MAINE MASQUE

Twelfth High a Great Success at Milo and Brownville

The Maine Masque gave its first performance in Brownville Thursday night and repeated the play in Milo Friday. Notwithstanding various disappointments, the Masque has opened its dramatic season one month earlier than in any previous year. Its drudgery is practically over; for after the experience of this two days' trip, a little rehearsing will give the play its finishing touches.

While the Brownville performance revealed several weak points in the presentation of the play, it also brought to light some of its best characters and scenes. A rapid rehearsal Friday resulted in a fairly smooth performance the second night. The Milo stage, which is rather shabby, was entirely transformed Friday afternoon. The Masque curtains were carefully draped, concealing every part of the scenery, until there was a solid setting of deep red, making a beautiful background for the costumes. Every member of the cast paid strict attention to business at the evening performance, and the attention of the audience did not lag during the two hours of almost continuous action. Both audiences were large and appreciative. In both places the cast were well entertained at private houses and were tendered a dance after the play. Members of the University orchestra furnished music at Milo.

After weeks of rehearsing it is interesting to see the various members of the cast meet the test of a real audience. The assignment of characters has already appeared in the CAMPUS. Mr. Ash is by all odds the hit of the season so far. He is a natural comedian and is an admirable Sir Andrew in make-up, speech and action. He knows every scene of his part and introduces effective byplay always at the right time. Great credit is due to Mr. Clark for the progress he has made in the short time he has been an actor. At the dress rehearsal he had scarcely had time to learn his lines, yet in the scenes at Milo he was a capital Sir Toby and played with great zest. He is to be congratulated. Mr. Haskell has a good conception of Malvolio, but he missed several of the last rehearsals and does not yet realize the force required to get Malvolio over the footlights. Many of his scenes however were a distinct success in Milo and showed his growing conception of the character. Mr. Brown who is well cast for the clown, has not quite discovered the art of making this character a "merry fellow" where the action is slight, and he has quite failed to make his singing the feature it ought to be. He catches the audience with his comedy in the opening scenes and is quite capable of correcting the short-comings of his first performances.

The romance characters play every scene in the right key, and draw the close attention of the audience to the romantic story of Viola and Sebastian. It is by the way, a compliment to all members of the cast that the romance of the plot holds the interest of the audience and is by no means overshadowed by the broader comedy. Mr. Thomas is rapidly gaining force and authority in the part of Antonio. Mr. Hart, who came into the cast late, plays a lady in waiting and the lively Fabian, and has proved a valuable man. Messrs. Norcross and Hudson are on the stage much of the time in small parts and work effectively.

There is no prettier sight in the play than the appearance of Mr. Monohon and Mr. Pendleton as Viola and Sebastian. They play with a sincerity and ease that adds peculiar charm to the scenes where they appear. In costume they resemble each other so closely that the audience cannot tell them apart, and they gain the sympathy of the audience so completely that when the long lost brother and sister embrace in the last act, the audience is hushed in silence. Mr. Maxcy is as petite a Maria as ever sat on a Sir Toby's knee, and he carries the audience through the Malvolio scenes in high spirits. Mr. Maxcey has been a great worker in the cast and an energetic stage manager. Mr. Dinsmore looks his part admirably and conveys the various moods of Olivia with subtilty and good taste. All in all, the cast is well-balanced and every member a capable artist. The costumes made by Morris of Bangor are thoroughly satisfactory and meet the requirements of the play in every detail. Mr. Clifford George proved a capable manager. He is punctual in every detail of business and keeps his company in good humor. He is assisted by Mr. Haines, who did good service on the trip.

SENIOR BASKETBALL TEAM

BASKETBALL

Seniors and Sophomores Win the Last Two Games of the Series

The closing games of the inter-class basketball series were played last Friday night and resulted in victories for the Seniors and Sophomores. The games which were the best of the series were well attended by the Seniors and Juniors but the representations from the two under classes was very poor. Cheering sections were organized and each class did its best to make more noise than the others, if nothing more.

The Senior-Junior game was fast and close, and excitement was kept at a high pitch until the last whistle blew, ending the game with the Seniors only five points ahead. During the last few moments of play, it looked as if the Juniors would at least tie if not beat the Seniors from the number of baskets they were getting. Although the Juniors outplayed the Seniors, their shooting and it is to this fact that they owe their defeat. In this game, time was taken out a number of times on account of injuries, none of which were serious. This game the players time to rest often and as the result the game was played at high speed throughout. Scales and Nason showed up in their usual 'varsity form and played good games for the Seniors, while Smith and Parker did good work for the Juniors.

