BRILLIANT FESTIVITIES MARK JUNIOR WEEK

G. H. HOWE, JR., WINNER EXHIBITION

Excellent Program of Five Orations—First Event of Junior Week

The initial affair of Junior Week was the Exhibition Speaking in Alumni Hall Wednesday evening, in which five speakers took part and which was won by George H. Howe, Jr., of Caribou, with an oration on "Cannon and Cannonism." The program was good throughout, the work of the speakers showing careful preparation in the writing of the orations and in their delivery.

G. H. HOWE, JR.

Mr. Howe treated his subject, which has been of especial interest to the general public during the past winter, from the standpoint of an attack upon Speaker Cannon of the House of Representatives and his methods in controlling that body, and an eulogy upon the fight that the insurgent congressmen are making against him. The subject itself, as well as his presentation of it, commanded the attention of all the auditors. The committee of award consisted of Rev. G. C. Howard, of Orono, Me., Hon. C. J. Dunn, of Orono, and Mr. R. A. Jordan of Bangor.

After the speaking the audience went into the gymnasium and enjoyed an informal dance for several hours. Music was furnished by the University orchestra.

The program for the speaking was as follows:

The Right of the Child to Play.....
ANNIE HOADLEY GILBERT
America's Interest in China.....
BENJAMIN OTIS WARREN
Cannon and Cannonism.....
GEORGE HENRY HOWE, JR.

IVY DAY SPEAKERS

Thompson acted as toastmaster for a few speeches. Prof. Thompson in well chosen words and excellent manner spoke of the class of 1911 and the Junior Week celebration and of the features of a Senior. Then he introduced, with happy witticism, Prof. Huddilston, who spoke on "Now and Then." His talk was full of his usual witty sayings and funny stories and he kept his listeners in an uproar during his speech. Prof. Gray, was next called on and struck a chord that touched every one present when he took as his subject "The Past and the Future." He told of the work of a Class in its under classes and of the work it would have to take up when it became a Senior class.

IVY DAY

At three o'clock on Thursday afternoon the Junior Class assembled in the gymnasium and led by the Marshall, Philip Stanwood Strout, marched slowly into chapel.

The chaplain, Frederick Lincoln Chenery offered prayer and was followed by President George Arthur Wakefield who in a few well chosen remarks, expressed the sentiment of the day of days, that institution known as Ivy Day.

The Presentation was made by Oscar Abel Wakefield who accompanied by the inevitable pine tree made many pithy remarks concerning those who were made the objects of his playful ridicule.

Frank Elwyn Southard was the class orator and in his bright comparison and apt figures, endeavored to point out the first struggling steps of those who were entering upon a more serious period of their lives.

The History of the Class of 1911 was outlined by Benjamin Otis Warren, who brought back to the memories of the Juniors the trials and tribulations of Freshmen days together with the achievements of the class as Sophomores and finally, down to the present day, when as Juniors, they were about to enter upon that part of their college course in which they are to bear the names of seniors.

Ralph Benjamin Pond had the Class Prophecy and by means of a famous air line invented by Professor Jewett was able to come in contact with many of the members of eleven. His illustrations of the careers of his classmates were in many cases exactly suited to their present status in college, and served well as a prophecy for the futures of some of the Juniors now at Maine.

The Class Poem was read by Charles Drummond Rea which contained a very beautiful legend concerning a juggler who happened to wander into a monastery and there found what success meant.

When the exercises were concluded in the chapel, the entire class marched over to the Agricultural Building where the ivy was planted opposite that of nineteen ten.

