DEBATING

Society of Upperclassmen Formed

A meeting of the students interested in debating was held in the club room of the Library on Tuesday evening. There were only a few present at this meeting but much interest was manifested.

G. C. Clark called the meeting to order and stated that the object was to organize a University Debating Society for the purpose of promoting inter-class and inter-collegiate debates. He then called on Mr. Ketchum of the department of English to act as temporary chairman.

The following officers were then elected: President, G. F. Clark '12; Vice President, Raymond Floyd '13; Secretary and Treasurer, J. Walter Madison '14.

It was voted to present the constitution and by-laws of the old debating society at the next meeting to be considered for adoption.

The question, "Resolved: That the Maine Law School should be removed to the University Campus," was chosen as a subject for the next meeting which will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, at 7.30 in the Library.

WEDNESDAY LECTURE

Roman Dramatic Literature

"The development of dramatic literature on Roman soil," was the subject of Prof. Huddleston's fifth lecture in the library, Wednesday afternoon.

Roman drama descended directly from that of the Greeks. It followed the Greek ideals of literature, fine arts and philosophy, but, while accepting these standards set by the ancients, the Romans put law, government and christian religion before the world. The latter people were given more to empire building than to the study of literature and made action speak louder than words. Therefore when the Romans conquered the Greeks they appropriated the latter's literature and translated it into Latin.

The one who stands foremost as the beginner of Roman literature is a Greek slave, Livius Andronicus. He saw, and took the opportunity of influencing the Romans and making a name for himself. But the Roman drama that he produced was really Greek drama in the Roman language for the same Greek ideals were present as before it was translated.

After Livius, who lived about 250 B. C., came several Roman writers of tragedy. These were Naevius, 210 B. C., Ennius, 200 B. C., Pacavius, 150 B. C., Accius, 140 B. C., Ovid, 110 B. C., and Seneca. Seneca was a great philosopher who was born in Spain, going to Rome and becoming the tutor of Nero. In all there were about 150 tragedies written in the three centuries B. C. These were presented at the festivals, the first Roman theatre being erected at Pompeii, 55 B. C.

Later came comedy which had a distinct advantage over the drawing power of the tragedy, because it satisfied the Roman craving for entertainment. We find satirical comedy prevalent during one period but it soon gives way to pantomime. The Roman class of comedy was not, however, modern. It was exceedingly coarse. The pantomime was all acting, becoming natural outgrowth of the mimic. In contrast to the tragedians we find that the Roman comedians did not come into contact with Greek civilization. Among the comedians Plautus is the most important with Terence not far behind.

JUNIOR CIVIL SOCIETY MEETING

Plans for Winter and Pleasant Evening

The Junior Civil Society commenced actual work for the year Wednesday evening and incidentally enjoyed a very pleasant smoker. As this was the first meeting of the year no papers were presented, the time being devoted to the discussion of plans for the winter. A decided innovation which will be introduced this year is retaining in the Society as active members the senior civils. A committee to revise the constitution so as to permit this change was appointed by the president of the Society and made up of Prof. Brown, two Juniors, and two Seniors.

Around the fire after the adjournment of the meeting Dean Boardman led the talk in swapping yarns about summer experiences, and many interesting bits of camp life were disclosed.

BASKETBALL

No 'Varsity Team This Year—Class and Fraternity Teams to Play

Owing to the distance that the basketball team had to go last year in order to find any college teams to play against, last spring the Faculty voted not to ratify any schedule for 'varsity basketball that did not include a game or games with some of the Maine colleges. This of course meant that unless some of the other Maine colleges played the game Maine would have to give up the sport as a 'Varsity branch of athletics. Hoping that Colby would continue the game this year, Manager Phillips arranged a fine schedule of games including a trip out of the state on which the team would meet M. A. C., Dartmouth, M. I. T., New Hampshire State, and Rhode Island State College. Colby, however, has called off basketball and so the schedule will have to be cancelled.

