COMMENCEMENT

JUNIOR PRIZE THEMES

Exercises attendant upon Commencement week at the University of Maine began Saturday evening, with the occurrence of the Junior Prize Themes, in Alumni Hall.

At the hour appointed the chapel was filled almost to overflowing with students and visitors who listened with the keenest appreciation to the program for the evening. All the speakers were warmly applauded and in their various discourses showed the effects of careful preparation and a clear, concise understanding of the subjects treated. Music throughout the evening was furnished by Pullen's Symphony Orchestra and proved an especially delightful feature of the program.

Prof. Allen E. Rogers, Prof. James S. Stevens and Prof. Gilman M. Drew acted as judges. They reserved their decision, however, until Monday morning, when it was announced at the convocation exercises.

In a few brief remarks, President George Emory Fellows welcomed the guests of the week, and introduced the speakers, who participated in the following program :

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

The baccalaureate address to the senior class was delivered in Alumni Hall, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, by Dr. Nathaniel Butler, professor in the University of Chicago, and former president of Colby College.

The chapel was attractively decorated with blue bunting pendant from the huge rafters above, while conspicuous at the front and over the stage was draped the American flag. The stage itself was heavily banked with palms, ferns, and syringas, behind which were seated President Fellows, Dr. Nathaniel Butler, Rev. W. B. Dukeshire, and Rev. Mr. Woodwell.

During the prelude on the organ Professor Karl P. Harrington, the speakers and the graduating class marched in and took seats that had been reserved for them.

President Fellows opened the services by reading the 84th Psalm after which a quartette composed of Mrs. G. E. Fellows, soprano, Mrs. W. A. Nelson, contralto, Mr. Asa C. Morton, tenor, and Mr. Harry W. Libby, bass, rendered the anthem: "The Radiant Morn Hath Passed Away," by Rev. H. H. Woodward. The Scripture lesson was read by the Rev. Mr. Woodwell, followed by a solo by Mrs. Nelson, who sang Gounod's "Oh, Divine Redeemer!" with all the fullness of a rich contralto voice. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. B. Dukeshire; the quartette then sang "Hear Our Prayer," by Theodore Salome. The selections by the quartette were especially well rendered and it is doubtless if a similar occasion can be recalled on which the music was more gratifying throughout.

President Fellows then stepped forward and in a few brief expressions of pleasure at being privileged to welcome one so well known and honored throughout the state and country, introduced as the speaker of the evening, Nathaniel Butler, D.D., of Chicago.

Introductory to the subject of his sermon, Dr. Butler dealt with the general topic of education which he asserted had for its object the completion of finishing of men and women for complete social efficiency. Separating the new from the old education, he proceeded to show wherein the old fell short in its completeness and conclusively proved the superior advantages of the modern, technical and liberal arts education.

Dr. Butler said, "that the purpose of education is to fit us for social efficiency. The older forms of education dealt principally with the intellectual training. Physical, intellectual, social and spiritual education have been taught separately in the past, but the education of today deals with all four branches and throws rays of light on all sides."

He spoke chiefly on the religious side of education and took for his chief subject, The Assured Certainty of the Christian Faith. He said that "a great deal of precious time had been spent and wasted in trying to solve the Trinity, the Incarnation and other sacred mysteries, but all to no avail. All these mysteries should be accepted by us without hesitation, for they are given to us by God. We are surrounded by mysteries. The germination of the seed, electricity and gravitation are all known to exist, but we do not know what they really are."

Dr. Butler dwelt for a few moments on our belief in immortality. "We must truly say that we do not know really anything of man beyond the grave. The question is often asked, If a man dies will he live again? Jesus Christ died, was buried, but came forth again from the grave and arose into heaven and in this we have our proof of immortality."

His closing remarks were addressed directly to the members of the graduating class and he told them to go forth into the world ever thinking of God and always striving to do something for the betterment of the human race and the Christian faith.

Dr. Butler possesses a wonderfully clear and easy manner of expression and could be distinctly heard in any part of the large auditorium. His discourse was listened to with the closest attention throughout.

CONVOCATION

The convocation exercises took place, Monday forenoon, at 10 o'clock. The members of the graduating class marched into the chapel headed by Marshal Dorticos and occupied seats in the front of the auditorium.

