in the Montessori schools for two years at least, immediately following graduation from the training school.

Several Maine girls have already had this scholarship and are now teaching in the nursery schools: Edythe Twitchell, '28; Marjorie Rowe '24; Barbara Hitchings, '24; and Helen Peabody, '27.

Ida Bamford, '29 is to be the college representative next September and Helen Beasley in 1931. There is still a vacancy for the Fall of 1930 for a girl who is interested in work with the children of a pre-school age. Miss Chadbourne of the Education Department will be glad to furnish further information.

"The Mystery Ship" Embarks Tonight With Able Crew Aboard

Tonight at the University Chapel the combined talent of the junior, senior, and sophomore classes thru their leading dramatic lights will open Junior Week with the presentation of the play you have been hearing about for weeks, "Outward Bound." The unique, clever, spooky, mystery drama of a clever playwright, "The Mystery Ship" takes a voyage for the second time in three years, and, most coincidental, weighs anchor during another Junior Week.

The hulks have been cleaned, the decks swabbed and all the hatches aired fully, even the "booby hatch." The sails are a little dirty and torn, but then that is to be expected of any craft as dim and mysterious as the "mystery ship." Souls, bound for where? Outward bound is all they know. To Heaven or to Hell? They know by the end of the third act, and how.

Steward Scruby (Raymond Bradstreet) like a bird of ill-omen walks the deck, and is the ever present, unexplainable fixture of the fore and aft decks.

Mrs. Midget (Polly Hall) What is her true relation to Tom Prior, the ne'er-do-well? Mrs. Midget is a funny lady, another queer piece of furniture in Sutton Vane's queer setting. Who is she?

Tom Prior (Munro Getchell) Shall we condemn or absolve him? His presence on the mystery ship is something he cannot explain. Can you?

Then there is Ann (Inez Watters) and Henry (Arthur Conner), the young lovers. What escape is there for them? Were they justified in the course they pursued? What shall be their penalty?

The ecclesiasts, Rev. Dukes (Maurice R. Wheeler) and the Rev. Thompson (Bob Parks) are queer characters. They are men of a spiritual creed. We do not dare condemn them. See the part they play in the lives of those on the mystery ship.

Mrs. Clive de Banks (Katherine Buck) the fastidious, the ruthless, the egoist. What shall be the punishment for she who has taken an attitude so unbecoming to the realms of virtue? Are you in sympathy with Mrs. Clive de Banks?

In our world of industrial emancipation the unscrupulous business man, Mr. Lingley (Milledge Beckwith) is a familiar figure. The modern generation knows something about this financial magnate. Is there pity for the "getter"?

Admission has been set at .75, .50 and .25 for one of the leading contemporary successes of the American stage. In the way of mystery, in the field of unreality, in the school of dramatic possibilities, and in the critics' review of leading high lights in drama, is Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound." Who has seen "The Bat"? How many have witnessed the "Cat and the Canary" on stage or screen? Then see "Outward Bound" as convincingly rendered by the stars of the Maine Masque.

Junior Week Festivities Will Actually Get Underway Today

For three years the juniors have "drank to the careless days" of happy university life. Today they tip their glasses to sip the fairest draught college has yet proffered them—the prestige of "junior-ism" culminated in Junior Week.

The festivities start Thursday evening at seven-thirty when "Outward Bound" will be presented by the Masque in Alumni Hall.

At eleven o'clock Friday morning junior chapel exercises will be held. The program is as follows:

Overture, Invocation, Salutatory Address, John W. Moran, President Class of 1930; Address to the juniors, Prof. Charles P. Weston; Hymn, Prayer, Maine Stein Song, Fred A. Sylvester is Chaplain.

A treasure hunt Friday afternoon will be a feature of the program. All cars registered for the hunt will meet at Alumni Hall at 2:00 P.M. There they will be given numbers and sent to park their cars. Then every person must return to the hall for instructions. The race will then start. Contestants are urged to study their instructions carefully, and not to forget that the Maine traffic regulations are still being enforced.

The prom will be held in Alumni Hall at eight o'clock Friday evening. The reception committee consists of:

President and Mrs. H. S. Boardman, Dean and Mrs. J. S. Stevens, Dean and Mrs. Paul Cloke, Major and Mrs. E. J. Oliver, Mrs. Adria M. Gannett, Mr.

