SOPHOMORE HOP

The Sophomore Hops and the Junior Proms have been raised to such a high plane here for the last few years that it is now impossible to say that one excels another from year to year. People who have attended some of these dances in the past will, however, know what it means to say that this Hop, held in the gymnasium Friday evening was a complete success.

The most impressive feature of the dance probably was the decorations. As one entered the gymnasium the steel beams were completely obscured by a "ceiling" of white crepe paper, which twisted in strips across the hall, formed a gently arching roof. These strips were hung over wires and fastened to the bottom of the balcony, from which others extended beneath the track. The walls were draped with tapestries and banners and hundreds of sofa pillows brightened up the seats and chairs. Opposite the entrance was fastened to the balcony a large board with blue bulbs outlining a huge "M," and white bulbs making the figures "1912." Directly over the entrance was a large white illuminated star with "12" in the center. All these decorations so carefully thought out and so tastefully arranged by the committee and their classmates, were beautifully simple.

The guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Fellows, Mrs. E. A. Balentine, Professor G. W. Thompson, and W. E. Parker, president of the class. The patronesses were: Mrs. L. J. Reed, Mrs. S. D. Chambers, Mrs. W. E. Farnham, Mrs. R. P. Gray, Mrs. R. H. McKee, Mrs. C. A. Varnum, Mrs. C. W. Easley, Mrs. B. H. Moulton, Mrs. M. J. Parcher, Mrs. A. A. Kelley, Mrs. E. L. Leib, Mrs. J. A. Harrington, and Mrs. H. A. Lord.

William R. Ballou acted as floor director and his aids were: B. C. Kent, E. F. Carleton, Alden Chase, E. W. McKeen, G. B. Spear, K. D. Woodward, A. W. Benson, S. L. Pinkham, Warren

McDonald, W. R. Witham, A. E. Page, W. H. Lilley, H. E. Thompson, C. S. Cleaves, W. E. Perkins, and R. W. McDonald. The committee to whom belongs the credit for the arrangement of the Hop was C. A. Batty, chairman, R. S. Hopkinson, Benjamin Haskell, R. B. Josselyn, and C. S. Morrill.

One of the things that will be remembered about this dance was the music furnished by Pullen's orchestra. Notwithstanding the excellent music which Pullen usually gives, he seemed to take special pride in furnishing music appropriate to the spirit of the occasion and the decorations and every number was excellently rendered.

JUNIORS AT THE CANOE CLUB

With recollections of their own banquet brought to mind by the Freshman Banquet Friday night, the juniors went down to the Conduskeag Canoe Club Saturday evening, and indulged in another "feed," even better than their former one, though surrounded perhaps with a less exciting atmosphere. Covers were laid for sixty men and at quarter of nine the crowd sat down to an excellent dinner of oysters, chicken, salads and ice-cream.

The food had been stored safely away and those who were down on the menu for toasts were beginning to wonder what they should say, when in walked two of the club members just returned from smelting, and one of them remarked. "Now we are going to have the goldarnest bear fight that ever was." What ensued may have been a bear fight and may not,—it's hard telling—but at any rate a good many took part in it and their antics weren't all alike.

After a while Toastmaster H. W. Ingham got a word in edgewise and introduced Coach Keefe, who gave a brief talk on baseball, and he was followed by M. J. McHale, M. C. McCarthy, G. A.

FRESHMAN BANQUET

While the Sophomore Hop was being held in Orono, last Friday evening, the Freshman Banquet took place in Ellsworth. On the special train which left Bangor were 110 freshmen, and when they arrived in Ellsworth, they proceeded to parade the streets in military formation, and let the inhabitants know that they were there.

At eight o'clock, the banquet was served at the American House. After all the courses had been finished, the toasts were enjoyed under the direction of William Sansouci, the toastmaster. Those who responded to the toasts were: E. H. Bigelow, F. H. Eales, T. C. MacLaughlin, D. M. Harrington, H. P. Ayer, W. S. Carter, W. E. Murphy, A. F. McAlary, R. T. Huntington, D. F. Getchell, I. B. Cushing, E. E. Chase, and R. E. Young.