PROM. HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Decorations Give a Beautiful Japanese Effect to the Gymnasium

"A Junior Promenade which will class with the Proms of past years" was the verdict of the large assembly that attended the dance in the gymnasium last evening. One of the most beautiful decoration effects ever seen in the large hall was that given by the cherry-blossoms and the Japanese lanterns beneath the canopy of white. Although some sort of a canopy is used at all such dances here, the other decorations were very original. The scene as one entered the gymnasium from the Chapel, where the guests were received, was one of brilliancy, yet softened by softened by the glow of the tiny electric bulbs within their veils of Japanese paper. This Oriental effect was heightened by the pink and white cherry blossoms on the railing of the balcony and beneath it. On the railing were drawn into groups the ends of the streamers of white crepe paper and the spaces between were filled with ferns. The electric display was pleasing although simple so as not to detract from the affect of the lanterns. The booths of the fraternities filled the corners.

As usual the reception committee stood opposite the middle entrance to the chapel, which was less elaborately although quite as tastefully decorated with streamers of bunting stretched among the massive beams of the roof. Chairs, ferns, and rugs added to the attractiveness of the large chapel. As the guests came up the stairways they were ushered to the committee, which consisted of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Oak of Bangor, President and Mrs. Fellows, and George A. Wakefield, president of the Junior class.

The dancing began at half past nine and to the strains of Pullen's orchestra over a hundred couples glided over the well-waxed floor until an early hour this morning. The feature dance of the evening was the twelfth, just previous to intermission during which the lanterns twinkled while the orchestra played "Meet Me Where the Lanterns Glow." At intermission refreshments of ice-cream and cakes were served. Punch was served throughout the evening.

The committee to which is due most of the credit for the success of the Prom consisted of A. H. Hart, R. R. Day, L. M. Gerrish, G. H. Howe, Jr., B. C. Markle.

The floor director was Robert C. Marshall and his aids were: P. S. Strout, J. W. Everett, W. Peckham, H. G. Wood, D. R. Duran, M. F. McCarthy, J. L. Dinsmore, N. C. Pinkham, F. L. Chenery, Jr., F. W. Nason, W. L. Gooch, D. N. Peaslee, C. R. Quinneen.

—◆◆— "THE LITTLEST GIRL" AND "A PAIR OF SPECTACLES"

Two Plays Presented by the Dramatic Club Thursday Evening

The Dramatic Club opened the last performance of the season before a large and enthusiastic audience in the gymnasium, Thursday evening, by presenting the play of one act, "The Littlest Girl". The play, although one of little action, was a hit from beginning to end on account of its almost perfect presentation. The atmosphere developed by the characters was very fitting to the conditions of the play, and the audience was strained to the highest pitch to the end.

The cast was as follows:

Mr Caruthers..... W. P. Daggett
Davenport, (his servant)..... P. S. Strout, '11
Van Bibber..... Ernest Lamb, '10
The Littlest Girl..... Master Clarence Hart
Scene, Bachelor Apartment in Berkeley Flats, Fifth Ave., New York.

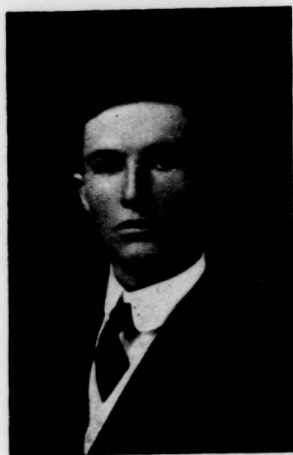

The leading part in the production, that of Mr. Caruthers, was taken perfectly by Prof. Daggett, on account of the illness of Fassett, '10, who has taken the part well during the season. He swayed the audience at will and his lines were rendered with a feeling that thrilled his listeners.

The part of Van Bibber, one almost equally important to that of Caruthers was taken splendidly by Lamb, '10. It was an exceedingly difficult character, but he rendered it in a manner highly pleasing to all.

Strout, '11, took the part of the servant very well. Master Clarence Hart as the "littlest girl"

FRANKLIN W. PETTEY
Who Took Part of Uncle Gregory

was one of the hits of the evening, acting his part in a manner rarely seen in a child so young.

