MAINE WINS SECOND CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Defeats Colby in the Fiercest Football Battle Every Seen on Alumni Field

In one of the hardest fought and closest gridiron battles ever waged on Alumni field, the University of Maine emerged a victor over the strong Colby eleven Saturday afternoon by the score of 3-0, Charlie Ruffner's pretty drop kick from the 33 yard line in the third period turning the trick. The game, which will probably determine who shall flaunt the championship banner of the state, brought out a crowd of about thirty-five hundred, and the weather conditions were perfect.

Developing unexpected defensive strength, the Colby line, reported to be the weakest in the state, time and time again, forced the Maine forwards, and twice held Maine for downs when the big light blue aggregation had the ball inside the visitor's five yard line. Led on by the fighting "Ginger" Fraser, himself a tower of strength on the defense, and the mainstay of the offense, the whole Colby team played a fighting game throughout, and for the first two periods held Maine evenly. The second half, the light blue showed a reversal of form however, and Colby, with the wind at his back, decided on a punting game. Gradually the ball was swept toward the Colby goal and more desperately did Eddie Daley's charges fight, and with the dall on the 20 yard line, three times was the Maine offense stopped. Cobb then called on Ruffner for a drop kick and nobly did he respond, for standing on the 33 yard line, he booted the oval directly between the goal posts for the only score of the game.

The individual star of the game was Captain Fraser, of Colby who alone and unaided, with his interference completely ripped apart by Maine linemen, tore through for many gains. On the defence also, Fraser shone and his work Saturday easily stamps him as the greatest back in the state. Cauley, the crack quarterback, of the Waterville college, together with Jack Lowney and Merrill, comprised a backfield that was certainly a stellar outfit. The work of the Colby ends also occasioned lots of comment, the brilliant tackling and all around work of Royal standing out prominently.

To pick the Maine stars is a hard task indeed for it can well be seen that Coach Reilly's outfit is not a combination of individual stars but a well trained machine, as was evidenced when substitutes replaced the light blue warriors. However, as was the case last Saturday, two men loomed up above all the others and these were Murray and Cobb. Murray played the same fiery brilliant aggressive game that has characterized his work all the season and his work Saturday was a treat. Whether tearing holes for his backs, breaking through and stopping the opposing backs before the play could get under way, or going down under punts it was "Murray, the great Maine tackle" and that is about all that can be said.

Cobb excelled in the kicking game more than any other department and his kicks, averaging about 45 yards gradually offset the great offence presented by the Colby backfield and place the ball within striking distance for Ruffner's great boot. Dave Baker played a great game at centre and in the third period it was the same Baker who grabbed a Colby forward pass on his own ten yard line and prevented a score. Cobb then stood behind his goal line and punted to the center of the field. Ruffner played a slashing game on the offensive and with Donohue, was responsible for most of Maine's gains. Bill Martin started the game at full back but had to be relieved after a few plays on account of his ankle.

By winning Saturday, Maine is the logical winner of the state championship, the only stumbling block left, being Tommy McCann and his charges at Bowdoin, who will be met at Brunswick next Saturday.

Colby won the toss and chose to defend the west goal with the wind in their favor. Gulliver kicked off to Cauley who received on his 30 yard line and the Colby quarterback advanced 5 yards before he was downed. Cauley could not gain and Fraser was thrown for a loss of five yards and the latter punted Cobb who received on his 10 yard line, and ran back 10 yards. Line plunges by Ruffner and Donahue gave Maine its first down on her 30 yd. line. More line plunges in which Bill Martin was the chief factor gave Maine first down on Colby's 47 yd. line. Time was called here for Martin who had wrenched his bad ankle but the big fullback pluckily resumed his position and Maine started down the field again aided by Charlie Ruffner's fierce rushes, one of which netted 10 yds. Maine's advance was brought to an abrupt halt however when Capt. Fraser, who seemed to be everywhere at the same time, intercepted a forward pass, Cobb to Bernheisel. Colby now had the ball on her own 31 yd. line. Advances by Fraser and Merrill gave Colby her first down. Lowney on a magnificent end run gained 18 yds. but the ball was brought back, Colby being penalized 5 yds. for offside. Fraser punted but the kick yds. for offside. Fraser punted but the kick was low and passed Cobb who recovered it on his 10 and by clever dodging brought it back to the 20 yd. line. Colby held and Cobb punted to Cauley who was nailed in his tracks on his 40 yd. line by Murray. Lowney plowed thru tackle for 7 yds. and Fraser made 2 more. Colby was penalized at this juncture for holding. An attempted forward pass, Fraser to Royal was intercepted by Bill Martin and Maine obtained possession of the oval on her own 30 yd. line. Cobb punted to Cauley who made a fair catch on his 40 yd. line. Attempted rushes by Lowney and Cauley thru center netted a few yards and an end run on a delayed pass by Merrill gained 3 more. Maine was caught offside however on the last play which gave Colby first down. In a second delayed pass however, Merrill was nailed for no gain and on the next play a forward pass by Cauley, the latter fumbled and Murray recovered the pigskin on his 41 yd. line. Both sides were offside on the next play. Donahue gained 4 yds. thru right tackle. Maine was here penalized 15 yds. for holding. Cobb punted to Cauley who fumbled but recovered on his own 23 yd. line. Here the first period ended. Score Maine 0, Colby 0.