In order to keep up interest and enthusiasm in the game a schedule will be made out shortly by Manager Phillips, Captain Scales and Coach Wingard and teams representing the different classes, fraternities and military companies will hold a tournament during the winter. There is plenty of good material in college and there is no reason why the sport should not be kept up.

SOPHOMORE SPEAKERS

The following members of the Sophomore Class are appointed to take part in the Sophomore Prize Speaking Contest; F. B. Ames, Bangor; O. H. Davis, No. Berwick; Miss Alice Harvey, Bangor; J. W. Hart, Holden; W. J. McCarthy, Lewiston; D. W. Sawtelle, Orono; G. G. Tilley, Ashland; and Miss A. T. Webb, Bangor. Rehearsals are to begin on November 7th and all selections must be approved by December 1st. Each selection must not exceed eight minutes in length.

HOUSE PARTY

Sigma Chi Entertain Friday Evening

The members of Sigma Chi Fraternity held their first house party of the year at their fraternity house, Friday evening, Oct. 21st. About 25 couples were present and enjoyed dancing until a late hour. The music was furnished by Wilbur Cochrane of Bangor and ice-cream, cake, and punch were served during the evening.

WIRELESS STATION

First Station of the Kind on the Campus, Owned by Olin Brown, '14

An interesting feature on the campus is the wireless apparatus owned by Olin Brown '14, of Bar Harbor, at the Phi Eta Kappa House. This is the first time that there has been a wireless station on the campus and the apparatus was made by the Clapp-Eastham Co. It has a sending power of about 50 miles and a receiving power of nearly 400.

When the weather is favorable the operator is able to pick up messages from various places such as Bar Harbor and Sable Island. One day last week messages from the steamer Calvin Austin and from a German steamer were picked up. The apparatus is very interesting and well worth inspecting.

SIGMA CHI INITIATION

Rho Rho Chapter Holds Annual Fall Initiation

Rho Rho chapter of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, held its final rites of initiation Saturday, Oct. 15th, when eleven freshmen were made members. The following men were taken in: Joseph W. French, Fort Fairfield; Benjamin B. Anthony, Wakefield, Mass.; Donald Towne, Madison; G. Wilford Babb, Portland; Ralph D. Boothby, Portland; Wilhelm W. Grace, Wakefield, Mass.

CHAPEL SERVICE FRIDAY

Dr. O. P. Gifford Gives Fine Talk

The student body is to be congratulated on the talk given at chapel Friday, by Rev. O. P. Gifford, D. D. of Brookline, Mass. Dr. Gifford took as his subject the mottoes of a well spent life saying, in part, that men make cities, art, architecture, law, etc., but thoughts make men. Alexander built and moulded Alexandria, the second largest city in the Roman empire, but Aristotle moulded Alexander. There are four attributes of a progressive man, viz., an open mind, accuracy in scholarship, humbleness of spirit and a connection with something that will carry a man up.

JUNIOR WEEK NEWS

Date Fixed as June 7-10, The Same Time as Last Year

The date for Junior Week has been finally settled as June 7-10, this being the same time as last year. This date was chosen by a vote of the class and has been approved by the Faculty. There was much discussion of a date sometime during the winter, but inasmuch as bad weather might seriously interfere with the exercises, the later time was considered best. The committee now has something definite to work upon and plans for the week will progress rapidly.

ALUMNI NEWS

FACULTY NOTES

Mr. Dice of the Agricultural Department leaves the University about the middle of November to take charge of the dairy department of the New York State School of Agriculture located at Morrisville, New York.

Prof. Chase attended a meeting of the New England Association of colleges and preparatory schools at Cambridge, Mass., recently.

Prof. Campbell and Dr. Leon Merrill attended a meeting of the Somerset Sheep Breeders' Association, at Skowhegan recently.

Prof. Bell, Prof. Campbell, and Dr. Leon Merrill attended a meeting at Portland recently for men interested in the agricultural development of Maine.

At the last Faculty meeting the following resolutions were adopted on the death of Prof. Munson, who was formerly connected with the Horticultural Department:

Welton Marks Munson entered upon his work at this University in 1891, remaining here until 1907, when he resigned to take up a similar line of work elsewhere. He died at Havell, Michigan, September 9, 1910.

