ANOTHER summer vacation has passed beyond us, another college year has come, bringing with it new duties, new conditions of life, and, most welcome of all, new faces and friendships. What the year now before us will add to the history of our Alma Mater can only be conjectured, but as we look at the signs of prosperity everywhere present about the campus, as we meet in classroom and in social life the men of excellent scholarship and character who have been added to the faculty, and as we look into the bright, ambitious faces of the hundred and more men who are for the first time U. of M. students, we cannot but feel that the successes of the coming year must far exceed those of any that have passed.

In the outlook for football alone, we have every cause for self congratulation and confidence, for there has never been a year before when more spirit has been shown, when so many new men have turned out for practice so early in the season, as there has this fall. What our record in baseball will be next spring it is too far ahead to prophecy, but the developments of these opening days of the year have demonstrated two things pretty clearly. The first is that there is going to be sharper competition for positions on the "varsity" next spring than ever before in the athletic history of this university, and the second and no less pleasing thing is, that if hard, conscientious work on the part of the baseball management and coach will give us a winning team next spring, then our success in this sport for another year, at least, is assured.

But it is not in athletics alone that the year holds out promises of new achievements. The University Guild, though founded less than a year ago, has already attracted attention from beyond the limits of the college community and in the near future all lovers of art in this section of the state will have become, through membership in the guild, identified with the work of the university. This fall will see the advent of a new college magazine, wherein will be published the results of any original work done at this university, either in the arts, sciences or literature. During the year a fine new building will be ready for occupancy, adding very materially to the equipment of the institution. These signs of rapid prosperity and of broadening influence mean something to us as students. They mean most of all a heavier responsibility for the welfare of our college. As new enterprises draw the attention of the best and most highly cultured people of Maine to the work of this university, judgments will be formed and these judgments will be based not so much upon the material condition of the college as a whole, as upon the character of its students as individuals.

Then, again, it means that each succeeding year is making doubly sure the investment we made when we determined to devote four years of our life in obtaining a college education. As the institution becomes more widely known and its graduates are found to be more and more trustworthy and capable, our chances for immediate success increase, although our ultimate success or failure must of necessity depend upon ourselves.

It is evident then that if for no other reason than a selfish one every U. of M. student should strive this year as never before to raise the standing and spread the influence of his college throughout the state and nation.

TO the class of 1904 THE CAMPUS extends a most hearty greeting. We hope that none of you have come to the University of Maine with other than the most liberal ideas as to what college life demands of you and of what a college education truly consists. You will doubtless discover early in your course, as many a man has before you, that many of the best teachings that will come to you while in college will not be found between the two covers of a book, but will be absorbed from the lives of instructors and fellow students, will come, in fact, from the college life of which you, yourself, form a part. Just how much you will be benefited in this way depends almost entirely upon yourself. If you earnestly desire to make the best possible use of the four years before you, we would advise you above all things not to go through college by halves. You may think now that scholarship is the great thing to strive for and that all the other college enterprises are superfluous, but some day, though you may be ever so successful, you will think of the athletic dues you didn't pay, of the team you didn't encourage, and of THE CAMPUS you didn't subscribe for, with a sense of shame.

Let no such experience be yours. Go into all phases of college life with every bit of enthusiasm you possess. If you cannot play football, support the team, and encourage your classmates to get out for practice. If you have no literary ability, support your college paper just the same and praise, not ridicule, the man who thinks he has and is trying to get it recognized. Attend the scientific meetings, the debating society and the art lectures. Never let an opportunity pass that will help you towards a higher degree of culture and mental development.

OWING to lack of space in the June 15 issue, no acknowledgment was made to Mr. L. H. Horner, '00, of the gift of the artistic design which appeared for the first time upon the front cover of that number. The editors of THE CAMPUS wish to express their appreciation of the great addition Mr. Horner's gift has made to the attractiveness of the paper and hope that their feeling of indebtedness will be shared by every reader of its pages.

The rainy season has begun in Oak Hall.

R. D. Linn, '01, has left college and is now attending the Portland Business College.

Mr. Perley Walker, instructor in mechanical engineering, has been granted a leave of absence for a year and has gone to Cornell University to take post graduate work.

