THERE is a strong feeling of dissatisfaction among the students living upon the campus, because of the uncertainty of the supply of healthful drinking water. It is not a new grievance by any means, but since the system has been extended to some of the fraternity houses, matters have been much worse and the necessity of drinking river water or going dry has become so common as to call for more than a passing remark. It would seem that in an institution of this character where power is at hand for use under any conditions and for any purpose, provision would have long since been made whereby an inexhaustible supply of drinking water would be numbered among the many advantages of the university. But instead of this being the case, we have a system that depends upon the uncertain working of a windmill for raising the water from the well into the main tank, resulting in frequent periods of from one to four or five days when there is no alternative but to drink the river water. Such a condition is not only a source of annoyance but is a positive menace to the health of the students who are dependent upon the system, it having been without a doubt, the cause of much of the sickness which has prevailed in Oak Hall and nearby fraternity houses this fall. In view of these facts it is to be hoped that action will be taken at once, and the pump which raises the water from the well to the supply tank, equipped with a positive source of power, that the experiences of last winter, when there were several periods of calm weather and consequent drought, may not be repeated.

WAS there ever a severer rebuke to our half-hearted support, as a student body, of the team upon which the athletic reputation of this university now rests, than that of Capt. Wormell when he spoke in a recent college meeting of the cheers of the Bowdoin men at the Bates game as more enthusiastic for "Maine" than any we had ever given for his team? Was there a single man there who did not experience a sense of shame at the justice of the rebuke, at the thought that the students of a rival college had given to our eleven greater inspiration than we had given, who had so much more at stake? Of course it is very easy to find both a reason for the zeal of the Bowdoin men who supported us, and an excuse for our lack of enthusiasm, yet nothing can alter the fact that there was in this experience a much needed lesson to a great majority of U. of M. men and it was happily one which the events of the past week have shown we were not unwilling to learn.

AND while questions are in order it may not be out of place to inquire who won the Colby game last Saturday. "U. of M. did it," was the discordant cry of two hundred tired throats, during that historic march down Waterville's main street, yet we doubt if many men realized how much truth there was in the song he was trying to sing. It does not detract one particle from the glory of our eleven to assert that their enthusiastic supporters on the side lines helped to win this victory. It is certain that the team went into the play with more snap than they have ever given evidence of this season, and though some of it doubtless resulted from their rapid development during last week, some of it came from the feeling that two hundred men stood by their side to see them win, who had come down for nothing else. Whether a continuation of the same spirit that was so much in evidence last Saturday will win us the two remaining games, the future must decide. Whatever the result may be, or however weak may be their hope of winning, the students have learned their part in the work and will do it faithfully.

A CRISIS PASSED.

The athletic history of the University of Maine has passed through a crisis during the last two weeks which will long be remembered by every man who shared the experience, a crisis which will be looked back upon as a turning point in the athletic life of the college.

It was with strong misgivings that a call was issued for a college meeting on the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 24. That the student body was discouraged and dispirited after the two successive defeats by Maine college teams, was only too evident from the murmurs of dissatisfaction among a majority of the students. Since the defeat by Bates on the previous Saturday, there had a feeling grown up that U. of M. could not hope to develop a winning football team this fall and that the attempt might as well be abandoned at once. But the meeting was called and the few who still retained hopes of our success this year found confronting them the seemingly difficult task of putting renewed life into the spirits of two hundred and fifty disheartened men. What a deep and strong spirit of loyalty to the college, of stubborn determination, had grown into the nature of U. of M. men during the last few years no one realized, for a crisis had never yet arisen wherein the need of this spirit was sufficient to call it forth. But that it was there, only awaiting a condition such as was present to bring it out, needs but the record of this memorable meeting for proof. Speeches were made by Dr. Lewis, Capt. Wormell and Dr. Harris, resulting in a most wonderful transition. From a state of misgiving and dissatisfaction the entire student body went in a few moments to the extreme of enthusiasm. A plan to engage a special train and go down in a body to cheer the team at Waterville, was proposed by Dr. Lewis and met with most hearty approval. A rapid canvass was made to determine those who would go and one hundred and fourteen men pledged themselves at once, the number being subsequently increased to one hundred and seventy-five. The number pledged from each class was announced by Mgr. Harvey, amid cheers from the other classes. After arranging a few of the details of the excursion, the meeting adjourned, though not before three hearty cheers had been given for Dr. Harris and the "Maine" yell

Every man present felt that a new era had begun in the athletic life of U. of M. Her teams may not always win success, there may yet be in the future periods of discouragement, but the time will never come, so long as the memory of Saturday, Oct. 27, 1900, remains, when the student body will let adversity rule their spirits, or any circumstance deter them from giving their best support to the teams that represent them.