The customary services that are used at chapel service each morning during the year were carried out, opening with the organ voluntary by Prof. Harrington. Seats upon the stage were occupied by President Emery Fellows, Rev. Frank Estabrooke of Cleveland, Ohio, and Prof. James Stacy Stevens who officiated in the capacity of master of ceremonies.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES

The members of the graduating class held their class day exercises, Monday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock in the chapel, Alumni hall. The large auditorium was crowded with students and hundreds of friends of the graduating class from Bangor, Orono and Old Town, while there were also many people present from different parts of the State. The hall was filled to overflowing, when at the appointed hour, the class, headed by the marshal, Carlos Dorticos and Assistant Marshal Philip H. Harris marched in to the music of ten pieces of Pullen's orchestra and took the seats arranged for them upon the platform.

After the roll call by Marshal Dorticos, prayer was offered by Rev. Frank J. Estabrooke.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION

The president's reception took place in the chapel on Monday evening, and was largely attended by friends on the campus and from Bangor, Orono and Old Town. The grounds in front of Alumni Hall were illuminated with electric lights covered with Japanese lanterns, presenting a very pretty and pleasing effect. Above the entrance to the hall the words "University of Maine" set with electric lamps shone resplendent with a radiance that penetrated across the lawns to the road beyond.

Special cars were run between Orono and the college, coming crowded on each trip with the guests, who as fast as they arrived, were presented by E. S. Broadwell to the receiving committee consisting of President and Mrs. George Emory Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Winslow of Portland, Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Fernald and Capt. and Mrs. Chas. J. Symonds.

Music during the evening was furnished by Pullen's orchestra and the usual delightful concert program was rendered.

The hall was very prettily decorated with palms and potted plants, while at the lower end was arranged the punch bowl, which was presided over by Mary Winslow Bartlett of Orono and Gladys Fellows, daughter of the president. The affair was a brilliant one and will long be remembered as a prominent feature of the commencement exercises of 1903.

PHI KAPPA PHI

The most interesting part of the exercises Tuesday morning was the initiation of 12 members of the graduating class into Phi Kappa Phi, the honorary society at the University of Maine.

At exactly 9.30 o'clock, Prof. Estabrooke, president of the organization, called the meeting to order. Dr. M. C. Fernald was appointed master of ceremonies and Perley F. Walker, marshal.

The marshal was instructed to bring in the candidates whose names had been read by the secretary of the association.

The initiates, 12 in number, and including one lady, marched in two by two and took their places before the officers of the association. President Estabrooke then asked if any reason was known why the candidates should not be admitted to Phi Kappa Phi and no objection being made, the marshal was instructed to prepare the candidates for their initiation. This was done and the candidates reappeared attired in caps and gowns.

The following candidates were admitted to the order:

Nathan A. Chase, South Paris; Leroy M. Coffin, Freeport; Ralph M. Conner, East Wilton; George L. Freeman, Gray; Frances A. Hinckley, Old Town; John H. McCready, Houlton; Roderick E. Mullaney, Bangor; James H. Morson, Marshfield, P. E. I.; Ernest A. Porter, Eustis; Paul D. Simpson, Sullivan; George W. Thombs, Monson; and Ralph H. White, East Machias.

MEETING OF TRUSTEES

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees held Tuesday, much business of a routine nature was transacted, as well as matters which came up then for the first time. The meeting was attended by the full board—Hon. Henry Lord of Bangor, Hon. Elliot Wood of Winthrop, Hon. John A. Roberts of Norway, Hon. E. B. Winslow of Portland, Hon. V. L. Coffin of Harrington, Albert J. Durgin of Orono, Edwin J. Haskell of Westbrook, and C. L. Jones of Corinna. Hon. Henry Lord was re-elected president, and Elliot Wood, clerk and auditor. The executive committee is made up of Messrs. Lord, Wood and Winslow.

Among the changes in the faculty arranged for was the selection of Harold S. Boardman of Bangor, who has been instructor in civil engineering, to be professor of civil engineering in place of Nathan C. Grover, who has resigned, to enter upon hydrographic work under the geological survey of the national government. Paul D. Simpson of Sullivan, a member of the graduating class, was offered the position of assistant in this department. It was also arranged to install a professor of agriculture for which position no one has yet been selected. An elementary course in agriculture will be provided which will not call for so high requirements upon the part of the students.

A new chapter house for the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity will be built, the location being on the river side of the road below the Phi Gamma Delta house.

The plans for the new building for the mechanical and electrical departments were gone over. The foundation put in by M. C. Foster & Son, of Waterville, is now nearly completed and bids for the superstructure are to be opened June 20.

