Maine easily defeated Colby by the score of 8 to 2 in the first game of the season at Waterville on Patriot's Day, April 19. The contest does not count in the race for the state championship, but it was invaluable in getting a line on the team for the coming games. There was a murmur

Maine has every right to feel immensely gratified at the showing of the team, as every man exhibited true mid-season form. Probably the most satisfactory feature of the game was the work of Richards, the freshman south-paw, who of approval as the Maine nine ran upon the field in their new white suits, and they soon made good their right to wear them. Colby started in with a rush, scoring twice in the first inning, but by hard hitting and clean, sharp fielding the Maine boys outplayed their opponents at every point and shut them out for the balance of the game.

pitched all of the nine innings. He pulled out of several holes that looked bad with a coolness that was worthy of a veteran, and also had one hit to his credit. The men all hit well. Smith led with three hits, Captain McHale made two, and J. J. Scales roped in a three-bagger. Bearce at first, played a remarkably steady game for the first one while Johnson and Kiernan, the two freshmen infielders, both made a good showing. Phillips, McKeen, and Bird were taken on the trip but were not used.

Colby was rather weak, especially in the infield. Captain Good tried out two freshmen pitchers, both of whom proved rather ineffective, due probably to some extent to poor support.

THE NEW ENGLAND TRIP

The baseball team left Sunday for the annual trip through Vermont and Massachusetts. Owing to the fine showing which it made at Waterville last week, great things are expected of it in the games out of the state. Manager McCarthy has arranged four games for the trip. The team will first try conclusions with Norwich University on Tuesday afternoon at Northfield, Vt. On Wednesday it will meet the University of Vermont at Burlington. Vermont always has a strong team, and the result of this game will be awaited with a good deal of interest on the campus. On Thursday the team will go to Middlebury, Vt., where it will play Middlebury College. There is no game schedule for Friday, and the team will go to Boston, where it will play Boston College Saturday afternoon.

McHale will do much of the pitching, assisted by Richards, and Smith will probably do most of the work behind the bat.

The other men who are on the trip are Phillips, catcher, Bearce, first base, Kiernan, second base, Johnson, third base, J. Scales, shortstop, Pond, left field, N. Scales, right field, and Bird, substitute.

SPECIAL MEETING EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The consideration of the proposed constitution for the Athletic Association, with its radical changes in the control and direction of the athletics of the University, called for a special meeting of the present executive committee last Wednesday evening at the Library. A careful study of each section is absolutely necessary, since this matter has such a vital connection with the entire future success of athletics here, and it will probably be some time yet before any action can be taken.

A few other matters came up at this meeting, including the election of G. L. Parker, '12, as assistant manager of the football team, to take the place of C. G. Morrill, who resigned, and the appointment of C. A. Hall, '10, S. Waite, '11, and A. L. Maddox, '10, as a committee to look up a suitable place to use as a trophy room.

OFFICERS OF NEW PRESS CLUB

The steps taken to reorganize the Press Club and put it on a basis to justify its existence and meet a dire need in the publicity of the University, have resulted so far in the election of a set of officers and the making of these into a committee to confer with Professor Gray in regard to a constitution. Since Professor Gray, to whose efforts is due the reorganization of the club, was not present, no further business was transacted. It was thought best to have a constitution, as some of the things which the club proposes to do will probably involve more or less money and other matters for the settlement of which a constitution will prove convenient.

The officers chosen at the meeting last Wednesday were: George H. Howe, Jr., '11, president; B. O. Warren, '11, vice-president; L. A. McKenny, '12, secretary; A. H. Hart, '11, treasurer. Another meeting will be held in the near future and it is likely that steps will be taken for bringing all the newspaper correspondents together, securing correspondents for many papers which now have none, and for placing the University more systematically before the people of the State.

MILITARY HOP NEXT

The Military Hop committee, of which C. W. Underhill, '13, is acting chairman on account of the illness of C. E. Chandler, '13, has decided to depart from the custom of the last two years and make the affair this year informal. Next Friday evening is the date and because of the informality of the occasion it is expected that fully as large a number will be present as has attended any college dance this year. Major G. E. Springer, '10 of the Battalion will act as floor director.

The dance will be preceded for an hour by an exhibition drill of the three companies, in which Co. A. will have platoon movements, Co. B. firings, and Co. C. Butt's Manual.

