THE FIRST FIVE MEMBERS OF PHI KAPPA PHI.

The names of the first five members of the class of 1910 to be elected to the honorary scholarship fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi, were read in chapel last Tuesday morning. Following an established custom, the five seniors having the highest scholastic standing at the end of the fall semester are elected to membership in this society. Five more members from the student body in Orono and two from the Law School are chosen at the end of the college year. The first five to be named this year are Vaughn Russell Chadbourne, of Mattawamkeag; Charles Ligouri Graham, of Brooklyn, New York; Harvey Herbert Jordan, of Waltham; Robie Perkins Littlefield, of Ogunquit; and Harold Merton Royal, of Hermon.

Vaughn R. Chadbourne prepared for college at the Mattawamkeag High School, graduating from there in 1906. Since entering college he has gained distinction both along scholarship and athletic lines, winning the Western Alumni Association Scholarship his freshman year, and making his class track team each year, besides also competing on the varsity team in his sophomore and junior years. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Charles L. Graham prepared for college at his home city, graduating from the Erasmus Hall High School of Brooklyn. He took part in the sophomore prize declamations two years ago, and his popularity is attested by his election to several prized offices by his classmates. He was class historian in his junior year and is class treasurer this year. Last year he was president of the Empire State Club. His major subject is mathematics and he is a member of the Theta Chi Fraternity.

Harvey H. Jordan graduated from Ellsworth High School in 1906. Besides attending to his ordinary college work he has acted as assistant in several courses in field work. His major subject is civil engineering.

Robie P. Littlefield prepared for college at Berwick Academy. Since entering college he has been very prominent in track athletics having made the varsity team every year, and winning the quarter-mile event in the State meet the last two years. He has also competed on his class track team each year and was captain last year. For the last three years Mr. Littlefield has also run on the relay team at the B. A. A. meets. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Harold M. Royal entered college from Houlton High School. He competed on his class track team in his sophomore year and has been a member of the baseball squad. Mr. Royal is registered in the electrical engineering department and at the present time holds the highest rank in scholarship in the senior class.

MUSICAL CLUBS AT ELLSWORTH.

The Musical Clubs gave their third concert last Thursday evening at Ellsworth, under the auspices of the high school. Ellsworth which is a loyal Maine town, greeted the clubs with a large audience, which went away feeling fully repaid after they had listened to an excellent program of music and readings. The latter were given by M. E. Fassett, '10.

This concert was the first real trip that the clubs have taken, and it is probable that the men who took part in this one will be identified with the clubs for the remainder of the season. They were as follows:

1910—Corning, Lamb.
1911—Beece, Davis, Gerrish, Gooch, Morrison, Whittier, Wilson, W. F., Southard, Smith, N. E.
1913—Bird, Brewer, Littlefield, McLain, Poore, Underhill, Sansouci.
FOOLISHNESS.

"Foolishness" is the name given to the vaudeville and minstrel show which will be placed before the students and the people of Bangor in the Bangor City Hall next Monday evening, Feb. 21. To all those who enjoy a good laugh and a show such as only a crowd of college fellows can give them, this will be an announcement that will make their mouths water. And the baseball management, to whom the credit for this enterprise is due, is whispering it about that this will be such a show as will make the people who see it come for another one every year forevermore.

Maine men made a great hit with a minstrel show in 1905, and though in this one there will be none of the "coons" who starred on that occasion, there is positively no doubt—positively no doubt, mind you—that there can rarely be collected at one time as many amateur stars as will be seen in this entertainment. Of course, however, the actors aren't everything in a show; the make-up of the program is quite as important.

They say that Mrs. R. K. Jones—who, by the way, is polishing off in a superior manner the superb natural ability of these stars—was at a loss for a good name for the show. At one of the rehearsals in the Chapel an elderly and thoughtful member of our Faculty happened into the balcony. At first he didn't know what was going on—perhaps he thought he was dreaming—then he turned away in disgust with some remark about the "foolishness" of all that. Well, Mrs. Jones (understand, this is what they say) heard this pretty compliment to her and the company she is training, and all at once it flashed upon her that this was the word she wanted.

"Wait a minute" she cried, to an end-man, who was just cracking one of his jokes, "I have a name for our show. We'll call it 'Foolishness' —and can you imagine a better name?

