MAINE'S STANDING IN TRACK RECEIVES REWARD

Recognition by A. I. C. A. A. of Great Importance

BIG MEET IN MAY

One of the greatest athletic advancements ever made in the history of the University occurred last week when the University of Maine became a member of the Intercollegiate Track Association of the United States. By the success of this action the University will oppose all the great colleges and universities in the track and field contests of next spring, and the University of Maine athletes will be given the long-awaited prestige and notice.

The annual meeting of the American Intercollegiate Association was held in New York last Saturday. Dr. Robert J. Aley, President of the University, represented Maine at the meeting. The acceptance of the petition of the University for membership was something unusual because of the fact that a college or university applying for admittance in this association usually has to make several ineffectual applications before being admitted to membership. Both Professor Wingard and Coach Smith express themselves as highly pleased at the successful action on this matter.

It was voted to hold the annual events at the Franklin Field, Philadelphia, May 28th and 29th, and Coach Smith expects to send a full quota of University athletes to the meet. Only one other college offered its field for the events, and this was Harvard which offered the Stadium. By close vote, however, Franklin field was chosen for the games.

The prospects for the University of Maine track team this spring is such that the entire confidence of the student body is in the representation which the University will have at the Philadelphia meet in May. Perry Bailey of intercollegiate fame last year threw the sixteen-pound hammer further than any other college athlete in the United States; Charlie Rice, the University one hundred yard dash and furlong runner, holds a national reputation, while Bill Allen has tossed the sixteen-pound shot in his school-boy days a distance that will command attention in any college meet. Besides this trio of stars as a nucleus, there are such men as Roger Bell, French, Preti, Dempsey, Wunderlick, and hosts of others of less calibre who will give the University a worthy representation at the Philadelphia games.

The dual meet with Colby, the state meet, and the New England meet will afford the University of Maine athletes ample time to prepare themselves for the big games in the Quaker city and this is the longest schedule that the University of Maine track athletics has ever seen. In addition to the annual spring meet the University automatically becomes eligible to be represented in the next cross country run which is participated in by all of the colleges of the United States. It will be remembered that the last two years Coach Smith's "Harriers" have run away with the title of New England cross-country championship and Coach Smith feels that the quintet that brought the New England trophy to the University last fall would have made a very creditable showing in the Intercollegiate. All congratulations are due the athletic authorities of the University for the splendid advancement in the evolution of Maine track athletics.

TRACK CLUB CABARET

Elaborate Preparations for Coming Entertainment

Track team enthusiast, cabaret mania, Candy mad co-ed, craving for cracker-jack Show-going lover, wishing a loony act, Dancing promoters desiring an acrobat, Student, professor, republican, democrat, List to our call.

Next Friday evening, March 19, the Track Club of the University will hold a Cabaret Show in the gymnasium. The object of this entertainment is to raise funds with which to carry on the good work already started along track lines. The program of the entertainment which has been carefully arranged under the director of Mrs. E. J. Mason is to be especially interesting and attractive.

The show will begin promptly at 8.00, lasting until 10.00, after which a social dance will be held until 12.00. Among other novelties to be featured during the evening there will be several selections from the Girls' orchestra; four folk dances by a group of fourteen girls in costume, under leadership of Miss Stebbins, who is working hard to make these dances the hit of the evening; Mr. F. B. Haines '18 and Mr. H. C. White '15, are to appear as the banjo artists of the evening; Mr. White is also scheduled to do a Spanish dance and the Sailor's Hornpipe in ladies costume; A. H. Harmon '18, is prepared to entertain the students with his violin, introducing also a little touch of the burlesque, and last but not least two sketches will be introduced, one by each of the popular producing syndicates of the University, viz.: "Bush" Hanson & Co., and McCusker & Doyle, Limited.

The music of the evening will be furnished by the University orchestra. Reserve your seats at once and come out in support of the team you will be only too glad to cheer next spring.