THE BIGGEST MAINE NIGHT YET

Greater Spirit Shown Than Ever Before

UNIVERSITY OF MAINE, ORONO, NOV. 1.

Students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the University thronged into the gymnasium Friday evening for Maine Night, the annual celebration of the university for its various successes, athletic, educational, growth, and the achievements in all lines of its activities. Brilliant speeches, good music, and an abundance of Maine spirit made it an evening long to be remembered by all.

The gymnasium was taxed to its full capacity by the assembled throng. On the floor were reserved seats for the students to the number of 1000 and these were every one filled by the students and some few friends, while every available seat in the gallery was taken and many found only standing room.

Decorations for the occasion were the simplest. Maine banners were placed around the gallery rail, while a large Maine banner formed the background behind the speakers' platform, on which were placed potted palms. In the front of the hall hung banners bearing the inscription "University of Maine 1912 Football Champions," "University of Maine 1912 Baseball Champions," "University of Maine Baseball State Champions, 1911," "University of Maine Football State Champions, 1911."

Hon. William R. Pattangall, '97, acted as chairman of the evening. The other speakers were ex-Mayor A. M. Mullen of Bangor, F. W. Adams of Bangor, A. W. Stephens, '99, of East Orange, N. J., representative of the New York Alumni Association, President Robert J. Aley, and R. S. Ferguson, '14, of New York, and Paul W. Monohon, '14, of Biddeford. Gov. Wm. T. Haines was unable to attend. The band was on hand and helped along the spirit of the occasion greatly by rendering selections between the appearance of the different speakers. The Glee Club of 22 male voices came in for its share in the program of the evening and received much applause.

Philip B. Sheridan '14, of Salem, Mass., led in the cheering and showed himself to be a master of the art. If anyone could awaken response in the students he is the man to do it. He is recognized as the man for the office. Some of his antics were most amusing. He became so much enthused that he became quite acrobatic in his bodily contortions in drawing out the enthusiasm of the students. It was particularly amusing to see him hop around on one foot and beat time for the singing of the Stein Song.

After a selection by the band and cheers led by Mr. Sheridan, Paul W. Monohon, '14, of Biddeford, president of the Athletic Association, welcomed the Maine men and alumni and the assembled friends of the university. He spoke of the evolution of Maine Night which began as a football rally and which now embraces the celebration of every activity of the institution. He spoke of the true sportsmanship which characterizes the university and which is developed by such occasions as Maine Night. He spoke of Maine spirit as one of fair play and displayed the football presented by Capt. Ketcham of the Yale team to Capt. Sawyer of Maine after the game, telling him that Maine had played a good game and in a clean way. Mr. Monohon then introduced Hon. William R. Pattangall as chairman for the evening, saying that but for the necessitated absence of Gov. Haines the company would see the cornerstones of the two political parties of the state united in a Maine platform.

The Hon. Mr. Pattangall in reply said that in his last campaign he knew he was put down but didn't realize he would be laid so low as to be considered a cornerstone. He first gave his attention to the growth of the University which has been so great of late. It is his idea that some people outside of college have a wrong idea of football which he knew was the subject of thought if not of conversation during the evening. The discipline of football is what makes it of value. Two or three players or athletes might win a baseball game or track meet but it requires team work for a victory in football. The united effort of the college behind the team is necessary. True sportsmanship is inculcated by football and should be shown in everything. He said he is looking forward to the time when the other Maine colleges, with all due respect to them, will serve only to furnish Maine with practice.

Russell S. Ferguson was first called upon by Mr. Pattangall who said the program of the evening was better than it had been in times past because it was short and because the student speaker was the first on the list. Mr. Ferguson spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Maine Men, and friends of the University:

The purpose of the undergraduate speaker on Maine Night, it seems to me, is to place before you the achievements of the administration and of the student body during the past year. This idea has been developed during the last few years on each successive Maine Night. This evening it is my purpose to follow this idea in part, but I shall also attempt to convey to the Undergraduates the great idea that they should bear in mind during the current year. On Maine Night, as at no other time, is the inspiration for this great idea more apparent.