A NEW ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Maine Schoolmasters' Club at Waterville, April 3, 1900, it was suggested that a Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, similar in organization and purpose to the New England association, would materially further the educational interests of the state. The favor with which the suggestion was received seemed to indicate that the formation of such an association would meet with approval from the colleges and preparatory schools of this state. In order, therefore, to carry the suggestion into effect, Profs. J. D. Taylor of Colby, L. G. Jordan of Bates, William MacDonald of Bowdoin, and K. P. Harrington of the U. of M., were appointed a committee to issue a call for a meeting and to prepare a program and plan of organization.

As a result of this move a meeting was held at Augusta on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 26 and 27, at which a Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools was organized. The meeting was attended by a large number of teachers from the colleges of the state, by principals of high schools and academies which prepare for college and teachers in the college preparatory departments of such schools, and there is no doubt but that the formation of this association marks a great advance in the educational activities of the state. The sessions were held in the State House and were presided over by Mr. W. E. Sargent, principal of Hebron academy.

J. F. Cox, '04, visited several days at his home in Houlton last week.

Newell Perkins of Skowhegan spent a number of days with friends on the campus recently.

A. L. Cobb, '01, has returned to college.

Among the alumni that were seen at the Colby game Saturday were Kelley, '90, of the Bangor Commercial; Sawtelle, '98; Page and Whitcomb, '00.

After chapel Monday morning Pres. Harris spoke a few words in high commendation of the work of the football team and of the students on Saturday. He called upon the members of the victorious team to rise so that the whole college might do honor to the men that had made that great day a complete success. The men were heartily applauded, after which all joined in the "Maine" yell. Enthusiasm was at its highest and no athletic team that ever represented the university has received such an assurance of confidence as was given Capt. Wormell's men at that meeting.

Mrs. Montgomery of Portland was the guest of her son, C. L. Montgomery, at the Phi Gamma Delta house for several days. Mrs. Montgomery was sent as a delegate to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Maine, which convened in Bangor last week.

Wellman, ex-'03, is substitute halfback on the Bates college team.

On Nov. 10, Prof. Huddilston will begin a series of fifteen lectures upon the History of Italian Painting, before a local art society at Bucksport, Me.

G. H. Davis, '01, was quite severely hurt in the game with Fort Preble in Portland, Oct. 17, and is at present at his home in Auburn recovering from concussion of the brain. It is expected that no permanent injury was sustained and that he will be able to return to his studies in about two weeks.

Samuel Clark, '01, was fortunate in securing a fine deer while hunting in the woods above Stillwater on Saturday, Oct. 20.

The "civils" are taking every advantage of the fine opportunity offered them by the erection of the new steel bridge across the Stillwater river at Orono, to observe some of the methods used in bridge construction.

O. M. Bixby, '01, who has been working for the past five months as attendant at The Danvers Asylum, at Danvers, Mass., has returned to college.

E. L. Watson, '01, took a three days' hunting trip into the Maine woods during last week, accompanied by a party from Brunswick. The party was not successful in their search for deer and moose, but report small game as very plentiful.

Prof. Flint returned Tuesday from a visit to his former home in Baldwin, Me.

A meeting of the students from Massachusetts was held recently, at which a Massachusetts club was organized. The officers elected were as follows: President, S. E. Woodbury; Vice President, Miss Genevieve Boland; Secretary and Treasurer, Luther Peck; Executive Committee, H. J. Hinckcliffe, R. C. Baker, A. W. Gage.

A recent issue of the Bangor Commercial contained a long article devoted to the life and work of Prof. K. P. Harrington. It spoke in words of the highest praise of his musical ability both as a musician and composer.

A. S. Loud, ex-1901, visited friends in Oak Hall on Sunday, Oct. 28.

Mrs. N. H. Martin of Fort Fairfield was on the campus recently visiting her son, B. C. Martin, at the Phi Gamma Delta House. Mrs. Martin was sent as a delegate to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, which was held in Bangor.