C. P. WESTON

James A. Gannett, Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Youngs.

There's a surprise in the ballroom for all who attend, "A dream boat."

Miss Pauline Hall, honorary Lieutenant Colonel of the R.O.T.C., will be present in full uniform at the military review Saturday morning.

In the afternoon the first home baseball game in the season will be played with Bates.

Saturday evening the Track Club Cabaret, the closing function of the Junior Week activities, will be held at Alumni Hall.

A BALANCED SOCIAL CALENDAR

With the large number of social functions that have been taking up the afternoons and evenings of men and women on the campus for the past few weeks there has been little time to stop and take account of stock. Some find that they cannot keep up with their social activities on the campus and still meet their other financial obligations. Why can't we have social activities, especially formals, more evenly spread thruout the school year is the question coming from all sides.

It is true that the Fall social season at Maine is a quiet one, and that the formal parties during the winter are few and far between, but when the spring season opens there comes a steady, endless line of parties. There is the Military Ball, the sophomore hop, the junior prom, and the track club cabaret. These functions all follow closely after the Intra-mural ball, and make a full calendar for seekers of entertainment from some time in February until commencement day. Together with these affairs comes many fraternity functions which are a great tax on the finances of college men.

It has been suggested that more parties be held during the Fall and early winter, and so cut down the number of spring parties on the campus. The purpose of this would be a dual one. First it would give students at the university a more balanced social program for the year, and second it would be of financial aid to students since with the parties coming at a number of intervals thruout the year there would be a less constant drain on a student's money. With the present system of holding so many large parties so near together during such a short interval of time it is hard for many students to attend the functions and some even find it impossible for them to attend because of lack of money. If these affairs did not come at such close intervals, these students would not find as much trouble getting the money with which to attend.

There is another side to the question. The social functions at the university are for the purpose of getting students better acquainted with each other, and also to furnish a means of entertainment for both men and women students. With these ends in view the activities should be arranged so that as many as possible of the student body and faculty might be present at parties. To do this all classes of students must be considered. The man with the small weekly allowance, the person working his way, and the one who has more than he knows what to do with. The change in the present policy of having practically all of the more important social affairs in the spring with but few in the fall and winter, would be an aid to all of these classes of students. Since if it is not a matter of money that holds students back from attending university social functions it might be the fact that they were tiring of too much social activity at one time. A reasonable balance of social activities would be far better than the present attempt to crowd all the big social events of the college year into a few weeks in the spring.

UNSATISFACTORY

That the present rushing and pledging rules are not satisfactory to many fraternities on the campus was evident Wednesday when the several fraternities began their scramble for "their men." The pledging rule was not adhered to by all houses on the campus. Several groups were known to have pledged men long before the regular pledging started, and one house went so far as to defy the ruling of the Interfraternity Council and the Board of Administration by allowing all of their new freshman pledges to move into the house. Whether this act was a flagrant offense against the ruling or ignorance of the rule on the part of the offenders is not known, but the action taken by this house in allowing their new men to move into the house at once shows that they are dissatisfied with the present rule forbidding spring pledges to live at the chapter houses until the following fall.

While only one house is known to have offended the rule regarding pledges living in the houses, members of other houses have expressed themselves on the matter. Most of them seem to believe that both fraternities and the new pledges would be benefited if the new men were allowed to live at the houses immediately after being pledged.

While the offending fraternity is in no way justified in breaking the rule of the Board of Administration and the Interfraternity Council it may be that their action will serve to work up agitation that may lead to further changes in the present rushing and pledging rules at the university.

JUNIOR WEEK

While one junior week closely resembles another there is a certain difference which perhaps only members of the third year class can realize. It is sort of a turning point in their college life, the point when they are about to take over the responsibilities of a college senior.

To the seniors Junior Week is a warning that commencement is close at hand, and that their college career is nearly at an end. They have the satisfaction of looking back on the good work they have done, and they also have the privilege of remaining in college a few weeks to observe how their junior successors carry on the work that they have left behind.

The two lower classes think little more of Junior Week than finals are near at hand, and the summer vacation isn't much farther away, so they can rejoice within themselves and also take advantage of the program

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor of the Campus:

Dear Sir:

Now that there has been an election of officers in the Men's Student Senate with their installation next week, I think it is time for a change in the Campus' policy from one of nagging criticism to that of helpful co-operation.

