MEN FROM MANY SCHOOLS IN U. OF MAINE FACULTY

Education in its literal sense implies the imparting of wide acquaintance with men and things outside the pale of one's environment, and this should be pursued not only through the perusing of a variety of subjects, but through the personal contact of men trained in inscription for standing for different kinds. The faculty of the University of Maine, as illustrated by the list of its members, is as cosmopolitan as that of any in the United States. This statement appears to be conservative, when we realize the facts set forth in the catalog, which shows that 61 per cent of the faculty members have degrees from well known public and private endowed institutions of Europe and England other than the University of Maine. This correspondence is reported to us by an institution of equal value in the north of France. Dr. Alcy also states that an institution similar to that of the University of Maine, in every detail, is now being established in the south of France. Did you desire any that is similar to that in the north of France? An institution similar to that in the south of France is also now being established in the north of France.

ALUMNI NOTES

"For the memory of distant friends, an alluring name of the departing soul, inevitably says, 'on the heart.'"—Confucius

For the memory of distant friends, the United alumni of this School, loyal and true, a name that shall forever stand for good for their alma Mater. They form a bond that shall ever hold them together in their hearts. The alumni association is a great asset to the school and should be given the respect and support it deserves. My advice is to kindly support the alumni association and participate in its activities.