Now, just to make you wish you were going to see this show tonight instead of next Monday, let us tell you a little something about it. The curtain will go up on the minstrels, seventy-five singers and great jokers, with R. L. Mitchell of the Law School seated in the big interlocutor's chair in the middle. On the ends will be M. J. McHale, Law, '12, G. D. Bearce, '11, R. B. Pond, '11, D. C. Coombs, '11, A. E. Libby, '10, J. Scales, '10, N. N. Scales, '11, and Russell Smith, '11. These are all athletes, but they are just as good at shaking the bones and pounding the tambourine. And those solos—well, you know those fellows enough, to feel assured that they will sneak a few good ones over.

Then, after the minstrels, there will be a vaudeville performance of many, many parts, only one or two of which can be mentioned here. Two of the features will be a comedy written by Burns, '12, of the Law School, and a sextette, in which will be W. Peckham, '11, M. C. McCarthy, '11, H. D. Leary, '10, A. H. T. Schierloh, '10, H. L. Clifford, '10, N. C. Pinkham, '11, H. G. Woods, '11, W. R. Ballou, '12, C. A. Batty, '12, F. L. Darrell, '12, C. W. Newell, '12, and K. D. Woodward, '12—a choice group.

Everything has been done by the management to make this affair a large success. A dance will be held after the show, for which the University orchestra will furnish the music, and special cars will leave Bangor at 12:30 o'clock. Tickets are now on sale at fifty cents each and the reserved seat sale will begin next Friday.

All these preparations have been made by the management. The one thing which it cannot ensure is something that all Maine men are bound to give and that is support. Its an excellent opportunity to make good with your best girl, because she is sure to enjoy it. If you haven't a steady, go alone, because the only men who will miss this show will be dead ones.

DR. FOX VESPER SPEAKER.

The vespers address on February 6, was delivered by Rev. F. M. Fox, D. D., of Fort Wayne, Ind., who has been preaching in Bangor in connection with the Chapman-Alexander evangelistic meetings. The music was conducted by Mr. Clifton Powers.

The text of Dr. Fox's address was "What think ye of Christ?" His address was a strong plea for a consideration of this great question, which mankind has been thinking about for many centuries. No service was held last Sunday.
MAINE 34; N. H. STATE 12.

In the New Hampshire State College five the Maine basketball team found the strongest aggregation Saturday evening that it has been up against this year. Yet in this first college game of the season it had no trouble in winning 34 to 12.

The work of Captain Marshall and his men was most satisfactory to the Maine supporters, and although they had a great advantage in playing on their own floor, they displayed team-work that it would be difficult for an opposing team to overcome even in its own gymnasium. In carrying the ball into New Hampshire’s territory Maine was irresistible, and its only weakness was in shooting baskets, a fault which showed up conspicuously at the first of the second half.

The work of Marshall and Scales in this game was exceptionally fast and time and again they broke through New Hampshire’s guards for a clean shot. The work of Swasey at center, who until recently had been playing a guard position, was much better than in the previous game, and that of Merrill, who appeared for the first time this season, was very good.

There will be one game here, that with the Bar Harbor A. A. this week, and then next week the team will start on its trip out of the State, during which it will play New Hampshire, Tufts, Rhode Island, State College, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Massachusetts Tech. Although the men have not had the opportunity to play on any floor but its own this year, the work which it has done so far, warrants the confidence of the student body that it will make a strong bid for each of these five games.

The line-up and summary of this game was:

RELAY TEAM DEFEATS VERMONT.

Once again the relay team has defeated the University of Vermont at the B. A. A. meet, having won its fourth straight victory Saturday evening with ease, the time being 3 minutes 16 4-5 seconds. The team consisted of H. J. Cook, ’10, R. E. Littlefield, ’10, F. E. Fortier, ’10, and A. L. Deering, ’12.

The first two have run on former relay teams and Fortier competed in the 1000 run last year, while Deering was a new man, who showed excellent speed in the trials. E. T. Walker, ’11, went as substitute. The time only averaged 49 1-5 seconds a man, which was considerably slower than the men did in the trials.

Coach Mills and Manager Summer accompanied the team to Boston.

BASEBALL COACH.

