Just as the proper tools produce the best work, so does a responsive key action increase the efficiency of a stenographer. It saves her strength. Therefore, she has a better grip on her work, is more accurate, more rapid, gets a greater quantity of work done. There is no "three-o'clock fatigue" where the Monarch is used, and a few days' trial will convince you of this fact.

MAINE LOSES

Last Game Goes to Colby

Saturday afternoon Colby won from Maine, 8 to 7, in one of the most uninteresting games of ball ever witnessed on Alumni Field. Maine started off well with two runs to her credit and increased the lead with one run in the fourth and three more in the seventh, making a total of six runs at the beginning of the eighth, three runs in the lead. But in the eighth Colby scored five runs through inexcusable errors on the part of the home team. Maine was able to score only one run in her half of the eighth. In the ninth inning neither side scored although Maine had a fine chance had Fulton run home from third on a sacrifice fly by Smith. Libby pitched in good form, but the support that he received was very poor.

Maine's line-up was broken up by the illness of Capt. Smith. Abbott caught, Scales played second base, and Wentworth played right field. The team was slightly handicapped by this change but the errors made were hardly due to this shift.

In the present standing of the intercollegiate series Bowdoin stands first, having won four games and lost none; Bates second, winning two and losing one; Maine third, winning two and losing four; Colby fourth, winning one and losing four.

BASEBALL

At a meeting of the baseball team after the Colby game, F. C. Cobb, '12, was elected captain of next season's baseball team, succeeding Russell Smith, '11. Cobb entered the University with the class of 1911 and kept the position as third baseman during his freshman and sophomore years. He left college for a year and returned last fall to take up his old position this spring. He has won his "M" for the three years, and at the end of the season of 1912 will have earned a fourth.

THE COLLEGE STORE

Open For Summer School

Arrangements have been made so that the college store will be re-opened in the basement of Coburn Hall in time for Summer School. The mail department will be transferred to Alumni Hall where, already, mail boxes have been installed for that purpose. Each fraternity house will have its private box. There will be no long waiting line as formerly existed over in Coburn.

The welfare of the new store will mean much to the Athletic Association. The future manager of the store has been appointed, but the name has not yet been made public.

Joseph Swain of Swarthmore College, he will discuss the "Needed Adjustment of Relations Between Secondary Schools and Colleges," before the National Council of Education. In the Department of Elementary Education Pres. Aley will speak on "The Health of School Children."

Among the more prominent of the speakers will be Pres. Wheeler of California University; Daniel Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford Junior University; Samuel Avery, Chancellor at the University of Nebraska; and Thomas F. Kane, President of Washington University.

The guests present were the Misses Gail Woodcock, Elsie Hutchings, Hazel Colomy, Roselle Herlihy and Martha Robinson of Bangor; Blanche Van Nostrand and Christine Dean of Wakefield, Mass.; Marion Coburn, Helen Ring, Mabel Arnold, and Alice Gilbert of Orono; Ruth and Helen Stinchfield, Luzetta Stearns, Margaret Flint, Antoinette Webb, Campus; Clare Weld of Oldtown.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Last Thursday afternoon Bates College made sure of the championship of doubles in the Maine Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament by defeating Bowdoin in the semi-finals. F. Clason and Woodman of Bates' first team defeated Hichborn and Hastings of Bowdoin's second team by the score of 6-1, 6-3. The Bates second team consisting of Clason and Twomblin defeated Bowdoin's first team consisting of Black and McCormick, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. The finals are to be decided between the two Bates teams, Bates winning the championship whichever team wins.

Friday forenoon both Bowdoin and Bates won the singles, each college getting two men in the semi-finals.

Clason of Bates defeated Morse of Colby, 10-8, 6-4.

Black of Bowdoin defeated Bird of Maine 9-7, 6-1.

Woodman of Bates defeated Greswald of Colby, 6-2, 6-2.

McCormick of Bowdoin defeated Towner, of Maine 6-3, 6-2.

The semi finals were played Friday afternoon, and the final round was played on Saturday.

Maine was represented by Bird, Smiley, Peckham and Towner. Maine lost the doubles principally because of lack of practice and team work. The singles were lost simply because the other men were stronger.

The total cost for one year to the university for the supplying of these honors will be $30,150. The subjects covered by the fellowships and scholarships embrace every branch of knowledge including Germanics, history, semitics, zoology, anthropology, astronomy, botany, chemistry, classics, economics, English, Indo-European philology, mathematics, pedagogy, philosophy, psychology, Romancis, sociology and physics. Miss Copeland was a graduate of the University of Maine in the class of 1904.