After the toasts the crowd went over to the town hall, where there was a dance in progress. As there were many young ladies present, a large number of the freshmen enjoyed dancing until one o'clock, when they all adjourned to the hotel, where cheers for Maine and 1913 were mingled with songs and stories. At three o'clock the special started on its return trip, arriving in Orono at 4.30, where with one last cheer for 1913, the class broke up.

This is the first time in the history of the University when the date and place of the Freshman Banquet were known to everybody and no effort was made to prevent it. The reason for this was, that owing to the hazing difficulties which arose last fall, the sophomore class decided that the affair could not be broken up without meeting the disapproval of the Faculty and Trustees, and so it was arranged between the two classes that the banquet should take place at the same time as the Sophomore Hop.

JUNIOR WEEK

This time of the year finds the committee in charge of Junior Week hard at work. The programmes and dance orders are already ordered. The former will be of brown leather with the Maine seal and a photographic engraving of the Library on the cover.

The programme for the week's entertainment is similar to that of former years. The innovation of last year, the steamer trip down the Penobscot, will be repeated this year and will include a trip to Verona Park and a clam-bake there.

The full programme is as follows:

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1.

- 8.00 P. M. Junior Exhibition Speaking, Chapel.
- 9.00 P. M. Informal Dance, Gymnasium.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2.

- 1.00 P. M. Junior Lunch, Library.
- 3.00 P. M. Ivy Day Exercises, Chapel.
- 4.00 P. M. Planting of Class Ivy.
- 8.00 P. M. University of Maine Dramatic Club presents "A Pair of Spectacles," Gymnasium.

FRIDAY, JUNE 3.

- 9.30 A. M. Tennis Finals for Southard Medals.
- 2.30 P. M. Baseball game (pending).
- 9.00 P. M. Junior Promenade, Gymnasium.

SATURDAY, JUNE 4.

- 11.15 A. M. Excursion to Verona Park down Penobscot River from Bangor.
- 8.00 P. M. Open House at the Fraternities.

The Junior Week committee which is composed of George D. Bearce, chairman, Ernest T. Walker, Leslie J. Wertheim, Harold G. Wood, and Frank E. Southard, are working hard to make this one of the most successful Weeks in the history of the University.

The programme for the Ivy Day exercises is as follows.:

- Marshal, PHILIP STANWOOD STROUT
- Music
- Prayer.....
- FREDERICK LINCOLN CHENERY
- Address by Class President.....
- GEORGE ARTHUR WAKEFIELD

Those elected for trials for the exhibition speakers are: F. L. Chenery, Miss A. H. Gilbert, G. H. Howe, Jr., Miss M. L. Prentiss, C. D. Rea, F. E. Southard, M. R. Sumner, Miss F. E. Taylor, S. Waite, B. O. Warren, and E. O. Whittier. Five of these will be selected for the exhibition June first.

At the Promenade the reception committee will be Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Oak, President and Mrs. George E. Fellows, and George A. Wakefield, class president. There will be many innovations this year in the dance which will include 24 numbers with no extras. The music will be furnished by Pullen's orchestra of Bangor. The Prom committee, composed of A. H. Hart, chairman, L. M. Gerrish, R. R. Day, B. C. Markle, and George H. Howe, Jr., is working hard to make this affair one to be remembered. The floor committee for the Prom is as follows: Robert C. Marshall, floor director; Aids: P. S. Strout, J. W. Everett, W. Peckham, H. G. Wood, D. R. Duran, M. F. McCarthy, J. L. Dinsmore, N. C. Pinkham, F. L. Chenery, F. W. Nason, W. L. Gooch, D. N. Peaslee, and C. R. Quineen.

California won its fifth annual track meet from Leland Stanford last week by the score 80 to 41.

To qualify for membership in the Quo Vadis Club at Iowa University, one must have travelled one thousand miles without a railroad ticket or cash fare.

EXHIBITION GAME WITH COLBY

On April 20, Coach Keefe will take the baseball squad to Waterville in order to try conclusions with the Colby contingent. Last Patriot's Day Maine won a 1 to 0 victory. The game, which is for exhibition purposes only, will give the coach an opportunity to get a line on the new abilities of the various players.