The great success of the evening, however, was the presentation of Sidney Grundy's "A Pair of Spectacles," which has been given by the Club all over the State this season. This, too, is a play of little action but one admirably fitted to bring out the true capabilities of the cast. The audience was very appreciative, giving well-deserved applause frequently. The players on the other hand did not disappoint the wildest expectations. They rendered the whole plot with a minuteness of detail and a carefully developed interpretation which was worthy of a professional cast. The cast:

Mr. Goldfinch.....	O. A. Wakefield, '11
Uncle Gregory, (his brother)....	F. W. Pettey, '10
Percy (his son).....	E. Lamb, '10
Dick (his nephew).....	E. H. Maxcey, '11
Lorimer (his friend).....	C. C. Johnson, '10
Bartholomew (his shoemaker)...	H. P. Sweetsir, '10
Joyce (his butler).....	W. Andrews, '10..9
Another Shoemaker.....	E. E. Chase, '13
Mrs. Goldfinch.....	A. Chase, '12
Lucy Lorimer.....	C. H. George, '12
Charlotte.....	S. Waite, '11

Acts, I, II, III. Scene a breakfast room.

The real hit of the play was the work of Wakefield, '11, who presented the part of Mr. Goldfinch with a finish which is rarely seen in amateur circles. His complete mastery of the part and his admirable make-up pleased the audience immensely and predicts for him a great success in the Club next year.

So near to the work of Wakefield that it is hard to decide to whom belongs the most credit was the excellent interpretation of the part of Uncle Gregory by Pettey, '10. For the fourth year Pettey has made a success in college dramatics and his work on Thursday evening was a fitting close to his career.

Lamb, '10, in the part of Percy Goldfinch, was also a decided winner, and finished his last performance for the Club with that splendid acting and interpretation which has characterized all of his work in dramatics.

Maxcey, '11, as Dick, stepped into the place left vacant by the illness of Fassett, '10, with an ease and finish which certainly did him credit, and which promise a good man for the Club next year.

The part of Lorimer as presented by Johnson, '10, was finely done. He carried well the worried atmosphere which goes with the part, and his lines were very well rendered.

Andrews, '10, presented Joyce, the butler, with a naturalness and dry humor which appealed to the audience at every appearance, in fact his work was the "big laugh" of the performance.

Sweetsir, '10, as Bartholomew, the first shoemaker, did excellent work, and Chase, '13, fitted well into the part of the second shoemaker.

The women's parts were very well taken by the boys and were highly appreciated by the audience. Chase, '12, as Mrs. Goldfinch carried a most difficult part, and George, '12, made an admirable Lucy Lorimer. Waite, '11, as Charlotte, the maid, was well made up and worked well in this minor part.

Too much credit cannot be given to the management of the play. Prof. Daggett is the Sidney Jones, '11, as manager has worked hard all the season and deserves a great deal of credit for the able business management that he has given the club through the whole season.

STEAMER EXCURSION THIS AFTERNOON

Ride Down Penobscot to Verona Park Where a Clam-Bake will be Served.

This afternoon at 2.15 o'clock the steamer Rockland will leave Bar Harbor wharf in Bangor, for Verona Park, at the mouth of the Penobscot and it is expected that about 300 students and their friends will make up one of the jolliest excursion parties ever seen on the Penobscot. Little in the way of entertainment has been arranged by the committee but such a crowd on such a trip will take care of its own amusement.

When the steamer reaches the delightful little island a mile below Bucksport, the party will disembark and satisfy their appetite, which the sea breeze will have aroused, with a clam-bake at the Park. After an hour or two the excursionists will again board their craft and sail back up the river, and they will probably reach Bangor about nine o'clock.

This trip is the last event on the program of Junior Week and the large number of guests who have visited the University during the last few days will go home with memories of this as one of the pleasantest affairs of the week.

Dean Hart attended a conference between the heads of the mathematical departments of New England Colleges and a committee from the New England Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, held at Harvard University on May 28, to discuss entrance requirements in mathematics.