During his sixteen years of service Professor Munson displayed to the full those rare qualities which are sure to win appreciation. An enthusiastic love for his work, that often led him beyond his strength; loyalty to his friends, and to the institution which he served; a strict integrity of mind and purpose; these are some of the traits that won him the respect and esteem of his fellow workers.

While we bow to the Divine Will that has closed his earthly labors, we his associates in the Faculty of the University of Maine, deplore his untimely loss and seek to honor him by this tribute to his memory. We extend to his family our heartfelt sympathy for the loss which is not only theirs but ours; and we spread upon the records of the Faculty this recognition of his worth.

BANGOR CO-OPERATIVE PRINTING COMPANY

EDITORIAL.

The outcome of the game with Bates Saturday was one of those surprises which cannot be accounted for. The 10 to 0 defeat was a surprise, because Maine expected to win and from the previous work of the team she had a right to do so, as was shown by the long odds which the Bates supporters were demanding. There were a good many things that entered into the Bates victory and the Maine defeat which need not be discussed, as they were perfectly obvious to the onlooker. Whatever can be said, the fact remains that Maine was defeated and that her championship aspirations received a decided setback!

Now, however, is no time to "cry over spilt milk." Now is the time for Maine's football squad to make up their minds that they will be no party to another game like the one played at Lewiston. Now is the time for the players and the student body to show their fighting Maine spirit.

The undergraduates have backed the eleven mighty well this fall. They have done so because they have believed that the team as a whole and the individual players had it in them to win the championship. They believe so still.

Two more games remain on Maine's schedule—games which are expected to be hard-fought battles against strong elevens. These two games we are going to win; we must win them. The slump last Saturday was not enough to drive out of our minds the thoughts of the team's work against M. A. C. and Tufts. That eleven has the men, it has the speed, and it has the power, to win the next two games. It is for the team and the student body to go into those games with a spirit that will make it impossible for Maine to be defeated.

Mercer is coming. Next Friday the man who, by the force of his personality and the nature of his work, has compelled hundreds of college student bodies to respect and heed him, will be upon the Campus.

He is not coming here to preach religion or to talk about abstract morality. However meritorious such subjects are, they are not subjects which strike the practical side of a college man with the force that makes them stick. Mr. Mercer is coming here to tell Maine men why it is to their own detriment to do some things which college men are wont to do. He has been through the mill, and he knows whereof he speaks.

His mission is to hold up ideals which are within the reach of every college man. If there is a man in the University who has deliberately "gone to the dogs," the best that can be said is that it would be better if he were not here. Fortunately there are few such men either here or in any college. There are some men who, for the time-being, have lost sight of a future life of usefulness and honor in the world, and those are the men upon whom Mercer places his grasp.

Maine men should take a pride in giving him a welcome equal to that which he has received at any other college. He and his work are deserving of the warmest welcome.

Another step has been made toward a strong interest in debate in the University in the organization last week of a society made up of upperclassmen. In placing the University before the public a debating team would be a close second to athletic teams. Support this society and see it through to success.

Maine Night is not far away. Several features which are to be introduced promise to make it significant in the history of Maine Nights. Every student will attend as a matter of course, and every alumnus is urged to be present, that his blood may boil again at the sound of the Maine songs and yells.

The large delegation of undergraduates who journeyed to Lewiston Saturday are to be congratulated on their cheering. Still, there is always room for improvement, and cheering practice ought to be held on Alumni Field at least once this week.

VESPER SERVICE

Dr. Fenn of Harvard The Speaker

The speaker for last Sunday's Vesper Service was Dr. William Wallace Fenn, Dean of the Harvard School of Theology, who took for his text the following passage from the ninth chapter of Jeremiah, "Thus saith the Lord of Hosts, seek peace in the city whither ye have been sent captive." Dr. Fenn said in part that the best attribute of man, the most Godly work that man could do, was to make the best of things. By making the best of things, he said that he did not mean to lose faith and let everything follow its own course, but in the larger and broader meaning, that men should bring out the best values of circumstances. The former narrower meaning was the negative and passive meaning while the larger meaning tended toward action rather than rest.