The Sophomore-Freshman game was a great surprise to many after the result of the preceding game between the two classes, which the Freshmen won. It was estimated from the games with the other classes that both teams had improved so that they would be nearly evenly matched but no one suspected that the Sophomore team had made so much improvement that they would outplay the Freshmen in every particular. game was clean and snappy and both sides, though not playing as well as the Seniors and Juniors, put up a good exhibition of basketball. Wescott and Richards were the stars for the Sophomores and Abbott and Stevens played a good game for the Freshmen.

The end of the series finds the Senior team with a perfect score having won every game they played. The Junior team lost two games to the Seniors but won all the others, thus giving them second place. The Sophomores and Freshmen have won one game apiece from each other which ties them for third place.

Friday's games closed the basketball season for the year. These games were a fitting climax to an interesting contest and it seems as if the experiment of interclass basketball was a decided success.

◆ ◆ ◆ FARMERS' WEEK

Large Attendance—Noted Speakers

Yesterday saw the beginning of a very busy week and a particularly important one to the University, especially to the members of the Agricultural department. A number of new features have been added this year to the course. A series of lectures in Farm Management, Potato Diseases, Insect Pests, and Sheep Husbandry will be given, also a demonstration in the Grading, Handling, and Packing of Eggs. The two lectures and demonstration on Sheep Husbandry by T. R. Arkell, Professor of Animal Industry, New Hampshire College will be of more than ordinary interest.

The program for the week began with the registration of those taking the course at 7.00 P. M. in Agricultural Hall. Following this there was an address by the Hon. J. P. Buckley, Commissioner of Agriculture. This was followed by an address by Hon. C. S. Stetson, Master Maine State Grange. President Aley next gave an address of welcome to the visitors.

This morning there were various lectures on Agronomy subjects and demonstrations on Farm Machinery. This afternoon lectures on Animal Industry subjects were given, among which was a lecture on "Principles in Animal Breeding" by Raymond Pearl, Biologist Maine Experiment Station. This evening there are to be talks by Professor Comstock, A. A. Heald of Waterville and Dr. L. S. Merrill.

Tomorrow the subjects of Farm Management, Horticulture, and Poultry Management will be taken up. The cartons of eggs brought in by interested parties will be tested and demonstrations on the handling of eggs will be given by Professor Brown. Professor Comstock will lecture to the Women's Section on the selection and comparison of foods and meats. A demonstration on meat cutting and one on muscle building foods will make up the program for the afternoon. The University Band will give a few selections in the evening. Professor Bradford Knapp, U. S. Department of Agriculture will lecture on "The Demonstration Farm and Its Value to the Community."

Thursday there will be lectures on Farm Crops and Veterinary Science. E. A. Stanford, Maine, '06, is to give a lecture on "Maine's Fertilizer Problems." Professor Arkell's lectures on "Management of Sheep on the Farm" and "The Wool Markets and the Grading of Wool" and his explanation of the market type of sheep will be the most interesting parts of the program. Professor Comstock will give some practical hints in home laundering and a demonstration in cooking to the Women's Section.

On Friday Professors Bell, Gardner and Simmons will lecture on subjects pertaining to Farm Crops and Farm Management.

Demonstrations on "Desirable Types of Draft Horses," "The Bakcock Test," "Butter Making," and "The Killing, Dressing and Packing of Poultry" will take up a large part of the afternoon. The Women's Section will hear lectures on "House Decorations" by Professor Comstock and "Bacteria in the House" by Professor Russell.

The exhibit of farm products which the Agricultural department showed at the National Corn Show at Columbus, Ohio, will be placed on exhibition during Farmers' Week. Among the exhibits will be the samples of flint corn which took first place in the National Sweepstakes.

EDITORIAL.

The time is near at hand when it will no longer be of any use for men to report for track this year.

Already the remaining weeks of the More! year are numbered, and every passing week shortens the time for training, until very soon it will be impossible for a man to train adequately, to ensure him a chance for the team which goes to Waterville on May 13th.

So now is the time! Do not wait until the indoor season is over. Do not dally along until the first of May and then go out. That will never do. Maine must have more men out for track now, and to three hundred and fifty of her students—are you one of them?—she sends forth the appeal.