O. T. Cimpher, '02, has left college and is now in Boston.

Mrs. C. A. Belcher of Dexter, Me., has been engaged as matron at the Phi Gamma Delta House for the ensuing year, in place of Mrs. A. Gilman, resigned.

At a meeting of the freshman class, held Sept. 24, a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution, and it was voted to elect no officers for the space of three weeks.

W. R. Dean, '03, has left college and is making a specialty of the study of marine engineering at Cornell University.

The first meeting of the Debating Society for the present college year will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 4, in Room 11, Coburn Hall.

Frank E. Noyes, '00, and Wilber L. Merrill were on the campus recently.

The observatory situated in the rear of the new gymnasium has been finished and is ready for the glass. This has been a much needed building and will be a great addition to the course in astronomy.

Alan S. Bird, '00, spent Sunday, Sept. 23, on the campus, and was entertained by the local chapter of Beta Theta Pi, of which he is a member.

The freshman drawing room in Wingate Hall has been equipped with more lights, greatly facilitating the work of that department.

F. McCullough, '03, who left college on account of sickness during the spring term of this year, has returned to college.

The work on the new gymnasium, the corner stone of which was laid during commencement last June, has been going on through the summer, and the walls are slowly rising. It is hoped that the building will be ready for use about the first of November.

Prof. Drew will offer a new course in general biology, with laboratory work along morphological lines. This is something that has never before been attempted at the university and will undoubtedly be popular and successful. Several important new pieces of apparatus for morphological work will be purchased by the institution, including a number of high power microscopes.

The following men have been pledged by the various fraternities: Phi Gamma Delta, Clifford, Cox, Scott, Baker, Soderstrom; Kappa Sigma, Smith, Dorticos, Taylor, Jones, Eastman; Beta Theta Pi, Flint, Russell, Berry, Gammon, Hopkins and Livermore; Alpha Tau Omega, Sawyer, Bean, Porter.

Among the more important of the new courses which are to be offered this year is one in Italian art which is to be given by Prof. Huddilston in connection with the work of the University Guild, and which will be open to all members of the college and to the public. Another course which is new this year will be on the private lives of the Greeks, and still another is a course of New Testament Greek, both of which will take two and one-half hours a week, and will be given by Prof. Huddilston.

The annual reception given by the Young Men's Christian Association to the entering class took place Saturday evening, Sept. 22, in the chapel. The room was tastefully decorated with plants from the hothouse, making it look very cosy. Light refreshments were served. The reception committee consisted of Prof. and Mrs. Woods, Prof. and Mrs. Huddilston and Prof. Lewis. The freshman class was well represented and everything passed off delightfully. Short talks were given by Dr. Harris, Prof. Woods and Prof. Stevens upon the value to the student of associating himself with all phases of college life, with special emphasis on the fact that the student should not neglect his spiritual nature. During the evening a piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Harrington and a vocal solo by Mrs. Huddilston, both of which met with hearty applause. These social times are given each year in order that the freshmen may become acquainted with each other, and with the faculty and upper classmen at the very beginning of their college life. The association is interested in the new men and desires that they shall make its work a part of their life at the University of Maine.

Up to the present time, 114 new students have registered at the college office since registration began on Sept. 17. Of this number 96 are from Maine's cities and towns, while the remaining 18 come from neighboring states, mostly from Massachusetts. The engineering courses still seem to be the most attractive feature of the university, 61 per cent. of the class being registered as engineering students, divided as follows: Electrical engineering, 36; civil engineering, 22; mechanical engineering, 12. The College of Arts and Sciences gets 34 of the new students, about equally distributed among its numerous courses, five being registered in the classical department, which was only introduced last year. Of the total number registered eight are planning to take special work, as a rule either in the college of engineering or of arts and sciences. Following is the list of freshmen who had registered before Sept. 25:

NEW MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY

The opening of the thirty-second year of the history of the University of Maine brings to us an unusually large number of new faculty members.

