BANQUET TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Trustees and Guests Entertained and Trustee Meeting at Portland

President E. B. Winslow of the Board of Trustees tendered a banquet to the Board and a few guests on Thursday evening, December 30, at the Falmouth Hotel, Portland, Me. Among the prominent guests were President Robert J. Aley of the University and Mayor Oakley C. Curtis of Portland.

After the dinner informal speeches were made by several of the Trustees and the guests. President Aley spoke of the function of the University to prepare men for their life's profession so that the knowledge gained can be put to the best possible advantage. He also spoke of the great field that is open to the young men of today for research work in scientific, political economy, and civil government departments and showed that it was the highest aim of the University to equip the scholars for the work demanded by these departments. He very ably pointed out the position occupied in the world by the educated men and the great importance which education would bear in the future.

During the evening the Trustees held a business meeting. It was voted in this meeting to name the new dormitory Hamlin Hall, in honor of former Vice-President Hannibal Hamlin of Bangor, the first President of the Board of Trustees. It was also voted to name the Agricultural Hall Winslow Hall, in honor of the present President of the Board, E. B. Winslow. The Board passed a vote to leave the direction of the summer school in the hands of the Trustees and the Faculty, as it is during the regular sessions. Formerly the professors had conducted the summer school. This new rule provides that the Faculty will be allowed the privilege of teaching for three years. For their summer service they are to receive no pay but at the end of the third summer of teaching the professors are allowed a six months' leave of absence with pay, for work away from the University.

The following Trustees were in attendance: William T. Haines, of Waterville, Samuel W. Gould of Skowhegan, Edward J. Haskell of Westbrook, John A. Roberts of Norway, Charles L. Jones of Corinna, and Sumner P. Mills of Stonington.

PRESIDENT ALEY BEFORE TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

Dr. Aley Speaks on the State and Higher Education

President Aley, speaking at the monthly banquet of the Twentieth Century Club of Bangor, at the Penobscot Exchange last Tuesday night, delivered an interesting address on "The State and Higher Education." He introduced his remarks with a statement of the necessity of general education and then called attention to the great amount of opposition which free public education has met with, both in elementary and in high schools. Fifty years ago, when this opposition did not exist, whole townships were given by Congress for the support of great systems of public schools. Those interested in this believed in the doctrine of Thomas Jefferson as to what a state university should do, namely: (1) Form statesmen, legislators, and judges; (2) expound the principles and structure of government; (3) promote and harmonize the interests of agriculture, manufacturing and commerce; (4) develop manliness in muscle, mind, and moral; (5) advance those things which administer health, subsistence, and comforts to human life; (6) form, in college men, habits of reflection and correct action, rendering them examples of virtue to others, and happiness within themselves. This may be summed up in the saying of Ezra Cornell:

"I would found an institution where any person can find instruction in any study."

The state supported university justifies its existence if it follows Malin's philosophy and endeavors to keep its charges in the straight and narrow path rather than to bring them back after letting them stray. Our nation, however, has not yet grown out of the impression of pioneer days that one's success depends only on self, and many cases could be cited showing that we spend many dollars to train experts and then refuse to listen to them. To determine that the work of scholars has added materially to the world's wealth, we have only to look at Pasteur's investigations which gave France enough money to cover the total cost of the Franco-German war or to the laboratories and experiment stations of Iowa and Indiana which have added millions of bushels to the corn crop of each of these states or to the results of the work of the experiment station of this University in scientific farming. This shows why the state believes that every citizen should have the opportunity of higher education.

Director Wingard Unanimously Elected for Another Year

At a special meeting of the Athletic Board on Dec. 20, much business which was left over from the regular December meeting was taken up.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION

Car Shipped for Columbus, Ohio.

The car containing the Maine exhibit for the National Corn Exposition at Columbus, Ohio, has been shipped. The exhibit is very comprehensive in its makeup, dealing especially with the potato problem and with corn and grain raising, and is a splendid advertisement of the advantages of the state. It is the joint work of the College of Agriculture, the Experiment Station, the State Grange, and the Maine Seed Improvement Society.

Prof. Bell and Prof. Simmons leave, the last of the month, to spend a few days at the Exposition.

John Jewett, ex-'09, has completed his work at the University and is now located at Boston, Mass., in the office of Bryant and Fisher, Foresters.