Because of the conditions which have prevailed upon the field this year, it has been almost impossible to judge the playing of all of the men. It is yet rather early to make forecasts in regard to the strength of the team, but it is generally conceded that the pitching department will be stronger than ever.

There are now at least two men out for every position and before the season is over there will undoubtedly be several changes. The men last year were especially weak on the bases but this year they are much faster and their batting has been improved to a great extent. The following men have been picked for the trip, but in all probability it will not be the regular line-up which will participate in the intercollegiate series: Smith, Carleton, catchers; McHale, Richards, pitchers; Bearce, first base; Kiernan, second base; J. Scales, short stop; McKeen, Johnson third base; N. Scales, McCarthy, Phillips, outfielders.

MINERAL ACQUISITIONS

The University museum has recently received from the National Museum at Washington about two hundred specimens of minerals and rocks. It will be some time before they can be properly entered and classified, but some of the most interesting specimens have been temporarily placed on exhibition in the southeast corner of the geological and mineralogical museum. The cut and polished septarian nodule is especially good. The collection is rich in illustrative material for the work in economic geology, including ores, the raw materials used in making Portland cement, phosphates, potash salts, and several grades of asbestos.

EDITORIAL.

IT seems a pity that no custom has ever been regularly pursued by the graduating classes in regard to presenting some token to the University which shall be of value in connection with educational work or the beautification of the campus. Many classes to be sure, have left behind them some mark or other, but the custom has not been consistently lived up to.

Such a condition is unusual and rather unaccountable, as the practice of leaving some tribute of love and appreciation is almost a universal one among graduating classes in American colleges. Probably the direct reason that such a plan has not been followed here is that no system has been established. The idea has been suggested many times by individuals and there is no doubt of the wishes and desires of all, but the fact remains that nothing of much account is being done.

No arguments have been raised against the proposal and the sooner some class initiates the custom, the greater its value will be. The present senior class has over one hundred members and it could do much towards making a beginning and a foundation for future classes to build upon. A committee from the class could consult members of the Faculty or the alumni and after obtaining their ideas, construct some efficient plan which would ultimately result in something of worth and importance. It should certainly be considered by the class at an early date.

THIS is the final issue of THE CAMPUS which the present board will have charge of. As a last word, the board desires to express its thanks and appreciation of the interest and help, both from request and voluntary, that have been tendered it during the past year. Faculty, alumni and students have aided greatly, and the task of publishing the paper has been made a pleasant and a profitable one. THE CAMPUS can be made a powerful influence at Maine, but to be such, it must have the assistance of all. The best that can be wished for the succeeding board is that the same spirit which has been shown this year will continue to prevail.

MUSICAL CLUB TRIP

Saturday, April 2nd, the Musical Clubs went to Hallowell, where they gave an excellent concert in the evening. Many who have heard the clubs for several years declared that it was the best program that they had ever had the pleasure of listening to, and complimented the clubs very highly. All in all everyone has reason to feel proud of the Musical Clubs this year and the manner in which all the concerts have been received speaks volumes for the work that the members have done this year. Special praise of the Hallowell concert was given by the Kennebec Journal in its account of the affair. A concert at Waterville had also been planned for the same trip, but at the last moment it was found necessary to cancel it.

Last Wednesday night the clubs appeared under the auspices of Lodge Number 106, Knights of Pythias, in the town hall at Orono. This was the first concert under this direction, but it is planned to make an annual affair hereafter, thus giving the students another opportunity to hear their own Musical Clubs.

Next week the clubs make another trip appearing at Castine, April 20th, Rockland, April 21st, and Camden April 22nd. After this will come the concert which will probably create the most interest among the undergraduates, when the clubs appear on the campus. Manager Wood plans to make this the biggest concert of the season, and it will be a concert and dance, held at Alumni Hall, May 13th. Upon this occasion a personal canvas of the student body will be made, and the fact will be impressed upon each member that if he wants to hear the best concert ever given by the University of Maine Clubs, the opportunity must not be passed by.