Prof. Gardner gave a public spraying demonstration at E. N. Bartlett's orchard in Monroe, Thursday.

Prof. Campbell attended a meeting of the Maine State Live-Stock Breeder's Association last Monday in Augusta.

Prof. Brown gave a talk on "The Poultry Industry" in Jefferson last Wednesday.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT WITH MASS A. C.

Matches Resulted in Tie in Both Singles and Doubles

Some good tennis was seen yesterday forenoon when Maine held a tournament with the Massachusetts Agricultural College team, which resulted in a tie in both singles and doubles. As it was necessary for the visitors to catch the Boston boat it was impossible to play off the remaining matches.

The results of the matches were as follows:

Doubles: Wallace and Bird, Maine, defeated Rickwood and Johnson, M. A. C., 6-2, 4-6, 6-1. Linn and Thomas, M. A. C., defeated Good and Peckham, Maine, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

Singles: Rockwood defeated Wallace, 6-2, 6-1, Bird defeated Johnson, 7-5, 5-7, 6-0.

ODE

Here at this gladsome springtime hour,
When daily tasks are o'er,
We gather in this chapel dear,
To sing our songs once more.
Three years we've spent in zealous strife,
O'er filled with hopes and cheer,
But left behind us in their flight,
Our friendships, Oh, so dear!

Bright College days with pleasure rife,
The gladdest days of yore,
How swiftly ye are gliding by,
Returning nevermore.
May friendships formed here at old Maine
With each year fuller grow
Proud of her name and true we'll be,
Thro' changing weal and woe.

And as the years flow swiftly by,
Our paths lead different ways,
May earth's best gifts e'er be our lot,
And joy crown all our days.
Whenever on life's sea we sail,
Wherever duties call,
With trust in God and love for Maine,
We'll conquer, one and all.

—Russell Smith.

THAT CELEBRATION

Bangor Streets and Opera House Monopolized on Saturday Evening

For the first time in several years, the student body had a chance to celebrated a championship in athletics. The occasion was the final victory over Colby on May 28, which clinched the Maine Championship. The student body 400 strong, left Orono on electric cars and train and, on arriving at Bangor, marched to the Opera House where they watched the capers of the "pretty" (?) girls in Billy the Boy Artist. Coats were taken off, some rather forcibly, and, with the Maine band and cheering, the time was spent pleasantly. After the theatre, fireworks were brought and things livened up outside. Nine special cars took the fellows to Orono at 11 o'clock, all voting it one of the best celebrations ever carried off.

SENIOR SKULLS

EDITORIAL.

As the close of the year draws near and Maine has the baseball championship snugly within its arms, there is temptation to scan the prospects for her athletic teams next year. Maine has had a nine of championship calibre this spring and she has won what she deserved to win. It has been three years since she has had a team of that sort—a period much longer than it should have been—and with the capture of this pennant one wonders if this may be only a spasmodic victory or if it may be the beginning of an era of winning teams.

Well, whatever may be said, there will still be a chance to wonder until we shall have future championships within our clutches. Yet, there are going to exist next year conditions which will favor the development of strong, very strong, teams for football, track, and baseball. In the first place, Maine's athletics next fall will be brought under the direct oversight of a man who is an athlete himself, who has had much experience in coaching and directing teams, who, as a member of the Faculty with professorial standing, will be in a position to give athletics its due representation, and who can devote all his time to the betterment of athletic conditions here.

Furthermore, the responsibility for our athletics will cease to be upon a committee of thirty members and will be centered upon the Athletic Board of ten men, which should be able to consider matters in a much more satisfactory manner than they have been taken up formerly.

Besides these changes in the administration of our athletics, the conditions for the teams themselves will be unusually good. The eleven will have a coach with whose methods it became acquainted last fall, and moreover, with Parker as captain and Schildmiller as coach, it is bound to have that spirit of fight which, with its nucleus of old men and its knowledge of football, will make it dangerous.