The speakers for the sophomore prize declamations were recently announced by the professor of English. They were as follows: Miss Geneva Blaisdell, Miss Amy F. Maxfield, Fred Collins, S. T. Foster, A. R. Benner, J. H. Hilliard, T. E. Leary and G. O. Small.

At the formation of the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools at Augusta on Saturday, Oct. 27, Prof. Estabrooke was elected vice president and Prof. Harrington to membership on the committee in charge of entrance requirements.

It is said that Durgan, '02, played a star game at Colby Saturday.

Dr. Harris attended the meeting of college and preparatory school teachers in Augusta Saturday, and gave a very interesting and able discussion of a paper presented by Prin. Johnson of Coburn Classical Institute.

A number of the students took advantage of the reduced rates to Waterville last week to visit their homes over Sunday.

At the Bates game played in Lewiston, Saturday, Oct. 20, a large crowd of Bowdoin men were present and cheered our team heartily all through the game. U. of M. men will not forget such an evidence of good feeling.

At a meeting of the Telegraph Society on Oct. 23, the following officers were elected: Pres., S. E. Woodbury, '01; Vice Pres., S. D. Thompson, '01; Sec. and Treas., Luther Peck, '02.

A party consisting of C. A. Mitchell, H. W. Sewall, H. O. Farrington and A. C. Lyon left Monday, Oct. 22, for Boston, where they passed the week attending the Mechanics' fair.

At a meeting of the sophomore class held recently the annual election of officers took place. Following were the officers elected: President, Fred Collins; Vice President, W. L. Cole; Treasurer, L. C. Bradford; Secretary, Amy I. Maxfield; Executive Committee, W. B. Burns, E. M. Wharff, A. R. Towse, R. M. Connor.

The Phi Gamma Delta house was the scene of a very pretty social gathering on Friday evening, Oct. 20, the event being a whist party and dance, for which occasion about fifty invitations were issued. Bangor, Orono and Old Town were represented, as was also each fraternity in the college. The first of the evening was devoted to whist, the winners being as follows: First prize for ladies, Miss Geneva Hamilton; first prize for gentlemen, W. B. Burns. After the whist playing, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. During the evening refreshments consisting of punch, fancy crackers and sherbert were served.

The Beta Theta Pi House is undergoing repairs which, when completed, will enable them to board in their chapter house. A new range, sideboard and dining room fixtures have been put in, and in a short time the house will be ready for the chef.

S. P. Davis went to Waterville Saturday, Oct. 20, to attend a business meeting of the baseball managers of the Maine colleges. The object of the meeting was to form a state league and arrange a schedule for next spring's campaign.

Paul Simpson, '03, has returned to college. The past summer he has been at work as transit man, with his father, who has charge of the government job of making a survey for a coal-ing station to be built at East Lamoine, Maine.

A MEMORABLE DAY.

Saturday, October 27, 1900, will go down in the history of U. of M. as a grand and glorious day. More than a week before that eventful day a movement was started to organize a party to go down to Waterville to the Colby game and give the team some good cheering whether "Maine" won or not. This movement was fairly under way when word came that Bates, who was supposed to have the weakest team in the state, had beaten us 26-0. Immediately stock in the Waterville trip went down out of sight, many who had planned to go could not see the fun in going sixty miles to see their team defeated and it began to look as if the man who has since become a historic "football captain" would have to march his eleven men down to Colby and back again with nobody to "shout the shout" or "yell the yell." But events were not to follow that course exactly. Some enterprising gentleman conceived the most excellent plan of not only a crowd going down but the whole college and, strange to say, when the plan was submitted to the college body on the morning of Oct. 24, it met with most enthusiastic approval.

Preparation for the trip was begun at once. A rapid canvass was made of the four classes and one hundred and fourteen men, consisting of fourteen seniors, twenty-nine juniors, twenty-seven sophomores and forty-four freshmen, immediately pledged themselves to go. It was decided that nothing short of a special U. of M. train would suit the great variety of tastes there present, so committees were appointed to make the necessary arrangements and look after other details of the great enterprise. The next two days were very busy ones. A more thorough canvass, assisted by the contagion that seemed to strike the place about that time which awoke in all a desire to visit the quiet little city of Waterville, soon increased the number that might be expected to go to over one hundred and fifty and all that was thought about, talked about or sung about, was what was going to happen to Colby when U. of M. got there on Saturday. A subscription paper was started for the purchase of decorations for the train, the town was divested of its stock of blue ribbon and those of the boys who were fortunate enough to have friends among the co-eds, or the girls who are not co-eds, kept them busy making U. of M. banners.