One of the chief additions to the teaching force is Gilman Arthur Drew, professor of biology, who succeeds the late Prof. Harvey. Prof. Drew is a graduate of the University of Iowa in the class of 1890, where he received the degree of B. S. For several years after this he taught sciences in several of the preparatory schools in Iowa, his native state, and then took a course in science in Johns Hopkins university, where he received the degree of Ph. D. in 1898. For the past two years he has been an assistant in zoology at that university, and has spent his summers in original research in many parts of the country.

Another important name which has been added to the faculty is that of Orlando F. Lewis, assistant professor of modern languages. Prof. Lewis is a young man, not yet 30, and is a graduate of Tufts college in the class of '95. After his graduation he was appointed assistant in modern languages at the college where he remained until 1897, when he went abroad to study at the University of Munich. He remained there one year and returned to this country where he entered the University of Pennsylvania under the Harrison fellowship, in Germanics, which he held till 1900, when he received the degree of Ph. D. He has traveled extensively both in this country and abroad, having spent three years in Germany and other countries of Europe.

The remaining new members are Louis Siff and Roscoe M. Packard, tutors in mathematics; William A. Beck, tutor in physics; Clinton L. Cole, tutor in drawing; Alden B. Owen, tutor in electrical engineering; Fred H. Vose, tutor in mechanical engineering; Chas. H. Lombard, assistant in civil engineering; F. H. Mitchell and J. Arthur Hayes, assistants in chemistry; Wilfred H. Caswell, assistant in physics; Philip R. Goodwin, assistant in civil engineering, and Percy L. Ricker, assistant in biology.

Mr. Siff is a graduate of Cornell in the class of '97, and since has taken graduate courses in Johns Hopkins and Clark university, and has been a teaching fellow in the University of Nebraska, where he has been during the summer.

Mr. Packard graduated from Adelbert college of Western Reserve University in 1899. He took a graduate course last year and received an M. A. Mr. Beck is a Dennison University man, and has taken high honors in the department of physics.

The assistants are appointed from the class of 1900, graduated last June, as were also Mr. Vose and Mr. Owen. Clifford D. Holley, U. of M. '00, is the newly appointed assistant at the experiment station. Although most of the new men fill places left vacant by resignation and leave of absence last spring, it is still true that the teaching force of the university was never larger or better equipped than it is this year.

THE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

The Art Guild which was formed last winter in connection with this institution is thus early in the year attracting very wide attention. As has been before stated the object of the Guild is to promote interest in the study of fine arts and to further the work of the University of Maine along these lines. The Guild is endeavoring to collect as fast as possible reproduction of the world's best art, both in photographs and in casts, and Prof. Huddilston of the Greek department has been in Boston purchasing a number of pictures and models.

This winter there will be given in connection with the work of the Guild, a course of lectures on the subject of Italian art, particularly touching on that of the Renaissance. The lectures will be open to the public and a number of Bangor people are planning to take advantage of this excellent opportunity. The lectures which will be given by Prof. Huddilston will be illustrated by over two hundred photographs which he has collected during the summer. Italian painting of this splendid period of the world's art will be the chief subject of the lecturer, and the lives and works of the old Italian masters will be taken up in detail as far as possible.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The work for new students was in the hands of a special committee this fall and was carried on more systematically than in former years. Blanks were prepared, which were filled out by the freshmen at the time of registration, giving such information as would be of use to the association in carrying on its canvass of the class later. Members of the committee were present at the place of registration throughout the time required for that work, and gladly gave directions and suggestions to the new men. The religious statistics of the class as gathered from the blanks are very encouraging when it is remembered that this university is a non-sectarian and largely an engineering institution. Fourteen of the new men, or a little less than thirteen per cent., are members of evangelical churches, seven are members of the Roman Catholic church, and the remainder nearly all have a church preference and in many cases are connected with a church by membership in its young people's society.

The Students' Handbook, which is published by the association and distributed free of charge at the opening of each college year, received a more hearty welcome than ever this fall. The editors of the book were W. R. Bartlett and O. M. Bixby, the business manager, I. E. Treworgy. No change was made in the general style of the book but many new and valuable suggestions were added for the benefit of the entering class and numerous other features seen for the first time in this volume add materially to the attractiveness and usefulness of the book.