The outlook for track is very promising. The team this year did well, did all that could be expected of an inexperienced team. Next year it will probably have the freshmen and sophomores who did such excellent work this spring, and the CAMPUS is not building air castles when it says that several men will be available for the team next year who have shown in practice that they could have taken first places in the State Meet this year, and who were ineligible on account of scholarship or other requirements.

Although if McHale is ineligible next year the baseball team will suffer a very severe loss, there will remain six or seven men who played this year to form a strong nucleus for the nine.

Another condition which undoubtedly has had its effect upon the work of the teams this year and which should grow in importance and be of consequently increased assistance next year, is the support which the University's Alumni are giving to our athletics. During the past year contributions from the Alumni have flowed into the coffers of the Athletic Association much more freely than ever before, and the University takes pride in having, as a mark of its gratitude to these Alumni, the championship in one of the three principal branches of athletics this spring.

In its presentation of a cup for competition in scholarship among the fraternities the Senior Skull Society has accomplished something which bids fair to have a strong effect upon the interest of Maine men in their studies. As year after year brings the cup to one fraternity or another its sentimental value will increase, and while there will probably be no more high honor students than in the past, the average standing of the students is bound to be raised.

It is to better this average standing that the cup has been established. There will always be a certain number of high honor men; every institution has them. The cup will not be a stimulus to such students, but it will increase the interest of the men who have a tendency to let their studies take care of themselves.

After all, however much a man has neglected his books during his years in college, he knows that his purpose in spending four years in college was to prepare for life and that the prime factor in that preparation was study. To be sure, when a man is out in life he will belong to no class of organizations in which a prize is offered to the one whose members are most successful. Yet, there are many reasons why the average student of today fails to see the value of study over other things, and this cup is proposed to assist the students in gaining unconsciously the benefits which they will not appreciate until later.

CAPTAINS AND MANAGERS

Leaders for Next Year's Teams Elected

The man chosen to captain next year's baseball team is Russell Smith, '11. Smith comes from Auburn, Maine, where he played on Edward Little High School for four years. He caught for his class team in his freshman year here and his work with McHale and Ryon was commented upon highly. In the spring he made the 'varsity and has been behind the bat for the University ever since. He is a hard worker himself and will without doubt keep up the good work started by Captain McHale.

For manager George R. Woodbury, '12, was elected. He has been out for two years and his faithful work during this time argue well for the business success of the team during the coming year.

RUSSELL SMITH, Captain 1911 Nine

The members of the track team selected for their leader Nelson E. Smith of Peabody, Mass. Last year Smith showed his ability as a hurdler by taking points in both the New England and the Maine Intercollegiate Meets. This year, owing to a sprained ankle, he has been off the track for the season.

N. E. SMITH, Captain 1911 Trach Team

The track manager during the coming year will be Warren McDonald, '12. He has shown himself during the last two years to be a man who has the interest of the college and its track team at heart and one who is not afraid of hard work. With these men at the head of their respective departments we may be reasonably certain that there will be success in the athletic line next year.

ALUMNI REUNION

Reassembly of Old Classes to be Feature of Commence- ment Week

The unique feature of the coming Commencement at the University of Maine is the gathering of the survivors of the First Seven Classes, 1872 to 1878 inclusive, to the number of about one hundred.

This being the 35th anniversary of the Class of '75, that organization has invited the members of each of the classes with which it came in contact while in college to join in its celebration. This idea has been received with great enthusiasm, and old "grads" are returning from all parts of the country; some for the first time since graduation.

The '75 class book will also contain some novelties. On one page will be two photos of the same member of the class, one taken while in college, the other a present day likeness. On the opposite page will appear a brief biographical sketch setting forth the principal incidents in the life of the subject since his graduation.