The library hours have been changed from 7.00-9.30 P. M. to 6.45-9.10 P. M.

MUSICAL CLUB CONCERT

The date of the Musical Club concert and dance has been set for May 7, instead of May 13 as first reported. This will be the evening of the Vermont-Maine dual meet and will serve to put a splendid top on the day's enjoyment.

The concert and dance will be held in Alumni Hall and Manager Wood is putting forth his best efforts to make the affair the most enjoyable one the clubs have given this year. Wherever they have played this season, they have given the greatest satisfaction and entertainment and are certainly the best musical organization of its kind in the State.

No special number on the program can be singled out as deserving extra mention. The separate clubs are doing the best in their history; the readers, soloists, and the quartet are too well known to need any comment. This last concert is intended to be the best. Music for the dance will be furnished by the University orchestra of 7 pieces.

Coming on the evening of the meet, as it does, it will be a big affair, packed with fun and noise, and the fellow who misses it, whether or not he has a young lady for company, will be making a bad mistake, to say the least.

SINGS ON LIBRARY STEPS

Beginning Sunday, May first, the Y. M. C. A. will try a new departure in its meetings. Instead of the regular mid-week meeting on Thursday, a gathering will be held Sunday evening at 6.30, on the Library steps. The meeting will consist largely of singing, but there will be a short address by some interesting speaker.

That the first meeting will be worth while is shown by the fact that Professor G. W. Thompson has consented to take charge of the singing and Professor Sprague will be the speaker. Surely these two men, the one with his ability for directing singing, and the other with his interesting practical talks, will make the gatherings worth attending.

EDITORIAL.

ONE of the most important changes that has taken place in the student interests of the University in a long time, and which is of vital moment to the promotion and enlargement of our Alma Mater is now under consideration by the Executive Committee of the Athletic Association. It is the proposed revision of the constitution and by-laws of the Association.

A reason that has frequently been advanced for the lack of spontaneous enthusiasm in the student body is our poor success in athletics in late years. Two things are now being done which are bound to put our athletics upon a better basis and make the students feel a direct interest in their management. These are the appointment of an athletic director to assume office next year and this sweeping change in the administration of the student side of athletics.

The chief alterations were outlined in the last issue of THE CAMPUS, and include the creation of an Athletic Board of seven members to take the place of the present Executive Committee, the nomination of all officers, except the treasurer, and the managers by a nominating committee with one member to every fraternity, society, and twenty-five non-fraternity men, and the election of these officers by the Association.

The principle of this change is highly commendable. In the first place it will do away with a committee which has proved unwieldy, dilatatory, and often unrepresentative of the sentiments of the students. It will center the responsibility for the proper direction of the University's athletics in an Athletic Board, small enough to work with facility, yet so constituted from the two upper classes, the Faculty, and the Alumni that no rash and unwarranted action need be anticipated.

What is of far more importance, however, is the placing of the elections in the hands of the Association, which will be practically the student body. It will give us for the first time in the history of the Association a democratic control of athletics. It will bring the students face to face with the proposition, "Who is the best man for the position?" and it will make them interested. They will feel that the officers whom they see before them have been put there by them, not by a committee with which they have had only a vague connection; reciprocally the officers will feel that it is the student body that has placed them where they are. Such conditions are bound to create a strong wave of athletic interest among our students.

The proposed constitution and by-laws are being carefully studied by the committee. Copies of them are to be found at the University office and it is your duty, Maine men, to secure copies and study them too. Pay especial attention to articles six, eight and nine of the constitution, and articles two and five of the by-laws. It is the Association, not the Executive Committee, that will have to adopt or reject these propositions.

THE track season will be upon us next Saturday with the Interclass Meet. This will be followed on successive Saturdays by the dual meet with Vermont, the State Meet at Waterville, and the N. E. I. A. A. Meet. Two things we must do this spring: we must defeat Vermont in this first contest and on our own field, and we must win the State Meet.

If ever "must" was the word, it is now! Three years we have competed in the State Meets and lost. Are you, six hundred fellows who are proud to call Maine your college, willing to let this happen again. This year you have some things in your favor. You have a coach whose methods worked very successfully during the indoor season and who is giving you all the coaching knowledge he has. Then you have a much longer time to train; you have a home meet before the State Meet, in which more men can take part than if it were away; and you have many opportunities to make good, especially a week from Saturday, when Bearce, Phillips, and Pond, three strong men, will be playing baseball at Brunswick. All these things you have in your favor. Are you going to grasp them?