BOWDOIN-MAINE GAME

Maine Lost to Bowdoin: 4-2

Losing all chances for the baseball championship, Maine was defeated by Bowdoin in the fifth game of the series last Wednesday afternoon by the score of 4 to 2. The game was called promptly at three-thirty. A drizzling rain continued throughout the game. Despite the rain a fast game was played, characterized by good pitching, and fine catches by the outfielders.

It was Bowdoin's game almost from the start. She assumed the lead with two runs in the third and kept her position throughout the game, although things looked good for Maine in the third and also in the eighth. In the third, with two out, Scales started in with a clean single to center. Passes to Fulton and Cobb filled the bases. Abbott lifted a long fly to right which looked good but Grant caught it with difficulty after a pretty run. Scales again led off in the eighth with a single and stole second but Fulton, Cobb, and Abbott were easy outs. Bowdoin lost two chances for possible scores when Fulton made difficult catches of long flies in the fifth and seventh.

UNIVERSITY RECORDS GO

An opportunity was given all men in the University to try for University records in track and field events on last Saturday. This innovation was tried on account of the fact that there has been no interclass meet this season. As a result of the work on Saturday new marks were set up in the shot put, discus throwing (A. A. U) and the pole vault. T. D. Shepard '13, pushed the shot out 39.94 ft. breaking the record of 39 ft. 4½ in. held by A. L. Grover, '99, Shepard also threw the A. A. U. Discus 109 ft. bettering a record of 104 ft. held by P. S. Strout, '11. L. B. Rogers, '13, cleared the bar in the pole vault at 11.64 ft. breaking his own record of 11.3 ft. made last fall. Rogers would doubtless have made a better mark had his pole not broken. He was very fortunate to escape serious injury.

Alumni attention! Junior Week and Commencement are barely one week away. Every Maine man on the Campus is eager to see a goodly number of old "grads" back for the festivities and reunions.

We all want you. We want to grasp you by the hand, show you the new places, tell you about our victories, hear the stories of the old days, and have a general good time. Old associations are calling you. Come back, and tell us where we are making our mistakes and congratulate us on our success. Maine alumni and undergraduates are going to pull together now as they never did before. Come back and help us to start right.

When the last final is over and our student body begin to scatter to their homes, there is a tendency to forget Maine. Each student must remember that it is only his duty to himself and his college course that is completed when the term ends. His duty to Maine should be before him alike through winter and summer, whether undergraduate or alumnus. The character of the institution must be judged to a great extent by its students and alumni. Each student must realize that this is his University and talk Maine and work for Maine through the entire season. Each man must exert every effort to show Maine in its true light to everybody he sees. He must emphasize the true opportunities that are presented here. He must get acquainted with every prospective college man in his neighborhood and see to it that each one gets started right. The CAMPUS wishes every student a pleasant, profitable summer, but whatever else you do, Maine men, remember Maine, talk for Maine, and work for Maine.

We cannot let this college year close without a word of honest appreciation and admiration for the man who has meant so much to Maine athletics this year. We refer to Edgar R. Wingard, Director of Athletics. He is a man who has accomplished wonders in a short time. His remarkable ability to fill his position as well as his capacity for hard, aggressive work is well recognized by Faculty, students and in fact all who know him. Never has there been a situation too dark for him to tackle; never has there been a student too insignificant for him to assist. The University is to be congratulated on its good fortune in retaining his services for the year to come. We feel that this year is only the beginning and systematic progress in the right kind of athletics is in store.

The cordial welcome the University has given the new stock company at the Bangor Opera House is timely and well deserved. After a season almost barren of dramatic fare, aside from ten-cent vaudeville and now and then a musical comedy, it is a pleasure to feel that Bangor can support its own stock company and can patronize people whom they personally respect. We are glad to welcome Mr. Wallace, who is a graduate of California, and to share Bangor's pride in the personal charm and ability of Miss Golden, who is a native of this city and the daughter of Bangor's famous actor whose name she bears. The organization headed by such artists and composed only of experienced and intelligent actors is a credit to the city. It is not only a matter of pleasure but of public welfare to have our entertainment furnished by thinking men and women, who become a part of the community and give the best of their artistic strength to an audience that they seek to cultivate as a friend. Such circumstances gives us drama under ideal conditions. Mr. Dorris, manager of the company, has offered the hospitality of the Opera House at any time for the entertainment of our visiting teams.

MAINE ASSOCIATION OF AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS

Formed on Tuesday Evening, May 25

On Tuesday evening, May 25, a new agricultural association called the Maine Association of Agricultural Students was organized on the Campus. Those eligible for membership are those who have completed one year of agricultural study at the University of Maine and all members of the faculty connected with the agricultural department. About seventy-five were present to form the association.