Donald Towne, '14, has returned to college after leave of absence to attend the funeral of his grandfather at Madison.

CLASS BASKETBALL SERIES

First Two Games Won for Seniors and Juniors

The first two games of the inter-class basketball series were played in the gymnasium Friday evening when the Seniors won from the Sophomores by the score of 39 to 16, and the Juniors defeated the Freshmen to the tune of 24 to 6.

Ever since early in the fall when it was definitely decided that Maine would not attempt to have a varsity basketball team this year, there has been a feeling of reluctance on all sides to give up basketball entirely as a sport on the Campus. First this feeling cropped out in an attempt to play a series of inter-fraternity games with a suitable trophy for the winning team. This plan was considered inadvisable for various reasons. Finally, a representative student committee came to the rescue with the suggestion of a series of inter-class contests. This plan was adopted, and the following schedule was arranged:

- Jan. 6—Seniors vs. Sophomores.
Juniors vs. Freshmen.
- Jan. 13—Seniors vs. Juniors.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen.
- Jan. 20—Seniors vs. Freshmen.
Juniors vs. Sophomores.
Juniors vs. Sophomores.
- Feb. 10—Seniors vs. Sophomores.
Juniors vs. Freshmen.
- Feb. 17—Seniors vs. Freshmen.
Juniors vs. Sophomores.
- Feb. 24—Seniors vs. Juniors.
Sophomores vs. Freshmen.

The first two games went off well, and with the increased interest which is bound to come, the series promises to be very successful.

The games on Friday night were rather loosely played, and were mostly of the rough-house order. The contests became fiercer and rougher as the playing progressed until the end of the Senior-Sophomore game when Director Wingard spoke to the students assembled on the serious consequences that were liable to result from such games and urged them not to encourage rough work. He followed up his words with action, refereeing the last half of the Junior-Freshman game himself, and seeing to it that the rules of the game were enforced to the letter.

The first game belonged to the Seniors from the beginning, although neither team showed a great deal of scientific basketball. Scales '11, played a fast game for the Seniors and was banner man of the evening in scoring, shooting seven baskets and one from foul. Hammond and Nason also showed up very well for the first game. For the Sophomores Tabor was easily the best with Haines and Richards supporting in good shape.

The Freshmen received even a greater beating, being able to score only three baskets during the entire game while the Juniors made 12 points each half. Benjamin was the mainstay of the Junior aggregation with six baskets to his credit while Washburn and Cleaves did very good work. For the Freshmen, Stevens and Cobb put up the best game.

EDITORIAL.

It is the policy in every business, every system, every institution, to strengthen the constantly recurring weak spots as rapidly as they appear. So it has been the policy of those who have had the University in their care during the brief forty-two years of her existence, to fill up the widest cracks and crevices and smooth off the roughest edges first. In the light of more urgent demands upon their attention and effort, one weakness has not been taken up with the consideration that it might have gained. That is the lack of a large number of well endowed scholarships.

Each year there are awarded a dozen or more prizes and scholarships, most of which, however, are limited to very small amounts. For these the University is duly grateful, yet with the present size of the institution they ought to be only a small part of a great number of large scholarships. Probably no one will appreciate this condition more or admit it more quickly than the donors themselves of the prizes now standing.

The scholarship is valuable as a stimulus to study. If the students know that they have a fair chance to receive a goodly sum toward their college expenses, there is bound to be competition. This competition will likewise have its effect upon the general scholarship of the undergraduate body; the larger the prize the more keen will be the contest for it, and the more numerous the scholarships are the more widely will the mass of the students benefit from the spirit of study.

Since the present scholarships which the University offers are so few, and since every college is proud of the funds which it can distribute among its students, it seems not out of place to call attention to the matter. Of course the institution would have valuable scholarships eventually, but she needs them now. For the satisfaction of this need she can turn in only one general direction. Whatever the support she may receive from outside friends, so much the better, yet it is only toward her body of sixteen hundred Alumni, who are adding a hundred to their number each year, that she can look for definite aid. Will the Alumni, in groups or as individuals, seize this opportunity to manifest their loyalty? Will they?