There are many seniors who have never seen the clubs and this will be the best and the last chance which they will have during their college course. The sole object of the musical clubs is to advertise the University and they should be aided in every way by all who have the interest of their Alma Mater at heart.

LIFE AND WORKS OF WORDSWORTH

In dealing with the Life and Works of Wordsworth, the subject of the general lecture of last Wednesday, Professor Thompson showed that the poet's life was subjected especially to two important influences, the influence of nature and the influence of the democratic principles that animated the French revolutionists; and further that his poetry, strongly marked by these influences and dealing largely with nature and lowly life, expressed a conscious revolt against the poetry of the School of Pope and embodied the main characteristics of the new Romantic Movement.

Although Wordsworth's early life was that of an active normal schoolboy, he manifested peculiar sensitiveness to the beauty and wonder of the world of nature about him. These impressions eagerly and thoughtlessly absorbed without effort, which he came in later life to regard as the most valuable part of his education, served richly as poetic material in his more mature years.

At Cambridge he took a lively interest in the principles of the French Revolution, principles essentially in accord with his own democratic and liberty loving temper of mind, and eagerly looked forward to changes that would free his fellowmen from the social and political oppression of the times. He made two trips to France and was saved from plunging into the tumult of the great Revolution only by the intervention of his home people. Disappointed and disillusioned at the excesses of the revolutionists and at the failure to realize his hopes of better times, he passed through a long period of despondency and skepticism, from which he only gradually recovered under the gentle influence of his sister and the consoling power of nature and a simple rural life.

By the publication of the "Lyrical Ballads" in 1798, to which Coleridge contributed "The Ancient Mariner," Wordsworth came before the public as the conscious exponent of the Romantic Movement.

Revolting against the superficiality and conventionalism of the school of Pope, which he thought treated poetry as a mere pastime or external adornment, he proposed to exemplify a return to naturalness and simplicity, making poetry a vehicle for the conveyance of the most vital truths of human life, though withal a source of the highest pleasure.

In dealing with nature Wordsworth has done more than any other English poet toward giving a poetic interpretation of the world that lies about us, toward teaching its power of healing, its power of mental invigoration, of moral and spiritual uplift, its simple, yet vital and profound wisdom. The wisdom or spiritual force to be derived from nature was to Wordsworth a deep reality. He experienced it and succeeded largely in revealing it to his readers.

Between man and nature, Wordsworth finds a very close affinity; and experiences of people in lowly life, living near to nature, form a considerable part of the subject matter of his poetry. Among such people more than elsewhere, he finds in operation the ennobling influences of nature; among such people he finds most clearly and pleasingly revealed the primary emotions, loves, joys and sorrows, the presentation of which with the proper heightening of imagination he considered to be the great function of poetry.

In his "Prelude," the introduction to "The Recluse," a long poem never completed, Wordsworth records the impressions made upon his mind "from his earliest recollection until his full manhood."

"Tintern Abbey" is a characteristic nature poem and "Michael" a characteristic poem dealing with man. Wordsworth's earlier and shorter poems are superior to his later and longer ones. In 1843 at the death of Southey, he was made poet-laureate. Southey affords us the pleasing testimony that Wordsworth's "life does not belie his writings; for in every relation of life and every point of view he is a truly exemplary and admirable man."

Cornell, Columbia and University of Pennsylvania have signed a three-year agreement calling for three more pairs of simultaneous intercollegiate debates.

REORGANIZATION

At the meeting of the Athletic Association, Haskell, '11, was elected captain of the team.

The special meeting brought in a report on the constitution, the report of the Athletic Association, the election of officers.

The proposed changes in the place of the Athletic Association would consist of three alumni, three undergraduates, three members, three class and one same manner for the election of officers.

The report of the secretary of the Athletic Association in May, by the Athletic Association for each of the names proposed by a nominating committee consist of a fraternity and twenty-five members.

The report of the Athletic Association for various reasons for later meeting.

REORGANIZATION OF THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Athletic Association last Tuesday, W. O. Haskell, '11, was elected manager of the tennis team.

The special committee on the constitution brought in a report which was discussed at length. The report proposes several changes in the constitution, the most important ones dealing with the Athletic Board and with the nomination and election of officers.