The purposes of the organization are in part;

1. To maintain a bond of interest between past and present students and the College.
2. To organize agricultural sentiment and activities along educational and practical lines.
3. To co-operate with the College in the investigation of agricultural problems such as: the relation of investment to volume of business and profit, as for example—how large or how small an investment is actually necessary, under good management, existing conditions and markets, in order that the following lines of business may be conducted profitably:—

Dairy farming	Fruit growing
Poultry farming	Market gardening
General farming

4. To assist in the extension work of the College in conducting co-operative demonstrations of modern farm products in the growing of crops, and the handling of farm animals, also demonstrations in economic farm management in general.

5. To keep in touch with prospective agricultural students; to place before them the benefits to be derived from a scientific training in the actual every-day practice of agriculture, and also the advantages occurring from such a training to those persons who desire to become instructors or investigators in agriculture.

6.—To hold an annual meeting or rally: (A) for initiating work; (B) for better acquaintance among the members, and keeping more closely in touch with advanced agricultural thought and practice.

The fee for admission to the association is one dollar for a life membership. E. A. Stanford, '06, was elected president, Russel Smith, '11, vice president, R. W. Redmon, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee is composed of the president of the association, Dean Merrill, and H. P. Sweetser. Dean Merrill will serve for two years and H. P. Sweetser for one year. After Mr. Sweetser has served for the year the members of the executive committee will serve for two years. This arrangement was made in order that all the committee would not be changed at the same time. Speeches were made by many of the alumni, and by Dean Merrill, and Professors Russell, Bell, and Simmons. A regular meeting will be held once a year, probably during Farmer's Week and a meeting can also be called at any time by the executive committee.

Over fifty graduates of the Agricultural College have written to Dean Merrill expressing their interest in and approval of forming the association and their desire to become members.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The New York Alumni Association of the University of Maine will hold an informal dinner and business meeting on Monday evening, June 5th at 7 o'clock at Sheffel Halle, 143 East 17th St., near Third Avenue.

As this will be the last meeting of the association this spring, everyone is urged to be present. The employment bureau committee will present its report and several important matters will come before the association.

The price of tickets is $1.00 and all who are interested should address Sec. A. W. Stephens, 8 Birchwood Ave., East Orange, N. J.

LETTER FROM COACH SMITH

To the Editor of the Campus:

DEAR SIR:

I am sending this letter which I wish you would publish in your next issue. I feel that the past season's track team and especially the members who are soon to leave college life forever deserve all the praise that can be given them.

The track season which has just passed can safely go down in the history of the University as a most successful one, and I wish to express my feeling of gratitude for the real men who were responsible for such a success. We never at any time during the entire season had anything but an up-hill fight. The material was not exceptionally good from the start and whatever results came were the product of hard work and fighting spirit. Fortunately we had in Captain Smith both a fighter and a good athlete. He is absolutely one of the gamest athletes that I ever met in my experience as athlete, trainer, and coach. He was at all times ready and eager to do more than his share and his fine spirit as well as his ability did more toward winning the state meet than the students at Maine can ever realize. His performance at the N. E. Meet when he won the high hurdles and finished third in the low hurdles should call forth the heartfelt admiration of the student body. With a few more men like him, Maine would soon be a serious contender in larger meets than the Maine Intercollegiate.

I cannot mention the names of everybody to whom the students owe considerable, but we cannot forget the fine work and excellent spirit of such men as Walker, Bearce, Whitney, Hammond, Waite, Power, Hart, Strout, Deering, Schrumph, Rogers, Houghton and others. The seniors in particular were full of fight as were others who will have their turn to do things in years to come. We cannot overlook Shepard's fine work in the shot, and it is to be hoped that his next year will be one that will leave his name carved deeply among Maine's cherished records.

This year's track team has done much to improve Maine spirit, and it is to be hoped that much of the material that is now latent will become an active element in advancing athletics at the University of Maine.

A. N. SMITH.

At the last meeting of the Research Club, Dr. Pearl was elected President and Dr. Boring Secretary for the ensuing year. Prof. Drew gave the paper of the evening on the "Sexual Activity of the Squid."

MILITARY INSPECTION

From eight to ten o'clock last Thursday morning, Capt. Simmons of the General Staff at Washington conducted the annual government inspection of the University of Maine Battalion. The four companies first passed in review before Captain Simmons and a thorough inspection was made of guns and equipments. Battalion drill, company drill, and guard mount followed in short order. After two hours of steady work the battalion was dismissed for the last time, and the military department closed its work for another year.