In reading over the criticisms levied at the Senate I cannot help but feel that they were largely unwarranted considering the circumstances. It should be remembered that this has been the first year in which the Senate has amounted to anything at all on the campus, and the first in which there has been any organized activity on its part. Everyone knows what a mess has been made of class elections in the past with accusations of mal-administration flying about everywhere; there has been none this year. Then again there would have been no mascot for our football games had not the Senate worked hard to collect enough money to get one.

These are a few of the activities in which the Senate has been engaged, and what previous body can point to as much; yet they were not openly criticised. Is it not curious that previous Senates were not criticised and this one which has done some effective work? Moreover, if the situation were as bad as the Campus has made it out to be, why was there not an expressed criticism of the Senate in the correspondence column; not once did one appear.

Now that the principals concerned are out of office in both Senate and Campus,—for it has been suspected by a good many people that there was a large personal element in the criticism levied against the Senate,—I appeal to your sense of fair play no longer to insert in the news items material that should be in the editorials and no longer to criticise an organization without real grounds for so doing.

The Men's Student Senate can be a real power for good on the campus if it receives the support of the student body, and it is because of this that I urge your co-operation through constructive efforts to put the Senate in the position of respect that it should rightly hold.

Yours truly,

Maurice R. Wheeler

A POPULAR APPOINTMENT

The appointment of Professor L. S. Corbett to the position of Dean of Men at the University of Maine meets with the approval of the student body. Prof. Corbett, one of the most popular members of the university faculty, has taken great interest in athletics and other college activities. He is a good mixer, and always seems to have the good of the University of Maine at heart.

Such a man should be ideal for the position of Dean of Men since under the new title Professor Corbett will be obliged to come in contact with men from the three colleges in the university, and with all types of men from all departments of these colleges.

Professor Corbett is particularly well fitted for this position as he is a natural mixer, and gets along well with all classes of men.

The creation of the new position at the university is in accord with student sentiment, and in choosing Professor Corbett for the position, the Administration has shown its consideration for the student body by choosing a man that is most acceptable to the students of the university.

account was given of an honor class at Swarthmore College where the students and instructors are free of all academic restraint, lounging about in easy chairs and smoking at will and holding themselves in readiness to talk intellectually on a subject for a lengthy period. The particular class that was referred to lasted several hours in which the president stated that he heard students discuss the problem of international law lengthily and intellectually, a feat which few college graduates could do becomingly. At present such a system would not function at Maine due to the fact that money is not available to hire the type of instructor that would make his type of "honor course" possible.

Under the present system of teaching the professor is a speaking machine or a lecturer that throws a series of facts at the student which he absorbs; it is a tutor to student idea. President Boardman thru honor courses hopes to introduce classes into the curricula whereby there will be a possibility of the "group to tutor" method functioning.

At the present time great research projects on the problem of education are taking place thruout the country and there will be something valuable result from these investigations. At Maine Prof. Lutes, in conjunction with the heads of other institutions thruout the state is conducting experiments in his locality. There is an Educational Survey at work and something definite should be realized from their experiments in the next two years. The campaign at the University of Maine in the next few years will be one whereby the standard of efficiency may be raised.

In the past several years, said President Boardman, a generalized improvement has taken place on the campus, and in the administration of the University. New buildings have been erected, new apparatus supplied, one of the best electrical laboratories in the state is under completion, and one of the best mechanical engineering laboratories as well. A regular Clinic has been established whereby the services of a nurse and doctor are available on the campus.

President Boardman stated that he thought the University had reached a period of expansion where it might safely remain for a term until efficiency has been reached. With funds from the Mill Tax available the President hopes to better equip some of the buildings needing apparatus, provide a fund for retired professors. Some of the projects that need immediate consideration are the construction of a new women's dormitory, a Home Economics department, and the equipment of the horticulture and dairy buildings. The President said that he thought such things as a new chapel, a union building, etc. could safely come under the heading of special gifts and donations, and that he thought such matters would in time be taken care of in that way. At present there is a debt of $150,000 to be considered and there will be a certain portion of the Mill Tax allotted to the paying of this debt in the near future.

At the conclusion of his speech the President announced that for many years he had felt that a "contact man" was needed at the university to work between the student body and the faculty, in other words, a Dean of Men and that casting about for some man whom he felt should fill such a position after which he named Prof. L. S. Corbett, head of the Department of Animal Industry, the first Dean of Men at the University of Maine.