A JUNIOR WEEK BLUE BOOK

Appeal is Made for more General Support

The second number of the recently revised "Blue Book" will make its appearance on the Campus, during Junior Week. The following appeal is made for more general support from the student body in the way of contributions.

Were you interested in the Blue Book? Do you think it is worth while? If you are interested and would like to see the magazine perpetuated, you have but one thing to do. Write. The editors hope to produce another issue for Junior Week. It is the duty of every Maine man, who believes in it, to write for the Blue Book. For the Juniors, it is an obligation. This is an appeal to the students in general, to the Juniors in particular.

To the thoughtful observer, a consideration of the unbalanced appearance of the table of contents in the first issue, will convey but one thought—a death of material. Use this issue as a foundation for another and a better—Junior week is not so far off. Now in this hour before finals begin to oppress, you can do your best work. Do it now and so enable the editors to begin preparations for a Junior Week issue that shall be a credit to the University, a source of pride to the Seniors and Juniors, an encouragement to underclassmen, and an adequate reflection of college talent and adequate ideals. Think about it and then do something for the opportunity and the power lie within your hands.

"SCOTTY" VISITS MAINE

Sailor Entertains Students with Songs and Tricks

An interesting novelty has visited the campus this week in the person of "Scotty" a Scottish sailor from the revenue cutter Albany now on the Pacific coast. "Scotty" is well known to college men having made it his occupation to visit colleges in every part of the country. His act consists in singing Scottish songs, escaping from tied ropes, picking up coins while standing on his hands and other amusement furnishing performances. "Scotty" has an engaging personality which is typical of the young Scottish "tar", and his ready smile and wit have won him many friends. That he possesses a keen mind and observation is attested thru his ability to name the town in which any college is located in the United States.

NEW YORK ALUMNI HOLD ROUSING MEETING

Large Number get Together for Annual Meeting

MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

Saturday evening, March 6th, about 60 men of Maine, gathered at the Sherman Square Hotel, for the annual meeting and banquet of the New York Alumni Association. The occasion was one long to be remembered, by those fortunate enough to be present, for the brilliant speaking, good cheer, and the intense interest displayed by the older alumni present. Alumni present represented classes from '75 to '14, the majority being heavily in favor of the older alumni.

The innovation of the banquet was a lantern slide lecture on the University as it is today. The older alumni cheered themselves hoarse over the various pictures. The biggest demonstration came after pictures of our recent track teams were shown and the writer had delivered a short speech on track history at Maine since Coach Smith has been in charge. Later in the evening the Association passed a vote of appreciation and support of Coach Smith's able work.

Promptly at seven the loyal sons of Bolivar followed Dr. Aley and Phil Garland '12, to the Banquet Hall. The feed was a credit to the committee and the hotel management. Even Johnny Ash, had his fill for once. During the feed, an impromptu glee club composed of the following:—John Ash '12, Phil Garland '12, Janie Hart '11, L. E. Drew '11, E. S. Berry '10, and Dr. C. P. Gray; led the bunch in such old standbys as "The Onion Patch," "Maine Y. M. C. A." and the latest popular music.

After the banquet had been closed with the "Stein Song" a short business meeting was held. The meeting was led by A. W. Stephens '99, the president.

Matters of business occupied little time. The election of officers resulted as follows: Pres., Phil Garland '12; Sec., J. N. Hart, '11, Treas., A. E. Silver '02. Two vice-presidents were also elected but the writer was out while they were being elected.

Business concluded, the "movies" were shown. T. C. Wescott '09, described the pictures aided by the older and in some cases the young alumni.

With G. K. Huntington acting as toastmaster the speaking was guided along witty and serious channels by turns, thus holding interest in every word.

Dr. Aley was splendidly received by all. He explained the requests of Maine in the Legislature, described the progress of the institution since last year, its hopes, and needs. He mentioned especially the college union idea which I believe was first advocated by the writer in the CAMPUS as long ago as 1913.