FRATERNITY RECEPTIONS

Notwithstanding the inclement and altogether disagreeable weather and the torrents of water which fell full upon the deserted campus outside, the various receptions tendered by the Greek letter fraternities of the University of Maine in the chapter houses Tuesday afternoon, were largely attended and perfectly successful to the smallest possible detail—just as the members of the six fraternities intended them to be, in fact, which is saying a great deal.

One hundred and fifty members of the fraternity and graduates attended.

EDITORIALS

THIS issue of the CAMPUS is designed for the benefit of the alumni and those who were unable to be present at the commencement exercises—in many respects the most successful that have ever been held at the University of Maine. The success with which the occasion was attended is almost entirely due to the efforts of our most worthy president, Dr. Fellows. Too few of us recognize and appreciate the amount of work that President Fellows has accomplished during the past week. He has really crowded two weeks into one for the exercises, many of which occupied the evenings, have necessitated much time and labor. The promptness and dispatch with which the program was carried out reflects much credit upon President Fellows' ability as an executor.

IN the absence of his colleagues, who were obliged to leave suddenly for one reason and another, the editor was obliged to resort to his own abilities (which he found were too few) in the exigency, and if these columns betray the quality of egotism it is not to be wondered at. It was perhaps due to his own carelessness that the editor allowed his associates to escape him and found himself plunged all at once into an extremity that involved the acquaintance of more facts than are given in a ready reference. At one time he was obliged to assume the responsibilities of the athletic, alumni, local and School of Law editors and supply a few extracts from among the colleges. If it hadn't been for the newspapers, the editor himself would doubtless have been tempted to desert also. However, after considerable laboring with the proverbial scissors and paste pot the inclosed facts have been compiled.

John E. Buckley of Winchendon, Mass., was the guest last week, of his brother, William W. Buckley, who graduated from the School of Law.

Miss Winn of Lewiston, attended the commencement exercises. Her brother, George H. Winn, graduated this year from the School of Law.

Over 286 guests were served at the alumni dinner, in the gymnasium, Wednesday afternoon, one of the largest crowds ever in attendance at a similar occasion.

Hon. William T. Haines, class of '76, of Waterville, attended the commencement exercises and officiated in the capacity of toastmaster, at the alumni dinner, Wednesday afternoon.

Mayor and Mrs. E. R. Boothby of Portland, attended the commencement exercises, Wednesday. Mayor Boothby was one of the speakers at the alumni dinner in the afternoon. This was Mr. Boothby's first commencement at the University of Maine and he assures us that it will not be the last.

S. Prince Davis, a graduate from the University of Maine in last year's class, was in Bangor Monday night on business. He left Tuesday noon for North Adams, Mass., where he is located.

Both the afternoon train and the Boston boat were well filled, Thursday afternoon, of last week on their outward trip from Bangor. Many of the passengers had been in Orono attending the commencement exercises.

Paul Potter, who graduated from the University of Maine School of Law, Wednesday, left for his home in Worcester Thursday noon. William W. Buckley, also a graduate, accompanied him as far as Boston, on his way to his home in Winchendon, Mass.

W. L. Merrill has been transferred to the Hudson River Water Power Co. He is to have charge of the new 50,000 K. W. Transmission plant at Spere Falls, N. Y.

At Dartmouth a Rathskeller is being put in the basement of College Hall. This is to be under the management of the Dartmouth College Club and will be open to all its members during each day and evening.

Bowman, the freshman full back on the Yale 'varsity foot ball team last fall, is proving himself a wonder. Besides playing foot ball, he is the mainstay in the box for the 'varsity team this spring. Not satisfied with these honors, he is making a record for himself in the broad jump, proving himself to be the best man in this event in Yale at the present time. He has already covered 22 feet, 4 inches. Bowman is considered by many to be the best freshman that ever entered Yale.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

THE closing exercises of commencement week were held in Alumni Hall, during Wednesday. Commencing with a meeting of the alumni association at 10 o'clock in the morning and ending with the last waltz of the brilliant senior promenade at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, the day was an entire success. Altho' the sun didn't come out to smile on the assembled guests, no rain fell to mar the happiness of the occasion, and everybody had the best time possible.

The pinnacle of the week was reached at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, when graduating exercises were held and degrees conferred to candidates in the chapel. A college graduation is always an impressive affair, making the end of a four years' training and the launching out into life to apply the theories that have been absorbed.

