BASKETBALL GAMES

Seniors Win and Sophomores Surprise Everybody by Winning over Juniors

The second set of the interclass basketball games proved to be much more closely contested and interesting than the first. The attendance was large and the cheering on the side lines made the walls reecho again and again. The first game was between the Seniors and the Freshmen and was won by the seniors after a hard fight. The freshmen did not show up as well as they did the week before while the seniors kept them well covered all the time and dropped in a few baskets themselves. The seniors played a fast game from the beginning and Cobb and Savage both got three baskets from the floor. Sneider shot well for the freshmen.

The most interest centered around the game between the Juniors and the Sophomores. The sophomores went through the last season without winning a game but last Friday night they played basketball in a way to make the onlookers take notice. The Juniors were the losers, but the game from the start to the finish was hotly contested. Hall and Hutchinson both played star games for '15. Hall played a determined game and succeeded in making five baskets from the floor in difficult positions. Hutchinson played a fast game and made most of his chances for baskets good, landing six in all. Abbott played the best game for the Juniors making five baskets.

All classes were well represented by men in the cheering lines to help their team to win. The third set of games will be played on the first Friday in the Spring semester and it bids well to be an interesting set. After the game the seniors conducted a dance for which the college orchestra played.

MUSICAL CLUBS

Will Have Aroostook Trip

The combined Glee, Mandolin, and Banjo clubs of the University are planning to make several trips this year. Arrangements are being made for a Massachusetts trip during the Easter vacation with the following places under consideration: Lynn, Peabody, Danvers, Wakefield, Reading, Boston, New Bedford, Portland, Waterville and Lewiston. Dates have already been made at Boston and Portland and a guarantee will soon be signed by New Bedford and Lewiston. There will also be a trip to Aroostook with concerts at Houlton, Fort Fairfield, Presque Isle, Mars Hill and Milo. The usual dress rehearsal will be given at the Bangor Insane Hospital, preliminary concerts will be held in Orono and Oldtown, and the season will close about the last of April with a concert in Bangor. Besides the club numbers the program will include: a banjo solo by Mr. White, a piano solo by Mr. Pierce, a vocal solo by Mr. Ahrens, readings by Mr. Thurrell, and selections by a quartet. Professor G. W. Thompson states that the clubs will be the best that ever represented the University.

"M" CLUB MEETING

Officers Elected

The "M" Club held its monthly meeting at the Sigma Chi House, Tuesday evening, Jan. 14. The club elected the following officers for the ensuing year: F. A. Sawyer, president; Harold V. Cobb, vice president; George H. Bernheisel, secretary; and E. R. Wingard, Treasurer. An executive committee was appointed which will consist of the captains of the three varsity sports, football, baseball, and track, and the athletic director of the University.

It was voted to hold meetings the second Tuesday of each month. The "M" Club will hold its February meeting at the Phi Eta Kappa House.

The members of the "M" Club are making active preparations towards producing a musical entertainment. Mr. Ahrens has offered to supervise the musical end and his offer was accepted Tuesday night. The production will be put on some time during the spring.

CONDITION OF B. A. A. CANDIDATES

Not Very Encouraging

With the B. A. A. relay race but three weeks away the condition of some of Maine's best material certainly does inspire confidence in our ability to beat Bowdoin over the relay distance. Fox, St. Onge and Totman are all laid off with strained tendons. These men are certainly a worthy nucleus to build up a fast team and their injury at this time is a serious proposition to overcome. This particular injury is one of the most difficult to cope with. A similar injury kept Howard Drew out of the final in the Olympic 100-metre dash, and prevented Reidpate of Syracuse from entering intercollegiate games for a whole year.

McKenney has been out of the running with a bad ankle and several other candidates have been suffering with the grippe. Both material and coach will have to work doubly hard in the short time remaining if this handicap is to be overcome.

Columbia claims this fall the third largest enrollment in the world. It has an enrollment of 12,000 students compared with of 17,000 at Paris and 14,000 at Berlin. It is claimed that Columbia students bring eight and a half million dollars into New York city, over two-thirds of which go to the merchants.