The proposed Athletic Board would take the place of the present Executive Committee. It would consist of the president of the association, three alumni, to be chosen by the General Alumni Association; three members of the Faculty; and three undergraduates. Of the undergraduate members, two would be chosen from the junior class and one from the sophomore class, in the same manner and at the same time as is provided for the election of the officers.

The report proposes that the president, and secretary of the association be elected annually in May, by Australian ballot. Two candidates for each office would be nominated and their names posted at least two weeks before election, by a nominating committee, this committee to consist of one representative from each national fraternity and local society, and one from every twenty-five non-fraternity members.

The report was referred back to the committee for various corrections, and will be taken up at a later meeting.

PRESS CLUB REORGANIZATION

Professor Gray called the members of the Press Club together last Thursday evening and held a smoker in the Library, during which plans for more effective publicity of the University in the State newspapers were discussed. These included a reorganization of the club, the securing of rooms for meetings, the obtaining of credit for press work, and the issuing of news bulletins.

THE ORIGINATOR OF STATE UNIVERSITY PLAN

Last Thursday was the 100th anniversary of the birth of the man whose name is attached to an act passed by Congress in 1862 for the establishment of an institution in every state of the Union for the teaching of agriculture and the mechanic arts and under which have been founded no fewer than sixty-seven universities. This man was Justin S. Morrill, who at the time of his death a few years ago had served one of the longest periods in the House of Representatives and the Senate in the history of Congress, and whose name had been connected with numerous other public services besides this act.

For ten minutes in chapel that morning, President Fellows appropriately paid tribute to this man's memory in a speech which briefly mentioned the most important things in his career, the history of the land-grant act, and the greatness of this step in the educational development of this Country.

Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY

At the first meeting of the Christian Association, held under the new set of officers, President H. R. Sargent, '11, announced the chairmen of most of the committees for the ensuing year and plans for increasing the efficiency of the Association next year were discussed at length. A meeting of the council was held yesterday and the subject of securing a secretary for next year was taken up. Although it is late to begin to raise funds for such a purpose, it is quite possible to obtain a man and the matter will be pushed this spring. Athletics cannot prosper without a director and it can hardly be expected that Y. M. C. A. interests can do better without someone to devote all or most of his time to them.

The heads of committees so far named are:—membership, A. S. Atwood, '11; handbook, H. R. Sargent, '11; editor and manager, M. D. Jones, '12; finance, L. C. Smith, '13; meetings, C. H. George, '12; Bible study, M. D. Jones, '12; music, Raymond Floyd, '13; mission work, F. C. Stuart, '13; Northfield, C. A. Wescott, '13.

DORMITORY UNDER WAY

Just north of Oak Hall and extending to within eight feet of the athletic field is a big rectangular hole, which has been made in a very few days by a large crew of workmen, digging industriously with pick-axe and shovel and hauling out the earth into a huge mound twenty feet high. This is where the foundations are about to be laid for the dormitory, authorized by the last legislature. Smith & Rumery of Portland, the contractors, have almost completed the excavating and they will soon begin the construction.

A full description of the proposed building has been printed in a past issue of THE CAMPUS. It is intended that the dormitory will be ready for occupancy by September and a number of students have already engaged rooms there. It will accommodate ninety men, far fewer than the number who are unable to secure accommodations on the campus, yet its construction is a step in the development of the University, the influence of which is sure to be felt strongly in the near future by making the student body more united.

STEREOPTICAN LECTURE

Mr. James L. McConaughy secretary of the Bowdoin Christian Association, gave a very interesting informal talk to the members of the Y. M. C. A., Thursday evening, in Coburn Hall. The lecture, which took up the Northfield student conference, a subject very interesting for discussion in itself, was made more impressive by the use of a large number of lantern slides. These were a great aid to the speaker in giving his audience an idea of the beauty of Northfield, the buildings of the seminary, and the members and kind of people who gather there in the summer.

The enthusiasm with which many colleges, including several New England institutions, support the student conference, was clearly illustrated. Yale always has more than a hundred delegates and colleges nearer the size of the University have large representations.