Listen! It is the members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes whom the coaches are most anxious to have on the track squad. For it is with these men, who have several years of college life before them, that the success of Maine's track teams in the next few years will lie. Almost any man can, if he begins work when he is a freshman and continues it faithfully, develop into a point-winner before the end of his course. Therefore, it is because they want every man in the present Freshman class out for athletics, and because they want to make it the custom, not the exception, for every man who comes to Maine to ally himself with some sport, that Mr. Wingard and Mr. Smith, the captains and managers and old members of all the teams, and the many Alumni who follow Maine's athletic fortunes so closely, are making this call with all the energy at their command.

Yet, while the appeal goes to the lower classes, it reaches out to the upperclassmen even more urgently. Every influence must be brought to bear upon the Freshmen to incite them to go out for track, and no other can have the weight that will rest in the example set by the upperclassmen. Here are the leaders in student activities; here the men, who, because they owe more to Maine, are supposed to love her with a more mature love, than the Freshmen. All the exhortations of one man or of a group of men will go for naught, if the great body of upperclassmen whose only physical support of athletics has been their cheering at meets and games, realizing as they must the situation, refuse pointblank to respond with all the heartiness of the true college man to this appeal.

Think what it will mean if you take hold of the movement which Mr. Wingard is trying to start, to make every Maine man feel that he must go out for a team, and force it through to success. Think what an effect it will have, even in the contests of this Spring, and more in those of next year and of future years. Then think of the damper which you will place upon athletics this year and for a long time to come, if you prove yourselves utterly incapable of being moved to a greater extent than to give a sympathetic nod of assent to this call.

Maine men, while you can not all make the track team, or the baseball team, or the football team, you can try. So, for the sake of the University, which was your choice for an education and which you want to see grow in numbers, and for the sake of your reputation as worthy to be students of this institution, make a vow that it shall never be said to you again in mass-meeting that you give poorer support to your athletics than any other college in the State of Maine!

"To those who have won an M, the Athletic Board shall give the choice of the suits worn that year, or a 'varsity sweater,

A. A. Amendments or some other appropriate souvenir." This is the motion which was made at the meeting of the Athletic Association last week, to take the place of the amendment resubmitted by the Athletic Board to article V, section 6, of the by-laws.

At the meeting of the Association this week it will probably be taken from the table for a vote, and in view of the discussion made on the question at the last meeting and since then, it deserves the careful consideration of the student body before they vote upon it.

While the idea embodied in the amendment as resubmitted by the Athletic Board, awarding "some appropriate souvenir to those who have won an M, at a time to be fixed by the Board," may be clear in the minds of the members of the Board, it is certainly a very blind proposition to the students. Although the interpretation placed upon the clause by the Board would perhaps be satisfactory, it should be framed so that the members of the Association could understand it more definitely. It is strange, indeed, that it should ever have been passed by the Association which now subjects it to serious question, and it should serve as a warning against allowing motions to go rapidly through a meeting without thorough analysis.

On the other hand, it is doubtful whether the amendment proposed in the meeting should not be revised. It is a technical error, perhaps, yet a careless one, that the expression "to those who have won an M, the Athletic Board shall award," should be contained in the motion, since it makes it imperative that the Board shall make some award to every man who has made his letter in the history of the Association. As the motion stands, moreover, it directs the Board to make some award to a student every time that he wins an M, which would throw a serious expense upon the Association. The motion also gives the man winning his letter the choice of "some appropriate souvenir," the cost of which is subject to his will, not that of the Board. Such a provision might very likely cause serious complications and dissatisfaction.

Therefore, when the matter again comes before the Association, the students should be prepared to consider it deliberately and wisely, and they should guard most carefully against voting favorably upon anything which is indefinite or defective.

A year ago the student body suddenly awoke to the fact that they had something of which few student bodies of their size Maine Songs could boast—a Song-book. Great was the pride expressed in this possession, and great was the gratitude manifested for a brief time toward the few,—and especially the one man—who had made the publication of the book possible. All this pride and all this gratitude may still exist in the hearts of the undergraduates, and may manifest themselves at times, but that enthusiasm which greeted the book has inexplicably died out.