During last winter a series of Sunday afternoon chapel services was undertaken by the association, similar meetings being held at Bowdoin and Bates with much success. Owing to extremely adverse weather conditions only two were held, but these were so well attended and seemed to accomplish so well the purpose for which they were designed, that the present officers of the association are planning to continue them this fall. The first meeting will occur on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 14, and will be addressed by a good speaker. No man who has thought for his spiritual welfare can afford to miss these meetings as they will be designed to be especially adapted to the needs of college men.

The members of the association wish to thank all members of the faculty and of the student body for their liberal subscription to the Northfield delegation fund, which enabled the University of Maine to have four representatives at the conference held at East Northfield, June 28 to July 8. These conferences are growing yearly more helpful and more proficient in their methods of teaching men how to conduct college Christian work. It is the desire of the association that good results may be apparent in the student life at this institution which may be directly traced to the conference at Northfield.

On Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30, the Bible Study classes met for the first time in the library, Coburn Hall. A new arrangement of courses has been made this year which it is hoped will prove beneficial. The freshmen study Shannan's "Life of Christ" as heretofore, the class being taught by H. E. Cole. The sophomores, juniors and seniors all study Bosworth's "Studies on the Acts and Epistles," the former class being grouped by itself under the leadership of F. H. Bogart, the juniors and seniors being taught by Mr. William A. Beck. Much interest is shown in the classes and it is hoped that others will join as the necessity of the study is made apparent to them.

The annual baseball game between the freshman and sophomore classes for the ownership of three bushels of peanuts was played on the campus Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 26. The sophomores were easily defeated by a score of 7 to 3.

During the game the usual scrap took place between the two classes for the supremacy of the grandstand. As soon as the game was called, visitors and upper classmen left the stand and the freshmen assumed the aggressive. Only a small part of the sophomore class was on hand for the occasion as recitations were in progress and kept many 1903 men away that would otherwise have been there. For a time the contest was very even, however, the "sophs" having had more experience at scrapping and possessing the advantage of knowing their own men, whereas the freshmen were comparative strangers to each other and wasted a good deal of energy in putting their own men out of the stand. After nearly a half hour of hard work the freshmen succeeded in ridding the grandstand of every antagonist and gave the 1904 yell. At this an upper classman, fearing the fun was at an end, presented a freshman with a class flag and bid him run for his life. He took the hint, but in an instant twenty men were upon him and the fiercest struggle of the day took place for the possession of the trophy. This scrap, like the other, ended in a victory for the freshmen. No accident whatever occurred, unless a rapid depreciation in the value of clothing could be considered as such, and the best of feeling was apparent between the contestants at all points in the battle.

In the ball game both teams played well, but the freshmen truly outclassed their opponents at every point of the game. Cox, the new man from Houlton, pitched excellent ball and succeeded in striking out 14 men. Russell played a good game behind the bat and showed that with some practice he could hold the speedy pitcher all right. Chace played a good game at first base and he ran bases like an old-timer.

Coach Magill said after the game: "There is a bunch of material, especially in the freshman class, for a winning team next spring and with good hard work, the University of Maine will have the strongest team in Maine next season."

The teams played as follows:

1904.	1903.
Russell Catcher	Whitney
Cox Pitcher	Harris
Chace First base	Dorticos
Noyes Second base	Larrabee
Smith Shortstop	Strickland
Eastman Third base	Crabtree
Parker, Flynt Right field	Connor
Colcord Centre field	Touse

Score by innings:

1904	3 0 0 3 0 0 1 0 x—7
1903	0 0 2 0 0 0 1 0 0—3

THE SCHEDULE.