The work of the battalion as a whole was gratifying even more than that of former years. The companies were larger than in past years, and this fact enabled the officers to conduct many manoeuvres with better appearance. The work of the whole year has established the advantages of the present two-year system of drill over the former custom.

THE 1912 PRISM

Probably Ready for Distribution in July

The regular, annual issue of the Prism, which generally appears about Junior Week, will not be ready for distribution this year until the first part of July on account of unfortunate delays. Orders are being taken now, however, and the book will be sent to any address as soon as complete. In order to be sure of receiving a copy, anyone desiring one should order it at once, as only enough volumes will be completed to supply the demand. The book will be bound in green with a stiff leather cover. Many new ideas will be included in this year's issue and according to authorities, it will be "the best ever."

By the faculty edict that no member of the student body shall belong to any freshman or sophomore fraternity, it is stated at Wesleyan that the parent chapter of Theta Nu Epsilon Society, which is included in the ruling, has been definitely legislated out of existence. This society was established years ago at Wesleyan as a sophomore fraternity, and from it sprung chapters in many colleges and universities throughout the country.

PROFESSOR HUDDILSTON'S TRIP

The Orient; Egypt and the Holy Land Visited

Professor Huddilston recently returned from a ten weeks' tour of the East. He visited old Egypt with her 7000 years of life and Palestine with her 3500 years of history, and then, gradually came back to more modern times by the way of Rome, Florence, and Paris.

During their stay in Egypt, the party stopped long enough in Alexandria to muse over the ruins and then, passing on to Cairo, they found a life as brilliant, quaint, and novel as the world can show. The streets were gay with bright, outlandish wares, and gaudily clothed people, and the air was filled with the sound of cracking whips, braying donkeys, and crying hawkers. All this formed a marked contrast to the quaint corners, dark retreats for prayer, the old mosques, and crazy domes towering toward the deep blue of the Egyptian sky. There were many points of interest in this strange city. Among them were the great mosque of the Sultan Hassan, the island of Roda where Moses was found in the rushes, and the Cairo museum which has one of the finest collections in the world. This contains the royal mummies and all the important portable antiquities found in Egypt during the last half century. Then the pyramids were visited and also the impressive Sphinx, gazing down on the toiling multitudes with the same inscrutable smile that greeted Rameses and Abraham. The party next drove to Heliopolis where, under the shadow of Vsertesen's obelisk, Joseph found a wife, and Moses was taught all the wisdom of the Egyptians.

About 15 days were taken for a 1000 mile trip up the river Nile. The party traveled all this distance not only on the most ancient river in the world but also among a people still preserving the habits and customs of 4000 years ago. The tourists saw the living present, toiling as the past toiled before the days of Menes, the same sowings and reapings from rise to set of sun. Past the ruins of Memphis, the first historic capitol of Egypt, the party rode, until they came to Lupor, old "hundred gated" Thebes. Here in this vanished metropolis lie the tombs and temples that are the wonder of the world. The end of this trip was at Aswan, where there are many interesting tombs of the sixth dynasty and where one may find genuine mummy beads in the sand. At this place, modern engineering is burying some of the ancient works, for a small army of workmen are building an immense dam which is submerging Philae and the beautiful temples of Ptolemy. This great reservoir will hold the water, gathered in the rainy season, for use in the dry period. As this ended the trip up the Nile, the party returned to Cairo.

The next journey landed the travellers in the Holy Land for a month's stay. As Joffa was the port where they disembarked, some time was spent in viewing the sights of this little city—the house of Simon, the Tanner, the tomb of Dorcas, and the fastnesses of Judah in the distance. The trip to Jerusalem was made across the plain of Sharon. Upon their arrival in this place, the travellers viewed the walls of Zion and the outlay of the city from a vantage point. In the succeeding days, the shrines of the three great religions were visited and also, the following spots:—Siloam, Olivet, "the Upper Room," Gethsemane and Golgotha. An excursion was made to the Dead Sea and Jericho, going past the ford of Jordan where Christ is said to have been baptized. A drive to Bethlehem and Solomon's Pool completed the sight-seeing in this immediate vicinity.

After leaving these interesting places, the party followed the caravan route northward by Jacob's Well. Passing hundreds of historic and sacred places, they journeyed toward Nazareth, in full view of the plain of Esdraelon which has been swept by every general's army in quest of eastern power from that of Sargon of Agade to Napoleon. The view from this road, across the broad plain to the violet hills of Ephriam, is said to be one of the most beautiful in the world. The home city of Jesus and the "blue Galilee" were visited from whence the party went to Damascus, the last city on the edge of the arid desert. This place was the least unspoiled and could be seen in its heavy antiquity. The American college in Beirut which is transforming Syria was visited.