The students who attended the class games in the gymnasium last Friday evening received a sudden jolt to their anticipation of Basketball witnessing a series of firstclass "rough-houses," when after they had seen three periods full of that sort of thing, Mr. Wingard called their attention to what they were countenancing. More than one man felt a bit disappointed when he put a damper on their expectations of seeing some fun.

Very wisely and tactfully, however, Mr. Wingard put the question to the student body present, and did not attempt to tell them what they should or should not have. It seems that he judged the fellows rightly, and it speaks well for their sense and sportsmanship that after Mr. Wingard was through was heard a

Whatever might be the "brute satisfaction," as Mr. Wingard termed it, in having a series of games which would develop every week into more rough and tumble and less basketball, for the mere physical consequences involved, for the sake of the reputation of Maine's athletics, and for the maintenance of a high ideal of sportsmanship in the minds of the undergraduates themselves, the action of the athletic director deserves the very highest commendation.

As citizens or near-citizens of this State or of adjoining states, and as students in a State institution, we should always take Interest in more than a passing interest in the Politics sessions of the Legislature at Augusta. This session which has just opened, however, holds out an unusual attraction, since the affairs of the State have now come into the control of a party to which the Republicans had not given place since 1847.

The voters of Maine deliberately overthrew the principles of the old party, and elected the representatives of a platform calling for a repeal of the Sturgis law, for resubmission, and for strict curtailment in expenditures, and placed these men at the capitol to choose a senator for the next six years. With so much important legislation on the program, it will be very interesting to follow the work of this Legislature.

The action of the Board of Trustees in naming the agricultural building and the new dormitory Winslow and Hannibal Hamlin Halls respectively is most appropriate. In future years it will be with pleasure that Maine men can look upon Winslow Hall as bearing the name of a man who for twelve years served as a trustee of the University and was for three years President of the Board. In equal measure will it please them to be able to refer to the handsome structure of the dormitory with the name of the man who was the first President of the Board of Trustees of the University, and who was one of the able statesmen whom this State has contributed to the service of the Country.

LUNCHEON IN BOSTON

Massachusetts Men Gathered at Bromfield Inn, Dec. 29.

As is customary during the Christmas recess every year, as many Maine men, both Alumni and undergraduates, as found it possible assembled at the Bromfield Inn in Boston on Thursday, Dec. 29, for luncheon. Thirty-one men were present and for an hour and a half Maine was the chief subject of conversation in the dining-room of the Inn. Many of the graduates took advantage of this opportunity to meet the students and learn first-hand of affairs on the Campus. Equally as much did the younger men enjoy expatiating upon everything about the University.

Those who attended the luncheon are: W. B. Alexander, '07, H. A. Stanley, '05, J. W. Carey, ex-'13, C. H. Johnson, '06, W. F. Maddison, '13, H. W. Ingham, '11, F. W. Nason, '11, H. E. Walker, '10, L. MUSICAL CLUBS

Ellsworth and Bar Harbor, Dec. 22-23—Trip This Week—Massachusetts Tour

A short but pleasant trip was made by the Musical Clubs the first two days of the Christmas recess into Hancock County. The audience at Ellsworth, where a concert was given the 22nd, was small owing to the many other interests of the Christmas season. The listeners were appreciative however and the attendance at the dance following the concert was large enough to make an enjoyable evening.

At Bar Harbor the following night, the audience met all expectations, being large in numbers and responsive to the efforts of the clubs. Many remained at the dance, for which music was furnished by Newell, Morrison, Fulton and Brewer of the clubs.

The following men were taken on the trip:—
Fulton, '11, Morrison, '11, Jones, '11, Davis, '11, Wilson, '11, Fitch, '11, Smith, '11, Whittier, '11, Phinney, '11, Garland, '12, Chase, '12, Woodward, '12, Lilly, '12, Haskell, '11, Brewer, '13, Littlefield, '13, McNeil, '14, Hodgkins, '14, Brown, '14, Hanson, '14, Grace, '14, and Thomas, '14.

Manager Chase was in the western part of the state and in Massachusetts during the recess arranging dates for concerts during the spring. A trip into Piscataquis County with concerts at Greenville, Guilford and one other town, will be taken Jan. 11, 12 and 13th.