MERCER HERE NEXT FRIDAY

Vesper Address, Fraternity Meetings, to be Features of His Campaign Here

Beginning next Friday, Mr. E. C. Mercer of New York will carry on a five-day campaign in the University against the influences which tend to make college men disregard the best things in college life. His success in the hundreds of other universities and schools which he has visited warrant the belief that he will bring the student body to his support.

Complete arrangements have been made for his work here. These include visits to all the fraternities, at most of which he will be their guest for at least one meal, a meeting in the club-room of the Library next Monday evening for the non-fraternity men, an address at the Vesper Service next Sunday, and a final meeting in the nature of a rally Tuesday night.

He will be assisted during part of his stay by Rev. A. B. Parson of Providence, R. I., who will arrive next Monday and remain until Wednesday. Both men will be entertained at some of the fraternity houses. After their campaign here they will visit Colby and Bowdoin.

The schedule arranged for Mr. Mercer's visit is as follows:

Friday—Brief speech at chapel, dinner at Beta Theta Pi House, supper at Phi Kappa Sigma House, gathering of the entire student committee to meet him at the Beta Theta Pi House in the evening.

Saturday—To attend the football game with Colby at Waterville.

Sunday—Dinner at the Theta Chi House, supper at the Kappa Sigma House, evening at the Phi Eta Kappa and Phi Gamma Delta Houses, and an address at Vespers in the afternoon.

Monday—Dinner at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon House, supper at the Sigma House, brief visit at Alpha Tau Omega House after supper, and meeting with non-fraternity men at the Library at 7.30 o'clock.

Tuesday—Dinner at the Theta Epsilon House, supper at the Delta Tau Delta House, and mass-meeting in the evening either in the Chapel or the Library.

At the meeting of the Agricultural Club to be held Wednesday, Haley '11, will speak on "Agriculture in Ireland" and W. E. Schrupf '12, will talk on "Farm Conditions in Farmington."

D. W. Rollins '07, was on the campus last week. He also attended the Teacher's Convention in Bangor.

MAINE DEFEATED 10-0

In First Championship Game Bates Scores on Flukes

Playing on a slippery field where it was impossible to work their open plays and handicapped in the early part of the game by two touchdowns made on flukes, the Maine eleven was defeated by Bates at Lewiston, Saturday, 10 to 0. By better punting, line-bucking, and defensive work Bates was able to keep the ball in Maine's territory during the greater part of the four periods.

While the condition of the field made it impossible for Maine to run off the end plays by which the team has gained so much ground this fall, the defeat was due largely to the weakness of the ends, the inability of the line to prevent the Bates men from breaking through upon Shepherd's punts, and the poor handling of the ball when Bates kicked. The first touchdown, which was scored only a few minutes after the first kick-off, was made when Dyer of Bates broke through and blocked Shepherd's punt on Maine's 20 yard line. Cole of Bates secured the ball and made the touchdown. The punt-out for goal failed. The second score was also made in the first quarter, when one of Lovely's punts went by Smith and the ball rolled over the goal line, where Dyer fell on it.

Only once did Maine have a chance to score, when in the third period, the ball was carried to Bates' 20 yard line. Here, however, Bates held for downs. Bates made three tries for goal from placement but failed.

So brilliant has been the work of several men on the Maine eleven all the season that their failure to accomplish anything in this game was marked. Many of Maine's plays were broken up by Bates' fast ends, Danahy and Thompson, and Bates was successful in forcing Shepherd to get away his punts so quickly that they did not have good distance. Eales, McNeil, and Bearce played a good game, these three men having much to do with stopping Bates' line plays.

Although Cobb played much of the game, he was in rather poor condition, as he has a bad foot. For a time, moreover, Maine lost the services of Shepherd, the fullback, who slipped when about to punt and strained his leg. He returned to the game, however, later and will be in the game this week.