After visiting these places the party had a three days sail across the Mediterranean, past the islands of Cyprus, Rhodes, Patmos, Samos, through the Dardanelles, and waters famous in mythology and history. Several days were spent in Constantinople, the site of which city is one of the most beautiful in the world. The mosque of St. Sophia built by Justinian and the famous museum were visited.

The Aegean Sea was recrossed, and the party had four days in the ancient home of art and democracy, Athens. There were many things of interest in this city—the Acropolis, the graceful Eretheum, and the Parthenon, the most perfect and most refined product of the world's genius. From there the party could look over the Areagagus where Paul presented the claims of the "Unknown God," over the Pnyx where Pericles defended himself and Demosthenes thundered against Philip, over the old theater of Dionysius, and over the wrecked columns of the temple of Zeus. An excursion was made to Eleusis, the home of the mysteries. This ended the sight-seeing and the party journeyed to Naples where the tour ended.

From Naples, Professor Huddilston went to Rome, Florence, and Paris where several hundred pictures and art specimens were secured for the architectural work in this University. Professor Huddilston arrived home about May 1.

PHI GAMMA DELTA ANNUAL BOAT RIDE

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the Maine chapter of Phi Gamma Delta left the Boston Boat Wharf in Bangor on their annual boat ride. The first stop was made at Verona Park where dinner was served and an hour or so spent in dancing. After the dance the boat went on to Belfast. Here a snappy game of baseball was played between the upperclassmen and the freshmen.

At 5 o'clock the party returned to the boat and started back for Bangor arriving at about 9.30. The ride was pronounced the best affair of the year. The following young ladies were present: Clara Bailey, Luzetta Stearns, Miss Richardson, Virginia Dillingham, Gladys Treat, Prudence Robinson, Ruth Stinchfield, Florence Cleaves, Alice Harvey, Lura Thomas, Ruth Green, Marion Estabrooke, Rebecca Chilcott, Marion Hamon, Gladys Lowell, Marion White, Madeline Robinson, Lynette Philbrick, Olive Cleaves, Helen Marsh, Alice Burrill, Helen Sherman, Miss Baker, Antoinette Webb, Gladys Thompson, Mabelle Sawyer, Hazel Colomy, June Kelley, Stasia Scribner, Ethel Heiskell, Hattie Jones.

McKeen, W. McDonald, G. R. Woodberry, K. D. Woodward, G. L. Parker. The annual initiation and banquet will take place next Saturday evening at the Colonial in Bangor.

THE COLLEGE PROM

Brief History of the Greatest of All College Dances

This is the season of the college "Prom," the greatest social function of the year in practically every college from Maine to California. The "Prom" has a long history attached to it. In the early part of the last century Harvard and Yale gave each year a "Promenade Concert," which, although in no way similar to the present-day "Prom" has gradually grown into the national college function of today.

Although each college has its own novelties and minor forms of entertainment, the "Prom" is essentially the same everywhere. It is a junior class affair which occurs during the last half of the college year. At the smaller colleges and universities the program occupies at the most no more than two days, but at Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Princeton and the other large institutions, the affair lasts from three to six days. The period of festivities in each case usually includes an exhibition baseball game, musical club and dramatic club performances, informal teas and dances at the fraternity houses, and the final grand event, the Promenade itself. Here are forty odd dances besides extras—an order which keeps the musicians busy till well after daylight.

The cost of "Junior Prom" is immense, even in the smallest colleges. It varies from $1,000 in the small institutions to $10,000, in such colleges as Harvard and Yale. A few years ago the expenditures at Yale included the following: $1,000 for decorations; $700 for music; $250 for rent of the Armory; $1,529, caterer's bill; and $350 for printing, etc. Outside of these class expenses it was estimated that about $40,000 changed hands as a result of the "Prom." One extreme case was found where it cost the individual over $500 for his five days of good time. The average, of course, is much less than this; $100 will cover all necessary expenses.

The "Prom" committees at many of the large colleges are endeavoring to reduce the personal expenditure of the students and to create a more democratic spirit. Unnecessary spending is frowned upon; "splurging" is considered bad form. The matter of flowers has been so regulated that last year at Yale only one girl appeared with them and she immediately discarded them when she saw how matters stood.

There may be other dances of large proportions at our colleges and universities but the "Prom" will probably stand alone and ahead, surrounded by that mystery and fascination that comes from its long evolution.