Other speakers on the program were: Prof. Corbett, Dean Bean, Alumni Secretary Crossland, Parker Crowell, Col. Strickland and Prof. A. L. Deering.

The following officers were elected: President, Laurence Libby '20, Bangor; vice-president, Dr. Forest B. Ames '13, Bangor; sec.-treas., Philip R. Hussey '12, Bangor; executive committee, Rachel Connor, Bangor; William R. Ballou, Bangor; and Prof. W. D. Jones, Orono.

President Harold S. Boardman delivered an address to the Rotary Club at Skowhegan Tuesday. He was the speaker at a meeting of the Lions Club in Bangor Wednesday.

CIVIL CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

The last meeting of the Civil Club for the present school year will be on Thursday evening, May 9th at 7 o'clock in 14 Wingate Hall. The speaker for the evening will be Dr. Elmer W. Campbell, Maine State Department of Health, and his subject will be "Sanitary Work in Maine". As this is the last meeting all Civils are urged to attend.

The conditions in regard to the scholarship of one semester tuition, that is offered by the local chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, has been incorrectly listed in the catalog.

The scholarship may be applied for by any girl in the present sophomore class, to be used for the first semester of her junior year.

EVERETT GUNNING IN HOSPITAL

Everett A. Gunning, captain of freshman cross country and star one and two-miler was suddenly stricken Monday with acute appendicitis and rushed to the Eastern Maine Hospital, where he was immediately operated on. Gunning is now resting comfortably, but will not be able to be out for all of two weeks.

Freshman hopes for a decided victory over Portland High took a decided slump, as Gunning was counted on as a sure winner in his events. Gunning is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Battlets, Fros, Hinks, Buchan, Plummer and a few others may get a chance to show their stuff in the outer gardens.

After a week's lay-off from the southern trip the Maine Varsity ball chasers will tackle Bates on Alumni Field, Saturday afternoon. Although Bates defeated Maine the previous Saturday it was only by one score and Maine could have had the game if one or two boners had been left out.

During the past week Coach Brice has been brushing the men up on their weak spots as brought out by the tour. The three games played last week gave the men a good seasoning and a chance to see just how strong a club they really had. With all the rough places smoothed out this week the Varsity should break into the win column from now on. Hitting is still a little below par but the batting eyes are beginning to find the ball and Saturday should and the boys spanking them plenty.

There will be no changes in the lineup except a possible shakeup in the outfield. Coach Brice does not feel as though just the right combination has been found yet. Jim Buzzell will be given a chance to show his last season's form against Bates as he will play right field. Jim will not make many trips but will probably play in most of the home games as he is a strong batter and a dependable fielder.

Phil Brockway may get a chance to break into the lineup against Bates in center field as he has been hitting them hard in practice. With the problem of much left handed pitching to be faced. Coach Brice will have to pick the best men who can hit these portside for the pastures. Squid Ellis, Louie Airoldi, Russ Lathrop, and Corbett are the strongest fielders in the bunch.

Coach Brice does not know who will start on the mound against Bates but all of the pitchers are showing the goods at least for five or six innings.

The Maine Varsity baseball team defeated Rhode Island, 10 to 6, and were defeated by Connecticut Aggies 7 to 6 and by Bates 5 to 4, in the southern trip last week. The game with Northeastern was cancelled because of rain. Although Maine led in every game up to the last two or three innings, one bad inning for the pitcher coupled with a few "bones" due to a lack of experience and practice, lost the games. The experience and seasoning gained in these games was however very valuable to the team and gives Coach Brice something definite to work on for the rest of the State series games. Maine was as good if not better than every team that was played but a few slips put them on the short end of the score.

The same pitcher that Maine knocked from the box on April 24 pitched Rhode Island to a win over Northeastern University last Saturday. This shows that Maine has a club that will be well up in the running with the other teams of this state this season.

Women's Student Gov't. Holds Installation

The installation of the officers of Women's Student Government was held Monday morning during the regular chapel period. An impressive ceremony was held with Miss Sadie Thompson, the retiring president officiating. The outgoing officers, Sadie Thompson, president; Martha Wasgatt, vice-president; Polly Hall, secretary; and Elizabeth Livingstone, treasurer, retired in favor of Martha Wasgatt, president; Helen Beasley, vice-president; Erma Barton, secretary, and Evelyn Randall, treasurer.