CHAPEL MASS MEETING

Men Pledged for Bates Special and Large Collection for Band

The first real mass meeting of the year as distinguished from the so-called "Smoker Rally" was held last Tuesday at Chapel time. The chapel bell was rung at half past nine and the students congregated there to decide on a special train for the Bates game at Lewiston and to arouse enthusiasm for that game. The meeting was opened by Merton Sumner, '11, president of the Athletic Association and told the students that it was for them to say whether they would have a special for the game. Then he called on Captain Parker of the football team who cautioned the student body against too much confidence over the Bates game and urged them to send a good big special. George Bearce, '11, the big guard, who has just recently returned to the University, was next called upon and addressed a few words to the Freshmen in regard to the advisability of every man going on the special. Then Coaches Reilley and Wingard were noticed in the audience and were asked to speak a few words. They both urged the students not to feel over-confident about the game and said that, while the team had played good ball so far, it was weak in spots and that we should have our hands full at Lewiston. Manager Strout urged every man to go on the train and support the team.

Then papers were passed around for signers for the train and hats for money to take the Band and the meeting adjourned. About fifty dollars was received for the band and 266 names for the special.

LARGE CELEBRATION AT LEWISTON

300 Men on Special Train Went to Bates Game

After the rousing mass-meeting last Tuesday, 300 men were on hand early Saturday morning for the special train which had been chartered to carry the Maine delegation to Lewiston. The train left Orono shortly after 6.15 o'clock and reached Lewiston about ten. From the station there a long column of men four abreast marched up-town.

The train left Lewiston for the return trip at seven o'clock and arrived at Orono after a fast run at 10.30 o'clock.

TEACHERS VISIT CAMPUS

400 People Attending Convention at Bangor Given a Luncheon Saturday

The University held open house Saturday and 400 of the teachers who had been present at the convention in Bangor of the Maine Teachers' Association, visited the Campus, inspected the buildings and some of the fraternity houses, and were served a luncheon in Agricultural Hall. Although the greater part of the student body was in Lewiston for the football game with Bates, the students remaining on the Campus and the Faculty and the ladies of the Round Table gave the guests a warm welcome.

After they had seen every hall of importance they all assembled at Agricultural Hall at eleven o'clock, where the Round Table and the Domestic Science department served a very dainty luncheon. The fact that 400 of the 1600 teachers who were in attendance at the convention accepted the invitation of the University after the sessions were over, showed that they appreciated the opportunity to visit the institution for which they are preparing many students.

LOCALS

Mrs. E. R. Wingard was the soloist at chapel last Wednesday, singing Mietzke's "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me."

Mrs. Mary A. Coburn received the members of the Faculty and fraternity representatives at the University Inn, Saturday evening, from eight until ten o'clock.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity held an enjoyable house party last Friday evening.

The classes in plane surveying finished their field work last week and are beginning drawing room work.

A dairy institute will be held in Brewer, Monday, October 31. Professor L. S. Merrill, Professor P. A. Campbell and R. W. Redman, ex-'10, will speak.

F. E. Fortier '10, was on the campus a few days last week.

A meeting of the Industrial Department of the Maine Central Railroad will convene at the West End Hotel, Portland, Wednesday, November 2. Professors Bell and Campbell of the University Faculty will attend, having received a special invitation to be present. Various methods of improving agriculture and the development of our natural resources will be discussed from all possible points of view and it is expected that this discussion will produce results beneficial not only to the farmers, but to all the commercial interests of the State.

We Advise Early Buying

IT will pay you to make your purchases early. The assortment is always most complete at the BEGINNING of the season, and in consequence you are more liable to get the CHOICEST OF STYLE AND PATTERN by making your selection as early as possible.

Right now, we are showing the very "cream" of Fall fashions. At no time in the history of this store, have we been able to offer our customers an assortment of patterns and fashions which were so decidedly artistic from every point of view. The fabrics, this season, are especially inviting. AND THE STYLES ARE RICH IN DESIGN.