TRACK WORK ON

A. N. Smith to Assist Mr. Wingard

The arrival of Coach A. N. Smith, who is to assist Director Wingard in the training of the B. A. A. team adds a new interest to track prospects and means that strict training will be in force from now out and that all members of the squad will be expected to get into harness as soon as possible.

Coach Smith is a new figure on the Campus and comes highly recommended as a coach. He has had a wide experience himself in track events and also in the coaching department. He has been prominent in his native city, Buffalo, where he competed for the colors of the 74th regiment. In New York he ran for the Irish American Athletic Club and in '06 and '07 competed as a professional in England winning the Manchester Handicap which holds out a prize of $1500 for the winner.

In 1908 he was back in the U. S. and trained one of the strongest prep. schools in Massachusetts, namely Wollaston. While there he was very successful, his team winning practically everything. On the following year he went to the University of Buffalo where he took a course in medicine and coached the track team of that university. The year 1910 up to and through the last football season found him as assistant to "Mike" Murphy at the University of Pennsylvania in both track and football. There Mr. Smith gained much valuable information in regard to the handling of athletics.

He intends to use the method of studying the different men and his aim will be that of speed together with endurance. As yet there have been no definite plans made in regard to trials, but it is understood that the men will be expected to run on time every Saturday and as the season progresses relay carnivals will be held thus bringing out all candidates possible for the B. A. A. team.

PRATT TRUSS

Model Made by J. N. Philbrook

The Civil Engineering department has just received a wooden model bridge to be used in connection with the senior work in design. It is a Pratt truss of five panels, about ten feet long over all. Every plate and angle in such a structure is faithfully represented, even down to the lattice work on the columns. The bridge is the work of Mr. John N. Philbrook, tutor in Civil Engineering, and the time necessary for its construction represents a value of over 150 dollars.

A similar model of a plate girder bridge has been used during the present year and has proved to be a very great help in showing the details of construction.

VESPERS

Pres. Aley's Fine Address on St. Paul Last Sunday

The speaker for last Sunday's Vesper Service was Pres. Aley, who took for his subject Paul of Tarsus. Dr. Aley said in substance: Next to Jesus Christ the religious world owes more to St. Paul than to any other man. Through his large, broad vision and his knowledge of the conditions, he was able and competent to interpret the character and work of Jesus Christ as no other man would have been able to do.

Paul's father was a pure Hebrew but a free Roman and in consequence, Paul was a free Roman citizen; born into a city of learning and culture, he decided to devote his life to learning and the edification of the Jewish church. He learned easily and coming to consider the Jew as the chosen people, he fast became the leader of his people and persecuted all who had been against his Christ.

He was particularly well fitted for this great task of making the truth accepted by these ancient towns of Greece and Rome, towns that were not yet destitute of the great memory of the flower period of their power. His dialectic power and religious inspiration were wonderfully balanced and never did he allow either to overshadow the other.

Much of his wonderful power of oratory and convincing logic was dependant upon his custom of sticking to his text and only once did he allow himself to be drawn away from the one thing of his mission, i. e., to present the man Jesus. That one time was when he addressed the Athenians upon Mars Hill in that well known speech, "Ye Men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are somewhat superstitious, etc."

President Aley closed by showing the wonderful work that Paul did in the preparation of the Bible. The music for the service was Gounod's Repentance, which was sung very effectively by Mrs. E. R. Wingard.

WEDNESDAY LECTURE

German Storm and Stress Movement

The German "Storm and Stress" movement was the subject of Prof. Thompson's first lecture in the Library Wednesday afternoon.

During the thirty years' war 1618-1648 there was great desolation in Germany and everything pertaining to German patriotism was crushed. The literary life sprung from literary societies and in the last of the 17th and the first of the 18th centuries lead to Rationalism which sprung up in France. Rationalism was the expression of the intellect, emphasizing form of expression and not mere beauty. It failed to satisfy the heart and could not give an expression of its feeling. Lessing was the greatest exponent of Rationalism and formulated rules to follow in poetry, drama and sculpture. He reformed the drama and his rules are followed at the present time.

The "Storm and Stress" movement was the direct opposite of Rationalism in that it dealt with the heart and its emotions and not with the intellect. This movement was prominent during the years 1770-1780 and was a transition from Rationalism to the Humanitarianism to come.