Dr. J. S. Ferguson '89 was the next speaker. He offered a valuable constructive criticism of the University. He advocated that the college of Arts and Sciences offer a definitely prescribed two, three, and four year medical preparatory course. The suggestion was well received by Dr. Aley and the alumni.

The dark horse of the evening was C. C. Elwell, was graduated back in the '70's. He is now Commissioner of Public Utilities in Connecticut. His speech sparkled with Yankee wit thruout and he was enthusiastically cheered.

After one or two impromptu speeches the meeting adjourned for an hour of good fellowship before departing.

The committee in charge: Phil Garland '12, chairman, A. E. Silver '02, A. E. Mitchell '75, T. C. Wescott '09, and H. H. Hart, '11.

Among those present were the following: E. S. Berry '10; L. E. Drew '11, J. E. Ash '12, Phil Garland '12, B. O. Warren '11, W. M. Black '09, F. M. McCollough '04, A. M. Knowles '04, A. Wood '05, G. O. Hamlin '00, Allen Rogers '97, A. D. T. Libby '98, C. N. Crockett '99, P. F. Goodridge '97, A. L. Chesley '03, W. E. Barton '12, W. H. Savory '12, F. H. Lancaster '12, G. B. Chapman '11, J. F. Nucci '12, H. P. Farrington '90, A. H. Buck '95, H. P. Hamlin '02, C. W. Stephens, Jr., '02; G. E. Hayward '07, Cushman '89, A. A. Hammond '12, C. P. Gray, M. D.; J. N. Philbrook, '10, A. B. INSIGNIA ADOPTED

Effective Design Used by Maine Masque

An insignia or "trademark" has been adopted by the Maine Masque and is herewith reproduced. The drawing for this was made by Professor Charles P. Weston. The idea was first suggested to him at the meeting of the Masque at Professor C. B. Brown's last January, when Professor Weston told the Masque about the plays he had seen in New York and Boston during the Christmas vacation.

The design reproduced here is the smaller one and is used on the programmes. It is black and occupies the left-hand upper corner of the programme. The larger design occupies the center of the posters of the Masque. This is reproduced in the two Masque colors. The 'M' and the dagger are black, while the face is red with black lines. Beneath the design in printed Maine Masque in large block letters.

It would be hard indeed to find any other design that would be as suggestive and as effective as this one. The proportion between the large 'M', the dagger, and the face is perfect. The design itself embodies everything that is needed and appeals to everyone. It will be noticed that the face is neither tragic nor comic, so that it applies equally well to any type of play. The 'M' and the masque together symbolically form the words, Maine Masque, while the dagger is an essential part of the design in that it is always associated with the drama and because it gives the design more freedom and vitality.

For the first time, the design was used on the Masque's recent trip. Everywhere it received special and favorable notice. The posters in the windows were very conspicuous and many remarks were made about their originality and attractiveness.

BOSTON ALUMNI

First Monthly Smoker Held at Quincy House

Top notch enthusiasm marked the first of a series of monthly dinners and smokers given by the Boston Alumni Association of the University on Monday evening, March eighth at the Quincy House, Boston.

Professor DeWitt G. Wilcox of the Boston University School of Medicine was the speaker of the evening. Dr. Wilcox told of the advance in medical knowledge that characterizes the present day era. He called the college man the "older brother" to his less fortunate fellow-beings. His talk was inspirational and well appreciated. Dr. Clifford D. Harvey '01, chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Association presided at the smoker.

This smoker marks a new era in alumni activities and from now on the University of Maine alumni will closely rival the alumni of other colleges. The next smoker will occur the evening of the Harvard-Maine baseball game. A good dinner, cabaret, college music, good fellowship and much enthusiasm will make this evening one of inestimable pleasure.

The Thursday noon luncheons will be continued at the Bromfield Inn where once a week the older and younger alumni get together to renew their college friendships.

To Hold Sale

The members of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will hold a candy sale tonight during the basketball game.

NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED FARMERS ASSEMBLED

Ninth Annual Farmers Week is Grand Success

IS PROFITABLE WEEK

The Ninth Annual Farmers' Week given by the College of Agriculture is proving a grand success. Aided by ideal weather conditions, this year's meeting has brought together a magnificent throng of happy and enthusiastic farmers from every county in the state. 365 had registered before Thursday morning and still more were to come.

The week's program has been of the highest order, and the different departments have done all in their power to make this a week of pleasure as well as of educational value to all those in attendance. The opening address by President Aley on Monday evening was a welcome from the University—an inspiring address which will not soon be forgotten. Following this, the address of Mr. Guptill and that of Prof. A. J. Jones on "The Training of Teachers for Secondary Schools" were of much educational value.

Tuesday forenoon was filled with instructive lectures and demonstrations in the departments of Agronomy, Animal Industry, Poultry Husbandry, Dairy Husbandry, Horticulture, Home Economics, and Experiment Station work. The afternoon was given over more especially to conferences on Business Co-operation, a phase of Agriculture which is gaining rapidly in importance, and the value of which cannot be over-estimated. "An evening with the Extension Service" was certainly an eye-opener to many who had hardly realized the magnitude of this all-important agricultural work.

Wednesday was a day of intense interest in every department, but the lectures in the Agronomy section are worthy of special mention since they dealt to a great extent with that problem most vital to the average Maine farmer this year—viz., the potato question. All those who heard the lecture of Director Woods of the Experiment Station have received food for thought. Prof. Woods is a man who makes few mistakes, and when he says that Maine can raise a good crop of potatoes in spite of the fact that Germany is closely guarding her potassium beds, it is well for Maine farmers to listen.

Another important feature of Wednesday's program was Florists' Day. Floriculture is practically a new word to the average farmer of this state, and the several lectures in this department were exceedingly interesting and helpful. The beautiful floral display on the top floor of Winslow Hall was worth climbing many more flights of stairs to see.

The Home Economics Department is deserving of much credit for its displays, as well as for its cordial reception to all in attendance on Wednesday afternoon. Fully 150 women have registered in that department this week.

Winslow Hall and the Maples are certainly bright and busy places, and the cows, pigs, and poultry are receiving their share of visitors. It is hoped that all in attendance will go home from this meeting greatly benefited, and with new ideas which will eventually bear fruit.

LIEUT. CLARK TO SPEAK

Will Lecture To Arts Club On "Philippino!"

The Arts and Science Club of the University will meet with Professor and Mrs. Conser Saturday evening. Lieut. F. S. Clark will talk to the club about "Neighboring with the Little Brown Brothers." Lieut. Clark came to the University last fall from three years service with the Coast Artillery in the Philippines while in the Islands he was stationed at several different posts and had an excellent chance for observing the native life. It is expected that Lieut. Clark's talk will be very interesting.

Miss Wilmot Talks

Mrs. Grace Wilmot who gave two talks on home decoration this week has charge of the Bureau of Interior Decorating in the Craftsman building in New York. Mrs. Wilmot made two lecture trips in the West and one in the South this year before coming to Maine. Her talks at the University, which were exceedingly interesting, were very well attended.

Students (and faculty) can do much to preserve the beauty of the campus by refraining from taking short

"Keep off the Grass" Such a practice easily becomes a habit. It is easy to see that innumerable paths indiscriminately cutting up the lawns will be anything but desirable.

Lend your aid in keeping the campus in good condition.

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences has voted to establish a special shelf in the Library on Choosing One's which will be kept Life Work books relating to the choosing of one's life work. Arrangements have now been made by which about a dozen books bearing on this subject have been placed in the reserve room, and an outline of these books has been posted on the bulletin board in the Library. A list of references to periodical articles is also posted.

At the Arts chapel held last Thursday, Dr. C. W. Easley, who was chairman of the committee which proposed this plan, explained the subject to the students. It is hoped that the plan will prove of assistance to the students who need help in deciding upon their future work. While the suggestion originated in the College of Arts and Sciences, the books should prove of equal value to all students in the University. It is planned to add to these books from time to time others which bear on the subject.