The council marched in to the strains of a march played by Helen McKenney, Edith Bowen, Evelyn Randall, and Doris Baker played in a trio. Dean Bean as the speaker of the morning read to the women students the privileges granted to them by the administration, and asked that cooperation be given by all.

ELECTRICAL SHOW TO BE HELD MAY 9

The electrical show will be held this year on the evening of May ninth at Lord Hall. This show was one of the most interesting affairs on the campus last year. The regular freak electrical appliances will be on hand to shock and thrill those who attend. This year there will be several new attractions. The show is to be presented by the College of Technology.

PROPOSALS FOR PERMANENT LIBERAL CLUB

Much interest has been shown this year by those who have attended the meetings of the Liberal Club. Because this feeling has been expressed by some, this organization will be put on a permanent basis. In order to facilitate this matter all interested students, both men and women, should leave their names with Clifford Simpson before next Wednesday. The Executive Committee will then nominate a president and secretary for the coming year.

The last spring meeting will be held on May 12th at 2:30 P.M. in the M.C.A. Building. Dr. C. A. Dickinson, Professor of Psychology, will lead the group in a discussion of "Capital Punishment."

FROSH CO-EDS WIN INDOOR MEET

The co-eds' annual indoor meet took place in Alumni gym last Saturday morning. Each class was represented by a team of fifteen girls. The Freshmen, as winning class, will receive 5 points for the honor shield.

Out of a possible 480 points for each class the results were as follows:

Freshmen, 313½; Juniors, 287; Sophomores, 259; Seniors, 220.

This tally shows that the Freshmen took first place in nearly every event.

PROF. SPRAGUE ATTENDS CONVENTION AT HARTFORD

Prof. E. H. Sprague recently attended a convention held at Hartford, Conn., by the National Public Health Association, from April 22-26. Progress was made in the study of public health and allied subjects. At the meeting on April 23, a New England section of the Federation of Sewerage Works Associations was formed.

SCREEN

Mighty fine program at the Strand during the next week. Well known stars in the leading screen plays of the season. The following is a brief story of "THE WILD PARTY" which comes to the Strand next Wednesday, May 8, starring the famous "IT" girl CLARA BOW:

THE STORY

Clara and her "gang" of eight school-mates at an exclusive girls' school get all excited over a new professor, Fredrick March, and sign up for his class. They find out that he is serious and intends to make the students work hard. He and Clara clash the first day.

A few weeks later Marceline Day, head of the student body, excludes Clara and her gang from a costume ball because their dresses are too daring. The girls then go to a roadhouse. While there they are insulted by Ben Hendricks, Jr., drunken braggart. Clara stalls him while the gang escapes. Hendricks tries to carry Clara to town in his car.

March intercepts this move. There is a fight. March rescues Clara. They realize that they are in love.

Joyce Compton, college snooper, sees March bring Clara home. The next day March "bawls out" Clara in class. Clara is hurt. She walks out.

Clara persuades Shirley O'Hara, her studious room-mate, to attend a house party a week later. It is a wild affair. Shirley falls in love, genuinely, with Jack Linden at the party.

On the same night Hendricks shoots and wounds March for revenge. Clara goes to March's study and reavows her love. Joyce, the busybody, sees the meeting.

Joyce steals and turns over to Marceline Day a letter from Shirley to Jack. Clara learns of this, and to protect Shirley, tells Marceline that the letter is her own, not Shirley's.

Clara resigns from college, packs her trunk and starts home. March however boards the train and goes with her. He, too, is through with college.

See it at the Strand Wed., May 8.

Eugene Brooks '31 and Elizabeth Livingston '31 are invited to attend a free show at the Strand this week if they will present this column at the box office they will receive two passes each.

UNIVERSITY QUARTET SINGS AT ALUMNI BANQUET

The University of Maine Quartet rendered an excellent program at the Alumni Banquet held at the Penobscot Valley Country Club on April 26. The quartet, consisting of "Herb" Lowell, "Deke" Lewis, George Berry, and Galen Veayo, presented a delightful program consisting of Pal of Ours, and two humorous pieces, Mrs. Casey's Board House, and Since Pa Has Bought a Limousine. The guests welcomed the songs with much gratification and all expressed pleasure at the fine entertainment presented. The quartet completed its program with a number of University songs in which the guests joined.