Saturday morning came with its usual accompaniment in the state of Maine, a cloudy sky threatening rain. But this did not detract a particle from the intensity of the interest and when towards noon the clouds cleared away and the sun shone out bright, the conviction was prevalent that it was U. of M.'s day. The train was to leave Orono at noon and fifteen minutes before that hour found a light-hearted crowd on the platform at the station. There was "Capt. Batch" moving about among the throng, trying to give orders, but receiving only a multitude of suggestions for his pains. There was "Murph" calling upon all hands to "organize" with no idea in his head that they would pay any attention to him and, as you doubtless take for granted, there was also to be found there "Tommy Tucker," who was trying to do various things. The co-eds had shown their loyalty by turning out a good delegation and, incidentally, it was noticed during the game at Waterville that they compared very favorably with the specimens on the opposite side of the field. One hundred and eighty happy, confident devotees of U. of M. there were, and to see their faces and hear them rehearsing the things they were going to say, one could not help but have a slight feeling of pity for those upon whom deep sorrow was to fall as a result of all this commotion.

The train drew in at the right time and the University of Maine, or that part of it, at least, which was portable, was enroute for Waterville. The decorating committee had expected to place blue bunting on the outside of the cars, but the station agent at Orono is very keen sighted, so much so that he couldn't overlook a certain rule that forbids such doings, so the deed was delayed till the train arrived in Bangor, where the shadow of the train shed prevented the officials from seeing anything wrong. At Bangor there were twenty or more added to the delegation and when the train pulled out of the station there were two hundred and six passengers, all with the single purpose to make Colby rue the day she played U. of M. at Waterville.

On the arrival of the train at Waterville at 2.10, the delegation formed fours and marched up to the field, taking up a position on the south side of the gridiron. The game was scheduled for 2.30, but it was 3.10 before the teams came onto the field. As the Colby eleven came out on the run, "Maine" gave them a hearty cheer, but when two minutes later U. of M. came on, with Capt. Wormell at their head, the pent up enthusiasm of the crowd broke loose and the old "Maine" yell was given time after time, completely drowning the Colby yell from the opposite side of the field.

Everything seemed to be in readiness for the game to begin, but Capt. Wormell was not so minded. Everything so far had been just right and "Slummy" thought it was hardly giving that lefthand rabbit's foot he had under his head protector, a fair show, if he started the game with a poor ball, so the Colby manager was sent for a better one. This caused a delay of thirty-five minutes, which would have been exceedingly tiresome had it not been for the musical ability that had been brought down for the occasion, and which was very successful in its attempt to entertain the spectators during the interim. With the game itself the "Maine sympathizers" had little to do. One has to get down low to play football and the men from Orono were in the air about half of the time during the game. When the first touchdown was scored after only two minutes of play, the south side of the field was a sight long to be remembered. The air was full of blue bows and banners; faculty, students, and "co-eds" went wild with enthusiasm; freshmen and seniors slapped each other on the back and everything was for the time being forgotten but the one fact that "Maine" was going to win the game. And thus it was all through that most exciting game. Slight reverses could not dampen the enthusiasm one particle, and even when Colby was on Maine's fifteen yard line, and it looked as if they might score, the cheering was just as loud and hearty.

When time was called in the last half "Maine" "bunched up" for a farewell yell and it was given with a will. Fours were formed and the column started on its way down town. A halt was made at the "gym," where a cheer was given for the team, and just before leaving the campus three rousing cheers were given for Colby.

It must have been a unique experience for the inhabitants of Waterville to see the University of Maine marching the streets of that quiet town and to hear in place of the sounds that usually accompanied such a demonstration, the songs and yells of a strange college. The column moved down Main street with never a halt or break in the discordant din until the Hotel Elmore was reached where a halt was made and a rousing cheer given for "Maine." The special was due to start on the return trip at 5.30 and as it was then 5.15, the delegation made a break for the depot, or rather that part of it where eatables were on sale and proceeded in the short interval remaining before it must bid farewell to prepare itself as far as the resources of the place would permit, for the hard work ahead, for it was the universal opinion that nothing would make the day complete but to "do Bangor." Just before the train left, Dr. Lewis, to whose enterprise this modern expedition was due, was given an ovation and responded with a short speech. Then cheers were given for Dr. Harris, "THE TEAM" and the co-eds, and two hundred tired but happy students were "all aboard for Bangor."