The popular ballad was the best expression of this movement and the stage was the best medium of production. Goethe's lyrics were taken from real life. He aimed to portray truth as it is in nature. The drama was an extravagant expression of character and contained no idea of unity. The subjects written about mostly were love, murder and suicides—love being the master passion.

If it had not been for two men the "Storm and Stress" movement would have been a great catastrophe. Goethe and Schiller took the movement in hand and controlled it. Goethe was a great poet who knew and understood all about the human heart and its emotions. He fell in love very easily and some of his affairs were quite serious. He went to Italy and came back with the remembrance of the Greek antique, form and beauty and gave it to German literature. His greatest work was Faust and his Goetz and Werther are popular. Schiller put an appeal against tyranny and despotism into his writings. He had all the agony of dealings of this kind. Afterwards Goethe and Schiller took the movement in hand as it was about to run riot and carried German literature through a transition period from Rationalism to Humanitarianism.

ALUMNI NOTES

A. G. Mitchell Only Engineer of the Class of 1875

Of the eight men who received the degree of C. E. in the class of 1875 only one, Allan G. Mitchell, is following that profession at the present time.

Mr. Mitchell began his career in the service of the Somerset R. R. but after obtaining some experience, decided to go into business for himself. In March 1880 he accepted a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad and has remained with that company since that time with the exception of two years, when he was assistant to the chief engineer of the H. C. Frick Coke Co. He has risen steadily from rodman through the grades of transitman, assistant supervisor, supervisor, division engineer, and since 1901 has occupied the position of Superintendent of the Monongehela Division of one of the greatest railroads in the country. His headquarters are at Pittsburgh and he resides at 6007 Walnut St. in that city.

The issues of Engineering News for Dec. 22 and for Dec. 29 both contain articles by Arthur R. Lord, '07. The first is entitled "A Test of a Flat Slab Floor in a Reinforced Concrete Building" and the last "A Discussion of the Basis of Design for Reinforced Concrete Flat Slabs."

Both of the articles are reprints of papers presented before the Annual Convention of the National Association of Cement Users, in New York City on Dec. 13, 1910.

Mr. Lord is Research Fellow in the Engineering Experiment Station of the University of Illinois at Urbana, Illinois.

Several Maine men are members of the State Legislature which has just convened at Augusta.

Dana L. Theriault, '00 L, is a senator from Aroostook County. This is not Mr. Theriault's first experience at law-making as he was a member of the House in 1907. Mr. Theriault is a lawyer and resides at Fort Kent.

In the house we are represented by W. R. Pattangall, ex-'85, of Waterville, and by P. H. Dunn, '06 L, of Brewer, on the Democratic side, and by Frank L. Fenderson, '99 L, of Limerick, Harry W. Davis of Guilford, J. Frank Quimby of North Turner, and Frederick E. Doyle of Millinocket, on the Republican side.

Chandler C. Harvey, '90, of Fort Fairfield was elected clerk of the House of Representatives. W. R. Pattangall has been nominated for the position of Attorney-General on the Governors Council and will probably be elected to that office.

The marriage is announced of Warren E. Conner, '09, to Miss Irene C. Richardson, '09, at Malta, Montana, December twenty-third. Mr. Conner is an engineer in the U. S. Reclamation Service.

Another Christmas marriage was that of Frederick E. Cram, '09, to Miss Sara E. Holsing on December twenty-fourth.

E. C. Brown, '05, was a visitor on the campus during the recess. He is now with the Draper Company at Hopedale, Mass.

Other recent visitors to the campus are W. C. Elliot, '02, H. W. Bachelder, '05, and Edward C. Morton, '09.

This year's registration at Bowdoin is at present 332. The Junior Class is the largest, numbering 88.

ATHLETIC FUND

Improvements on Alumni Field Now Assured

As the result of industrious work among the Alumni during the last two months the committee of the Athletic Board, H. B. Buck, '93, C. P. Crowell, '98, and P. B. Palmer, '96, aided by Director Wingard, have secured pledges for a goodly portion of the $3000 fund that they wish to raise for the improvement of Alumni Field. During the trip to Pennsylvania Mr. Wingard made good use of a part of his time for this purpose.

The work of these men, however, is by no means at an end, for besides securing sufficient money for re-surfacing the athletic field, which now seems assured, they propose to gain from the Alumni a part of the amount necessary to build a suitable grand-stand. To place such a structure on the field will call for a considerable expenditure of money, and these four men will continue their work throughout the winter.