The book will also contain likenesses of the members of the class who have deceased and an index of the names of each living member, his address and the address of two other people to whom the Class secretary could write if he should lose sight of his classmate.

There will also be an introduction and general historical review of the doings of the class since 1875 by W. H. Jordan, LL. D., of Geneva, N. Y. The illustrations are in charge of Prof. Edson F. Hitchings, State Entomologist, Waterville, Me. The preparation of the book is in the hands of Hon. Louis C. Southard of Boston.

Among other interesting events will be a grand reunion and banquet Tuesday evening, June 7th, for the "First Seven" only. At this interesting function there will be nearly a hundred stereopticon slides shown including photos of various members of the other six classes, the old campus, old buildings, student rooms, President and Faculty, a number of the young ladies of Orono specially favored by the students of that day, the Class Baby (himself now a father), and various other pictures. There will also be seen on the walls of the banquet hall, the original class motto "Progress" in gilt and one of the original posters announcing the Commencement Concert, Ball, and Supper, both having been carefully preserved all these years by Chas. F. Colesworthy (Class Poet) of Pendleton, Oregon.

Edward D. Mayo, the well known builder of grain elevators, of Minneapolis will be present to resume his seat at the head of the table as Class President. Albert E. Mitchell, Vice-President of the Wyckoff Co., 50 Church St., New York, is chairman of the Committee of Arrangements and his twin brother Allen G. Mitchell, Div. Supt. Penn. R. R., Pittsburg, Pa., is chairman of the Committee on Attendance. There are various other sub-committees. About every state in the Union and some foreign countries will contribute prominent citizens for this gala occasion.

A TRULY CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

Splendid Record of the Baseball Nine During the Season.

Everyone knows that the baseball team has won the State Championship, but everyone is not acquainted with the figures which show what a remarkable record the nine has made this season. It has not barely squeezed out in the championship race; it has won five of the six games in the State series and has made four of these shut-outs, and it has achieved this record by fielding for .895 and batting for .221, and by having a pitcher who has struck out 62 men in these six games. Such a record the team and the entire University may well be proud of.

Ever since the first of the season the same nine men, with a few exceptions, have been playing on the varsity, and they have developed a machine which has carried itself safely through many a crisis. Every man has proved himself able to cover his position in the field and has played hardest when the opposing team had a chance to score. What is of fully as much importance as a high fielding average, moreover, has been the batting ability of the players from the top of the list to the foot. It has been this fielding ability, coupled with the work of Captain McHale in the box, that has given the team so many shut-outs, and it has been the batting strength that has brought in several scores in each game to the opponent's none or few. 68 runs were made to 36 by opposing teams.

The team did not seem to hit its stride until the opening of the State series, for of the four games out of the twelve played that were lost, three were defeats suffered on the Vermont-Massachusetts trip and the other was the first of the Maine games, which was won by Bowdoin. In the second game of the series the team defeated Bates, 5 to 0, and since then it has been victorious in every game.

In batting the honors of the season lie with Pond, who hit for .360 in all the games and for .478 in the Maine games. Furthermore, he has made a number of hits for extra bases, the best of which was his home-run with two men on bases in the second game with Colby. Another occasion when he did exceptionally good work was in the second Bowdoin game, when he secured four hits in as many times at bat. Bearce has also batted very well, having made a percentage of .333 in the State games.

The pitching of McHale has been perhaps the chief feature of the race for the pennant. He is without doubt the strongest pitcher in the State colleges and is in the class with Coombs of Colby and Files of Bowdoin. He has made a phenomenal strike-out record, and in many cases these strike-outs have come when a hit meant a run for the opposing team. He has pitched all of the State games and with the exception of the first contest with Bowdoin has had the batsmen quite at his mercy. Of the seven games he has pitched he has won five. In addition to his work in the box McHale has led the team well, has fielded his position excellently, and has been fourth in the batting averages of the regular men. Richards and Libby were the sub-pitchers, the former winning two and losing one and the latter winning one.