This plan follows one adopted in the English department some years ago, when several books were placed in the library for the use of Freshmen, in connection with their composition and reading work.

The visitor at Maine is not considered to have really seen the University until he has attended chapel. What Chapel does he see? What are his impressions? Perhaps seven hundred students saunter in, first in noisy groups, then by ones and twos, but all noisy. The President or a Dean comes in and takes his seat. The choir, unsupported, sings "The Lord is in His Holy Temple." A wild scramble for psalm books ensues. Those who are unable to find one are silent or improvise words considered by them to be more or less appropriate. During the Scripture reading the students scan newspapers, gossip, or prepare some eleventh-hour lesson. Nobody listens. A steady hum of conversation accompanies the singing of the hymn and the prayer. The leader nods dismissal and leaves the rostrum.

There is a wild surge of students, a whirl of flying hats and hymn-books, a medley of cries and calls,—and chapel is over.

If students cannot mold themselves to the thought of convening for religious purposes, nor with the intention of justly reverencing University traditions and the officials of the University, why should they become to chapel at all? Were it not better that they avoided such flagrant advertising of their faults, rather than attempt in such helpless manner to hide them? What moral right has a man to remain seated, hidden behind his standing fellows, when his President enters chapel?

What possible excuse can be offered for the insulting attitude of the Sophomore class in chapel toward tradition and official alike? Is it necessary that they be publicly admonished? It would not seem necessary here to enumerate the many violences which have been evident in chapel throughout the college year.

Maine has been called too practical— at least, she is practical. Men have graduated from Maine who can look back upon their University life merely through the medium of pleasant fraternity life, fellowship, and acquaintance with their teachers. Of endearing University memories whose roots are ever constant they have none. They have failed to reverence their University—they have missed the one fine touch which should stay with them through life, as long as the memories of their Alma Mater exist. They have failed to know the true Chapel, the seed of reverential tradition.

The CAMPUS wishes to publish an expression of thanks to Prof. R. K. Jones for his assistance in obtaining alumni news.

MAINE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE
IS DOING BIG WORK

A college of agriculture represents the state of which it is a part, its primary purpose being to develop the resources of that state, not only in its products, but in its affairs and in its people. It has been said that, "It is the obligation of such an institution to serve all the people, and it is equally the obligation of all the people to make the institution such that it can exercise its proper functions." Because it is wholly free from political or partisan domination and control, and because its work has scholarship as its basis, the college of agriculture should be the natural leader on rural questions.

Now, in the midst of "Farmers' Week"
at our own State University,—in that week which is entirely set aside by our College of Agriculture for the benefit of the farmers of the commonwealth,—in that week of all the year when all may come closely in touch with each other and with the college itself—it is pertinent to ask,
"Is Maine's College of Agriculture accomplishing that which it should accomplish?" To answer this question let us look at a few facts concerning the present scope of the institution, the development of certain branches, and the tendency of the alumni.

The work of the College of Agriculture lies along two distinct lines; the teaching of resident students and extension service. The aim of the former type of work is very well stated in the catalog, and the aim of the latter is to spread agricultural truths and set them at work. Neither type could be truly successful without the other, and in Maine the growth of both has, to a certain extent, been correlated. But, while the growth of the college proper has been rapid and uninterrupted, the growth of the extension work has been doubly so; and, since this latter work is practically new in many of its phases, it will not be out of place here to go into it briefly.

The Extension Service, under the direction of the Dean of the College, includes farm demonstration work in the several counties, under the immediate direction of county agents; it includes Boys' and also Girls' Agricultural Club Work, each with its state leader; it includes poultry demonstration work thruout the state; it includes correspondence courses and advice by mail; and it includes systematized lecture service in the various extension schools.

