MAINE WINS FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Decisively Defeats Bowdoin

By winning the last game in the State series from Bowdoin last Saturday, 17-0, Maine won the clear title to the Championship of the State in football for the season of 1912. Bowdoin put up a good game but was simply outclassed. Maine made its first score towards the end of the second period. Bowdoin had held Maine for downs on her one yard line and on the first play punted out to Cobb who made a fair catch. Shepard kicked a goal from placement from the 37 yard line. In the third quarter Maine made a pretty play which resulted in a touchdown. Bernheisel received the ball and made a fine pass

Y. W. C. A. BAZAAR

To Be Held in the Gymnasium Next Saturday

The Young Women's Christian Association will hold its annual bazaar in the gymnasium, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, November sixteenth. Doors open at 2.00 P. M. Ice cream, candy, sandwiches, punch, doughnuts and cider will be on sale at the various booths.

A special feature of the bazaar will be the sale of Japanese art prints. Another feature, is the sale of Colgate products.

The fortune teller this year will be an Assyrian. The Girls' Glee Club will make its initial appearance and the Girls' Orchestra will furnish music.

In the evening an amusing farce "The Six Kleptomaniacs," will be presented.

JUNIOR ASSEMBLY WELL ATTENDED

The Junior Class started an innovation in college society by holding a very successful Assembly in the Gymnasium the night of the Bowdoin game. The dance was well attended by about 125 couples. Pullen of Bangor furnished the music in his usual imitable style. The success of the affair was largely due to the efforts of the committee which consisted of O. B. Higgins, chairman, N. R. French, J. S. Brooks, R. W. Peaslee, and P. W. Thomas.

The patronesses were Mrs. Robert J. Aley, Mrs. Jeanette A. Harrington, Mrs. Bertha H. Moulton, Mrs. Winnifred W. Haggett, Mrs. May I. Parcher, Mrs. Ella J. Mason, Mrs. Wilda W. Brown, and Mrs. Marietta Dunn.

Harrison P. Crowell was floor director and was assisted by a number of aids.

The large attendance at this assembly bids well for its continuance as bi-annual affair to be held after every Bowdoin game played on Alumni field.

FIVE SENIORS FOR PHI KAPPA PHI

At the regular Chapel services last Wednesday morning, President Robert J. Aley announced that there occasionally occurs a time to make an example of some student. He then proceeded to name five seniors that were on Tuesday evening elected to Phi Kappa Phi. They are as follows: Forrest Bertram Ames, Bangor; Mark Dennis Cronan, Middletown, Mass.; Raymond Olden Jackson, Stillwater; Miss Amanda Bailey Severance, Old Town; Miss Antoinette Treat Webb, Bangor.

President Aley said: "There are two kinds of examples and this is the other. Membership in Phi Kappa Phi is earned by the grade of work done and is open to everybody. The processes of selection are not determined by the students, not by anyone else. This fraternity was founded at the University of Maine in 1897 and since then chapters have been established in five other institutions. It differs from other honorary societies, in that it puts all learning on the same level. There is Phi Beta Kappa for students in Arts and Science courses; Sigma Psi for graduate students in the same course and numerous other honorary societies for students in different fields of study; but Phi Kappa Phi alone is open to students in all courses. I like to take this occasion to congratulate these five members of the Senior class for their election into Phi Kappa Phi because of the merit of the work which they have done."

FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS OF MAINE! That for which we had hoped is at last an accomplished fact. At the close of the best

A Championship football season in the memory of the undergraduates we look back on victory after victory which led up to the final triumph and the championship of the state. To whom belongs the credit of winning? Of what use is such a victory? Such questions as these could be answered only in an exhaustive treatise, and then in an unsatisfactory way; but there are one or two things worthy of notice in regard to them.

Without doubt if the question, "To whom belongs the credit?" were asked, the immediat answer would be "to the team." But what of a team without a coach; and how could we have a coach without an athletic association; or an athletic association without students to support it; and so on until the very bigness of the whole question is revealed.

Aside from this seeming complexity, and granting the existence of these other factors, surely to the team belongs the credit of the championship. Who else but the members of the football squad put in hours of time day after day in practice, and hard practice at that? Who but the football squad played in rain or mud and took all the hard knocks for the sake of winning? None else indeed, and the members of the squad, both varstity and scrubs great credit should be freely given.

The season is ended and no comment on the victory would be complete without a word of hearty praise for Coach Riley. A team, be it ever so good, needs a leader and instructor, and Coach Riley has demonstrated his ability beyond possibility of dispute. To him, then, much credit is due.

One other element, worthy of mention as deserving some credit for our victory, is the student body. In an institution such as the University of Maine, divided as it is into the various departments with different interests, the problem is to so unite these departments that good support may be given to one common activity. This fall it has seemed that the students have entered more fully into the spirit of Maine and thus have helped materially throughout the season in supporting the team.

Of what use is such a victory? This, too, has so many answers that but few can be given. First, of course, the men who played received lessons which only they can appreciate; lessons which will be of inestimable value to them in the future.

The greatest good of this championship is to the University as a whole. By it the interests of the student body have been more closely centered and drawn together. Because of it the name of Maine will be better known in athletics than before; and even in other ways will the University be brought before more people.

Thus do we grow and such things as championship help.

Thus briefly can two questions, arising from our championship, be answered. More discussion would be useless for all can realize for themselves the benefits and feel for themselves the renewed spirit. One thing alone must be remembered—the lesson of the football season must not be forgotten, or its great value to us all is lost. Let us take it thus this year of Championships.

The following numbers, with a brief comment, should furnish material for most careful consideration: 231 students, from an enrollment of 613 in the four year courses, have paid their blanket tax. This can mean but one thing, and that is that the same old story of neglect is being repeated. No doubt many who have not paid are simply procrastinating, but that is a bad thing to do. The football season carried with it much expense and money is needed. Therefore, within the next week the relative positions of the above numbers should change.

The members of the short courses are urged, on the ground that they get just as much from the contests as other witnesses, to pay the blanket tax as do those regularly enrolled. At present only a small per cent of the short course students have paid their assessment. This condition should be remedied at once.

Last Friday night proved that we are tending toward the right direction for our "Maine Night" celebrations.

MAINE NIGHT A BIG SUCCESS

The Maine Night exercises on last Friday evening were certainly equal to those of former years, both in the speeches and in enthusiasm. They were preceded by a short concert by the University band; then after several cheers led by T. C. Higgins, '13, G. C. Tilley, '13, President of the Athletic Association opened the exercises with a few remarks. Referring to former Maine Nights, he expressed his belief that they were about to observe the biggest one of all. He mentioned the rapid growth of Maine and said that the University is being recognized more and more on account of the prominent men who are graduates of it.

Dean Walz of the College of Law was then introduced as chairman for the evening. His first remarks were in the nature of a definition of the University as he saw it. He said that when we speak of the University, we do not mean the buildings; for it is not something dead and quiet. Neither is it the student body, the Faculty, nor the alumni. Rather it is all of these taken as a unit. For this reason, the University is fully represented only at Maine Night when all are present. This idea of unity is shown everywhere for the three great principles of American life are Union, Universality, and Unity. In emphasizing the importance of union to the University he said:

"Join hands men of Maine, join hands, one and all; By uniting we stand, by dividing we fall."

The next speaker was Forrest B. Ames, '13, representing the student body. Speaking of Maine Night as another mile stone in the history of the University, he reviewed the experiences of the past year, and said that much credit is due the leaders of the various college activities. On Maine Night last year, we were in the midst of a championship struggle, and Maine spirit won. We should be very grateful to the coaches, Wingard, Riley and Smith for the manner in which they have worked in behalf of Maine athletics.

During the winter, debating received increased attention under the able leadership of Mr. Ketcham. Interclass contests were arranged, and a league was organized among several of the leading preparatory schools.

Another prominent organization was the Maine Masque, which presented "The Magistrate" in several cities of the state.

Interclass basketball games and indoor track meets were the principal athletic events during the winter.

The Musical Clubs also had a prosperous season, and a very successful trip was made to Massachusetts. The success of the clubs was, in a large measure, due to the earnest efforts of Prof. G. W. Thompson.

With the arrival of spring, work in outdoor track and baseball was begun. During the season, Maine won the baseball championship and second place in the State Track Meet.

The present college year brought the largest entering class in the history of the University, making a total registration of over one thousand students.

Athletics has been especially successful this fall, and a cross country championship has been won. One of the chief events has been a renewal of college spirit such as has not been seen for years. In fact everything seems to indicate prosperity and progress in the future of the college, and the name of the University is being spread over the country.

In closing, he said that once a year we must gather to

"Sing to Maine, our Alma Mater—
The college of our hearts always."

Dr. David N. Beach, President of the Bangor Theological Seminary, spoke first of the impression that the sons and daughters of Maine are making upon all parts of the country. He referred to his address at Worcester, Massachusetts, in which he told of the great educational work that is going on in this state. There are many excellent preparatory schools, and the colleges are singularly blessed in their presidents and faculties. While all of them are doing a great work, the University of Maine is exerting a tremendous influence on account of its specializing courses. This system of education is the key to the future. We should be especially glad for the coming to Maine of a president who is a great educator and a great Christian. It is by such men that the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin have been made great. In closing he said, "I congratulate you and thank God." After this speech the University Hymn was sung.

The next speaker was Harry E. Sutton, '09, President of the Boston Alumni Association. He spoke of the excellent football team which would be a credit to any college in the country. In referring to the game at Cambridge, he said that it was one of the closest battles that Harvard has had this year. All of the Alumni were proud that the Maine team represented their Alma Mater, and the Boston Association certainly stands behind the policies of Director Wingard.

The Association also tries to keep in touch with Maine men and for this reason an employment bureau has been established.

The University is beginning to reap the results of President Aley's good work, and the alumni are proud of the progress that is being made and of the clean athletics. This loyalty to right is better than loyalty to college or fraternity.

After three selections by the Glee Club, Hon. William T. Haines, '76, President of the Board of Trustees, was introduced, but was prevented from speaking at first by the rousing ovation that was given him. Speaking of the place of athletics in American life, he said that it is something in which all people are interested; for it is a part of the real life of the land. In fact, the history of the world is the history of human efforts, of war and struggle.

University life is also a series of efforts, and the students have every reason to rejoice in what has been accomplished. Their duty is to disseminate the knowledge received here, in this way returning to the state that which it has given them. If they carry into life the same enthusiasm that is manifested at Maine, success is assured.

Frank E. Southard, '10, representing the College of Law, was the next speaker, and mentioned two occasions when the law school is drawn close to the Alma Mater. These are Commencement and Maine Night, and at these times downright, outspoken good fellowship is brought forth. He next discussed the value of athletics to the whole University and said that the lesson learned from athletic victories and defeats, as well as from four years' mingling with students, is college spirit. We are thus taught to be gracious as victors and happy when defeated. "All of these" he said, "result in a perpetuation of the glories and traditions of that same old college."

The esteem in which President Aley is held among the students was shown by the wave of applause which swept over the audience as he was introduced. When he was allowed to speak, he said that while he waited during the evening he was reminded of a painful experience of his boyhood. On certain occasions, the children were obliged to wait until the older people had eaten, and he often saw that those delicacies which he most desired were fast disappearing. He had felt similar sensations as he heard the other speakers use the same ideas that he had in mind.

In a more serious mood, he spoke of the prosperity of the University, and declared that it is foolish to believe that the greatness of an institution depends upon an individual. The right kind of spirit will carry it on forever. The members of the football team, for example, display a spirit of loyalty and response that can be relied upon in any emergency. A spirit of service animates every man and woman in the institution. For this reason, expansion is inevitable, because there is no limit to the growth of an institution which exists for service.

He said, further, that athletics is only an incident, but a great incident, in the life of the University. Out of these contests come character strength and loyalty.

During the evening cheers were given freely between the speeches, and the band gave several selections.

The decorations, which consisted of banners, were well arranged, and helped to make the gymnasium a fitting place for observing a real Maine Night.

SUMMARY OF SEASON

The Varsity Football Team was fortunate in being able to present this Fall, practically the same line-up that won the State Championship for Maine last fall. With this strong team Maine commenced her 1912 Intercollegiate series. Meeting Harvard after two weeks of practice, and holding these strong opponents to one touch-down, Maine but for an accident would have tied the score when Bernheisel's forward pass hit the goal post.

Manager J. C. WALLACE

A week later the 'Varsity met the fast Tufts team. Tufts tried many tricky shift plays but could not gain consistently. The play of the Maine men was aggressive and the forward pass made good gains. The result was never in doubt after the first half and Maine won 14 to 0.

On a slippery field Rhode Island was beaten in the next game 18-0. The line-plunging of the Maine backs was the feature of this contest.

Rhode Island played a clean snappy game but was too light to win on a wet field.

The St. Anselems College team was next on the schedule and on a field of mud Maine again proved the better team winning 16 to 0. The St. Anselems boys played a great defensive game but their backs could not gain through the heavy Maine line.

Following this game the State series for the Championship began at Lewiston, Maine being victorious over Bates, 7 to 6. The field was far from satisfactory and the Bates team never failed to take advantage of muddy conditions. Maine played a consistent game but Bates was very fortunate in recovering blocked kicks and fumbles. In the last period of the game Bates scored on a blocked kick and their failure to kick the goal was the only thing that saved Maine the disgrace of being played to a tie by an inferior team.

The Colby game at Waterville practically decided the championship for while Maine won 20 to 0, Bates was beating Bowdoin 7 to 6. Every man on the Maine team played the game of his life and stopped the fast Colby backs often even before they had fairly started. The showing of the backfield men was especially responsible for the large score which was rolled up by the Maine team.

Maine, last Saturday, made the championship sure by defeating Bowdoin on Alumni Field by the decisive score of 17 to 0. Bowdoin fought hard and held Maine 3 to 0 for the first half. The team came back strong in the last half and, showing the fighting spirit which had beaten Colby the week previous, walked away from the lighter rivals and brought home the championship of 1912 to Maine.