DEAN MERRILL LECTURES

Interesting Talk Last Wednesday

Dean Merrill of the College of Agriculture gave the twelfth of the series of general lectures on Maine, on Wednesday, Jan. 15. His subject was "The Business of Agriculture in Maine." He told what Maine is doing at present and showed how great the opportunity is for doing a great deal more.

The speaker put special stress on the subject of markets, showing how essential a good market is for any product. He also showed what constituted a good market for any product and especially for agricultural products. Size, location, transportation, facilities, safety and cost of transportation and quality of the market were the tests to be applied for a good market.

The market which Maine has for her products is one of the best;—including the entire group of North Atlantic States with over one-fourth of the entire population of the country to feed. Seventy-four per cent of these people are classed as urban and produce nothing along agricultural lines. Dean Merrill showed by carefully compiled statistics as to the relative amount of production and consumption, transportation facilities etc., how this market is entirely available to Maine. Although much of the demand is now supplied by western producers, Maine being nearer the market and having equal facilities otherwise should ultimately control the bulk of the business.

The people of Maine are just beginning to realize the possibilities of agriculture in the state. The last census report shows a substantial gain and yet we are producing but a fraction of what we are able to.

Dean Merrill outlined briefly a few of the leading products of Maine farms, showing the great variety that can be produced to advantage.

In closing Dean Merrill emphasized the future possibilities for the business of agriculture in Maine and expressed his belief in the fulfillment of these opportunities.

The last lecture of this course will be given next week. The speaker has not yet been announced.

Ten colleges hold membership in the Inter-collegiate Fencing Association. These are: Columbia, Cornell, Yale, Harvard, Annapolis, West Point, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Bowdoin and the University of Pittsburg. Preliminary bouts for the championship this season are to be held at New York and Annapolis on March 7 and the final contests in New York on March 21 and 22.

ATHLETIC BOARD MEETING

Baseball Schedule Approved

At the last regular meeting of the Athletic Board it was voted to send the Relay Team including one substitute to the B. A. A. Indoor Meet, also Bell and Towner in the one-mile and Power in the three mile. The baseball schedule was approved and authorized to be published. A new rule was passed to the effect that, "Hereafter all correspondence in relations to schedules shall be in the hands of the Director of Athletics or the Athletic Board."

MARTIN LUTHER

Lecture Under Auspices of Deutscher Verein

Last Wednesday evening, in the lecture room of the Library, Dr. Calvin M. Clark, professor of Ecclesiastical History at the Bangor Theological Seminary, gave a very fine lecture on "Martin Luther." Dr. Clark is a very able speaker and the manner in which he handled his subject was most interesting and instructive. He not only described the life of this devout Christian but also spoke of the times and conditions in which this great man lived.

This lecture was held under the auspices of the Deutscher Verein and it surely reflects great credit on this organization. Another lecture is to be held sometime next month. Dean Walz of the College of Law is to lecture on "Prince Bismarck."

RESEARCH CLUB

The Research Club met in Coburn Hall on Wednesday evening, January 15. Two papers were read and discussed: 1 Recapitulation and Retention, by M. A. Chrysler. 2 Peculiarities of the Aromatic Series of Compounds, by R. H. McKee.

EDITORIAL.

We cannot realize, so swiftly has come the calamity, the full significance of what the death of Mrs. Balentine means to the University of Maine. No more to see her in her usual place; no more to witness her cheerful carrying of great responsibilities; no more to be helped by that ready word of advice; the true meaning of all this cannot be grasped at once.

But as the days go by and her duties must be performed by another because she herself is no longer here to do them; when students have opportunity to think over the many times that she gave help; when alumni recall their college days and the part which Mrs. Balentine played in them; then will the true meaning of her loss be felt.

Resolutions will be offered and various sentiments of respect expressed; but of greater worth will be the ever deepening affection for her in the hearts of thousands who have felt her personality. The whole University, and all who ever knew Mrs. Balentine, feel saddened by her sudden death.

During the past few weeks there has been a feeling prevalent among the students that some invisible, intangible force was at work; that things were moving on toward some vague, and yet certain end. At last all these feelings have become crystallized into a single definite thought, and that is summed up in the word—finals. As all the vague uneasiness of the past weeks assumes a certainty, there are a few things worthy of the thought of students of all classes.