On the run back things were pretty quiet, not that the spirit was wanting but every man felt that what little energy still remained must be conserved. Immediately on the arrival of the train in Bangor, the column of fours was again formed, the principal streets were paraded and the same program that had been presented in Waterville repeated, and from the appreciative remarks and occasional responsive cheers from the crowds which lined the sidewalks, it would seem that the second performance was even better than the first. Then they went to the opera house and of course everybody knows the rest, for since time immemorial, or anyway for the last three or four years, it has been the custom for "Maine" to celebrate in this way.

It was twelve o'clock when twenty weary stragglers rapped on the door of the Commons, and petitioned the steward for skimmed milk to wet their parched throats. This process over, a motion was made and carried that the meeting adjourn to meet again, at the same time and place, one week from that date. A half hour later each man had wended his way down "calf alley" and the greatest day that U. of M. has ever experienced, was history.

Frank E. Weymouth, who for the past year has been employed by the Nicaragua canal commission on the preliminary survey for the proposed canal, arrived in New York last week and came directly to Orono to visit friends here and in this vicinity. After a short vacation he will go to Washington, D. C., and assist in the work of preparing plans and reports from the data taken during the survey.

The relatives of Lieut. Roy L. Fernald, whose death was announced in a recent issue of THE CAMPUS, have received letters from Manila, containing the official account of the circumstances of his death.

He in company with Lieut. Fales, of Co. E, were fording the Jalaur river when his horse stepped beyond his depth and sank. Lieut. Fernald sprang from the animal's back and attempted to swim back to shore, but the stream being very high and the current very swift his strength, encumbered with his arms and ammunition as he was, proved unequal, and he sank from view when within a short distance from the bank.

His body had not been recovered at the time of sending the report (Sept. 2) although the officers of his regiment said everything possible was being done, a reward offered, and a detail posted along the river banks. His horse and his orderly managed to regain the shore after a hard struggle.

Lieut. Roy L. Fernald was a native of the state of Maine, his home being in Winterport. He was a graduate of the University of Maine, and when the Spanish-American war broke out he enlisted in the Seventh infantry and served with that regiment during the campaign in Cuba, being wounded at El Caney.

At the close of the war he was mustered out, but a few months later, when the President called for volunteers for service in the Philippines, he was anxious to see more service and he accepted a commission as second lieutenant of the 26th infantry, July 12, 1899. He was assigned to Co. E, July 23, in the meantime having been detailed on duty as enlisting officer in Rockland, Me. He served with Co. E until Jan. 26, 1900, and was then transferred to Co. C.

He served in the column under Gen. Hughes last November at the time several strong positions of the insurgents were broken up. That campaign lasted from Nov. 9 until Nov. 30. Twelve days later he went with an expedition to the island of Negros, where he was on duty until Jan. 26. After transferring to Co. C he was sent with a detail to Dumangas and served in the recent active fighting in that vicinity. His only sickness since joining the regiment was a short time last January, while on the expedition to Negros.

A correspondent of the Boston Herald, writing from Iloilo, island of Panay, under date of Sept. 7, says:

"In the death of Lieut. Roy L. Fernald, the 26th infantry lost its first officer by death. While the regiment was in Plattsburg, two resigned, but they were so little known by the men that their loss was not felt.

"In the case of Lieut. Fernald it is different. He came to the islands with the regiment served in severe campaigns and in fights, and he was liked by all who knew him. Universal sorrow is expressed that he should be lost to the regiment, and particularly that his should have been a death by drowning."

No more fitting tribute could have been paid to Lieut. Fernald's ability than that contained in the following letter, which is Maj. Henry's official endorsement of the report of the accident presented by Lieut. Fales:

Pototan Panay, P. I., Sept. 2nd, 1900.

Respectfully forwarded to the Adj. 26th Inf., U. S. V. Everything is being done that is possible to recover the body. Details from both posts are patrolling the river and all natives notified are taking considerable interest. The loss of Lieut. Fernald is a severe one to both the regiment and the service. He was an exceptionally brave, conscientious and hard working officer.

(Signed) Guy V. Henry,
Maj. 26th Inf., U. S. V., Comdg. Post.

Charles H. Farnham, in a recent letter from Remolinito, Nicaragua, wrote in part as follows: "As to myself, I am in good health and like the work very well. Manter, '96, and I came down here in March. Weymouth, '96, came here a year ago and has a good position, standing very high with all his superiors. Lee, ex-'96, was here for a time but returned to the states last month. The survey is completed and the members of the parties all left for Washington last month. Manter and I have charge of boring parties, making test borings along the proposed canal location. We have used both the Pierce Well Boring Machines and American Diamond Drills. Careful notes have been kept of all work done and a great many samples preserved for future study and reference. Through all ledge cuts enough drilling has been done to give a good idea of the character of the rock; and a large amount of core showing the formation of the rock has been obtained. A good part of the borings are finished, and we expect to complete everything by December. I have plenty to do and have four different camps in my division. It keeps me a good deal on the move, as they are scattered over 12 miles of the line, but I can get pretty near them in a canoe so it is not so bad as it might be. I hope in a few weeks now to have all of my parties consolidated in one camp at Lock No. 5. We live pretty well and have comfortable camps. The health of most everyone is all right, and in nearly every case where sickness occurs it is the fault of the man himself. I do not know very much about the chances to build the canal, but I think that if the bill passes I shall come back here again as there will be some stupendous engineering problems to be solved right here, and it will be a great school for a young man. I get THE CAMPUS now and then and some of the other college publications and see that U. of M. is having a healthy growth. I should like to drop in and see all my friends at Orono and may do so this winter if I get time enough at home."

PHI KAPPA SIGMA CONVENTION.

Fifty years ago the 19th of October the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity was founded in the city of Philadelphia by Dr. Samuel Brown Wylie Mitchell of the class of 1852, University of Pennsylvania. Since that time the fraternity has been introduced into many of the leading colleges and universities of the United States.

On Oct. 17, 18 and 19 in Philadelphia the semi-centennial of the founding was observed by the members, over two hundred of whom were registered at the headquarters at Hotel Walton.

On the evening of the 16th an informal social was held at the "University Club." On the 17th the members met in the regular secret session in Horticultural hall. The 18th was known as "Convocation Day," being set apart for reminiscences and the renewal of old acquaintances. In the evening, all joined in a theatre party, after which supper was enjoyed at the "Mask and Wig" club house.

"Commemoration Day," the 19th, was observed by memorial services at St. Stephen's church in honor of the founder, Dr. Mitchell. These exercises were conducted by Rev. G. W. Hodge, chaplain of the Alpha Chapter.

Following the exercises in the church a brief scriptural service was held at the tomb of Dr. Mitchell.

In the evening a banquet in Horticultural hall, at which two hundred and fifty members of the organization were present, ended the celebration.

The toastmaster of the evening was ex-Attorney General W. U. Hensel, and many prominent men, present from all parts of the country, responded.

The Alpha Delta Chapter, of the University of Maine, was represented by Elmer D. Merrill, '98; Llewellyn N. Edwards, '98, and Fred M. Davis, '01.

ATHLETICS.

UNIVERSITY OF MAINE, 0; COLBY, 5.

The University of Maine was defeated by Colby on the home grounds Saturday, October thirteenth, by a score of 5 to 0. Colby came to win and win they did in a perfectly square way. They proved themselves superior in every way to the home team and they were extra strong in their line. The University team was weakened by the loss of Harris, quarterback, and they also lacked team work.

Haggerty put up a phenomenal game for Colby, making good gains whenever given the ball. Dudley bucked the line in good form and was always sure of making his ground. For Maine Dorticos put up a strong game and Hadlock made some good gains. Eastman played a fair game at quarter considering the little practice that he had had at that position.

At the beginning of the first half, Maine kicked off to Colby's twenty yard line. Colby started in with a snap, but was unable to gain. L. Cole broke through the line and tackled Dudley for a big loss. Rice punted and Eastman caught the ball. Maine could not gain and the ball went to Colby on downs. Colby almost immediately punted and Dorticos fell on the ball out of bounds. Maine then went into Colby's line and around the ends for big gains.

Dorticcos, Davis and Taylor made good gains and the ball was on Colby's one-yard line. Here was Maine's chance to score but the Colby line was like a wall and the ball went to the visitors on downs. Colby took the ball and after short gains, Rice started off down the field for what looked like a sure touchdown but he was closely followed by Davis who downed him after he had gained forty yards. Colby kept gaining and tried a goal from the field which was a failure. The ball was brought out and Maine kicked off from their twenty-five yard line. Colby could not gain and when Rice tried to punt, a Colby man got in the way and the kick was blocked. Davis and Dorticcos made good gains and L. Cole circled the end for thirty yards. Time was called for the first half with the ball in Maine's possession on Colby's thirty yard line.