Manager Harvey has been exceedingly successful this fall in making up the schedule of football games with neighboring schools and colleges. There are two particularly pleasing features which it possesses. One is the large number of practice games that occur before the first Maine college game on Oct. 20, when we meet Bates at Lewiston. Heretofore the 'varsity has had very little experience with other styles of plays besides its own before it lined up against Bowdoin or Bates in games that U. of M. wanted very much to win. The other is the large number of games which are played within reach of the college, especially the fact that Bowdoin is to come to Bangor this fall, which is the first time her team has played U. of M. off their home grounds for years. The improvement in the schedule is partly due to the recognition by other organizations that "Maine" is bound to have an eleven this fall that will make any team in this section of New England work hard for every point it wins. It is also due in a large degree to the enthusiasm and hard work which Mr. Harvey has put into his management of the team. Following is the complete schedule:

- Oct. 3. Edward Little High School, Orono.
- Oct. 6. New Hampshire State College, Orono.
- Oct. 10. Fort Preble, Orono.
- Oct. 13. Colby, Orono.
- Oct. 17. Fort Preble, Portland.
- Oct. 20. Bates, Lewiston.
- Oct. 27. Colby, Waterville.
- Oct. 31. University of Vermont, Orono.
- Nov. 3. Bates, Orono.
- Nov. 10. Bowdoin, Bangor.
- Nov. 14. University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.
- Nov. 17. New Hampshire State College, Durham, N. H.

The senior engineers, together with Profs. Flint, Grover and Webb, took a trip to Millinocket on Thursday, Sept. 27, to inspect the plant of the Great Northern Paper Co. The day was very favorable and proved to be one of great pleasure as well as profit to the twenty or more men who composed the party.

With this issue THE CAMPUS begins its second year as a college publication. During the two months that the present board has had charge of the paper, the editor of this department has made every effort to make its columns more interesting and readable with each succeeding issue. How far he has been successful in this it is for you to judge. How difficult is the task for one man to undertake to gather in these pages all or even a small part of the news concerning the seven hundred alumni that have gone forth from this institution, you cannot judge, unless the experience has been yours. Each succeeding year finds the graduates of U. of M. more widely separated and, it is to be feared, less in touch with one another. It is not to be doubted that many of the readers of this paper are winning successes in their life work which would be of deep interest to their classmates and brother alumni, and an inspiration to every undergraduate student. THE CAMPUS should know of and publish these things,—it is your duty to give to the student body which is striving to uphold the honor of your Alma Mater, the help and encouragement to be derived from your successes. It is hoped that every alumnus will feel his personal responsibility in this matter more deeply than every before and will see to it that all news items that come to his notice shall reach the hands of the alumni editor for publication in THE CAMPUS.

NOTICE.

The next issue of THE CAMPUS will contain as complete a directory as it is possible to obtain of the class of 1900, together with numerous items of interest concerning the recent graduates.

Mr. Ralph Kneeland Jones, librarian of the University of Maine, was united in marriage to Miss Grace Alexander Mutell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesley Mutell of Springfield, Mass., on Wednesday, August 29, at high noon, at Squirrel Island, Maine.

The event was particularly interesting as it was the first affair of the kind to occur on Squirrel Island, and the summer residents generally united to make it a gala occasion. Nature also did her part, for the day itself was perfect.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Laurence Phelps of Leominster, Mass., and the Episcopal ring service was used. The maid of honor was Miss Nanette Norris of Cottage City, Mass., a seven year old niece of the bride, and the best man was Mr. Eliot Norris Jones of Boston, a brother of the groom. The bride was accompanied from the cottage of Mrs. Alice Doyle of New York, where she was visiting, by her mother and niece, escorted by six young ladies, and was met at the door of the chapel by the groom and his best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the casino, after which a wedding breakfast was given by Mrs. Doyle to Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their immediate relatives.

The floral decorations of the chapel and casino were beautiful. They were arranged by parties of the young people of the island who vied with one another in an effort to obtain attractive effects. A particularly charming picture was made by nearly a hundred children, supporting ropes of hay, who stood on each side of the walk by which the newly wedded couple passed to the casino from the chapel.

A large party was assembled at the wharf to insure a joyful "send off" and a delegation of a dozen or more escorted the bridal couple several miles up river, leaving them only after having exhausted a seemingly inexhaustible supply of rice. Some of the young friends of the bride took considerable pains to decorate a trunk which proved to be that of her mother, and one of them carried to the wharf an umbrella that was supposed to have been accidentally left behind, carefully filled with rice, but this also proved to belong to another member of the family. It is understood that congratulatory telegrams were sent to about all the leading hotels in the state except that at which Mr. and Mrs. Jones actually stopped.