Mr. WINSLOW TO RESIGN

President of Board of Trustees for Three Years

At a dinner which he tendered the Board of Trustees when they were assembled in Portland for a meeting during the Christmas recess, Hon. E. B. Winslow announced his intention to resign from the Board in the near future. Although no formal resignation has been made public his retirement will probably take place very soon.

Mr. Winslow, who is one of the prominent business men of Portland, is completing a long and serviceable term as a Trustee of the University. It was twelve years ago that he was appointed to the Board, and three years ago he was chosen President of that body, to succeed Mr. Lord of Bangor. He has always taken a keen interest in the institution and has given his aid in building up the present University from the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Through the University Association, an invitation has been extended to the boys who will visit Bangor for the Y. M. C. A. Boy's Conference in February to make a visit to the Campus.

The committee in charge of the Conference program has very kindly given up an afternoon for that purpose and will arrange for the transportation of the boys from Bangor. A committee composed of representatives from the faculty, the Y. M. C. A. and the "M" Club will have charge of the entertainment of the boys while they are on the Campus but it will require the services of every man who can possibly help if the affair is to be a success.

The president of the Association has recently received a catalogue of The Springfield Y. M. C. A. Training School which he will be very glad to show to any one who is interested.

The devotional meeting on Thursday evening was in charge of L. C. Smith, '13.

At the monthly business meeting the amendments to the constitution were accepted.

Two members were elected to act upon the committee on the Boy's Conference, also a committee was appointed to advertise the College Association Conference at Bates on Feb. 18, 19, 20. Several new members were voted into the Association.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Bell spoke at a meeting at Lagrange, Thursday evening, December 29.

Up to noon, Thursday, fifteen men had registered for the short winter courses in dairying and agriculture. Further registration was expected during the remainder of the week.

Lieut. W. D. Frazier of Fort Williams, Maine, spent the holidays as the guest of Prof. Gardner.

"Robert R. Drummond, Ph. D., has made an interesting contribution to the history of Music in America in his study of "Early German Music in Philadelphia." It gives a glimpse of both religious and secular music in that city in a period that had not been thoroughly investigated before."—"Old Penn."

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Swimming and boating have been made regular athletic activities for women at Stanford.

In order to wipe out a debt of the crew of $7,500 the students of Syracuse University raised $1,100 in a single day.

Dr. George Edgar Vincent who is to succeed Dr. Syrus Northrop as president of the University of Minnesota is to be inaugurated April first.

A motorcycle club has recently been formed at Purdue University.

John Laurence Hurley, '12, of Malden, Mass. has been elected captain of the Bowdoin football team for 1911.

POULTRY SHOWS

College of Agriculture Active at Several Shows

The College of Agriculture will be represented by an extensive exhibit of birds at the Boston Poultry Show, which is held in Mechanics Hall, January 10-14. A team, consisting of C. J. Dunlap, '12, and R. E. Jones, '12, will represent the College in the various judging contests.

This is the largest and best attended poultry show in the country. Being in the center of a poultry raising territory, it attracts both producers and consumers. The department is led to exhibit outside the state, by the large number of inquiries which are received from all parts of New England. Nearly a thousand copies of the leaflets describing the agricultural courses have been sent outside the state this year.

During the past month, members of the Agricultural faculty have attended poultry shows at Bangor, Portland, Skowhegan and Freeport, exhibits being made at all except the last place. The general interest in poultry throughout the state is very much alive at present. The correspondence of the department is steadily increasing and the number of interviews sought by poultry raisers at the late shows, has been very noticeable.

There is also much interest in the further organization of the poultry interests. There are, at present, the State Poultry Association and some seven or eight local associations, but they are inadequate to fill the educational needs of the state. At a meeting at the Freeport show, it was proposed to form either a second state association or a branch of the American Poultry Association, and a committee, of which Dr. L. S. Merrill is secretary, was appointed to look into the matter. It is probable that a strong organization will be formed to forward the educational work.

LOCALS

Donald P. Oak, '11, represented Beta Upsilon chapter of Alpha Tau Omega at its annual convention at Atlanta, Georgia, December 29 30 and 31st.