The past year has witnessed an increase in the total registration of the University of 36, the total registration now being 1047. However a much larger increase than is indicated by these figures has taken place in the number of students now residing on the Campus. The short courses have decreased in registration so that the increase in the number of students on the Campus is not apparent in the total registration. There are now 119 more students on the Campus, registered for four year courses than at the corresponding time last year. The administration has added faculty members in proportionate to the increase in students. Many improvements have also been made during the summer in the general appearance of the campus.

Turning now to the growth of activities in which our alumni are perhaps more specially interested, I can assure you that growth along these lines has certainly been in proportion to our increase in students. Among the literary achievements of the year have been the production of a Prism which is of unusual value. In this book was inaugurated the special treatment of some one phase of our activities. The 1914 Prism was a football number and as such it was a distinct success. A full history of the game at Maine making the book of greater value to all concerned.

Another achievement was the establishment of The Campus as a twice-a-week paper. A more journalistic policy has been adopted and it would appear that the paper has been of such increased value as to warrant the continuance of such a policy.

The Practical Husbandry magazine and the Maine Law Review continue to meet with success and are a valuable factor in bringing public notices to their respective colleges.

The Musical Clubs enjoyed last winter, one of the most successful seasons in their history. A trip through Aroostook County and through Massachusetts drew much favorable comment from alumni and the public. Several concerts of a more local nature were also given. In connection with this activity I can not pass on without a word regarding the one man who for many years has been the master musician behind our Musical Clubs. I refer to Prof. Garret M. Thompson whose services to the musical clubs have been of inestimable worth.

Our Dramatic Club, the Maine Masque, as it is called, under the able guidance of Prof. Daggett made many friends throughout the state by their effective presentation of Augustin Daly's play "A Night Off." To state Prof. Daggett's value to dramatics at Maine in a simple proportion, I would say: Prof. Daggett is to the Maine Masque as the name Sterling is to silver."

I presume that the many athletic team victories and the few defeats of the past year are sufficiently fresh on the minds of most of us, to warrant only a concise summary. Last fall we started the year right by winning with a well balanced team, the first annual State Cross country championship. The cross-country team also met and defeated Tufts. Not a great while after our track victory we acquired the State football championship, defeating in turn each of the state colleges. In the spring the baseball team built up almost entirely from green material and hampered by unfavorable weather conditions only succeeded in winning half of the games in the State series.

The track team at first an unknown quantity, rapidly developed, and after winning a dual meet from Trinity and losing one to Bates, came into its own and won the State championship by a margin of four points.

One factor which has attributed to the success of our various teams in no small way, is the business like present administration of the Athletic Board. With the coming of Prof. Edgar R. Wingard as director of Athletics and the establishment of the Blanket Tax, the efficiency of the athletic board has doubly increased. As Maine men we have much to be proud of when such men as Prof. Wingard, Mr. Reilly, Mr. Smith and Mr. Magoon, can be relied upon to turn out such athletic teams as the present senior class have been accustomed to during their stay in the university. Should the game with Colby tomorrow be up to the standard thus far displayed by Coach Reilly I venture to say that the student body will unanimously demand his return next fall.

The great idea which I referred to in the first of my remarks is simply expressed in one word—Appreciation. Appreciation is something without which no undertaking can be a success. If I were to apply the term appreciation to the present situation of Maine I would say that appreciation is returning to the college with compound interest that which it has given to you. As I have already shown, the university has given you through its administration, an increase in student body of 15% through its activities, a greater reputation in the college world.

I therefore call upon you in conclusion, to show that true sense of appreciation, which is inborn in the heart of every loyal Maine man. Next fall if your appreciation rings true, to my application of the word appreciation, by your own efforts induce a larger freshman class to enter Maine than ever before. This year you will support all the activities of the university with increased zeal and an ever growing Maine spirit. With the one idea of appreciation, always in view, I cannot help prophesying that the present college year will be one more replete with victories and worthy achievements than any previous year in Maine's history.

Mr. Pattangall expressed his regret that Gov. Haines could not be present for the evening and introduced Ex-Mayor A. M. Mullen of Bangor, as a man who has always been willing to fill a Republican office holder's seat. He was taken by surprise this time however.

Mr. Mullen said he was pleased to be present that he always attends the Maine Night celebrations when possible, and that he is glad to help in the advancement of the university. He expressed his belief that Maine would win in the game with Colby Saturday. "It is sometimes wondered if Maine is not growing too fast," said Mr. Mullen, but there is no need to worry about Maine's growth as long as it is as healthy as at the present time."