THIS is the first issue of THE CAMPUS by its new board of editors, and we trust that you will wink at its defects. We shall try to issue as good a paper as the board did last year. We shall be grateful for criticisms and we solicit your help in securing every bit of news about the University. In the main corridor of Alumni Hall, just at the right of the entrance to the Secretary's office is a modest little yellow box. In that we want you to drop items about yourselves and anyone else, and we wish the secretaries of all societies would put there notices of meetings for the calendar, which should be of much value in announcing college affairs.

SINCE such a large number was present Thursday night to listen to the talk on Woman's Suffrage, it might be well to have as a preliminary a brief talk on that subject—by a woman—at the meetings of all our organizations.

DR. CALKINS AT FINAL VESPERS

Sunday, April 17, the last Vesper service of the present college year was held. The speaker, Rev. Dr. Raymond Calkins, of Portland, delivered an excellent address on "What Kind of a Life Should One Live?" Dr. Calkins is a fluent speaker, and an unusual opportunity was afforded the students to hear him at his best. It was especially fitting that Dr. Calkins should have been the speaker at this last Vesper Service, for it was through his efforts that these services were inaugurated two years ago.

At the close of the service Dr. Calkins met representatives from the Faculty and Y. M. C. A. to talk over plans for the services next year. A suggestion was made that the time of beginning these services be changed from three to four o'clock. Although the services have been successful this year, it is hoped that another year will find them more representative of the University through the cooperation of the Faculty and students.

LIFE AND WORKS OF BYRON

In the general lecture of last Wednesday, Professor Thompson dealt with the Life and Works of Byron. It was shown that heredity, unfavorable early training and later experience in life, combined to make Byron of all the romanticists the poet of rebellion.

Byron's career as a poet was divided roughly into four periods, the first of which began with the publication of "Hours of Idleness" when Byron was a student at Cambridge. In consequence of the severe criticism of these juvenile poems by the Edinburgh Review the fiery young poet struck back in a vigorous satirical poem entitled "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers." Although he later expressed some regret for this production it serves to show his early power as a satirist.

The next group of poems were largely the result of an extensive tour on the continent in which Byron in a spirit of adventure and romance penetrated the countries of the far East. Returning to England he published in 1812 the first two cantos of "Childe Harold's Pilgrimage," and awoke one morning and found himself famous. The charm of this poem was enhanced by the assumption on the part of readers that its theatrical hero represented the dashing young Lord Byron himself. Byron's fame was further increased by a rapid succession of melodramatic verse romances by which he eclipsed the healthier work of Scott. His popularity, however, was of short duration and when Lady Byron with her infant child abruptly left him society became as extreme in denouncing and reviling the poet as it had before been in praising and idolizing him. The accusations against Byron were apparently unfounded, though he had posed as a bold bad man in his poems; but he was ostracised, and sailing from England in 1816, he never returned.

The remaining eight years of Byron's life were spent chiefly in Italy. Among the works of the earlier part of this period may be mentioned "Manfred," his "witch drama;" "Cain: a Mystery;" and "The Prisoner of Chillon;" but most important of all, and representing his highest achievement in serious poetry, were the third and fourth cantos of "Childe Harold." His nature deepened by social distress, Byron now shows a new sincerity and strength, and there are in his poem passages of nature poetry, of description of ancient ruins, of historic reminiscence and of the pomp and horror of battle that possess the beauty and power of poetry that is truly heroic. Here too Byron gives powerful expression to one of the dominant motives of his writing, his sympathy for the oppressed and his sweeping spirit of rebellion against the whole monarchical system as reenforced by the victory of Waterloo.

In "Don Juan," the representative work of the last years of Byron's life, both pose and idealism are gone and he becomes a realist and satirist, a cynical portrayer of things as they are.

Don Juan, the youthful hero of his poem, representing the idea of the return to nature, follows his instincts innocently, thereby disregarding the conventions of social life and exposing and scandalizing the more sophisticated polite society that follows the same instincts, though under cover of the shams and hypocrisies of social convention. This poem with its brilliant wit, its sudden turns from sublime to ridiculous, its sardonic mockery of cant and sham is one of the most relentless exposures of the false pretense and vice of polite society ever written. Another example of Byron's power as a satirist is afforded by his "Vision of Judgment," a humorous and scathing parody of the poet-laureate Southey's absurd flattery of George III in a poem of the same title.