This type of service to the people of the state is an ever increasing factor in spreading agricultural education, and the demand for the different phases is growing rapidly. To meet this demand, as far as possible, the Extension Corps was increased from 9 members in 1913 to 15 members in 1914. In the year 1913-1914, there were 436 lectures given at different points in the state with a total attendance of 43,150 and an average attendance of 99.

It is surprising as well as gratifying to note the great increase in the percentage of graduates of the college, who are engaged in agricultural pursuits and are located within the state. This is in no small way due to the work of the Extension Department, for, by spreading knowledge, a bond of sympathy has been created between the old type of farmer and the scientific farmers—a bond which did not exist before, and the absence of which

ANOTHER YOST PUPIL
TO COACH MAINE TEAM

Hughitt Chosen For 1915 Football
Eleven

STARRED AT QUARTERBACK

Ernest Hughitt, of the University of Michigan, is to coach the football team next fall. He was quarterback on the varsity for three years. The last two years he was a regular. He was mentioned by some after his second season as being of All-Western caliber. Last year he was selected for the mythical All-Western eleven and also for the All-American team by many critics. Other critics did not elect him because he is light, weighing only about 150 pounds.

Yost, his coach, strongly recommended him for the position here. He said that Hughitt was one of the best field generals
he had ever trained.

The championship team, 1913, was also trained by a pupil of Yost. This man was Coach Riley, who developed "the team that made Maine famous."

Although Michigan lost the game to Harvard last fall, 7 to 0, she should have tied. Hughitt was far from being in perfect condition, but he proved himself an able field general. His signals were perfect. Michigan had worked down the field until she was on Harvard's three-yard line. Two of Michigan's backs erred and did not carry out the play
Hughitt had called, and Michigan lost.

BASKET-BALL TONIGHT

Seniors Face Freshmen with 1916
Against 1917

The games are to be played Friday night, Mar. 12, as scheduled and according to the increase in rooters of both sexes each night, a large crowd is expected tonight. The series of games have been very successful this year so far and show improvement over former years.

The games start with the seniors up for the second time against the freshmen and 1915 will try hard to win from 1916 to make up their former defeat by the entering class. The juniors will play the sophomores and the odds are much in favor of the former class judging from their record.

Present standing of the teams:

	Won	Lost	Percent
Juniors.....	4	0	1.000
Freshmen.....	2	2	.500
Seniors.....	1	3	.250
Sophomores.....	1	3	.250

The fourth games of the interclass basketball series were played last Friday night ending with the juniors and sophomores winners leaving the juniors still in the lead.

The Junior-freshman game was the fastest game of the season and autumn gridiron tactics were resorted to by both teams throughout the game. The senior-sophomore game was a slower played game and the men were of much lighter material, and lacking the previous football training that the other teams had had.

The games started at 7:30 P. M. sharp with Captain "Hutch's" team lined up against the sophomore five. Williams being out of the game with an injured ankle was a big loss to the senior team. The sophomores outplayed the seniors in covering their men and shooting baskets, and thus defeated them with the score 19-12. The seniors scored two points by fouls and their opponent one.

Next came the junior freshmen game which was fast and hard played. With the exception that Rudman took Greene's place at center the teams were the same as they have been. Kirk and Purington for the juniors and Reardon of the other team were the stars of the game and much pretty passing was carried out successfully. The juniors scored two points by fouls and the freshmen one. The game ended with the junior team winners with a score of 19-6.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

American Paper and Pulp Association Honors Maine

Prof. McKee in his capacity as official chemist, addressed the technical division of the American Paper and Pulp Association at their annual meeting in New York City.

This technical division is a new part of the association formed to do work similar to that being done by the Paper and Pulp School at the University of Maine.

At this meeting the following resolutions relative to industrial education were passed:—

WHEREAS, in the paper and pulp industry there is an ever increasing demand for efficient and intelligent employees, and

WHEREAS, the paper and pulp industry is sufficiently exacting and distinctive as to demand special preparation of those anticipating to pursue work in the industry; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, That the American Paper and Pulp Association

First: Hereby expresses its hearty appreciation of the work being done by the University of Maine Paper and Pulp School in the training of young men in the fundamentals of this industry and Second: That this Association recognizes the desirability of young men supplementing the technical training provided by a University course along paper and pulp lines with practical mill experience, and in this belief recommends that the members of the Association give, when practicable, opportunity for mill experience to young men preparing themselves for work in our industry during their summer vacation period.