The members of the three upper classes have been thru "final weeks" before, and they know what such weeks mean. They know of the steady grind of study at the last possible minute; they have experienced failure which seemed harsh; and some have had opportunity to look back and realize that such study and such failure were but the result of their own negligence. With such feelings, and at any rate with the experience of the previous years as a guide, the upperclassmen have learned to meet the work of "final week" with some degree of preparation.

Doubtless the freshmen, who have never been thru a week of college final examinations, may feel some degree of uneasiness at the prospect of starting out in this one. Especially in some subject which has been carelessly followed both in class and out do they feel that they are deficient, and feeling this way they have no desire to be officially informed by their professors that they are correct.

Whatever may be the class, experience, or attitude taken by the students toward the finals, there should stand before all but one ideal, and that is for honest work. All are old enough to realize the value of this, and all have been told over and over again of what their college work means in the way of forming habits for future activity. The freshmen, especially, should remember that much depends on their work this first year, and the quality of it will influence the remainder of their course.

From time to time the establishment of an Honor System at Maine has been considered. By this every student would be allowed to do his work and take his examinations on his own honor not to act in any unfair manner. Many professors at the present time allow this sort of work; and it would appear that their confidence in the students has been repaid. There are very few students who will crib when a professor has placed them on their honor not to do such a thing.

However satisfactory an Honor System might be it ought to need no such thing to make the students honest in their work. During the coming week of finals all, upperclassmen and freshmen alike, should feel that their own good is enough to keep them from borrowing facts for a short time from someone else. The result in either case will show, if not on the outside, at least to each individual and the good or reverse of the college course will be measured by those few days of test.

DEBATE

Junior-Senior Subject Chosen

At a meeting last Friday of those Juniors and Seniors who are out for their class debating teams, the question for the Junior-Senior debate was chosen and also the side of the question which the respective teams will uphold.

The question is "Resolved, that the law exempting American coastwise vessels from paying toll in going through the Panama Canal, should be repealed." The Seniors have the affirmative side and the Juniors the negative.

The trials for the teams will be held Thursday evening, Feb. 6, in Estabrooke Hall.

JEFF STILL ALIVE

Brings about Family Reunion

Having seen the University through a successful football season, Jeff, the bear, was sent to West Point, and after the Army football season was over, he was presented to the firm of Hill and Farrell in Atlantic City. Mr. Lewis A. Miller, the head clerk of the concern, used to take the bear on daily walks, and one day the animal broke loose and climbed a telegraph pole. A Wilson poster was tacked on the pole. After one look Jeff ripped off the picture by a few strokes of his claws; the incident was printed in the newspapers all over the country. Miller had been honorably discharged from the army seven years before, and had lost track of his brothers and sisters. One of the latter saw the article and communicated with Miller. As a result there will soon be a big reunion, and Jeff will be the central figure in it.

Representatives of seven Middle Western Universities have pledged their support to a new honorary athletic fraternity, Sigma Delta Psi, at a meeting held in Indianapolis, Dec. 28. The new fraternity is intended to be the Phi Beta Kappa of athletics. The parent chapter was recently organized at the University of Indiana, George Fitch, the humorist, being also influential in its organization.

"EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING"

Parlor elocution and Ciceronian thunder still have their places, but the new textbook by Pearson and Hix is devoted to teaching the simple, sane science of talking "shop" effectively.

Appropriately, the book has a way as well as an aim of its own. A healthy puff of the breath turns every page of the theory of public speaking here. The student does the real work in the laboratory of twenty-eight practical speeches which have the push to make them presentable anywhere. Read the themes:

The Ethics of Corporate Management, the Principles of Business Success, Comparative Advertising Methods East and West, Vanadium Steels, the Necessity for Adequate Railway Revenues, Hours of Service of Railway Employees. There are twenty-two like them, and the names behind them fall with the substantial chug of the Eliot-La Follette-Wilson-Butler nomenclature!

"Extemporaneous Speaking" is not herewith a soft substitute for academic moil. It represents a new motive for research and the promise of a new reward for study. This reward is practical, work-a-day ability to make things "go." Published by Hinds, Noble and Eldredge of New York—Book Review.