Manager McCarthy of the baseball team has engaged as coach this season, P. O. Keefe, who coached Williams for four successive years. He is a player of wide experience, having played with Norfolk and Atlanta of the Southern League, and with Baltimore of the Eastern League. Last season he was captain and manager of the Pittsfield, (Mass.) team.

While with the Southern League he played second base, short stop, and third base, but changed to the outfield while at Pittsfield.

His experience both as a coach and as a player should prove valuable to the Maine team this year. He is expected here the fifteenth of March, when active work will begin.

Manager McCarthy will issue a call for new battery candidates this week, and for all baseball candidates on the first of March, and it is hoped that an unprecedented number will respond. The work will be in charge of Captain McHale until the arrival of Coach Keefe.

Wrestling as a sport has been adopted at Chicago University and a movement is on foot to form an intercollegiate association among the Western colleges.

NOW that the plans and specifications have been accepted and the construction bids are being submitted for the new dormitory, it is time to take the preliminary steps toward the organization of some system by which freshmen will be required to live elsewhere than in the fraternity houses. This idea has been advocated informally by both the Faculty and the students as a means of facilitating some of the administrative policies of the University, of keeping the first year men more intimately in touch with the Faculty and of increasing the college spirit. Of course, this would not be possible by next fall as the fraternities will be obliged to make some preparation for such a change by admitting more upperclassmen. It is not probable at this date, however, that coercive action will be taken by the University authorities, so that if any advance is to be attempted, it must be participated in by the student body under proper supervision.

That, ultimately, all freshmen will be compelled to room in the dormitories is now almost a certainty. In many institutions, where it has been possible, that plan has been adopted and adhered to, and in others preparations are being made toward that end. The idea is receiving serious consideration and is fast gaining ground among the educators of the country, because it is constantly being proved a benefit to the institutions, to the undergraduate organizations and to the individuals.

From the student standpoint at Maine, it is rapidly coming to be realized that such a system, if adopted here would aid in solving many of the troublesome problems which are uppermost in the minds of all. It would unite the undergraduates so closely, that whatever activity was undertaken, educational, literary, athletic, musical, dramatic or social, it would succeed, because it had a solid, concurrent, harmonious backing. Friendships would be formed and acquaintances made which would exert a powerful influence upon the numerous groups and circles here, tending directly to bring them together with the University as the center, to make them revolve as one, instead of separately and in widely varying and unbalanced orbits. More interest and less pertaining spirit would be.

To deal with the radical change in the dormitories is necessary. The University authorities might be in human propendy to determine the investigation elsewhere. The student body could do which wo.

and less friction would be felt in everything pertaining to Maine and as a result our college spirit would be even truer and deeper than it now is.

To deal with any question, involving such a radical change as having the freshmen live in the dormitories, a central representative board is necessary, which should be given some authority to act. The Pan-Hellenic idea has resulted satisfactorily in many institutions and might be tried here. Whether or not the freshman proposition should be considered could be determined only after a comprehensive study and investigation of the situation, at Maine and elsewhere. There is the point, however, that such a body could formulate and develop many plans which would keep our graduates and undergraduates in the front rank with those of other progressive institutions.

A box has been attached to the wall just inside of the doors of Alumni Hall in order that there may be a convenient place in which to deposit communications for THE CAMPUS. It is hoped that any of the Faculty or of the student body who may have matters of interest to CAMPUS readers will make use of it. In this way, news of all kind or suggestions will be received which otherwise might escape the notice of the members of the board.

GENERAL LECTURE COURSE.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, Professor Gray gave the first lecture of the course on "Great English Writers." As an introduction to the whole course he said:

"All books are not literature. DeQuincey divided literature into two parts; the literature of knowledge and the literature of power. The first part consists of that which may be in advance intellectually but is on the level of the earth. The second part is that which gives intellectual and spiritual uplift. Literature of the best sort has an element of divinity in it; its emotional power has a suggestion towards sublimity.

"The development of English literature has been continuous and unbroken and these lectures will aim to illustrate two or three of the main forms which have been "worked out."

This first lecture gave an outline of the "Development of English Literature from the Beginning to the Fifteenth Century."

The original inhabitants of England were the Celts, but, in 54 B. C., Caesar invaded the country and in 80 A. D. it was organized as a Roman province. The Romans occupied the central, southern, and eastern parts of the island while the Celts, who were always hostile, occupied the remainder. In 410 A. D., the Romans withdrew, leaving those Celts who had allied themselves with the Roman rule, very much weakened. In order to protect themselves from the hostile Celts, they invited the Jutes, Angles, and Saxons, to help them. In doing this they protected themselves from their own countrymen, but lost their country to their allies, who came over in great numbers and settled in various parts of the island.

The language of these people was the Teutonic or German. From this have come many of the languages of modern Europe and the English language in all its forms. Although the Old English was an inflectional language and more like modern German than modern English, yet modern English is based upon it, and a large number of our words are of purely Anglo-Saxon origin.

The Anglo-Saxon period of literature lasted from the eighth century until the twelfth. It is not large, but it contains a few famous manuscripts, which may be divided into two main classes, the pagan and the religious. The first class is not very important, but it gives some insight into the history of the times. Love of the game of war and fidelity to the chief were the main topics of this literature.

The introduction of Christianity into Britain gave a new impulse and a higher purpose to the life of that time, which was reflected in the religious literature of the period. After the accession of Alfred a considerable amount of prose was produced, the king himself being one of the most prominent writers of the period.

From 1066 to 1360 was the Anglo-Norman Period. The Norman Conquest had stopped the Anglo-Saxon literature and no more really great literature was produced until Chaucer. The great literary impulses of this period were religious and the romantic. Quite often they were blended into one as in the stories of King Arthur and the Holy Grail. This period also developed a large amount of prose writings. By the fourteenth century the French romance was at its height, overshadowing even the religious impulse which had so long been dominant.

The age of Chaucer, from 1300 to 1400, was a mountain peak in English literature. There were no new impulses but the old were more fully developed than ever. Among the religious writers of this period, Wyclif and Langdon stand preeminent. Wyclif was the first great religious reformer, and planned and executed the translation of the Scriptures into English, and because of this fact became the greatest writer of the century. Not much is known of Langdon but his poems are sombre and very bitter, although the style is good and in places the work is really brilliant.

There is through all the literary works of these centuries that endeavor towards Christian ideals and uplift which constituted the highest inspiration of the writers of these periods.

WESTERN ALUMNI REUNION.

The Western Alumni Association of the University held its ninth annual meeting and banquet on the evening of January 22nd, in the College Room at the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

The College Room is especially fitted and decorated with appropriate designs for the use of college men, and on this occasion, the walls were well covered with Maine banners, and the tables were tastefully decorated with ferns and pink carnations.

The banquet was preceded by a reception and social gathering, during which many college songs were sung and Maine yells given. The reception committee was headed by Arnold W. Totman, '07, and the music committee by Wallace E. Belcher, '99. With these two gentlemen as leaders, all those present joined in and had a very hearty and enthusiastic time singing and shouting for Maine. The banquet began at eight o'clock and was followed by the toasts and more songs.

The Association was disappointed that President Fellows or some other representative of the University was unable to be present at its meeting. President Fellows, however, kindly wrote a letter to the Secretary which was read, outlining the present condition at the University, and telling of its growth in different departments.

We were pleased, however, to have with us as the guest of honor, Abram W. Harris, President of the Northwestern University. The alumni coming the greatest distance to attend the banquet was Mr. Charles A. Morse, '79, of Topeka, Kansas.

The speakers were as follows:—Toastmaster, Fred M. Davis, President; Abram W. Harris, President Northwestern University; Mr. Charles A. Morse, '79; Mr. George E. Fernald, '78; Mr. George W. Sturtevant, '81; Mr. William Webber, '84; Mr. John E. Hill, '84; Mr. Charles C. Whittier, '99; Miss Estella Perry, '06; Mr. Arnold W. Totman, '07; Mr. I. H. Moore, '09; Mr. William R. Chadbourne, '99. With these two gentlemen as leaders, all those present joined in and had a very hearty and enthusiastic time singing and shouting for Maine. scholarship so that it would be available to be awarded to some man who made the football team and had obtained the highest rank in his studies. This matter of the scholarship for 1911 was referred to the Executive Committee for further investigation and action. In a letter from the University of Maine, dated January 19th, it was stated that the Western Alumni Association Scholarship had been awarded to the following persons: 1905—Mildred Chase; 1906—Bertrand F. Brann; 1907—Vaughn R. Chadbourne; 1908—Mary X. Young; 1909—Clara L. Woodman. An examination of this list reveals the fact that sixty per cent of the money raised for scholarship by the Western Association has been awarded to the women students. In the present condition, it would seem more advisable to arrange a system whereby the scholarship would be available to the men students.

Mr. Moore described what might be called in mining terms, the "flow-sheet" of the freshmen through the University, beginning with his advent upon the station platform at Orono and ending with the receipt of his diploma. His talk brought back to all present various incidents in their own college life.

Mr. Totman talked interestingly and instructively on the athletic situation at the University of Maine. His statements were corroborated and reinforced by Carlos Dorticos, '03, Maine's famous football player.

A rule has recently been made at the University of Iowa whereby the captain of teams will receive a star in addition to the letter and the number of years a man plays will be indicated by bands on the arms of the sweater.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Athletic Association, Tuesday evening, it was voted to furnish five hundred dollars toward the salary of a Director of Athletics. The employment of such a man is not yet fully decided, but the present plan provides that the director would be a member of the faculty, having charge of the gymnasium work and general oversight of athletics. He would, probably, be an athlete himself with some ability as a coach.

A committee, composed of Prof. P. L. Bean, H. H. Jordan, ’10, and P. S. Strout, ’11, was appointed to devise some scheme of tutoring for the delinquent men on athletic teams. It is thought that there are many students who are able and willing to do such work and if such a plan can be put into operation, it will be of great and mutual benefit. The chance to help our athletics would appeal strongly to many who are not athletes themselves, and the plan, if undertaken seriously, should be an immediate success.

C. C. Johnson, ’10, A. S. Moore, ’10, and P. S. Strout, ’11, were appointed as a committee to confer with the Law School Athletic Association concerning the recent action of that body, in regard to wearing the college letter.

ALUMNI IN NEW YORK DINE.

On Friday evening, Jan. 14th, an informal dinner for University of Maine men located in and near New York City was held at the Cafe Boulevard.

Professor Aubert had planned to be present as the guest of the evening, but on account of the storm, was unable to attend.

An excellent dinner was served and a most enjoyable evening was spent in renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. The following is a list of the men who were present: A. E. Mitchell, ’75; M. W. Sewell, ’75; Frank E. Emery, ’83; W. J. Hancock, ’88; N. C. Grover, ’90; Chas. H. Kilbourne, ’91; C. D. Thomas, ’95; Allen Rogers, ’97; Geo. S. Frost, ’98; A. W. Stephens, ’99; A. C. Wescott, ’99; C. P. Gray, ’00; C. H. Gray, Oldtown, Me., H. P. Hamlin, ’02; A. S. Webb, ex-’02; W. Rantenstrauch, ’03; J. H. Quimby, ’04; J. H. Staples, ’04; R. E. Lord, ’06; C. H. Bean, ’08; B. L. Collins, ’08; P. L. Corson, ’09; A. F. Neal, ’09; H. A. Rich, ’09; F. E. Simmons, ex-’09.

LAW SCHOOL NOTES.

William D. Owens, of Lynn, Mass., has recently registered in the class of 1911 for the winter term. During the first half of the year Mr. Owens attended the Boston University Law School.

At a mass meeting of the students held Thursday, Feb. 10, the resignation of Mr. R. L. Mitchell, ’10, as editor-in-chief of the Maine Law Review was accepted and Mr. G. R. Sweetser, ’11, was elected to succeed him. Mr. Frank Fellows, ’12, was elected assistant editor-in-chief. April first, or as near that date as possible, was decided upon as the time for the annual election of the Law Review Board for this and all succeeding years. It was voted that for all future elections the Faculty should constitute an Advisory Board to recommend the men whom they consider the best fitted for the various positions on the board of editors, and that the names of these men be posted on the general bulletin board one week before the date set for election.

The program for the Assembly meeting Friday evening, Feb. 11, consisted of phonograph selections, case discussion by Mr. Mitchell, and a debate on a question of suretyship, with Messrs. Gould and Harvey on the affirmative and Messrs. Clark and Greene on the negative. O. H. Emery was the critic for the evening.

The ladies of the faculty at the University of Vermont recently gave a dance to the undergraduates. The home in England of the founder of Harvard has been turned over to the University and will be kept in its original form as a free resort for tourists.