Critics do not yet agree as to Byron's place among poets, though few take exception to Matthew Arnold's conclusion that he possesses a "splendid and imperishable excellence which covers all his offenses and outweighs all his defects: the excellence of sincerity and strength." In his death Byron redeemed the heroic pose of his earlier poetry and became a martyr to his life-long rebellion against oppression, for in the cause of Greek freedom he found rest in "a soldier's grave."

FOOTBALL RULES REVISED

Before adjourning its session last week to meet again in Philadelphia to complete its work, the intercollegiate football rules committee tentatively adopted six important changes. They probably will be definitely adopted at the next meeting. They are:

1. Removal of the 5-yard restriction on the player who receives the ball from the snap back.
2. A requirement that seven men be maintained by the offense on the line of scrimmage.
3. Prohibition of the flying tackle.
4. Division of the game into four periods of 15 minutes each.
5. No pushing or pulling of the runner to be allowed.
6. Limitation of the on-side kick to twenty yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

These changes will weaken the offense so decidedly that other changes will be necessary to strengthen it.

In the interval before the next meeting of the committee, which will be held at the University club in Philadelphia on April 29, experiments will be carried on by each member of the committee at his own college, and on the result of these experiments will depend the plan which shall prevail.

Briefly stated, the changes so far adopted will result in the elimination to a large extent of mass plays and the substitution of open plays. The first change adopted was the removal of the present restriction that a runner receiving the ball directly from the snap back must run five yards to one side. This will make much better opportunity for good runs.

The second change will prevent the drawing back of linemen for offensive plays, and is a direct blow at mass plays.

The third change is the prohibition of the diving tackle. The flying tackle has been the cause of many injuries and the committee was agreed that it must go.

The fourth change consists in the division of each half into two periods of 15 minutes each, so that the game hereafter will consist of four 15-minute quarters. This change is made so that there may be better opportunity to determine the physical condition of the players.

The fifth change is intended to break up mass plays by preventing other members of a team pushing or pulling a runner.

The sixth change prescribes that an on-side kick must advance the ball twenty yards from the line of scrimmage. That is if the ball strikes the ground short of the twenty yards, the offense becomes off-side. This rule is also aimed at mass-plays.

DRAMATIC CLUB OPENS APRIL 29.

The 29th of April will be the opening date of the Dramatic Club's season with a performance at Lincoln under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge. Although the season will be later than usual this year there will be a number of performances in May, and as the last presentation is in Junior Week, the lateness of it this year will afford the opportunity for several appearances the last of May, which have never been possible before.

MUSICAL CLUBS TRIP

The Musical Clubs left Orono, Wednesday, April 20th, for their last trip this season, during which concerts were given at Castine, Rockland, and Camden. Twenty-four men took the boat from Bangor. The first concert was given there and although the day had been rainy, a large audience turned out to greet the clubs. The news of the excellent quality of work the clubs have been doing went before them, and the people of Castine didn't want to miss the opportunity of listening to the best musical club programme in the State. The concert was as usual followed by a dance.

Early Thursday morning the men took the boat for Rockland. There the programme was enjoyed by another large and appreciative audience. The last concert was given at Camden and it was a successful ending to a most successful trip.

An enjoyable freshman smoker was held at the Phi Eta Kappa House last Friday evening.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

A talk of a kind that had never been heard before in the Chapel was given last Thursday evening by Miss Florence Luscomb on Woman's Suffrage, a subject which, notwithstanding the great preponderance of men students in the University, attracted a large audience. Miss Luscomb was introduced by President Fellows, who spoke of her as a recent graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and now a professional architect in Boston. She was a very pleasing and animated speaker, and kept her hearers in good humor by frequent stories which always illustrated a point in her favor.

Her main line of argument centered about the right of women to the ballot, according to the principles upon which this government is founded, and their need for it in order to correct present evil laws respecting women and children. Lincoln, she said, gave strong support to equal suffrage on the grounds of democracy; at present this is not a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people," because it is directed by only half the people. Moreover, denial of the vote to women means taxation without representation, and it makes no difference whether women pay this tax directly or indirectly.