Arrearage Notice

Famous Actor, says

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo will put snap and vim into your daily work. It's an inspiring tobacco that will keep you fit as a fiddle, full of zest, hearty and happy and hale. You can smoke it all day long, and each succeeding pipeful will glow with greater cheer.

The original, exclusive "Tuxedo Process" has many imitators—but no equal.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

ALUMNUS WRITES

Asks What is the Matter With Old Maine Spirit

To the Editor MAINE CAMPUS:
Dear Sir:

Does it not seem that the old "Maine Spirit" is somewhat decadent on the Campus at present? While the activities of the alumni are increasing yearly, what right have we to expect that they will continue to do so unless we train up future alumni here and now? Two cases seen within one week serve to show the conditions, although it is to be hoped that these are exceptions which do not occur often.

In the first case a student had met with a serious accident which necessitated an immediate visit to a physician. A small group of students who had collected were called upon for volunteers who had no recitations for the next period, to go to Orono with the boy. Only one was without an immediate engagement. "Will you go with him?" was asked. "Yes," he replied hesitatingly, "I'll go if necessary, but you know, he's a perfect stranger to me."

Think of that, ask the "old gads" about it,—one Maine man a "perfect stranger" to another!

The other case was noted during the last week, a week when the Campus was covered with visitors, so that if anything a greater degree of cordiality than ever should have been "on tap." A young sport, "FRESHMAN" written all over him, books in hand, was parading importantly toward the Chapel, after the manner of freshmen. An old graduate, with the joy of returning to his old stamping grounds radiating in all directions, approached from the opposite direction. After the manner of Maine men from time immemorial, the "old grad" greeted the freshman with a pleasant "hello." Did he get the same in reply? Decidedly not. Mr. Freshman calmly surveyed the "oldtimer" from head to toe, elevated his noble chin in the air, and swept by with an air would have been envied by many a society queen. How do you imagine that alumnus feels about the University now?

With such spirit as this displayed on the Campus and among the persons who some day will be numbered with the sons of the University, how can we expect that this can ever be a really great institution? Surely some remedy can be found, and that right speedily, to correct this tendency which most assuredly will undermine and ruin the "old spirit" which used to be the boast of every son of Maine. If no other cure is available, the old paddle is not yet entirely rotted away.

HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Maine Association of Agricultural Students Here

Today and tomorrow, the Maine Association of Agricultural Students, will hold their fourth annual meeting. The membership of the Association includes the graduates of the four year and two year courses in the College of Agriculture, past and present students in the College of Agriculture who have completed one year's prescribed work, members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station of the University of Maine. Its purpose is to increase the interest in agriculture along scientific lines.

Hold Dinner Party

The members of Phi Gamma Delta entertained a few of the faculty members and their wives Sunday. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. McKee, Dr. and Mrs. Easley, Prof. and Mrs. Leburg, Prof. and Mrs. Gray, and Mrs. Estabrook. An enjoyable afternoon was spent by the guests and each expressed himself as having passed a pleasant social hour.

SOPHOMORES ACCEPT CHALLENGE

The sophomores have accepted the challenge of the freshmen for a joint debate. This will be held about the middle of May. The subject is: "Resolved that the United States should build at least four battleships a year, and a proportionate number of submarines and auxiliaries beginning in the year 1916."

The freshmen try-outs will be held at seven o'clock on March 23. These trials will be held in Estabrook Hall.

The sophomore try-outs will be held at seven o'clock on March 24.

The main speeches are each to occupy eight minutes while the rebuttals will be three minutes in length.

All those intending to try out should hand their names to Mr. Keyes immediately.