The marriage of Miss Anna May Allen and Mr. Nathan Clifford Grover occurred at the bride's home on Brackett street, in Portland, Me., on Thursday evening, June 14. The parlors were tastefully decorated with garlands of evergreen, beautiful palms and white pinks. The marriage ceremony was impressively performed by Dr. Henry Blanchard. The bride wore a blue satin gown, relieved with white chiffon. Miss Louise Allen was maid of honor and wore a handsome pink satin gown. Mr. Oscar Grover, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Grover will be at home after October at Orono.

'94.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Abbie Ring, Orono, on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 25, when her daughter, Miss Virginia, was united in marriage to David O. Campbell of Sangerville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Lund, pastor of the Universalist church, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. Miss Ring is one of Orono's most popular young ladies and has a host of friends in this vicinity. While at this institution she took the course in library economy. Mr. Campbell is a member of the firm of David R. Campbell & Son, owners of the St. Ronan Woolen mills in Sangerville, and is recognized throughout eastern Maine as a man of marked business ability. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be at home in Sangerville.

Roy L. Fernald, second lieutenant in Co. E, 26th U. S. volunteers, was drowned Sept. 1, while bathing in Dumaugas river near Iloilo. After graduating from college Mr. Fernald was for some time engaged at his business as civil engineer, near Boston, but when the Spanish war broke out he enlisted as a private in the Seventh U. S. infantry, in order to see active service. He was not disappointed, for the regiment was one of those sent to Cuba. At Santiago he was wounded but showed great courage and refused to leave the firing line. It was mainly due to his record during the campaign that he received his commission as second lieutenant in the 26th.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of John L. Cosmey, Sept. 19, at 11 o'clock, the contracting parties being Miss Hulda M. Anderson and Mr. Stanley H. Cosmey. The house was prettily decorated with evergreens and flowers. The ceremony itself taking place under a canopy of evergreens in which hung a wedding bell. Under this canopy stood Rev. Geo. B. Ilsley, attended by ten young ladies who carried garlands of flowers with which they formed an arch leading from the canopy to the stairs. Under this arch marched the groom accompanied by his brother, Linden M. Cosmey, and immediately followed by the bride leaning on the arm of her father, who was to give her away. The bride was dressed in a gown of pearl grey trimmed with white and was attended by Miss Marie Landers, as bridesmaid, who was prettily attired in blue. Following the ceremony a dainty lunch was served, soon after which the young couple left for Omaha, Neb., which will be their future home. As the couple left the house the arch was again formed and the path leading to the carriage strewn with flowers. The bride carried a large bunch of pinks made up of ten smaller bunches which she threw to the young ladies holding the arch. The bride was one of Bangor's most popular young ladies. The groom has an excellent position as engineer with the Union Pacific railroad and has a large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Cosmey received many testimonies of the esteem in which they are held in the form of beautiful and costly presents.

The marriage of Miss Grace Anglemire and Mr. Charles Webster occurred at the home of the bride's parents in Rockford, at 6 o'clock, June 19. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate relatives being present. The whole house was very tastefully adorned with flowers; the mantel in the front parlor was banked with a profusion of roses and every available spot was filled with ferns and all varieties of summer bloom. The young people were unattended, standing before the great front windows which had been draped and festooned with smilax and ferns into a background of green, while the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hallock of Plymouth church. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the relatives present and later an informal reception was held to which friends and relatives were invited. The bride is a well known young lady of Rockford and is a favorite among the young people of the place, having very many friends. After a short lake trip the couple went to their home in Portland, where they now reside.

Ex-1901.

Notice of the death of James Green at the U. S. military hospital in Manila, P. I., was received by his parents in Bluehill, Me., on August 31. Mr. Green joined the regular army two years ago and in letters to his parents had expressed himself as very much pleased with the life. His remains will be embalmed by the government authorities and brought to his home in Bluehill.

OBITUARY.

The sad news of the death of Alex. Love was received at the college Monday, Sept. 17.