The quartet, through popular demand, is to give a concert and dance at Springfield, Maine, Friday evening, May 10. This promises to be a brilliant affair since all know and praise the fine reputation gained by the quartet.

Widow of First Acting President
Of Univ. of Maine Passes Away

of the only daughter.

Mrs. Fernald was born in Weld, Maine, May 8, 1845, was married to Mr. Fernald Aug. 24, 1865. In 1879 after some 12 years on the faculty, Mr. Fernald was made President of the then Maine State College and retained this position until 1893, was acting professor from 1897 until 1908 then Emeritus professor. He died January 8, 1916.

Mrs. Fernald was an unusual woman, and one who was loved and respected by all who knew her. She possessed a mind of unusual brilliance and advancing years in no wise diminished the keenness of her mentality. She had a remarkable memory and an unusual appreciation for the best things in literature.

During the early days of her husband's connection with the Maine State College she assisted him materially in the arduous duties of his position. She was called upon at various times to fill positions in the teaching staff and this task was always performed with a high degree of success.

For many years she was a member of the Orono Congregational church and of the United Parish church after the union. She was a charter member of the Orono Woman's Club and for many years worked faithfully to advance its interests. While in active relation with Maine State College, her home was the center of social activities, on the part of faculty and students.

In 1915 they celebrated their golden wedding and she celebrated her 80th birthday in 1925. On both of these occasions the home, 100 Main Street, Orono, was thronged with friends who did them honor.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 o'clock from the United Parish church of which she was a member. All of the family except Dr. Robert L. Fernald, who with his family is abroad will be here for the funeral.

They gave the express rider a good start

Henry Wells, developing the mail and express business of Wells Fargo, knew the necessity of careful preparation and alert management. Communication was more than the picturesque racing of pony express riders; behind the scenes there was always the systematic planning of routes, the watchful inspection of outposts and men. Communication today is immeasurably faster than it was then, thanks to electricity. And to a vastly greater degree has the work of preparation behind the scenes become important.

In the Bell System, management must constantly look ahead to provide the sinews of service against growing public demand—material and men must be mobilized to extend and keep open the lines of communication.

ELECTRICITY—

the modern prospector

A STOUT heart; a burro laden with pick, shovel, and the bare necessities of life; and the prospector was ready for the gold rush—Sutter's Mill, the Pike's Peak country, Cripple Creek, Klondyke. A scattered trail of half-worked claims marked his sacrifices.

To-day mining is a business, with electricity replacing wasteful brawn in mine and mill.

The deep mine, with electric lights, hoists, and locomotives; the surface mine with huge electric shovels scooping up tons of ore in a single bite; the concentrating mill with its batteries of electrically driven machines; the steel mill with its constant electric heat—here are but a few of electricity's contributions to the mineral industries.

So in every industry, electricity increases production and cuts costs. It is the modern prospector, leading the way into wider fields and tapping undeveloped resources—that we may enjoy a finer civilization and a richer, fuller life.

You will find this monogram on powerful motors that drive heavy mining machinery and on tiny motors that drive sewing machines. Both in industry and in the home it is the mark of an organization that is dedicated to electrical progress.

DR. CHADBOURNE CONTRIBUTES TO MAINE HISTORY

Dr. Ava Harriet Chadbourne of the University of Maine faculty accomplished much more than a doctor's dissertation when she wrote this book. She might well receive an honorarium from the Maine Development Commission, for she has rendered a distinct contribution toward those surveys of Maine's resources which are now quite in vogue.

We have had all too little in print about the historical background of Maine education. Considerable material lies in the archives of the State Department of Education, we are told, but funds have never been available to print much of it. All the histories of Maine contain something on the subject, and there have been a few books, notably that written for the U. S. Bureau of Education in the 1890's by Dr. Edward W. Hall, librarian of Colby College. So far as we know, Miss Chadbourne's is the only work constructed scientifically. Every fact is documented and all her conclusions are logically drawn.

The headings of her five sections reveal the interesting manner in which she has treated the subject: "Maine's Indifference to Education, 1602 to 1692"; "Maine as a District, 1692 to 1782 to 1785—The Beginning of Schools"; "Maine as a District, 1785 to 1820—The Further Extension of Education"; "Secondary Education from 1790 to 1820—The Academy"; "The Private Education of Girls in Maine from 1785 to 1820."