All this year it has seemed that so much effort and time had been almost as well as wasted, in consideration of any results obtained. One of the aims of those who gathered the material for the Song-book was to give to Maine a collection of Maine and college songs. A higher aim, however, was to secure, from the large number of songs contributed to the book, a few that might become popular and typical Maine songs. These few are to be found, and they have all the swing and dash that would make them compare favorably with any college songs in America. If we do not know another piece in the book, let us learn the half-dozen or so of the best songs. And learning them means to sing them in our fraternity houses and at home and anywhere we can, until every man of the student body can contribute the full strength of his voice on the athletic field or in the mass-meeting.

To be Held in the Chapel, March 14th

Arrangements have practically been completed for the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate which is to be held in the Chapel next Tuesday evening, March 14th, at eight o'clock. Both teams have been working hard under the capable direction of Instructor A. V. Ketcham of the English Department. The subject, which is: "Resolved, That the United States should make no discrimination between the immigrants from China and those from other countries," has been fully developed on both sides of the question and a well balanced argument will be presented by both teams. The sophomores are to have the affirmative and will speak in the following order: G. C. Clarke, S. P. Danforth and W. F. Maddison. The freshmen will be represented by W. D. Towner, H. R. Clark, and P. W. Monohon. Hon. Charles J. Dunn of Orono will act as one of the judges, together possibly with Dean Walz of the Law School and some other Bangor lawyer. President R. J. Aley will preside. An orchestra will be in attendance and a large representation from the two classes will be present. Much interest has already been shown in this event as it is the only debate of the college year.

PRES. ALEY AWAY

Visited Eastern Maine Towns Last Week

For several days last week President Aley was away, visiting towns in Washington county. He left Orono Wednesday and that evening spoke at the State Normal School at Machias on the Weight of a Man. Thursday he was at Calais, where he addressed the high school students in the afternoon and spoke in the city hall in the evening. His subject was Life's Handicaps. Friday afternoon he visited the high school at Lubec and in the evening spoke at Eastport on the Call of the Century.

At each of these places his address was heard by a large audience, and he was tendered a warm reception. He returned to the University Saturday.

NEW YORK ALUMNI

Entertain Prof. Aubert at Informal Dinner

Maine men in New York had the pleasure of meeting Professor A. B. Aubert at dinner at the Graduates' Club, New York, on Friday, February 17th.

Graduates from the Chemical Department were there in goodly numbers and vied with the graduates from other courses in showing their affection and esteem for the old chemistry professor, who had given so large a share of his life to the service of the University of Maine.

Professor Allen Rogers, '97, of Pratt Institute, acted as toastmaster and his string of reminiscences brought to each mind the memories of college days and made them real.

"The Boys" gave Professor Aubert an ovation when he was introduced and it was several minutes before the tumult subsided so that he was able to speak. Assuring all present that this was his maiden after-dinner speech he dwelt happily on the old associations and memories accumulated through years of service at Maine.

Enthusiasm and loyalty marked every minute of the evening. Reserve and embarrassment were flung to the four winds and each and every Maine man present got on his feet and had something to say before the meeting finally broke up. The old-timers especially were primed with anecdotes and suggestions for more concerted support of the University on the part of the alumni.

Those who listened for the first time to the experience of the cadets at the Presque Isle and Bath encampments wished that the custom had lasted till their day.

When at a late hour the time came to adjourn everyone said "Goodnight" with an enthusiastic spirit of fellowship and loyalty to Old Maine.

Those present were: Professor A. B. Aubert, New York City; Doctor Marquis, Old Town; H. W. Riggs, '85; A. W. Sargent, '88; C. G. Cushman, '89; H. P. Farrington, '90; C. H. Kilbourne, '91; G. A. Hall, '94; I. W. Jeffrey, '96; Allen Rogers, '97; C. W. Crockett, '99; M. B. Downing, '99; W. W. Haney, '99; O. W. Stephens, '99; Dr. C. P. Gray, '00; W. H. Boardman, '01; H. P. Hamlin, '02; C. W. Margesson, '02; G. S. Brawn, '04; F. McCullough, '04; J. H. Quimby, '04; O. F. Terry, ex-'04; B. H. Chatto, '05; G. K. Huntington, '05; C. C. Robinson, Law '05; W. R. Dolbier, '06; D. J. SPRING TRACK WORKEleventh Indoor Meet Friday

At the call for track men to begin preparation for the spring meets which was given two weeks ago, about sixty men responded. This is probably a larger number than in any previous year, but nevertheless represents a little over 10% of the student body. The men that are out are working in good shape.