Mr. Love was a highly esteemed member of the class of '00, popular among his many friends for his genial good nature. He lived in Bluehill and after entering college was several times forced to stay out in order to get the necessary money to cover expenses, meanwhile carrying on his college work by himself. After graduating last June at the age of twenty-seven, he entered the employ of the New York Central railroad, and very soon was promoted to an excellent position. At the time of his death he was employed in the roadmaster's office and had very bright prospects. It was while repairing a bridge over Gill Creek, near Buffalo, N. Y., that he was struck by a Leigh Valley train and instantly killed.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom and power has taken from our midst our beloved brother, Alex. Love, Resolved, That Psi Chapter of Kappa Sigma has lost a devoted brother, earnest worker, and a pleasant companion.

Resolved, That we, his brothers, extend our deepest sympathy to his parents, relatives and friends.

Resolved, That as a token to the memory and respect of our beloved brother, the badge of the order be worn inverted for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be entered upon our chapter records, that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, that a copy be published in the college paper, THE CAMPUS, and in The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma.

ATHLETICS.

The athletic field was never so busy at the beginning of the term as it is this fall. Both football and baseball men are on the field every night and with both coaches present the work is hard and a great deal of benefit is derived from the practice.

FOOTBALL.

The outlook for a winning football team never seemed so encouraging as it does this fall. Never before in the history of the university has such a large number of football men entered with the freshmen class. Of last year's team, Captain Wormell will be found at his old position at right tackle; H. E. Cole, centre; G. H. Hadlock, left end; L. L. Harris, quarter; A. R. Davis, right half; G. H. Davis, left half; C. Dorticos, full back. This seems to be a good nucleus for a winning team and we do not seem to have lost as many valuable men as the other Maine colleges.

There are a number of new men who will develop into valuable players, perhaps not this year but next or the year after. The new men should not lose heart just because they do not make the team the first year. Some of our best men do not begin to develop till they are sophomores or even juniors.

Manager Harvey is very fortunate in securing C. Ernest Burton to coach the team. Mr. Burton is a graduate of Tufts college in the class of 1900 and he played during his entire course on the Tufts 'varsity and captained the team during his last year at that place. Coach Burton puts a snap into the men and makes them work as few coaches have made our football men work in past years. Let every man who ever played the game or who thinks that he might play, turn out for practice so that Coach Burton may have ample material for a winning team and enough men for the "varsity" to line up against.

There have been a good number of men on the field each night, the largest number being thirty-two. Following is a list of those men who turn out regularly for practice:

Wormell, '01; Keller, '01; Davis, '01; French, '01; Barrows, '01; Davis, '02; Elliot, '02; Blaisdell, '02; Eldridge, '02; Duren, '02; McCarthy, '02; Cole, '02; Goodwin, '03; Small, '03; Wiley, '03; Stewart, '03; Dorticos, '03; Smith, '03; Hadlock, '03; Touse, '03; Harris, '03; Bradford, '03; Taylor, '04; Snell, '04; Clifford, '04; Lawrence, '04; Perkins, '04; Bean, '04; Scott, '04; Noyes, '04, and Phinney, '04.

BASEBALL.

An experiment is being tried this fall which it seems should have been tried long ago. That is, in having the coach back in the fall in order to see what material there will be to use in the coming spring. Coach Magill was on the campus every day for the first week of the term and the baseball men profited greatly by his presence. It is seldom that a college or university finds such a loyal coach as Mr. Magill and we should all try to repay him for his efforts by either training for the ball team or encouraging the men during its practice.

OLD TOWN, 5; U. OF M., 4.

The first game this fall was played at Old Town Saturday, Sept. 22. The game was arranged so that Coach Magill might see just what material we will have for next spring's work. Two batteries were brought out, Ross pitching and Towse catching the first half of the game, while Cox, late of Houlton's star team, and Chase, catcher, finished the game. These men made a most satisfactory showing, so that U. of M. need have no fears as to this portion of their team make-up next season. In all, U. of M. played 13 men with but one error in the game, a most creditable showing considering the lack of practice and acquaintance among the men.

The umpire was not all that could be desired, being at fault on a number of his decisions. Larrabee played a fast game at short stop and succeeded in getting three hits. The score by innings:
