Vol. XI

BANGOR, MAINE, FEBRUARY 22, 1910

No. 18

MAINE 103; BAR HARBOR Y. M. C. A. 11.

Maine closed her schedule of basketball games on the home floor by defeating the Bar Harbor Y. M. C. A. team by the overwhelming score of 103 to 11 on Saturday evening.

Captain Marshall's men swept their opponents off their feet from the first. The game would have been rather slow to watch had not Maine shown such superb team work which was a feature all through the game. All of the men got a remarkably large number of baskets, even the backs, scoring frequently. The team was shaken up in the second half, but this did not materially weaken Maine's scoring machine.

The team was in prime condition for their hard trip which commenced Monday noon. They spent Monday night in Portland and went to Durham, N. H., Tuesday. On Saturday it was learned that Mass. Tech had cancelled her game which was to have been played on Saturday evening, Feb. 26, in Boston. This will make the long hard trip considerably easier for the team.

The line-up and summary of the game:

MAINE	BAR HARBOR Y. M. C. A.
Scales, r. f.	Hillson, l. b.
Nason, Merrill, l. f.	Cleaves, r. b.
Swasey, Lemaire, c.	Anderson, c.
Marshall, r. b.	Brewer, l. f.
Cleaves, Swasey, l. b.	Richardson, r. f.

Goals from floor, Marshall 11, Scales 11, Nason 9, Swasey 9, Merrill 8, Cleaves 2, Lemaire 1, Brewer 2, Hillson, 1, Anderson 1, Richards 1. Goals from fouls, Scales 1, Brewer 1. Referee, Stewart. Timer and scorer, Hopkinson. Time of halves, twenty minutes.

FIRST ASSEMBLY.

The first Assembly was held in the gymnasium Friday evening and was enjoyed by a large number of students and their lady friends. As usual at the Assemblies the decorations were simple and of the sort usually arranged for these affairs. In the center was suspended a frame on which was the letter "M" in blue electric bulbs. From this strips of blue and white bunting were draped to the balcony, which was also decorated with bunting and encircled with lights. At each end of the balcony were large banners.

Three corners and wall spaces were occupied by the fraternity booths, which were handsomely decorated with draperies and pennants. In the south corner were served the refreshments of punch and crackers.

The order of dances included sixteen which lasted until one o'clock. The music was furnished by eight pieces of Pullen's orchestra.

The reception committee consisted of Dr. and Mrs. Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Oak, and W. C. Bagg, chairman of the committee. The following committee had charge of the arrangements: Wallace Brownell Baylies, Vaughn Russell Chadbourne, James Murchie Eaton, Frank Eugene Fortier, Robert Raymond Henderson, Charles Clayton Ketchum, Albert Edwin Libby, Cecil Leland Lycette, Vinton Royal Ray, Marshall Everett Reed, Edward Giddings Russell, George Sabine Wadsworth, William Hiram Wentworth.

MAINE INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETIC BOARD.

The regular semi-annual meeting of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Board was held at the City Club in Boston, February 12. The delegates were all present, Maine being represented by the Hon. Louis C. Southard, '75, Prof. Ralph K. Jones, '86, and C. C. Johnson, '10. The Board was entertained at lunch by Mr. Southard and the meeting called at one o'clock. Mr. Southard was reelected president and Prof. F. E. Pomeroy of Bates, secretary and treasurer.

At the last meeting a sub-committee was appointed to prepare a statement of receipts of all games between the Association teams during the last five years. This committee presented its report, which was referred to Mr. R. B. Stanley, of Bates for further comparison. The purpose of this investigation is to obtain, if possible, a fairer division of gate receipts.

It was voted that "the Board recommend to the athletic associations of the respective colleges, that they authorize their present football managers to arrange a rotating schedule of games between all of the Maine colleges, for a period of three years, beginning with the fall of 1911." The present arrangement of games is financially unfavorable to some of the colleges, and a rotating schedule would remove any such disadvantage. This matter was favorably considered by the football managers at their recent meeting at Brunswick, but as they had no authority to act, nothing could be done.

The Board decided that, hereafter, the expenses of the committee which appoints officials for games, shall be divided equally among the colleges, and that the officials shall be paid through this committee.

It was voted that the athletic associations be requested to instruct their managers to see that the police employed at games are directed to enforce any rulings of the officials. There has been some trouble in the past due to the fact that the police have not understood this matter and have refused to act when requested by the officials.

Mr. J. Colby Bassett was appointed to prepare a statement of the work of the Board from its inception to the present time, a copy to be sent to each member. This statement will be a summary of the work that has been done, and will be very instructive to many students who have not had an opportunity to follow its work.

The next meeting will be held in Portland some time in May.

The University of Pennsylvania has established voluntary chapel attendance.

The Student Council at Harvard has voted to fill its next vacancy with an undergraduate who shall represent scholarship.

A DUAL MEET POSSIBLE.

Owing to the very satisfactory way in which Mr. Mills coached the relay team (the time this year, 3 minutes, 16 seconds, was four seconds faster than last year, which was in turn several seconds faster than the previous year)—he has been engaged to coach the track team for the remainder of the season.

A larger squad is out for all events, and a particularly good lot in the field events. This is Mr. Mills' own branch of track athletics, and something good ought to develop out of the number of candidates.

The date of the Interclass Meet has not yet been decided upon, for the reason that manager Sumner is trying to arrange a dual meet, which may be indoors, and in that case the Interclass Meet would be omitted.

At a recent meeting of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association it was voted to hold the Annual meet on Tech Field again this year. The Worcester Institute of Technology was taken into the organization, from which she resigned two or three years ago. At this meeting Manager Sumner was elected to the executive committee of the Association.

ASSOCIATION OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS.

The students of the electrical engineering department held a meeting last week on the receipt of a communication that their petition to join the American Association of Electrical Engineers had been granted and elected the following officers: chairman, A. T. Childs of the Faculty; vice-chairman, H. H. Vickery, '11; secretary, J. P. King, '11; treasurer, N. C. Cummings, '11; executive committee, I. M. Stover, '10; A. S. Moore, '10; L. M. Gerrish, '11; and J. M. Eaton, '10.

The advantages of belonging to this organization will be the regular lectures by members of the Association and the acquisition of its publications.

GENERAL LECTURE COURSE.

Professor Gray took for the subject of his second lecture "The Development of the English Drama to the Time of Shakespeare." The lecture was illustrated by some very interesting stereopticon views.

The English drama, like the Greek, had its origin in close connection with religious worship. At first it was without words, being merely pantomime used very effectively in making real to the common people some of the great feast days of the Church.

The transition from this to the miracle play was easily made. The exact date of this change is not known, but it was probably sometime before the Norman Conquest. The earliest extant drama, which was, in reality, a dramatic dialogue called "The Harrowing of Hell," bears the date of 1270. The only marked trace of the influence of this upon the later drama is found in the Porter's scene in Macbeth.

The earliest performances of a dramatic nature were the mysteries or miracle plays. These were popular from the thirteenth century to the fifteenth but the only ones which are extant belong to the latter part of that period. These are based upon the lives or deeds of the saints or upon Bible history.

The next advance was the introduction of the comic element. This was done to satisfy the demand of the people for more comedy and, although the same subjects were used, the serious parts were not so much in evidence.

The morality plays which flourished in the fifteenth century were the reflection of the medieval love of allegory. The characters are personifications of abstract virtues or vices rather than of persons. At first they were concerned with the whole scope of man's moral nature but later became more limited. They represent, historically, the second stage of the drama, in which the plots were inverted and not borrowed as they were in the miracle plays. The devil was a very common figure in the miracle plays but in the morality plays appears a new figure called "The Vice," who seems to be an adjunct of the devil. Historically, he is important because he is the direct predecessor of the clown or fool of Shakespeare's time.

Following the morality plays came the interludes, short dramatic pieces, designed to be enacted between the courses at a feast, from which the modern drama has been developed.

The first comedy called "Ralph Royster Doyster," was written in 1534. It is crude and facial but the action is lively, the plot well constructed, and the character realistic.

The first English tragedy which was also the first drama written in blank verse bears the date of 1561, and was known as "Gorbuduc."

The two strong influences on the early drama were the medieval on one side and the Greek and Latin on the other. In general, it violates the classical unity of time and place but resembles the Greek drama in that it has a chorus after each act and always contains a great deal of bloodshed.

 GIFTS TO THE MUSEUM.

Among the gifts received by this department recently is one from Granville M. Gray, of Brewer, which consists of fifty-nine sets of birds' nests and eggs, each nest containing from one to seven eggs. An Esquimaux curler has also been received from Ira M. Stanley of Sedgewick, who shot it on Hog Island, last September. This species of bird is very rare, only two others having been found on this coast in the last ten years. One of these was shot by a Massachusetts party, and the other by Mr. Winch. At present Mr. Winch is working on a group of snow-birds.

 FRESHMAN MEETING.

At a meeting of the freshman class Friday, February 11, vice-President E. H. Bigelow of Fort Fairfield, was elected president to succeed W. L. Fletcher, of Dorchester, Mass., who has left college. W. S. Carter of Bar Harbor was chosen to fill Bigelow's place. The matter of a basketball team was brought before the meeting, and D. F. Getchell of Limestone was elected manager. Owing to a late announcement of the meeting only a small number of the class was present.

EDITORIALS.

A plan that is followed in many colleges and universities and which is being strongly advocated in many others is that of having a blanket tax levied upon all students, which shall cover the expenses of the various undergraduate activities in need of financial support. This tax may include for instance, athletic tickets, subscriptions for student publications, membership in the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A., money for the debating team and all other organizations which depend largely upon the students for maintenance.

The advantages of some such scheme are several. If every student feels a personal interest in each activity, a condition which is not too much to expect, an increase in their strength, efficiency and value will result. The managers, knowing just what their funds will be can work on a solid foundation and thus bend their energies toward the advancement of their respective organizations instead of curbing them for fear of pecuniary loss. All subscriptions and tickets are greatly reduced in cost, and yet more is obtained than formerly. Above all, however, the solid support of a student body means success, and that is just what a blanket tax would accomplish here, as it does in other institutions, where it is operative.

AFTER the football season, the band usually retires from its position among the foremost of the student organizations and gives its place to the musical clubs. When thoughts of spring begin to receive attention, it is always necessary to make a second call for players. This year those in charge are planning to get the band in working order early, and any who are expecting to try for a position will soon receive a request to report for practice. As the band has always been one of the prides of the University, it is hoped that a large number of candidates will present themselves and help to make the band a good one.

Prof. Daggett and Prof. G. A. Thompson entertained the Arts Club at the University Inn on Saturday evening, Feb. 19. Prof. Davidson was the speaker of the evening.

SYLVANUS CHARLES ROWE, EX-'10.

Sylvanus Charles Rowe, one of Yarmouth's popular young men, passed away Feb. 11, at the home of his parents in Yarmouth. Mr. Rowe had been suffering from consumption for 16 months, the first six of which he was a patient at the sanatorium in Hebron, and the last ten he passed at his home here.

He was son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rowe, and was born in Yarmouth, Nov. 1, 1887. He graduated from the Yarmouth High School in 1904, and for a year was employed as a draughtsman with the Forest Paper Co. of Yarmouth. He then took a special course here and was a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. After the completion of his course he was in the employ of the Hollingsworth & Whitney Paper Co. of Waterville as a civil engineer, until his illness began about 16 months ago.

Alfred B. Chandler, '10, of Yarmouth, was sent down to the funeral as a representative of Alpha Delta Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma.

COMMITTEE ON DELINQUENT STUDENTS.

At a recent meeting of the Faculty, matters of routine business were delegated to standing committees which shall act with power. In consideration of this larger responsibility laid upon it, the delinquent student committee will hold monthly meetings, intending in this way to make its services more efficient and helpful by listening to reports or inquiries from any of the deans, major or individual instructors, or by meeting personally any students who have business with this committee. It is expected that these regular meetings will keep the committee more thoroughly informed not only regarding the office records, but regarding the personal element which makes for the students failure or success.

Students are requested to bear in mind that these stated meetings are office hours when the committee will listen to petitions of students or council them on any matter coming under its jurisdiction. Meetings occur this semester as follows: In the Board room of Alumni Hall, Mondays at three P. M., February 28th; March 28th; April 25th.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

At a business meeting of the Deutscher Verein Friday noon a number of new members were elected, mostly from the lower classes, and these will be initiated at the social meeting Wednesday evening at the Mt. Vernon House.

The establishment of a woman's college with the same relationship to Tufts as Radcliffe bears to Harvard is advocated by President Hamilton of Tufts, which is now coeducational.

["OLD HEIDELBERG."]

This year the Literati has been very fortunate in securing interesting programmes for its meetings and the reading of "Old Heidelberg," by Professor Daggett last Tuesday evening was one of the best ever rendered at the University. His able interpretation of the different characters called forth rounds of applause and for two hours he held the closest attention of his audience.

Karl Heinrich the Hereditary Prince of Saxon Karlsburg, was depicted first as a youth at the castle where he was denied all the pleasures of childhood. There he was under the tutelage of Doctor Juthner, who appreciated deeply the secluded life which the youth was compelled to lead.

Finally the prince was allowed to attend Heidelberg University and while there fell in love with Kattrie, the niece of an innkeeper. The prince's affection for the girl was intense and Professor Daggett brought out this characteristic in a most pleasing manner.

The scene in which the Prince first met any companions of his age was full of happiness and the jolly larks which were indulged in by the students were made very realistic.

He was just beginning to enjoy life when the news came that his father was dead. The grief of the lad was profound and when he discovered that he must give up his new-found friends and return to the castle he realized that he was sacrificing everything. The pathos and feeling of this scene stood out sharply and showed a true appreciation of character on the reader's part.

After an interval of two years Karl Heinrich had become established as the ruler of Saxon Karlsburg, but he was not happy, for he often thought of his student days and the inn-keeper's pretty niece. He was busy with the cares of state, but he longed for one more glance at the familiar places which were the only testimonials of the time when he enjoyed life.

At last he managed to return to his old haunts for a brief visit with Kathrie before he was married to the daughter of a neighboring nobleman. The grief and the constancy of the young lord as he realizes that never again will he see the girl whom he loved so devotedly but who was below this station, was beautifully interpreted by Professor Daggett, and as the closing scene of the play left a deep impression upon his audience.

NEW YORK ALUMNI BANQUET.

Dr. Fellows has returned from New York where he recently attended the annual banquet of the New York Association of the Alumni of the University. It was in the college room at the new Hotel Astor and was the most elaborate which has been given for many years. The walls are hung with paintings representing the various scenes common in college life, such as athletes engaged in football, baseball, tennis, and so forth.

At the speakers' table there were seated George S. Frost, '98, the President of the Association, Dr. Allen Rogers, '97, of Pratt Institute, Professors Aubert and Rogers, former members of the Faculty of the University, Dr. J. S. Ferguson, professor in the Medical College of Cornell University, Ray Stevens, President and General Manager of the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, and Dr. Fellows.

Grouped about several round tables in front of this one were the alumni from the various classes of the last three decades. No members were present from the 70's. The 80's, 90's and the classes since 1900 were well represented. Professor Rogers acted as toastmaster.

As the banquet occurred on the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday, several references in the speeches were made to the fact that Abraham Lincoln signed the bill which called into existence the University of Maine and the other institutions of similar character, but the main trend of the remarks made by the various alumni was in hearty appreciation of the increasing growth and usefulness of the University and particularly of its increasing financial strength. Dr. Fellows outlined in considerable detail the plans for the immediate future and more especially regarding the extended influence of the University to all the people of the State in addition to the regular work with the students at Orono.

All of the alumni present expressed great interest in the plans for the development of the athletic interests among the students. They passed a formal vote of approval of the plan of having a general athletic director with the rank of a member of the Faculty. Both at the banquet and at the business meeting, all those present showed the keenest interest in the present and future welfare of the University.

JUSTICE EMERY SPEAKS.

The regular meeting for February of the Economics Club was held in the club-room of the Library, last Tuesday evening, and Chief Justice Emery of the Supreme Court of Maine was the speaker. The Chief Justice spoke for about an hour and held the closest attention of his audience during that time. He took for his subject the "Functions of a Government."

At first he outlined the history of government from the old Roman time up to the present. He said that there were three principles of government recognized as far back as the Roman republic, the executive, the legislative, and the judicial, and that these had come to us through the ages and were the essential principles of all governments at the present time. It has always been the tendency for these three divisions to encroach upon each other in their functions; especially is this true now of the judicial branch. It is a great temptation to prove a bill unconstitutional if it is a bill that seems to the Supreme Court as a bad bill and one that should not be passed. The function of this body, however, is not to pass on the desirability or undesirability of a law but simply to pass on the constitutionality without taking into account the good or bad features of the bill.

In speaking of the English and American governments, he said that practically the two governments were the same in their effect on the people and the protection they gave. Neither the American nor the English people, he said, are at all oppressed by governmental administrative power. The liberty given the citizens of this country by the common law, whereby anyone can call an officer into court for an offense just the same as any other citizen, is one thing that is characteristic of the American people and a principle that should be held by them as sacred and of great advantage to them.

STUDENT COUNCIL.

At the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Student Council last week several matters of interest were discussed, chief of which was the necessity of a physical director here who could train the teams and look out for their physical welfare and the opinion of the Council was strongly in favor of securing such a person at an early date.

It was also decided to recommend to the student body that more general participation be taken in the chapel exercises. This action has led to a marked improvement in the chapel service.

"M" ON THE STANDPIPE.

A bit of news which may be of interest to our recent alumni and bring back some reminiscences is the action which the sophomores have taken in painting an "M" on the Orono standpipe in place of their class numerals. This is a result of the abolition of hazing here, on account of which the sophomores have found it impossible to restrain the freshmen from keeping their numerals on the standpipe a good part of the time. It is perhaps the easiest way out of a difficulty but one of the old class customs is gone.

At Wisconsin University, the lower classes in their annual scrap enter the conflict with twelve sacks of hay each and these they must protect while striving to acquire possession of those of opponents.

The following men are trying out for Bowdoin's pitching staff: Means and Hobbs, '11; Davis, '12; and Skolfield and LaFleche, '13.

 "A PAIR OF SPECTACLES."

A "Pair of Spectacles" is the play which the Dramatic Club has announced heretofore as "A Pair of Blinders." The real title was withheld until the Dramatic Club made a definite contract with the publishers regarding the royalty of the play. The announcement of the play as "A Pair of Blinders" would lead one to expect a trivial or absurd sketch. On the contrary, while it is a comedy and delightfully interesting, "A Pair of Spectacles" is a play to be taken seriously, for the English author, Sydney Grundy, is a dramatist ranking high among the modern writers who stand for dramatic art and workmanship in the making of a play, in contrast to authors who are willing to concede to the popular demand of an unthinking audience. Among his more important productions are "Mammon," "In Honor Bound," "A Pair of Spectacles," "The Snow Ball," and "Sowing The Wind." The two last named are perhaps the best known in this country. "The Snowball" is a favorite play with permanent stock companies, and "Sowing the Wind" had a remarkable run in New York, following its long season in London. "In Honor Bound" is an original one act play of four characters and in dramatic skill and form would of itself give its author high rank as a dramatist. "A Pair of Spectacles" is adapted from the French, but the merits of the adaptation so far exceed the original that it is practically recreated. The play was produced in London by Mr. John Hare and met a welcome and response with English audiences that has kept it in the repertoire of English actors. The original performance in New York met no particular response with the American audience, and the play remains comparatively unknown in this country. For this reason the Dramatic Club is glad to offer "A Pair of Spectacles" to the public, for besides its merits as an entertainment it bears the marks of dramatic workmanship and originality. A subtitle of the play might be called a study in optimism, for the spectacles are really the colored glasses through which the central figure in the play sees the world through other peoples' eyes.

As there are only nine characters in the play there are three or four candidates for each part. Since many of the last year's cast are attending rehearsals, there will probably be little room for new material this year except as understudies. F. W. Pettey, M. E. Fassett, E. Lamb, M. R. Sumner, H. P. Sweetser, W. H. Andrews, and W. MacDonald are showing up well in various parts, but it will require two or three weeks to try out the characters and make a definite assignment of parts. Rehearsals are held Tuesday and Thursday evenings in 33 Agricultural Hall from seven to nine.

 FACULTY NOTES.

Dean Stevens visited Higgins Classical Institute at Charleston and East Corinth Academy on Wednesday, Feb. 16.

Mr. R. R. Drummond of the German department has recently been awarded the degree of Ph. D. by the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Drummond graduated from here in the class of 1905 and spent four years at Pennsylvania, holding a Harrison Fellowship the last two years. He came here to assume his duties last fall.

Prof. G. W. Thompson visited the Hampden High School on Thursday, Feb. 17.

Dr. Chrysler was elected to membership in the Botanical Society of America at the recent meeting in December. Membership in this society is very exclusive and a decided honor in that only those who are prominent in botanical research and study are eligible.

Prof. Drew and Mrs. Drew have been unexpectedly called to Jamaica, Iowa, on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Drew's father.

Dr. Chrysler visited Waterville High School, Coney High School at Augusta, Fairfield and Oakland High Schools, and Coburn Classical Institute during the past week.

Bates college is making a systematic campaign to complete the raising of $50,000, in order to receive the subscription offered by Mr. Carnegie for a permanent science fund.

 JUNIOR CIVIL MEETING.

The February meeting of the Junior Civil Society was held in the Library, Thursday evening. Talks were given by L. J. Wertheim, '11, W. F. Wilson, '11, and A. M. Blanchard, '11, on the various aspects of sewerage systems and sewerage disposal.

Prof. Brown announced that Prof. Breed of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will speak to the Society on Monday, Feb. 28, and Mr. Thaddeus Merriman, of the Board of Water Supply of New York City, on Friday, March 4. Both of these speakers are engineers of wide experience and will be heard with much interest.

 CAMPUS CHAT.

A. E. Crabtree, '12, and G. J. Wentworth, '10, have lately presented to the museum three excellent species of duck. They are found on the Maine coast during winter. A white deer, killed near Greenfield, Me., has been purchased by Dr. Drew.

H. E. Winn, '12, has been pledged to Delta Tau Delta.

The next entertainment by the Literati will be a musical program by the orchestra.

The arrangements recently made in the baseball cage for jumping are proving very beneficial to broad and high jumpers.

I. M. Bradbury, '13, has been very ill for several days.

C. L. Graham, '10, last week attended the Theta Chi banquet at Norwich University, Northfield, Mass.

A student at Dartmouth carrying more than fifteen hours work will receive credit for those fifteen hours in which he has the highest standing.

The Bowdoin Student Council has voted to abandon the New York baseball trip this year because of the heavy expense.

Eighty-five per cent of the whole student body at Kansas University purchased season athletic tickets.

It is reported that Wellesley College will retain its secret societies but their membership will be restricted to seniors.

"The system of waiting until December before 'chinning' men for fraternities has proved a failure at Dartmouth. The causes seem to have been the bitterness of the rivalry engendered by the prolongation of the rushing, the mutual distrust and suspicion, and the artificiality of the preliminary procedure."—Vermont Cynic.

Students at the University of Vermont are advocating a system of student government, after the form just inaugurated at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A system of inter-fraternity social gatherings has been started at Colby college.

In about every third one of the four thousand caps ordered for the freshmen at Michigan, were found ardent love notes written in many different languages.

Columbia University, having a registration of 6,142 students, is today the largest institution in the country.

The New York Post estimates the value of fraternity houses in this country to be over $8,000,000.

225 foreign students are enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania, said to be the greatest number matriculating at any American university.