In the second half Capt. Wormell took Taylor's place at right half. Colby kicked off and Wormell returned the ball fifteen yards before he was downed. Maine was unable to gain and Colby got the ball on downs and did not lose it until Haggerty had crossed Maine's goal line for a touchdown. The try for goal was a failure.

Score: Colby, 5; U. of M., 0. Touchdown, Haggerty. Umpire, Frew of Waterville. Referee, Murray of Bangor. Time, 25 and 20 minute halves.

U. OF M., 29; FORT PREBLE, 0.

A return game with Fort Preble was played at Portland Wednesday, Oct. 10. The result was unexpected, for Fort Preble was not in it for a minute and Maine easily won out,—twenty-nine to nothing. This game was very disastrous to Maine as three of her best players were disabled and afterward were obliged to keep out of the game with Bates.

In this game with Fort Preble, the team showed marked improvement since they played Fort Preble at Orono. Dorticcos proved a tower of strength in this game and seemed to be everywhere on the field. His line bucking was fierce and he would go through the centre for gain after gain. Taylor and Wormell played a good game and Davis made some good end runs.

Every time that Fort Preble had the ball and the halfbacks started for an end run, they were downed almost before they got under way.

The line up:

Score: Maine, 29; Fort Preble, 0. Touchdowns, Elliott, Dorticcos 2, Davis, Wormell. Goals from touchdowns, Dorticcos, 4. Referee, Harvey. Umpire, Sullivan. Linesmen, Burgess and Johnson. Time, 20-minute halves.

UNIVERSITY OF MAINE, 18; COLBY, 0.

The University of Maine gave Colby a little surprise party at Waterville last Saturday. Before the clouds cleared away it was found that the score was 18 to 0 in favor of the visitors. Colby before the game was in the best of spirits and confidently believed that they would win.

The special train arrived in Waterville at 2 o'clock and when two hundred Maine supporters alighted from the train, Colby knew that Maine had come to try to win.

The game was scheduled for 2.30 but it was 3.10 before both teams were on the field. After everything was in readiness for the game to begin a controversy arose, resulting in a tiresome delay. Capt. Wormell objected to the ball, claiming that it was too soft and unsuitable, and the Colby manager "hustled" to get a new one, which took all of forty minutes. Meanwhile Maine yelled and Colby yelled.

Finally the ball arrived and the game was on. Maine kicked off to Colby's 20-yard line and immediately held Colby for downs. Then by steady gains the ball was forced down the field. It went to W. L. Cole, who circled the end for twelve yards and Taylor was pushed over for the first touchdown after two minutes of play. Dorticos kicked the goal.

This was a crushing blow to the blue and the gray and the Maine delegation cheered the louder. But the game was young and the Colby cheers had as much life as ever when the teams returned to the center of the field.

After the goal Colby kicked off and the ball went over the goal line. Maine kicked off from her 25-yard line and Colby had the ball in the center of the field. Colby could not gain and Rice punted. Maine worked hard and steadily made good gains. Colby tried to brace but she could not hold the fierce attacks of Dorticos and Durgan. Steady gains brought the ball close to Colby's goal line and Cole went over for the second touchdown and Dorticos kicked the goal.

The Maine delegation went wild for their team had done better than was expected. Surely Colby had improved as the game went on but her brace came too late and her chances of winning were very small.

In the second half Colby kicked off to Maine's 25-yard line and Taylor was downed in his tracks. Maine could not gain and the ball went to Colby. Capt. Rice tried a drop kick from the field which was a failure. Maine then advanced the ball with long gains, and carried it fifteen and twenty yards at a time. This did not last long, however, for Colby got the ball for holding in the line. With one foot to gain Colby lost the ball. Maine rushed the ball along steadily and put it over for the third touchdown. Dorticos kicked a difficult goal.

Maine outplayed Colby at every point and won the game at straight football, trying no fancy or trick plays. Colby, on the other hand, tried some trick plays, among them being that very, very old fake punt. This did not work and always lost ground for Colby. Dorticos, Durgan and Taylor played the best game for the visitors, while Rice made some good gains for Colby. Colby was clearly weak in the center of her line and at right end.