On Saturday Coach Smith ran off a few of the events, which will be run in the indoor meet next Friday, to give the men a little practice under competition. No time was taken in the events, but several pretty races developed which were very interesting to quite a number of non-participating students.

The Eleventh Annual Indoor Interclass Meet will be held on Friday evening. For the first time in the history of this mid-winter event, the discus and hammer throw will be held and will count for points. These events will be held Friday afternoon beginning at 4.30, the weights being thrown from a wooden platform in the rear of the gymnasium. The meet proper will commence promptly at 7.30 P. M. All the events will be held on the gymnasium floor and track, except the broad jump, which will take place in the baseball cage. The program of events will be: 25 Yard Dash, 25 Yard Hurdles, (low), 2 Lap 4 Lap, 8 Lap, and 15 Lap Relays, Shot Put, High Jump, Broad Jump, Pole Vault, Discus Throw, Hammer Throw. The events will be run in somewhat different order than is given here, and the management retains the right to strike out any event that does not have sufficient entries. In the relay races, 1911 will run against 1912 and 1913 against 1914. In the 2 Lap Relay the winning teams will run against each other.

The indoor meet of former years has been one of the most popular events of the year, and this year's meet promises to be no exception.

LECTURES BEFORE CIVIL STUDENTSFine Lecture by C. Frank Allen of M. I. T.

The Civil Engineering students at the University experienced a great treat on Monday, February 28, in the shape of two most interesting and profitable lectures by C. Frank Allen, Professor of Railroad Engineering in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and author and compiler of Allen's "Railroad Curves and Earthwork" and "Field and Office Tables" both of which are used by the local Civil Engineering Dept. on the Campus. Owing to some defect in the lantern, Prof. Allen was unable to begin his morning lecture at 10 o'clock, as scheduled, but he occupied the interval of waiting with a very interesting talk on the beginning and development of the present immense railroad system. Following this, Prof. Allen gave a fine exposition of the beginning and development of the modern locomotive and of the solution of many of the difficult problems of railroad construction throughout the country, emphasizing especially the practice of sacrificing distance and expensive construction for the sake of easy grades.

In the afternoon, Prof. Allen gave a most instructive description of the prevailing railroad signaling-systems throughout the country, before a large number of the engineering students. He covered this subject, which is a most difficult one to talk upon, in a very complete and comprehensible form, which was pleasing to everyone that heard the lecture.

Both of the lectures were pleasing and highly appreciated by every man that heard them, and the civil engineering students cannot be too grateful for the untiring efforts that the Faculty of this department are putting forth to get such men of high standing in engineering circles to speak before the local students.

ELIZABETHAN STAGE.Lecture by Professor Gray This Evening

The lecture of Professor Gray on the Elizabethan Stage, which was postponed from last week, will be given tonight in the Library.

In the introduction, Professor Gray will show the relation of the Elizabethan stage to the dramatist, and will show the importance of a knowledge of the stage of the sixteenth century, in a better understanding of the plays of that century. Several stereopticon views will be used to show the typical stage of the time of Shakespeare, and these views will be discussed to some length; the purpose being to show how the plays were staged, and how the stage has modified the stage during that period.

R. E. Taylor, 05, has recently been appointed Signal Inspector on engineering work in connection with new signal work carried on by the Signal Department of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING

Recognition Button Accepted

At a meeting of the Senior Class last Friday noon one of three designs submitted by the class committee was accepted and the committee authorized to proceed with ordering the pins. The design accepted is a small pin of irregular seal shape of oxidized silver, with a raised pine tree in the center. The pin will be about three-eighths of an inch in diameter and will be in the form of a screw fastening button to be worn in the buttonhole of the lapel, or upon the lapel in other places as desired. It was also decided to hold a class meeting this evening, Tuesday, for the purpose of electing the Commencement part speakers, taking action on the class constitution recently printed in the CAMPUS, and to do any other business necessary.

The fund for the field is growing rapidly having been successful in raising something over the goal.

The greater number of the alumni attending the convention have contributed to the fund. Some have sent a check, others are still setting up their Associations to contribute.

It is especially interesting to collect the clippings for the Field on the 1st of April, as it is the first of the Field on the 1st of April worth of tiling the field at that time.

present the treasurer's report that the following follows: Senior 40%. While the more cash will be made this will be the first time there is no reason why the University should not be interested.