But Wednesday morning it was especially impressive. Many dignitaries were present to give strength to the occasion, and everywhere the atmosphere of higher thought and action prevailed. The entire faculty of the University was present in its caps and gowns, the brilliant hoods of the doctors giving color to the sombre black of the body of graduates and instructors.

The chapel was filled to a degree that was slightly uncomfortable, owing to the sticky condition of the air. But nobody complained — rather, an unusual and intense interest was displayed in everything that went on.

ARCHIE RAY BENNER

Archie Ray Benner of Waldoboro, was the first speaker during the exercises, Ernest Albee Porter of Eustis, having been excused. Mr. Benner's subject was True Education.

Mr. Benner said that education moulded, inspired and refined the finest elements in the human body, providing all advantage was taken of it. He emphasized the fact that the man who cannot see beyond a text book is unable to make much of his course.

"To shape, to instruct, to inspire and to refine," continued Mr. Benner, "are the four great endeavors in a college training.

"Men who receive a college degree, who deserve it from years of study, are original; able to cope with the struggles in life with more surety of success.

"We need men and teachers of deeper vision. Graduates of this institution are equipped by a four years' life in an atmosphere of elevating influences and inspirations; they have had the opportunity for seeing the visions, and they have improved them.

"To the man who is capable of high thought, college training is a necessity. There are failures; but the per cent. of them is very small compared to the benefits of the other side."

JOHN HEDDLE HILLIARD

The Crowning of Charlemagne was the subject chosen by John Heddle Hilliard, of Old Town. It was treated in a forceful and original manner, pictures being drawn with telling vividness.

The speaker sketched conditions at the time of which the stirring acts of which he was talking took place.

His approach to the closing was most eloquent, and the description of the scene attending the homage paid by the monarch to Peter, the founder of God's empire on earth, at the time he laid in his coffin, was impressive; as was the description of the coronation.

TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE

After a most enjoyable selection by Pullen's orchestra of ten pieces, George Warren Thombs of Monson stepped to the platform. Honor to Whom Honor is Due, was the subject which

Mr. Thombs had chosen; one of interest to everybody.

"We realize today as we never did before, what we owe to faculty, trustees and parents, for enabling us to stand today where we are," said Mr. Thombs. "We do not belittle the efforts of the noble and honored people who have preceded us. But I am glad for the opportunity today for meeting you who have done so much for us, to thank you, and tell you that your efforts are appreciated.

"True education realizes neither sex, creed nor financial standing. It is the mecca for all those who seek the higher thought along the road of learning. The opportunities that have been given these graduates of the University have been much greater than those who graduated in the earlier days of the life of the college were able to enjoy. We appreciate the efforts that have been made in our behalf. Our success, whatever it shall be, is your success, also."

ON THE TRUST

Philip Howard Harris, of Portland, one of the most popular of the great body of graduates, spoke on The Evolution of the Trust. Mr. Harris handled his most difficult theme vigorously and with much common sense.

Rather than discussing the several phases of the trust question, Mr. Harris traced the growth of the present trust, which he defined as a combination of capital to control some industry.

He said that the first trace of trust was found in the organization of clans in the early days of history. Then it was found in the church; then in the formation of towns into hundreds; and then in the universities and guilds. The corporation finally made its appearance in England.

In closing his theme, Mr. Harris said that the trust was the direct growth of our economic system; and in many ways was beneficial. He said that the consumer should be given the benefit of lower prices, however, and that few men should not be given the right to control the supply of the commodities of life. Mr. Harris was warmly applauded as he closed.

PAUL DYER SIMPSON

Paul Dyer Simpson of Sullivan, had for his subject, The Making of the Engineer. Mr. Simpson was most eloquent, and paid a high tribute to the man who sets the stage for civilization—the man who calls to his aid the energies of nature and gives us artificial light and heat, pure air and electricity and steam; who tunnels the earth and beats the path into the wilderness which others may follow.

In speaking of the other side in the well trained engineer's nature, Mr. Simpson said that he should pay attention to the political situation and the question of the day, being particularly fitted for such observation through knowledge of natural forces.

The education of the engineer should be broad; he is no mere technician, but is the moving spirit in advance along many lines.

THE LAWYER

James Herbert Marson of Marshfield, P. E. I., spoke on The Trials and Triumphs of The Lawyer.

There was none among the speakers who was more interesting than Mr. Marson. His diction was unusually fluent and attractive, and the thoughts he expressed most interesting.

In his introduction he was rather humorous regarding the life of the lawyer as seen from the outside and from the point of view of the lawyer himself.

In speaking of the qualifications of the lawyer, Mr. Marson arrayed them in a formidable front, saying that a member of the bar must be peculiarly endowed in order to be successful.

Mr. Marson said that the lawyer had many, many tribulations, and in citing instances he kept the big audience in a state of constant mirth.

His choice of expression, his general handling of his subject and his eloquence in delivery, made Mr. Marson by far the most brilliant speaker of the morning.

SOCIALISM AND TRUSTS

Ralph Melvin Conner of East Wilton, spoke on Socialism and the Trusts. Mr. Conner made some very practical statements and was listened to with close attention. He touched lightly on the relation of the union to the trust, saying that the first was the natural result of the last.

"The government is unable to control these gigantic ruptures between labor and capital," stated Mr. Connor with vehemence. "The coal strike of last year is an example of this.

"The socialist has good cause for his belief. He says: Buy the railroads and the steamboats, the oil wells and the express companies, the coal belts and ice plants. There seems to be no end of the possibilities in this direction. He is merely trying to effect a solution of the great difficulties."

Mr. Conner was warmly applauded at the close of his remarks.

ALUMNI DINNER

The alumni dinner following the commencement exercises on Wednesday, was attended by upwards of 300 people, including the members of the graduating class, faculty, trustees, alumni and friends of the University. C. H. Bickford of Belfast, class of '82, officiated as marshal. The spacious gymnasium was well filled with the long rows of tables and the guests were served by a large corps of waiters, comprising members of the three lower classes.

At the post prandial exercises, Hon. William T. Haines, of Waterville, presided. The following alumni spoke: Hon. John M. Oak, '74, and Prof. N. C. Grover. Hon. Henry Lord of the board of trustees, made a brief address, as did Mayor F. E. Boothby, of Portland. Paul Dyer Simpson responded to the class of 1903, and Charles H. Reid, Jr., spoke for the graduates of the School of Law.

Among those present at the dinner was Heddle Hilliard, of Old Town, a member of the first class to graduate at the institution, in 1872, whose son is a member of the graduating class this year. Mr. Hilliard is the second alumnus to have a son graduate from the University of Maine. N. H. Martin of Fort Fairfield, class of '76, having had a son graduate in 1901.

CONCERT AND BALL

The 32d annual commencement was brought to a close, Wednesday evening, with the commencement concert and ball held in the chapel and gymnasium, which were pronounced successes. Both affairs were attended by large audiences, about 100 people from Bangor being among those present.

The concert, which commenced at 8 o'clock, was held in the chapel and was much enjoyed by the gathering which filled the hall. Both the soloist, Willis E. Bacheller of New York, and Pullen's symphony orchestra, were obliged to respond to a number of encores.

MEETING OF THE WESTERN ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

On Friday evening, May 29, the Western Alumni held their fourth meeting and banquet in Chicago. The members met promptly at the appointed hour, at Kinsley's Restaurant where they were served with a good old time baked bean dinner, with all the fixings, including doughnuts and pumpkin pie.

When ample justice had been done to the feast and the cigars had been passed, the meeting was called to order by President O. C. Farrington. In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. R. H. Manson, the President appointed Mr. F. M. Davis Secretary pro tem.

After the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting, the members listened to the report of Mr. G. W. Sturtevant, who had been appointed to receive donations for the Athletic Association, for which he had collected and forwarded thirty-three ($33.00) in the name of the Western Alumni Association.

This report was followed by a discussion of the best methods for promoting the mutual welfare of the alumni and undergraduates. It was finally voted to leave this matter to the judgment of the Executive Committee.

The most important business to come before the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. These were elected as follows:

President, G. E. Fernald, '78; First Vice President, G. W. Sturtevant, '81; Second Vice President, C. W. Rogers, '76; Sec'y and Treas., F. M. Davis, '01.

Executive Committee:—O. C. Farrington, '81, A. J. Caldwell, '78, Wm. Webber, '84, A. D. T. Libby, '98, F. L. Martin, '01.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Farrington for the able manner in which he had conducted the business of the Association, as its President.