Following a selection by the band Mr. Pattangall said there was once a theory that Maine might grow too fast and sometime absorb all the income of the state. "Maine has always had friends in the business men of Bangor," said Mr. Pattangall as he called upon F. W. Adams of that city.

"It is an inspiration to look over such a gathering of students filled with a determination to win and win honestly," said Mr. Adams. "I have had my doubts in regard to the wisdom of college athletics, but now realize their value in bringing all to work together on common ground for a common end." He illustrated the team work by the relation of horse and man in Henry Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man." "There has been no time when efficient, right thinking men, have been needed as today. Through efficiency, zeal, and determination we must hold our nation's place among the world powers. In the world we must have the efficiency, zeal, and determination of the football field?" said Mr. Adams.

After the Glee Club had again sung for the company, singing "Fill Your Steins" and responding to an encore with "Hand Me Down My Bonnet," Mr. Pattangall introduced A. W. Stephens '99, representative of the New York Alumni association, referring to him as "Reddy" for those who might better recognize him by that name.

Mr. Stephens brought the greetings of the alumni association to the faculty, students, and alumni of the university. He congratulated the university for having a truly great man at its head in president Aley, a wide awake faculty, and a progressive board of trustees. He further congratulated the university or the extension of its usefulness to the people of the state, on the alumni-becoming leaders in their professions, and particularly on the student body which excels in scholarship and student activities.

The work of the New York Alumni association for the coming year was then outlined by Mr. Stephens. The association in the line of social affairs meets monthly and enjoys a program followed by a dance or the relating of escapades of school days. Then every Friday noon as many members as can meet at some restaurant for luncheon. There is a "Booster" Committee to arouse interest in those members who are not in regular attendance at the affairs of the association.

Regarding the relations of the association to the university, Mr. Stephens said it was desirable that they be kept in close touch with the students of the university. He spoke of the employment bureau which provides positions for the graduates of the university and secures better ones for those already employed. There is a publicity committee to keep the university before the people in so far as possible. Another tie soon to be realized between the university and the association will be a course of lectures by graduates of the institution who are becoming prominent in their professions, something which should offer the alumni association a great opportunity of being useful directly to the university.

Another selection was rendered by the band after which Mr. Pattangall called upon Dr. Aley as a man who cannot be praised too highly, a man who cannot be heard too often, and a man who cannot be followed too closely.

Dr. Aley was received by a storm of applause from the student body while the rafters rang with cheers for the beloved president of the university. After the house had quieted down Dr. Aley spoke in part as follows:

MAINE SPIRIT

The University of Maine is a growing institution. Her growth is a part of the general growth occurring in all educational institutions throughout the country. It is not a growth due to any peculiar wisdom or power of Trustees or Faculty,

EDITORIAL.

What do you think of the way Maine celebrated the victory over Colby last Saturday? Perhaps you are not in a position to think.

Now a Little Crabbing It is certain that many are not. Right here lies the whole trouble and I will devote the rest of this article to the man who was not there.

Do you know that only about one-half of our student body took part in that celebration? It would be well to consider this fact and to see that on future occasions you at least are present. Why were you not there? Do you not know that when you were given the name, the privileges, and the honor of being a Maine man that you were expected to do, and should do everything in your power to maintain and improve its fair name.

That our last celebration was not a fizzle is due to no effort on your part. Thanks and praise can only be given to the few who so enthusiastically did the work of the many. When the football season is over you will perhaps be telling a friend of the great team Maine had and of the victories won. How much finer it would be, if in the telling you could inject a little of the first person and bring your story to an end with a vivid account of the grand way in which Maine celebrated.

Next Saturday Maine hopes and expects to win another great victory. After that game is won Maine will hold another celebration. It will be your celebration and mine. Let us make it the biggest, the best, and the most memorable of all celebrations. Get together you men of Maine. Erase the memory of all blots of last Saturday's failures and let us show the world that when the White Elephant from Orono meets the Polar Bear at Brunswick he has a body of supports whose enthusiasm is beyond comparison and whose number equal the big enrollment shown by the college books.

Men of Maine, the big day of the football season is at hand. Next Saturday at Brunswick a championship pennant will be won or tied. The celebrated Bowdoin-Maine games are always of the highest quality. They are old opponent. Since 1893 games have been played with varying success. The old rivalry between the light blue of Maine and the black of Bowdoin has always been keen. The records and trophies of former years are vivid in the minds of all.