It is planned for the purpose of denoting the growth on the campus imported some fertilizer will be sowed in the country, and interest.

DE
Meeting Last V

The regular meeting was held last week at the Vernon House. The meeting consisted of a German Emperor's great deal of singing. The songs were of a dainty lunch service.

The Alumni meeting of the Association of New England Federal Clubs in Berlin,

FIELD FUND

$1,400 Subscribed of Which $300 Has Been Paid

The fund for the improvement of the athletic field is growing rapidly, fourteen hundred dollars having been subscribed to date, of which something over three hundred have been paid in.

The greater part of the subscriptions are from the alumni although the members of the Faculty have contributed $375.00. The Boston Alumni have sent a check for $50.00 showing that they are still setting an example for the other Alumni Associations to follow in the matter of loyalty.

It is especially desired that the class treasurers collect the class assessments before the first of April, as it is planned to set six teams at work on the Field on that date. There will also be $350.00 worth of tiling and several loads of cinders needed at that time, which must be paid for. At present the treasurers of the three upper classes report that they have collected percentages as follows: Seniors 70%, Juniors 80%, Sophomores 40%. While a good sum has been subscribed, more cash will have to be paid in soon, in order to make the thing a success. It is hoped that this will be the best field east of Boston, and there is no reason why it should not be if those interested in the University will contribute freely.

It is planned to have a turf field, and for the purpose of demonstrating that good turf can be grown on the clay soil hereabouts, Prof. Bell has imported some golf seed from England, which will be sowed and fertilized with a half car of fertilizer. There is no turf like it grown in this country, and the result will be watched with interest.

 DEUTSCHER VEREIN

Meeting Last Wednesday At Mt. Vernon House

The regular meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held last Wednesday evening at the Mt. Vernon House. The program of the evening consisted of a talk by Dr. Drummond on the German Emperor which was listened to with a great deal of interest by the members. After this songs were joined in by the assembly and a dainty lunch served by the ladies.

The Alumni of Harvard have 82 clubs, including the Associated Harvard Club, the New England Federation of Harvard Clubs, a Harvard Club in Berlin, and one in Italy.

ALUMNI NOTES

The next monthly dinner of the Boston Alumni will be held at the Bromfield Inn, Bromfield St., on Saturday evening, March 11th, at six o'clock.

One of the University's successful alumni in the engineering world is Frank Elwin Weymouth, C. E., who was graduated from the University in 1896. Mr. Weymouth was born in Medford, Maine, June 2, 1874. For three years after his graduation, he was engaged in sewer and water works construction in Boston and Malden. From there he went to Winnipeg, Manitoba, where he was assistant city engineer until August, 1899. He was married to Mary Maud Lane of Orono on December 3, 1900.

Engineering work with the Isthmian Canal Commission was engaged in for two years, part of the work being in Washington and part in Nicaragua. He left this in 1901 to become resident engineer for the Guayaquil, Ecuador and Quito Railway Co. In 1902 he returned to the United States and since then has been in the Reclamation Service. From 1902 until 1908 his work was on surveys and investigations in various parts of Montana and South Dakota. Since this time he has been project engineer in charge of the Lower Yellowstone project in eastern Montana. He is also supervising engineer in charge of the Idaho District which includes the drainage of the Snake River in Wyoming, Idaho, and eastern Oregon. The size of this work can be judged from the fact that it covers the irrigation of six hundred thousand acres of land and large storage dams at Jackson Lake, Wyoming, and on the upper branches of the Snake and Boise rivers.

Mr. Weymouth is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and belongs to the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

 EXCHANGES

On Washington's Birthday, the University of Washington celebrated its fiftieth anniversary.

All members of the freshman rhetoric classes at the University of Kansas are required to write letters to their home papers in order to advertise the institution.

Mrs. Russell Sage has presented Vassar College with $150,000 for a new dormitory.

At the University of Minnesota, a new scheme is being tried to make the glee club men attend rehearsals more regularly. If a man is not present at roll call at the rehearsal, he is dropped in favor of the next man on the waiting list. The result of this scheme is eagerly awaited.

A course in practical lumbering will be given at Yale this semester.

Wisconsin has organized an advertising club with the idea of securing more advertisements for their daily paper.