The following list comprises the names of those who were present:

C. W. Rogers, '76, G. E. Fernald, '78, C. W. Gibbs, '79, O. C. Farrington, '81, H. H. Andrews, '81, G. W. Sturtevant, '81, Wm. Webber, '84, C. F. Sturtevant, '87, A. D. T. Libby, '98, F. L. Martin, '01, F. M. Davis, '01, W. B. Manson, '05.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

BASE BALL

BOWDOIN, 8; U. OF M., 4

With Jimmy Cox to hold Maine in check, a few good pokes, materially assisted by some kind favors in the way of free passes to first by Frost, and the tally came out in Bowdoin's favor.

Viewed from no standpoint could the game be called a good exhibition of ball playing. There were plays which would have been a discredit to a grammar school team. There were some brilliant streaks by Maine, and they showed some of the fast fielding which has placed them at the head of the Maine colleges in this respect.

Frost was not up to his usual form. The plate at Maplewood is considerable smaller than the regulation size, and the umpire was particular. Jack was rather nervous and worried, and at times had hard work to get them over. Bowdoin was patient enough, and profited thereby.

Cox was in fine trim, with good speed and control. He was bumped a couple of times for three-baggers, but no one was on bases. But he was the same old Cox. He would have won for Maine, if he had been in the box.

Maine played a fielding game fast enough to win. Thatcher's work was brilliant, and out in centre field Chase pulled down no less than five fly balls, notwithstanding a heavy and changeable wind was blowing. Mitchell and Larrabee made some fine running catches.

Bowdoin had fewer chances to display fielding, the most of the outs being easy.

COLBY WINS

The University of Maine met with grief at Maplewood Park, Saturday afternoon, June 6, when Mitchell was pounded out of the box by Colby, the final score being 20 to 6, in the latter's favor.

It was the second defeat of the week, the team having lost to Bowdoin, Wednesday, by the score of 8 to 4—a week of exams and also a week when there was as little attempt at practicing and training, as there was interest taken in athletics by the students in general. It was but a repetition of last year's defeat by this same aggregation, and the least said about the game the better.

Mitchell, upon whom Maine can almost always put reliance, was having an off day—any pitcher, no matter how great, is always susceptible to such days—and he was buried beneath an avalanche of hits. Colby's batting average was correspondingly increased by the spoils of the day.

Maine went down to Maplewood with but nine men. Larrabee, the left fielder, had gone home, Violette, the catcher, was in the hospital. Chase, the center fielder, went behind the bat, MacDonald, sub-third base, went into left field and Towse, another sub, went into center, and Frost to right.

The game started of well and was 3 to 1 in favor of Maine up to the fourth, when Mitchell was pounded and seven runs for Colby was the result. This practically settled any doubt about who was to win the game and after another try in the box, Capt. Mitchell retired in favor of "Jack" Frost who might even then have pulled the game out if his arm had been in condition. It was lame, however, and it hurt him every time that he threw.

After the fourth Maine was at the mercy of the visitors who scored almost at will. It was a sad terminus for this season's work and it was a sore disappointment to the supporters of the blue, especially so after the auspicious beginning made by the team in the early part of the season.

BASE BALL SEASON CLOSED

The base ball season at the University of Maine closed with the rather disastrous game of Saturday, June 6, with Colby.

The season has been in a way satisfactory and also something of a disappointment on account of the slump at the finish. At the beginning of the season the outlook for a team was uncertain as there were but a few of the last year's team left. By hard and steady work Coach Rudderham developed from a rather unpromising lot of material a team which stands second in the Maine colleges in standing and leads them all in the excellence of fielding.

Although there has been no college league and the college teams have not all scheduled the same number of games, the managers have agreed to let the championship be decided by the percentage. Bowdoin has played nine games, Colby and the University of Maine eight each, and Bates seven.

With the Bowdoin-Bates game of Friday, the Maine college base ball schedules for the season of 1903 were brought to a close. Bowdoin, with a percentage of 777, is readily conceded to be champions, with the University of Maine second with 500 per cent. By losing both games with Bowdoin last week, Bates drops to last place and Colby moves up to third. The standing is as follows:

COLLEGE STANDING

	Won	Lost	Per cent
Bowdoin.....	7	2	.777
U. of M.....	4	4	.500
Colby.....	3	5	.375
Bates.....	2	5	.285

THE RECORD OF THE SEASON

The prospects for baseball at Maine for next year are brighter than they were a year ago. Three men are lost by graduation, Chase, Violette and substitute Towse. This means a hunt for a catcher, but there is some good material in sight.

There will probably be some pitching material developed as there are doubtless some diamonds in the rough in college this year. Upon the whole the outlook is fairly satisfactory.