The players, coaches, and rooters of both teams will exert every ounce of strength, every form of strategy, and every atom of enthusiasm which they have ever had the good fortune to acquire. Neither the great strength of the players nor the proven skill of our coaches can win this game alone. They must have the combined support of the entire student body behind them. The famous cheering section of the University of Maine must be there in full force!

You may say that there will be enough there without you. If you will give any such thought a little earnest consideration I think that you will see that you are wrong. There will not be enough there without you.

Every man absent is a blot upon our record and a loss of an entire unit of the cheering section. This Maine cheering section has always been large and good. As a consequence much is expected of us in this line. Let us make good!

Now here is a brief outline of the plans for next Saturday; The big special train will leave Orono at 6.20. If you are an upperclassman I do not need to tell you the extent of your misfortune if you happen to oversleep and be late at the station. If you are a freshman I will tell you what you will miss:—One of the best times you ever have had and as good a trip as you need ever hope to experience.

Now fellow Maine Men I have told you your duty. It is a duty which you owe to yourself to your fellow students and to your college. I am sure you will not be found wanting. Remember the time, 6.20; remember the cause, more glory for the blue, and remember finally and always that you are supporting "The Team That Made Maine Famous."

TRACK CLUB MEETING

Plans Brought up for Luncheon Car

At a meeting of the Track Club, held last Thursday night, it was decided to run a lunch counter as formerly on the special train to Brunswick. The counter will be in the baggage car and hot coffee, hot dogs, sandwiches, doughnuts, pies, peanuts and the rest of lunch counter fare will be served.

Discussion of several other projects for the ensuing year were held but as nothing definite was decided, no particulars could be obtained.

MAINE WINS SECOND CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

sumed on Colby's 23 yd. line. Lowney was nailed for a loss by Ruffner and Colby was forced to kick Cauley booting to Cobb but the ball was brought back on an offside penalty by Maine. Fraser showed his superior speed and cleverness on an end run, gaining 20 yds. The ball was advanced 15 yds towards Maine's goal-line by a penalty for piling up. A line plunge by Lowney netted 4 yds. but Cauley could not gain around Bernheisel on a delayed pass. A well executed forward pass, Cauley to Royal netted 20 yds. and brought the ball within striking distance of Maine's goal line, the pigskin resting on the 7yd. line. In two successive rushes Lowney gained 2 yds. Right here is where Dave Baker made himself dear to every Maine supporter, when he intercepted a forward pass by Cauley and fell with the ball on his own 5 yd. line. Cobb booted the ball out of danger, Cauley receiving on Maine's 45 yd. line and was nailed by Donahue in his tracks. Fraser plunged for no gain but on a fake kick gained five yards around left end. He kicked to Cobb on the latters 15 yd. line but Maine was offside and the Colby was given first down on Maine's 48 yd. line. Fraser hit the line hard for 10 yards thru center, but on the next two plays Colby could not gain an inch. Cauley fell back for a punt and was nailed for a loss by Murray. Cauley succeeded in getting off the punt in his second attempt however and the ball was kicked out of bounds. Maine's ball on her 22 yd. line. Maine could not gain so Cobb booted to Cauley and Murray showed his slashing game by breaking thru and nailing the Colby quarterback in his tracks. Two plunges by Lowney netted only two yards so Cauley punted. The kick was low and short and Bill Martin dropped on the pigskin on his 45 yd. line. Cobb tried one of his famous end suns and gained 8 yards around Crossman. Line rushes by Ruffner and Martin were of no avail but an offside penalty in which Colby was the offender, gave Maine first down. A cleverly excited forward pass Cobb to Donahue over the center of the line gained 12 yards. At this juncture McCormick replaced Ladd at right tackle for Colby. A forward pass, Cobb to Martin was good for 4 yards and placed the ball on Colby's 22 yard line. A second forward pass failed but Ruffner hit the center for 6 yards and first down. In a quarterback run thru center Cobb gained five yards. Kriger replaced Martin who whose ankle was bothering him and who was playing on sheer nerve, showing remarkable pluck. Kriger was worked right away and gained 2 yards thru left guard. Donahue added one more and Kriger crashed thru for first down with the ball on Colby's five yard line. Everybody expected a score for Maine but the blue and gray line showed its stone-wall defence and on two plays, Maine could not cross the line of the boys from Waterville. Cobb attempted a forward pass over the line to Purington but the latter missed the ball by a few inches and a groan went up from the Maine stands when they realized that the assayed score had failed. Play was resumed on the 20 yard line. Fraser was unable to gain. Pratt was substituted for Lowney. Fraser punted out of bounds and Maine was given the ball on Colby's 42 yard line. Cobb assayed a forward pass to Martin but it was unsuccessful. On the next play Maine was offside so Cobb was forced to kick to Cauley, who by clever dodging returned the oval to his 20 yard line. Fraser punted to Cobb but before the next play time was called and the first half of the great struggle for state supremacy was over. Score: Maine 0, Colby 0.