Of more consequence than the theoretical right of women to the ballot, however, Miss Luscomb continued, is their need of it to correct all sorts of abuses in society that the men will not or cannot put right. She discussed the fight that lasted fifty-five years in Massachusetts for the equal guardianship over children, which had been refused to the mothers because the law had been passed down from the old English laws. She also mentioned instances of the need of working women for better regulation of the conditions that surround them, yet laws for such purposes can not be enacted because the women have not the power to push them through.

Miss Luscomb declared that the opposition to woman's suffrage was based chiefly upon prejudice rather than sound reasoning, and that in the states of this Country and in other countries where it had been tried it had proved very successful. In closing she quoted a few statements from Judge Lindsey of Denver, whom she took as a sane and just authority on the subject.

JUNIOR CIVIL SOCIETY

The April smoker of the Junior Civil Society was held in the Library, Wednesday evening. Mr. L. I. Johnstone, of the civil engineering department, read a paper on Land Drainage in Minnesota. Talks were also given by E. C. Maxwell, '11, on the survey of the Buffalo, Rochester and Eastern railway, and by D. Hamlin, '11, on Mill Construction.

At the next meeting, to be held early in May, the Sophomore civil engineering students will be the guests of the Society. The executive committee hopes to obtain a railroad engineer of wide experience as the speaker of the evening and a very interesting meeting is anticipated.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING

The Agricultural Club held a very interesting meeting last Wednesday evening, the feature of the program being a half-hour talk by Prof. Simmons on Soil Moisture. A. L. Deering, '12, who was the delegate to the recent meeting of the New England Federation of Agricultural Students at Amherst, Mass., also gave his report. A nominating committee, consisting of F. E. Fortier, A. W. Jones, and L. S. Russell, was appointed.

A sort of a special meeting will be held this week with a lecture by Prof. Sprague on the Betterment of Agriculture in Lower Maine.

THE SONG BOOK

The publication of the song book has been delayed several days in order that an original song which was received late from W. A. Kimball, '09, might be included. The completed edition is now expected within a short time for distribution.

Monday evening, April 18th, the Theta Epsilon fraternity held their annual banquet.

Prof. H. K. Barrows of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology lectured before the civil engineering students last Monday, on the river gauging work of the U. S. Geological Survey. Prof. Barrows was formerly in charge of this work in New England.

This river work of the Survey was inaugurated in 1882, its object being to get statistics on the water powers of the Country. For this purpose the Country is divided into districts, each in charge of a district engineer. The State of Maine has been a separate district since the first of this year. The information gathered from this work will be of great value in any future power development.

The work consists of setting gauges to mark the height of the river, and of measuring the flow of water at different heights. When the relation between height and flow has been determined, the flow can be estimated from the gauge readings alone. Gauges are read twice daily, while flow measurements are made as often as finances will permit. The various methods of stream gauging were explained and illustrated by lantern slides.

In closing Prof. Barrows gave some interesting facts regarding our water powers, the figures being for 1908. At that time the total power of all kinds used in the country was thirty-five million horse-power. Of this amount, only five million was water power. Without further storage arrangements, it is possible to develop sixty-six million horse-power, and with additional storage basins, 200 millions horse-power is available. We have, then, water powers sufficient to supply our needs for many years.

In point of developed water power the State of Maine stands third in the Country. The northwestern states hold about one-third of the undeveloped power, and it is here that the great developments of the future will be seen.

CAMPUS CHAT

Miss Corbett, student secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will visit the Maine association this week and will have charge of the meeting Thursday afternoon.

Kirk Brown and his company, whom we greeted two years ago—do you remember it?—the night of the baseball victory over Harvard, and last year when our track team defeated Tufts, is at the Bangor Opera House this week. The play tonight is to be "Brown of Harvard" and last year's football team is to appear on the stage! How many Maine men will be there to witness its debut?

The Freshman pipe committee, of which C. W. Underhill is chairman, has placed an order for the class pipe with Estabrook and it will probably be filled in three weeks. The class has selected a poker design. The price will be $2.50.

In a very short time now the football men will be out for their spring practice. No definite plans have as yet been laid out, but the men will have a good opportunity to better their condition for the work next fall. Although no suits will be given out, shoes will be distributed, and the backs and ends will probably be in track suits, having practice in running down punts, and handling the ball in general.