There have been no weak spots on the team in fielding, and one player, Smith, the catcher, has the remarkable percentage of .999 with .107 chances. Phillips and McCarthy in the outfield have not made an error, and Bearce and Goodrich have fielded for .966 and .927 respectively.

The batting averages for the team during the entire season are: Pond .360, Richards .307, N. Scales .285, Phillips .217, Johnston .195, N. Scales .285, Bearce .283, J. Scales .274, McHale .274, Smith .273, Goodrich .240, Phillips .217, Johnston .195, Bird .100, Kiernan .059, Libby

.000. For the championship games the averages were: Pond .478, Bearce .333, J. Scales .250, Johnston .238, McHale .217, Goodrich .190, Smith .136, McCarthy .100, Phillips .8.

The fielding percentages were: Phillips 1.000, Libby 1.000, McCarthy 1.000, N. Scales 1.000, Smith .999, Bearce .966, Goodrich .967, Bird .875, McHale .857, Pond .827, Johnston .805, J. Scales .795, Kiernan .750, Richards .728.

The men who will receive their "M" are: McHale, Bearce, Smith, Goodrich, J. Scales, Johnston, Pond, McCarthy, Phillips, and Manager McCarthy. Bearce, Goodrich, McCarthy, Johnston and Phillips were the players who had not earned their baseball "M" before. The team will lose Goodrich and J. Scales this year by graduation and it is reported that McHale and Pond are to be given a trial in the major leagues this summer, so that they may be ineligible to play next year.

The summary of the scores of the games is as follows:

Maine 9	Norwich 4

Johnston's Work a Feature

Maine took the fourth game of the State series from Colby, at Waterville, on May 25, by a score of 3 to 0. Both pitchers were very steady but McHale did the better work, allowing only six hits and keeping these well scattered. Johnston, at third, played a fast game for Maine, making two hits and taking eight fielding chances without an error.

A feature of the game was the double play by Johnston and Bearce in the fourth inning. Ralph Good had just received a base on balls, when Reed sent a hot liner just over Johnston's head. The ball bounded from Johnston's glove, high in the air, and by running back, he caught it again and threw to first in time to catch Good.

Maine's first score came in the fourth, when Scales hit a clean two-bagger to left field and scored on McHale's safety to center.

Maine scored two more runs in the ninth. After Goodrich was out Bearce and Johnston each hit safely to right field. McCarthy then sent a grounder to shortstop and was safe on a close decision, while Bearce and Johnston scored on the play.

Ralph Good's cool work prevented Maine from scoring again in the sixth. With one out Scales grounder was fumbled by Clukey, and Pond was safe on Reed's error. Scales went to third on the play and Pond stole second. Good then struck out McHale, and covered first while Reed went after Goodrich's grounder, retiring the side.

Championship Won—Pond's Home Run a Feature

Maine clinched the baseball championship in a fast game Saturday, defeating Colby, 3 to 0. The game was won in a sensational start, Maine finding the first three pitched balls for three hits and three runs. Both pitchers were effective, McHale allowing but one scratch hit. Pond's home run was the feature of the game.

Colby placed two men on bases in the first inning, but no hit was forthcoming to score them.

Smith, for Maine, sent the first ball for a hit to left field. Scales dropped a bunt towards third base and beat the ball to first. Smith went to third on a bad throw and Scales stole second. Pond then smashed a long fly far over the left field fence for a home run, bringing in three runs. Good had pitched only three balls, and the whole thing was over before the game had fairly begun. The next three Maine batters were out on short hits, and neither team was able to score again during the game.

Colby reached third only once. In the seventh inning, Reed was safe at first on a close decision, was advanced to third by hits to the infield, and were left there when Clukey sent an easy grounder to Bearce.

Maine placed men on third base in the third and seventh innings, but was unable to get the hits which meant runs.