THIRD QUARTER

With no changes in the line-up of either team the second half was begun. Colby kicked off to Maine who was defending the west goal. Ruffner received and ran back 10 yards, being downed on his 25 yard line. With the wind at his back, the crafty Cobb resorted to a punting game and Fraser likewise punted back and in the first few minutes of play eight punts were pulled off in which the boys from Orono gained in the exchange of kicks. The pigskin now rested in Maine's possession on Colby's 40 yard line. Pendergast was forced out of the game on account of injuries and Kolseth was substituted. A pretty forward pass Cobb to Bernheisel netted 12 yards. A second attempt failed and on this play Maine was given 10 yards on interference with a man by Colby. This brought the ball to Colby's 30 yard line. Cobb assayed an end run and gained 5 yards but Maine was offside. A forward pass Cobb to Ruffner failed. On a tirek play, a criss cross, Bernheisel advanced 4 yards. An incomplete forward pass was the result of the next play. On the next play Ruffner dropped back for a drop kick. Standing on his own 33 yard line, Charlie booted the ball straight and true between the uprights and pandemonium was let loose in the Maine stands. Ruffner was the hero of the day. Score: Maine 3, Colby 0.

Stanwood kicked off to Purington who, aided by splendid interference, advanced the ball 23 yards. Cobb punted to Cauley who ran back 5 yards. Fraser returned the compliment by kicking and Cobb immediately did likewise and Cauley ran back the kick 9 yards to his 34 yard line. Colby could not gain and Fraser kicked to Kriger who was downed on the 25 yard line. Maine was held and Cobb punted to Colby's 47 yard line. Attempted rushes by Cauley and Fraser were of no avail and the latter booted to Cobb. The latter immediately kicked back. On a criss cross Royal was thrown for a loss and Fraser was likewise held for no gain and he was compelled to kick, Cobb getting the ball on his 37 yard line. Cobb kicked to Cauley and Fraser on the next play booted to the little Maine quarterback who was nailed on his 45 yard line. Cobb skirted left end in a brilliant run for an advance of 25 yards but the official suled that the whistle was blown before the play started and so little Cobb was robbed of a well earned gain. The score at the end of the third period stood Maine 3, Colby 0.

FOURTH QUARTER

In the fourth quarter Pratt and Ladd were substituted for Lowney and McCormick at the start of the fourth period. The ball rested on Maine's 45 yard line in the latters possession. Maine could not penetrate the Colby defense and Cobb kicked to Cauley who advanced 8 yards to his 20 yard line. Cauley punted and Cobb was nailed on his 37 yard line. Cobb returned to Cauley and Purington nailed his man. Tipping was here put in for Gulliver. Cauley lost 5 yards being nailed by Bernheisel and Fraser punted out of bounds. Maine's ball on the 24 yard line. Successive rushes by Ruffner and Donahue advanced the ball to the center of the field where Colby held. Cobb kicked and Cauley fumbled, Tipping falling on the oval. A mighty cheer from the Maine stands filled the air. Kriger crashed thru tackle for 4 yards and Ruffner made first down on the next rush. Pendergast here returned to the game in place of Kolseth. A forward pass Cobb to Bernheisel put the ball 4 yards nearer. The mighty Donahue crashed thru for eight more and rushes by Kriger and Ruffner brought the pigskin to Colby's 3 yard line. Every Maine supporter prayed for a score and breathlessly awaited the next play but again the mighty blue and gray line looned up like a mighty mountain and Donahue was held, Colby getting the ball on the 3 yard line. The hopes of every Maine man sank. Fraser punted out of the danger zone to the 30 yard line. An attempted forward pass, Cobb to Bernheisel, failed, the plucky end juggling the ball but failing to hold it. Ruffner could not gain and Colby obtained the ball on her 30 yard line. Fraser kicked and Cobb received but was nailed. The little quarter assayed a center rushed but gained little. Cobb punted but before the next play was pulled off, the whistle blew and the greatest game of all was ended with Maine a victor 3 to 0.

CROSS COUNTRY PROSPECTS

The University of Maine cross country team will leave for Waterville Tuesday noon. The men will put up at the Elmwood hotel and will walk over the course Tuesday afternoon. Quite a few rooters are planning to make the trip.