MANY PRESENT

At Enthusiastic Dramatic Smoker

The annual smoker of the Maine Masque, which was held in the club room of the library Wednesday evening, was a success in every respect. There were about thirty-five men present, only nine of whom were old members of the club.

President Hart opened the meeting with a few words concerning the Masque and then introduced the speakers, first of whom was Prof. W. P. Daggett, for six years coach of the club. Prof. Daggett first spoke on the position which dramatics occupy in the colleges of the country, and what they are accomplishing. He then outlined briefly the history and standing of the Maine Masque up to the present time.

Manager Norcross was then called upon and he said a few words concerning the present condition of the club and the outlook for the coming year.

Stage Manager Haskell stated what would be required and expected of the members, and urged every fellow present to try his best to make the cast.

The other old members of the Masque present told a few of their experiences on the trips and mentioned the many benefits derived from membership in the club.

Prof. Daggett then gave a brief synopsis of the play which has been selected for production this year—Augustin Daly's Comedy, "A Night Off." He described the principal characters of the play and advised each man to try out for several different parts.

Each new man was requested to leave their names and previous experience in dramatic work. When these lists were consulted it was found that practically all the new men had had considerable experience in preparatory school work. With this promising new material and with Professor Daggett as coach, the Masque certainly has the brightest of prospects for a successful season.

1916 ELECTS OFFICERS

At the Freshman class meeting held Thursday, Nov. 7, the following officers were elected:—

H. E. Rollins of Bangor, President; J. E. Totman of Providence, R. I., Vice-President; A. F. Sherman of Bar Harbor, Treasurer; Mildred Dow of South Portland, Secretary; Executive Committee: C. Ruffner of Bangor; D. M. Ashton of Springfield, Mass.; George Kirk of Bar Harbor; and E. W. Vickery of Bangor.

CO-EDS HOLD FIRST PARTY

An Enjoyable Time at the Mt. Vernon House

The young ladies of the Mt. Vernon House gave their first informal house party on Friday, Nov. 1. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion. Among the guests were Messrs. J. ### FRESHMAN DEBATING

Officers to be Elected Later

Wednesday night the Freshman Debating Club met for the second time with an attendance of about 20. It was decided that the election of officers be deferred until the next meeting, and an enthusiastic debate was held on the subject, "Resolved, that freshmen should be debarred from fraternities." The affirmative was awarded the decision. The meeting was in charge of George C. Clarke, '13, president of the University Debating Club.

Dr. J. H. Huddilston addressed the Arts Club on, "The Balkan Situation," Saturday evening, Nov. 2, at the home of Dr. Easley.

The Rowing Club, just organized at the University, has secured a shell from Fleming of Bangor.

George O. Warren, '79, of Fryeburg, was a guest at the Beta House, Thursday evening, November seventh.

Interest in debate at Colby seems to be on the increase. The largest debating and argumentation class in the state has been made up there this fall. There are 68 men registered for the course. Three years ago there were but six members in the class but last year the number was increased to 55.

SENIORS ON THE SQUAD

Men Who Will be Lost by Graduation

The football squad will suffer greatly from the loss of the graduating seniors who are playing this year. The senior class is well represented in the squad and on the team where four 1913 men have been playing a steady, hard, and consistent game.

With Thomas Shepard goes the strongest player and the most needed man on the entire squad for his right foot has kicked Maine to victory after victory. Shepard came to Maine in the fall of nineteen-nine from the Wesleyan University where he had spent one year and for his first year here was debarred from all contests because of the one-year rule. In the fall of nineteen-ten he began his work for the U. of M. and he has gained many points in various state meets since then. In 1910, he took first place in the shot put in the Maine Intercollegiate Meet and has broken the University record for the discus, hammer and shot. In the Meet at Bowdoin last spring he placed in the hammer and discus. For the past three years he has played on the Varsity football team and this year has captained the team to a great victory. Last year he kicked six field goals in the state series and this year his line-plunging and defensive work warrant that he will be picked as All Maine fullback as he has been every year.

Elson Bigelow, from Bridgton Academy, is a player of the first order, for although his work does not show up to the onlookers as does the work of the men in the back field, it is seldom that a man has been seen making any gain through his position at tackle. Bigelow has played four years and last year and without any doubt will this year make the All-Maine team.

John Carleton, another senior on the team is from Berwick Academy and has played for the last four years on the Varsity. This season he has been one of our greatest ground-gainers as Carleton is always good for a gain of three to twenty yards. His strong playing on the offensive as well as his timely defensive work will warrant that he will be chosen to represent left-half on the All Maine team this year.

Among the other seniors who have proved to be the faithful few are Oscar H. Davis, Maurice C. Bird, George S. Simpson, Ernest T. Savage, Arthur F. Amadon and Ernest Webster. These men have worked hard for the success of the team and deserve their share of the glory.