Last year Maine had only two men there, whereas three years ago there were nine in the delegation. The Association will work hard this year to have more men there than it did last year, and Mr. McConaughy's talk went far toward arousing an interest among the students in the meetings.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Chase lectured at Harvard on Saturday, April 9, substituting for Prof. George H. Chase in his regular class in Classical Archaeology. While there Prof. Chase also attended a meeting of the Latin Departments of New England Colleges which met to decide in regard to changes in entrance requirements in Latin.

Dean Hart visited Brownville High School on April 12.

The Arts Club met last Saturday evening with Prof. Gray. The subject of Woman's Suffrage was discussed very interestingly by Professor Sprague and Professor Colvin.

CAMPUS CHAT

Mrs. Knapp of Bath, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Kelley, matron at the Delta Tau Delta House.

The Kappa Sigma House is being repainted.

R. R. Day, '11, who has been ill, is again able to attend recitations.

J. W. Carey, '13, is coaching Bangor High in track and baseball this spring.

A. E. Oak, '10, paid a short visit to his home in Caribou at the end of last week.

M. S. Pope, '13, has not returned to college from vacation yet on account of an abcess on his hand.

K. R. Fox, '10, has not been attending college lately as his father has been seriously ill.

J. L. McConaughy, secretary of the Bowdoin Y. M. C. A., was a guest at the Beta House last week.

The Young Women's Christian Association held a very successful sale in Coburn Hall last Tuesday.

The speaker was the R. Maine.

ALUMNI NOTES

'07.

Lucius D. Barrows was the speaker last Monday at the meeting of the Junior Civil Society. Mr. Barrows has just commenced work in his new position as assistant to Paul D. Sargent, State Highway Commissioner.

Rex Gellerson, has left Allen's shoe-store in Old Town, and has gone into business with his brother at Fort Fairfield.

Miss Mildred Mansfield, who is teaching in Cherryfield, Me., spent her vacation at her home in Orono, and has just returned to Cherryfield to resume her work for the spring term of school.

Jack Jewett was a visitor on the campus last week.

William O. Smith, is at present in Buffalo, doing consulting engineering work for W. B. Jackson of Chicago and Boston.

ex-'10.

Thurlow T. Workman has recently gone to Nebraska in the employment of The Bickmore Gall Cure Co., of Old Town. His work will continue until late in the fall, and will cover the state of Nebraska. Last year he held a similar position with this company and had for a field the state of Kansas.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES.

Junior Week at Leland Stanford will consist of an opera, prom, Marathon, and water carnival.

At the University of Missouri, two students are candidates for election to the city council.

Japanese students are being exclusively engaged as waiters by the fraternities at Wisconsin University, thus depriving many white students of the opportunity of earning their college expenses.

"The Tech" of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is running a voting contest, publishing a vote in its paper daily, and the student collecting the greatest number by April 13, gets a copy of the annual publication.

The University of Michigan cleared over $2,000 from this season's dramatic production.

Among the decorations to be used by Syracuse for the Senior Ball will be eight thousand chrysanthemums and three thousand roses.

According to a Michigan professor, Eastern oratory is thirty-six years behind the Western.

The University of Minnesota proposes to add a fully equipped brewery to the Agricultural department.

Gildersleeve, who coached the N. H. State College team last fall, will coach the Massachusetts Agricultural College football squad next season.

A new national fraternity, Phi Delta Kappa, has been formed with chapters at the University of Missouri, University of Indiana, and Columbia University.

It seems to be only a question of a few years when airship meets will be a feature of inter-collegiate contests. The University of Pennsylvania Aero Club has sent invitations to all universities and colleges in the United States to the first Intercollegiate Aeronautic Convention to be held at Philadelphia April 1 and 2, for the purpose of effecting an organization and arranging a series of intercollegiate meets and model and gliding contests.

Prof. H. E. Slaught of the University of Chicago is preparing a text on geometry which is expected to make its study more popular by giving the science practical application in daily lessons. There is a theorem which deals with the vital question how far to bring a football out to get the best angle from which to kick. There is also one by which, in the author's words, "a tree can be measured without climbing," and all these are simply the old abstract theorems practically applied.—Vermont Cynic.