The members of the team are all in good condition and Maine has a fine chance to win, although Colby with her three crack freshmen, Wenz, Golden, and Thompson, will make a hard fight for first honors. Bowdoin and Bates have no chance whatever. Tarbox, of Bowdoin, and Parker, of Bates, are the best representatives of their respective colleges, but these men hardly class with the stars of the other two teams.

Colby will certainly prove stronger than Dartmouth against Maine and each man will have to run for all there is in him to bring a victory to the light blue.

Colby and Maine will also be contenders for the New England cross country race on Nov. 15. Both teams are sure to finish well up among the leaders.

although both these bodies are doing all they can to merit public confidence. If the growth were not occurring it would mean that those responsible for academic opportunity were failing in their duty.

The growth that attracts most attention is shown by statistics relating to attendance and income. The real growth of the institutions of far more importance than that which is measured by statistics. The enlarged student body brings to the institution enlarged opportunities, and likewise places upon the institution enlarged responsibilities. Both opportunity and responsibility must be shouldered by those who are to profit by the University's service. The amount of profit that is to come will depend in large measure upon the spirit of the institution.

What is the spirit of an institution? Is it something that manifests itself in the style of dress, the kind of hat, the pronunciation of words, or the peculiarities of manner? Is it something that so marks an individual that he is known by those who see him as the product of a certain institution? Is it something that produces an unreasoning, noisy, loyalty? Is it something that effervesces and escapes in the college yell? Is it something that depends upon the crowd, the companionship of others? Is it something produced by the size and beauty of the campus or the magnificence of the college buildings? Is it something that depends upon victories? The questions have partly implied their answers. The real spirit of an institution, if it be of value, must be independent of trivial and transitory things. It must be something that takes possession of the soul of the man, and is as strong within him when he is alone as when he is with a crowd of his fellows.

What, then, is the spirit of an institution? It certainly must center about, any depend upon, ideals. Since the ideal is always changing, moving forward and upward, the spirit of the institution must change as the institution grows and develops. The University should love truth and be a consistent searcher for truth. Upon her banner should be these words: Honor, Justice, Reverence, Work, Service. She should honor truth and duty; see that all have justice; reverence that which is holy; work unceasingly; and serve wherever opportunity offers. If these great fundamental virtues are followed they will become embodied in the ideal that the institution strives for and in turn represent her true spirit.

True Maine Spirit ought to have in it many of the fundamental elements that went into the making of New England character—hard work, proper use of time, courage to do hard things. All these have entered into the making of the highest and best type of manhood that this nation has produced. The institution that serves our present civilization best is the institution whose spirit embodies these sterling qualities.

I believe I have not over-stated the ideals that should be shown in our spirit. I believe I touch a responsive chord in the heart of every present Maine man, and that the Maine men of days gone by were so impressed with this ideal that their hearts beat in unison with ours.

I trust that these ideals may grow brighter for the future and that as they grow brighter and clearer to us, our spirit may be such that we may grow closer to the ideals and make the Maine of tomorrow the realization of our best and highest dreams.

MEN OF MAINE

"Ye are not here to play, to dream, to drift.
Ye have hard work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle: face it. 'Tis God's gift.
Say not the days are evil—who's to blame?
And hold the hands and acquiesce—O shame.
Stand up, speak out bravely in God's name.
It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes, the day how long;
Faint not, fight on. Tomorrow comes the song"

CIVIL SOCIETY HOLDS SECOND MEETING

Addresses by Dean Boardman, F. J. Lewis and M. F. Banks

Promptly at 7.30 Wednesday, President Philip W. Thomas opened the second meeting of the year of the University of Maine Civil Society in the club room of Hannibal Hall. A business discussion occupied the first few minutes followed by talks by M. F. Bankson, The Maine State Highway Commission;—F. J. Lewis on The Western Mass. Trolley prospect; and Dean Boardman on Thesis Selection, its possibilities and object.

"On March 7, of this year," Mr. Banks said, "there was appointed a Maine State Highway for general oversight of the highways of this State. The officers of this commission will be appointed by the governor and his council, this commission to be permanent with a fixed salary and fixed duties. For the purpose of the commission the roads will be divided into three groups, state highways, state aid roads, and other smaller roads. Among other duties the commission will make out a yearly report on road conditions and minutes of the meetings."

"It was the culmination of inefficient railroad engineering," said Mr. Lewis, in speaking of the Western Massachusetts Trolley Prospect. "A trolley line to run from Huntington to Pittsfield making a continuous trolley line from Boston to Albany and opening up a country of unsurpassed beauty heretofore comparatively isolated. This road, made famous by the fact that it cost four million a mile to build, will be opened December 25, of this year."

Dean Boardman concluded the evening's addresses as follows: "The thesis is placed in the graduation requirement of the College of Technology because it gives a man a chance to become acquainted with original investigation, a necessity of success in engineering. By a change in the schedule we have made it possible for the commencement of thesis work in the junior year. Thesis subjects may be divided into: Highways under the direction of Prof. J. E. Kaulfuss; Railroad Engineering under Prof. C. B. Brown; Hydraulic and Structural Engineering under Prof. P. L. Bean and myself, each offering many important problems as yet unsolved."

ASENATH HELEN RUSSELL

The many friends of Asenath Helen Russell were grieved to hear of her death which occurred at her home in Orono, Wednesday, October 29th, after a short illness.

Miss Russell was the daughter of Dr. Russell of the University of Maine. She was born in Orono, April 6th, 1893, and attended the public schools here, graduating from the Orono High School in 1910. Asenath Russell, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi was in the Junior Class, taking the Home Economics Course. She was President of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church, and a Cabinet member of the Y. W. C. A.

Her fraternity sisters, her classmates, and her many friends all extend their sympathy to her parents and sisters in their late bereavement.

The funeral services were held at her home in Orono, Thursday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. White-side of the Methodist Church officiating. The burial was at Kent's Hill, Friday morning.

Dear Sir:

You are making a splendid fight for supremacy among the leading agents of Maine, being but $7,000 behind Mr. B. B. Anderson, who is credited with "placed business" to date of $65,000, as against your $58,000. The difference, you see is slight, and should be easily overcome by you with a little extra effort. It would surely be a nice thing to be able to hail F. M. Sampson, an alumnus of the University of Maine, as the leading agent in Maine for 1913.

What do you say? Can you land the honor?

STUDENT CHAPEL

Hosea Buck Speaks on the Athletic Board

Mr. Hosea Buck, an alumnus of this University, spoke at the Wednesday Student Chapel on the subject of "The Relation of the Athletic Board to the Students and Its Purpose." He was introduced by "Prexy" Monohon.

Mr. Buck said that the Athletic Board was composed of three members of the faculty, three alumni, and four members of the student body. It tries to give the best coaches and athletic material that it can with the means at hand. The Board is, however, handicapped in regard to funds. One can readily see that athletic expenses have necessarily increased with the increase in registration. With this increase there has come no increase in returns from the students. The blanket tax was instituted to put our athletics on a firmer financial standing but thus far it has not proved as successful as it should. This is due to the students. There will be no money to send the track team to the New England Meet in the spring unless everyone pays their tax promptly. We are obliged to cut down the men at present for we have not enough money to provide all the athletic supplies that we desire to.

Following some rousing cheers, "Prexy" Monohon spoke a few words about the blanket tax. He said that the Athletic Association was $1400. in debt at the beginning of this year. After the Bates game we had to pay them $125 out of our treasury. We have to give our opponents 37½¢ for every man who enters the field during the game. Never will we have a better chance to win the New England Meet than this year and without money we shall be unable to send any of our men to compete. At the present time, we owe Coach Riley $900 and Coach Smith must also be paid his monthly salary. Out of the 870 tickets issued only 378 have been paid for. When will the others come around?

MAINE STOCK JUDGING TEAM PLACES NINTH

The Maine Stock judging team placed ninth surpassing Massachusetts and New Hampshire the only other New England representatives. In the Holstein-Friesian class she placed third. Missouri, Kentucky and Iowa took the three leading places in the order named. Considering the cattle the boys have to handle and the great advantage the other western colleges have in seeing practically all the cattle which enter the National Dairy Show at least once at Waterloo, we did very well. No one can say otherwise than that to Prof. Aubrey we owe an earnest vote for it was due principally to him that a winning team returned from Brockton and Maine was able to place so well at the largest dairy show in the world in competition against the sixteen most progressive colleges in the country.

AGGIE NOTES

The Maine Live Stock Breeders' Association will hold its fourth annual meeting in Winslow Hall on the 4th, 5th and 6th of November. In connection with this three other associations will meet. The Maine Shorthorn Breeders' Association will convene for their second annual meeting, the Maine Jersey Breeders' Association will hold their first annual meeting and the Maine Guernsey Breeders' Association will also meet for the first time. Speakers of international reputation will address the meetings on subjects of great interest to breeders.

The stock-judging team returned several days ago from the National Dairy Show at Chicago, where they took ninth place in the judging. This is considered an excellent showing by those acquainted with the conditions under which the team had to work. The members of the team report an enjoyable as well as profitable trip.
